NOTES AND COMMENTS.

It is believed that the new Irish University bill foreshadowed by Mr. Balfour will provide for a special charter and a separate endowment for a Catholic university, completely independent of existing institutions. The government's concession on this point is likely to strain the relations between the Parnellites and the Radicals.—Ex.

In a recent sermon a Western anti-tobacco clergyman put the matter in this way:—"It is well understood, my brethren, that we shall continue to do in the next world what we most enjoy doing in this world. Therefore those who smoke in this world will smoke in the world to come, yea, they will smoke with the fire that quencheth not." This is an original as well as startling exegesis, remarks an exchange.

An interesting innovation in the method of catching cod has just been made the by French fishermen coasting off Newfoundland. They catch large periwinkles, remove the shells, and use the creatures for bait. The cod, it is said, have bitten eagerly at the new bait, and the owners of the French vessels have caught fish so fast that they were able to sail for France in the first week of July, instead of October as usual. In England the whelk has long been used for the same purpose.

Sunset glows, similar to those which were after the Krakato eruption of 1883, have recently been noted in New York State, and also in the Sandwich Islands. At the same time remarkable conditions have manifested themselves on one portion of the surface of the sun, which appears to be the centre of something like volcanic activity. The glows of 1883 and 1884 have been attributed to volcanic dust arising from the Krakatoa explosion. Perhaps those of last month are due to an eruption on the sun.

Says the Mail: The triple alliance between Germany, Austrian-Hungary, and Italy has virtually became a quadruple one, Great Britain having announced her friendliness to it, and formally declared that she finds in it a guarantee of European peace. Russsia and France, therefore, are the only two great powers at present free to create a disturbance. But even if an alliance between them for mischievous purposes were possible they would scarcely dare to face the extraordinary military and naval combination which now controls the situation.

The following has more than a local application: "Speaking about judges," remarked an attorney, "Judge Garry is the man that understands his business. They were securing a jury in his court the other day, and all the lawyers were talking at once. Judge Garry sat back in his chair and let 'em rattle on, when suddenly an old German got up in the jury-box and said: 'Shudge, I vant ter go home.' 'You can't; you're on the jury.' 'Vell, I don't vant ter shtop on der jury. I understand not vhat der lawyers say.' 'Well, nobody else does. Sit down, you are the right kind of a juryman."

A few days ago, says an exchange, it was impossible to find a Protestant minister in Waterbury, Conn., a city of 30,000 inhabitants, to perform a marriage ceremony. S. H. Platt, of that city, whom we take to be the Rev. S. H. Platt, now engaged in the practice of medicine, is out in a card, in which he asks: "Would it not be well to so arrange vacations that there should be one minister, at least, constantly in a city of this size?" No other profession or public function is so misused as that of the ministry. The physician who would go away without making arangements for his patients would not long retain a practice."

It is reported from Milan that the Baroness Cautoni, a young lady of nineteen, celebrated for her beauty as well as for her startling originality, has announced her intention of undertaking a journey into the interior of Africa. She will be accompanied by a relative, an elderly lady belonging to the Austrian aristocracy and attended by several male and female servants. An officer in the Italian army has undertaken to lead the expedition, and is already busily engaged in making arrangements. The party will set out on November 1, and their tour will last a year. After a call at Aden, Masowah will be visited, and thence the Baroness with her followers will penetrate into the interior of the continent.

Mr. Abram S. Hewitt, ex-Mayor of New York, was interviewed the other day, on his return from Europe, on the subject of the proposed World's Fair in 1892. He appeared to be anything but favourably impressed with the scheme, and ridiculed the ide of asking foreign nations to exhibit their goods in the United States at a time when the country has a trade policy designed to keep foreign products out of it. "If we invite foreign nations to join in the exhibition," he said, "we ought not to legislate to exclude their goods. If we do they won't come." Mr. Hewitt's idea was that the exhibition should be an American display—one designed to show the progress of the three Americas.

POOR LEGITIME.

The Defeated Haytien President Arrives at New York and Will Go to Paris.

Hon. Mr. Gladstone is Presented With an Address at the Paris Exposition.

Graham, Who Claims to Have Gone Over Niagara Falls in a Barrel, is Exposed.

A GREAT FRAUD.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 6.—The evening News to-day publishes a complete exposure of Graham's alleged trip over the falls last Sunday. The affair showed such mystery and bore such palpable evidence of fraud, that the News set out to prove it another of those sensational fakes. The exposure in substance is: Frank T. Haggarty, stenographer of the surrogate court, of this city, states that he was fishing in the river near Lasalle last Saturday. At Lasalle he met Garret J. Stanley, who said he was employed by Graham to cut loose his barrel on the following morning and send him over the falls in it. Haggarty proposed to Stanley to accompany him and help him to release the barrel, Stanley consented and the men went in a boat down to Prospect point, just above the falls. There they met a man whom Haggarty thinks is Devera, the theatrical manager. He also said he was watching for the barrel. They also met Constable Horn, who was said to have taken Graham out of the barrel below the falls. Horn and Stanley remained with Haggarty till after the hour at which it is claimed the barrel with Graham in it came over the falls. "We saw no barrel," said Haggarty, "nor did any go over the falls all that time. Stanley was with me constantly until we returned to Lasalle. We did not leave the point till nearly 7 o'clock. We did not see Graham all all. It is my belief he and the barrel were below the falls and never came up above. Below the falls he entered it and was pushed off into the river."

As Graham claims to have been sent over the falls at a quarter to six o'clock Sunday, the barrel must have passed Prospect Point before that hour, and while the men were watching for it. That it did not do so and that Stanley, who was to have cut it loose, did not see it at all, is pretty conclusive proof the whole thing was a "fake." Haggarty is a perfectly trustworthy gentleman, and his statement can be implicitly relied upon.

FIFTY BODIES RECOVERED.

EDINBURGH, Penn., Sept. 6.—Fifty dead bodies have been taken from the Maurice Wood Colliery, at Penicuck, in which the explosion occurred.

EDITOR DEAD.

BOSTON, Sept. 6.—Edward B. Rankin, aged 46, reporting editor of the Boston Herald died this morning of heart disease.

