SCIENTIFIC MISCELLANY.

The quartz fibers drawn out by Mr. C. V. Boys are found to be only 5,000th of an inch thick, and are so small that fully-grown spiders cannot climb them.

The graphophone is likely to find novel use in medicine. Every kind of cough may be recorded, to serve in teaching students, and for tracing the progres of disease by future comparisons.

A work on the eclipses of 1890 to 2498 has been prepared by Rev. S. J. Johnson, F. R. A. S. Among other curious facts it shows that in 1917 the extremely rare maximum number of seven eclipses will occur and in an interval slightly exceeding a year—Jan. 5, 1935, to Jan. 8, 1936—will be the almost unique number of eight eclipses.

The electric beam from the Eiffel tower lantern has a luminous intensity of about 55,000 candles, which the dioptric drum amplifies to about 700,000 candles. Catadioptric rings are arranged to make the light stronger and stronger as it travels from the tower, so that in clear weather its range—if not limited by the earth's curvature—should be 127 miles, with a maximum intensity of 5,000,000 candles.

AN ENGINEERING NOVELTY.—A submarine bridge between Sweden and Copenhagen is proposed by a Swedish engineer. It would be two and a half miles in length, of 100 feet spans, and would be submerged sufficiently to allow ships to pass over it. It would be a double tube, with an outer skin of iron, an inner one of steel, and the space between filled with concrete, and would carry a single line of rails. The piers, 100 feet apart, would be ordinary caissons filled with concrete.

DRIFT OF ATLANTIC WATERS.—Of 1,675 numbered floats cast into the North Atlantic under the direction of Prince Albert of Monaco, 146 have been recovered at various points on the seaboard. The courses they have taken appear to demonstrate a circular movement of the surface of the water round a point somewhere to the southwest of the Azores. The outer edge of this current sets east northeast to the neighborhood of the English Channel where it is deflected southward along the coasts of Europe and Africa to the Canaries, thence tending southwest to the equatorial current, thus completing the circuit by merging in the Gulf Stream.

FISH POISONING. — Fishermen avoid red mackerel as poisonous, according to Mr. J. L. Hamilton, F.R.C.S., and in Guadaloupe a red-boned mackerel is used as a rat-poison. Over seventy kinds of food fishes are now known which, within a few hours after death, undergo such decomposition in their bodies or flesh as to give rise to posionous symptions after being eaten by man. The blood and lymph of all healthy living fish are stated to be swarming with bacteria, and Mr. Hamilton therefore recommends the bleeding and gutting of fish immediately after capture. The subject of fish poisoning is looked upon by the Russian Government as so important that it offers in 1894 a prize of 5,000 roubles for the best essay on the nature and care of the affection.

WORLD MEASURES.—The astonishing statement was lately made to the French academy of sciences, by M. de Malarce, that only about 42,000,000 inhabitants of the civilized world have neither metric nor decimal systems of weights and measures. In 1887 the metric system was compulsory in countries aggregating in population 302,000,000—an increase of 53,000,000 in ten years; optional in countries with a population 97,000,000; and legally admitted in principle and partially applied in countries having a population of 395,000,000—an increase of 54,000,000 in ten years. The metric system is thus legally recognized by 794,000,000 people; and China, Japan and Mexico—with an aggregate population of 774,000,000—have systems that are decimal but not metric.

THE WORLD LANGUAGE.—Hardly any philosophic linguist, declares Prof. F. A. March, attempts to forecast the future without some discussion of the destiny of English, and De Candolle calculates that within a hundred years English will be spoken by 860,000,000 of men. At present the population either speaking the English language or under the denomination of English-speaking peoples numbers more than 318,290,000, or one-fourth the population of the globe. The English-speaking races occupy one-fourth of the dry land of the earth, and own nearly two-thirds of the tonnage of ships. They live in all regions; they handle all articles of trade; they preach to all nations; they command one-half of world's gold and silver; and distribute more than two-thirds of the bibles and testaments. More than one-half of the letters mailed and carried by the postal service of the world are written, mailed and read by the English-speaking population.

A man was seen leaving the Mennonite church north of Brighton, Thursday night, and shortly after smoke issued from the chimney. On examining the stove next morning the head of a child with the body cremated was found.

BEHRING'S SEA.

Sir Julian Pauncefote Carries to England Draft of Treaty Anent Behring's Sea.

An English Syndicate Invests Five Million Dollars in Minneapolis Wheat Elevators.

Another County Seat War Breaks out in Peaceful Kansas and Citizens are Arming.

A POSSIBLE SOLUTION.

NEW YORK, July 20.—It is reported that Sir Julian Pauncefote, who sailed for Europe to-day on the Etruria, carwith him a rough draft of an agreement between Great Britain and United States covering the Canadian and Behring Sea questions, which will be submitted to Lord Salisbury for consideration and suggestion.

FREE WRECKAGE.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Acting secretary Batchelor, of the treasury dept., has telegraphed the collector of customs at San Francisco to admit free of duty all wreckage of the U.S.S. Trenton from Samoa, consigned to the commandant of Mare Island navy yard.

DISGUSTED MITCHELL.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Charlie Mitchell sailed for England to-day on the s.s. Etruria, and with him went the $250 that Norris, of Mississippi, has been seeking. Charlie did not appear to be afraid of arrest for he sauntered down the pier to the steamship as cooley as if he never knew detectives. Mitchell said he was glad to get home, and never, with the help of God, would he come to this "blasted" country again. He was accompanied by his wife and Pony Moore.

STRIKING LABORERS.

WEST SUPERIOR, July 20.—The street laborers, numbering over six hundred, have struck for an increase in wages. They threaten trouble and a company of state militia has arrived to protect property.

