NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Frozen milk, it has been discovered, may be kept in a fresh state indefinitely, and many steamers sailing on long voyages are provided with steam refrigerators in which milk and other foods may be preserved for any length of time.

It has been proposed to apply telephones to the infectious wards of the French hospitals, so as to enable the sick people who are isolated to have the comfort of hearing the voices of their relations without any risk of conveying infection by the interview.

Oregon, it is reported, has a very poor fruit crop this year and will have to depend largely on California. The California crop is not over big, but it is said that the demands of the canners will be moderate this season, thereby enabling California to supply Oregon.

The Synod of Nova Scotia has pronounced against "questionable methods" of raising money for church purposes. Lotteries and pie socials certainly do savor strongly of the secular, particularly the former species of amusements, which by the way, is contrary to law.

"That settles it," said a prisoner whom his honor sentenced to the workhouse for sixty days the other morning. "Settles what?" asked the officer to whom the remark was addressed. "I have been troubled in my mind whether to go down to Long Branch or up to Mackinac this summer. Now I won't have to go to either."

There is in the civilized world an average of one deaf mute to every 1,500 population; in other words there are at least 1,000,000 of this afflicted class. In the United States there are 38,000; in Great Britain, 20,000; in Germany, 25,000; in France, 30,000; in Sweden, 2,000; in Norway, 1,100; in Denmark, 2,000; in Holland, 2,300, and in Switzerland (the country above all others where deafness is prevalent) 10,000.

The legislature of Illinois at its late session passed an alien law which went into effect on July 1st. By the terms of this law no alien can be employed on state or municipal public works. It is supposed that the law will cause a stampede of foreign labor from Chicago to other points, and be an injury to the labor markets in other places. It is feared that the law may not be enforced as strictly as it ought to be. There is a probability that its constitutionality will be tested in the courts.

The consumption of distilled spirits in the United States has decreased from 80,000,000 gallons in 1870 to 76,000,000 gallons last year. This, notwithstanding the great necessary increase in the amount used in the arts. Meantime the consumption of wine increased from 12,000,000 to 36,000,000 gallons. This is a wholesome change. The population has increased about 70 per cent. since 1870, so that these figures indicate a great falling off in the consumption per capita of "hard liquor" as a beverage.—Ex.

Chief Arthur, of the Locomotive Engineers, is credited with the declaration that he will never endorse another strike. The strike is about the only way the workman has of advancing his interests—that is, when the employer declines to be persuaded. But it is a most costly warfare. It impoverishes the striker and brings suffering and hunger to his unoffending wife and family. Everybody must wish that the day of strikes will soon be over. Arbitration is, of course, the remedy of these harsh measures. But, unfortunately, that principle is not yet applied with satisfaction to all concerned.

In order to give a proper definition of what constitutes a log used for piling purposes, an order in council has been passed, confirming a recommendation of the treasury board, which removes a great deal of the difficulty hitherto experienced. It provides that all logs found to measure inside the bark, eleven inches or less diameter at the end thereof, irrespective of length of such logs, when exported for piling purposes or as piling, be not subject to the export duty of $1 per 1,000 feet board measure. This decision will mainly affect the exporters of small spruce timber in the maritime provinces and British Columbia.—Canada Lumberman.

A London letter to the Philadelphia Bulletin says: "I noticed for the first time these many years a change in the looks of the Princess of Wales. It is sad to have to say so, but the 'sea king's daughter from over the sea, Alexandra,' is getting old. She has for years looked like the sister of her daughters, only fairer than they. But, now? Well, now, she is beginning—at last—to look like their mother. I do not go so far as to say that the foot of the crow has marked the eye-corners, but she is thinner and more worn in appearance and older-looking than she was last Ascot. It may be that the cares of the season are telling upon her. The prince is as jolly as ever. Nothing seems to affect him."

FIVE HANGINGS.

Five Murderers Sentenced to Hang in New York City on August Third.

United States Consul on the Congo will Explore the Upper part of the River.

British Troops Being Sent from Cairo to Reinforce the Egyptians at Assouan.

FIVE HANGINGS.

NEW YORK, July 23.—Sentence of death was passed to-day on the murderers Charles Gibben and Henry Carleton, August 3rd, being the date fixed. There are now five condemned murderers to be executed here on that day. They are John Lewis (colored), James Nolan, Patrick Packevham, Charles Gibben and Henry Carleton.

FROM THE CONGO.

NEW YORK, July 22.—Among the arrivals from Europe this morning by the Aurania was Emery Taust, United States consul at the Congo. He is absent from his post on a thirty days leave, being convalescent from a serious attack of Congo fever, from which for a time his recovery was doubtful. He sails again August 21st, when he will explore thoroughly the upper Congo in the interest of the U. S. government, devoting probably two years to the task. He brings with him an extensive report on the Lower Congo, which he has thoroughly explored. Many interesting facts will appear in the report.

BOULANGISM.

NEW YORK, July 22.—The Courier Etats Unis commenting this morning on the French political situation says editorially: "The grave feature is the disorder which Boulangism throws into the republican ranks. It is certain it leads them to profit by the reaction. What is strangest is the effect it exercises on persons entirely sincere but victims of gross deception and blindness, from which they will recover with difficulty. The French electors will have no difficulty in distinguishing the game of the monarchists. They will have more in perceiving that of Boulangism, but when they do divine it, the end will come of the incredible scheme which has confused popular good sense, and which will perish miserably.

REINFORCEMENTS.

LONDON, July 22.—Eight hundred British troops have been sent from Cairo to Assouan.

ODESSA HARBOR.

A contract has been concluded with a German firm for the reconstruction of the harbor of Odessa at a cost of twenty million marks.

