Resolution Against Baseball to Be Over-Ridden.

Trail and Nelson to Contest This Afternoon on City Grounds.

The Sunday ball games will be continued in spite of the action of the Nelson city council to the contrary. There is said to be no law in the land but what a team of horses and rig can be driven through it, and through the No-Sunday-Ball-Game resolution passed at the city council meeting some time ago Harry Houston, the indefatigable secretary of the Nelson baseball club, expects to drive the Trail and Nelson baseball teams, bats and all, today.

The following announcement from the Rossland Miner of Friday last was the first intimation of this arrangement which was received at the Miner office:

"Trail vs. Nelson.—The Trail baseball nine will go to Nelson on Sunday to play the Nelson nine. The C. P. R. will run a special train for the day, leaving Trail at 8 o'clock a. m., at a single fare for the round trip. The Nelson baseball enthusiasts have got around the council's resolution for bidding Sunday ball games."

The irrepressible reporter ever hungry for material for a story jumped at this excellent opportunity to kill two birds with one stone, viz., to advertise the match for the parties interested in Sunday games and also to furnish Sunday reading of a local nature to those not attending Sunday ball games.

The first person to be interviewed on the matter was Alderman Irving who replied that the item contained in the Rossland Miner was the first intimation that he had of the arrangement and stated that he was no party to the arrangement. He could not explain by what process of circumlocuton they had been able to get around the decsion of the council, and gave it to be distinctly to be understood that any encouragement the baseball club might have received from any member of the council was given without his knowledge and consent, and further intimated his intention of adhering to the stand he had previously taken on the question when it came up before the council meeting some time ago.

The copy of the Rossland Miner was shown to Mayor Fletcher who stated that he knew no more about it than was contained in the report. He stated, however, that he had been approached on the matter by a member of the club, who was given to understand that he had nothing to do with it. Asked as to the attitude of the council in regard to the apparent attempt to defy their authority he stated that they had no power to prohibit Sunday ball games any more than they had power to prevent the reporter from eating too much dinner on Sunday or any other day. When asked as to whether the action of the baseball club was not an attempt to over ride the decisionof the city council he stated that their resolution was nothing more than an expression of opinion which might or might not represent the sentiment of the citizens of Nelson, but it had no legislative force, and the only way they had of prohibiting these things was for somebody to prefer a charge against the players and for the council to submit it to the people as an anti-Sunday sports by law. Alderman Gillett, when shown the announcement stated that it was the first intimation he had received that anything of the kind was contemplated, and wondered what encouragement they had received in such a barefaced attempt to defy the action of the council, and expressed his determination to maintain the action he had previously adopted.

Alderman Hamilton in discussing the matter said that he was aware that there was a special train chartered from Trail for the baseball boys but knew of no action taken by the city fathers which would justify them in ignoring the decision of the council in their stand against Sunday sports and although it was evident that they had received encouragement from some source he was ignorant of the manner in which they had managed to evade the action of the council, but intimated his intention of having the matter looked into, which will in all probability be investigated at the next meeting of the city council.

Alderman Madden was also enquired of in regard to the matter and stated that the intimation made in the Rossland Miner was his first and only knowledge of the matter and had no opinion to offer on the subject as he did not wish to be mixed up in the thing in any way at all.

Today therefore, the two baseball teams will meet in solemn combat, and as the editor of the New Denver Ledge would add, the police will be informed of the matter on Monday.

RATES TO SKAGWAY RAISED.

Agreement Reached as to Passenger Rates on Pacific Coast.

(SPECIAL TO THE MINER.)

Victoria, B. C., June 1.—Rates to Skagway have been restored to the figure obtaining before the rate war began. Hereafter only Pacific Coast Steamship Co. steamers will call here. The new rates will take effect on the Islander which left here last night for Vancouver, en route to Skagway.

Passengers here paid the cut rate of $10, but Vancouver passengers have to pay $25, second class tickets to be $16 as before. Those terms were reached at a meeting of the companies yesterday. The agreement provides that the Victorian and City of Seattle, of Dodwell's line leave out Canadian ports. The Pacific Coast line is, however, allowed to remain in business. The outcome is regarded as a victory for the latter company at whose initiative the rate war was inaugurated. All the smaller companies are anxious to reach a settlement as the bulk of the Klondike trade will be done in June. At the recent ruinous rates there has been no profit in steamboating.

VICTORIAS WIN.

An Amalgamated Team Defeats Washington University.

(SPECIAL TO THE MINER.)

Victoria, June 1.—The united Victoria ball teams scored a distinct triumph this afternoon when they defeated the team from the University of Washington. Profiting by defeat at the hands of Vancouver, the Amities and Victorias amalgamated and the result was a strong team which vanquished the Washington boys today. Holness was again pitcher but Schwangers took the place of Barnsley behind the bat. At the end of the ninth innings the score stood 3 to 3. But this was improved on in the 10th innings by Victoria adding one more while Washington failed to score. The final result therefore was 4-3 in favor of Victoria. An immense crowd witnessed the match.

WAITING OPENING NAVIGATION.

(SPECIAL TO THE MINER.)

Victoria, June 1.—The Danube brings the news that 1200 tons of freight and 2,000 people are waiting the opening of navigation at White Horse bound in. She left Monday.

The deputation which went to Seattle to attempt to have the boycott on the Garrone lifted, has returned. President Logg, of the Trades and Labor council, says the men there think they can force Moran's hand by maintaining the boycott and hence refused to accept the suggestion of Victorians to lift it.

A MIXED CARGO.

(SPECIAL TO THE MINER.)

Victoria, June 1.—The first cargo to be taken at Glasgow direct for this port, per sailing ship, is to be loaded shortly on the four-masted barque Sprinkbank, consigned to Robert Ward & Co., here. A large part consists of Scotch liquors and tweeds. The cargo will be completed at Liverpool. The Springbank has enormous carrying capacity.

PUT A DAMPER ON MEETING.

(SPECIAL TO THE MINER.)

London, June 1.—Conservative leader, R. L. Borden and J. P. Whitney addressed an open air meeting at Springbank this afternoon. Heavy rain spoiled the demonstration and the speeches were brief. Borden made a point of condemning the immigration policy of the Laurier government declaring it went in for quantity rather than quality.

EASTERN EVENTS OVER THE WIRE

Committed Suicide on a Railway Train Near St. Catherines.

Superintendent of Home for Incurables at Portage la Prairie Dismissed.

(SPECIAL TO THE MINER.)

St. Catherines, Ont., June 1.—Richard Davidson, manager of the Imperial bank, Prince Albert, N. W. T., committed suicide this evening by shooting himself in the forehead, in the G. T. R. train, between Grimsby and St. Catherines. Davidson had been an inmate for the past few weeks of the Homewood retreat at Guelph, under treatment for mental trouble, and was thought to have been cured. He left that institution today, in company with his brother-in-law, J. N. Ingersoll, of this city. He made an excuse to leave him for a moment and stepped into the toilet of the next car and shot himself, dying in a few minutes. Davidson leaves a wife, who is at present visiting her mother in St. Catherines. His mother lives in Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG NEWS NOTES.

What is Happening at Canada's Prairie City.

(SPECIALS TO THE MINER.)

Winnipeg, June 1.—The full court confirmed the judgment sentencing Donald Todd to two years in the penitentiary for killing John Gordon a year and a half ago.

The Lisgar election trial against R. L. Richardson, editor of the Tribune, has been fixed for June 19.

J. P. Young, who has been superintendent of the Home for Incurables at Portage La Prairie, for past 12 years, has been dismissed. His successor is W. P. Smith.

It is said that Lieutenant-Governor McMillan has refused to sanction the orders-in-council dismissing three civil servants.

The Manitoba liquor appeal will come before the Privy council in London in about three weeks.

