THE CASCADE RECORD

Published in the Interests of the Boundary and Christina Lake Mining Districts

VOL. I. CASCADE, B. C., MAY 13, 1899. No. 27.

WILL BE A GREAT SUCCESS.

Preparations for the Celebration are Now in Excellent Shape.

During the last week the plans for the successful carrying out of the details for the Queen's birthday celebration, to be held in Cascade, a week from next Wednesday have been crystallizing rapidly. In addition to the treasurer, W. A. Milne, getting in a large part of the subscriptions, there was a general meeting of the members of many of the committees held on Wednesday evening to consult with the finance committee in regard to pushing preparations for the celebration.

At this meeting the list of events to be held was outlined, a synopsis of which will be found on page four of this issue of the Record, with the prizes which it was decided to award to each event. A detailed program will be published a day or two before the celebration takes place.

From the indications there will be some good horse racing, as Republic and Rossland have been heard from in this matter, and it is said that Grand Forks has some speedy horseflesh. The prizes of $150 on this event should bring a string of fast animals.

A letter was received from Bossburg, saying that the base ball nine of that town was figuring on coming. It is hoped that a match can be arranged with the nine from the Forks. If not, the local ball tossers will put up a strong fight for the prize. There is said to be some crack players in Cascade. While the wet weather this week has, to a certain extent, prevented much practice, the work of getting the diamond in shape has been going on steadily. The grounds are located near the house of Rev. J. McCoy, back of the first rise.

The proposal was made that the hotel men of Cascade challenge the hotel keepers of Grand Forks to a tug of war, with probably eight men to a side. Cascade has some husky landlords, and if those from the Forks are more so, they will be good ones indeed.

In the rock-drilling contest, it is required that at least a 20-inch hole be made in the 15 minutes allotted. As there are many rock men in these parts, this will be an interesting event.

The Indian horse race, pony race, bicycle race, freighters race, prospectors race and fat men's race will doubtless have their enthusiasts, while the miscellaneous sports and caledonian games are not forgotten.

The races will take place on First avenue, which will be cleared for the occasion. Those intending to enter for the events should send word to the secretary without delay.

The Bossburg Cornet Band will play for all games and events, and will be present all day. It is expected that many will avail themselves of the opportunity also to enjoy a steamboat ride on Christina lake.

In the Mining Field

The Burnt Basin still continues to be, to a large extent, the centre of mining operations in this vicinity, and each week sees some move of importance in respect to some of the free gold prospects in that favored region. Within a few days the representatives of two of the most influential corporations operating in British Columbia, have been into the Burnt Basin examining some well known properties, chief of which was the Mother Lode. This group, which is now being opened up by a force of men under Mike Shick, was visited by Major R. J. Edwards Leckie, on behalf of the New Gold Fields of British Columbia, Sir Charles Tupper's company; and also by Frank Oliver for the British America Corporation.

While neither of these well known experts cared to express themselves for publication, it was evident to their intimate friends that they were more than pleased with the result of their investigations. It is believed that some important announcement will be made before long in this connection.

Great Chamberlain Strike.

Frank Hutchison has been working on the Chamberlain group on McRae creek for some little time, always confident that he had a good thing. This belief was confirmed this week when he received a $229 assay from a sample of rock he had brought from the bottom of the shaft. T. F. Carden, the Cascade assayer, gave 11 oz. of gold and 15 oz. silver as returns, and he is known as a conservative, careful assayer.

Mr. Hutchinson, who is sole owner of the group, informs the Record that he has a good sized ledge, with well defined walls. The group is located about three miles from English Point, on McRae creek, and was located last year by Hutchinson and Reid. Appearances would indicate that there is the making of a mine in the Chamberlain, and Mr. Hutchinson will exploit it further.

The force of men that has been at work on the Ennismore, in the Basin, has been set at work on the Mystery group, another promising set of claims.

Thos. G. Elgie, who is working the Pleasures of Hope claim, in the Burnt Basin, spent several days in the city this week. He has a most favorable opinion of the Basin.

In many places there is still considerable snow in the Burnt Basin, and as yet development cannot be carried on to the best advantage. But it is now going rapidly, and the creeks are rising in consequence.

Last Tuesday Chas. H. Thomas of this city, visited the Burnt Basin and set a force of men at work on the Monitor, a claim in which he is interested. He thinks he has a good thing, and proposes to find out just what there is in the property.

OFFICER DARRAUGH APPOINTED.

