Excitement in Lee, Massachusetts, Over the Fear of a Repetition of the Conemaugh Disaster.

John L. Sullivan Quietly Surrenders Himself to the Authorities and is Taken to Mississippi.

The British Legation Expected to Furnish Data Regarding Seised Sealers in a Month or So.

ABOUT THE SEALERS.

Washington, Aug. 1.—The reported seizure of the English sealing vessel Black Diamond by the revenue cutter Rush has not caused the amount of excitement among the officials of the State, Navy and Treasury Department that such an incident might be expected to create. Beyond the brief dispatch of Tuesday from the commander of the Rush, reporting the seizure of the Black Diamond, the treasury department has received nothing concerning the matter. Within the past few days a dozen letters have been received from commanders of revenue vessels on the sealing grounds, but none of these give any information concerning the movements of sealers or the condition of matters around Behring Straits. Some of these letters were dated as late as July 1st. They relate to nothing but routine business matters. Acting Secretary Wharton said this morning that the state department had received no definite information about the seizure. He thought the British legation at Washington would lay the matter before the department in a month or sa.

SULLIVAN PACIFIC.

New York, Aug. 1.—John L. Sullivan, who was arrested last night on a requisition from Governor Lowery, was brought from police headquarters to the District Attorney's office this morning. Sullivan waived all his rights and agreed to go back to Mississippi. He then surrendered himself to Sheriff Childs, of Mississippi. The sheriff said he would take Sullivan back to Mississippi to-morrow morning.

LATER.—Deputy Sheriff Childs, of Mississippi, intends to leave for home with Sullivan to-night. Detective Adams, of the New York police, accompanies them.

FERRY BOAT FINED.

Sault Ste Marie, Mich., August 1.—The ferry boat Beckwith was libelled to-day by Canadian custom officials for carrying passengers to the Canadian shore. The ferry had taken a party of American and Canadian Methodist Sunday School scholars for a picnic. The fine imposed upon the boat was $400. The ferry boats here have been accustomed to take their excursions up shore and have never been troubled before.

AFRAID OF THE DAM.

Lee, Mass., Aug. 1.—There has been great excitement here lest the dam should give way and allow the overflow of the lake, over two miles long and nearly a mile wide, to sweep away the business part of Lee, together with half a dozen mills, including two of the Smith Paper Co. Men were at work on the dam nearly all day yesterday. People on Railroad street have moved out, while merchants on Main street have prepared to get away at the slightest warning. At midnight rain had ceased and the workmen hoped to save the dam, but danger was imminent and but few people slept in town last night.

RAILWAY EARNINGS.

Boston, Aug. 1.—The approximate gross earnings of the Atcheson, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad for July were $1,330,429, a decrease of $141,196 as compared with July, 1888.

MORE BREWERIES SOLD.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 1.—Negotiations were completed to-day for the sale of all breweries in Omaha to a European syndicate for $1,500,000. The purchasers are said to be the Rothschilds.

SUMMARY WORK.

Mobile, Ala., Aug. 1.—Henry C. Boyce, carpenter, was shot and killed this morning by Walter W. Williams, at whose house the murdered man boarded. Boyce is said to have been intimate with Mrs. Williams.

RAILROAD COLLISION.

Oxford, Ohio, Aug. 1.—A collision occurred last night on the Junction Branch of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton railroad about two miles east of here between the regular Indianapolis express, east bound, and an engine running wild. The result was the death of one of the firemen and probably the death of two other men. The engines were total wrecks. All passengers, some fifteen or more, escaped without injury, but the conductor and brakemen were thrown forward and scratched about the face. The engineer of the wild engine, John Dougherty, was running back to Canesville, and says he forgot all about the regular train. He had brought back to Hamilton a lot of empty gravel cars and took orders at Hamilton to follow No. 36, the west bound Indianapolis express. He claims that he had been on duty 30 hours without any rest. His fireman, Charles Lee, was killed.

MURAT HALSTEAD NOMINATED.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 1.—The Commercial Gazette to-day nominates Murat Halstead for the United States Senate in a double-headed editorial, over the signature of Riehard Smith.

CHINESE SAILORS CANNOT ENTER.

Washington, August 1.—Acting Secretary Batchellor of the treasury to-day, disapproved of the opinion of Solicitor Hapburn in the matter of the Chinese employed as servants on the United States steamer Alert and other vessels. The solicitor held that these Chinese were entitled to admission to this country as enlisted men in the navy. The secretary holds that under the Chinese Exclusion Act they are debarred from admittance to this country.

THE PUBLIC DEBT.

The public debt statement issued from the treasury department to-day shows an increase of $1,017,311 during the past month of July. That there was an increase is due to the unusally heavy disbursements during the month. The pension disbursements were three quarters of a million heavier than in July last year, and the expenditures for public works were nearly five millions greater than in July 1888.

STILL BUYING BREWERIES.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 1.—The Eberhardt Ober Brewing Company, owners and operators of the largest brewing establishment in western Pennsylvania, have just about determined to sell out their entire interests to the English syndicate of capitalists, about whose investments in this country so much has been heard.

TREASURE RECOVERED.

New York, August 1.—George Gould, President of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, has received a telegram from the company's agent at Manzanilla, stating that treasure, footing up about $200,000 on board the Pacific mail steamship Granada when that vessel was lost has been recovered. The Granada went ashore about a month ago on the rocks along the coast Punta Tejuhtn. The vessel, valued at $200,000, is a total loss.

THE COKE STRIKERS.

Pittsburg, August 1.—The great coke strike announced to take place to-day is by no means a failure, but from reports received it can only as yet be announced as a partial success. Work was suspended at a number of coke works this morning. The strikers claim that the strike will be general to-morrow. A mass meeting of cokers at Cornellsville this afternoon was largely attended. Coke operators appear but little concerned and have as yet taken no step towards a conference with their men. McClure & Co. claim that their 1500 ovens are running, and do not fear that their men will join the strike. Frederick & Co. report sixty-five per cent. of their ovens in operation. Mr. Frick claims that his striking employees have violated an agreement that does not expire until December 31st next. Schoonmaker, Rainey & Cochrane report their works running full today.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 1.—A Scottsdale special says that the coke works idle by the strike include over 3,500 ovens, and give employment to about 6,000 men, or about one-half of the coke workers in the Cornellsville region. It is reported tonight that E. A. Humphreys, of the Fountain works at this place, who has large contracts, will accede to the demands. The leaders of the strike are very confident of success, claiming that it is a question of bread with them. At a meeting of the general committee to-day, arrangements were made to carry on a long struggle.

AN ORANGE TRUST.

New York, August 1.—The long-talked of orange trust seems about to become an accomplished fact. A meeting to-day of the parties interested took steps to organize the "Florida Orange Growers and Dealers Protective Association." E. Goodsell, the prime mover in the enterprise, explains that the central office will be established at Jacksonville, through which all dealers and growers will transact business, thus avoiding the demoralization to trade which has characterized the haphazard system hitherto prevailing.