OUT ON STRIKE.

Nova Scotian Laborers and Mechanics Stop Work.

(SPECIAL TO THE MINER.)

Sydney, Cape Breton, June 1.—Two hundred and fifty members of the labor unions, including masons, bricklayers, stone cutters, plasterers and painters are on strike demanding a nine hour day system. Contract work is stopped. The Dominion Iron and Steel Company is seriously affected, but when the men quit work, the officials of the company informed the strikers that their services were no longer required, and state that they will be able to replace all strikers with non union men. The workmen, however, are thoroughly organized and determined to fight the matter out.

Halifax, June 1.—One hundred carpenters went on strike this morning for 25 cents per hour. The employers granted the increase at once. Many of the strikers were working on Imperial contracts.

CHANGED HIS PROPOSAL.

Only Poor Students Expected to Apply For Grants.

London, June 1.—Modifications of Mr. Carnegie's educational proposal for Scotland are, according to the Daily Chronicle, still under discussion at the Scottish universities.

"Mr. Carnegie has practically placed himself in the hands of Lord Balfour of Burleigh and the amended scheme," says the Chronicle, "does credit to everyone concerned The new trust will be of a depository character and will extend to all high grade schools and educational institutes. Only poor students will be expected to apply for grants, and the latter will have eleemosynary character and a substantial balance will be left for the better equipment of universities, the extension of college buildings and the like."

SILVER-LEAD MINES LEAD

An American Opinion of British Columbia Mines and Mining.

Effects of the Action of the Great American Lead Trust.

Spokane, June 1.—Despite heavy burdens, the silver lead mines of British Columbia still hold rank as the richest properties in the province. Thus far this year they have managed to pay two-thirds of the dividends from all the mines in Kootenay.

There has never been a time when the lead mining industry of the province has suffered under a more onerous load. It has been almost impossible to get a buyer for galena ores. The policy of the American Smelting & Refining company, which controls the situation here, is to keep British Columbia lead out of the American market. Accordingly the huge trust has refused to handle the lead ores from the Canadian mines.

America is normally the market for British Columbia lead. The tariff laws render it almost obligatory for the ore to be smelted on this side of the line. There is a duty of only a cent and a half a pound on lead in crude ores, but there is a tariff of 2½ cents a pound on lead bullion. That means a difference of 62½ cents per hundred pounds in favor of lead which is smelted in the United States. The margin is wide enough to mean profit or loss to the Canadian mine-owner.

Since they are now unable to sell their ores to the smelting corporation, the British Columbia operators have been forced to seek a market on the basis of London quotations. The ruling price there now is about $2.72. When freight rates are considered, that means a price of about $1.70 per hundred for lead in Kootenay.

The Trail smelter has done much work in handling a part of the lead production of the province. By the logic of facts, however, it is not able to pay more than $1.70 for its lead.

Some of the properties, like the St. Eugene at Moyie, have been compelled to ship their ore all the way to Belgium in order to get a market. Even under such circumstances, however, the British Columbia lead producer has been able to get only about 40 per cent of the price for lead which is received by his more fortunate brother on the American side. It is plain, therefore, that conditions now are most harassing to the lead miners of Kootenay. It is a marvelous evidence of the richness of these mines that five of them have been able to pay dividends since the first of the year. They have managed in that time to disburse $398,500 in profits to their share holders.

The action of the Canadian government in giving a bonus for a lead refinery in Canada will go far to relieve the present situation. It is expected that the Canadian Pacific railway will erect a lead refinery in connection with its lead smelter at Trail.

The benefit of the refinery would be instant. It would give a Canadian outlet for Canadian lead, and would save the freights which are now lost in sending the lead abroad to be treated and refined. This saving in the cost of producing refined lead would be shared by the mine owners. They would receive a subtantially higher price for their ore. Instead of being dependent upon America for an outlet, they would have a domestic market to be supplied.

There are fairer days ahead for the lead miners of British Columbia. It is not reasonable to believe that the present disastrous conditions can continue for long. Such lavish wealth as nature has placed in the silver-lead mines of the province will be secured. In securing it, prosperity will shine again upon the Slocan and upon East Kootenay.—Spokesman-Review.

EAST KOOTENAY NEWS.

Owing to the steady rains and melting snow, land slides are of daily occurrence between Hosmer and Crow's Nest station, but the railway company are taking every precaution to prevent accidents such as lately happened, and have a large force of men watching the track along the dangerous places.

The tunnel at the Loop is making fair progress, it has been driven some eighty feet, it is well timbered.

The coking ovens now building are making satisfactory progress, although the contractors are occasionally delayed for want of sufficient building stone which is not delivered as rapidly as required to keep the workmen steady at work.

A race is on between the Canadian Pacific and Crows' Nest Southern railway surveyors engaged in running a line up Morrisey creek. There is room for only one track and the rival companies are trying to survey, plot and record their route in advance of the other.—Fort Steele Prospector.

SUBSCRIPTION LIST GROWING.

Funds Coming in Easily For Nelson's Celebration.

The man who reported the list of subscriptions for Dominion Day sports in The Miner has not yet learned to count dollars beyond the quarter of a hundred, hence the mistake which occurred in the statement which was made in regard to the amount subscribed by the Nelson Electric Tramway Co., where it was reported that they had only subscribed $25 when the amount should have been stated as $50. In addition to the amounts reported yesterday the following additional amounts have been subscribed:

Hall Mines Smelting Co.	$25 00
Porto Rico Lumber Co.	15 00
Nelson Foundry	5 00
John Cholditch & Co.	15 00
Alderman Gillett	10 00

THE CITY

TO HOLD CHAMBERS—

Judge Forin will hold chambers on Friday next at 10 a. m. and also take speedy trials.

GONE OUT OF BUSINESS—

The model restaurant has gone out of business and is being lowered to the grade of the street. The interior arrangement will be equally divided between the Cabinet tobacco store and the barber shop of Matheson & Graham.

PROSPECTORS IN THE LARDEAU—

A larger number of prospectors than usual are making for the Lardeau this season, and in all probability some good finds will be made during the summer. The snow is still deep in the mountains, but going down rapidly.

NEED MORE MEN—

The football enthusiasts are anxious that those who are supporters of the manly game with their mouths, would also support the game a little more with their feet and get out to practice a little more regularly and often. A full turn-out is desired for tomorrow evening.

DOMINION DAY PROGRAMME—

The regatta committee have arranged an elaborate programme of events for the Dominion Day sports and are arranging to give an aggregate of prizes of about $500. Some of the events suggested are a four-oared race, senior and junior; mixed doubles, double sculls, (lady coxswain), prize to coxswain; single sculling; tub race, tandem canoe, tilting races, single canoe, ladies single sculls, ditto, double sculls (gentleman coxswain); four paddle canoe race, sailing race.

NEW INDUSTRY STARTED—

A new industry has been added to the city by Shackleton & Simpson, who have installed a water power granite and marble cutting plant, where they will undertake the manufacture of monumental stone work. They have succeeded in obtaining some fine samples of granite from their quarry at Salmo, where they have secured about a dozen samples of excellent rock, and are now in a position to work it up in any style and to any degree of finish. Their circular saw is now in operation and in the near future they intend to install a gang saw when the preparation of heavier work makes it necessary. They have the contract for supplying the stone for the foundations of the new postoffice. At the present time they are only running a three horse-power plant, but are in a position to increase it to ten or twelve horse power when the growth of the business warrants.

MURDERED IN EAST KOOTENAY

A Chinese Cook Shot and Killed by His Employer.

Murderer Escapes to the Mountains.—Supposed to Be Insane.

