Anyox Elks Attend Church Parade

Large Number of Members Attend Impressive Service

The B. P. O. Elks of Anyox, held a Church Parade, last Sunday evening, March 26 and between sixty and seventy of the members were present. They assembled at the Elk's building at 7.15 p.m. and paraded to Christ Church, headed by Worthy Exalted Ruler, H. B. Chapman, who was supported by the following officers: Esteemed leading knight, W. X. McDonald.

Esteemed loyal knight, Sid Armstrong.

Esquires, S. Barr and A. J. LaFortune.

Secretary, Chas. Grey.

Tyler, J. J. Miller.

Trustees, J. Smith, M. Cranley and A. Morton.

The Service was conducted by Chaplain Rev. J. B. Gibson, who preached an excellent sermon on "Personal Influence." Scripture Lessons were read by Worthy Exalted Ruler H. B. Chapman and Esteemed Leading Knight W. X. McDonald. Solos were sung by Mrs. J. Conway, "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," and Mrs. S. Herrin, "Abide With Me." Both ladies sang very nicely.

The offertory was taken up by Esteemed Loyal Knight, Sid Armstrong and Esquire, Al. LaFortune.

Chaplain Rev. J. B. Gibson, took as his text, Proverbs, Chap. 27, verses 17 and 19: "Iron sharpeneth iron: so a man sharpeneth the countenance of his friend." "As in water face answereth face, so the heart of man to man."

We are bound together in numberless ways and it is out of this close relationship that influence comes. Our very existence exercises an influence far beyond our knowledge and calculation.

Influence is of two kinds, direct and indirect, or conscious and unconscious. In Prov. 27, verses 17 and 19, both kinds are illustrated, "Iron Sharpeneth Iron, so a man sharpeneth the countenance of his friend." "As in water, face answereth to face: so the heart of man to man." Direct influence is that which we deliberately put forth; indirect influence is that which radiates from us whether we will it or not.

In regard to direct influence each one must choose his own line of action, there are, however, certain lines that may be indicated and which lie open to all.

(a) Keeping others in the right path.

(b) Speaking out against evil.

(c) Taking part in Christain and benevolent work.

Indirect influence is the "invisible belt of megnetism" a man bears with him wherever he goes. It invests him, and others are quick to detect its presence.

Some of the simplest phases are: The influence of a look. The influence of a smile. The influence of sympathy. The life of example, the simple doing of what is right though we may know nothing about it.

The whole subject teaches us:

1. Our responsibility. If we are ready to ask "Am I my brother's keeper,"? the answer is you cannot help being so. It is as easy to evade the law of gravitation as the law of responsibility.

2. The power all have to do good.

3. The secret of good influence is to be influenced for good ourselves. Our lamp must first be lit if it is to shine, and we ourselves must be personally influenced by coming to the great source of spiritual power.

Daring Robbery at Anyox

Forty-three Bottles of Liquor Stolen from Govt. Store

A daring robbery was committed at Anyox on the night of March 28 when the government liquor store was broken into and 43 bottles of liquor, valued at $225.25 was stolen. The thieves gained entrance to the store by cutting out the putty from a window pane and removing the glass. One light is always left burning in the store and this had been turned out. No money was taken the safe being untouched. The thieves were evidently after liquor and lifted 43 bottles from the shelves.

The first idea that a robbery had been committed was when Paddy Crone, wharf foreman, on his way to work at 8 a.m., noticed that a window had been removed. He immediately phoned Fred Brown, the vendor, who notified Constable Dryden. They proceeded to the store and found the window glass on the floor by the window, no bottles were broken, but on checking up the stock list the number missing was ascertained. No cases were taken, only loose bottles. It is supposed that the thieves operated in the dark for the reason that some brandy at $4 a bottle was taken while the thief could have reached brandy at $8.50 a bottle without moving.

The police are busy working on the case, but so far the liquor has not yet been found.

It takes lots of little drops of water to make a flood, and it takes lots of little boosts to make a town.

Logging Operations At Alice Arm

Mr. Chris. Dickson, representing the Big Bay Lumber Co., whose mills are at Georgetown, arrived in town on Monday, in order to grade the boom of logs of the Alice Arm Freighting Co., who are operating a logging camp at Silver City, across the bay. Mr. Dickson was agreeably surprised at the quantity of No. 1 logs in the water. There is nearly 400,000 feet of lumber in the water and the boom which will contain approximately 500,000 feet will be ready for shipment this month. Twenty per cent. of the logs are spruce and the balance hemlock. Mr. Dickson while here, also made an examination of the standing timber in the neighbourhood.

The Alice Arm Freighting Co. are contemplating to log throughout the summer and are making arrangements accordingly. A heavy team of horses for hauling logs was purchased last week, they are young horses and weigh 1700 lbs. each.