AN UNPROFITABLE TRIP.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6. The schooner Norway, Capt. Winslow, arrived in port last evening. The Norway left port on May 23rd last for Holham Inlet, Alaska, being cleared by the Silver Salmon Packing Company. She carried up a full cargo of cannery supplies for a cannery company that intended establishing. It was learned that on account of the shallowness of the water the Norway could not get to the inlet and she returned with the same cargo she took away.

A SAVAGE FIGHT.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—A savage slugging match took place near Jersey City early this morning. The principals were George Tracy, of Hoboken, and Mike Davin, of Jersey City, professional light weights. The men wore skin-tight gloves with the fingers cut off. They fought seven rounds, in the third of which Davin sent Tracy to the floor. When the latter got up he caught Davin in the mouth, knocking all his front teeth out. Then there was give and take, and soon both men's faces presented the appearance of pieces of raw beefsteak. In the 7th round Tracy let go a stinger on Davin's eye. In striking, Tracy's thumb caught in the corner of the eye and the eye was nearly gouged out. This almost crazed Davin and he rained blow after blow on Tracy's face until he knocked him out.

A LONG SENTENCE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—Henry Hill, who robbed the stage at Susanville last Friday, pleaded guilty and has been sentenced to 17 years in state prison.

THE EFFECT IN BOSTON.

BOSTON, Sept. 5.—Upwards of 200 stevedores, longshoremen, and freight handlers, were idle at the Hoosac dock to-day on account of the great London strike, which detains three ships of the Furness line in London.

THE CRONIN TRIAL.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Twenty-seven talesmen were examined in the Cronin murder case to-day. When the court adjourned, all had been excused for cause except George A. Creighton and E. E. Graham; they will be held over until to-morrow. Freeman Gross still remains the only juror who has been passed by both sides, but it is possible he too will be dropped; as under the ruling of Judge McConnell, the right of peremptory challenge may be exercised until the twelfth man has been passed by both sides.

THE ANCON'S SUCCESSOR.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5.—The twin screw steamer Corona will replace the wrecked Aucon.

THE DEFEATED PRESIDENT.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—General Legitime, the defeated president of the Haytian republic, arrived here this morning on the str. Manhattan, of Ward's line. Accompanying Legitime were the members of his family and his generals. The party left Port Au Prince August 22nd on a merchant vessel and went to Cuba where they boarded the Manhattan last Saturday at San Diego. The party on landing was met by Minister Preston and Consul Des Landero, and escorted to Hotel Martin, University Place, where they remain until Saturday, when they sail on the str. La Bretagne for Paris.

A PIT ON FIRE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—The Maurice Wood Ironstone pit, at Midlothian, is on fire. Sixty-two miners are in the pit and the chances of saving them are very small. Two bodies have been recovered and workmen are endeavoring to reach the others.

BELIEVES HER SEDUCER.

TORONTO, Sept. 5.—Wm. H. Dean, a Toronto printer who was arrested at Newmarket and brought here charged under the Charlton act with seduction, and also on a charge of the abduction of Miss Marion Atkinson, a 15-year-old girl in short dresses, was before the police court this morning and remanded. They registered at Newmarket as man and wife. The girl says he promised to marry her, but when they got to Newmarket he found he could not afford to do so for a while. She has confidence in him and says she is sure he will marry her when the case comes up for trial.

MANITOBA WHEAT.

PORT ARTHUR, Sept. 5.—The first car of this season's crop of Manitoba wheat arrived here at the elevator yesterday. It was an excellent sample and graded No. 1 hard.

THE ELLIOTT ABORTION CASE.

TORONTO, Sept. 5.—Henry Parry, who some time ago was alleged to be concerned in having secured the abortion of a woman, Mrs. Elliot, now in the hospital, and whose death is hourly expected, was arrested last night. At court this morning Barry was remanded to await developments in the widow's case.

COL. O'BRIEN'S OPINION.

TORONTO, Sept. 5.—Col. O'Brien, in a letter to the Mail, says: "I look upon any decision regarding the validity of the Jesuits' estates as a matter of minor importance. The principle of aggression that it contains is the theory to be watched and fought against, and there should be no stay of action to that end. Remember the hare and the tortoise. The paper says the ministers did not hesitate to disallow the Manitoba charters which on their own admission were ultra vires on the theory that to let the settler have competitive lines would be to injure the Canadian Pacific monopoly, enacted by law in other parts of the Northwest and therefore to prejudice the general welfare. They were asked to do nothing so sweeping in the present instance.

THE OTTAWA MATCHES.

OTTAWA Sept. 5.—The weather today at the Dominion rifle association meeting, although somewhat dull, was not unfavorable for good shooting. Yesterday's fish tail wind gave place to a slight wind which it was much easier for the marksman to conquer. The standing match was open to all members of the association and consisted of seven shots at 200 yards with Snider rifles. Color-Sergt. Boville, of the 43th Battalion, was first with 33; Sergeant Hall, of the 70th, was second with 32 points. Snider aggregate: Sergeant Goodwin, of the 13th, with 129 points. Rideau match with Snider rifles: Captain Bishop, of the 63rd, with 33 points. Ouimet match, Sergeant Crooks, Q. O. R., 33 points; Sergeant Hall, of the 79th, made a grand aggregate with 287. In the Rideau match Private Chamberlain, of the New Westminster rifles, won $6 with 28 points. He won $4 with 28 points in the standing match. In the Ouimet match Private Cotton, of the New Westminster rifles, won $10 with 32 points. Sir John presented the prizes this evening.

STEAMBOAT COLLISION.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—During a dense fog this morning the iron steam yacht Electra, owned by Commodore Gerry, of the New York yacht club, while anchored in the East river, off 23rd street, was run into by the Fall river steamboat, Providence. The Providence was loaded with passengers and for some time a panic ensued but it was quickly allayed when the steamboat backed out in the stream and it was found that what damage had been done was above the water line. The stanchions and flooring of the middle deck had been carried away and two state rooms had their fronts completely ripped off by the bowsprit of the Electra. No one reported hurt. In the collision the yacht heeled over and considerable damage was done to her by the water pouring in.

A LIVELY BRIDAL TOUR.