Fort Steele, June 1.—On Wednesday morning at daybreak, at his ranch on the Upper Columbia Lake, Frank J. Lascelles, shot and instantly killed a Chinaman that was working for him, says the Fort Steele Prospector. The murderer has escaped into the mountains. It appears that on going to bed he felt depressed and nervous and not being able to sleep asked J. Lambert, who was putting up a new house for him, and sleeping in the same house, to keep his lamp alight. After sleeping some time, Lambert was awakened by hearing Lascelles apparently engaged in conversation with some one outside of the window. Lambert listened for a short time and then becoming suspicious that all was not right went outside closing the door behind him. Hearing the door shut Lascelles quickly asked who had gone out saying, "Is that you Lambert? If you don't answer before I count five I'll shoot." Meanwhile the Chinaman cook woke up and opening the door received the entire charge of shot in his neck, dying immediately. Lascelles then put on his coat, filling his pockets with cartridges went out. This occurred at daybreak and up to the present time he has not been located, he is in pajamas, and has no shoes on. It is supposed that Lascelles suddenly became insane, as there is no other reason assigned for committing the act.

Lascelles has been a resident of North East Kootenay since 1892. He is a well to do man, of very peculiar disposition and habits. He is a native of England. The police of Windermere are searching for Lascelles.

HE WANTS TO GET OUT.

A Man Sentenced in Nelson Thinks He is Wrongfully Imprisoned.

At the assizes in Nelson last fall W. R. Hocking was found guilty of bigamy and sentenced to a term of years in the penitentiary. The case came from Cranbrook and the prisoner made a strenuous defence.

The following dispatch from Vancouver tells of the latest developments in the case: Colonel L. Edwin Dudley, United States consul at this port, has taken up the case of W. R. Hocking, an American citizen serving a sentence in the New Westminster prison on a charge of bigamy. It is alleged Hocking's imprisonment is unjust, certain new evidence having been developed since he was placed in jail three months ago. Hocking's story is that while living in Austin, Nev., he became crippled through an accident and subsequently his wife sued for a divorce on the ground of non-support.

Believing the divorce to have been granted Hocking married again and was prosecuted for bigamy, his conviction being obtained on the showing that when he married the second time the decree had not been granted. Hocking now claims to have evidence showing that the granting of the divorce decree antedated his second marriage.

The case has been drawn to the attention of the Canadian authorities.

OFF FOR A PLEASANT TRIP—

John H. Fox, cashier at the C. P. R. offices leaves today for a month's holiday on a visit to his old home in Cape Breton. He will also take in the Pan-American and do as many of the American cities as he has time for. During his absence his position will be filled by J. A. Newport.

CHANGE OF PLACE—

A Slocan exchange remarks: According to the latest shuffle made by the mines department, all returns from the Slocan district will be made to Kaslo instead of to Nelson, as heretofore. E. E. Chipman is now gold commissioner and government agent for this district.

CHINESE AND SLAV.

It can be said of the Royal Commission on Chinese immigration that it is exceedingly painstaking in its investigation, and that it gives one the impression that it is honestly seeking the exact truth in respect to the influence of Mongolian labor on the economic conditions in this Province. It is taking a vast amount of evidence, and ascertaining as well as it can the best opinions on all phases of the question. One of the Commissioners, it is true, makes no effort to conceal his prejudice against the Orientals; but while this antipathy may impair his usefulness, he is not less zealous in the attempt to get at the facts than his more judicial colleagues.

Perhaps it is because opinion is unanimous, or nearly so, in Nelson, but it was observed that with one exception the witnesses called here were bitterly opposed to the employment of Chinese labor. They would exclude them entirely; some would have those already here kicked out, and precautions taken that neither they nor their kind should ever be allowed to show a nose in British Columbia again. On this question we greatly fear that prejudice has run away with reason. It is doubtful if there is a man or woman in Nelson who is injured by the presence of the few Chinese who are here, and it would be absurd to claim that no one is benefitted. We may dislike them, but it is not true to say that under existing conditions we could do without them, excepting at great inconvenience. Yet witnesses shut their eyes to everything but their own unreasoning antagonism, and jump at once to the end of it all, which is that the Chinese must go. An intelligent, broad, comprehensive view of the question appears to be impossible to the majority, and it requires a good deal of courage in the case of the exception to oppose the popular prejudice.

No one wants Chinese as full-fledged citizens. They are not adapted for citizenship, have no desire in that direction, and would be incapable of the duties and responsibilities if they had. Whether in large or small numbers, their naturalization has never been regarded as possible. It is simply out of the question, and to investigate or discuss in regard to that phase of it is a waste of time. The worst they can do is to come in such shoals that white labor will be entirely disorganized; they can never threaten the supremacy of our race, for they can never be admitted to citizenship, but they can starve out white labor if we permit them to come in sufficient numbers. Are they already in such numbers? That is the question which the Commission has to answer. In some localities and some industries it may be that they are, but it is nonsense to say that we in Nelson are hurt by them.

Canada has more to dread from immigrants like the Galicians than from the Chinese. The Chinese can never become a part of us, and drag us down to the level of a very doubtful admixture; the assimilation of the Galicians is advanced as the only defence for introducing them. There will be deterioration of race as the result of mixing with the inferior blood of the Slavs, which will come in time; but there can be no such danger with the Chinese, whose assimilation is an impossibility. The worst danger to apprehend from the Chinese is of an industrial character, and that can be dealt with; the danger from the inferior races of Europe lies much deeper, and is impossible of remedy when once rooted.

The Victoria Times despairs of ever obtaining justice in the matter of the Alaskan boundary. Great Britain is so anxious for the friendship of the United States that she will yield to the demands of that country, and the United States seems determined to hold off arbitration until the other side is tired out. Between the two there is little hope of getting our own. We have the misfortune, The Times says, "to be placed alongside of a nation which will never be exalted by international righteousness. As it was in the sealing business so it will be in the boundary dispute." If the British contention fares as well in the boundary dispute as it did in the sealing business we shall not be so badly dealt with. The American sealing claims were so generally and so peremptorily rejected by the Paris Tribunal that our neighbors have ever since been enduring life under a sense of mortification. Our contemporary should cheer up. We are dealing with a cunning, unscrupulous opponent, but the case is not entirely hopeless by any means.

The Rossland Evening World remarks: "It is a matter of congratulation to the camp that one of our mining men has been selected as the general manager of so important a mine as the Payne. Mr. A. C. Gardé, of the War Eagle-Centre Star staff, who has been appointed, will now have an opportunity of making a great name for himself. The Payne now stands at the head of the list of dividend paying mines in British Columbia, and Mr. Garde will assume his responsible position at a most interesting stage of the mine's history, and all mining men here will follow the future management of the Payne with a keen interest. Mr. Garde has always shown great interest in local matters and the camp will miss him. Good luck to the Payne's new manager."

The Miner is informed on good authority that dynamite is being used in taking fish in the Slocan River. This is a practice the authorities should put down with all the rigor the law allows. There are several legitimate methods of catching fish, but this is not one of them. And these legitimate methods we pursue in such numbers and so industriously that in a few years more the magnificent trout on which we pride ourselves will be exhausted. It is not necessary that our recklessness should be helped out by the criminality of dynamite fishing; the end will come quite soon enough without that.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's is the only official intimation yet made that the Joint High Commission will resume its sittings this summer, but it is sufficient. The vacancy caused by the death of Lord Herschell will, it is said, be filled by the appointment of Lord Rosebery. There could not be a better one, if his Lordship would only take the trouble to rouse himself sufficiently to take an interest in the matters under consideration.

"A Prime Minister," says Mr. Goldwin Smith, "need not have brilliancy, but he must have weight." Everybody knew Mr. Dunsmuir did not possess brilliancy, but most of us hoped and believed he had weight. But when put into the balance with certain corporation roustabouts, his end of the beam kicked the ceiling in short order.