ANOTHER MONSTER PURCHASE.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 20.—The representatives of an English syndicate, who have been in this city over a month, inspecting flour mills, have finally completed negotiations for the purchase of a line of elevators. The price paid is said to be about five million dollars.

FIGHT WITH HORSE THIEVES.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., July 20.—A sheriff's posse and a band of horse thieves had a fight yesterday. The leader of the band was shot dead and two of the thieves captured.

CHILD MURDER.

WARSAW, Ind., July 20.—Mrs. Martha Danks, was arrested and charged with murder last night. Her husband Daniel was also arrested as an accessory. Danks, who recently became a religious crank, compelled his wife to strangle their fifteen months old child as a sacrifice, claiming the Almighty had promised to resurrect the child.

DISASTROUS STROM.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., July 20.—In addition to the seven persons drowned in a Kanawha valley flood yesterday, two more are reported today at Pond Creek, together with a child. It was the most disastrous storm in years. Every bridge in the lower part of the country is gone. The crops are destroyed and scores of houses and barns are swept away.

SHIPPING.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 20.—Sailed, bark Colusa for Port Townsend. Arrived, ship Glory of the Seas, from Departure Bay.

AFTER KILRAIN.

BALTIMORE, July 20.—Detective Norris was here to-day searching for Kilrain, Mitchell and Donovan, and called on the city marshall with a requisition. The marshall said he could not recognize the requisition as it was not regular.

SUFFERING DAKOTA

GRAFTON, Dakota, July 20.—Reports from the North West and along the Dakota line state that the crops are in a bad shape, the farmers are destitute, and many families are famine stricken and sick.

ANOTHER KANSAS WAR.

TOPEKA, Kansas, July 20.—Owing to the decision of the supreme court, just rendered, declaring Eminence the legal county seat of Garfield county a state war is feared. The people of Ravanna, the present county capitol, propose to resist the removal of the county records and have heavily armed to prevent an attack upon the court house.

NEW APPRAISER.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Charles M. Leavy was to-day appointed by the president to be appraiser of merchandise for the district of San Francisco.

THE GREAT SULLIVAN.

NEW YORK, July 20.—An immense crowd assembled at the Vanderbilt today to get a glimpse of Sullivan. It has been announced he would start for Boston this evening. The efforts of three policemen were necessary to convince the crowds he would be unable to see them. Sporting men say Sullivan is in fine condition. He has turned over a new leaf and stopped liquor. Sullivan will probably leave for Boston accompanied by his brother Mike Muldoon and a number of other sports. Sullivan goes to visit his sick mother and returns Monday or Tuesday to New York.

AN INTERESTING LETTER.

NEW YORK, July 20.—An English Unionist writes to this morning's Tribune: The theatrical withdrawal of Mr. Parnell's counsel, is without question intended to discredit the judges in the eyes of the English people, but that this will fail of its object goes without saying. This is as transparent a design as is the statement now in fashion in National circles that they don't care a rush for the report of the commission. This, of course, is simply discounting the adverse report that is inevitably in store for them at the hands of the three learned judges forming the commission, and which is destined to play no little part, I predict, in the second defeat of the home rule party when the country is again summoned to the ballot-box. Could only the American public have read verbatim reports of this commission for the past few weeks, as I have done, they would laugh with me at the extreme patience, forbearance and dignity of the judges who have had to witness a series of concealments and astonishing displays of bravado, imprudence and audacity that I venture to assert stand unparalleled in the annals of any civilized court of law. For this, however, in a sense the unionist party should be grateful, for the defence has done more through its witnesses to prove the Times, case than anything the Times itself has offered, and of this fact I imagine no one is more aware in his heart of hearts than Sir Charles Russell.

NOT SUICIDE ANYWAY.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 20.—A case of forgery, disappearance and supposed suicide was developed to-day. Frank L. Bailey, a young San Diegan, came to this city in the early part of the month and took up his abode at the Lick house. He forged a letter on Anthony Sweeney, proprietor of the Lick house bar, and presented the same to Sweeney's stock broker. On the strength of it sales were made and Bailey, pocketing, it is said, over two thousand dollars, disappeared on Wednesday last. On Thursday letters were found dated Tuesday in Bailey's room, in which he stated he was about to commit suicide by drowning, placing weights to his body so that it would never rise from the bottom of the sea.

WHEAT.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Wheat steady July 87¾; August 89; Sept. 85½

CHICAGO, July 20.—Wheat quiet Aug. 77⅞; Sept. 77½

SAN FRANCISCO, July 20.—Wheat dull but firm buyer 89; 139¾; buyer season, 147½.

MAIMED CONFEDERATES.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 19.—Some six months ago A. B. Tate, a wealthy farmer of Grainger county, deeded $20,000 to the one-legged, one-armed Confederate soldiers of east Tennessee. The sum was distributed at Morristown yesterday equally among 41 maimed veterans. There was a large crowd present. Stars and bars floated from the opera house where the distribution took place.

SOUTHERN FEUDS,

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 19.—A pitched battle occurred this morning in the western part of this county between the Simpson and Houghton families and friends of both sides. A bloody feud between the Simpsons and Houghtons has existed for three years. In the first fight this morning two of the Houghton's party were killed outright and several of the other party wounded. Simpsons and their friends then took refuge in an old barn and were attacked by the officers, guided by a Houghton. The Simpsons opened fire and killed Deputy Sheriff Morgan, of this city, and fatally wounded Houghton. The fire was returned and one of the Simpson party killed, but the officers retired without making an arrest. A messenger from the scene has just arrived with a request that the sheriff send a strong posse at once as more bloodshed is feared. Five of the Houghtons and three of the Simpsons have been killed since the feud began three years ago and many others wounded. The two families are among the wealthiest and most prominent residents in the western part of the county.

