Grand Trunk Pacific Deposit.

Montreal, March 14.—The cash deposit of $5,000,000 was made with the Bank of Montreal to the credit of the Dominion government by the Grand Trunk Railway company. Great interest attaches to the manner of transfer, not merely because of the large amount involved, but because also of the fact that the Grand Trunk Pacific agreement has passed safe through its first real test. The trsnsfer was extremely simple. The Bank of Montreal act as banker for the Grand Trunk Railway company. It acts also as depository for the government. Instead, therefore, of the Grand Trunk getting together five million dollars in specie and carting it down to Ottawa in charge of an armed guard, the financial agents of the company negotiated a loan of that amount with the bank, and the bank in turn placed it to the credit of the government. The minister of finance, should occasion demand, could go to the bank and draw out the whole amount in gold or other legal tender.

This cash deposit should silence the critics, who have maintained that the government had displayed weakness in giving the company the option of making the deposit in securties or cash, taking it for granted that no cash would be forthcoming. As a matter of fact, the government is now relieved of all liability under that head, the bank of Montreal having accepted, on account of the loan, the very securities that might have fallen into the hands of the government.

Boiled down, the transaction means that the Bank of Montreal accepts all responsibility on the strength of the securities, receiving therefor a certain percentage, known only to the parties interested. It will cost the Grand Trunk the difference between what percentage they are by agreement to receive from the government on the deposit and what they will have to pay to the bank. The fact that it likely will amount to from $50,000 to $75,000 a year should act as an incentive to the company to push the work ahead as rapidly as possible to the point that released the deposit. The negotiations were conducted by cablegram between the head office of the Grand Trunk in London and the parties to the transaction here to Ottawa. The officials of the company were determined not to leave the matter open to adverce criticism, hense the cash deposit.

Curlew Is On Mineral Claim.

R. D. Johnson, of Spokane, has won his fight for the possession of 182 acres of land, which, it is stated, practically comprises the town of Curlew, a little place about 13 miles south of Midway, but on the American side of the line.

On December 6, 1900, says the Chronicle, Mr. Johnson applied for a patent for the Aubin Boy, Little Pete, Lewiston Boy, Ressurrection, Baby D. fraction, Baby D., Little Pete Extension, 4-M-S, Hardup, Last Chance and Black Hawk lode mining claims, and the Aubin Boy millsite. Protests against the granting of the patents were filed, part of the land being claimed by settlers and part as an Indian allotment. The case was decided in favor of the mineral claimant by Receiver Ludden and an appeal was taken to the general land office. The land commissioner has upheld the decision of Mr. Ludden, the claimant making final payment for the land and receiving their final receipt Wednesday of last week.

Transportation of British Troops

Montreal, March 15.—Major-general sir Charles Parsons, K. C. M. G., commander in-chief of the British forces in Canada, was in Montreal recently. During his stay sir Charles Parsons had a conference with general manager McNicoll, of the C. P. R., and it is understood that the topic discussed was the reported to have been entered into by the Canadian Pacific railway with the British government for the transport of British troops across the continent in case of emergency.

The present uncertian conditions in the east, coupled with the alliance of Great Britain with Japan, make it imperative that the imperial government should have the means of transporting troops to the far east, with all despatch, and the all-British line offers not only the quickest, but safest route in case of emergency.

The output of the discussion between sir Charles Parsons and Mr. McNicoll was it is understood an arrangement that in the event of any trouble arising in the far east calling for the intervention of England, the passage across the continent would be made easily and expeditiously via the Canadian Pacific railway.

The Hendryx Process.

By saving 83 per cent of the total gold and silver values in the ores from the Mountain Lion mine at Republic, Dr. Hendryx has proven the complete success of his Hendryx agitator and cyanide process in saving low grade gold values. The question of saving the values in Republic ores has been a most puzzling one. All previous attempts failed. When Dr. Hendryx promised to save 80 per cent, or more of the values at a cost of only $1.50 per ton, there was naturally considerable excitement among mining men. The Republic ores are of low grade, running about $10 a ton. The smelters pay about $9.40 for the gold and silver in ore assaying $10 and deduct $6 for freight and treatment. That leaves the mine owner only $3.40 out of which he must pay costs and get a profit. By saving 83 per cent of the values, Dr. Hendryx recovers bullion worth $8.30 from $10 ore and if the cost of milling is only $1.50 there is a net profit of $6.80 instead of $3.40 to the mine owner. Such a margin means the difference between success and failure in the case of the Repulbic mines, and doubtless to similar low grade properties in other sections. Many Republc properties that have long been idle will likely resume active operations. It looks as if the Hendryx process will work wonders in that mining camp.