DENVER, Col., Sept. 3.—A novel bridal tour is what a newly married couple is at the present time enjoying. Several months ago Charles Fish, a clerk in a San Francisco store, while attempting to board a ferryboat made a misstep and fell over some ropes into the arms of Mary Rathburn, daughter of a retired merchant. With an apology the young man departed. A few nights afterward the pair met at a party, and from that time on a friendship sprang up between the two. Finding that the girl's parents were opposed to the match, the couple a few weeks later eloped and were married at Sacramento. The young man having only $33, told his wife if they could manage to reach New York all would be well, as he had wealthy relatives there. The girl took off her dresses and adorned herself in male attire. Their adventures since then would fill a book From Sacramento the pair beat their way over the Central Pacific road by riding on freight trains and on the trucks of passenger coaches. A week ago Ogden was reached, and being desirous to see some of Colorado's scenery, the Rio Grand was selected. After having been put off half a dozen trains the couple reached Denver. As it happened the Union Pacific ran a grand army excursion train out that night, and by strategy the couple managed to go on the train in the capacity of porters. By to-night Omaha will have been reached, and it is more than probable that the pair will get through to Chicago, reaching New York some time next month. The girl is extremely pretty and scarcely nineteen, while her husband is three years her senior.

The C.P.R. freight department decided to-day to make a reduction of 10 cents per 100 lbs on freight between this city and New Westminster This is equivalent to a reduction of 50 per cent. The citizens of Vancouver and also of the fresh-water terminus will be vastly pleased at this lowering of the rates charged.—Thursday's World.

The corner stone of the new Bloor street Presbyterian church, Toronto, was laid yesterday afternoon by Rev. Dr. McLaren. The church will cost $60,000 and will seat 1,200 people.

STRIKERS PARADE.

A Hundred Thousand Strikers in Procession Demonstrate the Strike is Not Ended.

Four Thousand Immigrants Leave England by Three Steamships Yesterday.

The Final Deposit Made for the Great Race Between O'Connor and Searle.

THE STRIKE STILL ON.

LONDON, Sept. 6.—Notwithstanding nearly 500 strikers returned to work yesterday, fully 100,000 marched in procession last night, demonstrating that the strike is still in full swing.

GLADSTONE ADDRESSED.

PARIS, Sept. 6.—Gladstone paid a visit to the Pondicherry section of the exposition to-day, and was presented with some rare specimens of Indian art. In reply to an address of welcome, Gladstone said the universe was indebted to the French republic for the exhibition, forming as it did, a veritable school which the people of the world should attend.

IMPORTANT INTERVIEW.

LONDON, Sept. 6.—Cardinal Manning, the lord mayor and Bishop of London and Sir John Lubbock, had an interview with the dock directors and shippers to-day with a view to reaching a settlement of the strike.

FOUR THOUSAND PASSENGERS.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 6.—The Teutonic, City of New York and City of Rome, which sailed yesterday for New York, carried nearly 4,000 passengers, the largest number ever carried by three steamers sailing on the same day.

REJECTED THE EIGHT HOUR SYSTEM.

LONDON, Sept. 6.—The trades union congress sitting at Dunde, rejected a resolution this morning favoring a working standard of eight hours per day by a vote of 88 to 63.

WORK HALF TIME.

MANCHESTER, Sept. 6.—Owing to the squeeze in the Liverpool cotton market and indications that a corner will be successfully carried, the united cotton spinners' society, at a meeting to-day, adopted a resolution to work the mills on half time for a month, beginning Monday.

TRYING RUSSIA.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—Little by little the German army is being increased. Since the opening of the year four corps have been added, and now the emperor has given orders for the formation of a fifth, with headquarters at Bromberg on the eastern frontier. This move is evidently intended as a reply to Russia, who continues to mass her troops upon her western frontier, and in this way the Emperor William serves notice upon the czar that he does not mean to be caught napping. The German press comments upon this latest move of the emperor as full of significance. It is pointed out that, contrary to the usual custom in such cases, there is no attempt at concealment. The emperor seems to have taken special pains to give the fullest possible publicity to his plan to mass a formidable force on the Russian frontier. This the German press accept as a note of defiance. The more sensational of the Berlin papers go so far as to say that this indicates a determination on the part of the emperor to force Russia's hand. Should Russia reply by further increasing her force on the German and Austrian line, as is confidently expected, a crisis will be precipitated before the end of the year.

THE FINAL DEPOSIT.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—The final deposit for the race between oarsmen Searle and O'Connor was made to-day. The betting is very lively, and now stands at 3 to 2 in favor of Searle.

WANTS COURT MARTIAL.

LONDON, Sept. 5—General Boulanger has written to Premier Tirard, claiming the right of a trial of the charges against him by court martial. He writes that if such a trial is accorded to him he will pledge himself to appear and answer the charges. If this is refused he says he will submit his case to the judgment of the people of France expressed at the polls and has perfect confidence in the result.

DOING PARIS.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—Mr. Gladstone is doing the Paris exposition with a vim and thoroughness that perhaps no living man of his age could equal. He devoted considerable attention to-day to the ingenious water railway, in the working of which he manifested much interest, and declared that for pure inventiveness it surpassed anything he could recall.

ASKED TO RESIGN.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—Mr. James O'Doherty, member of parliament for Donegal, has run foul of his constituents by his utterances in support of the decisions of the Irish land commission. Several local branches of the national league have passed resolutions requesting him to resign his seat in the house.

British Columbia Schools.

They seem to get along very well without separate schools in British Columbia—so well, indeed, that the suggestion that any politician favour the establishment of such schools is regarded as a tremendous libel. One of the local ministers, Mr. Robson, says "he would not sit for twenty-four hours in a cabinet, one of whose members contemplated the destruction of our present splendid system and the raising up of separate schools in its place." And another minister, Mr. Davie, asserts that, though a Roman Catholic, he is wedded to the national and unsectarian school system, and would not lift a finger against it. While this is the condition of things on the coast those who oppose separate schools in Manitoba can accept the accusation that they are fanatics, "Mahdis," and so on, with perfect equanimity.—Mail.

The Dominion labor congress at Montreal passed a resolution on Wednesday that the system of subsidizing railways by land and money grants is detrimental to the interests of the country and the congress requests the government to discontinue said practice.

Friday Evening, Sept. 6, 1889.