COAXING DESERTERS.

LONDON, July 22.—At Demiresch, near Adrianople, Russian agents are collecting soldiers who desert from the Bulgarian army at different points along the frontier. The Russians pay them liberally, give them alluring promises of early employment, and thus encourage deserters all over Bulgaria. Just what object the Russians seek to accomplish by this manœuvre is not quite clear. The matter has been brought to the attention of the Bulgarian representative at St. Petersburg, with instructions to request an explanation.

ANOTHER MANIFESTO.

LONDON, July 21.—Boulanger, Dillon and Rochefort are out to-day in a manifesto to their fellow-countrymen, in which they denounce the calumnies of the ministers, who, as they say, have themselves been convicted of peculations. They assert that the ministers have been making desperate attempts to extort from army officers, former subordinates of General Boulanger, charges of one sort or another against him, and that they are even now using public funds to obtain against the general perjured testimony from jail birds and convicts. The manifesto continues: "They appeal to the penal code but brought absolutely nothing against us. If they could have obtained the most trivial proof of misconduct on our part, it is not likely that they would risk, as they are risking now, prosecution of the assize court by negotiating with forgers to furnish evidence against us. It is to you, fellow-countrymen, that we appeal to judge between us and this gang of thieves. We await with serene confidence a sentence from which these bandits even now feel it coming, vainly endeavor to escape. Long live an honest republic."

No News.

The sealing schooner Aurora, built a couple of years ago at Plumper's Pass, arrived yesterday from Kodiak, making the run down in the very quick time of fifteen days. Capt. Adolphe says that he did not see any of the Victoria schooners on the trip, and only sighted two American craft going up, whose names he did not know. This is the Aurora's second trip this season. On the first trip she secured a trifle over 300 skins, and this time she returns with about 500, so that her entire catch so far this season amounts to about 800 seals.—Sunday's Colonist.

A Good Quartz Showing.

Mr. A. Shaw, the station agent, has returned from another prospecting trip in the vicinity of Big Mountain, about ten miles from Nanaimo Lakes. On his return from his previous trip, Mr. Shaw brought back specimens from different ledges which he has assayed, and with a very good showing. An assay made by Dr. Bredemeyer, of Vancouver, went $80 of copper to the ton and $0.95 in gold. Another sample assayed at the government offices in Victoria showed $80 copper and $3.86 silver, but no gold. The object of this last trip of Mr. Shaw's was to obtain a few more specimens, but at a depth below the surface, and for this purpose he sunk a shaft several feet in depth. The specimens were sent away this morning and it is thought the result of the assays will be known in a few days, and that they will be much more encouraging than the last one.—Free Press.

VICTORIA NEWS.

The Latest From the Behring Sea Sealers. Large Catches Reported and the Fleet was About to Enter Behring Sea.

Special to the COLUMBIAN.

VICTORIA, July 23.—The British schooner Wanderer arrived yesterday afternoon with over five thousand seal skins. The Wanderer was sent north to bring down the catch of the fleet. The people on the Wanderer are reticent and information is difficult to glean. The skins were transfered to the Wanderer the latter part of June at Sandy Point. The British sealing fleet was to have immediately gone into Behring Sea. All the skins were caught outside Behring Sea. They were sent down by the Wanderer so as to avoid the capture of the vessels. The revenue cutter Rush was at Sandy Point closely watching the movements of the schooners. She took up orders from the owners of American schooners for the captains to keep out of Behring Sea. Sealing men here expect there will be some seizures, but not many. There is only one cutter and she cannot patrol the whole of Behring Sea. When she makes a capture she will have to put a prize crew aboard and therefore could not handle all of the sealing schooners in the sea. Several sealing captains before leaving here made some rather wild talk of resistence, but it is generally thought it was but talk. However, no little anxiety is felt for further news from the disputed sea. The following schooners are reported. W. P. Sayward 458, Ariel 238, Sapphire 610, Black Diamond 283, Maggie Mac 630, Annie C. Moore 489, Juanita 32, Theresa, 198, Viva 872, Pathfinder 558, Walter L. Rich 823, Venture 317. The catch of the American schooners was about as follows: Lily L 520, Bessie Butler 250, Mollie Adams 500, Sandiego 100, Fowler 500, Allie E. Alger 253, J. H. Lewis 242. The Wanderer brought down the captain and two of the crew of the American schooner Webster. The Webster was cast away on the northern coast and became a total wreck. She was owned by Seattle parties. No lives were lost. The balance of the crew were transferred to the schooner Mollie Adams. Two men belonging to the schooner Adele of Oklahama stole a boat and deserted. It is believed they joined some other vessel. The Victoria schooner Lily was spoken on the return trip with 25 seal skins and four otters. The Triumph was also spoken recently with 200 skins.

W. C. T. U. Provincial Refuge.

"Refuge cities are a thing of the past, but refuge homes are a necessity of the present," so says the organized mother's love of British Columbia. Believing that actions speak louder than words, they have purchased in the city of Victoria a piece of ground with a suitable building upon it, No. 108, Cormorant st., and have named it the "W. C. T. U. Provincial Refuge Home," and are prepared, having fitted it up for the purpose, to open its doors wide and welcome to its shelter and protection any mother's girl wishing to leave a crooked life and retrace her steps to a life of purity. Such may there find friends, tender sympathy, and the loving guardianship of a Christian matron.

To avoid indolence an industrial department will furnish occupation for each inmate and at the same time contribute in some degree towards making the home self supporting.

The Provincial Women's Christian Temperance Union has been impelled to undertake this work of rescue by a sense of obligation to a class of the community for whose salvation no effort is being made by others and no hospitals or asylums provided.