If Ferguson is like its newspaper, The Lardeau Eagle, it is a neat, enterprising, ambitious town.

LICENSE AUTHORIZING AN EXTRA-PROVINCIAL COMPANY TO CARRY ON BUSINESS.

"Companies Act, 1897."

CANADA: PROVINCE OF BRITISH COLUMBIA

No. 214.

THIS IS TO CERTIFY that "The Rossland Proprietory and Mining Company, Limited," is authorised and licensed to carry on business within the Province of British Columbia, and to carry out or effect all or any of the objects of the Company to which the legislative authority of the Legislature of British Columbia extends.

The head office of the Company is situate in England.

The amount of the capital of the Company is £10,000, divided into 10,000 shares of £1 each.

The head office of the Company in this Province is situate at Nelson and Robert Scott Lennie, Solicitor, whose address is Nelson aforesaid, is the attorney for the Company.

Given under my hand and seat of office at Victoria, Province of British Columbia, this 16th day of April, one thousand nine hundred and one.

[L. S.] S. Y. WOOTTON, Registrar of Joint Stock Companies

The following are the objects for which the Company has been established:—

(a) To establish and to carry on the business of gold miners and dealers in British Columbia and elsewhere, and to acquire and work all gold mines and claims wherever situate, and in particular to acquire and take over, work and turn to account certain Mineral Claims known as the "Derby" and "Nelson" Mineral claims, situate in the Kootenay District of British Columbia, and certain lots of land situate in the Railway Addition of the Town (now City) of Rossland, British Columbia:

(b) To prospect, explore, open and work, or contract for the working by other persons or companies of any claims or mines, and raise and dig and quarry for, extract or otherwise prepare for market, gold and other minerals, earth and other substances, and to carry on the business of a company trading in such materials in all its branches, and to employ and pay mining experts, agents and other persons, partnerships, or corporations for prospecting, exploring, and reporting on working:

(c) To carry on all kinds of exploration business, and in particular to search for, prospect, examine and explore in British Columbia and in any other country, mines and ground supposed to contain minerals or precious stones and to search for and obtain information in regard to mines, mining rights, mining districts and localities, and to search for, examine into, develop, carry on and work, or cause to be developed, carried on or worked, all mineral, industrial, financial, commercial or agricultural enterprises in British Columbia or elsewhere:

(d) To purchase or otherwise acquire, and to sell, dispose of, and deal with mines and mining rights, water and water rights, property and all mineral, industrial, commercial, financial and agricultural enterprises in British Columbia, and to work, exercise, develop and turn to account mines and mining rights, water and water rights, and all mineral, industrial, commercial, financial and agricultural enterprises and also to buy, sell, refine, manipulate and deal in mine als of all kinds:

(e) To carry on all kinds of promotion business, and in particular to form, constitute, float, lend money to, assist and control any companies, associations, or undertakings whatsoever.

(f) To purchase or otherwise acquire, sell, dispose of and deal in real and personal property of all kinds, and in particular lands, buildings, hereditaments, business concerns and undertakings, mortgages, charges, annuities, patents, licenses, shares, stock, debentures, debenture stock, securities, concessions, produce, policies, book debts and claims, and any interests in real or personal property, and any claims against such property or against any person or company, and to carry on any business concern or undertaking so acquired.

(g) To transact and carry on all kinds of agency business, and in particular to collect rents and debts, and to negotiate loans, to find investments, and to issue and place shares, stock, debentures and debenture stock, or securities:

(h) To subscribe for, purchase, or otherwise acquire and hold, sell, dispose of and deal in shares, stock, debentures, debenture stock or securities of any company or undertaking, or of any authority, supreme, municipal, local or otherwise:

(i) To guarantee the payment of money, secured by or payable under or in respect of bonds, debentures, debenture stock, contracts, mortgages, charges, obligations and securities of any company, or of any authority, supreme, municipal, local or otherwise, or of any persons whomsoever, whether incorporated or not incorporated:

(j) Generally to carry on and transact every kind of guarantee and indemnity business, and to undertake obligations of every kind and description, and also to undertake and execute trusts of all kinds:

(k) To furnish and provide deposits and guarantee funds required in relation to any tender or application for any contract, concession, decree, enactment, property, or privilege, or in relation to the carrying out any contract, concession, decree or enactment:

(l) To lend or advance money to any company, partnership, person, association, or authority, supreme, municipal, local, or otherwise, on such terms as may seem expedient:

(m) To receive moneys, securities, and valuables of all kinds on deposit or for safe custody

(n) To carry on and undertake any business transaction or operation commonly carried on or undertaken by promoters of companies, financiers, concessionaires, contractors for public and other works, capitalists, merchants, or traders, and to carry on any other business which may seem to the Company capable of being conveniently carried on in connection with any business carried on by or within the powers of the company, or calculated directly or indirectly to enhance the value of, or render profitable any of the company's property rights:

(o) To make donations to such persons, and in such cases, and either of cash or other assets, as the company may think directly or indirectly conducive to any of its other objects, or otherwise expedient.

(p) To enter into any arrangement with any Government or authority supreme, municipal, local or otherwise, and to obtain from any such Government or authority all rights, concessions and privileges that may seem conducive to the company's objects, or any of them:

(q) To control, manage, or superintend the business affairs or transactions of any person or company, and to place any of the business affairs or transactions under the control of any person or company as may seem expedient:

(r) To issue for the purpose of payment, security, guarantee or otherwise, in respect of any of the above objects, paid-up or partly paid-up shares:

(s) To remunerate any person or company for services rendered in placing or assisting to place, or guaranteeing the placing of any of the shares in the company's capital, or any debentures or other securities of the company, or in or about the promotion of the company or the conduct of its business:

(t) To sell the undertaking of the company, or any part thereof, for such consideration as the company may think fit, and in particular for shares, debentures and securities of any other company having objects altogether or in part similar to those of this company.

(u) To borrow, raise or secure the payment of money, and with a view thereto to create and issue debentures, debenture stock, bonds, mortgages, obligations and securities of all kinds, and to frame, constitute, and secure the same as may seem expedient, with full power to make the same transferable by delivery or by instrument of transfer or otherwise, and either perpetual or terminable, and either redeemable or otherwise, and to charge or secure the same by trust deed or otherwise on the undertaking of the Company, or upon any specific property or rights, present and future, of the Company, including (if thought fit) uncalled capital or otherwise howsoever.

(v) To distribute any of the assets among the members in kind:

(w) To procure the Company to be registered and recognized in any country or place abroad:

(x) To do all such things as are incidental or conducive to the attainment of the above objects, or any of them.

FAMILY RECORD.

One of the most beautiful pictures in colors. Upon a background of Pure Solid Gold rests the Family Record in the shape of a handsome volume with Gold Clasps upon a cushion of crimson velvet with a beautiful Gold Tassel. On the pages, under different headings, are spaces in which to write the name and date of birth. On either side is a beautiful scroll on which to record marriages and deaths. On top of the picture are the words, "Family Record," in the richest lettering known to printer's art. Under this are spaces for father's and mother's pictures. In the lower part of the picture is a beautiful home scene. The dear old grandparents, the handsome, stalwart husband, and happy young wife, the loving daughter and baby boy—the idolized grandchild—are all gathered around the table, while grandfather reads a portion of God's Holy Word. A truly beautiful scene. Underneath are the words, "God Bless Our Family." Around this picture are eight spaces for photographs of other members of the family, each space enclosing a gem flower piece. Elsewhere on the picture are scattered creeping vines, buds and blossoms in rich confusion, the whole resting on, and thrown into bold relief by the gorgeous background of Solid Gold which produces a picture of dazzling beauty.

PINE NEEDLES.

Here where the pine tree to the ground
Lets slip its fragrant load
My footsteps fall without a sound
Upon a velvet road.

