Lake Louise

Like a flawless gem set in a ring of snow-capped peaks, Lake Louise mirrors mountain scenery worth crossing a continent to see. More than a mile high, this limpid lake, fed by mighty Victoria Glacier, its waters fringed by multi-coloured poppies, columbines, violets, anemones, is unrivalled for beauty. Basking in clear, invigorating mountain air as stimulating as sparkling spring water, Chateau Lake Louise, Canadian Pacific hostelry from which this Rocky Mountain beauty is enjoyed, was cunningly sited to make the most of nature's bounty.

Its every window a picture frame, the gracious chateau commands the milky-jade waters of Lake Louise and the snowy peaks of the Pipestone range. You can enjoy boating, mountain pony riding, swimming in a glass-enclosed open air pool of warmed glacial water, hiking, climbing and dancing. By modern highways from Chateau Lake Louise, mountains, valleys, streams are within easy reach of the motorist. Notable sights and experiences include the Columbia Icefield Highway to the Columbia Icefield. Eight-mile-long Mount Eisenhower, renamed in 1946 for the great Supreme Commander, is on your road to Banff Springs Hotel.

The Chateau Frontenac

Québec City, North America's most famous historical landmark, and capital of the French-Canada province of Québec, combines ancient and modern, European and North American, quaintness and efficiency, metropolis and year-round holiday centre.

Key to these combinations is the Chateau Frontenac, the luxurious Canadian Pacific Hotel that dominates the provincial capital architecturally and socially. From the Chateau's baronial halls to the colonial simplicity of centuries-old dwellings is a literal "stone's throw." The metropolitan comfort of the modern Chateau Frontenac highlights a year-round vacationland that appeals to every purse and every taste.

Québec has everything for every kind of vacation. For sports enthusiasts the changing seasons offer: skiing, skating, tobogganing, snow-shoeing, hunting, fishing, swimming, golf, tennis, hiking. For tourists there are churches, the Norman architecture of an earlier day, scenic drives, modern stores, quaint shops — all the evidence of an ancient and gracious culture.

All this — just overnight from fifty million people!