O. M. Watson is in charge of the logging camp, with Paddy Williamson boss teamster, while Bob Lyons occupies the position of chief chef.

The Alice Arm Freighting Co. besides operating pack trains, general freighting and logging camps, are also general contractors in construction work of all kinds.

Dance and Concert Given at Alice Arm

A very enjoyable dance was held on Friday evening, March 24, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. Grey. Dancing commenced at 9 p.m. and was continued until until 11 o'clock when a dainty supper was served by Mrs. Grey. Solos were rendered by Mrs. L. Fosburg, Mrs. O. M. Watson and Mr. J. Fiva, and a recitation was given by Mrs. J. Wheatley.

Dancing was then resumed until 1.30 when the party broke up and concluded one of the most pleasant evenings spent by the visitors this winter.

Those present were:

Mr. and Mrs. G. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Barrett, Mr. and Mrs. W. Cummings, Mrs. H. Nucich, and Miss Helen Nucich, Mrs. H. H. Carney and Master Henry Carney, Miss B. Crawford, Miss Nettie Hogberg, Mrs. R. F. McGinnis, Miss M. Smith, Messrs. M. D. Ross, M. Peterson, O. Flint, H. Fowler. L. Paulcer, S. Miller.

An Appeal for Famine Stricken Russia

Anyox, B. C.
March 30th, 1922

The Editor,
The Herald,
Alice Arm, B. C.

Dear Sir:

At a meeting of those interested in the Russian Famine Relief Fund, held in the Recreation Hall, on Tuesday afternoon, it was decided to hold a Tag Day on Tuesday, April 11th.

The committee in charge are anxious to make this a gigantic success and with that aim in view solicits the assistance of your valuable paper, to bring before the public of this district the urgent need of the people in the famine stricken district of Russia.

All money collected on that day will be forwarded to the "Canadian Committee Save the Children Fund." That committee is made up of the following gentlemen: Honorary President, Hon. W. L. McKenzie King; President, Col. Herbert J. Mackie; Honorary Vice-Presidents, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen; Hon. T. A. Crear; Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux; Hon. Secretary, Sir Louis Davis; Hon. Treasurer, Hon. W. S. Fielding; Treasurer, Sir George Burn.

These names will remove any doubt as to the desirability of sending relief to Russia. The heart-rending cry that goes up from the millions of starving Russian children should produce a ready response. In the Volga provinces of Russia there are over thirty millions of people who are victims of a terrible famine. Millions of these must die, the task of saving them all being too great. The "Save the Children Fund" is concentrating its efforts on saving the children, being urged by mothers who dispairing of relief for themselves implore that the wants of their offsprings be relieved.

One mother writes:

"We Russian mothers who are destined to die this winter from starvation and disease, implore the people of the whole world to take our children from us, that those who are innocent may not share our horrible fate. We implore the whole world to do this because, even at the cost of a voluntary and eternal seperation, we long to repair the wrong we have committed in giving them a life that is worse than death. All of you who have children, or who have lost children, all of you who have children and fear to lose them, in remembrance of the children who are dead, and in the name of those who are still living, we beseech you! Do not think of us; we cannot be helped! We have lost all hope, but we shall be happy with the only happiness that a mother knows in the knowledge that her child is safe."

Surely, as we sit down to at least three good meals daily and know not want, will not turn a deaf ear to such an appeal.

$1 will feed one child for one month.

$10 will feed forty children for one week.

$500 will establish a kitchen to feed 100 children until next harvest.

Thanking you,
I remain, Yours truly,
J. HERDMAN

History of the Premier Mine at Stewart

The following article was published in the Northwest Mining Truth, of Spokane, on March 17, and is a continuation from our last week's issue.

"The history of the property is among the most interesting romances that ever adorned the records of the west and throws particular credit upon a Spokane man, formerly identified with remarkable success with some of the greatest mines developed in this immediate section. After combing the western country from Mexico to Alaska, R. K. Neill, for many years indentified with the Finch-Campbell interests of Spokane, arrived in 1916 at the Premier mine, then known as the Bush mine and which had been abandoned the same year by Salmon-Bear River Gold Mining Co., promoted by Col. W. B. Thompson, operating under the management of H. R. Plate, mining engineer. It is said that about $80,000 was lost in development.

The luck of mining is no better exemplified than in the subsequent history of this most remarkable property. The deal for a bond was closed by Mr. Neill on March 7, 1917, with the owner, Bush, at Chula Vista, Cal., and on April 7 work was commenced. The first development was done under the direction as foreman, of Dan Lindenberg, who snowshoed his horses and packed in enough supplies to run five men until July. After that month the trails were opened and pack horses put into commission.

In tunnel No. 1, about 80 feet from the surface, a crosscut was started 80 feet in from the portal to the right. After four feet had been driven the heading broke into a great body of ore, running $65 per ton, gold and silver.