O poet pine, that turn'st thy gaze
Alone unto the sky,
How softly on earth's common ways
Thy sweet thoughts fall and lie!

So sweet, so deep, seared by the sun
And smitten by the rain,
They pierce the heart of every one
With fragrance keen as pain.

Or if some pass nor heed their sweet
Nor feel their subtle dart
Their softness stills the noisy feet
And stills the noisy heart.

O poet pine, thy needles high
In starry light abode,
And now for footsore passersby
They make a velvet road!

—Lewiston Journal.

MYSTERY OF A GLOVED HAND.

I had been spending a week in New York with my father and was returning to Chicago alone, business detaining my parent in the east for some time longer.

"Now, Nelly," said my father as he saw me to my seat and tendered me a supply of books and papers that would have lasted me to Honolulu, "you will get to Chicago as comfortably as if I were going along with you."

I had a lower berth—No. 8—and to all appearances the berth above was to be unoccupied.

A parting kiss, a hurried pressure of hands, a brief glimpse of waving hands and handkerchiefs and the train was soon speeding on its way westward.

I began to long for some one to talk to and almost regretted that fate had not provided me with a vis-a-vis, even though a stranger. However, I saw a little awakening that promised a possible break in the monotony. In a compartment next but one to mine, on the opposite side, I saw a gentleman whom I had not noticed before fixing a table in position, as if for writing. He glanced across at me now and again with a calm inquisitiveness that somehow suggested to my mind the probability of a closer intimacy between us later.

I was a little disconcerted at his frequent glances in my direction, for I could not tell what they implied. To avoid recognizing his glances I turned to the newspaper again and made such a good pretense of being absorbed in it that I was really startled when I saw him presently standing close to me, looking straight into my face over the paper.

"I beg your pardon," he said in a soft, musical voice, with his hand toward the seat on which I was sitting.

I grasped the situation at once. There was something under the seat he wanted. He was the man who was to occupy the berth above me and who was entitled to sit on the seat facing me.

I immediately rose to my feet and from under the seat he dragged forth a small leather bag, and with a gracious bow and "I thank you, madam," conveyed it to the table he had opened out and, taking therefrom a bundle of papers and writing materials, was soon busy with them, covering page after page with a facility that gave me the notion he must be either a newspaper correspondent or a novelist.

The day wore on; morning grew to noon and noon to night, and, excepting the slight intervals for meals, when he would return all his papers and writing to his bag, lock it and disappear for a brief interval, he never allowed his pen to rest.

There was one peculiarity about him that struck me as not a little remarkable. He always kept his left hand gloved and, having not much else to think about, that gloved hand grew to be an object of considerable curiosity to me.

Why I should trouble my head so much about a stranger passed my comprehension; but, fight against the influence as I might, the man with the glove exercised an inexplicable fascination over me. That he failed to return the compliment was evident, for, although he often glanced over at me, he made no further attempt to disturb my privacy.

A slight diversion occurred after passing Altoona. A thunderstorm of exceptional violence broke across the valley, and the lamps had to be lighted. At the next station a couple of drenched male figures boarded the train, shook themselves free from the hurricane of rain in which they had been caught and settled quietly down in a compartment at the other end of the car.

What a face was his of the gloved hand, as it bent close to the glass and peered out into the turmoil! He saw roaring furnaces, scarred hills and ragged ravines, or I was much mistaken, and when at last I retired into the curtained gloom of my lower berth that face was the object that my brain carried into the darkness with me.

I could hear the other beds being made ready, one after another, and at last there was a sound of whispering voices near me, and I knew that the attendant was assisting the man with the glove into the berth above me. Then gradually the silence of night crept through the car, the lights were lowered, and each passenger was left alone with his or her own thoughts.

So completely had I mastered my fears that I was on the point of falling off into a peaceful sleep when a groan in the berth above me—a groan of agony, if ever I heard one—set my heart palpitating with fresh terror. My eyes stood wide open again. Parting my curtains, I looked through the car, where all was still enough, but at the far end I saw, fully dressed, the two men who had entered the train at the station after Altoona.

Now more alarmed than ever, I held my breath with fear. What could it all mean? Was something dreadful portending, or were a few trifling circumstances that had no connection or significance playing nightmare tricks with my brain?

Just then a sight dawned on my excited eyes that almost made me shriek.

In the interstice between the bed above and the side of the car I could see something, I knew not what, protruding. My eyes were riveted to the object, and as the object grew and gradually drooped lower and lower, I could see that it was a human hand. The hand of the man with the glove, but now gloveless. The second and third fingers were wrapped round with a strip of linen, darkened by soakings of blood! As I looked I could see drops of blood collect at the finger tips and fall in slow sequence, drop after drop, upon my bed.

What was I to do? Call for the attendant and have the man awakened or let the matter take its course?

Presently another agonizing groan from the wounded man told me that he had awakened, and, to my intense relief, I saw the hand hastily draw up. My first impulse was to throw the clothes from the bed and dress, but a more reasonable feeling supervened, and, scarcely knowing what I did, I took a newspaper and spread it across the stains. But that was not sufficient to exorcise my fears, and I stared fixedly at the paper that concealed the marks until in the moonlight I found myself reading, in a mechanical, semiconscious way, the words I saw printed on the newspaper.

At first the words were meaningless, then they began to assume form and coherence, and finally I found them burning into my brain. In the column spread out before me was an account of a terrible tragedy that had taken place in New York the day previous to my leaving that city. A man had murdered a woman out of jealousy under circumstances of peculiar atrocity. In the struggle between the murderer and his victim the knife with which the deadly deed had been done had been wrested so fiercely that the ends of two of the murderer's fingers had been cut off and had been picked up by the police. The man in the berth above was the murderer! With this maddening thought surging through my brain, the wonder was that I did not scream. But I kept silent, slowly realizing the grave responsibility of my position as I lay there with a fellow creature's life at my mercy. My duty was plain. To allow a criminal to escape justice was to become an accessory to his crime. But had I the hardihood to denounce him? Would not the stigma of notoriety forever afterward be mine? How did I know that the crime might not be in a measure a stroke of swift justice that man is sometimes maddened into committing under strong provocation?

The dawn was just stealing in through the windows, and, as I put on my wrapper and crept stealthily to the dressing room, there was not a soul to be seen except the male attendant, leaning against the door at his own end of the car, looking sleepily out. The man with the glove was as still as the rest of the passengers, whether he was sleeping or not.

After long reasoning I came to the conclusion that the conductor was the proper person to consult with. The conductor passed through, but I did not stop him. My courage failed me. Then I returned to my seat and found the beds cleared away. Where was the man? I cast my eye apprehensively around the car, but he was nowhere to be seen.

The conductor entered the car again. I signaled him to approach and was about to tell him what I had seen when somehow my tongue refused to shape the fatal words of accusation, and I simply inquired of him what time the train would reach Chicago. At that same moment there flashed across my mind the thought that it was within the range of possibility that I was mistaken in my suspicions. Cut fingers were common enough. Yes, but not that look of weird terror and hate and desperation that I had read in the man's face as he had sat gazing out of the window the previous night.

It was time for me to act. The next time the conductor passed through the car I followed him and was about to speak when, to my amazement, I saw the man with the glove seated between the two men who had boarded the train after we had left Altoona. I let the conductor go forward into the next car and turned back to go to my seat, getting another glimpse of the man's face as I passed. It wore the same look of guilty horror that I had seen upon it the night before, with an additional pang of hopelessness thrown into it.

I saw the situation. The other men were detectives, who had been telegraphed ahead to arrest the murderer, and they had quietly secured him while I had been out of the car wondering how to act.

A few weeks afterward I read the report of the man's condemnation.—Chicago News.

A Story From Real Life.

