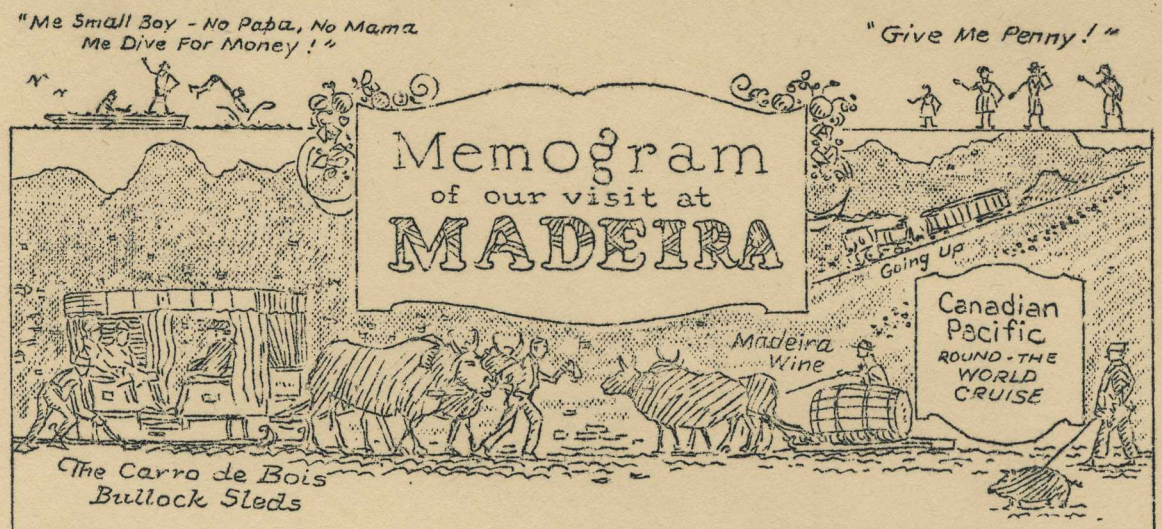
Wednesday, December 8, 1926

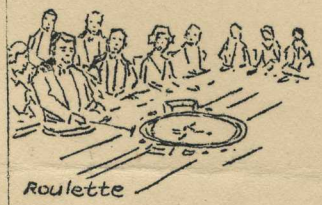
Springtime, we are here! Starting from New York, less than a week ago, we have escaped the cold of winter. If we could only share our delightfully warm weather with the freezing friends at home!

We arrive, tomorrow, at Funchal, our first port of call on the Canadian Pacific Round-the-World-Cruise.

Tonight, we shall hear our lecturer tell about beautiful Madeira - "Where Winter Never Comes."



Dancing



Roulette

The Biggest Thrill of All

FLORA AND MARTIN DeMuth

The "Island of Eternal Springtime" proved most enchanting. We dropped anchor at Funchal on Thursday evening and most of us went ashore by tender soon after dinner to attend the Ball arranged in our honor at the Casino Pavao. Such delightful dancing! Madeira wine, perhaps, on the terrace overlooking the beautiful city and the harbour below us - or a fling at the roulette wheels in the game room ...

What a great day was Friday! We went up Terreiro da Lucta (3285 feet above the sea) on the cog-wheel railway - to the Chalet Restaurant - then down the cobblestone slide in the famous toboggan sleds - shopping - Reid's Palace Hotel - We expected to leave at 5 p.m. .....

But the outstanding feature of our visit was furnished by Old Father Neptune himself when he showed so much objection to our leaving that the Good Ship Empress of Scotland decided to remain overnight. We shall always remember the boat ride from shore to ship - an experience most exciting and well worthwhile.

-and now we are steaming on to Gibraltar

Everybody Happy.

Monday, December 13, 1926

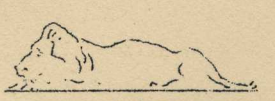
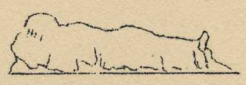
At dawn, today, we arrived in the Bay of Gibraltar and remained the entire morning, viewing the mighty rock from many angles. Our Good Ship Empress of Scotland was taking on a supply of fuel oil from tenders and she seemed to realize that some of us might be disappointed when we did not go ashore as was originally planned, so she slowly drifted around like a thoughtful mother showing the sights of a circus to her children. We thereby obtained a better conception of the grandeur of Gibraltar than if we had landed on the rock.



GREAT BRITAIN'S
SYMBOL OF EMPIRE

To some of its beholders, Gibraltar has the appearance of a lion; to others it looks like a shrowded corpse.



SPANIARDS CALL IT
EL CUERPO - "the Body"

Merchants came aboard and displayed their wares on deck, much to the joy of those among our 449 passengers, who desired to purchase souvenirs.

We left Gibraltar at noon and are now well on our way across the Mediterranean to Algiers, the next port-of-call on the Canadian Pacific ROUND-THE-WORLD-CRUISE.

La Tour d'Auguste - La Turbie

A "Nice" Party

A Perfect Day was Yesterday!