It is about time, we think, that Edison turned his attention for a little while from inventing new electrical appliances to more securely harnessing some of the lightning-strikers that his genuis has so materially assisted to evolve. Such occurrences as the one related in the Buffalo despatch in these columns yesterday are becoming altogether too common. Electricity, in its various modern appliances has been considered a great boon to the world of science, but it cannot but be viewed as a doubtful blessing if it continues in the larger cities, where it is applied to so many economic and industrial purposes, to be such a dangerous thing to have around. As illustrating further the necessity for some better system of disposing of electric wires than the one generally in use, a serious casualty that happened recently at Evansville, Ind., might be mentioned. During a heavy storm, a number of electric light and other overhead wires were blown down and crossed, and the electric fluid started out to make things lively about the streets. Sparks were hissing and sputtering in all directions; the fire department was called out, and, unaware of the exact state of things, a number of firemen, civilians, and horses were knocked over by electric shocks. Finally a messenger ran to the electric light station, which was promptly shut down, when over a dozen persons were found lying about unconscious and were restored with difficulty, two of the firemen at last accounts remaining in a precarious condition. It is such little occurrences as these which make the firemen and the general public alike distrustful of the overhead wires, look they ever so innocent.

It is a matter of surprise to us how any Canadian, or Britisher, or any man living in a Canadian community, or obtaining a livelihood from the people of any Canadian community, should so far forget himself and the interests of those upon whom his very existence depends as to side with the United States government in its piratical actions in Behring Sea. The great republic, not having a navy worthy of the name, has turned its few worm-eaten hulks into free-booters and sent them to Behring Sea to forage upon defenceless sealers—British and even American vessels—to rob them of their hard-earned harvest, and "order" them to port under arrest for the purpose of confiscation. And this is done in the name of "law," but really in the interest of monopoly. Fie upon such a law! Fie upon a man who would uphold such a law, especially when his constituents—his very next-door neighbors—are the ones who are thus being robbed and pillaged! The United States has no more jurisdiction over Behring Sea than it has over the boundless expanse of the Pacific Ocean, and it is as well aware of the fact as anyone else. It is simply playing a game of bluff—Yankee bluff pure and simple. As well might the revenue cutter Rush stop and pillage vessels in mid-ocean, as more than three marine miles from land in Behring Sea. But who is to stop it? Our sealing vessels are defenceless against the guns of the cutter. Their arms are tied. They know they have the right, but Uncle Sam's "navy" has the might. We are so far removed from the seat of British authority that but very little heed is taken of our complaints, and it will probably be many months before any definite action whatever will be taken in the matter by those to whom we look for protection from this legalized piracy. But help will come. "The mills of the gods grind slowly, but they grind exceeding small," and when old England does act she will act in such a manner as to make Uncle Sam wish he "hadn't done it." Then, perhaps, those ranting "birds of passage," who have been in the province scarcely long enough to get a square meal, will, too, wish they "hadn't done it." The people of western British Columbia have suffered much from both United States pirates and "birds of passage," and the limit of their patience is about reached.

"The cigarette doomed" is the head of an article in the American Analyst. Peace to its ashes, we would say. We always expected that the petit weed would end in smoke as it began. The Analyst says that observation in public places throughout the United States gives satisfactory evidence that the use of cigarettes is rapidly on the decline. Whether this is due to the stringent laws passed in many of the states against selling them to minors, or that smokers have come to their senses and have taken warning from their own experience and the unanimous condemnation of smoking cigarettes by the medical profession, or whether the evil practice has begun to be looked upon as a discreditable vice to be only practiced in secret, is not known; but it is certain that, as compared with the past, very few cigarettes are now smoked in public. Cigar dealers say that the sales of cigarettes have fallen off enormously. The manufacturers of these noxious things have been compelled to advertise largely to prevent the entire destruction of their business, and about the only people who can now be seen smoking the paper abominations are a few moon-faced juveniles who imagine that cigarette smoking gives them a literary aspect, or who ambitiously aim at appearing manly and graceful while poisoning the atmosphere about them, or blowing the offensive smoke through the windows of horse cars until rebuked by the conductors. Employers and business men generally have arrayed themselves in opposition to those who persist in the objectionable practice, and young ladies have learned to understand that the real reason why their young men smoke cigarettes is that they can smoke twenty of them, vile though they are, for the price of a very cheap cigar. It will be well for our youth when the habit becomes wholly extinct. Dr. William L. Dudley, Professor of Chemistry in the Vanderbilt University, gives the results of recent careful analytical experiments made by him in his laboratory with the smoke of an ordinary cigarette. The tests were thoroughly scientific and conclusive. The fact was demonstrated beyond the chance of doubt or question that carbolic oxide is the chief constituent of cigarette smoke, if not all tobacco smoke, and that its inhalation into the air passages of the lungs must, of necessity, be deleterious. Prof. Dudley refers to the published assertions that the adulteration of tobacco with opium and flavoring drugs, and the alleged presence of arsenic in the paper, are the chief causes of the evil effects of cigarette smoking, but pronounces them unsatisfactory and insufficient as explanations. His chemical tests, he insists, have demonstrated positively the actual cause of the mischief, namely, the cigarette smoker's absorption of the carbonic oxide and other gases, causing deoxidation of the blood, and thereby impairing its power to build up the wasting tissues of the body. The Analyst concludes as follows: The cigarette habit has of late years become very common in this country. It is one of those many European importations which do our people more harm than good. Many of our young men, and some of them are neither young nor inexperienced, are literally burning out of themselves the best element of their manhood by sucking into their systems the poison of physical and mental degeneracy through the filthy cigarette. Cigar smoking and pipe smoking are bad enough and pernicious enough in all conscience, but cigarette smoking is absolutely suicidal.

A LIMITED VOCABULARY.

Belinda was a maiden
Divinely picturesque
As any child of "Aldenn,
(See Poe, in "Tales Grotesque");
Her manners were most gentle,
Her voice was music sweet,
And I grew sentimental
When first we chanced to meet.

We danced a waltz together,
And oh, the way she danced!
Each little foot a feather
Across the carpet glanced;
We oglod o'or the ices,
Until my heart sa'd: "This
Must be what paradise is—
Superlatively bliss."

In all our conversation,
We cordially agreed.
Her highest commendation
Was always: "Yes, indeed!"
I criticised, I queried,
It grieves me to confess,
I actually grew wearied
With "Yes," and "Yes, Oh, Yes."

But girls that are so stupid
Oft have a pretty face;
They get the help of Cupid,
And win us by their grace.
Thought I,-since she's so willing,
Forever to agree,
Some day, I'll bet a shilling,
She'll answer "Yes" to me.

