The Oro Denoro Mine

A party of officials and shareholders last week completed a visit of inspection to the Oro Denoro mine in Summit camp, near Phoenix, and from remarks made they are extremely gratified with the outlook for that property. The party consisted to J. S. C. Fraser, manager of the Bank of Montreal, Rossland; and president of the Denoro Mines, Ltd.; owning and operating the Oro Denoro; Smith Curtis, director and large shareholder; A. Prescott, of Vancouver, a shareholders; F. S. Parrish, of Rossland, consulting engineer, and Robert H. Anderson, now of Rossland, who has been in charge as superintendent.

The gentlemen made a thorough examination of the property, and were much pleased at the result of the work done since the mine resumed operations, and also at the large amount of ore yet available for shipping purposes. Mr. Curtis and Mr. Prescott went on to Phoenix to examine the Granby mines there, and also visited the Mother Lode at Greenwood.

During the last three or four months, while development has been conducted at the Oro Denoro by hand drilling this mine has shipped to the Sunset smelter at Boundary Falls about 3,500 tons of ore of a kind that is very desirable for fluxing purposes. So much so, in fact, that the smelter wants all that it can get of this ore, and has made an extremely low smelting rate for the same. Notwithstanding the expense of hand drilling, etc., it is understood that the ore shipped so far has netted about $1.75 per ton on the average.

Operations on the Oro Denoro are conducted on the glory hole or open quarrying system, making the getting out of ore a most economical matter, when the air drilling plant is installed. The mine has two spurs from the Phoenix branch of the C. P. R., which makes it convenient for shipping ore.

It is expected that the seven drill air compressor plant will be shipped from Rossland in a day or two, and as the concrete foundations are ready, it will not take long to put it in place. An electric lighting plant will also be installed. At present the force of men at the Oro Denoro numbers about twenty, which will shortly be increased and the shipments of ore also materially enlarged.

Grand Trunk Pacific Bill Passed.

OTTAWA, Sept. 2.—A division was reached on the long railway debate in the house of commons on the Grand Trunk Pacific scheme early this morning.

All proposed amendments were voted down.

A vote on the resolution of Sir Wilfred Laurier to give effect to the contract with the Grand Trunk Pacific was put at 2.45 p. m., and carried by a majority of 46.

Mr. Blair, Mr. Tarte, and Mr. Puttee, of Winnipeg, voted with the opposition.

There were four divisions in all.

The first division was on Boyd's amendment in favor of extending government railways. It was defeated by 68 for and 119 against, a majority of 51.

Putee's government ownership and operation resolution was defeated on a vote of 50 for, to 135 against.

The amendment of Casgrain, to wait until the report of the transportation commission was received, and until the members had time to consult their constituencies, was defeated by 70 for to 117 against.

Fielding said that all the provinces, including British Columbia, supported the scheme. The Tory government of British Columbia was even supporting it, until such times as a liberal government was elected in their place.

Value of Old Coins.

A recent issue of the Montreal Witness contains the following:

"There was disposed of by auction in London recently two of the highest priced and most historic Canadian numismatic specimens. The sale of the coins in which these pieces were included comprise mainly the coins of the British colonies and the United States, and extended over nine days. One of the British Columbia coins, a $20 piece, went at £116 while the corresponding $10 piece realized £83, or nearly $1000 for the pair. The coins are very simple in design, bearing the value and date, 1862, with a wreath on one side, and a crown with the title "Government of British Columbia," on the other. The name "Kuner" would indicate that the dies were made in Germany. Some of the prices at which the others were sold were also phenominal.

Phoenix Labor Day Celebration.

The committee having charge of the big Labor Day celebration at Phoenix held a meeting this week, and the announcement is made that all details for the celebration are now complete, and that a large crowd is expected from all over the Boundary, as well as from Republic. A special train will be run from the latter place over the Kettle River Lines, to connect with the special from Grand Forks over the C. P. R., which is expected to leave that place about eight o'clock Monday morning.