This little story comes from real life. "Certainly she knows that she's not my own daughter," said the fine looking old gentleman in answer to an inquiry. "I told her that as soon as she was old enough to understand. Thought it was best. Now she's going to be married.

"I've always thought that she was left at my house by mistake, for there was a rich man of the same name living up on the avenue, and she would have had a finer home there. But I owe everything to the little witch, and she thinks just as much of us as we do of her. When we took her in that night off the step, we found a string of beads about her neck, fastened to a chain by clasps, mother and me thinking they were glass.

"One day a lady called and said she believed the beads were diamonds. I laughed at the idea, but mother took them to a jeweler, and he said every bead was a fine solitaire. They were my start.

"Sell 'em? Indeed we didn't. She'll wear 'em at her wedding and more with 'em. I was working then at common labor for $1.50 a day. My boss took a liking to me and offered me a chance to join him in a contract if I could find some ready money. Mother and me took the diamonds to a banker, and he let me have the money on them.

"We made a good thing on the contract. I kept right on that line, doing honest work, and now I'm what people used to call rich. The girl has had everything that a good girl wants, she's happy as a lark, she has made us all happy, and she's going to live right in this block after she's married."—Detroit Free Press.

Funerals In Peru.

According to social usage, women in Peru cannot attend funerals, and they do not appear at weddings unless they are very intimate friends. When a funeral procession passes through the streets, the coffin is carried upon the shoulders of the pallbearers, who are followed by an empty hearse drawn by two, four or six horses, according to the means of the mourners and their desire for display. All the male members of the family and friends of the deceased follow on foot, with a line of empty carriages behind them. As long as they are in the presence of the dead it is considered a proper and necessary evidence of respect to walk. After the body has been committed to the grave those who attend the funeral are brought home in carriages.

WOULD HAVE SHOT HIM.

A Quaint Story of Victor Hugo and Louis Philippe.

In the reign of Louis Philippe Victor Hugo was a frequent and welcome guest at the Tuileries. Here is one of his anecdotes of the time as told in Victor Hugo's memoirs:

"A few days ago the king said to Marshal Soult (in the presence of others), 'Marshal, do you remember the siege of Cadiz?'

"'Rather, sire, I should think so. I swore enough before that cursed Cadiz. I invested the place and was forced to go away as I had come.'

"'Marshal, while you were before it I was inside it.'

"'I know, sire.'

"'The cortes and the British cabinet offered me the command of the Spanish army.'

"'I remember, sire.'

"'The offer was a grave one. I hesitated long. Bear arms against France? For my family it is possible, but against my country! I was greatly perplexed. At this juncture you asked me through a trusty person for a secret interview in a little house situated on the Cortadura, between the city and your camp. Do you remember the fact, Monsieur Marshal?'

"'Perfectly, sire. The day was fixed and the interview arranged.'

"'And I did not turn up?'

"'That is so.'

"'Do you know why?'

"'I never knew.'

"'I will tell you. As I was preparing to meet you the commander of the English squadron, apprised of the matter, I know not how, dropped upon me brusquely and warned me that I was about to fall into a trap; that, Cadiz being impregnable, they despaired of seizing me, but that at Cortadura I would be arrested by you; that the emperor wished to make the Duke d'Orleans a second volume of the Duke d'Enghein, and that you would have had me shot instantly. There, really,' added the king with a smile, 'your hand on your conscience, were you going to shoot me?'

"The marshal remained silent for a moment, then replied: 'No, sire. I wanted to compromise you.' The subject of the conversation was changed. A few minutes later the marshal took leave of the king, and the king, as he watched him go, said with a smile to the person who had heard the conversation: 'Compromise! Compromise! Today it is called compromise. In reality he would have shot me.'"

RATHER TOO SMART.

A Transaction In Which the Mean Man Was Badly Beaten.

There was an auction sale in the little house, and one after another the widow's few possessions fell beneath the hammer. Presently the auctioneer took up a large bowl which happened to be full of sugar, and the poor woman, anxious to save its contents, hastened into the next room to find something in which to put it.

Just as she returned the auctioneer cried, "Sold!" and the purchaser insisted that the sugar was his. The widow pleaded for the little that was much to her, but the man was obdurate, and murmurs of indignation arose from the crowd. Angry at this demonstration, the man turned, and his eye rested on Mr. Wise.

"Mr. Wise," said he, "you are a lawyer. Am I right or not? If you say I am not, I will give back the sugar. If you say I am, I am entitled to it, and I'll keep it."

"My friend," replied Wise in his gentlest tone, "you put a delicate and unpleasant responsibility on me. Hadn't you better decide the matter for yourself?"

"No," replied the fellow curtly. "I know what your opinion is going to be, and I want you to give it so that this whole crowd can hear it."

"Then," said Wise, "I advise you that the sugar is yours. The widow cannot take it from you. She has no redress."

"Ah!" cried the man, turning to the spectators. "What did I tell you?"

"Stop!" thundered Wise, whose manner at once changed. "I've advised you at your persistent request, as I can prove by these people. It remains for me to tell you that I charge £1 1s. for my advice, and I demand immediate payment. If you trifle with me in the matter of payment, you will most certainly regret it."

The man turned scarlet and, fumbling in his pocket, produced a guinea, which the lawyer handed to the widow, and the crowd yelled its approval.—London Answers.

The Fool Fox.

"When the pursuit of wealth tempts you, my son," said the sage, "remember the fable of the fox that hungered for some wonderfully fine grapes growing in a garden the only entrance to which was through a hole in the wall. It was so small that he had to fast three days before he could crawl through it. After he had got inside and filled himself he was too large to crawl back through the hole, and was compelled to fast another three days before he could make his escape from the garden. So he went out as poor as he went in."

"Yes," said the ambitious young man, "but why didn't the fool fox take a lot of grapes to the hole and push them out through it? Then he could have carried away enough to keep him fat for a month."—Chicago Tribune.

Why He Was Excused.

At the Dublin city sessions one morning a juror prayed to be excused, and said he had a doctor's certificate that he was not fit to serve. He handed up a closed envelope to the recorder, who found it contained a letter from a well known Dublin medical man. Amid great laughter in court, the recorder read this letter aloud:

"This man has been asking for a certificate that he is unable to serve as a juror. I don't know whether he is a knave or a fool, but he has little brains, and he reeks of porter."

Not Contagious.

The reminiscences and recollections of W. G. Grace, the veteran English cricketer, contain one good story, a joke made by Tom Emmett, a famous bowler.

One Saturday afternoon Emmett was bowling for his club, but the fielders dropped catch after catch with such systematic persistence that he lost his temper, threw the ball on the ground and said:

"I'm not going to bowl any more. There's an epidemic on this ground, but, thank heaven, it ain't catchin!"

Her Fortune.

"My face is my fortune, sir," she said. And it was no fairy tale, either, for she was a bearded lady and drew sixty pes from the dime museum.—Philadelphia Record.

TWO SURPRISES.

The Indian Chief Was Not So Savage as He Looked.

Many years ago a number of Peoria Indians organized a show company and made a tour of the east. They were mostly half breeds, and all were thoroughly educated in English, but it was stipulated by the management that they must talk only in their native tongue, and when they got on their war togs they looked savage enough indeed. Among the company was Will Labadie, well known in Galena, and one evening he was standing in the corridor of an eastern hotel, dressed in his chief's robes and looking every inch the savage man of fiction, when he was approached by an elegantly gowned lady, and the following conversation ensued:

"How"—

"Ugh."

"You big chief in your own country?"

"Ugh."

"You go to Washington to see great white father?"

"Ugh."

"You cannot speak white man's tongue. You speak no English?"

"No, madam. I regret to say that I do not understand the language."