Made Chief License Inspector for Rossland Riding.

Last Tuesday Constable D. J. Darraugh, of Cascade, received official notice from the government that he had been appointed chief license inspector for the whole of Rossland riding outside of incorporated towns. The other members of the board are T. W. Coleman, of Trail, and E. Jackobs, of Midway, those two towns being on the extreme eastern and western limits of the riding.

The last legislature passed a new act regulating the granting of liquor licenses, a synopsis of which was printed in last week's issue of the Record. These appointment were made under the provisions of that law. The new act is quite strict in its requirements, but of course, as usual, much is left to the discretion of the board of license commissioners The act requires that applicants for a license shall send the same, with a fee of $10 to Victoria before the 15th of May or the 15th of November, receipt of which will be acknowledged. When the applications are passed on, they are sent to the licensing board which meets at a time and place arranged by the chief inspector. Cascade, being the most central place in the riding, will doubtless be selected as the point for meeting, to take place some time in June.

The names of all applicants for licenses are required to be advertised by the chief inspector in a local paper, at least two weeks before they take effect.

During the week Mr. Darraugh has been busily engaged in making out the applications for many of the 20 hotel proprietors who have houses in Cascade, Gladstone and other nearby points. Outlying hotels hereafter must pay a license of $100 annually instead of $60 as formerly. In towns the license fee remains $200 per year. All those to whom licenses are granted must give bonds to the amount of $500.

According to the Bossburg Journal there will be a goodly number of citizens from that burg attend the Queen's birthday celebration in Cascade.

Paymaster Woodman, for the railway contractors, went to Grand Forks on Thursday, his firm being garnishee defendant in the case of Hoskins vs. Degmin, two sub-contractors on the railway construction. The case, with many others, was continued.

IN AND AROUND CASCADE.

Julius Black went to Spokane this week.

James M. Martin, member for Rossland riding, has sent word that he expects to be in Cascade in a few days.

An impromptu dance was given at the Cascade Auditorium last Monday evening, in honor of Miss Lizzie McIntyre, who left yesterday to join her sister in Greenwood.

At the election for three school trustees for the newly created "Cascade School District," held Saturday afternoon, Messrs. Rochussen, McRae and Ferguson were chosen.

George Tierney, who was sentenced to six months imprisonment last week by Justice Rochussen for vagrancy and assault, was taken from the Grand Forks jail to Kamloops on Wednesday.

William Parker, father and proprietor of Brooklyn, on Lower Arrow lake, stopped in Cascade on Wednesday, en route home from the upper country, where he had been spying out the land.

A woman called Lily May disappeared from a resort in Grand Forks Sunday night, and was supposed to have committed suicide by jumping into the Kettle river. It has been learned since, however, that she is now residing in Bossburg.

Prof. J. W. Watkins, of Bossburg, leader of the band, will give a choice concert in the Cascade Auditorium, on Monday and Tuesday, May 22 and 23, for the benefit of the celebration fund. He should have a good turnout from our people, as his entertainment is said to be excellent.

Engineer Englund and a force of fourteen men went over to Grand Forks on Wednesday, to run lines for a spur to a proposed smelter site. The work was completed in two days, and the force returned to camp in Cascade. Only preliminary lines were run, as has been done previously at a number of proposed smelter sites.

This week the Kettle river has been rising rapidly. In one day it came up over three feet, and a solid avalanche of water six feet in depth by measurement, is now pouring over the new dam of the power company above the falls. No fear is felt for the safety of that structure, as it is weighed down with hundreds of tons of rocks.

New Location for Post Office.

Postmaster Cameron this week has been pushing work as fast as possible on the new building to be used hereafter as a postoffice. It is located on First Avenue, east of the old location. The new building is 20x30 feet in size, story and a half high, and will be conveniently arranged with additional lock boxes to meet the growing demand. The Columbia Telephone Co. will also have its Cascade office in the new building, Mr. Cameron being the local manager. He expects to be in the new office within a few days.

Now on the Sixth Contract.

E. F. Burns, of the contracting firm of Burns & Jordan, was in Cascade Wednesday. His firm now have 60 men on the two-mile sub-contract near Greenwood, which is the sixth piece of the work they have undertaken on this line. Two pieces were on Lower Arrow lake, one above Gladstone, one below the same town, one above Grand Forks, and the present contract. Besides this Burns & Jordan also have two miles from Foley Bros. & Larson on the Great Northern, at Trinidad, Wash., where Mr. Jordan is in charge.