Ideal weather for our motor trip over the Route de la Grande-Corniche, via La Turbie to Nice. Luncheon and dancing at the sumptuous Hotel Negresco.

A stroll along the Promenade des Anglais - shopping - in the marvelous galleries - then we returned via Villefranche and Beaulieu-sur-Mer to Monte Carlo for tea - but that was not all -----

In the evening, most of us went to the Casino of Monte Carlo - and a glorious experience, it was! (The Bank was able to carry on again, today)

We have just passed the islands of Corsica, Elba and Monte Cristo - tomorrow morning, we shall see Stromboli as we approach Naples, our next port-of-call on the Canadian Pacific fourth annual ROUND-THE-WORLD-CRUISE.

Looking Backward 1847 Years!

A Wine Vat "There's Nothing In It"

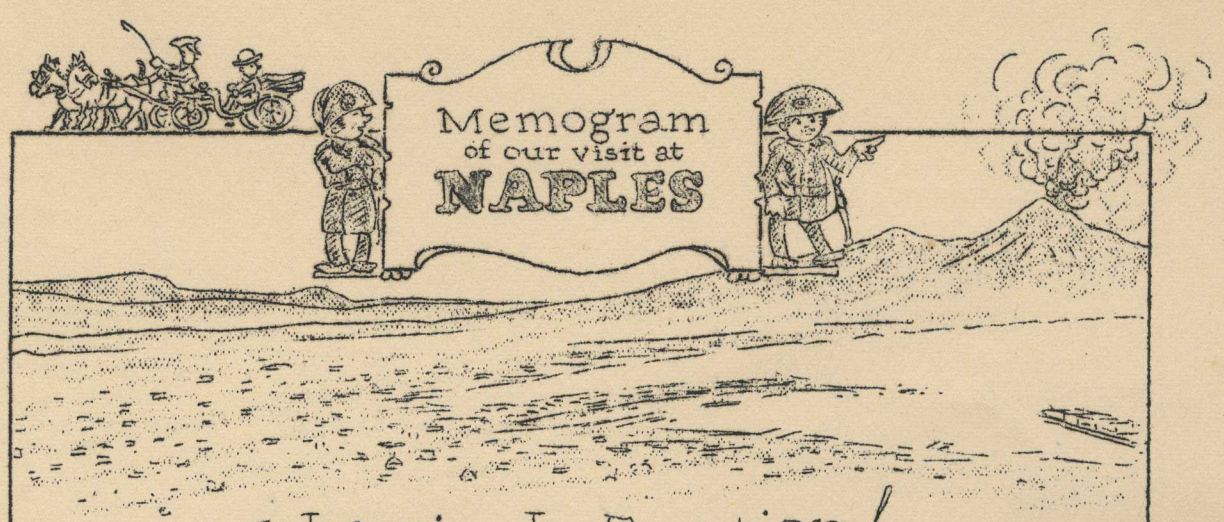
One of the most interesting features of our three days' stop at Naples, Italy, (December 18-20, 1926) on the Canadian Pacific ROUND-THE-WORLD-CRUISE, was the included shore excursion to Pompeii.

Special trains picked us up within a few yards of the Empress of Scotland and carried us along many miles of colourful countryside to the site of Pompeii, the old Roman city which was buried in pumice and ashes from an eruption of Vesuvius in 79 A.D. and discovered in 1748.

Body of a Dog "Cast in Agony"

We explored several acres of Pompeii's houses, shops, temples, public baths, the amphitheatre,- streets where pavement bears the marks of Roman chariot wheels,- the bakery where carbonized loaves of bread were found in an oven,-··· the museum containing the preserved bodies of unfortunate inhabitants and other findings of the excavation work undertaken in 1763 and continued today, bringing to light the customs of almost 2,000 years ago.

"Optional Excursion":



Vesuvius In Eruption!

The Good Ship Empress of Scotland brought us to Naples, the largest city in Italy at a most opportune time. Vesuvius is erupting, not dangerously but entertainingly, especially so for those members of the Canadian Pacific ROUND-THE-WORLD-CRUISE who ventured an ascent to the volcano's crater.

On our included shore excursion to Pompeii, we were among the first visitors permitted to enter the enclosed area where the recent excavations have been conducted.

Some of us went on optional excursions to Solfatara - or the beautiful Amalfi - Sorrento drive ....

The memory of Naples and her environs will be cherished by us. We regret that we must leave.

Haifa is our next port. Tonight, we steam toward the Holy Land. Christmas Day is near...

"Yes Meesta - wanna time
wanna poet fella he say
'See Naples and Die' - notha wanna time wanna smart fella he say
'See Naples and Leeve' -
Me also same thing verra

See Naples and Leeve - but hurra up right away soon!

Thank you."

For three weeks, Mount Vesuvius has been threatening to erupt and, now that the Empress of Scotland is here, the performance is actually started.

Church of the Holy Sepulchre

We landed at Haifa, last Friday morning, and have spent three well-filled days of sight-seeing.

Some of us went on an optional excursion by motor car to the Sea of Galilee, remaining over for Christmas Eve at Nazareth.

The main party came by train directly to Jerusalem, whence a number of us have made excursions to Jericho and the Dead Sea.