The poor woman was greatly surprised and embarrassed, but perhaps not so much as a bevy of girls on a later occasion. In almost every town some of the audience would remain behind to get a better view of the awful savages. One night Labadie had taken his seat in the orchestra box after the show, and four or five young ladies who were standing near commenced to comment on his personal appearance. "How would you like to kiss him?" said one of the maidens with a titter. "Oh, girls, let's all do it just to see how it would feel to kiss a real Indian!" exclaimed one more daring than the rest, whereupon Labadie turned calmly to them and said:

"Ladies, nothing would afford me more pleasure than to give you a practical illustration of the osculatory accomplishments of the red man."

There was a chorus of little screams, a swish of skirts, and the theater was empty.—Galena Republican.

A BABY AND A MOTHER.

An Odd and Pathetic Scene From Life In the Metropolis.

It occurred on a Third avenue "L" train. The car was well filled with men and women on their way down town, when a policeman got on at the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street station. He carried a baby in his arms. The officer took a seat opposite a theater party.

"Oh, isn't that a pretty baby? Have you arrested him?" exclaimed one of the young women. The policeman blushed.

"No, ma'am," he said. "You see, he's a foundling—picked up by a girl in a hallway, miss."

"Shame," said one of the men.

"He has silk ribbons in his hood," his companion observed.

"And a silk slip. Oh! who could be so cruel?" exclaimed a younger girl.

"Where's he going?" some one asked, and the policeman answered:

"To Bellevue. Then to Randall's island if he ain't claimed right away. They'll give him a name, you know."

Here the baby began to cry, softly at first, increasing it to a wail that would not be silenced. In vain the young women tried to quiet the child. The policeman shifted him uneasily from one shoulder to the other.

In the corner of the car sat a woman with a small child. She was poorly clad, but in her face was the kindliness of motherhood. She came forward.

"I think the child is hungry," she said. "Give him to me."

Resting her own child in her lap, the mother held the little foundling in her arms and drew about him a faded shawl.

The cries ceased, and a silence fell upon the theater party. When they left the train at Forty-second street, the baby was still quiet.

"He's asleep now, I think," the laborer's wife told them. One man slipped a roll of bills into the policeman's hand.

"For her," they said, nodding to the woman in the corner. "To Bellevue, eh? Too bad."—New York Journal.

Bobby as a Court Crier.

A Springfield lawyer has a son about 10 years old and a daughter about twice that age. The boy has been around the courthouse a good deal with his father, and the young woman has a steady beau. The other evening the young man passed the house, and the young woman desired to speak to him.

"Bobby," she said to her little brother, "won't you please to call to Mr. Brown?"

Bobby knew the state of affairs, and he hurried to the front door and called out in the usual loud monotone of a court bailiff:

"John Henry Brown, John Henry Brown, John Henry Brown, come into court!"

Mr. Brown came in, and Bobby withdrew to a safe place.—Ohio State Journal.

Gauze.

We have to thank Gaza, in Palestine, the gates of which Samson carried away, for gaze or gauze. Gaza means "treasure," and precious to the fair is the tissue which covers without concealing their charms. Voltaire, wishing to describe some intellectual but perhaps dressy woman, said, "She is an eagle in a cage of gauze."

His Luck.

"What, you want more money for your tailor? I gave you $50 for him only a month ago."

"Yes, but, uncle, it was just my luck—the fellow didn't come then with his bill."—Fliegende Blatter.

THE PAYNE MINING COMPANY,

Affairs in a Prosperous Condition and Will Install New Machinery.

The annual meeting of the Payne Consolidated Mining company was held on Thursday afternoon, May 23rd, in the offices of the company. Composed almost entirely of Montreal capitalists, this company owns large and valuable mining properties in British Columbia. The chair was occupied by the president, Lieut.-Col. F. C. Henshaw, who read his annual report as well as that of the manager of the company, Mr. Zwicky. After describing the progress and development of the company's property and the necessity of installing a compressor and concentrator, there port stated that there was every prospect of finding a large body of valuable ore in the deeper working of the mine. The report of the engineer pointed out that it was necessary to install some kind of power to operate below the No. 5 level, with out delay. It also stated that with a suitable plant, it would be possible to reduce the cost of operation by from 15 to 20 per cent. Commenting on the report of the manager, the president made an encouraging speech, in which he said that the directors had at all times carried on the affairs of the company in the interest of the shareholders. The financial statement showed the company had a balance on hand of $116,867. The reports were unanimously adopted. An interesting report was then made by Mr. F. B. Mathis, one of the directors of the company, and a mining engineer who recently visited the company's property in British Columbia. He gave the result of a minute examination of the property, and suggested many improvements in the working of the mine, and the installation of new machinery.

The following board of directors was then elected: Lieut.-Col. Henshaw, Hon. L. J. Forget, Wm. Hanson, F. R. Mathis, W. G. Ross, A. W. McCune, F. E. Sargent, Rudolphe Forget and Chas. E. L. Porteous. At a subsequent meeting of the directors Lieut.-Col. Henshaw was re-elected president and Hon. L. J. Forget, vice-president.—Montreal Star.

CLOSED THE LAST CHANCE.

All the force working on ore at the Last Chance was laid off on Wednesday. The stopes are too wet to carry on mining and no ore will be taken out until the seepage subsides.

Work on the Galena tunnel will be continued with a force of 15 men. This tunnel is now in 1,300 feet and it is calculated to tap the Galena vein at 1800 feet, giving a depth of 900 feet on the vein. This tunnel is 7x9 in the clear and is one of the finest pieces of mining engineering in the Slocan country. Air power from the Noble Five plant is being used and at the present rate of progress the ledge will be reached within the next 100 days. John O. Regan, superintendent of the Last Chance, is of the opinion that the Galena ledge is a continuation of the Antoine vein. Should this prove true, it will be an important epoch in the history of mining in the Slocan when the ledge is opened up at the 900-foot depth as it will prove the continuity of Slocan ledges beyond doubt.—Sandon Paystreak.

BANKRUPTED THE COUNTY.

A Salt Lake dispatch says: Gophers at 5 cents a head, has brought practically bankruptcy to Toole county, Utah. A few weeks ago the rodents became so troublesome that the county commissioners offered a bounty of 5 cents apiece for them. In a few days the school houses of the county were practically without pupils, nearly every boy, armed with traps and poison, being out in the fields and prairies hunting gophers. Men joined in the hunt, and the little animals were slaughtered by thousands, one day the county paying out $800 in bounties. So great was the drain that notice has now been published abolishing the bounty.

HE KEPT HIS LEG.

Twelve years ago J. W. Sullivan, of Hartford, Conn., scratched his leg with a rusty wire. Inflammation and blood poisoning set in. For two years he suffered intensely. Then the best doctors urged amputation, "but," he writes, "I used one bottle of Electric Bitters and 1½ boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve and my leg was sound and well as ever." For Eruptions, Eczema, Tetter, Salt Rheum Sores and all blood disorders Electric Bitters has no rival on earth. Try them. Canada Drug & Book Co. will guarantee satisfaction or refund money. Only 50 cents.

A LUCKY FIND.

What proved to be a more profitable find than gold happened the other day to a traveller from San Francisco, while at lunch in one of the leading restaurants in Nelson. He ordered a portion of Pumpkin pie, when to his astonishment his appetitie, which he had lost fifteen years ago in Arizona, suddenly returned to him, with renewed vigor. The pie had a very solid texture and a rich mellow flavor. The cook informs us that it was made from "The Morse Pumpkin Flour." None other just as good. Insist on "The Morse Brand."

A GOOD THING.