FISHING VESSELS SEIZED.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., July 19.—The state police on board the steamer Nellie to-day overhauled the steamers A. F. Serrall and Seaconnet, of Newport, R.I., whose crews were fishing for finnan haddie near West Island in violation of the Massachusetts laws. The crews were out in boats. The Nellie seized the steamers and then the police went after the boats. The captain of the Seaconnet voluntarily got up steam and followed the Nellie in. The captain of the Serrall refused to lift a hand and made the police gather up his men and tow the vessel in. There were twenty-nine men arrested in all. The penalty is confiscation of the vessels and $200 fine for each man.

THE SOCIALIST CONGRESS.

PARIS, July 19.—The congress of the Marxist society continued its session to-day and spent most of the time in listening to speeches from the delegates. William Morris, from England, delivered an address, painting in roseate hues the progress which socialism is making in England and declaring that though Englishmen in high places might continue to deride and revile the little band of reformers who had sprung up in their kingdom, yet they were, little by little, absorbing the essence of the socialistic creed and carrying socialism into practical politics to a degree that socialists themselves scarcely dreamed of half a dozen years ago. The subject of the recent appointment by the Swiss government of a new official to deal with exiled reformers on Swiss soil, was widely discussed, and the Swiss delegates announced their determination to demand of the government that their action be submitted to a popular vote for approval or disapproval.

FROM VICTORIA.

The Cook's Wife at the Driard Attempts Suicide.—Action Against the Superintendent of Education.

Special to the Columbian.

VICTORIA, July 20.—Yesterday afternoon the wife of the cook of the Driard house made an attempt to commit suicide by swallowing the contents of a large bottle of medicine. The doctor who was summoned immediately took means to save the woman's life by hypodermic injections and the use of emetics. The woman was resting easily in the afternoon at her residence, View street, above Douglas. A bottle was prescribed by Dr. Hall, to be taken in small doses, and was taken by her. The woman has an uncontrollable temper and made an attempt to murder her husband some days ago. The cook at the hotel states the woman did not intend to commit suicide, but pretended to drink the medicine. Instead of swallowing it she threw the fluid in the grate.

J. N. Muir has brought an action for libel against S. D. Pope, superintendent of education; also it is understood an injunction has been asked for by Mr. Muir restraining the latter from taking away his (Mr. Muir's) certificate to teach in the province. The alleged libel is said to be contained in a letter written by the superintendent to the plaintiff.

PARNELL HONORED.

The Freedom of the City of Edinburgh Bestowed on Parnell Amidst much Enthusiasm.

The Anti-Slavery Congress Opens at Lucrene next Month. Cardinal Lavigerie Presides.

Two more Rippers Caught in the Act of Murdering Women in London.

PARNELL HONORED.

EDINBURG, July 20.—The freedom of the city was conferred upon Parnell to-day with impressive ceremonies. Much enthusiasm was manifested for the Irish leader as he passed through the streets on his way to the ceremony, and was he heartily cheered by the vast crowds. In his speech of acknowledgement, Mr. Parnell referred to the trial at London, and said if he had known that the conditions of the trial were such as to block enquiry into the Pigott conspiracy he would never have entered the court. He asserted that the clue to the forgeries was established by accident, and not through any investigation of the special commission.

MCMILLAN'S SON.

LONDON, July 20.—Great anxiety is felt at the disappearance of a son of the publisher McMillan, who left Broussa ten days ago to ascend the Olympus. It is feared some accident has happened to him.

PARTIALLY DEAF.

LONDON, July 20.—Mme. Christine Nilsson has become partially deaf, as a result of recent illness.

A MORPHINE FIEND.

LONDON, July 20.—Mr. Damala, Sarah Bernhardt's husband, has been sent to a private asylum suffering from melancholia and threatened insanity, the result of excessive indulgence in the morphine habit.

ANTI-SLAVE CONGRESS.

LONDON, July 20.—The international anti-slave congress opens at Lucerne August 4th. Cardinal Lavigerie will preside, and services will be held daily. Forty negro slaves, who have been redeemed by the missions of Central America, will chant prayers in the Roman Catholic cathedral. The congress will be composed chiefly of Roman Catholic priests. Cardinal Lavigerie has been recommended by the Pope to a number of the cardinals as his successor in the vatican.

TROOPS FOR CRETE.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 20.—In consequence of the threatened uprising in Crete, the porte will send troops to that island.

CAN'T SPEAK

ST. PETERSBURG, July 20.—The Grand Duke Constantine, the czar's uncle, has lost his power of speech by a stroke of paralysis.

BLOCKADE ABANDONED.

ROME, July 20.—The blockade of East African ports, near Zanzibar, has been abandoned by Italy.

WAREHOUSES BURNED.

LIVERPOOL, July 20.—The cotton warehouses on Grundy street were burned to-day. Loss $300,000.

ANOTHER RIPPER CAUGHT.

LONDON, July 20.—At 3 o'clock this morning the shrieks of a woman were heard near St. George's buildings in Whitechapel district. A few minutes after the police caught a man running away with a knife in his hand. The police then entered the building and found a woman's body terribly mutilated. It is believed that the perpetrator of all Jack the Ripper's murders has been captured at last.

THE TRUE RIPPER.

LONDON, July 20.—The man who surrendered to the police yesterday has confessed he committed the crimes attributed to "Jack the Ripper." He says his name is William Brodie. To-day he told a magistrate his confession was true. The magistrate remanded him for a week.

ANOTHER RIPPER.

LONDON, July 20.—At 2 o'clock this morning a murderous attack was made on a woman on the Surrey side of the Thames, about 2 miles from Whitechapel and on the opposite side of the river. The man was armed with a knife and the police, attracted by the shrieks of the woman, arrived on the scene in time to capture the would-be assassin. They locked up the woman and man. The woman may recover. The identity of the man is not established, but hopes are entertained he may be the "Ripper."