LOWERS HIS OWN RECORD.

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 1.—The three-year-old stallion Axtell, in the trotting heat to beat the three-year-old record, made it in 2:14¼, lowering his own record three-quarters of a second. Guy was then put on the track to beat his record of 2:12½, and after many trials got away in fine style, trotting the mile in 2:10¾.

WRITS DISMISSED.

New York, Aug. 1.—In the Supreme Court to-day the writs of habeas corpus and certiorari were sued out yesterday on behalf of Henry S. Ives and George H. Stayner, financiers, were dismissed, the court holding that they were irregular. The prisoners were remanded.

WILL NOT TAKE IT.

Washington, Aug. 1.—It has transpired that Senator Malderson, of Nebraska, has not yet received $4,000 of back pension, which Mr. Tanner awarded him, and the Senator's friends say he will write a letter refusing to receive the money.

INCREASING THEIR WAGES.

Bethlehem, Pa., Aug. 1.—The Bethlehem Iron Co. to-day announced an increase in the wages of its puddlers from $2.25 to $3.30 per day, and a proportionate increase in the pay of men at work at dephosphorized iron.

BOGUS INSURANCE.

Reading, Pa., Aug. 1.—The property of the Standard Live Stock Insurance Company of this city was sold at auction by order of court to-day, but as nothing but some old office furniture could be found, creditors will realize nothing. The company had nearly a million dollars of insurance on its books when it failed.

MORE FLOODS.

Middletown, Conn., Aug. 1.—The recent heavy rains have caused Brick Lake, in Middlefield, to rise so high that to-day it overflowed the dam and swelled the stream which is its outlet to such an extent as to carry away a number of bridges and small dams along the stream. Several grist mills and other structures were wrecked and the highway badly damaged.

STILL AT IT.

New York, Aug. 1.—The steamer Ozama, from Gonavere, reports that up to July 21st Hippolyte was still unsuccessfully bombarding Port au Prince.

A WARNING.

The modes of death's approach are various, and statistics show conclusively that more persons die from diseases of the Throat and Lungs than any other. It is probable that everyone, without exception receives vast numbers of Tubercle Germs into the system and where these germs fall upon suitable soil they start into life and develop, at first slowly and is shown by a slight tickling sensation in the throat and if allowed to continue their ravages they extend to the lungs producing Consumption and to the head, causing Catarrh. Now all is dangerous, and if allowed to proceed will in time cause death. At the onset you must act with promptness; allowing a cold to go without attention is dangerous and may lose life. As soon as you feel that something wrong with your Throat, Lungs or Nasals obtain a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup It will give you immediate relief.

EMPEROR WILLIAM'S RECEPTION

London, Aug. 1.—The Thames was alive to-day with craft of all sorts decked in holiday attire and packed with spectators of all classes. Their destination was Spithead, where they will arrive tomorrow in time to witness the imposing reception of Emperor William of Germany by British war vessels assembled there for the annual naval review which takes place Saturday. The Emperor, on board the Imperial yacht Hohenzollern, passed down to-night at 9 o'clock and is expected to be at Spithead early to-morrow morning. The whole squadron passed close enough to Dover to exchange salutes with the castle. There was a continuous and deafening roar from heavy guns on shore answered by batteries on board the ironclads and a long brass gun placed amidships on the Emperor's yacht. The reception, to be given at Spithead, will be of a most imposing nature. Emperor William, immediately after his reception by the British men-of war, will land at Coates and proceed at once under escort of a body of marines to Osborne.

THE VALKYRIE WINS.

London, August 1.—The London yacht club regatta yesterday off Cowes was won by Valkyrie, Yarana second, Irex, third.

DANGEROUS AT BOTH ENDS.

Paris, Aug. 1.—The training frigate Couronne, while off Hyeres in the south of France this morning, burst one of her machine guns, killing eight of her men and injuring seventeen others. The accident occurred in the course of practice firing.

REPRESENTATIVE WORKINGMEN.

London, Aug. 1.—The steamship City of Rome, from New York July 24th, having on board the delegation of representative workingmen sent by the Scripps (newspaper) League to visit the Paris exposition, was sighted from Fastnet Light at one o'clock this morning. She reached Cork Harbor at daylight and will probably cross Liverpool Bar about four o'clock this afternoon, in which case the American workmen will land to-night.

EXPLORER DEAD.

Berlin, Aug. 1.—Lieut. Tappenbeck, a German explorer, has died from fever in Cameroons.

MOTHER AND SON.

Belgrade, Aug. 1.—The conference between ex-King Milan and the Servian regents to consider the question of the future relation of ex-Queen Natalie and her son, King Alexander, resulted in the decision that Natalie should only meet her son outside of Servia.

THE GOODWOOD RACES.

London, Aug. 1.—The race for the Prince of Wales' stakes at Goodwood today was won by the Duke of Portland's bay filly Seminole, Douglas Baird's bay filly Barcarolle was second and Lord Durham's bay colt Castelar was third. The stakes are valued at 2,000 sovereigns with additions. The principal event of the day was the race for the Goodwood Cup, which Warren De La Rue's chestnut colt Trayles won easily, leading Duke of Beaufort's brown filly Latania, the only other starter, easily. The race for the Rous Memorial stakes of 200 sovereigns each, 500 sovereigns added for owner and 100 sovereigns for nomination of winner for two-year-olds, was won by Lanton's bay filly Riviera, Lord Arlington's bay colt Ben second and John Watson's chestnut filly Strawberry Hill third.

SEXTON'S MOTION REJECTED.

London, August 1.—In the Commons to-day Thomas Sexton moved an adjournment to consider the sentence imposed upon Dr. Tanner for assault upon Police Inspector Stephens last May, maintaining that the Crimes Act itself said he did not contemplate exactly a technical assault, but provided in express terms for the punishment of assault with violence. There was no claim anywhere that the assault with which Dr. Tanner was charged was anything more than a technical assault. No violence was attempted. The provisions of the act under which Dr. Tanner was convicted did not cover the case at all, and the sentence was clearly illegal. On a division, Sexton's motion to adjourn was rejected by 174 to 118.

FROM BEHRING SEA.

Arrival of the Sealing Schooner Walter L. Rich With a Catch of 1423 Skins.

At 1 o'clock yesterday morning the schooner Walter L. Rich arrived in Victoria and Captain Siewerd came ashore in a row boat. He was interviewed by a representative of the Colonist shortly after his arrival, to whom he said: "On the 7th of July there were six American schooners, including my own vessel, at Ounalaska. Among these were the H. D. Lilly, and Allie Alger. The Captain of the Rush informed us that he was going to capture sealers, and we decided to remain in and wait for further developments. Previous to this time we had all been coast fishing and our catches had been left at another port down the coast. On the 15th of July the Rush returned to Ounalaska and the same evening the captain told me of the capture of the Black Diamond. He said that she had been found with over a hundred skins aboard her and that he had put her in charge of an officer, and ordered her to sail to the port we were then in. He also told me of the boarding of the Triumph, and said that not having found any skins aboard her had been forced to let her go free. None of the six schooners then in Ounalaska had been fishing in Behring Sea at all, and none of them had skins aboard. The Rush was still in Ounalaska when I left, four days after she returned from her chase. We capturep 1423 fine skins, and had splendid luck up the coast all through. We got a fine trip down."