It is well known that, with the increase in population of our towns and cities, there has also been a proportionate increase in the number of houses where, without license or protest from local authorities, the most degrading vices are practised and the vilest of liquors sold. Mother love, which is but the expression of God's love for His children, pleads with the city fathers, who have the vested power, and could do it if they would, to stamp out this monster evil at its source by pronouncing its existence a social crime. The safety of our own home purity demands this. But while the iniquity is tolerated, and the stream of pollution is allowed to flow through our streets, every good citizen is called upon in the name of common humanity to lend a helping hand, if, perchance, a few of the jewels of other homes may be rescued from the gutter into which they have been thrust.

The local conduct of the refuge has been entrusted to a managing board of twelve ladies, representing all the evangelical denominations, assisted by all the resident pastors of evangelical churches, and six business men, who constitute an advisory committee.

It will be readily perceived that an institution such as the one described cannot be maintained without considerable financial support. While gratefully acknowledging the generous assistance already given, which has made it possible to do what has been done, the board of management find it necessary to appeal to the public, through the local unions for further aid. Subscriptions will be circulated throughout the province by committees elected for the purpose, and we bespeak for them a kind and liberal response from all.

The provincial union having become an incorporate body, money or goods devoted to it will be secured for its use, and a provincial statement will be published from time to time by the treasurer of the refuge fund, for the information of contributors.

Reform work has ever its discouragements on account of failures. The Christian women keenly realize the magnitude of the task they have undertaken, therefore, they solicit for their project from all classes of the community that charity which will prevent unkindly criticisms tending to disparagement and opposition.—COM.

BOULANGER CRUSHED.

Boulanger and Count Dillon are Deprived of their Civil and Political Rights in France.

The People of Hawarden will Erect a Memorial in Honor of Gladstone's Golden Wedding.

The Queen's Savings and Expenditures are Discussed in Mr. Edmund Yates' Cable.

RIGHTS FORFEITED.

PARIS, July 23.—An order was issued by the high court of justice today, depriving Gen. Boulanger and Count Dillon of their civil and political rights in France, and declaring them inelligible for election to any office.

BOULANGISTS DISMISSED.

PARIS, July 23.—Forty more Boulangist office holders were yesterday dismissed from various offices.

THE ROYAL FUNERAL.

COPENHAGEN, July 23.—A number of the royal family and representatives of the Czar and of King Oscar, of Sweden, will be present at the funeral of Princess Augusta, of Hesse, sister of the queen.

GLADSTONE'S GOLDEN WEDDING.

LONDON, July 23.—The people of Hawarden propose to erect a monument in commemoration of the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone.

MR. YATES' CABLE.

LONDON, July 23.—The queen has quite recovered from the very bad attack of lumbago and sciatica from which she was suffering so badly a fortnight ago, and can walk and move about with ease. The colder weather has conduced much to her recovery. She was looking very much better the day she left Windsor. If the amount of the queen's savings is as large as reported namely over £800,000 she must have a large private fortune. She has purchased Balmoral and Osborne which cannot represent less, with outlying properties which she is always acquiring than half a million more, exclusive of Claremont, for which she paid a very large sum. She has, it is said, given large fortunes to some of her daughters on their marriage, as well as to her grand-daughters, the children of the grand duke of Hesse to the amount of $30,000. Her savings therefore in round numbers are something like $1,600,000. There is one item of the queen's expenditure which has always been overlooked or entirely forgotten, namely—the large sums which she has spent on memorials to the Prince Consort. The Albert memorial is said to have cost over $100,000. She has restored St. George's chapel, Windsor, in a most lavish manner, and must have spent vast sums at Frogmore on the mausoleum. It is said by those well able to judge her expenditure, on this one item alone she has spent nearly £20,000, which brings us beyond the two million pounds which the queen is believed to have saved.

ALBERT EDWARD.

The Prince of Wales is better than he was, but has been suffering from gout in the eyes and legs, which had been cured some time but has begun to trouble him again. He is undoubtedly worried by the opposition to the royal grant. Invitations to the Royal marriage can barely exceed fifty, so that many well known friends of the prince and princess will of necessity be absent. The duchess of Abercorn has worked very hard as the head of the ladies present committee and has the advantage of co-operation of such experienced organizers as Lady Grey, the duchesses of St. Albans, "Lady A" and Lady Roseberry. The list has been strictly confined to personal acquaintances. The Prince of Wales met General Boulanger at Lord Randolph Churchill's on Wednesday evening at a ball, possibly one of the most remarkable ever given in Connaught Place. The table was profusely decorated with roses, and as all ladies present were going off to Mrs. Oppenheim's boncert the ball display of jewels was unusually fine.

THE LABOR CONGRESS.

PARIS, July 22.—The labor congress to-day adopted resolutions calling upon the governments to oppose monopolies on raw materials and the necessaries of life, and urging the working classes to organize against trusts. The next congress will meet in Brussels in 1891.

THE ROYAL GRANT.

LONDON, July 22.—Besides Labouchere, the only other member of the royal grants committee who refuses to sign the committee's report is Mr. Bart, the radical member of Morpeth. Despite this practical unanimity, however, the report is certain to arouse the most violent storm against the royal family that has been known in England for a century, and one result is sure to be the prolongation of the present parliament into the end of August.

THE GERMAN EXPEDITION.