ROYAL CHANGES.

LONDON, July 20.—In view of the delicate health of Queen Victoria, she is making arrangements by which the Prince of Wales will relieve her of much of her labor on state documents. The prince, in case he assumed the throne and new responsibilities, wishes, it is said, to take the title of Prince Regent and to have the use of Buckingham palace and Windsor castle, the queen retiring to the palaces of Osborne and Balmoral. In the event of this arrangement being carried out, Prince Albert Victor would obtain Marlborough House.

CAIRO, July 20.—Nad-El-Jumi and the Dervishes occupy a good position at Wady Halfa. The Dervishes have been reinforced. The British troops at Assouan number 155. This is thought sufficient to resist an attack of the Dervishes.

DUNRAVEN'S REPLY.

LONDON, July 19.—In answer to a challenge from the New York Yacht Club Lord Dunraven said to-day he would not send the Valkyrie to America unless trial races were arranged for the champion yachts, and races to form an international event. He declares positively he will not allow his yacht to race with 70-footers for the Paine Cup.

Daily British Columbian

Saturday Evening, July 20, 1889.

The Times is evidently a paper charged with a mission. If there is any one thing which the Times seems to feel itself bound to strive after, that one thing is, by hook or by crook, by fair means or by foul, to make the "ins" and the "outs" change places in the administration of the affairs of this province—and especially to run to earth that particular bete noir of our cotemporary, the provincial secretary. As the time draws near for the next general shuffle for the seats, the Times and its allies are bestirring themselves, "early bird" fashion, in the frantic determination to leave no stone unturned that might conceal from their ravenous beaks the pre-matutinal "worm." The worm, of course, in this instance is supposed to be a pretty fat one—nothing less than the custody of the public money bags—and worth staying up all night for so as to be first on the ground. The latest indictment of the present provincial government by the Times is very sweeping and general, and so singular as to suggest a few considerations. The Times has been rummaging in the family records and has discovered that the gentlemen composing the administration are too old in years for any good use—they have outlived their usefulness. To quote from the article itself: "While undoubtedly the gentlemen who are running the political machine are men of ability, it is the ability of a generation gone by. They are not the possessors of that lively apprehension of the ultimate destiny of this province supposed to be associated with the influence they exert and the discretionary power at their command. They cannot appreciate the changed nature of their environment. * * * They are, we repeat, behind the times. They are relics of a generation gone by, fettered by its prejudices, and bound by its conventionalities. Past the hey-day of youth, they have abandoned the exercise of their faculties. Ideas have become repugnant to them and they have come to regard the activity of the present generation not alone with suspicion, but with the invidious sensations peculiar to senile decay. They have ceased to become plastic. Petrifaction has set in. They are living on their laurels; respectable because of past respectability; virtuous because of past virtues. These are their certificates of character; these are the pegs on which they hang their fitness for continuance of political power."

The Times in the foregoing concedes that the gentlemen composing the present administration are "men of ability," are "respectable" and virtuous" — a pretty good character to be given gratuitously by the "boss" opposition organ—but insinuates that they are "living on their laurels," and, being "past the hey-day of youth, have abandoned the exercise of their faculties." As to the government living on their laurels, it's something to have generally recognized laurels to live on. A government that can live on their laurels—something that is very much of their own creation—is not likely to cost the country much for board and lodging. We'll wager that the Times' gang, if they can only succeed in breaking into the public crib, will demand more substantial fodder than "laurels," even if they should chance to have any about them. With regard to the Times' "strange doctrine," which it appears to lay down as a general principle, that, after a man has passed the hey-day of his youth, he necessarily abandons the exercise of his faculties, and must be considered as belonging to a past generation, and relegated to its shades—bounced incontinently from positions of trust and responsibility, admittedly well filled in the past, to make room for new, bumptious and untried blood, just because it is new—all we have got to say is that our cotemporary's absurd theory is contradicted most emphatically by all the facts of experience, practice and common sense. Who are the trusted public men, the leaders, the administrators of affairs, to-day, in Great Britain, in Canada, in the United States, in the civilized world, we might add? Who have been at almost any epoch in the history of these countries that might be mentioned? Men certainly "past the hey-day of their youth," who, so far from "abandoning the exercise of their faculties," have found that their long experience has enabled them to exercise these to increased advantage in their country's service. It is unnecessary to mention examples that will occur to the minds of everyone. The "grand old men" of England, Germany, the Dominion of Canada, and the province of Ontario are the shining lights, of which there are many lesser in the firmament, who, being "past the hey-day of their youth," still continue to "exercise their faculties," and, by long experience made wise, have become almost indispensable to their country's government and well-being.

Able, respectable, virtuous, laurel-crowned, but no spring chickens—this is the best and worst that the Times can say about the men at the head of affairs in British Columbia. Well, everybody should feel relieved. The country is certainly safe with men of that stamp, who can be given such a character by their most adverse critic. But, after giving the personnel of the government a wholly unsolicited and open letter of recommendation of the most flattering sort, the Times apparently repents and tries to belittle its own work. It sneeringly exclaims: "These are their certificates of character, these are the pegs on which they hang their hopes and advertise their fitness for continuance of political power." As everyone knows, past record goes a good way in political, as well as in commercial and social matters, and if the Times will be so honest as to give the government such an unexceptionable character, it needn't be surprised if people fail to swallow its inconsistent advice, and stand by an administration, a while longer, about whom its worst enemies can only say that the members are able, respectable, virtuous, but a little old. It would be quite possible to get an infinitely worse combination. Indeed it would be very hard to get a better. There is another way, however, to discuss this subject than from the general standpoint.

The Times is annoyed because it has heard it said that the present administration comprises the ablest men in the province, and that "should a change of administration occur, the men who would assume power must be necessarily of an inferior calibre." In its vexation, our cotemporary goes far to confirm this impression; for, instead of claiming, or even hinting, that there are any able men at all in its own ranks, it makes the very weak assertion that to subscribe to the proposition that the present government comprises the ablest men in the province "would be to libel the intelligence of this province," and then proceeds, Balaam-like, to curse the members of the administration, with the same result as in the scriptural records, that the curse turns out to be a blessing. But if the Times is honestly convinced that a better double team of government mules than the ones now at the public crib exists somewhere, latent, so to speak, in the province, why, all our enterprising cotemporary has got to do is to trot them out, to show their paces, when the proper time comes, and the intelligent judges of horseflesh who wield the ballot, and thereby make thrones totter and tyrants tremble, will settle the question. But let the Times remember that, on its own showing, it has got a pretty strong team to pull against. It needn't enter any scrubs. Able, respectable, virtuous, laurel-crowned, even if a little old, is a combination that you don't strike every day of the week.

Job printing of all kinds neatly done at the COLUMBIAN office. Prices will be found as low as at any other office in the province.—Adv

TENNESSEE SOCIETY.

How Two of Its Members Proved Themselves Equal to the Occasion.

The Chattanooga (Tenn.) correspondent of the Chicago Times some time ago attended a typical Tennessee wedding at Sam Lowell's cabin on Sand Mountain. People came on foot and on horseback from all parts of the mountain, for the Lowells were "sassiety folks" and had a comfortable cabin with ten acres of cleared land.

It was early in the afternoon, but a number of visitors had already arrived. The women were in the house holding consultations as to whether the bride should wear her bonnet or not during the ceremony and assisting her in the preparation of her trousseau, which was the finest ever seen on the mountain. The dress was made of white muslin and around the waist was a wide yellow sash, with streamers almost reaching the floor. This was the pride of 'Mandy Lowell's heart; it was wider and longer than any sash ever beheld in that neighborhood and the color was brighter. She insisted on wearing her wedding hat; "else what tarnal good war thar in a-buyin' of it?" she argued. It had been brought all the way from Atlanta, and been added to after it came until it was a wonderful work of art. The high crown was surmounted by an immense white bow; around it was a beautiful red ribbon, while the streamers were of the brightest blue. On one side was a green bow, and on the other a scarlet one, each of which was fastened by an immense silver-plated pin. The idea of not wearing this hat at her wedding was not to be entertained for a moment.

While the women were discussing the details of the dress and preparing for the wedding supper, the men were standing by the fence, each with one foot resting easily on the lower rail while they whittled at the posts and talked of the times when they were young and courted the maidens who were now their wives.

The bridegroom had gone twenty miles over the mountains to the county seat after the necessary license. The squire who was to perform the ceremony walked meditatively back and forth in front of the house, looking quite uncomfortable in the dancing-boots which he had put on for the first time since his last marriage service ten years before.

The day was fast drawing to a close when the bridegroom rode up with the license. He was clothed in a doeskin suit, to which he had evidently not yet become accustomed. It was the only suit of the kind that the village store had and the creases showed that it had long remained in stock before it was sold. The coat was too large and the pantaloons too short, but, as the merchant said, "that made no difference; it wouldn't be worn more than once or twice a year," and to Tom Tilford's eyes they were the finest clothes he had ever dreamed of owning. He dismounted and received the congratulations of the guests in advance of the ceremony. He entered the cabin and the bride blushingly retreated into the impromptu dressing-room, which had been made by hanging a sheet across one corner.

"I knowed you'd git ketched," "It stands to reason that no man couldn't go with Mandy 'thout gittin' stuck," "I think you'll make as peart a couple as was ever hitched," and other rough but well-meant expressions greeted him as he entered.

The bride's mother acted as hostess, and in the midst of her cooking would run, with flour still on her hands, to bid her guests a hearty welcome as they entered. The cabin consisted of only one room and a loft, while a shed attached to the room served as a kitchen. The floor was of puncheons, and lime had been placed in the cracks and packed tight with a maul for the dancers. An old man stood in one corner with a violin. He was to furnish the music, as he had done at every wedding in that region for many years. The women, on entering, arranged themselves around the room; the men, when the first greetings were over, would repair to the front fence.

When supper was ready all gathered about the table, but ate sparingly, for the hostess gave the caution: "Don't yer go to eatin' too much, for the big supper is a-comin'; not as I keer for the things, but I don't want yer to spile the big supper." After the meal the dishes were cleared away and the wedding was announced. The 'squire placed a Bible and a copy of the Revised Statutes on the table, and said: "This 'ere court will come to order. Tom Tilford, stan' up. Mandy Lowell, whair air ye?" The bride appeared from the dressing-room retreat resplendent with her hat, the objections to which she had overborne. She blushingly walked up to the side of her lover and seized his left hand in her right. "See hyar, that won't do," said the 'squire. "You must jine right hands for marriages; left hands is good only for divorces, and ye don't want to be divorced yit," and he chuckled at his wit. "Now, both on you jine right hands; that's right," he added, as they complied with his directions. "Now let loose and hold up yer right hands and kiss the Bible." This was done.

"Tom Tillford, do you solemnly swar to take this yar woman, 'Mandy Lowell, as yer lawful wedded wife, to have and to hold, to love and to cherish, until death do you part, and with worldly goods dower her according to statoots made and pervided? Say 'I do.'"

"I do," Tom responded.

"Now, 'Mandy Lowell, do you solemnly swar to take this man for yer lawful wedded husband till death do you part and to love him and take keer of him and obey him according to Scripter and statoots? Say 'I do.'"

She blushingly faltered her assent.

"Then, by the power vested in me as justice of the peace I declare you Mr. and Mrs. Lowell—I mean Mr. and Mrs. Tillford—and what God and I, as justice of the peace, elected by the honest voters of the county, has put together let no man put asunder of he doesn't want to git licked by the hull settlement. I will now kiss the bride accordin' to good old custom."

THE CHLORAL HABIT.

A Vice That Is Far More Difficult to Overcome Than Alcoholism.

The above is the heading of a letter sent some months ago to a New York paper, as follows:

When a gentle, quiet little woman, the light of a happy home, with not a trace of insanity in her blood commits a dreadful crime—murders her children and herself in such a shocking manner that even the hardened newspaper reader shudders with horror at the thought of it—how is it that people are expected to be satisfied with a verdict of "emotional insanity," "temporary aberration of mind," etc.? What causes such sudden and horrible emotions? And are they sudden? Sometimes the person has been in poor health, frequently under the care of a physician, and almost invariably, if the disease is one of the nerves, hydrate of chloral has been administered either by the advice of the physician or without it, for its use is so general that one person will recommend it to another; and any druggist knows and can testify that he sells as much of it without prescriptions as with. Nervous persons who have become accustomed to its use think they can not live without it, though its continued use is certain to prove disastrous. The habit once formed is far more difficult to overcome than alcoholism or opium-eating. Two years ago the leading newspaper of a neighboring city published a number of articles concerning the intemperate use of this drug. It claimed that many homes were broken up by it; that cases of kleptomania, infidelity, murder and suicide—particularly the latter—were directly traceable to the use of hydrate of chloral. I hope that some one who is capable will write an article on this subject.—Union Signal. [illegible] resented to the Academy of Sciences a [illegible] Cornu gave it as his opinion that the light emitted by shooting stars is not due to conflagration or to the heat of impact. In those high regions our atmosphere is too unsubstantial to render the explanation acceptable. It is much more likely the phenomenon is one of static electricity developed by simple friction, and it is well known that rarefied gases can be made to glow intensely with but very little electric fluid.

THE BRAIN (from a photograph.)
Healthy Condition. With Paresis Lesions

There are many well known men confined in our Asylums who but a short time ago were prominent among our business and social circles.

Why are they there?

Paresis!

Did it come on at once?

Not at all. It was a gradual but positive growth. They overtaxed nature. The drain on their vitality, their nerve powers, their brain tissue, was too great, and they gradually but surely sank under it. The things they did to bring this sad end about are precisely the same things being done by thousands of men and women to-day. It is not necessary to name them. They all end disastrously unless checked or regulated.

Prof. Phelps, of Dartmouth College, knew this fully when he began his experiments which resulted in the discovery of the wonderful Paine's Celery Compound. He realized that Paresis (consumption of the brain) was our great National weakness. He knew that the brain and nervous system must be fortified to meet the great strains which modern life bring upon it. He saw that men were becoming debilitated and women weakened by the pressure and demands of life, and he sought and discovered the remedy Paine's Celery Compound. If rightly taken, will renew the brain and build up nerve tissues as fast as they become exhausted. It is not a narcotic. It contains no drugs, no nostrums. It is perfectly pure. It is absolutely harmless. The high character of its discoverer guarantees this, and the indorsement of the medical and chemical professions prove it.

The advantages and prospects of this Plot for a future thriving Town are many.

The Land in the vicinity is good.

There are inexhaustible IRON ORE DEPOSITS, of a superior quality, immediately adjacent, as well as vast strata of the finest BUILDING SAND and POTTERY CLAY.

On the Townsite are a number of valuable MINERAL SPRINGS.

Communication by land and water is unequalled, by reason of the location of the Townsite on the Fraser River and the Southern Railway, while the natural elevation and lay of the land can not be excelled as a situation for a fine town.

The ground is open and clear of heavy timber.

The site has been selected as one of the most important stations on the Southern Railway, and with the completion of the road, in the near future, must, with all its other advantages, spring into prominence at once.

Those who apply early will have the pick of the Lots.

A clear title given with every purchase.

Parties wishing Lots can apply as well, on the premises, to

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS THIS DAY.

Auction Sale.....T. J. Trapp
Strayed.....St. Mary's Hospital
N. W. Building Society..W. J. Walker

Another blank sheet at the police court to-day.

Another very warm day, but tempered by a cooling breeze.

The sisters of St. Marys hospital are advertising for two lost cows.

When is a nose not a nose? When it is a little radish (reddish). Ring!

All the fashionable iced beverages, at the "Hub," next the "Queen's." *

The tug Active, of the Royal City Planing Mills will soon be ready for her trial trip.

Walker & Co. have Sapperton Lots near New Hospital and Ross-Maclaren Mills at old prices. *

To-day is the 18th anniversary of the union of British Columbia with the Dominion of Canada.

The str. Rithet left for Victoria this morning with 60 tons of freight and farm produce and 35 passengers.

The str. Irving left for Chilliwack this morning with 30 tons of freight and a large number of passengers.

The Begbie street contract will be finished at least two weeks before the specified time. The street has been closed to traffic.

The services at Holy Trinity church to-morrow will be, morning prayer and holy communion at 11 o'clock, a.m., evening prayer at 7 o'clock, p.m.

The board of directors of the Royal Columbian hospital acknowledge with thanks the receipt of a large box of clothing from Venerable Archdeacon Woods.

Fish averaged from 50 to 75 to the boat last night, and are thought to be about to run in large numbers. The fishermen feel certain that the run will be on by Monday.

The semi-annual general meeting of the New Westminster building society will be held at the court house on Saturday 27th inst., for the purpose of electing officers and other important business.

A large number of people left the city this afternoon to spend Sunday in the country or at the seaside. The warm weather which has continued so steadily of late has had much to do with the exodus.

Queen's avenue from Mary street to the park will be one of the next streets to be improved. The city engineer and his staff are working like trojans preparing the plans and specifications for the improvements.

For two or three days we have not had the pleasure of noting the fact that Mr. "Next" has paid his subscription to the Exhibition fund. What's the matter with "Next," anyhow? If he don't "move on" the other subscribers will be too late. No time to lose.

Rev. W. C. Duncan arrived at Victoria from New Metlakahtla Tuesday night. He reports the loss of a large new sawmill by fire at the settlement. On the trip from Alaska a number of the tourists subscribed a sum of money to assist in the erection of a new saw mill.

The lacrosse club had the best practice of the season last night, nearly 30 members turning up to play. If the boys maintain the enthusiasm at present exhibited, in three months there will not be a team in the province able to defeat them. Steady practice is the thing that tells when a hard match is fought.

The World says: Mr. J. L. Mudge, manager of the Anthracite coal mine left for Port Moody yesterday afternoon. Mr. Mudge states that the output of the mines at Anthracite is steadily increasing, and it is expected that ere long the amount of coal turned out of the shafts daily will total up at least 1,000 tons. It is true that an English syndicate has bought an interest in the mines. Many of the seams are from 13 to 25 feet in width, and there is enough already located to last for probably 100 years.

The Big Drum.

George Flux, acting under instructions from the Salvation Army adjutant, at Vancouver, to whom the bursting of the big drum was duly reported, has sworn an information against John Andrzejewski, charging him with unlawfully and maliciously damaging a big drum, the property of the Salvation Army, and valued at $7.00. The case will be heard before the police magistrate on Monday, and it is likely the big drum, though sadly demolished, will yet raise a very big noise.

A Pleasure Cruise.

Mr. A. C. Ferguson, the well known real estate owner of Vancouver, is making a tour of the coast with his yacht Necasaki. The pretty little vessel arrived in port yesterday and a trip down the North Arm was taken, which was greatly enjoyed by Mr. Ferguson and his guests. This morning the party left for Boundary Bay and Whatcom, and after visiting these places will continue the cruise as far as Seattle and Tacoma. After the present trip is completed it is probable a cruise will be made round Pitt Lake.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

The Long Sniders.

Thirty long Snider rifles arrived last night from Victoria for the use of the N. W. rifle association. These were applied for just 15 months ago, but it is satisfactory to get them even now. A number of the rifles were served out to members of the association to-day and were used in the spoon contest at Brownsville this afternoon. As they are all tested weapons the scores should show a decided improvement. A number of Martinis were applied for also, but the government failed to forward them.

The Greer Property.

In another column will be found Mr. T. J. Trapp's announcement of the sale by auction of 25 choice lots on English Bay, the property of Mr. Samuel Greer. The sale takes place at the Colonial Hotel on Saturday evening, August 3rd. A number of these lots were put on the market at Vancouver a few days ago and were bought up by those who have full confidence in Mr. Greer's claims. It is quite safe to say that the 25 lots offered for sale in this city will go like "hot cakes."

Holy Trinity Church.

An adjourned meeting of the vestry of Holy Trinity church was held last night, the bishop presiding. There was a large attendance. The outgoing church wardens presented their accounts which were received and a statement ordered to be prepared for printing. The following officers were then unanimously appointed: Church wardens, Messrs. G. E. Corbould and W. J. Armstrong; sidesmen, Messrs. H. V. Edmonds and A. M. Herring; deputy church wardens, Messrs. J. W. Harvey and George Turner; secretary of the vestry, Mr. E. A. Jenns. Votes of thanks were passed to the outgoing church wardens, to Mr. Morey for his services as organist, and to the chairman.

Unexpected Enthusiasm.

The members of the Westminster militia are not fond of dancing. A meeting was called for last night to discuss the question of giving a dance next month while the annual prize meeting of the Provincial Rifle Association was in progress, and when many military visitors would be in town. The meeting was attended by one officer and three privates of the Rifles and one non-commissional officer of the Artillery. After waiting half an hour the dancing enthusiasts separated without holding a meeting, as they thought a ball that could only muster a "four hand reel" or "French fours" would not be an unparalleled success. It is sincerely to be trusted that our militia will never be ordered out for active service, for it would be too bad to make them "rustle" for once.

Flowers for the Sick.

The practice followed by a number of young ladies last summer in paying weekly visits to the Royal Columbian hospital, and carrying with them boquets of flowers to brighten the sick rooms, was most heartily appreciated by the patients, who came to look forward with much pleasure to the Saturday visitors. But this kind and thoughtful custom was short-lived, for it only lasted one season, and with the death of the flowers came the last of the visitors. So far this summer only one bouquet has been left at the hospital, and yet there are three hundred gardens in the city from which several bouquets could be picked every day and never missed, and these are allowed to bloom and wither almost untouched, careless of the pleasure they might give to the sick and dying. If the ladies would only stop a moment and think of the joy a bouquet of flowers would give to many a poor and friendless patient of the Royal Columbian hospital, nothing of this sort would ever have to be written again.

Vessels Collide.