On his way through Behring Sea Captain Siewerd sighted a schooner which he believes was the Black Diamond heading a direct course for Ounalaska.

DEATH OF PREMIER DAVIE.

A Brilliant and Useful Statesman Cut Short in His Prime.

At 3:30 yesterday morning Hon. Alex. E. B. Davie, Attorney-General and Premier of British Columbia passed peacefully away at his residence in Victoria, surrounded by his family and relatives. Deceased was born in Somersetshire, England, in 1846, and came to this country in 1862 with his father. He was educated at Silcoate's school, near Wakefield Garkshire. He was articled as a clerk in Drake & Jackson's office. He was admitted as an attorney in 1868, and was called to the bar of the province in 1873. He lived for a time in Cariboo practicing at his profession. He was law clerk for the legislative assembly from 1872 to 1874, and in 1875 was elected as a member for Cariboo district. In May, 1877, he became a member of the executive council of the Elliott government, and going before his constituents for re-election in August of the same year he was defeated. In 1879 he formed a law partnership with Mr. Chas. E. Pooley, present speaker of the local legislature, which has existed up to the present time, the firm enjoying a very large and profitable practice. At the general election in 1882, Mr. Davie was elected for Lillooet, and when the late Mr. W. Smith was called upon to form a ministry in 1883 he selected the deceased as his attorney-general, a position he occupied up to the day of his death. On 21st September, 1883, he was made Q. C. On the death of the late Mr. Smithe in March, 1887, the deceased succeeded that gentleman as premier and president of the council, and retained the confidence of a large majority of the members of the legislature.

During the fall of 1887, through close application to the duties of his position, and of his business, his health failed, and so serious a phase did his illness assume that in the following spring his physician ordered a change of air. In company with his wife he visited Barkerville and in the bracing air of the mountains his health considerably improved, and he returned to Victoria and again engaged in work. Early in the winter, however, his illness again strongly manifested itself, and Mr. and Mrs. Davie spent several months in California and Colorado. Returning after the session of 1888, again largely benefitted by the change, he remained in Victoria during the fall and winter, and was present during the session last spring. His system, however, was fast succumbing to the ravages of consumption, and though he spoke at length on several occasions, it required great effort on his part. When the House separated at the end of the session, every member felt that they were parting with their first minister for the last time. Their fear has proved true. Mr. Davie daily attended to his duties at his office after the session, but he gradually declined in health and was finally compelled to take to his bed, and since then has gradually become weaker until he passed away yesterday morning to his eternal reward, confident that there awaited him a better life in the world beyond.

The deceased was married on December 3rd, 1874, to Constance Langford, third daughter of the late Thomas S. Skinner, of Maple Bay, Cowichan, and she with four young children are left, to mourn the loss of a kind and honored husband and father. Deceased also leaves four brothers—Dr. J. C. Davie, Mr. Theodore Davie, Q. C., Mr. William Davie and Mr. Horace Davie.

TRIFLES TO TURN TO.

Lord Salisbury is to be the Queen's guest at Osborne from August 3 to 5.

A dog fight was the centre of attraction on Commercial street last night.

If you wish to "see snakes" visit the Central Hotel and put yourself under the charge of Mr. Halleck.

The following arrived in our telegraphic dispatches last night and speaks for itself, the wires having collapsed: Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 1.—(Bust).

The boiler of the steamer Isabel is not giving satisfaction, so it is proposed to transfer one of the tug Alexander's boilers to her at an early date.

On completion of the tug Lorne, probably in one month from the present, the tug pilot will have a new hull built and otherwise be remodelled.

A bush fire is reported on the Wellington road near the house built by the Vancouver Coal Company for the use of Mr. R. Scott, Manager of the Northfield mine. Several men were employed yesterday endeavoring to arrest the progress of the flames.

The children in Alaska are rapidly being educated to death by the so-called Christian educators. By the United States law the children have to attend American schools from 9 a. m. until noon and then from 1 p. m. to 4 p. m, and now the Russian law has stepped in and compelled the children to attend Russian school from 7 a. m. to 9 a. m. and then from 5 p. m. to 9 p. m. When do they play?

He Liked Mutton.

A short time ago Mr. E. Quennell, of the Cosmopolitan Meat Market, imported several sheep of good breed which he allowed to run at large on the "green," but in counting over his flock one day he missed a unit of the number and following out the Biblical idea he thought more of the one lost sheep than of the "ninety and nine" that remained. But all his thinking would not restore the errant mutton, and so he wisely held his peace and was rewarded by receiving an anonymous letter assuring him that a Chinaman, answering to the sobriquet of Jumbo, who is employed by the Vancouver Coal Company, could furnish him with information respecting the "lost sheep." Acting on this anonymous advice Mr. Quennell soon unearthed the thief who pleaded so hard for mercy that the tender-hearted butcher decided to let him off this time if he promised not to do it again.

Wrestling.

Matsada Sorakichi has gone to Vancouver from Seattle to wrestle with D. H. Cameron, on Saturday afternoon next. The wrestle is to be $250 a side. The first two bouts are to be Græco-Roman and catch-as-catch-can. Whoever wins the fall in the quickest time is to have a choice of styles for the third bout. It has been decided to have the Quinn-Sorakichi wrestle on the evening of August 9.

Nanaimo Not Burned Down.

August the 1st has passed and still Nanaimo rears itself on the shores of the Gulf of Georgia, despite Mrs. Sampson's prediction to the contrary. It will be remembered that Mrs. Sampson, who posed here as a test medium, was kind enough to foretell that the whole of the eastern portion of Commercial street, from the firehall to the Long Bridge, would be destroyed by fire yesterday. It is not probable that this prediction troubled very many of our citizens and those to whom it did cause some uneasiness would be proof against such charlatanism in the future.

A Practical Man.

The following is given as Bill Nye's obituary of Mr. Weeks: "Mr. Weeks was a self made man, and even in his most prosperous days would not allow finger bowls in his house. His education was mostly in the line of the business he had adopted, and though he did not know that evolution was a gradual change from an indefinite and incoherent heterogeneity to a definite and coherent homogeneity, through constant differentiations and integrations, a flat wheel would wake him out of a sound sleep before it had made two revolutions."

Rose of Jericho.

A Pennsylvania botanical society has received a rose of Jericho from Persia, of which species of flower it is said that when dry weather is prevalent it wraps itself into a ball and is to all appearances dead. The wind blows it from the stalk and it goes bounding along until it reaches a moist spot, where it unfolds its leaves, drops its seeds, and a garden of roses appears.

Every Ten Years.