BERLIN, July 22.—The official report of the German military operations in Western Africa is published and contains some facts not yet cabled to America. The principle features of the campaign are already known. Capt. Wissman attacked and occupied the camp of Buschiri, who was himself wounded, and who lost 106 men in the fight. The German loss was three white and six black men. Four marines and three Soudanese were wounded. Capt. Wissman says his victory and destruction of the native camps, if not decisive, is at least very important in its bearings of the African question, but the march, under a torrid sun in a pestilential atmosphere through dense vegetation was difficult, and on the return the whole line of march was disorganized. Many white soldiers had to be carried by the blacks. All this proves that the use of European soldiers in such expeditions must necessarily be limited. Capt. Wissman says high tribute must be paid to the bravery of his Soudanese allies. The report notes that the German explorer has for the first time made use of horses in his operations, and dwells on the advantage which horsemen have in rising above the high grasses when in saddle. It is believed, however, that the climatic conditions of western Africa will prevent the importation of horses in large numbers.

It will be seen from a communinicated article elsewhere that the "Refuge Home" has been fairly inaugurated in Victoria, under the auspices of the provincial W.C.T.U. The object of this home is generally understood. The work is a branch of Christian rescue work among a hitherto practically neglected class in this province, although similar institutions and endeavors are not unknown in many of the larger centres of civilization throughout the world. Such a home is an absolute pre-requisite to any success in rescuing and reforming the unfortunate class whom it is proposed by the devoted women of the Women's Christian Temperance Union to endeavor to reach and save. It will require money to maintain the refuge home, and those of the public who take an interest in Christian and philanthropic work will no doubt be glad to assist in the indirect but substantial manner of subscriptions. A systematic canvass, it is understood, will be made by the ladies of the W.C.T.U. throughout the province in behalf of this work. It is unmistakably a legitimate Christian work, one which the founder of Christianity Himself has plainly stamped with His approval, and no one who professes the name of Christian can consistently with his profession, we should think, refuse it that aid or countenance within his power.

There are serious complaints in England against the present state of the law of libel. The London Era, it would appear, was sued for attacks upon a show. The truth of the charges was proved, but the newspaper had to pay heavy damages. The London Pall Mall Gazette also had to pay £1,500 for publishing a letter containing [illegible] against a circus. Warned by these hard experiences, the latter paper was afraid to print the complaint brought to the office by a man who said his child was being cruelly illused in a certain circus. The man went away in despair at being unable to obtain publicity for his wrongs. Like others whom the law refuses to deal with justly, he took matters into his own hands. He shot the manager of the circus dead. Then the newspapers, being released from the fear of being bankrupted by unjust verdicts for heavy damages, spoke out. They declared the treatment of the girl to have been brutal in the extreme. The newspapers, remarks an exchange, can doubtless stand the strange anomaly longer than the British public can. The law of libel seems, not only in British Columbia, but even in England and the United States to be away behind the age. In the cases cited above we have most forcible illustrations of the serious injury which results from the failure to protect the press in the reasonable and beneficent exercise of its legitimate functions. A clearer difference should be recognized and established by the law between real and so-called libel.

The leading English politicians have been discussing the question of a memorial to the late Mr. John Bright, says an exchange. Different opinions prevail as to how the memory of this great and good man may most suitably be honored. Lord Granville, it is said, declares that everybody agrees upon the idea of erecting a statue of the dead statesman somewhere within the precincts of the parliamentary halls which so often resounded with his eloquence. After this has been done there are several suggestions as to some further memorial. The foundation of a scholarship at one of the universities, the main object of which should be the promotion of international arbitration has been proposed. This, it was held, would harmonize with the well-known ideas of Mr. Bright on peaceful methods of conducting a controversy. Mr. Chamberlain does not favor such a memorial, as Mr. Bright was never identified during his lifetime with university work of any sort. In his opinion the establishment in Manchester, Birmingham, and Rochdale, where Mr. Bright passed much of his time, of training schools for nurses whose services could be given gratuitously to the poor, would be an acceptable plan. In the meantime a committee consisting of Lord Hartington, Earl Granville, Mr. Justin McCarthy and others will undertake the erection of a statue, and then the other projects will be considered. The movement is so very general and non-political that its success is declared to be assured.

We live in a conceited age. When we speak of the "nineteenth century" we do it with an accent on the "nineteenth" and instinctively raise our hat to the genius of the age. It is a great century, doubtless, but of utilitarian triumphs principally, more especially as to its latter half. Marvellous has been the advancement in the useful sciences and arts during the last fifty years. The idealistic in art and literature, has not flourished correspondingly, however, in that period; but to everything its appointed season. We cannot expect to have all the advantages and excellences crowded into our own age. If this were the case, we should likely get too bumptious for anything. The following, from the Edinburgh Review, which most will admit to be true, and humiliatingly true to a certain extent, while it detracts nothing from the lustre which achievement in other fields has shed upon this century and age, is fitted to knock a little of the overweening conceit out of nineteenth centurians. Says the Review: If we had to speak at large of the current literature of the age we should be obliged to confess that there has not been for many years a period more absolutely devoid of originality and genius. The fire which burned with such intensity in the earlier half of the present century is in its ashes. That astonishing array of writers of the first rank in poetry, in fiction, in history, in philosophy—writers so eminent and so original that their fame went forth into all lands and secured them a place in the records of all time—is extinct. Perhaps in science and in history some exceptions may still be found, but even in these branches the most eminent names belong rather to the past than to the present. In the myriad of books which are poured forth in ever increasing numbers by the press, it is rare to meet with one which will outlive the year or which deserves a longer life. The reason is plain. Such books are not created by the energy of the mind, but are manufactured from old materials. There is no greater proof of the extremely superficial character of modern education than the superficial character of the current literature. In place of grasping the substance of the great men and the great writers of old, people content themselves with their shadows on the wall. Biography, which is at this moment the most popular form of literature, consists in reducing to the smallest possible compass the heroes and sages of the past, and in inflating the posthumous reputation of the men of yesterday, by ransacking their desks and publishing their private letters. Indeed, it is a curious characteristic of the literature of the day that biography preponderates to an enormous extent over every other branch of composition. It would seem as if the present generation had nothing better to write about than the personal lives of their predecessors, and even of their cotemporaries. That "additional terror of death," which Lord Campbell was said to have invented when he wrote his "Lives of the Chancellors," has become as inevitable as what is called the "debt of nature." No man can be sure that he will escape the insatiable biographer who haunts the graveyards. Ancient and modern, old and young, in books for the library, in books for the railway stall, in reviews and magazines, even in our pages and in those of our most distinguished cotemporary, biography claims the first place and reigns supreme. It is a proof that the public care more for persons than for things, for the details of daily life than the originality of thought.