We have motored to the Mount of Olives and Bethlehem, where special Christmas Services made our visit one to be remembered.

In Jerusalem, we celebrated Christmas Day, surrounded by countless reminders of biblical happenings.

Tomorrow, we proceed by train to Cairo for a stay in Egypt.

"Where Flows The Historic Nile"

Grateful are we for good eye-sight. We have looked upon the treasures of an old civilisation. The word antiquity now means more to us — because we have seen Egypt.

Cairo, itself – how enchanting! With its Citadel, the Museum, the Mosques, Bazaars, the Pyramids and the Sphinx....

The Nile - we went by steamer as far as Bedrechein - Some of us journeyed to Luxor.

And the Night on the Desert - Oh!

Tomorrow, we depart by train to rejoin the Empress of Scotland and sail on to those strange ports that lie "east of Suez".

"SOUTHERN CROSS AHOY!"

The Constellation of CENTAURUS and CRUX, better known as The Southern Cross will be clearly visible on our starboard beam from 3 to 6 A.M. during the next few mornings.

This group of stars is the most useful in the Southern Hemisphere; navigators employ it in determining latitude when POLARIS, the North Star, is below the horizon.

"OH, Mr. Excavator! My dragoman says you are so clever at finding things. If your men finish digging up that homely old Spinnix, this afternoon, will you please have them go right over somewhere near the Pyramid and look for my diary?"

"BETEL-NUT"

Throughout the East Indies, the chewing of betel leaf, areca nut and lime is a wide-spread habit among natives of the lower classes...

This accounts for their red teeth and lips – and the stains you see on the pavements...

The dark-skinned young man of style usually carries his personal betel-nut case wherever he goes.

An American missionary named Globe, who, living near Yokohama in 1869, converted a baby carriage into a vehicle in which his invalid wife could travel about, pulled by a native servant, is credited with the invention of the jin-rik-sha..

Its Japanese etymology is given as jin, man; riki, power; sha, vehicle; - "man-power-vehicle. Various countries of the Far East spell the name differently, - "rickshaw, riksha, rikisha, ricsha"..

We have already, on our Cruise, seen this unique vehicle in common use in Ceylon.. We shall see them in Singapore with seats wide enough to hold two people; in Hongkong, the wheels have quite heavy wooden spokes; farther north in China, we shall find more graceful vehicles with wire spokes and pneumatic rubber tires; those of Japan are higher and travel more slowly.

The "Wayang" Dolls of Java

Wayang-Wayang puppet shows are a Javanese institution that keeps in the minds of the people their folk-lore and legendary history...

When the Mohammedan conquest touched Java, the religion of Islam prohibited representation of the human figure. The puppets were ordered to be so distorted that the priests could not call them images of human beings. This explains the exaggerated heads and incongruous bodies of the dolls which you have purchased for souvenirs.

The common wayang-wayang entertainment is conducted by a story-teller who chants his lines and at the same time manipulates one or two of the puppets. The flat puppets made of paper or leather are for silhouette shadow shows projected on a screen at night. Music by a native gamelon orchestra helps to keep the audience awake - the story may continue for several evenings.

Java is one of the most picturesque countries we have visited. Although smaller than Cuba, this island supports 35-million people - it is the most densely populated land in the world.

We saw the historic spots of Old Batavia and the upper city, Weltevreden.. Another delightful excursion was the motor-drive to Buitenzorg for an inspection of the botanical gardens...

Monday evening, we sailed away to go north across the equator to Singapore in the Straits Settlements.

Real Batik (called battek in Java) is cotton cloth bearing patterns of native design applied by a stencil process. Here is a brief explanation: To that part of the cloth desired to remain free of dye, a hot, brown wax like gum arabic is applied through a "fountain pen" type of tapering funnel. Thick or thin lines or dots can be made with this instrument. The cloth is then dipped or brushed with dye – the wax removed later by steaming. Protecting layer of wax must be applied for each dyeing, of which there may be over a dozen ... a slow process.

Java's merchants, to meet the increasing demand, sell cleverly counterfeited "batik" printed in Japan and Germany.

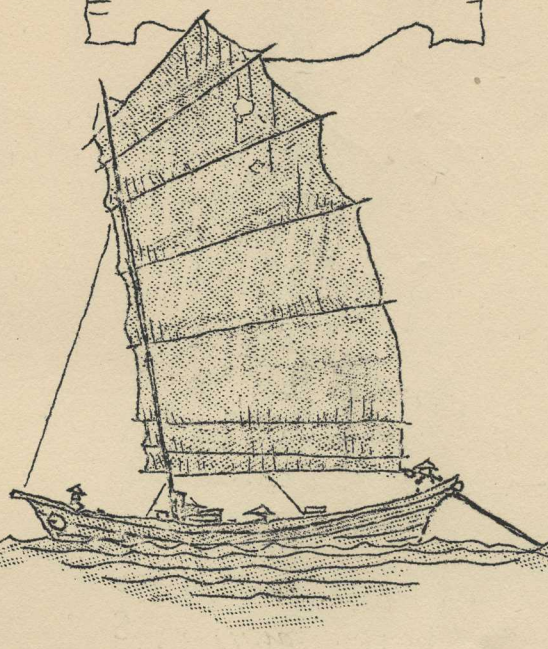
JUNK!