There is a superstition among miners that every ten years rich diggings will be discovered somewhere. The record so far is: California, 1849; Pike's Peak, 1859; Nevada, 1869; Leadville, 1879.

One of the eastern visitors at a San Jose hotel is an ardent whist player. He has kept it up for fifty-one years and counted the games. They number 78,839.—San Francisco Call.

ANOTHER PREMIER GONE.

IN the death of Hon. A. E. B. DAVIE, we have another exemplification of the old addage that "death loves a shining mark." He was a man who held the confidence and esteem of all with whom he came in contact; a man above reproach in private or public life, and one whom the province can illy afford to lose from its council chambers at this particular time. During his long career of public life, his most unforgiving political enemy will admit that his conduct was always that of an honest, upright and conscientious gentleman. There was no low, pettyfogging political jobbery connected with any of the acts of ALEX. E. B. DAVIE. The country placed implicit confidence in him, and it has the satisfaction of knowing that, so far as he was concerned, that confidence was never violated. He goes to his eternal rest honored by a grateful country for the noble acts of self-sacrifice rendered in its behalf, and well may our people say, with one accord, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

PROVINCIAL POLITICS.

Now that the Hon. A. E. B. DAVIE has been called to a higher parliament, there is some anxiety in political circles to know upon whose shoulders his mantle will fall. There is no gainsaying the fact that this vacancy in the Executive Council leaves the Government in a rather embarrassing position. Since the general elections of three years ago, three of the most prominent leaders of the present Government have been called to their long home. Premier SMITHE, the head and front of the party, was the first to go. His death somewhat staggered them, for he was a shrewd political leader, and kept the party well together. Then followed the demise of the Hon. ROBERT DUNSMUIR, President of the Executive Council, a man of sound judgment and extensive political experience. And now that their remaining mainstay, Hon. ALEX. DAVIE, has been taken from them, we are not prepared to say, with any degree of certainty, that the Government as at present constituted, will hold together through another general election. There are many and serious deflections from the party in Victoria, notably Mr. D. W. HIGGINS, who carries with him considerable influence. We also hear of numerous desertions on the Mainland, principally through the shabby treatment of certain districts of the Government. These are potentious omens which point the direction of popular sentiment, and if the present rulers of the province wish to obtain another lease of life they will have to be extremely careful during the next year.

Regarding the present vacancy in the Executive Council, we presume the duties of Premier will fall upon the Hon. JOHN ROBSON, Provincial Secretary, an astute politician and withal a good public servant, but who has of late lost much of his old-time popularity in New Westminster District, which place gave him his seat. Without doubt Mr. THEODORE DAVIE, brother of the dead Premier, will be chosen as Attorney-General, in which event he will be required to go before the electors of Victoria for endorsement, and will probably be returned, unless some very popular man is pitted against him by the Opposition. It has been asserted (with what amount of truth we cannot say), that Mr. THEODORE DAVIE has a leaning toward joining Mr. HIGGINS and foming the nucleus of a third party, independent of both the present Government and Opposition, in which case they would be joined by many supporters of the party now in power, especially those from the Mainland. However, in whatever course political events may shape themselves in the near future, it is an acknowledged fact, admitted by its own supporters, that the present Government is in a shaky position, and will require strong bracing up to carry it through the next hustings.

THE ENGLISH SPEAKING RACE.

The recent speech delivered in Massachusetts by General Buttler, in which he expressed the idea that the English speaking races of the world should stand together as the promoters of peace and the uncompromising opponents of war, has elicited a great deal of favorable comment, and is acknowledged a step in advance of the line of public opinion both in the United States and England. British statesmen still have their eyes upon continental alliances, and continue to build up their navies and consolidate their insular strength that they may continue to play an imperial part in the affairs of the world. United States statesmen still continue to cling to the spirit of the Munroe doctrine, and view with suspicion European entanglements and even so slight an entanglement as the relations assumed by the United States to Samoa. Yet in spite of all this, it is not difficult to see that the relations of the United States to England are growing closer at a rate that might give ground even for the coolest judgment to predict the condition of friendship and alliance portrayed so glowingly by Gen. Butler. Since the close of the civil war Americans and the British people have come to know each other better and to take a greater interest in each other's affairs, and this mutual understanding and interest seems to increase. The press of both nations, which a few years ago were so bitter, have become warmer from the glow of national good feeling, and now are most cordial in their expressions. Every occasion brings forth such expressions. At the time of the Conemaugh flood and the Seattle fire the London Times showed the change in that public opinion by passing beyond the simple expression of sympathy to speak of "the indomitable people," to direct admiration to their courage and promptitude in repairing the great ruin, and finally by uttering this sentiment: "We cannot forget, and it is satisfactory to see that our countrymen have not forgotten, that the people of America are our brethren and that sorrows and sufferings which make the whole world kin are entitled to special and active sympathy from ourselves." These friendly expressions at the time were noticed by the United States press and reciprocated. There seems to be nothing that can or ought to mar these relations of sympathy, or prevent their growth in the future as in the past. It is now hard to say what changes time may bring about between the English-speaking races of the two continents. But that there is a noticeable change by which expressions of the most friendly sympathy has taken the place of bitter censure is quite evident.

A PASTORAL.

I sat with Doris, the shepherd maiden;
Her crook was ladened with wreathed flowers:
I sat and wooed her through sunlight wheeling,
And shadows stealing for hours and hours.

And she, my Doris, whose lap incloses
Wild summer roses of faint perfume,
The while I sued her, kept hushed, and hearkened
Till shades had darkened from gloss to gloom.

She touched my shoulder with fearful finger;
She said: "We linger; we must not stay;
My flock's in danger, my sheep will wander;
Behold them yonder—how far they stray?"

I answered bolder: "Nay, let me hear you,
And still be near you, and still adore;
No wolf nor stranger will touch one yearling;
Ah! stay, my darling, a moment more."

She whispered, sighing: "There will be sorrow
Beyond to-morrow, if I lose today;
My fold unguarded, my flock unfolded,
I shall be scolded, and sent away."

Said I, replying: "If they do miss you,
They ought to kiss you when you get home;
And well rewarded by friend and neighbor,
Should be the labor from which you come."

"They might remember," she answered meekly
"That lambs are weakly and sheep are wild;
But, if they love me, it's none so fervent;
I am a servant, and not a child."

Then each hot ember glowed quick within me,
And love did win me to swift reply:
"Ah! do but prove me, and none shall blind you,
Nor fray, nor find you, until I die."

She blushed and started, and stood awaiting,
As if debating in dreams divine;
But I did brave them—I told her plainly
She doubted vainly; she must be mine.

So we twin hearted, from all the valley
Did chase and rally her nibbling ewes,
And homeward drove them, we two together,
Through blooming heather and gleaming dews.

That simple duty from grace did lend her—
My Doris tender, my Doris true;
That I, her warder, did always bless her,
And often press her to take her due.

And now in beauty she fills my dwelling—
With love excelling, and undefiled;
And love doth guard her, both fast and fervent—
No more a servant, nor yet a child.