DIETETIC CRANKISM.

Why There Can Be No General Rule for Eating and Drinking.

A Chicago physician has recently taken the position that there are more people killed every year by insufficiency of nourishment than by overloading their stomachs. The fact is, he says, that most people do not eat enough, and, above all things, they do not eat meat enough. In direct opposition to this physician's opinion, says the San Francisco Chronicle, is the dictum of the celebrated Abernethy that one hundred people die of repletion to one of starvation. Wonderful as its advances have been, the science of healing is still far from being exact. Given the same subject, the same conditions, and two examining physicians, and the chances are that the diagnoses will be widely different.

One doctor will tell a patient that the palpitation of the heart from which he is suffering is due to permanent cardiac weakness; while the second will assure him that it is ascribable to indigestion, and it is only a temporary trouble. Post-mortem examinations play havoc with the concrete wisdom of an ante-mortem consultation; and a change of doctors without any change of disease invariably means a change of treatment. But the object of this article is not to arraign the medical profession, but to enter a protest against the harmful utterances of the hundred and one professors of dietetics who persist in confounding their own stomachs with every body else's stomach. A peculiarity of the authority on diet is that he is not content with any thing less than a cure-all.

Some time ago the announcement was made that the demon of dyspepsia must be drowned in hot water, taken as a drink. Forthwith the dyspeptics began to scald their insides and then wondered why that which was tender before grew to be tenderer still. Nor was the evil confined to this tenderness. The new order of calorohydropaths insisted that it was necessary to distend the stomach, and the stomach having once got into the habit of being distended, was constantly demanding distension. The desire so created was an urgent one, and a craving was set up which was quite as absolute in its way as that which arises from the use of ardent spirits or chloral.

Directly opposed to the hot-water drinkers were those who pinned their faith upon the sovereign efficacy of cold water as an article of diet. It is God's own brewing. "Adam's ale," they said, and the flowing streams, purling brooks and limpid lakes were pointed out as a pellucid proof that cold water was intended to be the universal drink of man. The stomach should be treated to a glassful of this natural liquor before breakfast and there would be no more dyspepsia, provided cold water was used and plenty of it. Then arose another sect who declared that much cold water was just as harmful as much hot water, and very little cold water should be drunk, and none at all unless it had been boiled. It was just as absurd, said this sect, for a man to drink water in its natural state as it was for him to eat carrots or sheep's trotters in their natural state. Every thing was full of low and dangerous forms of existence which had to be killed by heat before it was a fit article of food. Just as there were trichinæ in pork so there were microbes in water, and the man was a fool who ran the risk of taking in scarlet germs as he quenched his thirst at the purling brook or endangered his children's health by giving them horrid and unboiled bacteria out of the limpid lake.

Against the gentlemen of the kettle and cook-pot were arrayed the believers in an Edenic diet, who held that, so far as food was concerned, whatever is, is right, and that a raw turnip was a very fit turnip. Nothing must be cooked, not even rice, and all that was necessary to achieve a lusty and well-preserved old age was to feed on uncooked vegetables and munch on unboiled cereals. These are but few examples of the stupid way in which some one particular food or fashion of feeding has been made to do duty as a general nostrum. The school of common sense is a good one to consult sometimes, and if its practitioners have only succeeded in mastering the truth that what is one man's meat is another man's poison, they have, at any rate, reached a safe seat. There can be no general rule for eating, and the sooner we come to that conclusion the better. Age, climate, occupation, constitution have all to be considered before attempting any experiments in nutrition.

BICYCLE FOR SALE.

A Young Athlete Tells Why He Is Willing to Sacrifice His Machine.

I have been working very hard lately, and as a consequence have been in rather poor health for the last few days, says a writer in Texas Siftings. So last week I called on our family doctor and asked him for relief. Instead of giving me a prescription he familiarly asked me a lot of impudent questions about matters that concerned only myself, and wound up by telling me I needed exercise, and very strongly advised me to get me a bicycle, and I at once ordered one.

It came in due time and I was very well pleased with it. It had a nickel-plated complexion with enameled mane and tail, and was really quite a nice-looking article. The next day I hired a small boy to bring it out in the woods for me, as I did not care to learn to ride with the public gaze on me.

It was a beautiful spring day; the egg plant was just beginning to lay and the rail fences were in bloom. Over in the woods a piece a Shanghai rooster was cooing to his mate, the farmer in the next field was planting hoop-poles, and I could distinctly hear the animated twitter of an excited pig. In short, all nature seemed gay, etc., as per spring poet.

Then for the first time I got on my bicycle. It was also the last time.

There are several ways of falling off a bicycle. Some are easier than others, but when you start to fall you don't have a chance to stop and reflect about how you want to light, but you just keep right on falling, and if there are any reflections to be made you make them after you have reached terra firma.

I have known men to create a small sensation by falling from a bicycle and then making audible reflections about it. It is cheaper for a beginner to engage a physician by the year. He should not try to ride it on first receiving it, but should get some experienced friend to break it in for him.