German Syrup is the special prescription of Dr. A. Boschree, a celebrated German Physician, and is acknowledged to be one of the most fortunate discoveries in Medicine. It quickly cures Coughs, Colds and all Lung troubles of the severest nature, removing as it does the cause of the affection and leaving the parts in a strong and healthy condition. It is not an experimental medicine, but has stood the test of years, giving satisfaction in every case, which its rapidly increasing sale every season confirms. Two million bottles sold annually. Boschree's German Syrup was introduced in the United States in 1868, and is now sold in every town and village in the civilized world. Three doses will relieve any ordinary cough. Price 75 cts. For sale by W. F. Teetzel & Co. Get Green's Prize Almanac.

A CONTENTED WOMAN.

Wife (in despair)—I don't know, Jack, dear, what we should have for desert today. It is so exceedinlgy hot.
Husband—Emma, why do you not get a package of the "Morse Pumpkin Flour." It will make three or four pies and with such a delicate flavor, a great labor saver, and no perspiring over a hot stove. Remember The Morse Brand, Emma.

Wall Papers We have the newest, most up to date Wall Papers in the city. It will pay those who intend to do any paperhanging to see our patterns and note our prices before buying. Our advice is always select and buy your own Wall Papers, with us you will save the paper-hangers or middlemen's profit, for we have so marked our Wall Paper that we cannot afford to give discounts and the person who buys 10 rolls will get it at the same price as the one buying 1000. Our system is the lowest price to all. We will be pleased to show our papers, you will not be importuned to buy.

LADIES' HOSPITAL AID—

The Ladies' Hospital Aid society will meet in the vestry room of the Presbyterian church on Monday, 3rd June, at 3 p. m. A full attendance of members is requesteed.

ON DECK AGAIN—

Barge No. 15, which some time ago temporarily retired from business by disappearing to the bottom of the lake, has recovered from its indisposition and has resumed its old position on the C. P. R. staff.

MOVING PICTURES—

The Searchlights Moving Picture Co. presented a very good enteratinment last night before a large and well pleased audience at the opera house. They will present different pictures on Monday and Tuesday night.

New York Brewing Company's Spokane beer on draught at the Athabasca Saloon.

E. MANSFIELD RETURNING—

A cablegram received today announced that Mr. E. Mansfield sailed yesterday from Liverpool, en route to Nelson. He will come via New York. Mr. Mansfield has been very successful in interesting British capital in various properties here, of which particulars will be given later.

AN INSIDE TIP—

A letter from a C. P. R. official at Montreal to the editor of this paper says the chances for refinery are bright, which means the C. P. R. have their minds on building one, but this, of course, does not deprive private parties from going on with one also. There will soon be room for two in Canada.—Sandon Mining Review.

LADIES' GUILD CONCERT—

The announcement in yesterday's Miner about the concert to be given by the English church Ladies' Guild, should have been announced for Friday, June 7th, in Fraternity hall. The performers, with the exception of Mr. Sydney Morse, the Orient tenor, will be local. Mrs. Melville Parry will sing, Mrs. Woakes, mandolin, Mrs. Hannington, piano, Miss Hedley, cello, Messrs. Campbell, Harris and Scanlan and others. Plan of hall at McDonald's confectionery.

FRESH AT NIGHT

If One Uses the Right Kind of Food.

If by proper selection of food one can feel strong and fresh at the end of a day's work, it is worth while to know the kind of food that will produce this result.

A school teacher of Media, Kan., says in this connection, "I commenced the use of Grape-Nuts Food five months ago. At that time my health was so poor that I thought would have to give up my work altogether. I was rapidly losing in weight, had little appetite, was nervous and sleepless, and experienced, almost constantly a feeling of exhaustion. I tried various remedies without good results, then I determined to give particular attention to my food, and have learned someting of the properties of Grape-Nuts for rebuilding the brain and nerve centers.

I commenced using that food and have since made a constant and rapid improvement in health in spite of the fact that all this time I have been engaged in the most strenuous and exacting work.

I have gained twelve pounds in weight and have a good appetite, my nerves are steady and I sleep sound. I have such strength and reserve force that I feel almost as strong and fresh at the close of a day's work as at the beginning.

Before using Grape-Nuts I was troubled much with weak eyes but as my vitality increased the eyes became stronger. I never heard of food as nutritious and economical as Grape-Nuts. Please omit my name from print." Name can be given by Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich.

LICENSE COMMISSIONERS—

There will be a meeting of the license commissioners at the courthouse on Saturday 15th at 10 a. m. for the hearing of applications for the renewal of ten licenses in the Ymir and other districts.

THE PAULINE EPISTLES—

The pastor of the Baptist church will continue his series of sermons on the Pauline Epistles this morning at the regular service and at the evening service the subject will be "Profanity and Perjury."

PROBABLY WOULD—

It always depends upon what view of a case a person takes as to the right or wrong of a thing. In illustration of this fact a prominent citizen yesterday when asked if he had any news said no, but that no news was good news. If he had been a city reporter in the city of Nelson he might have thought differently.

New York Brewing Company's Spokane beer on draught at the Athabasca Saloon.

TROUT BITING WELL—

Some fine catches of trout are reported as having been caught in the lake during the last few days. A number of Chinamen have surprised the natives by catching some excellent fish by means of dough. It is no uncommon thing, however, for land fish to be hooked every time by the sight of the "dough."

WELL KNOWN IN NELSON—

Hargeaves, who according to the dispatch contained in the last issue of The Miner committed sucide, was well known by many of the citizens of Nelson and was highly respected by all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance. No reason has yet been adduced for the rash act, but it is claimed by those who were most intimate with the man that he has been a frequent sufferer from la grippe which has affected his mind and it is thought that a recent attack of the same malady has revived the same symptoms.

GARDNER-FLEMING—

At the Congregational church on Thursday evening last Mr. Albert E. Gardner and Miss Grace Fleming, both of this city, were united in marriage, Rev. Wm. Munroe officiating. The young couple left on Friday morning's train for Southern California, where they will in future reside. Mr. and Mrs. Gardner are both very well known in Nelson, having lived here for some time past, and a large circle of friends will wish them abundant success in their new home. Mr. Gardner expects to engage in business with his brother in Santa Ana, near Los Angeles.

NELSON'S NEW CAFE—

Shakespeare or some other great preacher has said that he that will not work shall not eat. But that was only half a truth, because it is equally true that he that does not eat cannot work. In order to provide the citizens of Nelson the opportunity of fulfilling this revised gospel George Paquin has opened up an establishment on west Baker street, called the Fountain Cafe, where for a modest fee the epicurean can have as large a variety of viands as will suit the taste of the most fastidious. The place was until very recently occupied as a tailor shop, but since the new tenant has come into possession it has been transmogrified and is now one of the most cosy and up-to-date restaurants in the city, and a glance at the menu for today's dinner, advertised in another column, which will be the first meal in the new quarters, will satisfy the public that the Fountain Cafe is the right place to go for a square meal. Everything in the place is new and first class and after Monday all short orders will be broiled unless otherwise ordered.

PERSONAL

Mr. J. A. Carter of the C. P. R., has returned from a trip to the Boundary country.

Mrs. David Morris and children left this morning for Oregon to spend the summer at the seaside.

Mr. R. F. Green, M. P. P., is in the city. He says the prospects are good for Kaslo getting its smelter.

Dr. Symonds is taking a holiday. He will sail from New York on the 15th inst., on the steamship Campania, and will spend three months visiting friends in England.

NELSON, B. C.

WINDING UP THE CENSUS—

A. B. Buckworth, assistant census commissioner for the Nelson district, arrived in the city last evening in connection with the winding up of the census, and leaves for Rossland today where he will meet with some of the other commissioners and the provincial work will be concluded. Speaking of the matter of enumerators' pay he made the encouraging statement that none of the British Columbia commissioners had received any intimation that the pay would be cut down to five cents per name, and as that had been done with the eastern commissioners, he thought that there was little danger of that course being adopted in British Columbia.