Bechuanaland.

Bechuanaland is the paradise of the *workingman. In the course of our so*journ we never saw a beggar or a starving person. Masons in Bechuanaland were getting wages of 15s. to £1 per diem, and this with meat at 5d. a pound. Natives in the coal pits were getting 5s. a day. When we consider that a Kaffir's food, consisting of Boer meal pap, costs from 5d. to 6d. a day, there is a good margin for saving. We had Baralongs and Basutos working for us. The former we found clever with their fingers, but very poor in physique, with a great disinclination for hard work. The Basutos are a fine race, magnificently proportioned, and excellent workers, willing and intelligent. The superiority of the Basuto and the Zulu is shown indisputably by the fact that from them are recruited the police and the searchers of the diamond fields. Some think it probable that the native races of South Africa came originally from the South Sea Islands, but, be that as it may, it is certain that Jewish customs obtain among them. Circumcision is universal, and the old Jewish law of raising up seed to the deceased brother survives in the South African tribal law that when a chief dies his next brother marries his widow, and the children afterward born from this union are accounted the children of the dead man, not of the living father.—The Fortnightly Review.

Damon in Search of Pythias.

There was a popular play running at a Boston theatre. The crowd was crushing in at the door and the auditorium was already full, when a man from the country rushed up to the manager, who stood rubbing his hands as he listened to the plunk plunk of the money on the little box office shelf.

"Say, mister, you're the manager, I believe?"

"Yes, sir."

"Wal, I've lost my friend in the crowd, and I guess he's got inside by this time. Would you mind going into the theatre and jist hollerin' 'Higgins?'"—San Francisco Chronicle.

Good Appetite.

A certain well known college professor began his career as a teacher in a country school district and, following the custom of the time, "boarded around" one winter. His arrival at one rural home took place just at dinner time, and he at once sat down with the family to enjoy the repast.

He does not remember that his appe*tite was particularly sharp that day, but* at the close of the meal the mistress of the house looked across the table toward her husband and remarked:

"Well, John, I guess you'd better kill that heifer after all."—Youth's Companion.

What She Saw.

Then the little girl put her chubby hand on the old man's knee.

"I see something in the fire," murmured the child.

"What is it, Fannie?" and the old man looked fondly down into her pretty face.

"A stick of wood," she replied, simply, and the old man got up and kicked over a chair.—Washington Post.

Easy Enough.

A scientist says a man can stay under water for ten minutes as well as for twenty seconds. The statement is not surprising. A man who broke through the ice and disappeared under the water three days ago is there yet, but it is thought he will not take much interest in politics when he comes to surface.—Norristown Herald.

A KISS.

Something made of nothing, tasting very sweet;
A most delicious compound, with ingredients complete;
But if, as on occasion, the heart and mind are sour,
It has no great significance; it loses half its power.

Something made of nothing, and never twice the same,
Though 'tis known in every country where love has had a name;
It is clearly meant for giving, though 'tis sometimes bought and sold,
And, like coffee and potatoes, is not so good when cold.

It oft appeases discord when words have failed to please,
Whether bestowed caressingly or given just to tease.
For a laugh will often save one from doing something worse,
And the lips that taste the sweetness are seldom heard to curse.

'Tis the strangest, oddest mixture, this something made of naught,
Which is never seen or handled, although 'tis often caught;
Which will not spoil in keeping, whatever be the clime,
For this something made of nothing will stand the test of time

—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Scheming Esquimaux.

I have had a great deal of experience in whaling in the Northern seas, and, as a result, I never credit any stories as to what the Esquimaux, or natives, have seen. They can see anything that anybody wants them to see, and will do so for a small quantity of bread or provisions. They are frequently employed on whaling vessels, being picked up at the beginning of the season and dropped when the vessels are returning, or, if the weather is too severe, carried on to San Francisco and returned at the beginning of the next season. In this way many of them have learned to speak English, but in twenty-two seasons' experience in whaling I have never found it to do them any good. One instance as to their reliability will be sufficient. I had one of four vessels caught in the ice, and I had to work my way 130 miles through it. Mine was the only boat that got through, though I took the crew off of one of the others and the crew of another found their way to safety and were picked up. The fourth boat, however, has never been heard of, nor has any of her crew. The next season we took a large amount of provisions, and were on the lookout for any of the crew or the boat. We were boarded by an intelligent native, who told us of three ships off a point and away into the ice. There were men on two of them, while the other was uninhabited. The story was told in a remarkably straight manner, and impressed us with its truth. One of our ships, a steamer, was loaded up and sent off on the perilous trip, while the native was sent away rejoicing with a heavy load of bread provisions. The story, though, was found to be a myth. The native had been carried to San Francisco, had there heard of the loss of the ships, and had made his story to fit, even to the point of having one of the ships abandoned, as we had taken her crew off.—Ocean Captain in Globe-Democrat.

Rushlights.

In the summer the very old and the very young, with other feeble persons, were employed in cutting rushes, the best kind for candle making being the common soft juncus conglomeratus. These grow best by river banks and in marshy pastures. The longest and plumpest were selected and deprived of the outer green covering, a process facilitated by first steeping them in water. One very narrow strip alone was left from top to bottom as a support for the pith, or two if the dip was intended for a night light, when it burned slowly and with a feeble flame. After being peeled the rushes were bleached on the grass and then dried in the sun.

Six pounds of grease were allowed to a pound of rushes; these last required to cool between each immersion in the boiling fat, and were dipped again and again until of sufficient size. Where bees were kept, a small quantity of wax was added to the tallow, the candles acquiring greater consistency thereby, but mutton fat was considered to answer the same purpose. The rushlights thus formed burned from half an hour to forty minutes on an average. A curiously shaped candlestick was used to hold them, and similar ones are still employed for the purpose by some of the Connaught peasants. Machine made candles, however, are now so cheap, and paraffine oil is in such general use, that only in the remotest districts does one see a home made rushlight.—Blackwood's Magazine.

A Beautiful Definition.

A dear child called Mary Cooper had read her allotted piece with such appropriate emphasis and such sympathy of expression that the inspector said to her in his kind, sincere manner: "That was really beautiful, my child! And now," he added, "if you can tell me the meaning of that word 'turf' I shall give you my very best mark." Meanings of words are mountains of difficulty to some children, and the tears almost started to Mary's eyes because she realized that the inspector had chanced to drop on a word whose meaning she had not lately studied. Poor child! I wonder how often she had frolicked and tripped over nature's emerald carpeting! Possibly never! But Mary had plenty of determination; she felt that her very life almost depended on giving an answer; and she lost no time in exercising her little brain to the utmost for some kind of a definition; and, just as the inspector was saying, "Well, never mind, child, I will pass on," she eagerly exclaimed: "Turf, sir, is grass and clean dirt stuck together by God." "A most excellent definition," said the inspector; "in fact the answer I looked for was not nearly so precise as that. You have gained my highest mark."—Longman's Magazine.