Mr. Burns, like the majority of railway men, appreciates the reliable character of the news contained in the Record, and while here had his name added to the constantly growing subscription list of this paper.

Myrtle B. Making Regular Trips.

The steamer Myrtle B. is now making regular trips on Christina lake from Moody's landing to English Point, leaving the former point at 10 a.m., daily, and arriving at the same place on the return trip at 2 p.m. On Sundays special excursions will be run to the head of the lake.

Messrs. Matheson and Levalley, the owners of the Myrtle B., are now getting a barge ready for transporting horses or merchandise. It will be 13x36 feet, and will be very useful now that the wagon road through the swamp is impassible, the corduroy being afloat in several feet of water. As soon as the Moody bridge is altered so as to permit its passage, the Myrtle B. will run down Christina creek to Cascade.

Will Build a Home in Spokane.

Peter Larson, of the firm of Mann, Foley Bros., & Larson, whose headquarters are in Cascade, has purchased three lots in Browne's addition, Spokane's fashionable suberb, and will at once commence the erection of a handsome residence. On its completion he will remove his family from Helena to Spokane. The price of the property was $6,100. Mr. Larson, in addition to being one of the most prominent contractors in the Pacific northwest is an extensive mine owner in the Cœur D'Alenes and elsewhere.

Moody Bridge to be Raised.

At the adjourned meeting of the Cascade Taxpayers' Association, held last Tuesday evening, considerable routine business was transacted.

The sum of $25 was voted towards changing the Moody bridge over Christina creek, so that the steamer Myrtle B. can come down to Cascade. A committee consisting of Messrs. Ferguson, Rochussen and Chandler was appointed to see those interested on the lake in the matter.

A communication from the Rossland Board of Trade was read in regard to sending delegates to a Board of Trade convention, to be held this season.

It is stated that Constable Gardom, of Midway has handed in his resignation.

Any person requiring dressmaking or family sewing can now secure the services of a competent dressmaker right here in Cascade. Inquire at Francis & Milne's store.

IN AND AROUND CASCADE.

Oats are selling at five cents per pound in Midway and are not plenty at that stiff price.

Dr. S. B. Richards, the government veterinary inspector for the Boundary district, located in Cascade, is keeping close watch for cases of glanders among the many horses passing Boundarywards.

The Flyer stage is crowded both ways on nearly every trip. When it first started, and reached Grand Forks from a half hour to an hour ahead of the old line, it was received with cheers by the people of the Forks. Attention is called to the card of this line in another column.

The managers of the Okanagan and Spallumcheen Agricultural Society are not letting the grass grow under their feet. Their fall fair will be held on September 26th, 27th and 28th, and already the prize list is published in handsome pamphlet form and widely circulated.

A prospector was nearly drowned on Tuesday in the swamp through which the Brooklyn wagon road, east of Christina lake runs The corduroy for a distance of several hundred yards is afloat in four or more feet of water, and his horse had to swim. The road will probably be impassible for a couple of months, necessitating the use of the steamer Myrtle B. on the lake.

Jas. H. Lowe, formerly provincial constable at Kelowna on Lake Okanagan, but who lost his job because he did not wish to move to Gladstone with his wife and two weeks old child, was in Cascade last Sunday. He is now travelling for the Kelowna Shippers Union, a most successful concern. While here he made a contribution for his firm to the prizes for the Queen's birthday celebration in Cascade.

PROVOST FORGED OULET'S NAME.

And Then Lost no Time in Crossing the Boundary Line.

Frank Provost is pretty slick, and now that he is across the line is probably chuckling over the successful forgery committed here. If brought back, however, he stands a good chance of getting free board and lodging at Kamloops for about five years.

Provost had a logging contract with Lynch & Earle, of the Cascade Sawmill Co. Ed. Oulet was working for him and Robert Banford was interested in the contract with him. Provost secured a time check for $22 from Lynch & Earle, payable to Oulet, and coolly writing the latter's name on the back, got James Morrill to cash it. Then he skipped across the line. The forgery was discovered, and after the bird had flown, a warrant was sworn out for his arrest. Provost also owed Banford $100, and a second warrant was placed in the hands of Constable Darraugh. Morril succeeded in getting Lynch & Earle to cash the time check before the forgery was discovered.

In the meantime Mr. Provost is safe out of harm's way in Spokane or elsewhere, unless the provincial government takes the matter up.

Work on the Long Bridge.

About 50 men are now employed in the construction of the 1000-foot railway bridge, to span Kettle river just east of Cascade. They are in charge of two foremen, one for the framers and the other putting the timbers in place. On the west end, out as far as the span, the three decks of bents have been erected, and are partly up on the east end. The two spans over the river proper will not be put in at present, as some of the long sticks must come from the coast, but a temporary substitute will be used. No serious trouble has yet occurred from the high water now coming on.

IN AND AROUND CASCADE.

Louis Blue was in town last Tuesday, shaking hands with his many friends.

James Gill, whose leg was broken in a stage accident between here and Bossburg some two months ago, is able to be out on crutches.

C. J. Eckstorm, manager of the Cascade Auditorium, has sent for a piano, which he hopes will be here in time for use for the grand ball on the 24th.

Francis & Milne received a consignment of flags last Thursday, and inside of two hours they were sold. Another lot has been sent for, to arrive by express.

Frank Corte, the Brooklyn mail carrier, who came in Thursday night, says that the tracklaying gang on the railway are now on the fourth leg of the east side of the switchback. Mr. Corte is puzzled as to how he is to get through the swamp, near Lavalley's it being now exceedingly dangerous.

Travel into the Boundary is unusually heavy just now. The Flyer is loaded on every trip and the Columbia stage line is also carrying many passengers The latter line now runs its Marcus stage only as far as Toulou's, where travellers are transferred to the four horse stage from Bossburg.

APPEARS TO BE AN ORPHAN.

A citizen of Cascade, while in Rossland recently, interviewed Gold Commissioner Kirkup in regard to improvements in roads and trails in the Christina lake district—a part of Rossland riding. Mr. Kirkup was surprised to learn that Government Agent Norris of Vernon had stated that this section was now out of Yale, as far as road repairs went, and that Rossland riding's appropriation would have to be shared by this section. It would thus appear that we were kicked out of one by the late government and had not yet fully gotten into the other.

Last year not a dollar was spent on much needed repairs on the Dewdney trail this side of the summit, and this notwithstanding that there was ample funds, according to Mr. Kirkup's statement, available in his territory. Evidently he was not apprised that he should do work this side of the mountain range, and this part of Eastern Yale was the sufferer.

Mr. Kirkup states, however—and his word is recognized everywhere as good as his bond—that he will ascertain his position as regards this part of the riding at once, and will devote a proper share of the appropriation for the entire riding to needs this side of the summit.

Thus far, with the exception of the Dewdney trail, built many years ago, not a dollar has been spent by the government in new roads, trails or bridges in this section. They have all been constructed at private expense and by private labor by the pioneers of this region. It is high time that the government gave assistance, and the Record believes that Mr. Kirkup will see that justice is done. Just now repairs on the Brooklyn wagon road, near Lavalley's are greatly needed, in addition to clearing out and straightening this end of the Dewdney trail.

The report of Minister of Mines Hume for 1898, which has just been issued, is a most comprehensive volume and one full of interest—especially to this section of the province. It comprises 1230 pages of detail about our metalliferous deposits, and has been carefully compiled by Mr. Robertson, the provincial mineralogist. It shows that the product for the year was a trifle short of $11,000,000. In all probability the report for 1899 will show a decided increase. As the new railway will assist the Boundary in its output, this section should make a good showing in 1899 issue.

The Rossland Record pauses to exclaim: The newspaper business is the only business that everybody understands. We do not know how the secret gets out in every village, town and city in the world. The office boys must give it away. However, the cat is out of the bag and there is no use denying it. The man who carries in the wood and coal, will stop his work to tell you how to do it. Every business house in every town has someone about it who knows all about how a newspaper should be run. It makes us sad to think about it, but we suppose it will ever be thus.

Our member, Mr. Bostock, is now mourning over the death of a measure introduced by him in the Dominion parliament, by which railway companies would have been obliged to furnish free passes to members of parliament and senators. The argument was advanced that, as the majority of members travel on passes anyway, the measure would work no hardships on the transportation companies. The premier, however, did not think the act a wise one, and as most of the members agreed with him, the bill was killed on its second reading.

At the office of Mann, Foley Bros. & Larson, the railway contractors, the statement is reiterated this week that, barring unforeseen accidents the iron horse will snort into Cascade some time in June. As they are laying the track, as well as grading the roadbed, they ought to know. It is said that the C. P. R. have announced that, after June 10th, they will haul all freight into the Boundary country by rail to Cascade.