The Dispatch
J. M. CROUSE ..... Editor and Proprietor

Hon. R. F. Green, Chief Commission of Lands and Works in the provincial government has recently become quite prominent by the insertion in the British Columbia Gazette of a notice to purchasers and pre-emptors of crown lands that if overdue balance of purchase money be not paid on or before the 15th day of April next, the records or agreements concerning such lands will be cancelled. It must be presumed that this notice means what it says and that it is not a bluff, but the dictates of common sence should tell any man that to expect pre-emptors to pay up in full with a few weeks' notice is to say the least unreasonible. No doubt the government need money, need it badly and at once, that is an instinct common to all governments, but if they cannot devise any better means of obtaining it than by such drastic measures as they now appear to have in view, it will not be long before they go the way of their predecessors and the sooner the better for the country. It does not require much ability and capacity to increase taxes and in other ways lay burdens upon the people, but it does require ability and capacity to overhaul and reorganize the departments and place them on a basis suitable to changed conditions. The government should reflect that the choicest lands in southern British Columbia were long ago pre-empted and purchased—often in large blocks—at a very low price; that in some of the provinces to encourage the settlement of inferior lands, the price is reduced to a nominal sum, where there are not free homesteads; that British Columbia has now to compete with the free lands now offered by the Dominion government in the Northwest, and not a few settlers have abandoned their pre-emptions and removed there. They might also reflect that if large sums of public money had not been wasted through successive governments, some sections of the province would be more prosperous and the people in a better position to make their payments. It is all well enough to borrow money at high rates of interest, to send delegates to Ottawa to beg for increased subsidies, to increase taxes and to threaten to cancel records at short notice, these are the only methods that occur to rut-following minds, but with brains and initiative at the heads of departmants and the abolition of government by deputies who are neither responsible to nor in touch with the people, equilibrium between revenue and expenditure wouldd soon follow, and the province would take its place as one of the richest, if not the richest of the confederation.

Stump'in Waterloo Stock.

As a result of the miserable scandal in boosting Waterloo Consolidation stock, shares in that company have fallen to 1 1-2c and 2c, says the Spokesman Review. The stock was selling around 4c and 5c three months ago, when the management commenced issuing promises of 1-4c dividends a month. The result was so satisfactory that shares went up to 9 1-2c 10c, when the bubble burst six weeks ago. Instead of dividends, it is an assessment of a mill a share which has greeted the shareholders.

An Elaborate Scheme.

The tendency in the Boundary country is in the direction of consolidation. The mines there are mainly of a low grade and in order to be operated to the best advantage they must be run on a large scale. Single properties in the low grade sections cannot be made to pay as well as a half a dozen or more properties in one combine.

A consolidation of more than ordinary dimensions is now being completed. According to a circular just issued to the stockholders of the Morrison Mines, limited, the entire assets of that corporation have been sold to Andrew Laidlaw for the sum of $24,166.76. This is at the rate of two cents a share on the 1,206,338 shares outstanding. The stockholders of the Morrison Mines who care to sell their shares for two cents can get that price on presentation to the company's office in Spokane; that is on stock on which the assessments have been paid.

Through the courtesy of Andrew Laidlaw any stockholder in the Morrison Mines who does not care to sell his shares has the privilege of exchanging his stock in the Morrison Mines for stock in the Montreal & Boston Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co. at the rate of 30 ten cent shares of Morrison for one share of the Montreal & Boston Consolidation Mining & Smelting Co. This company was recently formed in Ontario, Canada, with $5,000,000, with 1,000,000 shares of $5 each.

The properties owned by this company includes the Sunset, Crown Silver, C. O. D., Florence, Morrison and one half of the Little Buffalo, and also the smelter plant of the Montreal & Boston Copper Co. at Boundary Falls, B. C. The smelter has been in active operation for the past 18 months and has two furnaces in operation and the third one is on the ground. The company intends adding a fourth furnace and a converter plant which will enable it to smelt 1,500 tons of ore per day. The amount of stock required to acquire the above property was 340,000 shares, leaving a balance of 660,000 shares, or $3,300,000 for buying other properties or making the intended improvements in the smelter, and building a spur to the Morrison mine.

Negotions for the purchase of the Dominion Copper Company's properties in Phoenix camp owned by Mackenzie & Mann, are almost completed. These properties are the Brooklyn, Stemwinder and Rawhide, which are developed and fully equipped with all necessary machinery and railway facilities. The new corporation is also figuring with other mine owners of the Boundary and as soon as the Montreal & Boston Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company affects all of its consolidation plans it will, the management says, be second to no mining company in the Boundary.