The Gentle Japanese.

As illustrating his claim that the Japanese are a more civilized people than the Americans, a gentleman at a recent Boston dinner table cited Professor Morse's statement that if, in a Japanese city, one picks up a stone to throw at a dog, the dog does not run, because he has never had a stone thrown at him and does not know what the action means. "Manifestly," comments the Boston Transcript, "if such a state of universal gentleness and kindness prevails in Japan that not even a stone is thrown at a dog by a boy, the fact is to be taken as an excellent item of evidence in making out a case of high civilization for the Japanese. And it is a significant fact that it was reserved for our own European-American civilization to introduce the completest refinements of cruelty to animals."—Detroit Free Press.

Origin of a Familiar Phrase.

That familiar phrase in the Episcopal burial service, "In the midst of life we are in death," is derived from a Latin antiphon, composed by Notken, a monk of St. Gall, in 911, while watching some workmen building a bridge at Martin's Bruecke, in peril of their lives.—St. Louis Republic.

STANLEY'S WRATH.

SOME EXPERIENCES OF THE HIGH SPIRITED EXPLORER.

The Way He Got a Publisher for His Book—Taking His Spite Out—His Regard for Livingstone and How He Displayed It—He Paid Cash for His Dinner.

The following facts concerning Henry M. Stanley have never been in print. They were given to me by William Bradford, the marine artist and Arctic explorer.

In the year 1873 Mr. Bradford, returned from his Greenland explorations, was in London publishing his sumptuous volume on "The Arctic Regions." It was brought out under the patronage of Queen Victoria at $125 per copy. At this time he met Stanley, who was in a towering rage.

"He was just back," said the artist, "from finding Livingstone, and was now very angry at the cavalier way in which he had been treated about publishing his book through Murray. It seems that John Murray was away, and the partner present had received Stanley quite nonchalantly, and said he was not quite sure whether they could publish his book or not, and, anyway, nothing could be done about it until Mr. Murray's return. I said to him, 'Mr. Stanley, are you particular to have Murray publish your book?' 'No.' 'Well, I can tell you of some very good publishers, who, I think, would be glad to publish it, and that is the firm of Sampson, Low & Co. They are publishing my book, and, I think, would be glad to get hold of yours. If you wish, I will see them about it.' 'Do so, Mr. Bradford; I'll be glad to have you.'

A LIBERAL PUBLISHER.

"So I went down and saw Mr. Marston, of the firm, and said to him, 'Mr. Marston, would you like to publish Stanley's new book on Africa?' 'Yes, sir, indeed we would; but I thought Murray was going to have it.' 'No, I guess not. Would you like to see Mr. Stanley?' 'Certainly, sir.' 'Very well, I'll bring him down this afternoon.' As I was going out he said, 'Mr. Bradford, do you suppose that Mr. Stanley is ready to consider an offer for his book?' 'I think so, sir.'

"I took Stanley down to see them, and Mr. Marston asked him if he was prepared to consider an offer then and there 'Yes, sir.' 'Well, Mr. Stanley, we will give you $10,000 for it, and a liberal share of the profits.'

"'I'll do it,' said Stanley. And a happier man you've seldom seen. 'Now, Mr. Stanley,' said Mr. Marston, 'when can you begin to furnish us copy?' 'Tomorrow morning, sir, and every day thereafter till it's done.' 'Just one word more, Mr. Stanley. Will you please say nothing about this for four weeks? I've a special reason for asking.' 'Yes, sir; that suits me,' said Stanley. And so the bargain was closed, and Sampson Low & Marston have been Stanley's publishers ever since.

"A few weeks later Stanley went in to see John Murray, and the following conversation occurred: 'Mr Murray, I've come to see about your publishing my book. Do you wish to?' 'Yes, I think that we may be able to, Mr. Stanley. But we cannot afford to give you much for it, as it is a kind of experiment. But we'll publish it, Mr. Stanley.'

"'No you won't,' broke in Stanley, with an oath, and, turning on his heel, left the great English publisher astounded at the young African explorer's audacity.

EASY CHAIR GEOGRAPHERS.

"On another occasion," says Mr. Bradford, "I was sitting at a great banquet of the British association at Brighton. It was in the evening after the 'African afternoon,' so called. Stanley had been down for a speech late in the afternoon, after several English geographers had spoken. But I noticed during the second speech, by Mr. C. R. Markham, of the Royal Geographical society, that Stanley's wrath was rising. The speaker, in alluding to Livingstone, had just said a word reflecting upon him. As soon as Markham was done, Stanley, at two bounds, was in the center of the platform, and leaning forward and stretching out his forefinger with concentrated scorn toward Markham, began: 'You easy chair geographers, sitting on your cushioned velvet carpets, what do you know about it? Livingstone, after a long, arduous, perilous march, says: "I think I have found the sources of the Nile." But you, from the seclusion of your libraries, declare: "We know that he has not." What right have you to decide such a question?' And then he gave it to them hot. And yet in fifteen minutes he had them all, ladies and gentlemen, on their feet crying, 'Hear, hear, hear!' The Baroness Burdett-Coutts waved her handkerchief, and even the Emperor Napoleon, who was present with the Empress Eugenie, arose and handed Stanley their card. I tell you, Stanley was the most scathing man I ever listened to when he was mad over Livingstone.

"So, in the evening, before going to the banquet, I said to him: 'Now, Stanley, keep your temper. Don't disgrace yourself. Don't say a word to-night.' For I knew this very Markham was going to preside. Well, Stanley promised that he wouldn't say a word. But they placed him at Markham's right hand. I sat across the table where I could see him. Pretty soon I noticed that he and Markham were talking earnestly. Then the bulldog look came into Stanley's face. And then he jumped up and off he went.

"It seemed that Markham had urged him to speak, but Stanley had declined, when the following conversation ensued; 'But, Mr. Stanley, you must speak. That is the purpose for which they invited you here.' 'Is that the reason they invited me here?' 'Certainly, Mr. Stanley; we expect you to favor us with a speech.' 'Well, I won't. But'—thrusting his hand deep into his pocket—'here's a guinea for my dinner.' And off he stalked in a towering rage."—Rev. F. H. Kasson in Christian Union.

A DAY IN WINTER.

How could one live through a day like this,
Sweet! were one not with his books or in love?
I am both; I am happy; with that dear bliss
Of lovers who have no faith to prove,
Of readers who have no task for heeding,
But read from the sheer, sweet love of reading.

The sun is dead, and the clouds hang low,
And the winds are weeping a dirge. What though
My life is full; in my heart I know
'Tis only distance keepeth the kiss
On thy lips from mine,
On my lips from thine;
No task to learn, no faith to prove—
Oh, how could one live through a day like this,
Sweet! were one not with his books or in love?

—Orelia Key Bell in The Century.

The Mourning of the Poor.