So at the beach last summer,
Beneath the moonlight clear,
I sought to capture from her
That affirmation dear;
But her vocabulary—
'Twas limited, and so,
Her language just to vary,
She tenderly said "No!"

-Paul Moderat, in Munsey's Weekly.

LOSING HER HOLD.

A Summer Sermon and the Fruits It Bore.

The schoolmaster and his wife, after morning meeting was over, took their way as usual down Prout's Lane and across the hill homeward. The path was narrow; the dominie walked first. He made a remark at long intervals to his wife behind him, but without looking back.

"Squire wasn't out. Reckon his lumbago's worse?"

"'S likely."

"The doctor had his little grandchild with him. I suppose his daughter has come for the summer?"

"I reckon she has."

There was a long silence after that, broken only by the buzz of the bees in the red clover and the ck'k-k of the grasshoppers through the hot grass. The old man stopped, as he always did on Sunday, to see how much the corn in the lower field had grown during the week, and to gaze meditatively at the pigs in their pen. But Mrs. Holmes had no thought to-day for the pigs or corn. She walked with her head bent on her breast, almost forgetting to hold up the skirt of her Sunday merino out of the grass. There had been a strange preacher that day—an old man with a quick, sharp tone like the call of a horn to wandering sheep—very different from Father Langley's prolonged, drowsy hum. One or two of his sentences rang in Ann Holmes' ears.

"While you live, live! You wrap yourselves in selfishness and fat content as in grave-clothes before you are dead. The world is full of your brothers, starving, cold, ignorant. Go to them! You owe them service to the last breath of your life."

Mrs. Holmes had asked the doctor's wife anxiously what she thought of the sermon as they came out of the church-yard.

Mrs. Perry shook her head contemptuously

"He's one of these half-cracked, sensation preachers. What has Amity township to do with the starving poor? We keep up our almshouse well. Let the big towns see to their own paupers!"

Ann was comforted for the moment, but she remained uneasy. That hint about the grave clothes seemed a personal hit at herself. Could the man know—!

She hurried past the schoolmaster when they reached their own gate, going up the spotless board walk, with beds of geraniums and roses on either side, to the side door. She could not resist a complacent glance at those beds. Not a weed; the brown earth sifted fine and smooth. There was no such garden in the village; no kitchen was so exquisitely neat, no parlor so speckless and prim. Surely her conscience told her she was a good Christian woman, fulfilling her duty, and had no cause for the wrench and misery of soul which she felt just now.

She went up the stairs to her own chamber, laid off her bonnet carefully, and then unlocked a drawer in the press. She did not need to lift the white towels. She knew perfectly well what was pinned up in them. The underclothing of snowy linen, the worked flannels, the fine woolen shroud. She had put in every stitch in them. Could the man have known!

Every matron in Amity had her "funeral suit" provided. It was a matter of pride to them, just as Mrs. B., in Boston, would delight in her old satsuma or her Corot. The Amity people gloried in their new cemetery. The Holmeses had their lot like the rest; a narrow one, for there were only two to be buried in it. Ann had her choicest roses set out there. She had directed in her will every detail of the trimming on her coffin.

She thrust her hand under the shroud now and pulled out a little bag of gold coin. They were the savings of years; pennies scrimped out of clothes, milk, meat. They were to pay for the handsome granite monument "Erected to the memory of Daniel Holmes and Ann his wife."

"While you live—live!"

She dropped the bag as if some one spoke at her back, locked the drawer and went down stairs.

The "piece" was spread as usual on Sunday noons; flaky bread, clover-scented honey, delicious pies. Ann, as she cut the pie, was comforted by a sense of spiritual well being. No woman made such crust in Amity. No woman was more faithful at meeting, at Sunday-school, at missionary society. In what had she come short? her starved soul demanded of its Maker. Every duty, great and small, had been well finished.

Mrs. Holmes was fifty-five years of age, but she used to speak of herself as near her grave. She twisted up her hair in a wisp, and wore the scuttle bonnets proper to old age. The work of life, she held, was finished for her and Daniel. They had paid for the farm, so that when one died the other was sure of maintenance; the farm and house were in perfect order, the cemetery lot was bought. The money for the monument was a kind of frilling embroidery on this perfected life, the handsome flourish to the signature which closed the deed.

As she sat pouring out the tea, thinking these things over, her husband "reckoned" again that the squire's lumbago was bad, and that the doctor's daughter was at home. Then he yawned drearily and fell asleep in his chair in the sun.

How much of his time he spent in yawning and sleeping! Yet thirty years ago Daniel Holmes was an eager teacher, keeping well abreast with the knowledge and ideas of his time, living in the world of books, newspapers, music and pictures. She, too, had been a live woman then. But they had come out of town into this village, and set themselves to scrape together money to buy this farm. What was this change that had come to them? Had they been really spinning their grave clothes out of selfishness?

Ann went to afternoon service; but she did not hear a word of Father Langley's discourse. She was back in the town; long-forgotten voices sounded in her ears. There was Dan's brother, Jack, poor fellow! She saw him plainly in the crowd. A gay, affectionate lad who might have turned out well if he had been guided! But he had married a feather-headed girl, and Ann, out of patience, had turned them both adrift.

As they walked home that evening she said to the schoolmaster: "How long is it since we heard from John, Daniel?"

He did not reply at first, and when he did it was in a strained, annoyed voice.

"Twenty-six years."

"I wish I and Abby could have hit it off together. I am feared that it was no mizzet to shove them off, with neither money nor religion 'for a staff.'"

Daniel made no reply, but Ann understood his silence as a more bitter reproach than words.

The next morning she brought to him a small canvas bag.

"There is some money I had saved for buryin' expenses, Daniel," she said. "I like to take it instead for us to spend a week in Philadelphia."

"What tomfoolery's that?"

"There's no poor folk in Amity, 'n may be we might see some there as we could give—advice to. And you could look up the libraries and museums."

"Nonsense!"

But his eye paused, attentive.

"And may be we might meet John."

"Here, put the money away! I'll bank it," he growled.

But four days later Amity was shaken to its center by the news that the schoolmaster and his wife had gone for an outing to Philadelphia.

"There's a queer customer," whispered one of the attendants in the old Franklin Library to another a week afterwards. "He comes every day, and goes from shelf to shelf breathless, as if he had not touched a book for years. Been buried in the country I suppose."