The next work was at a point 184 feet from portal in an old crosscut driven 16 feet by the old management. The first round of holes opened up the ore-body, carrying around $60 per ton across 8 or 9 feet. Another crosscut was then run at the face of the tunnel, then in 250 feet and about 175 feet vertically from the surface. Here a three-foot crosscut again tapped the ore, the first six feet averaging $300 per ton and the whole mass, 65 feet wide, running an average of $55 per ton.

Shipments were commenced in the winter of 1917-18, the trail having been made serviceable during the summer. Ore to the value of $75,000 was hauled out on double-end bobsleds and rawhides and shipped to Tacoma, under an $18 freight and treatment charge.

In the summer of 1918 the trail was made wide enough for double bobsleds and hauling was carried on during the winter of 1918-19 with six 4-horse teams. Over $200,000 worth of ore was shipped and the property then became the talk of the mining world.

In the summer of 1920 a standard wagon road was completed, reaching the mine in October. Meanwhile all improvements had been paid for out of ore receipts, although the four original partners —Neill, Wilson, Trites and Wood— had contributed $50,000 apiece to initial expense and had borrowed the sum of $60,000.

In September, 1919, two sets of mining engineers arrived for New York parties—one headed by H. A. Guess, mining director of the company, representing the American Smelting & Refining Co. and the other representing Sam I. Silverman, formerly of Spokane, identified with the Minor Keith-Untermeyer interests. It might be mentioned that Sam Silverman was one day ahead of the Guggenheim party, a fact which will be appreciated by his many old Spokane friends.

Both parties sought options upon the property, at least for sufficient time to enable them to report to their principals, but all such requests were politely declined and no purchase price could be obtained.

Both parties then left, with the result that Neill, Trites and Wood were called to New York and arrived there in October, 1919. Upon arrival it was found that both interests represented in the recent examinations were wild to obtain the property and eventually a two-party deal was arranged, with ownership as mentioned above. Originally the company set aside some treasury shares, but they were later distributed as a bonus among the present owners.

The property was then placed under the management of the Guggenheim interests, with Dale Pitt in charge and its subsequent history is well known to the mining world. The mine when taken over by the present management was developed by four levels, as follows: No. 1 in 250 feet with a vertical depth of 175 feet; No. 2, 200 ft., depth 500 ft.; No. 3, 100 ft., depth 650 ft., and No. 4, 570 ft., depth 1000 feet. Ore is now coming from No. 1, No. 2 and No. 4, although the latter is not yet in to the main bonanza ore-body. The ore zone is over 100 feet wide, with the high grade anywhere from one to 30 feet wide. A combination concentrating, flotation and cyanide mill, with capacity of 150 tons, has been placed in operation, run by hydro-electric power most of the year and by auxiliary Diesel engines during the dry seasons. The plant is said to have cost around $300,000. The last important addition to equipment was the 11-mile tramway completed by the Riblet Tramway Co. of this city in December and which has the distinction of using the longest moving cable in the world. The new tram was fully covered in an illustrated article which appeared in the last anniversary Number of Mining Truth. The total cost was about $250,000.

The mine is now producing between 5000 and 5500 tons monthly, January consignments reaching a value of $500,000 and those of February about the same.

Higher grade ore, running from $75 to $350 a ton, is shipped to Tacoma and the lower grade running between $40 and $60, to Granby, at Hidden Creek. The average of the shipments has been closely around $100 per ton with a general average rates of about 40 per cent. gold and 60 per cent copper."

Naas Valley Notes

Wm. Stewart has had the misfortune to lose his horse which he bought last summer, and George Wohlschlegel's horse is ailing.

The rest of the stock in the valley have come through the winter in fine condition and are all doing well.

Frank Hoeft and J. Nick have had a very successful trapping season this winter.

Large numbers of the Indians have moved to Fishery Bay for the oolichan fishing and a good many are still trapping.

J. J. Phillips is on his way back to the valley and is bringing in a new settler.

Numerous enquiries are being received by every mail from prospective settlers regarding transportation in the valley and there is no doubt that as soon as a school is built and transportation provided that the valley would quickly develop into one of the most prosperous communities in the north.

Liberal is Given Great Majority at Nelson

Kenneth Campbell, Liberal, was elected to the Provincial Legislature at Nelson on March 23. He defeated the Conservative candidate, Mayor C. F. McHardy by a majority of 559 votes. The final figures stand: Campbell 1053, McHardy 494.

The election was made necessary by the resignation last autumn of Dr. W. O. Rose, Conservative, who had represented Nelson in the Legislature since 1916.

The Mining Laws of this Province are more liberal and the fees lower than those of any other Province in the Dominion, or any Colony in the British Empire.

Mineral locations are granted to discoverers for nominal fees.

Absolute Titles are obtained by developing such properties, the security of which is guaranteed by Crown Grants.