The programme of sports and events shows that the two days of the celebration will be well filled with interesting contests having goodly prizes attached, and the two evenings can also be pleasantly spent at Miners' Union hall, the first at a ball given by the Phoenix Trades and Labor Council, and the second by an entertainment. Besides horse racing, rock drilling and many small sports, and a base ball match, there will be some excellent contests among the hose reel men from Grand Forks, Greenwood, and perhaps from Rossland and Nelson. The decoration committee is erecting five electric arches for illuminating purposes, and there will be a warm welcome for the numerous visitors.

Easy To Identify.

A German who lately lost his horse published the following notice:

"Rundaway, or stolen, or was sdrayed, mine large plack horse, about thirteen hands hie. He has four plack legs, two behind and two pefore. He is plack all over his body, put he has got some vite spots on his pack where the skin was rub off; but I greised em, and de vite spots is all plack now. His ears is both alike, put von is placker dan toder, and a small pit longer. He has a long tail dat hangs pehind; put I cut it short toder dry, and now it is not so long vat it was. He is shoed all round, put his pehind shoes comed off, and now he has got on shoes all pefore. THE YACHT RACE.

The last of the series of contests in the great international yacht race for the America Cup took place on Thursday resulting in the Reliance being an easy winner. From the very first it was expected that the American boat would win the race. Although much enthusiasm was displayed by the entire British nation and the greatest confidence expressed by the owner of Shamrock III over the superiority of their boat, yet there was that feeling of uncertainty among them that betrayed a serious doubt as to whether there was any likihood of lifting the cup with Shamrock III., and to many the thought that it would win was but prompted by the wish that it would do so. Ever since 185I the Americans have held the much coveted trophy, and ever since 1870 the British have truggled gallantly to take back the cup, only to find their efforts fruitless. After so many attempts on the part of the British to outsail their American cousins and all to no purpose, it would appear that there is but one conclusion to arrive at and that is the Americans are superior to the British as boat builders, and this is the conclusion Sir Thomas Lipton has come to, for at New York the other day he stated that he would never issue another challenge for the America Cup until a man had been found in England who equalled Nat Herreshoff in boat building. Although this was too flaunting a compliment to the Americans to suit many of the British, yet it is the truth, and every sportsmanlike Britisher will admire Sir Thomas Lipton for his frank admission of the superiority of the Americans as boat builders.

At a banquet in England a short time ago the Duke of Argyll made the suggestion that in the event of the failure of Sir Thomas Lipton to carry off the America cup, Canada might try it. Although this was but a mere suggestion, yet it is doubtful if the question of Canada attempting to win the cup is not being seriously considered at the present time in the Dominion. The fact that the mother country has failed to do what Canada may attempt, does not in the least lessen the Dominion's chances for winning, but would only make it a more flattering triumph in the event of her being successful.

A Chicago paper says: "Canada will be perfectly welcome to try for the America's cup as soon as Sir Thomas makes up his mind to quit. But Sir Thomas has earned the right to be considered above all other applicants for the honor of defeat." The Americans find they have an easy victim in the person of Sir Thomas Lipton and finding a good thing wish to push it along. It is no reason at all because Sir Thomas has built three boats, all inferior to those of the Americans, that he should go on constructing Shamrocks for an indefinite period and be allowed a monopoly of the cup-lifting market. Sir Thomas will in all probability cease struggling for America's cup, for it is scarcely likely that he wants a whole fleet of Shamrocks.

Don't overlook the Labor Day celebration at Phoenix on Monday and Tuesday, September 7. and 8.

half of the Fife Courier, is touring Canada, his mission being to inquire into the conditions and the prospects that the Dominion offers to Scottish settlers, its grain raising capacity and also to ascertain the opinion of leading Canadians on the question of preferential tariff. He will investigate all kinds of farm work from the Atlantic to the Pacific and endeavor to meet with the most representative men of the farming and commercial classes. His experiences will be given in a series of letters to his paper and he has instructions to state unreservedly opioions expressed regarding Mr. Chamberlain's new tariff proposals, and he hopes to make his articles of personal interest to every farmer in Scotland.