After he has learned how to fall off without lighting on his head or breaking cuticle off his system let him arise, gird up his suspenders and try to go somewhere. It would be as well to take a man along to bring it back, for he may want to walk; or he may come home on a shutter. When he has been thrown till he can't navigate and does not need his wheel any more he will probably take a hatchet and spoil the symmetry of its voluptuous outlines. This is a poor plan. He can return it to the factory and they will pay him one-third price for it.

Then he can pay his doctor bill.

P. S.—Any one wishing to purchase a nice new bicycle that has only been fallen from once and is warranted not to buck, shy or balk, will secure a bargain by applying to the undersigned.

I am taking my bicycle rides on foot now.

A Counting Contrivance.

Some genius has just made a most elaborate affair specially designed to facilitate the tallying of tabulated statistics. His method consists essentially in first recording the data relating to each person by punching holes in the sheets or strips of electrically non-conducting material (paper) and then counting or tallying these data, either separately or in combination, by means of mechanical counters operated by electro magnets, the circuits through which are controlled by the perforated cards or strips.

What the Widow Had.

A New England Sunday-school teacher had for a lesson the story of the Prophet Elijah and the widow whose whole supply of food, when the man of God asked for refreshment, was "not a cake, but a handful of meal in a barrel and a little oil in a cruse." When the teacher asked her class how much food the widow had, the answer came quickly from one little fellow: "She had just enough meal to make a cake and oil enough to start a fire."

OF NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C.

The advantages and prospects of this Plot for a future thriving Town are many.

The Land in the vicinity is good.

There are inexhaustible IRON ORE DEPOSITS, of a superior quality, immediately adjacent, as well as vast strata of the finest BUILDING SAND and POTTERY CLAY.

On the Townsite are a number of valuable MINERAL SPRINGS.

Communication by land and water is unequalled, by reason of the location of the Townsite on the Fraser River and the Southern Railway, while the natural elevation and lay of the land can not be excelled as a situation for a fine town.

The ground is open and clear of heavy timber.

The site has been selected as one of the most important stations on the Southern Railway, and with the completion of the road, in the near future, must, with all its other advantages, spring into prominence at once.

Those who apply early will have the pick of the Lots.

A clear title given with every purchase.

A. M. Nelson advertises some valuable farm property, only three and a half miles from the city, to be sold at his large auction sale at the Colonial hotel, on Saturday, August 31st.

W. F. Hayden, of the C. P. R. despatcher's office, Vancouver, was married at Winnipeg on Saturday to Miss Ida Foule, daughter of Aubrey Foule, Charlottetown, P. E. I. The couple left for the terminal city Sunday.

By an order passed at the council meeting last night, all goods for the city must be obtained on requisition from the city clerk or his deputy, otherwise the city will not be held responsible for the payment of the same.

Work on the park improvement contract is proceeding so slowly that the city council is taking steps to either have the work vigorously prosecuted or taken out of the contractor's hands, if a stipulated amount of work is not performed by August 1st.

The contract for the Bushby block was awarded this morning, Mr. E. Burns being the successful tenderer. The contract price is in the neighborhood of $30,000. Work will be commenced immediately and pushed forward to a finish with the least possible delay.

Mr. James Ellard, in charge of the smallpox hospital on Poplar Island, reports two more cases—that of Nickerson, the barber, whose wife and child were among the first three patients, and have recovered, and an Indian woman belonging to a camp below the city on the river.

A. C. Wilson laid on our table to-day a beautiful specimen of the Lilium Auratum or as it is known in English, "Gold Banded Lily." The lily was cut from Mr. A. J. McColl's garden on Blackwood street, and is a very fine specimen of this species. It measured 14 inches across, and is in color exquisite.

Salmon averaged about 150 fish to the boat yesterday and last night the catch was about the same. To-day, however, the catch has fallen off greatly and many boats had not netted 20 fish up to noon. By the end of this week the run will have definitely assorted itself one way or another, but at present the outlook is blue.

The tenders for the improvement of Agnes street were opened last night and that of Bradshaw & Co. being the lowest the contract was awarded to them. The contract price is $2,250. All the tenders for the improvement of Patrick street being above the amount appropriated none were accepted and another call for tenders will be made.

Port Moody continues this season, as ever, to be a favorite summer seaside resort. Quite a number of our citizens are enjoying themselves along the placid and beautiful shores of the "statutory terminus" harbor, far—but not very far—from the maddening strife, toil and dust of the "twin cities." The delightful sea bathing this hot weather is the great attraction.

An immense run of salmon made their appearance off Albert Head yesterday, and are at present affording the best of sport for Victoria fishermen, who have hastened to the spot. The fish are chasing the sardines, moving rapidly in the direction of the Fraser, where they will probably arrive about Tuesday. Among the heavy fish caught yesterday was one which tipped the beam at 38 pounds. —Colonist, July 21.

The Colonist gives the following, the scene being Beacon Hill, Victoria: Time: 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Dramatis personæ, policeman and small boy, the latter tickling the bear with a cane. Policeman (approaching officiously). "See here, now, you mustn't meddle with the bear." Boy—"But the bear likes it." Policeman—"It doesn't make any difference if the bear does like it. The park committee don't." (Exit small boy, while the listeners smile.)

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

The Railway Arrangements.

The president and directors of the Southern Railway Co. and their attorney, together with Mr. Nelson Bennett, president of the Fairhaven Southern R. R. and his attorney, have been in session all day concluding the final arrangements whereby the Southern Railway will be built and operated in conjunction with the Fairhaven line by Mr. Bennett. The conditions of the agreement and other particulars regarding the building and operating of the line will be made public to-morrow or the next day, or as soon as the final arrangements are completed.

Another Victim.