Today - the third of February in 1927 - when the Empress of Scotland was leaving Singapore, many of us saw, for the first time, a Junk...

Later - along the coast of China, we shall see several different types of junks - those strange-looking ships with ribbed sails - high sterns and eyes painted on their bows...

Chinese explain "if he no have got eye - no can see - no can walkee"... superstition....

Some of our own sailors, not so long ago, would refuse to sail on a ship that did not have a figure-head..

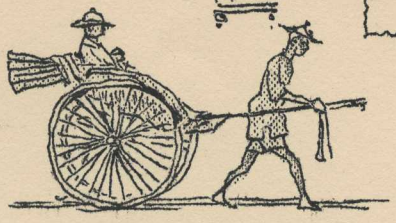
SINGAPORE RACIAL TYPES



Willing to work

Chinese are the most numerous - almost 80% of the population.....
Many Chinese are millionaires - owning rubber plantations, tin mines and shops.

Malays and Javanese are next in point of numbers...
Tropical races - better fitted than the Chinese for standing the heat - but they are not inclined to work hard - they follow light occupations, such as driving, clerical employment and domestic service.....

There are three dominant types of Hindus seen in Singapore...

The Bengali, like the Sikh, makes a good policeman.

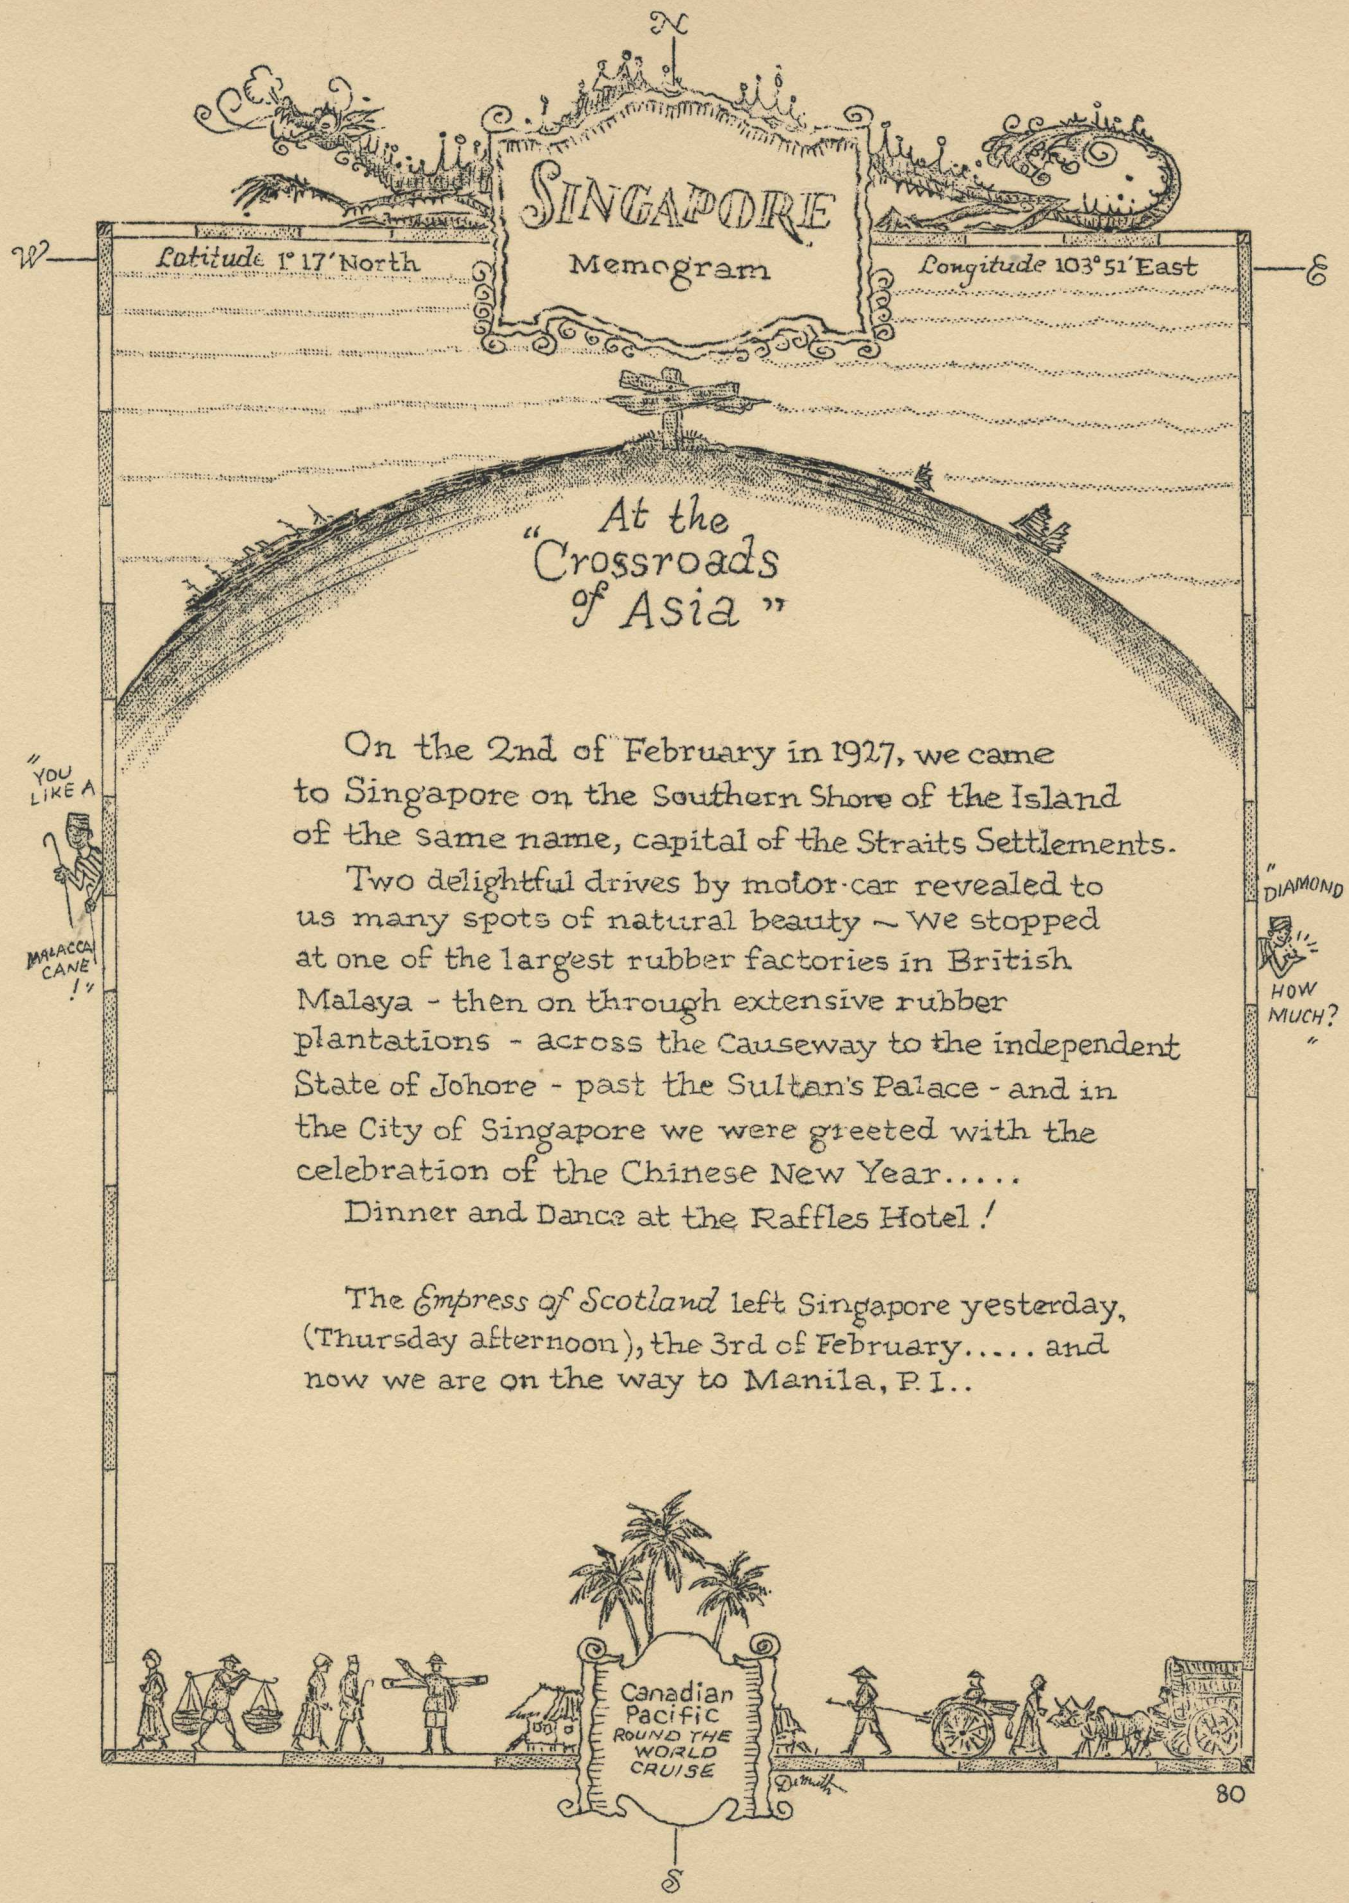
The Tamil is the black, thin, skeleton-like creature engaged mostly in repairing roads.

The Chetty, whom you probably noticed walking through the streets bareheaded and barefooted.. He is the hated money lender.

Canadian Pacific ROUND THE WORLD CRUISE



On the 2nd of February in 1927, we came to Singapore on the Southern Shore of the Island of the same name, capital of the Straits Settlements.

