RICH STRIKE IN THE BOUNDARY

In Mine that Lay Idle for Years.

The story of the Providence mine near Greenwood is interesting as showing how mines are sometimes abandoned and afterwards worked again, only to find that the largest and richest ore bodies had been left untouched by the first workings.

The Providence was located over ten years ago, and a Spokane company headed by Howard C. Walters, secured control of the prospect and did some development work. Very rich ore was taken out, which was shipped by mules to where the city of Grand Forks is now situated. From there it was sent to Marcus over the wagon road, and thence to the Tacoma smelter by rail.

The ore was then very rich, running hundreds of dollars to the ton, and in spite of very high transportation charges, netted a large profit to the owners of the claim. The values were in gold, silver and copper, and the property became noted throughout the Boundary, when such low-grade properties as the Old Ironsides and Mother Lode had few to speak well of them.

In 1893 when silver dropped, silver properties became a drug on the market. Added to this was the fact that Mr. Walters and his associates thought that they had dug out and shipped the best ore in the mine, and they decided to discontinue all work on the property.

So the Providence was forgotten for a number of years, but being a crown granted claim was held by the original owners.

Last year Mr. Fowler, an old miner of many years experience in nearly all parts of the western American continent, looked the property over, and concluded he had found just what he wanted. Accordingly he secured a lease from the owners, at the same time it is said he also secured a bond on the property for $10,000. Mr. Fowler worked away for a time, and later took Fred Whitwell in on his lease.

Soon these men found that they had a genuine mine in the Providence, and a shipment of some 15 tons to the Greenwood smelter a short time ago, but verified their belief. In one place there are thirty inches of solid galena, freely sprinkled with silver glance, while several ounces of gold per ton were also found.

It is understood that a transfer is about to take place on a basis of $50,000. Mr. Fowler thinks he has enough ore in sight to more than pay for the property, and so is probably not particularly anxious to sell.

And so it appears as though the first Boundary bonanza would prove to be a bonanza a second time.

Platform of Provincial Progressive Party Formulated at Kamloops.

An important convention of the labor party was held in Kamloops recently, and resulted in the combining of the various reform elements of the province into a new political organization to be known as the Provincial Progressive Party. A platform composed of 18 planks was formulated. It is the intention to run candidates in as many constituencies as possible at the next provincial elections. Sixty-six delegates were in attendance; all parts of the Province being well represented. The following officers were elected:—Pres. Chris. Foley, Rossland; Vice-Pres., James Wilks, Nelson; Sec'y-Treas., Jas. D. McNiven, Victoria; Executive Committe, H. Buckle, Nanaimo; Joseph Watson, Vancouver; D. W. Stevens, Kamloops; T. L. Buckton, Phoenix.

The convention declared itself in favor of government ownership of railways and all means of communication; establishment of government owned smelters and refineries for the treatment of all kinds of mineral; extension of the franchise to women; abolition of property qualifications for all public offices; compulsory arbitration of labor disputes; restriction of Oriental immigration, and municipalization and public control of liquor traffic.

It also expressed itself against the giving away of cash subsidies and public lands, holding that all lands should be held for the actual settler.

A Motor Bicycle.

Mr. A. R. Barrow, who is locating in Princeton for the following of his profession as a Civil Engineer, has ordered from England one of the latest types of motor bicycles which he purposes using for fast trips between this place and outside points. Gasoline will furnish the power. "Under favorable circumstances," Mr. Barrow says, "this machine will travel between 15 and 20 miles an hour."

It will be possible for the operator to go from Princeton to Spence's Bridge or Kamloops in a day.

If the machine is found to work satisfactorily on the mountainous roads of this country, it should certainly prove of great usefulness when urgent business matters necessitate speedy communication with the outside world.

CHURCH NOTICE.

Service will be held in Mr. McLean's dining room, Ashnola, at 1:30 p. m., and in Mr. Mason's house, Princeton, at 7:30 p. m Sunday school at 6 p. m. Everybody heartily invited.

MAKE BIG PROFITS IN COAL.

Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company Clears $270,848.

Salmo, B. C., April 24.—At the annual meeting of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company the directors presented their report for 1901, showing net profits of $270,848. After paying dividends at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum a balance of $28,142 was carried forward to the credit of the profit and loss account.

During the year the company issued $500,000 in new stock, at a premium of 60 per cent., and the $300,000 premium paid in was also added to profit and loss account, making a total surplus of $517,017.