DOMINION MOVING AHEAD.

Under the above headihg the Spokesman Review has the following:

"It will surprise most Americans to learn that the commercial development of Canada as represented by combined exports and imports has in the last five years relatively been that of the United States. It is hard to believe this, but figures presented at the recent congress of British chambeas of commerce in Montreal seem to bear out the statement beyond a doubt. Canadian exports and imports, which in 1871 were about $170,000,000, had increased in 1901 to nearly $400,000,000, and in the last two years have grown to $467,000,000. In five years the percentage of increase has been 65 per cent. which is twice that of the United States and two and one half that of Germany, during the same length of time. In view of this splendid growth, it may be neccessary for some people to revise or modify their opinions about the people of the Dominion being in a state of lethargy. The chief cause of this commercial advance may be traced to improved means of transportation. Twenty-two years ago Canadian railroad mileage was only 2500 miles. The completion of the Canadian Pacific brought it up to 14,000 miles, and now it is estimated to be about 20,000 miles. The steady construction has opened new territory, and resulted in the development of hitherto neglected natural resources, agricultural, mineral and timber, and with the introduction of large amounts of foreign capital there has been an expansion of Dominion industry and commerce that may be expected to continue unchecked for many years.

Mentalism Discussed.

"Do you think that cigarette smoking causes a deterioration of mentalism?" "I am not clear on that point," said the man who makes a specialty of public opions. "The impression to that effect may be due to the fact that people with brains naturally avoid them."

Sketch of Mr. Shanley.

Mr. Shanley can only be reckoned a "Canadian" poet through residence in Canada, and the fact that he simply absorbed the spirit of the land of his adoption. He was born in Dublin in 1811 and came to Canada at the age of 25. He edited "Punch in Canada." He was known as a writer of occasional verse and an art critic. He died in Florida in 1875, but is buried near London, Ontario. He was an engineer by profession, the Hoosac Tunnel in Vermont being his greatest work. The above ballad is quoted in "A Treasury of Canadian Verse," compiled by the late Dr. Theodore Rand, and is, to my mind, one of the three or four truly remarkable contributions to our poetry. The theme is highly imaginative and the treatment bold and dramatic. The suggestion of the uncanny is subtle, but powerful enough to cause an artistic chill. Some of the lines are exquisite in illustrative quality; note the picture swiftly presented to the mental vision by the following:—

"And the skating of the red leaf
Upon the frozen snow."

The form of the ballad could hardly be improved in any way; there is not a superciluous word or explanation.—Pharos, in The Globe.

The Canadian Apple.

The finest fruit that grows is the Canadian apple. If anybody doubts this let him travel the world over, and he will come back convinced of it. He may visit the orange groves of the South, and on into the land of the banana; he may tour the grape countries, and pull figs and cocoanuts where he can find them; and if he but stay long enough at each point in his journeyings, he will tire of the native fruits, and come home fully persuaded that the apple is the leader of them all. We do not properly appreciate the Canadian apple.

THE NORTHWESTERN BUSINESS COLLEGE.

809 Second Ave., Spokane, Wash.

The school where thorough work is done; where the reason is always given; where confidence is developed; where Book-KEEPING is taught exactly as books are being kept in business; where SHORTHAND is scientific; where penmanship is at its best; where merit is the standard; where the training in CIVIL SERVICE, TELEGRAPHY, ENGLISH and CARTOONING wakes up students, develops their powers and teaches them how to be successful. No argument is so eloquent as the record of things well done. No mortgage can corrupt, no thief can break through and steal the knowledge of How to Do. When you know what a school can do for you by what it has done for others is it better to trust to luck? Is it wiser to guess?