The wash-up of the Yukon for this year is estimated at $18,000,000 or $20,000,000. British Columbia's mineral output will probably be a little less. In Colorado, one camp, that of Cripple Creek, is turning out $1,500,000 per month in gold. And yet these last two are not made half as much fuss over as is the over-estimated Klondike. Far away pastures always have a most inviting appearance.

The selection of provincial Constable Darraugh, of Cascade, as chief licensing inspector for Rossland riding, by the provincial government, was a tribute to that gentleman's abilities. Mr. Darraugh will doubtless perform his duties fairly and conscientiously.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

And now comes a chewing gum trust. What will the poor girls do now, if the price is raised? Next!

Midway is following the example of Cascade, and will celebrate on the 24th. Already a goodly sum has been subscribed for expenses.

The list of "good Filipinos" is growing as fast as they get in front of the American guns. The authorities at Washington believe that peace is not far off.

Copper continues to go up slowly but surely. The present figure, 19 cents per pound means a great deal to the copper-gold producers of southern British Columbia. Let it climb.

The Columbia Review felt so good over the incorporation of that town that the first page of last week's issue was printed in a bright carmine—painting the town red, as it were.

The Nelson Miner announces an extra fine illustrated edition, descriptive of the town and section, for some time in June. Whereupon the Tribune comes up promptly and calls it a fake. What a difference of opinion, showing that it depends upon whose ox is being gored.

Machinery for Boundary mines has been coming into this section all winter in astonishing volume, when the cost of wagon transportation is considered. It is probable with the advent of the iron horse being now so near at hand, that mine owners will wait for the railway to bring in machinery in the future.

BY THE WAYSIDE

Since the coming into effect of the new provincial license act, on April 1st, hotel keepers have been wondering where they were at, in regard to renewals and new licenses. The Record last week gave particulars of the Act, and the information received this week that Cascade's government representative had been appointed chief inspector for the entire district of Rossland riding, outside of incorporated cities, will be pleasant news to Cascade's bonifaces. It means that the licensing court will doubtless be held here some time in June, as being the most central point in the riding, and that those desiring licenses or renewals will appear before that court.

Some persons--and they are not few—labor under the hallucination that the life of an editor is one continual round of ease. Such individuals can see for themselves what a snap the average publisher enjoys from the following, taken from an exchange, which is quite true to life:

"We apologize for all mistakes made in previous issues, and say they were inexcusable, and that we ought to know better, as all an editor has to do is to hunt news, and clean the rollers and the press, and set type, and sweep the floor, and write short items, and fold papers and make paste, and mail papers and talk to visitors, and distribute type and chop wood, and read proofs and correct mistakes, and hunt the scissors to write editorials, and haul water for the boiler, and rustle advertisements and job work, and dodge the bills, and dun the folks that won't pay up, and take cussings from everybody, and tell our subscribers that we need money."

With the exception of some few minor details of the program, everything is now virtually arranged for the Queen's Birthday celebration in Cascade. During this week Treasurer Milne has called on most of the subscribers, who have promptly responded, and that essential feature is actually provided for. One thing the Record would call the attention of citizens to, particularly. Between now and the 24th every resident of the town should see that the street in front of his place of business is raked up, and the same attention should be paid to the back yards. Let us impress the crowds of visitors with the cleanliness of the Gateway City.

Landlord Thomas of the Cascade, who visited the Burnt Basin this week to set a gang at work on one of his claims, says that every man in the Basin will be here on the 24th. This is true also of Gladstone and English Point. Secretary Willcox received letters from Greenwood and Bossburg this week re the celebration, and there will probably be delegations from both points, as well as from intermediate places. The Bossburg band may consist of fourteen pieces, instead of twelve, as it has been augmented to that number. At any rate, there will be plenty of music for the celebration.

When the U. S. troops occupied the Cœur D'Alene mining camps, a few days ago, and the dynamiting, murdering miners saw that their day was ended, they lost no time in making themselves scarce; that is, those who were not taken unawares and arrested. The refugees, many of them made for the Canadian border, and during the last week quite a number have passed through Cascade, en route to Greenwood and other upper Boundary camps. It is not surprising that these men should wish to get out of the United States as soon as they are able to make tracks.