"And why should anybody who can live out of doors and dig want to smell the musty leather?" grumbled the other lad, who was lean and stooped, with an ugly cough.

He went up to Daniel, however, and helped him in his explorations.

Our country pilgrims put up at an old fashioned inn in the lower part of the city. Daniel came back to it at night fairly paning with the triumphs of his researches. He had visited kindergartens, industrial schools and museums, where art and science were taught without charge to the poorest.

"As for the libraries, whole continents of knowledge have been discovered while *I was dozing and snoring in Amity," he ex*claimed.

Ann had made her rounds among the asylums, the hospitals for children, the free classes, the creches. Her cold, gray eyes were dim and wet.

"Half the world seem to be cold and hungry, and the other half are working to warm and feed them," she said. "And I could find nothing to do but to make fine my shroud and gravestone! But have you got any trace of John or Abby, Daniel?"

"No; I doubt it's no use, Ann."

But as Ann woke day by day, and got her hold upon the world again, her search became more energetic. One day she came in at noon red with excitement.

"I've found them, Daniel! That is to say, John and Abby are dead; but they've left three children. The oldest boy support them, and he is that consumptive lad in the library you took such a fancy to. Come right along! Don't stop for dinner! Come! Three children! And the Lord never before gave us one!"

Mrs. Ann Holmes' house is no longer the neatest in Amity. The chubby little girl of fourteen who helps her in the kitchen leaves her work and school books here and there, and the baby who tags after Ann from morning until night drops her greasy bread and butter even in the sacred parlor unrebuked.

"What's a clean floor compared with the flesh coming on to their bones?" she asks triumphantly. "Look at Albert! He's another boy. He's a born farmer. The library was killing him."

"I'll have no abuse of libraries," Daniel says. "I'm going up for study twice a year. It doesn't do to lose your hold on the world. You've got to keep step while you live."

"Yes," Ann replies, absently. She is looking out a hymn simple enough for Abby to understand, and after that she is going to make some flannel petticoats for baby before the cold weather comes. They are cut out and folded neatly in her basket, and the drawer up-stairs which held her fine shroud is empty.—Rebecca Harding Davis, in Congregationalist.

GUM-CHEWING GIRLS.

The Amount of Power Wasted Every Day by Each One of Them.

The gum-chewing mania having become a question of National importance, like that of the utilization of the water-power of Niagara Falls, one of the Chicago public-school principals has, according to a Chicago journal, recently taken the necessary time from his arduous duties to compute statistics on the loss of power daily expended—wasted, I may say—in the gum-chewing practice. In *arriving at correct mathematical conclu*sions as to the energy required to keep the gum-mills grinding, our learned friend estimates the gum-raising capacity of the fair gum-chewer at the rate of eight ounces per "chaw." This is on the supposition that the mouth is opened half an inch each time in the act of chewing, and that the gum is of the elastic or non-sticky variety, thereby giving the minimum of power required in the operation. With this basis as a starting-point, the professor easily deducts a startling series of tables of rates, weights and measures, which can be epitomized. In the first place, if the jaw be raised one-half an inch with each effort in the act of gum-chewing, with the process kept up on an average of ten hours a day—some chewers chew till late at night, and others, even, when asleep—each individual motion of the jaw consuming a second of time, the aggregated opening of a gum-chewer's jaws in one day alone would represent a mouth fifteen hundred feet across, measuring the abyss in its widest diameter. But, since the jaw travels back with every motion, retracing each successive stretch, the space traveled in a day on the ten-hour plan is double the foregoing figures, or three thousand feet—something like three-fifths of a mile. Again, if the force expended per "chaw" represents a lifting capacity of eight ounces, in the average day, as Mr. Principal figures it, enough muscular energy is exerted—wasted—to enable each individual gum-chewer to have hoisted from a cellar seven and a half feet deep thirty buckets of coal each weighing thirty pounds. In some future article I may—and I may not—pursue the interesting subject, and quote from the professor's work the amazing possibilities in store for home and society when the gum-chewing craze shall have been brought into subjugation and made to serve humanity in channels of usefulness and progress.

An Underground Canal.

"The strangest canal in the world is one I never saw mentioned in any book or newspaper," said an English clergyman to a St. Louis Globe-Democrat reporter. "It is a canal sixteen miles long, between Worsley and St. Helens, in the north of England, and is underground from end to end. In Lancashire the coal mines are very extensive, half the country being undermined, and many years ago the Duke of Bridgewater's managers thought they could save money by transporting the coal under ground instead of on the surface. So the canal was constructed, the mines connected and drained at the same time. Ordinary canal boats are used, but the power is furnished by men. On the roof of the tunnel arch are cross-pieces, and the men who do the work of propulsion lie on their backs on the coal and push with their feet against the cross-bars on the roof. Six or eight men will draw a train of four or five boats, and as there are two divisions in the tunnel boats pass each other without difficulty."

Invention of the Omnibus.

The invention of omnibuses is due to the philosopher Pascal, who, in February, 1662, obtained a "privilege"—what we should call a patent—for public carriages to travel through certain streets of Paris. They held eight passengers, who paid six sous each, and were very successful, although an act of the parliament of Paris forbade them being used by lackeys, soldiers and other humble folks. Pascal died in 1662, and his useful invention did not long survive him. The omnibus reappeared in London about the beginning of this century, and was adopted in several French provincial towns before Paris accepted it again.

The Flowers of Europe.

Of the 4,200 kinds of flowers which grow in Europe only 420, or 10 per cent., are odoriferous. The commonest flowers are the white ones, of which there are 1,139 kinds. Less than one-fifth of these are fragrant. Of the 951 kinds of yellow flowers 77 are odoriferous; of the 811 red kinds, 54; of the 594 blue kinds, 81; of the 63 violet-blue kinds, 13. Of the 249 kinds with combined colors 28 are fragrant.

It Makes You Hungry

"I have used Paine's Celery Compound and it has had a salutary effect. It invigorated the system and I feel like a new man. It improves the appetite and facilitates digestion." J. T. COPELAND, Primus, S. C.

Spring medicine means more now-a-days than it did ten years ago. The winter of 1888-89 has left the nerves all fagged out. The nerves must be strengthened, the blood purified, liver and bowels regulated. Paine's Celery Compound—the Spring medicine of to-day—does all this, as nothing else can. Prescribed by Physicians, Recommended by Druggists, Endorsed by Ministers, Guaranteed by the Manufacturers to be

The Best Spring Medicine.