Two delightful drives by motor-car revealed to us many spots of natural beauty ~ We stopped at one of the largest rubber factories in British Malaya - then on through extensive rubber plantations - across the Causeway to the independent State of Johore - past the Sultan's Palace - and in the City of Singapore we were greeted with the celebration of the Chinese New Year.....

Particularly picturesque is the famous Santa Ana Cabaret, which we visited on Monday evening, 7th of February, 1927, during our stay in Manila...

Santa Ana is said to be the largest cabaret in the world -- it has been developed by John Canson from a modest nipa-roofed dancing pavilion into the show-place of the Orient. Here we saw the charming bailarinas, Filipinas who are professional dancing partners, dressed in beautiful native costumes... Their graceful dancing is delightful.

20th of February, 1927 - at Chinwangtao, we left the Empress of Scotland to board our special train, the finest in all China... We sped 252 miles.....
Ours the largest group other than an invading army ever to enter China's greatest walled city.

In Peking, we visited the Lamasery of Eternal Peace, official residence of the Living Buddha... There we saw a reproduction of Tibetan and Mongolian monastic life.. An outstanding object of interest was the giant Buddha, 60 feet high, said to have been carved from a single tree trunk.. We saw the prayer wheels, believed to say 1000 prayers at each turning... And we heard the priests chant in their abnormally deep, bass tones: "OM - MANI - PADMI - OM - -" Great is the Flower of the Lotus...

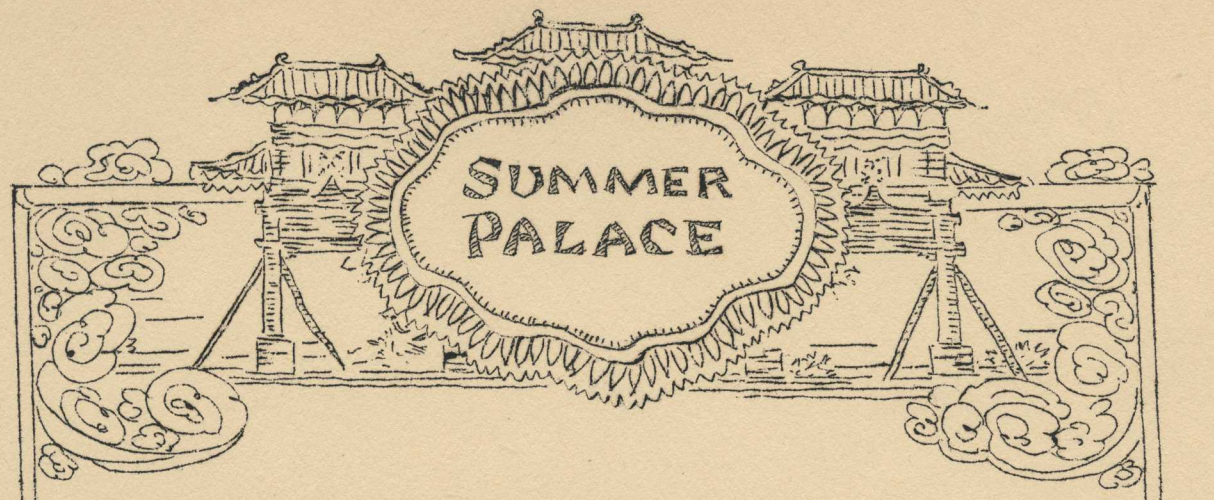
Canadian Pacific ROUND THE WORLD CRUISE

While in Peking, we visited the most holy spot of Old China, Tien-tan, and saw where, not so long ago, the Chinese Emperor, Son of Heaven, came to worship, taking on his own shoulders the sins of his people.....

We stood on the Altar of Heaven, the centre of which is believed to be the very centre of all the Universe.



Our Peking visit included a motor trip to the Garden of Peaceful Enjoyment, where is situated the Summer Palace of the late Empress Dowager of China . . .

Bordering a lotus-grown lake are many beautiful buildings formerly used for the Imperial residence during the hot summer months. The powerful personality of the Empress Dowager is evidenced in the large array of structures designed for her own enjoyment; the most conspicuous among these is the Marble Barge.

AT NIKKO, Japan, during one of our inland excursions while the Empress of Scotland remained at Yokohama, (5th to 8th of March, 1927), we visited Ieyasu Shrine and there we saw the Sacred Stable, the building famous for one of its carved panels, depicting the "Three Monkeys," which shows one monkey covering its eyes with its hands, the second covering its ears, the third covering its mouth, illustrating the precept: Neither see, hear, nor speak any evil...

One of our fullest days of sightseeing during the Empress of Scotland visit at Yokohama, (5th to 8th of March, 1927), was in Tokyo, where we saw things truly Japanese - both ancient and modern.

In the morning, went to the Imperial Palace Gate, Kabuki-za Theatre, Asakusa Park (Japanese Coney Island) and Kwannon Temple, Ueno Park of Cherry-blossom fame - and Imperial Museum.

We had our luncheon at the Imperial Hotel, that hostelry of architectural eccentricities.

