TO OUR FRIENDS IN THE COMMUNITY:

The past year has provided a number of challenges to higher education in general and to UBC in particular.

The difficult economic climate has affected universities along with so many other institutions. UBC has had to do more with fewer financial resources. By and large faculties and departments have responded well to this challenge by increasing productivity on diminished resources. It is, therefore, a time in our history when we rely more than ever on the generosity of individuals, corporations and foundations. I am delighted to report that our support from alumni and from the community as outlined in this booklet achieved a record high level in 1981-82.

These gifts helped to establish UBC as a centre of excellence, not only for our province but across Canada. Our thanks go to all of you who have supported our work so generously.

I would also encourage you to take advantage of the many events and activities on UBC campus that are open to the community.

During the past year The Alumni Association has undertaken the operation of the Resources Council. I invite you to maintain contact with the University by directing your enquiries to the Alumni Association.

Again, I extend the gratitude of the entire university community to the many companies and individuals who have supported our goal of providing a rich and rewarding educational experience for all of our citizens.

Yours sincerely,

Douglas T. Kenny

Introduction

The University owes much of its stature to private gifts. Research, teaching projects, scholarships and bursaries have been supported by individual benefactors, alumni, corporations, students, foundations and associations. Many of the major buildings, as well as a wide variety of other projects, serve as testimony to the generosity of those who helped to build UBC.

Gifts have been made anonymously, directly, in memory of relatives, in honour of friends and by bequest. Many alumni and other donors contribute annually. During the year benefactors donated $16,226,282.

The University is deeply grateful to those who have given such generous support and also thanks the many volunteers who have helped generate gifts.

This booklet does not include the names of 4,018 donors to the Alumni Fund. Provincial and Federal grants are recorded in other publications.

The University and You

The University is deeply conscious of the debt of gratitude it owes its many donors and is anxious to express that gratitude by being of service to you.

Its many superb facilities are open to the general public for conferences, social functions, workshops and seminars. They can cater for small groups or for larger ones of up to 1,000 persons and are backed by food, accommodation and programming services.

Our Aquatic Centre is available for use by the public as are the Museum of Anthropology and the Asian Centre, whilst a visit to one of our renowned gardens should be considered a must.

Throughout the year music recitals, stage plays, film festivals, displays of dancing and exhibitions of art are an ongoing feature of campus life to which you are cordially invited.

Results of research conducted at the University are published and are freely available should you wish to know of them.

If you do not already receive copies of UBC Reports or the Alumni Chronicle, we would be delighted to place your name on our mailing lists.

The magnificent site, the beauty of the campus and the varied activities of the community make UBC an outstanding place to be, and we most heartily extend an invitation to you to visit us. We will be happy to guide you or a friend, or even arrange a tour.

Wills and Bequests

The University is grateful for the help, understanding and financial support of its many friends over the past years. Some have indicated that support by making direct gifts to the University, others by naming the University as a beneficiary in their wills.

During the years 1981-82, the sum of $2,402,878 was received from 25 such bequests.

Gifts, so made, may be designated to an area of particular interest, or may be undesignated for use at the discretion of the University.

Various reasons have been given by donors for considering UBC in their estate planning: the gift is consistent with a lifelong interest in the University or a particular field; experiences as a young person with limited finances; the desire to memorialize the name of a loved one; or simply that UBC is an institution worthy of support.

The University will welcome the opportunity of acquainting its many friends and their estate planners with the satisfaction to be had in making provision for The University of British Columbia through their Estate Planning Program.

Gifts-in-Kind

Each year, UBC's library, works of art and museum collections are expanded and enhanced as a result of gifts-in-kind. These generous gifts from individual friends of the University, special interest groups, governments and corporations fill gaps in existing collections or form the nucleus of new collections of material which are used by students and faculty members for teaching and research. Gifts-in-kind also benefit the public generally since most are on display in museum and art collections or are available through the UBC library system. The University also holds title to property which has been received as bequests in wills or which has been transferred to the University during an individual's lifetime. The University welcomes enquiries from friends on matters related to property.

Outstanding Student Support

Since 1928, students have funded or helped fund 12 major campus buildings by more than $6.6 million. This outstanding support is believed to be unequalled by the students of any other North American university.

In addition, students have worked for and donated to six special building campaigns in the past few years. Each year the graduating class supports various campus activities. The class of 1981 donated $2,500 to the President's Committee on the Concerns of the Handicapped — a wheelchair ramp at Brock Hall; $1,000 to the Law Students' Legal Advice Program — summer clinics for legal assistance, and $6,500 to the University Day Care Council — basic equipment for Children's Recreation Centre.

1968:	747,000	Additions to the Thea Koerner Graduate Centre
1971:	1,350	Asian Studies Centre
1974:	925,000	UBC Aquatic Centre

The UBC Alumni Fund

The Wesbrook Society

The establishment of The Wesbrook Society, named in honour of the first UBC President, Dr. Frank Fairchild Wesbrook, has long been an objective of the UBC Alumni Association. That objective has now been achieved.

The history of the University of British Columbia is marked with major successes in academic, athletic, research and public service activities. The hidden force behind these great achievements is a confident and generous body of alumni, faculty, staff, students and friends who have made financial and personal commitments to UBC.

Some of these dedicated individuals have provided major support for the University's programs by joining The Wesbrook Society. Wesbrook Society members are invited to become part of the cultural, intellectual and social life at the University of British Columbia.

Central to the purpose of the organization are the programs designed especially for all Members. Among membership benefits are: The Wesbrook Card; special access to University events and facilities; invitations to attend forums to discuss with the University President and Chancellor significant plans and goals for the University; the "Wesbrook Quarterly," a newsletter providing information on major UBC developments; and an opportunity to meet with other Wesbrook Society members at an annual dinner hosted by the Chancellor and President of the University.

Membership in the Wesbrook Society is open to all individuals or corporations donating at least $1,000 annually to the University of British Columbia. Members of the Wesbrook Society are free to designate that their gifts be used for specific purposes or they may leave the decision to the Board of Trustees so that funds will assist the areas of greatest need.

Special thanks is expressed to the Members, who now number well over 300, for making an investment in the University of British Columbia. By their example, others who also care about the success and progress of UBC will be encouraged to make their own commitment to membership.

Full information on the Society may be obtained by contacting the Wesbrook Secretary, University of British Columbia Alumni Association, 6251 Cecil Green Park Road, Vancouver, B.C. V6T 1W5 (604) 228-3313

The UBC Memorial Fund

The University has established a Memorial Scholarship and Bursary Endowment Fund which it is hoped will provide a significant source of student support in future years.

The purpose of the fund is to encourage memorial donations and to cater for donations that in themselves would not provide sufficient investment income to ensure a meaningful award.

The fund is designed to serve persons willing to leave small bequests to UBC, to serve lifetime donors and corporations wishing to make gifts in memorium.

From time to time there have been and will continue to be organized in-memorium funds of sufficient amount to provide meaningful awards over a long period.

A special feature of the Memorial Scholarship and Bursary Fund is the help it will give to individuals and small groups of donors who are not in a position to make major gifts at the time of death of a friend or relative but who may hope to make further lifetime gifts and/or to include an appropriate provision in their wills. By means of this fund the name of a deceased person will be memorialized in perpetuity from the time the original gift is made.

Donors interested in making in-memorium gifts for scholarships and bursaries, or considering other forms of student support, are asked to write or call:
