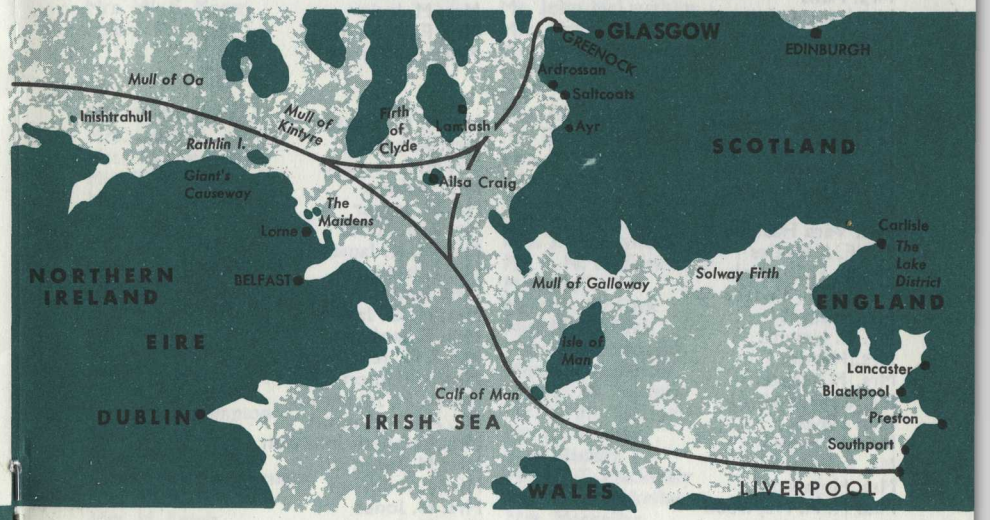
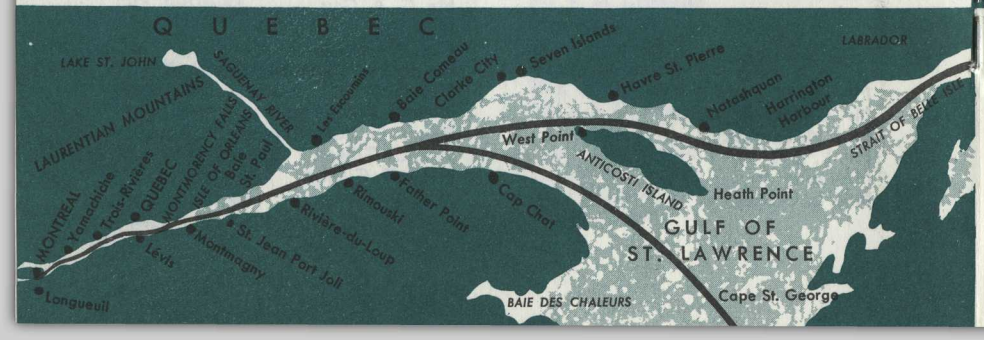
THE SHELTERED ST. LAWRENCE

Green banks, picturesque villages and the sheltered waters of the mighty St. Lawrence on the West and the Irish Sea on the East highlight the Canadian Pacific "cruise route" between Europe and North America.

Between Montreal and Belle Isle, or Cape Race according to the season, two days are spent in the sheltered estuary of the St. Lawrence. The river banks, unchanged since the days of Champlain, Frontenac, Wolfe and Montcalm, except — here and there — for evidence of the march of industrial progress, are dotted with places famed in the history of North American development in the past four centuries. They mark, too, the industrial growth of the New World.

Historic Vercheres, bustling Sorel; Yamachiche with its transatlantic radio towers, the paper mills of Trois-Rivières (Three Rivers); mighty Quebec with its history of early days, the Chateau Frontenac; sleepy Ile d'Orleans; the frowning beauty of Capes Trinity and Eternity; picturesque Gaspé; Anticosti hunters' paradise; the lumber and iron ore ports of Clarke City and Seven Islands, the time-saving Strait of Belle Isle — a veritable cruise of history and scenic beauty.





AN INLAND SEA

Between Inishtrahull, traditional landfall of Great Circle routes, and Greenock or Liverpool, the verdant banks of Northern Ireland, the Giant's Causeway, the lovely Firth of Clyde with its many lochs; the Isle of Man, popular holiday place and old in history; the green hills of Wales or at night the lights of Blackpool; the Bar Lightship and its cluster of shipping — these mark the sheltered inland sea that begins or ends a trans-Atlantic voyage by Canadian Pacific Empress.