At 8:45 o'clock Wednesday morning the tug Blakeley collided with the str. Olympian about one mile out of Port Townsend. She struck the Olympian head on, at an angle of 45 degrees, on the port side just forward of the wheel, breaking down the bulkhead and badly staving in her house for a distance of ten feet. A dense fog prevailed when the accident occurred. Both boats were bound for Port Townsend, the Olympian from Victoria and the Blakely from outside. The Olympian was moving along at half speed, and her whistle was being blown frequently. Her officers heard the Blakeley's whistle several minutes before the collision happened, but the density of the fog prevented her location to any accuracy. Suddenly she loomed up on the port side, and before anything could be done her prow was crashing into the side of the huge passenger craft. The hole in her side did not reach befow the water line, and she made no water. The Blakeley escaped without a scratch. Both boats hove to until it was ascertained that the Olympian's machinery was uninjured, when they both steamed into Port Townsend. At this place Messrs. Bryant and Bullene, local inspectors of hulls and boilers, boarded the damaged boat and examined a number of eyewitnesses of the accident. The damage to the Olympian is estimated at $2,500, though that may be somewhat high. Just where lies the blame is hard to determine.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. A. C. Ferguson returned to Vancouver this afternoon.

Miss O'Connor has returned from a visit with friends at Vancouver.

W. Norman Bole, Q.C., and wife arrived home from Victoria to-day.

Amos Bowman, of the geological survey, left for Coquitlam lake this morning.

Miss Maggie McGregor, returned by the steamer Rithet last evening from Victoria.

Mrs. Draper and Miss Katie Draper returned last evening from a visit to friends on the Delta.

Samuel McClure, left this morning for his former home at Matsqui, where he will remain a week or two for the benefit of his health.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant, Miss Thain, Miss Waitt and J. H. Thain drove over from Vancouver this morning and spent the day in town.

Col. McGregor, whose pleasant face has been missing from the Royal city for several weeks, returned home last night from Victoria. He had a gay visit, and dame rumor again connects his name with a handsome Victoria lady in a wedding that is to be.

The Authorities Condemned.

The committee appointed by the association of fire adjusters to investigate water supply during the fire at Seattle, on June 6th, and the condition of the fire department prior to that time, find that the 12-inch mains were totally inadequate for a city of the size of Seattle. That "water from the Sound might have been used to great advantage had the authorities provided "drops' in the wharf so that the suction pipes of the engines could have reached the water at low tide. As it was we have the amazing spectacle of a large city, nearly surrounded by water, with appliances for using it, yet yielding unresistingly to the flames for lack of water which could not be reached.

"In conclusion, your committee would state that the city authorities are responsible, not only for an inadequate water supply, but for an undesciplined and inefficient fire department, a lack of fire apparatus and, finally, for the destruction of the beautiful and prosperous city of Seattle. Had the authorities given more time to the discharge of their official duties and a little less to their personal affairs, they would have profited by the warnings of underwriters and the appeals of the local press, and Seattle would not to-day be in ashes."

Excitable Victoria.

A Chicago paper pronounces Victoria, B. C., the dullest town in America, and all because the business hours in the various mercantile establishments there commence at 1 p. m. and end at 4 p. m. The charge is of course the result of Chicago jealousy. Nevertheless it is a fact that there is none of that rush and worry in the far west that characterize some eastern cities. Business there is conducted in what we should regard as a leisurely manner, and the only excitement that interrupts its even tenor is the frequent cricket match.—Mail.

Sardine Packing.

A gentleman from the east is at present in the city for the purpose of examining into the question of establishing a sardine cannery at Esquimalt. The real sardine inhabit the waters of Esquimalt and west coast harbors in large numbers, and it is believed that this favorite dainty could be profitably canned, as they are procurable fully ten months in the year. It is also believed that the oil of the skil could be used instead of olive, or, what is really used in packing sardines—cotton seed oil. If this is the case the canning of sardines will be the means of promoting two industries.—Colonist.

Coal Lands Bonded.

It will be heard with a great deal of satisfaction that steps are about to be taken to further develop the coal lands of Vancouver Island. Yesterday Mr. Frank Richards bonded 6,000 acres of coal lands in the Fort Rupert district to eastern capitalists, who will set about boring and prospecting them at once. It is learned that the property is bonded at a good figure and that the bonders are abundantly able to develop the mines should deposits prove as valuable as they are supposed to be, and as geologists have claimed that that they are. As there is no doubt but that plenty of coal exists in the northern part of the Island, the time is not far distant when we may expect to see Fort Rupert district an active mining country.—Times.

Cariboo Quartz.

On July 12th, at the Barkerville reduction works, the stamps started to crush ore and the concentrator to save the concentrates. The staff began charging the roasting furnace on the 8th, and had already taken out 1½ tons of thoroughly roasted ore, and there are about 3½ tons in the furnace roasting. It was expected that they would start amalgamating the roasted ore this week. The Black Jack quartz company have shipped to the works nearly twenty tons of concentrates, assaying from $40 to $50 per ton. It is the intention of the government assayer to put these through as one lot, and if successfully amalgamated it will have a tendency to encourage quartz mining. The same company have already caught $300 in free gold on the plates. The twenty tons of concentrates and the free gold were saved from twenty tons of ore.—Colonist.

News From the North.

The steamer Barbara Boscowitz arrived from the north yesterday morning at 11 o'clock. Fishing news is to the effect that the run on the Naas still continues good. The run on the Skeena is not as satisfactory as was expected, and the hump-backs had already put in an appearance. The B. A. P. Co. was reported to have packed 8,000 cases, the Windsor, North Pacific Packing Co., and Inverness, about 7,000, and the other Skeena canneries about 6000. Letters received from there state that there will not be much more than half a pack if the run does not improve.

The steamer called at Rivers Inlet on the way up on the 8th, but not on the return trip. On that date Shotbolt & Draney's cannery had put up 3,500 cases, and had enough fish on hand to put up a thousand more. Mr. Draney writes that he has all the fish he can handle, and hopes to put up a full catch.

The Swiftsure, Amphion and Icarus were at Fort Simpson, having been detained there for a week by foggy weather.—Friday's Colonist.