Early Sunday morning a small boat, painted blue and white, was picked up by Indians employed by the Bon Accord Fishing Co., a short distance above the cannery. The boat, which is said to be owned by a half-breed Kanaka living at Maple Ridge, contained six bottles of whiskey, a new blanket, a pipe, two oarlocks and one oar. It is surmised that the occupant lost one oar and, in making an effort to recover it, probably lost his balance and fell into the water. Nothing has been heard of him. The Indians who discovered the empty boat took it to the cannery, where it now is.

A Harmless Runaway.

A very exciting incident occurred on Clinton street last night, but which, fortunately, was unattended by serious results. Messrs. W. & G. Wolfenden's delivery wagon was being driven down Clinton street when the spirited little horse attempted to run away. The driver did his best to restrain the animal, but it made an unexpected dash sideways, completely overturning the vehicle and placing the horse in such a position that it could do no further harm except to the harness from which it speedily loosened itself and scampered off. The driver was covered by the wagon but escaped without injury. The horse only suffered a few scratches.

Firing a Cannon Across the Continent.

St. John, N. B., opened its electrical exhibition yesterday morning, and Mayor Oppenheimer, of Vancouver, by concerted action, at precisely 11:26, touched a button in the C. P. R. telegraph office at the "terminal city" and sent a current of electricity across the continent that fired the gun at St. John in the opening of the exhibition, in the "blue nose" city. The officials of Vancouver in the telegraph office at this end of the wire did not hear the report of the gun but a few minutes after a message was flashed back from St. John that the cannon had boomed with the usual noise. Verily we are the people, and great is the wizard electricity.

The Big Drum.

A petition was presented to the city council last night, signed by 40 teamsters and citizens, asking that the Salvation army be restricted from using their big drum and other noisy instruments in their street parades. The council was unanimous that the big drum was a nuisance and dangerous owing to its effects on spirited horses but it was pointed out that the parade and its accompanying noises were perfectly legal and the army could not be forced to desist if it wished to continue them. On motion of Ald. Curtis the city clerk was instructed to request the army to abolish the big drum from its street parades, and if this is done it will give general satisfaction.

The Hospital Lots Sale.

The sale of the Royal Columbian hospital lots, situated on Agnes street, which Mr. Trapp conducted at the Colonial hotel last night, proved conclusively that real estate is still on the rise in Westminster. The six lots in the block were all purchased by Mr. A. M. Herring and the prices paid were as follows: Lot 13, $1,175; lot 14, $1,265; lot 15, $1,405; lot 16, $1,550; lot 17, $1,700; lot 18, $2,350; the latter being the lot on the corner of Clonmiff street. The hospital buildings were also purchased by Mr. Herring for the small sum of $100. Another parcel, lot 4 block 17, was purchased by Mr. Michael Clark for $1,030. These prices are considered highly satisfactory, and the hospital directors are pleased with the results of the sale.

Killed by A Falling Tree.

On Saturday afternoon a man named John Stewart, of Mount Lehman, was killed by a falling tree near the Junction. Stewart was working near a tree that had been partly cut, but had sufficient of its trunk intact to keep it standing. A sudden strong gust of wind struck the tree and it toppled over, splitting about 16 feet above the ground and fell, crushing Stewart to the earth. Death was instantaneous, and it is almost certain the victim of the sad accident never knew he had been struck. When the body was extricated from beneath the tree the head was found to be terribly crushed and both arms and both legs broken. The deceased was 50 years of age and was a married man. Mr. Coroner Ferris was notified of the fatality and proceeded to the junction yesterday where he at once held an inquest. The jury brought in a verdict of "accidental death."

City Council.

The city council met at 8 o'clock last night for the transaction of business. Present—Aldermen Curtis, Reid, McPhaden, Jaques, Townsend, and Scoullar.

His worship Mayor Hendry in the chair.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From G. A. Stinson, broker, Toronto, asking for information concerning the issuance of the bonus by-law debentures. Received and filed.

Dr. I. M. McLean, health officer, stating that complaints had been made of a nuisance existing along the upper side of Columbia street in rear of the stores between Mary & McKenzie streets advising that the parties on whose property the nuisances are be compelled to have them removed.

Ald. Townsend reported that he had the nuisances above referred to removed.

From Thos. Hembrough & Co., asking permission to lay building material on Columbia street opposite Lytton Square. Granted under the usual conditions.

From W. S. Gore, surveyor general, announcing that B. Douglas had applied for 3,000 inches of water to be taken from the Brunette river in the vicinity of lot 1, group 4, for manufacturing purposes, and stating that as the interests of Westminster may possibly be affected by the monopoly of water from a stream which lies partly within the city limits the government had decided not to take action in the matter until the council had an opportunity of expressing an opinion.

Ald. Jaques said as Mr. Douglas required the water for manufacturing purposes only the city could have no objections to his getting it.

Ald. Townsend understood Mr. Douglas intended building a large tannery on the Brunette and therefore he ought to be encouraged.

Ald. McPhaden also thought the city should place no obstacle in the way of Mr. Douglas' application.

Ald. Curtis moved that the government be informed that the council had no objections to Mr. Douglas' application. Carried.

From the Hon. John Robson, provincial secretary, acknowledging receipt of communication re right of the city to tax certain recently acquired territory, and advising the city to levy and collect the tax, leaving the government to its remedy and thereby effect a solution of the difficulty. Referred to the finance committee.

From Mayor Oppenheimer, of Vancouver, asking for a dozen maps of the municipalities in the district of New Westminster. Request granted.

A petition from J. W. Andrezjewski, C. McDonough and 38 others, citizens and teamsters, respectfully representing that the noise made by the Salvation Army is a nuisance, and not only endangers the petitioner's property but their lives, and asking that the chief of police be instructed to cause the said organization to desist when on their parades, from using their drums and other noisy instruments to the danger of the petitioner's lives and property.