Nothing is more pitiful than the emblems of mourning of the very poor. On one side of the doorway of one of the most poverty stricken and repellant tenement houses a bit of white mourning fluttered in the bitter winter air. It was cheap mourning, and therefore more mournful than any other. Composed of a rosette of coarse muslin, with a painfully small knot of the poorest white satin ribbon, it told its story of destitution more forcibly than language could possibly portray it. The hall was a mass of snow and ice. Its door stood wide open, and no tunnel could be colder. Every window in the miserable building was dark and dirty as a coal mine. Yet, within these hideous walls human beings lived, suffered and died. Who could help looking upon that pathetic bit of mourning and keep from saying: "It is well with the child. He will walk in no evil ways; he will know no evil thought; he will do no evil deed."—New York Press "Every Day Talk."

The Eskimo's Mechanical Ingenuity.

In the matter of mechanical ability, for instance, examine the tool box of an Eskimo when he considers it well furnished, and what does it contain? A well worn file, an indifferent saw, a few rusty nails, a cheap penknife, and a very inferior sheath knife. What would the ordinary mechanic of civilization accomplish with such implements as these? Yet with these poor tools the Eskimo will repair the locks of their guns, make harpoons and spears, put together their kayaks and umiaks, and manufacture all sorts of things out of walrus ivory. They will take the blade out of one penknife, alter it so as to be of suitable size, and place it in another handle, drilling with a broken needle the hole for the pin on which the blade turns, having first by means of fire carefully untempered the part of the blade to be drilled.—J. Macdonald Oxley in American Magazine.

A Chinese Mining Camp.

The largest Chinese mining camp in the northwest is at Warren, I. T. Hundreds of Chinese have been at work there for several years, and each year from fifty to seventy-five go back to China with from $2,000 to $5,000, a fortune for them. Most Chinese miners work over old mines, and are very expert at cleaning up every particle of gold; but at Warren they are on new ground, and their careful system results in large yields.—Chicago News.

Neither Posters Nor Dodgers.

One of the shrewdest and most successful of advertisers is John Wanamaker, the great Philadelphia merchant, who accounts for his success in this way: "I never in my life used such a thing as a poster, a dodger or a hand bill. My plan for fifteen years has been to buy so much space in a newspaper, and fill it up with what I wanted. I would not give an advertisement in a newspaper, even of but 400 circulation, for 5,000 dodgers.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

A Psychical Incident.

A well known artist of this city tells a story which will be of interest to any one fond of psychical investigations. He was sitting in his sleeping chamber late at night reading a French novel, when his wife, who had retired some hours before, suddenly awoke and related a dream which she had just had. The dream was an exact counterpart—even to details—of the plot of the novel, which the lady had never read.—New York Evening World.

Food for Reflection.

There is plenty of food for reflection in the fact that five-sevenths of the prisoners in Sing Sing prison are 30 years of age or less. If the influences surrounding them were such as to reform instead of to harden, there would be a good chance of turning them into useful citizens. The probabilities now are that most of them will pursue criminal careers for the rest of their lives.—New York Tribune.

Novel Way of Advertising.

A passenger and ticket agent of a Florida railroad, at Jacksonville, Fla., has a novel way of advertising his line. He has a rack made of wire, filled with the choicest oranges, and on each orange is stamped an advertisement. When any one comes into his ticket office seeking information about his line, especially if he is from the north, he is invited to take an orange or two.—Chicago Herald.

A Singular Error.

A singular error is the use of the word "cocoanut" which, botanical authorities urge, should be "coconut." The wrong spelling is charged upon Dr. Johnson, who is said to have confused the "coconut" with "cocoa," which is the product of the cacao tree.—Arkansaw Traveler.

An Odd Combination.

An odd combination of wares is offered by a shop in the Italian city of Bari, on the Adriatic. A sign informs would be customers that within can be obtained "Leeches, bread sold in slices or loaves, and tuition in mathematics."—Chicago News.

Dr. J. Collis Browne's

CHLORODYNE.

THE ORIGINAL and ONLY GENUINE

Advice to invalids—If you wish to obtain quiet refreshing sleep, free from headache, relief from pain and anguish, to calm and assuage the weary achings of protracted disease, invigorate the nervous media, and regulate the circulating systems of the body, you will provide yourself with that marvellous remedy discovered by Dr. J. Collis Browne (late Army Medical Staff), to which he gave the name of CHLORODYNE, and which is admitted by the profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.

CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma.

CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.

CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation and Spasms.

CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c., &c.

From Symes & Co., Pharmaceutical Chemists Medical Hall, Simla, January 5th, 1880: To J. T. Davenport, Esq., 33 Great Russell Street, Bloomsbury, London, Dear Sir:—We embrace this opportunity of congratulating you upon the wide-spread reputation this justly esteemed medicine, Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne, has earned for itself, not only in Hindostan, but all over the East. As a remedy of general utility, we much question whether a better is imported into the country, and we shall be glad to hear of its finding a place in every Anglo-Indian home. The other brands, we are happy to say, are now relegated to the native bazaars, and judging from their sale we fancy their sojurn there will be but evanescent. We could multiply instances infinitum of the extraordinary efficacy of Dr. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne in Diarrhœa, and 2nd Dysentery Spasms, Cramps, Neuralgia, the Vomiting of Pregnancy, and as a general Sedative, that have occurred under our personal observation during many years. In Choleraic Diarrhœa, and even if the more terrible forms of Cholera itself, we have witnessed its controlling power. We have never used any other form of this medicine than Collis Browne's, from a firm conviction that it is decidedly the best, and also from a sense of duty we owe to the profession and the public, as we are of the opinion that the substitution of any other than Collis Browne's, is A DELIBERATE BREACH OF FAITH ON THE PART OF THE CHEMIST TO PRESCRIBE AND PATIENT ALIKE. We are sir, faithfully yours, Symes & Co., Members of the Pharm. Society of Great Britain, His Excellency the Viceroy's Chemists.

CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. Page Wood stated that Dr. J. Collis Browne was, undoubtedly, the inventor of Chlorodyne; that the story of the defendant, Freeman, was deliberately untrue, which he regretted to say, had been sworn to.—See "The Times," July 13, 1884.

Sold in bottles at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne" on the Government stamp. Overwhelming medical testimony accompanies each bottle.

Caution—Beware of Piracy and Imitations.

FRIDAY AUGUST 2, 1889.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

TO CITY SUBSCRIBERS.

THE COURIER subscription list within the city limits has been taken charge of by Mr. A. E. PLANTA, who will hereafter see that each and every subscriber gets his paper, and gets it regularly. We specially request that all complaints of subscribers be at once sent in to the business office, and they will be rectified. There may possibly be some mistakes occur during the next few days, owing to new carriers being employed.

Watchmaking.

Mr. W. R. Roberts, the enterprising watchmaker residing near Blakeway & Co.'s drug store, has inserted an advertisement in the COURIER emblematic of his time honored craft.

Thanks.

We are pleased to see that our esteemed contemporary coincides with our views regarding the appointment of county court judges. It is somewhat gratifying to know that there are none too old to learn.

Wires Down.