In the afternoon, we visited Shiba Park to see the Tokugawa Mausolea and then we went on to Meiji (Shinto) Shrine, which is dedicated to the Emperor who died in 1912.

By way of the Prince's Palace, we returned to the station and boarded our train for Yokohama.

In the "Paradise of the Pacific"

The Empress of Scotland arrived here on Wednesday afternoon, 16th of March, 1927, one day earlier than scheduled, thereby giving us additional time in the Land of Aloha...

Yesterday morning, Thursday, we made the 86 mile motor trip around the Island (Oahu), our party being specially permitted to pass over a section of highway, which, during the present repair work, is closed to traffic. We stopped at Nuuanu Pali for the splendid view of the country below - We visited the Mormon Temple - the Haleiwa Hotel - and stopped at a plantation.....

Luncheon at the recently constructed Royal Hawaiian Hotel - the last word in hotels - on Waikiki Beach - a delightful afternoon - bathing - surf riding...

Then dinner at the Royal Hawaiian again - followed by a dance in the sumptuous ballroom where we saw a real hula dance accompanied by langorous native music..

And there was melodious singing of Aloha at the pier when we came home from the dance.

Shopping and more sight-seeing today - we sail at 5 p.m. for Hilo on the island of Hawaii - Tomorrow is another big day for we shall see Kilauea Volcano.

"Truly Fascinating"

Our Good Ship Empress of Scotland passed through the Golden Gate and docked at Pier 32, Friday morning, 25 March, 1927.

We went on the Thirty Mile Drive, during which we saw Pacific Heights, The Presidio, Lincoln Park, Palace of the Legion of Honour, Cliff House, Seal Rocks, Golden Gate Park, the Museum, Japanese Garden, the Aquarium ~ then via Ocean Boulevard to St. Francis Woods, over the famous Twin Peaks Drive, - to Mission Dolores and the Civic Centre...

In the evening, our Cruise Lecturer broadcast the story of our "great adventure" from KPO, assisted by Miss Frances Swab, soloist, and the Empress of Scotland orchestra... we also enjoyed a Dinner Dance at the Palace Hotel.

Never shall we forget Saturday afternoon when we departed for Panama.

"The Land Divided-

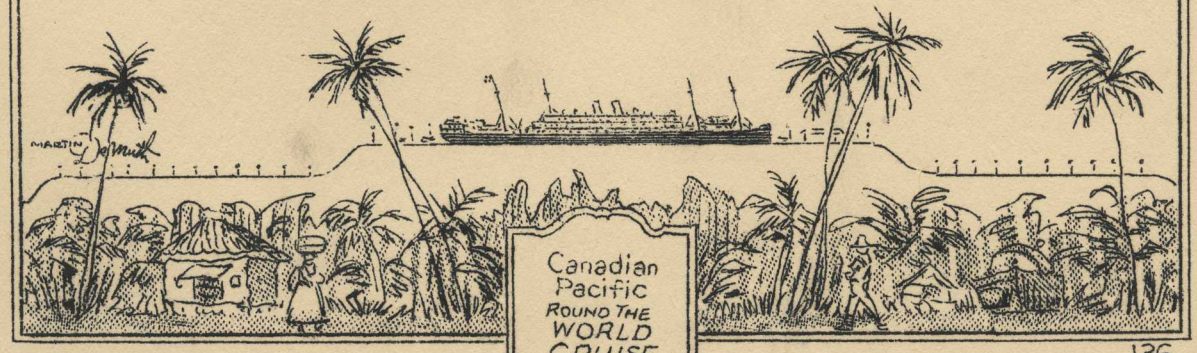
The World United"

Our Good Ship Empress of Scotland arrived at Balboa, C.Z., Monday morning, 4th of April, 1927.

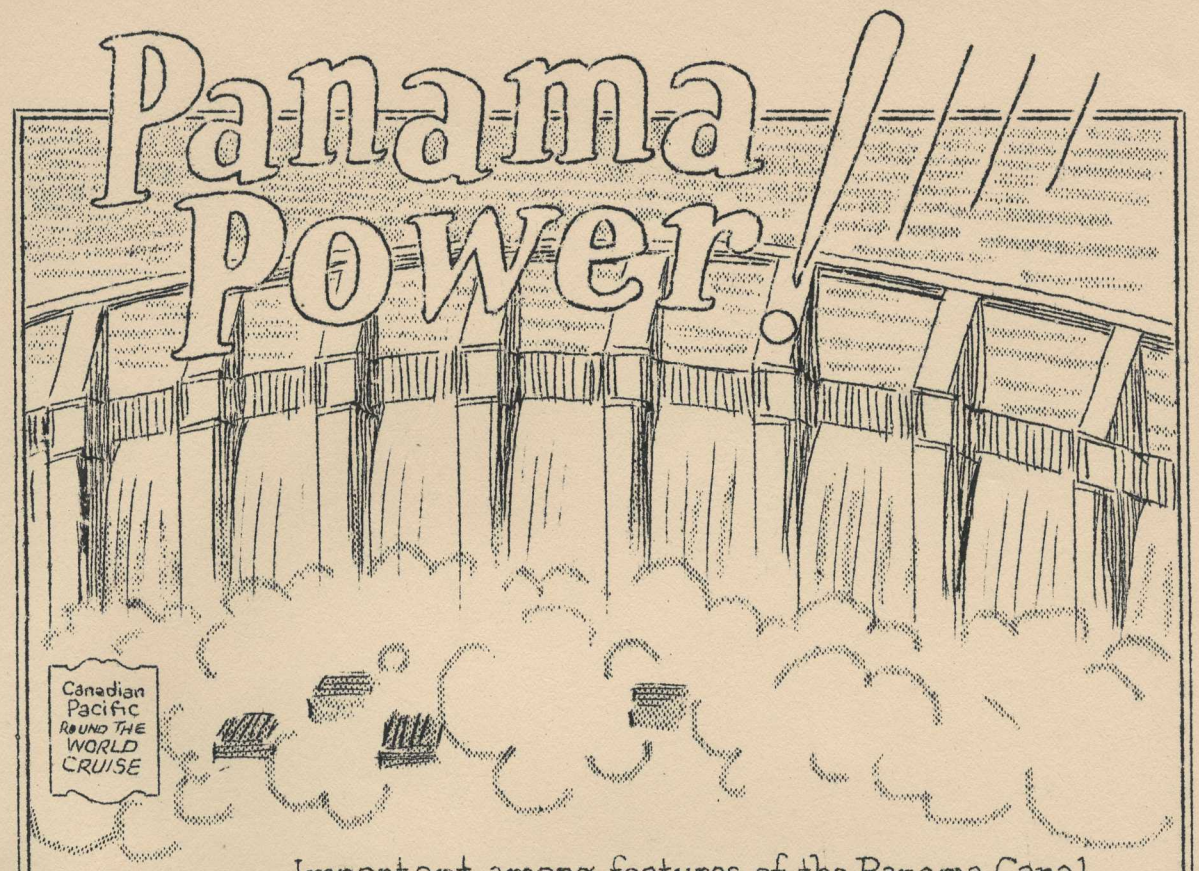
We went ashore for an excursion by motor car about Balboa, Fort Amador, Balboa Heights, Quarry Heights, Panama City - and to Old Panama to see the ruins that have recently yielded fabulous hidden treasures to excavators.

In the evening, we dined and danced at the Hotel Tivoli...

The next day, Tuesday, 5th of April, we passed through Panama Canal, the World's Greatest Mechanical Wonder, to Cristobal and Colon on the Atlantic side, leaving at 11.00 P.M. for Havana.



Canadian Pacific
ROUND THE WORLD CRUISE



Important among features of the Panama Canal is Gatun Dam, a long, low, broad ridge constructed across the Valley of Rio Chagres to form Gatun Lake.

The Dam is provided with a Spillway of 14 gates near Gatun Locks to waste the excess water of the Lake.

On the east bank of the Spillway is the famous HYDROELECTRIC STATION of 13,140 kilowatt capacity, using the water of Gatun Lake for the generation of electricity.

Over a high-voltage transmission line that parallels the Panama Railroad across the Isthmus, electric power is distributed to the towns, canal locks, shops, pumping stations, coaling stations, refrigerating plants and numerous other uses throughout the Canal Zone.

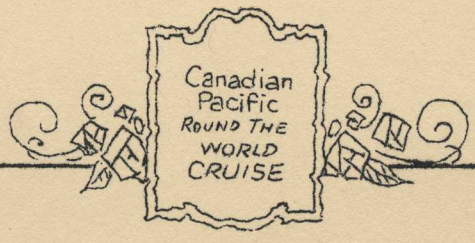
"Where Romance Lives"

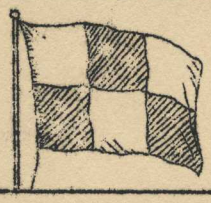
Arriving from Cristobal at noon, today, we have just returned to the Empress of Scotland for dinner after an extensive excursion by motor car through Havana and environs.

We have, this afternoon, seen many places of interest, being constantly reminded of the historical background of the West Indies - for it was this group that Columbus discovered in 1492 – here is where the pirates of old carried on – Sir Francis Drake, Elizabeth's champion of Armada days, visited here – and in Cuba still remains the influence of Spain. We have looked upon the oldest European building in the New World - La Fuerza Fortress...

Particularly appealing is the "Happy Havana" spirit, evidenced on every side in the friendly greetings of the people.

Tomorrow afternoon, we depart for New York.





GOODBYE and Good Luck!

JUST to say "Goodbye" but, we trust, only for a little while. That you have enjoyed your Cruise Round the World under the house flag of the Canadian Pacific is our earnest hope.

We hold ourselves fortunate and happy in having had you with us on our adventure.. That you have all returned happy and well, gives us the keenest satisfaction and pleasure.

Ours has been a "Lucky Cruise" throughout, practically every detail of our programme having been carried out as laid down.

That continuous "Good Luck" may be yours for all time is our earnest wish.

"Goodbye and Good Luck!"