"In the spring of 1887 I was all run down. I would get up in the morning with so tired a feeling, and was so weak that I could hardly get around. I bought a bottle of Paine's Celery Compound, and before I had taken it a week I felt very much better. I can cheerfully recommend it to all who need a building up and strengthening medicine." Mrs. B. A. Dow, Burlington, Vt.

Paine's Celery Compound

is a unique tonic and appetizer. Pleasant to the taste, quick in its action, and without any injurious effect, it gives that rugged health which makes everything taste good. It cures Dyspepsia and kindred disorders. Physicians prescribe it. $1.00. Six for $5.00. Druggists.

A BAD BREAK.

Last night just as our city edition was being worked off, and before any papers for mailing were printed, a break occurred in one of the working parts of the large power press, which could not be repaired until late this evening. Our DAILY subscribers by mail will, therefore, understand why they failed to get their paper of yesterday. The editor and manager of the Truth Printing Company courteously placed his presses at the disposal of THE COLUMBIAN, but our press was repaired in time to enable us to give our readers the paper an hour or two late. THE COLUMBIAN will come out as usual to-morrow evening, if no further casuality occurs.

The Tennis Tournament.

Increasing interest in the tennis tournament is manifested as the matches are played, and it is proven now that the first predictions as to the winners of the first series were somewhat astray. Two more matches have been played, with unexpected results in one of them, at least. Mr. C. E. Holt and Mr. J. E. Finlaison gave a very interesting exhibition of the game, Mr. Holt winning in a love set 6-4, 6-3. The match between Dr. Fagan and Mr. Baker proved a surprise to the latter, as it was expected he would experience little difficulty in disposing of his opponent. Dr. Fagan, however, won easily, defeating Mr. Baker in two sets of 6-2, 6 5.

The Scottish Games.

A special meeting of the Caledonian and St. Andrews society was held last night to appoint committees to conduct the Caledonian games and sports in connection with the coming celebration. Following committees were appointed: Programme: John Buie, James Stephen and Angus McLeod; judges on sports: James Punch, John Sprott and D. McGregor; judges on dancing: C. F. Bonson, Peter Grant and Geo. Black; music and costumes Alex Ewen, John McMurphy, sr., and D. McPhadden; grounds committee: James Punch, Fergus Laidlaw, James Stephen, and John McMurphy, jr., It was decided that the chief and officers of the society should act as a reception committee to receive and entertain members of sister societies who visit the city during exhibition week.

The Westminster Team.

The Westminster rifle team is doing splendid work at Ottawa, and the city has every reason to be proud of its marksmen. Pte. Chamberlain has tied for a place on the grand aggregate, and will likely form one of the 50 highest scores from whom the Wimbledon team will be chosen. At the Toronto meeting, Chamberlain took prizes in the Gordon, Gibson and Mulock competitions, and also in extra series 1 and 4, in the latter winning second place. Pte. Proud took first prize in the Tait Brassey match, and a prize in the Mulock competition. Both Proud and Chamberlain won prizes in the revolver match. At Ottawa the team is keeping up the good work. Chamberlain has won $10 in the Caron match, $6 in the Rideau match and $4 in the standing match. Proud has won $6 in the Manufacturers match, and Lieut. Cotton won $10 in the Oaimet match.

A Foolish Celestial.

A Chinaman named Ah Song, a former resident of the royal city, where he is well if not favorably known, was brought down from Yale yesterday by Mr. Wm. Dodds, government agent, to serve a term of six months in the chaingang for supplying liquor to Indians. Ah Song is a cook and has been employed by an American gentleman at Yale, who paid him $30 per month and board. Not content with these excellent wages, the coveteous Celestial could not resist the temptation of buying whiskey at 75 cents per bottle and selling it to the Indians at $2 per bottle. He carried on this unlawful trade until a great row occurred among a lot of drunken Indians, and when the offenders were brought before the court it transpired that Song was to blame for the trouble. The presiding magistrate issued a warrant for Song who was arrested, tried and convicted and sentenced to six months hard labor in the provincial gaol.

A Nice Husband.

Yesterday afternoon an old lady went to the post office and bought a $4 p. o. order for which she paid with a $10 bill and received the proper change from Mr. Brown. This morning the old lady returned to the post office and told Mr. Brown three dollars of the change had gone astray, and that her husband had threatened to kill her if she did not find it again. The postmaster explained that he had given the proper change, and could do no more. Upon hearing this the old lady commenced to weep, and declared she could not return home without the money, as she feared her husband would carry out his threat. Mr. Brown seeing the case was one of genuine distress, took compassion on the poor old lady and gave her the amount she had mislaid, with which she departed greatly relieved in mind. The names of the parties are withheld for the present, but will be made public later should the action of the man make it necessary.

Siwash Creek Mines.

From Mr. Wm. Dodds, government agent at Yale, THE COLUMBIAN learns that mining matters in that locality are quiet, although much prospecting is being done. On Siwash Creek a number of men are making fair wages, and several very handsome nuggets have been taken out within the last week. The last washup of the British American Mining Co., which is controlled by Westminster capitalists, gave 13 ozs. of the yellow dust, a most satisfactory result. The next washup is expected to be even more profitable.

An American gentleman, named E. E. Olcott, representing a syndicate of capitalists, is inspecting the creeks and mines in the vicinity of Yale, with a view to purchasing any that give likely signs of profitable working. He has not concluded any purchases as yet, but several claim owners are in negotiation with him. Every week prospectors are returning to Yale with rich specimens of quartz, and some of the miners are confident that their finds will turn out to be most valuable property.

HON. EDGAR DEWDNEY.

The Minister of the Interior Arrives this Afternoon.—After a Delightful Trip Across the Continent.