Owing to extensive bush fires south of New Westminster last night, the telegraph wires were down, and hence we are unable to furnish our readers with the usual amount of telegraphic news this morning.

Promoted.

Mr. J. Edward Butler, late chief officer of the steamer Isabel, has been promoted to the position of captain of the tug Pilot. He is a most deserving officer and carries with him the best wishes of his numerous friends and acquaintances.

A Boom of Logs.

The steamer Belle arrived here yesterday afternoon with a boom of logs from King and Casey's logging camp. The logs are destined for Sayward's mill, Victoria, the Belle only calling here to coal.

Fire! Fire! Fire!

Why insure with travelling fire insurance agents who are here to-day and gone to-morrow, when you can obtain reliable insurance, at very reasonable rates, in the London & Lancashire Fire Insurance Co., of Liverpool, by visiting A. E. PLANTA, Agent, Nanaimo. tf

Smoky.

The weather continues extremely warm, and the atmosphere is surcharged with smoke from forest fires to the north and west of town. This vicinity is sadly in need of a drenching shower of rain, and unless it comes soon, much injury will be done to the country.

From Victoria.

The steamer Princess, a Government boat, arrived here yesterday having on board F. C. Gamble, Government engineer, who has charge of the blasting operations at the Nicol Rock. The Princess left Victoria yesterday at 11 a. m. and made a very quick trip to this port.

A Narrow Escape.

Last night while the Salvation Army was parading a drunken man lurched across the road to take a hand in the fun and not seeing a horse and buggy approaching steered himself nicely under the wheels, and was only saved from a severe accident by the skilful driving of the Jehu in the vehicle.

The Coming Hat.

The masculine summer hat has always been a failure. Even the ventilated hats are not cool. A really comfortable hat should not touch the head at all, but should be supported from the shoulders, leaving the head bare to the breezes and always in the shade. This new hat has not yet been invented, and bald-headed men may raise a cry against it, but it must come.

The New Tannery.

We are pleased to note that Mr. H. Frost, the well-known local contractor, was the fortunate tenderer for the construction of the building to be occupied by the new tannery company, to be located on Millstream, near the gas works. The building will be 60x90 feet and four storys high. Work will be commenced immediately and pushed through rapidly until the building is completed.

Grand Amateur Concert.

As will be seen by referring to an advertisement in another column the members of the Onward Lodge No. 2, I.O.G.T. have announced their intention of giving a Grand Amateur Concert, under the auspices of their Lodge, on Monday, August 12. Several of the most talented of our local amateurs have signified their intention of taking part in the performance which will, consequently, be an assured success.

Mail Carrier Late.

Up to a late hour last night the Alberni mail carrier had failed to put in an appearance owing, it is supposed, to the bad state of the roads occasioned by the bush fires which are very prevalent at present. The mail carrier ought to have arrived on Wednesday afternoon and his non appearance has caused considerable uneasiness in the city as the Alberni road is said to be in a very dangerous condition owing to burning trees falling across it.

Fell from a Bridge.

What might have been a serious accident occurred last night on Prideaux street bridge. It seems that a youngster named Thomas Thompson, aged about 10 years, was attempting to do the Blondin act on the handrail of Prideaux street bridge, and was rather unsuccessful as his foot slipped, precipitating him to the bottom of the ravine, a distance of about 20 feet. He was picked up and carried home where it was ascertained that no bones were broken. Tommy has quit the circus business for a time.

To Be Night Operator.

Mr. J. H. Field decided yesterday to stay in Nanaimo in preference to accepting the offer of a position on the Mainland. Mr. Field will occupy the position of night operator in this city, which post has been so ably filled by Mr. Auge, who will leave on Monday for the Nicaragua Canal, where he has received an appointment.

Mr. Auge carries with him the best wishes of the multitude of friends he has drawn around him during the short stay in this city, and none will wish him success more heartily than the COURIER staff whom he has supplied with "clean copy" for the past few months.

POLICE COURT.

Duncan McPherson, charged with supplying liquor to Indians near Bute Inlet pleaded not guilty.

George, an Indian of the Klahoos tribe, testified that about the 10th of last June the defendant arrived near Bute Inlet and supplied him and other Indians with liquor. I paid him $2 for a bottle of gin.

Cross-examined by the defendant he admitted he was not drunk for he did not care much for liquor. He was also averse to lying because it was wicked.

This caused the defendant to remark that "he is lying in pretty good shape now."

George further stated that the liquor he obtained from defendant was the first he had tasted.

The defendant during a lengthy cross-examination of the witness managed to prove conclusively to the magistrates that liquor had been supplied to Indians from his schooner but possibly not by himself. He was warned by the Bench that he was injuring his own case as the very fact of liquor being supplied to Indians from his vessel implicated him. He was fined $150 and $5 costs or in de*fault 3 months imprisonment.*

Henry Hoare, on remand, charged with assaulting Capt. McIntyre, of the ship Richard III.

Constable Stevenson deposed that in his opinion the prisoner was not exactly accountable for his actions. He had seen him do some extraordinary things.

Defendant was fined $10 and $5 costs or in default 14 days imprisonment.

Jas. Marshall, on remand, charged on two counts with supplying liquor to Indians, was found guilty and fined $50 and $5 costs or in default one month and 10 days imprisonment on the first charge. Sentence on the second charge was deferred.

Jno. Martin, on remand, charged with having an intoxicant in his possession on the Nanaimo reservation was sentenced to three months imprisonment with *hard labor and to pay $5 costs or in de*fault of payment 14 days extra imprisonment.

A Pleasant Trip.

The sloop Rover cleared yesterday morning about 8 o'clock for a pleasure and prospecting trip north. The party consisted of only four persons, J. Norton, X. Harman, Leslie Jones and Pierre Hovelaque. They intend to be absent about two months, but will prolong the trip if necessary. They will first visit the Seychelle Islands and then cruise up the Gulf to Bute Inlet, where bears are reported to exist in great numbers. Failing in the capture of bruin at this place, the Rover will be steered for points north of Alert Bay and thence to the Queen Charlotte Islands. The boat is well provisioned and possesses an armament that should strike terror into the hearts of even the redoubtable "grizzly" who will in his turn be hunted on the mountains of the Mainland. The crew were busily engaged yesterday morning before starting in throwing ballast overboard to make room for cartridges, which, in itself, is a guarantee that the party is sufficiently well protected.

A Haul of Bathers.

The community has lately been disturbed in its mind over the disgusting scenes that have been enacted by men bathing in close proximity to the boat houses and wharves, but yesterday the City Constable made a successful haul of these young men, raking in seven, and they have been requested to appear before the magistrates to-day to answer to the charge of indecent exposure. The Constable's attention was drawn to the occurrence yesterday by seeing one man, about 20 years of age, clothed only in an assumed air of modesty, tripping lightly across Cameron Island, only a few yards from the boat houses. The custodian of the peace jumped into a boat and rowed over to the Island, capturing the major portion of the crowd.