Ald. Townsend said the big drum should certainly be stopped as it was a real danger to both lives and property.

Ald. Scoullar was of the same opinion, and he thought there was room enough for their music on some public squares.

Ald. McPhaden and Reid were also of the opinion the big drum should be stopped.

Ald. Jaques thought the little drum was the worse of the two.

Ald. Curtis suggested that the army should be requested to abate the nuisance. It had been tried to silence the drum in other cities but without avail.

On motion the clerk was instructed to request the Salvation Army to do away with the big drum.

From F. G. Strickland & Co., stating that they intend making a large exhibit at the coming exhibition providing sufficient space is allowed in the main building, and offering to furnish steam-power to any other parties exhibiting. Referred to the agricultural society.

From W. E. Dickinson, asking permission to sink a post on Columbia street, below the level of the street opposite the Armstrong block. Referred to the board of works with power to act.

From F. C. Stover, agent for Gamewell Fire Alarm Co., inclosing estimate for a fire alarm telegraph system to cost complete $1,830. Referred to fire committee and chief engineer to report on at the next meeting.

From Lowenberg, Harris & Co., asking permission to remove certain wooden buildings from lot 7 block 5. Permission granted under the usual conditions.

From Lowenberg, Harris & Co., agreeing to pay $1 per foot front for the use of a portion of McKenzie street for 90 days.

Received and filed.

REPORTS.

The fire committee reported favorably on Mr. Bell's account; also that the present fire hose and coupling are sufficient for the present. Report adopted.

The park committee reported that it met Saturday night to receive specifications for the agricultural building to be erected on Queen's park prepared by Mr. G. W. Grant, architect, and would respectfully recommend their adoption; and we also decided to call for tenders for the erection of the said building, tenders to be in by Friday next, and would suggest that a special meeting for Friday night be called to award contract for same, as we feel that no time can be lost; also after hearing Mr. Binnie's report on the amount of work done by the contractor on Queen's park and a personal inspection of said work by your committee, we are of the opinion that under the existing state of affairs it would be impossible for the contractor to finish the work in the time specified, and we would urge the council to take immediate steps to have the work more vigorously prosecuted or else the grounds will not be in any condition to hold the exhibition this fall.

Ald. Scoullar said the contractor was employing so few men that the work would not be done within the specified time.

Ald. Jaques suggested that the contractor's bondsmen be notified that they will be held responsible if the work is not finished in time.

On motion it was decided that unless the park contractor has five acres cleared and finished by August 1st the job will be taken out of his hands by the park committee.

The report was then adopted.

The board of works reported having appointed Thos. Binnie a superintendent of work, also that we intend raising the water in the ravine under the public library up to near the surface of Columbia street and carrying same down Lytton square to the river, and that the city engineer will prepare plans and call for tenders without delay; and we beg to recommend that in the future all supplies required for city purposes must be obtained on requisition from the city clerk or his deputy on an order from the chairman of the committee requiring the same; and this council will not hold itself responsible for any goods obtained without such requisition, and notice to this effect be inserted in the newspaper for 30 days; that the tender of Bradshaw & Co. for the improvement of Agnes st., at $2,250, being the lowest be accepted; also that the tenders for the improvement of St. Patrick street being too high none be accepted and another call for tenders be made. Report adopted.

The specifications for the park buildings were referred to the park committee with power to act.

The committee on water lots reported as follows, "We find that by the leases, taxes, if any, are to be paid by tenants, and by the by-law of 1883 in reference to water lots, that this agreement to pay taxes must be embodied in the lease, which lease must be in the form set forth in the act of 1874, which calls for the tenant to pay taxes if any; and we also find that taxes are leviable upon water lots under the New Westminster act, 1888, but we recommend that taxes on water lots and improvements be remitted for this year, giving your council and the tenants sufficient time for the readjustment of the matter of leases, as some of the leases have expired and some will terminate at an early date; this will give an opportunity to adjust the whole matter so as to conform to the by-law of 1883, or amend the same if necessary.

His worship said the committee had given the matter consideration and found that the plan advised was the best that could be proposed.

On motion the report was laid on the table till Friday.

Ald. Scoullar retracted the statements he had made concerning the appointments on the water works staff, and withdrew his resignation as chairman of the water works committee.

Ald. Jaques thought the strip of land at the corner of Prevost and Blackwood streets should be purchased from Dr. Fagan to widen Prevost st. to its proper width.

Ald. Curtis said it would have to be widened sooner or later and Dr. Fagan was willing to sell it for $1,200, which was a rather stiff price.

Aldermen Scoullar, Reid and Jaques all considered that this lot, and a lot from Holy Trinity church, should be purchased without delay.

Ald. Curtis thought Bishop Sillitoe would be glad to give a few hundred dollars towards widening the street as it would greatly improve his property.

On motion the matter was left in the hands of the finance committee with power to act.

Ald. Curtis reported that the vote collectors had collected five hundred new votes.

Moved by Ald. Scoullar and seconded by Ald. Reid, that the debentures mentioned in the act 52, Vic. chap. 33 be disposed of and the proceeds placed to the credit of the mayor to be paid out under the agreement in the said act mentioned, and according to the terms thereof, but so as that every estimate upon which payment is made shall first be signed by the mayor or acting mayor; provided that the surplus, if any, over $150,000 which may be realized from the said debentures shall be retained by the treasurer, and provided also that a bond to the satisfaction of the manager of the bank of British Columbia at New Westminster, required by the said act, shall be given to the city before the said debentures or any of them are disposed of.

The council then adjourned.