The announcement that the Hon. Edgar Dewdney, minister of the interior, would arrive to-day, was the signal for a large turnout of the pioneers of the province who make Westminster their home. The honorable gentleman being like themselves, entitled to the honor of being classed among the "old timers," consequently it was not so much to greet a minister of the Dominion cabinet that they assembled, but rather to welcome back an old companion who had worked and mined with them away back in the 50s. A large number of prominent citizens, including D. Chishom, M. P., Mayor Townsend, B. Douglas, Ald. Cunningham, J. S. Clute, sr., John Hendry and many others, met Mr. Dewdney at Westminster Junction and gave him a right hearty welcome back to Westminster. The station platform was lined with people when the train rolled up, but there was no demonstration attempted, that being reserved for a more suitable moment. Mr. and Mrs. Dewdney and Mr. McGirr, his private secretary, were driven to the Colonial, where the party will stay during their visit here.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Dewdney look remarkably well after their long trip across the continent. All along the route they were accorded most hearty receptions, and at Regina, Medicine Hat and Calgary, Hon. Mr. Dewdney was presented with addresses and banquetted. This being an official trip, much of the hon. gentleman's time has been taken up with matters in connection with his department, and to a certain extent the journey has been rather fatiguing. But not withstanding all this, Mr. Dewdney expressess himself as delighted with his trip, and heartily glad to find himself among his old friends once more.

Mr. Dewdney is a native of Devonshire, Eng., where he was born in 1835. He came to British Columbia in 1859, being thus one of our earliest pioneers. He was for years identified with the public affairs of the province, and more recently with those of the Dominion, and at one time was employed on the Canadian Pacific Railway survey as an engineer. During the early 60s Mr. Dewdney did some important survey work on the royal city townsite. Mr. Dewdney represented Kootenay in the local parliament in 1868-9, and was returned for the Dominion parliament from Yale district in 1872, again in 1874 and by acclamation at the general election of 1878. In 1879 he received the appointment of Indian commissioner of the Northwest, which office he held till appointed lieutenant-governor of the Northwest Territories in December of 1881. Upon the death of Hon. Thos. White, minister of the interior, last year, Mr. Dewdney was selected by Sir John Macdonald to fill the deceased minister's place in the cabinet, the appointment, by reason of Mr. Dewdney's wide experience of the country and general ability, being an excellent one. While representing a British Columbia constituency in the Dominion house, Mr. Dewdney did excellent service for the country during the "battle of the routes," being a staunch and able champion for the Fraser River Valley and Burrard Inlet, as against what was known as the Bute Inlet route. Hon. Mr. Dewdney, as minister of the interior, still continues to be a firm friend of British Columbia, although representing a Northwest constituency—Assiniboia East—and is withal one whom British Columbians will delight to honor.

A Fine Tug.

The Times gives a description of the fine new tug being built at Victoria for Mr. Alex. Ewen of this city. She will be used when completed for work in connection with the canneries and for towing, and from all present appearances she will be a very suitable boat for the business. Her frames are of steel, with strong steel diagonal braces, three water-tight bulkheads, and steel deck. Over the frames is bolted two-inch planking, and the steel deck will also be covered with wood, forming what is known as the "composite" type of hull. The dimensions of the boat are 65 feet length, 13 feet 6 inches beam, and 6 feet 9 inches depth of hold. Her model is a fine one, and she will evidently be a very fast boat. The engines are of the triple-expansion type, built by Ross & Duncan, Govan, Scotland, and are extra fine specimens of marine work. The cylinders are of 8, 13 and 21 inches diameter respectively, with a stroke of 12 inches common to all. The condenser forms the back frame, while the front is turned steel columns, making a very neat appearance, besides being handy, it leaving the valve gear, etc., all clear. The valve gear is of the type known as Bremme's, being the only engine so fitted on the coast. It differs from the ordinary valve gear materially, as there is but one eccentric, but by an ingenious arrangement of links and rockshaft, the motion of the valves can be reversed and thereby the engine, very easily. The boiler is of steel, fitted with two furnaces and seventy-two tubes, which will give ample heating surface to generate a good supply of steam at a pressure of 155 pounds to the square inch. Donkey and hand pumps are also in their places. The propeller, which is phospher bronze, has a diameter of six feet and a pitch of ten feet, and should, when turned up to 150 revolutions per minute give the boat a speed of at least twelve knots, which is a good rate for a small craft. A new feature of the propeller is a lip on the end of the blades which will prevent the water from being thrown out from the wheel, but rather driving it direct astern, producing the greatest efficiency. Taken altogether, the vessel will be one of the most complete little craft on the coast. She will probably be ready for work in about six weeks, and will be a good addition to the growing fleet of steamers in these waters.

PERSONAL.

Jas. Ellard went over to Victoria this morning to spend a few days.

Wm. Dodds, government agent at Yale, left for home this afternoon.

W. L. Fagan, the industrious collector of provincial revenue, was in the city to day.

Capt. Grant, of the steamer K de K, who had the misfortune to dislocate his shoulder last week, is round town again with his arm in a sling. It will be a few weeks yet before he will be able to return to duty.

Lady Lansdowne is devoting herself to carrying out Lady Dufferin's scheme for supplying medical aid to the native women of India.

The Lacrosse Team.

Following is the team chosen to represent the Westminster club at the Kamloops tournament: J. C. Whyte, W. J. Corbett, M. M. Mowat, J. R. Polley, R. B. Lister, C. C. Stewart, Jas. Gow, Thos. Hill, L. A. Lewis, Thos. Carrie, J. A. McMartin, Thompson. It has not been decided yet who will captain the team. The absence of N. A. White will be severely felt, but if all the other members of the team are able to get away, the probabilities are that the Royal city men will be able to hold their own against all comers. A fine practice was held last night and the men showed excellent form. The match on Saturday last has had a good effect on the team generally, and more steady and better play is observable from all points. Another practice will be held this evening, weather permitting. The team, accompanied by many admirers, will leave for Kamloops on Monday.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Disloyal Government Officials.

EDITOR COLUMBIAN.—SIR: Your correspondent, "Canadian," asks the question "How can these things be?" Dominion officials starting a paper (and calling it "Truth") for the avowed purpose of annexation to the United States and the dethronement of the British monarchy.

A loyal Canadian may well be startled that such a thing could actually exist and get support in the royal city. The directors whose names are published in connection with this bold avowal of disloyalty and Bradlaugh infidelity may well be proud (?) of their position. Who could think that the captain of the Dominion Samson—and others who are drawing fat salaries from the Dominion government, in British Columbia—would be guilty of such treasonable utterances as appear in the first issue of the Guardian's successor?

If Hon. Mr. Dewdney, who has arrived here to-day, could only get a list of the stockholders in this new paper, he would be astonished to find that some of their names are also on the pay list of the Dominion government.

ANOTHER CANADIAN.