Last Sunday morning several were camped on the edge of the town. Going to a restaurant for breakfast, one asked, "What city is this?" On being told that it was Cascade, the Gateway City of the great Boundary country, he inquired: "On which side of the line is it?" "Well," answered the restaurant man, "it depends; if you are on the other side, it is on this side, and if you are on this side, its on this side." "But it is in British Columbia, is it not?" anxiously inquired the man. On being assured that he was in Her Majesty's territory the men were greatly relieved, and shortly afterwards moved on, destined for the upper Boundary and probably for the main line of the C. P. R., and so out of this section.

It is to be hoped that none of these gentry will remain in this region. Their methods of enforcing demands, as expressed in the blowing up the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mill, at Wardner, Idaho, and in the killing of a couple of men, are not in accord with the sentiment on this side of the international line. If they had just grievances they most certainly went at it in the wrong way to get them adjusted.

The Morrison tunnel is in over 300 feet, and steam drills are in use.

A 30-foot shaft is to be sunk on the Big Windy in Providence camp.

The Cariboo, the Camp McKinney dividend payer, is putting in a seven-drill air compressor.

The 50-horse power boiler and air compressor for the Winnipeg mine, passed through Cascade on Thursday.

The Kamloops in Camp McKinney is to be subdivided into townsite lots, which will be on the market before long.

On the City of Paris and Lincoln, in Central camp, the crosscut tunnel is now in 900 feet. The entire face of the drift is in ore.

August Reischl left on Tuesday morning for the Burnt Basin with a force of men to commence work on the Mabel and Bessie claims.

The Highland Queen and Thunder Hill, two Canyon creek properties of merit, have been bonded from Dan Stewart by Sydney M. Johnson, P. L. S.

A second payment has been made on the bond on the Nellie Cotton claim in Greenwood camp. There are two shifts at work, and a fine showing is reported.

Over a hundred prospectors are said to be in the country around the new town of Beaverton on the West Fork, which new town is in the centre of many promising claims.

On the Golden Crown, in Wellington camp, the shaft is now down 160 feet, and will be driven to the 500-foot level. The new 5-drill air compressor has been installed.

Winnipeg stock is steadily rising as development continues. The installation of the new compressor plant will doubtless soon have the effect of showing up even greater ore reserves.

A large hoisting and pumping plant has been ordered from the James Cooper Mfg. Co. for the Snowshoe property by Alfred J. McMillan. The property is to be extensively developed.

The Rambler, in Pass Creek camp, has a 40-foot tunnel, all in ore. The Golden Giant, in the same camp, has a 90-foot tunnel. Considerable development is to be done in the camp this season.

The main shaft on the Pathfinder, on the north fork of Kettle river, is now down 100 feet. Two and a half feet of solid pyrrohotite ore were encountered and work is progressing satisfactorily.

The splendid strike recently made on the Iron Cap, near Okanagan Landing, is the talk of that locality. The ledge is six feet wide, the ore being a free milling quartz. Experts are quite enthusiastic about it.

The Fitz Hugh claim, in West Copper camp, has been bonded by Chas. Collins, who will start development work at once. The Dominion, in the same camp, has been taken over by Mr. Finch, well known in mining circles.

You can always be sure of getting a good meal at the Montana hotel. Everything neat and clean.

IN AND AROUND CASCADE.

J. S. Frye, who has spent several weeks in Cascade, returned to Spokane by Wednesday's stage.

D. D. Ferguson, the contractor, is erecting a 13x42 store building and office on Main street, adjoining the Gaine & Roy warehouse.

The branch store to be opened by the B. C. Syndicate will be located in Gladstone, and not in the Burnt Basin, as stated by mistake last week.

From a reliable source it is learned that lots in the new town of Eholt, eight miles east of Greenwood, at the summit, will not be placed on the market till some time in July.

On Monday, L. Norris held a Court of Revision on the voters' list. Ninety-four names were struck off as dead or left the country, and the revised list as it now stands shows 1418 voters for East Yale.--Vernon News.

A petition is being circulated requesting the Spokane Falls & Northern railway to run trains a couple of hours earlier, so that the large number of passengers now coming into the Boundary district, can reach points in this section in good season.

Presbyterian Church Organized.

Last Monday evening the organization services of the First Presbyterian church of Cascade were held at the school house. Rev. J. M. Wallace, of Grand Forks, was expected to be present and take part, but owing to delay in transmission of mails, he did not get here. Rev. Joseph McCoy preached the sermon, and a number signed the roll of membership. The officers will not be chosen at present, and the roll is open for signature for all those who wish to join the organization.