The coal produced during the year amounted to 425,457 tons, as compared with 220,458 tons in 1900. The company's present output is largely in excess of any requirements that have been made upon it in British Columbia.

Aspen Grove.

Mr. D. Munro has just finished fencing a very fine tract of pasture land.

Dan Ross has discovered and located a lead of very high grade copper glance. He has named the claim the Peek-a-boo.

Work on the Copper Standard, owned by Eastwood, Smith & Co., has proved that property to be one of the best in the camp.

Mr. H. Herbert of California, has been looking over the camp with a view to investing.

JOHNSTON—ALLISON.

On Thursday, the 8th inst., at 3 p. m., at the residence of the bride's mother, Mr. Albert Johnston and Miss Louisa Allison were united in the holy bonds of matrimony, the Rev. E. Hardwick officiating. The wedding was very quiet, only a few of the most intimate friends of the bride and groom being present. The large number of costly gifts presented to the happy couple bore eloquent testimony to their wide popularity.

In the evening a ball was held in honor of the event at the Hotel Tulameen. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. E. Allison, Mr. and Mrs. Schisler, Mr. and Mrs. Richter, Mr. and Mrs. Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Waterman, Mr. and Mrs. Haegerman, Mr. and Mrs. Bromley, Mrs. Silverson, Mrs. Gulliford, Misses Allison, Haegerman, Bromley and Mattson, Messrs. G. M. Allison, A. E. Allison, S. S. A. Allison, A. E. Thomas, A. E. Irwin, Jas. Stott, T. Sloan, Neil Henderson, C. Summers, Wm. Fairless, Norman Woodward, J. Jamieson, C. O. Day, T. C. Revely, C. P. Barber, D. McLeod, G. E. Wardle, M. Cruickshanks, V. Ryder, F. W. Penson, W. G. Murray, A. McFarlane, F. Martin, H. Webb, C. E. Thomas, H. Cowan, W. B. Hitchings, M. Silverthorne, Jas. Wallace, D. O. Day, A. E. Lewis. Messrs. Dunsmoor, Knight and Hitchings provided the music in a most acceptable manner, and dancing was indulged in until far into the wee sma' hours of the morning.

Over the Hope Trail On Snowshoes.

Mr. T. Graham and Mr. T. Robertson arrived in Princeton on Thursday last, having come in over the Hope trail. They report the snow to be from 6 to 8 feet deep on the summit, and it was necessary for them to use snowshoes in order to get through. The trip took eight days to make. Mr. Robertson was formerly connected with the Slocan Star mine as assayer and surveyor, and Mr. Graham was employed in the Ruth. They report business of all kinds very quiet in the Slocan on account of the low prices of silver and lead.

Mr. J. A. Mohr and son of Enderby, drove in on Thursday last, coming in via Salmon River and Douglas Lake.

Captain Revely of the football team has called a practice for Sunday morning at 10 a.m. All players are requested to attend.

D. R. Young, Managing Director of the Similkameen Valley Coal Co., Lt'd., arrived in town yesterday, coming in by Keremeos.

The programme is out for the celebration at Keremeos on the 23rd and 24th inst. A good list of races has been arranged and an enjoyable time is assured all visitors. A football game between Princeton and Keremeos has been arranged for.

A NEW POLITICAL POWER.

In another column we give an account of the formation of a new political organization called the Provincial Progressive Party, together with a short synopsis of the leading planks in its platform.

From all accounts the various parts of the province were well represented and the proceedings in convention were most harmonious.

It is a significant sign of the times that the reform elements are getting closer together, and are preparing to do battle for their principles in the political arena.

There is nothing to alarm the most conservative in the platform adopted, and much that all classes must heartily commend.

Some of the most important measures advocated therein have been ably espoused by the aggressive member for Rossland, Mr. Smith Curtis, since his election to the house, and it appears to us that he is the logical leader of the new party. He has been greatly handicapped in the past for lack of a following, but we have no doubt could go back to the house with eight or ten followers after the next election, if the new party decides to name him as its leader.

A LOW GRADE PROPOSITION

It is a curious spectacle to see a discredited and impotent government such as we have in this province today, hanging on to power by the grace of an erstwhile opponent. After the disclosures made at the Royal Commission, it is difficult to see what further reason can possibly exist to justify the Martin party in continuing its support. Martin is responsible for every day of life the government now enjoys and many of his supporters through out the country are grumbling at the continued alliance. Does he intend to shoulder the blunder of the present administration? It is difficult to see how he can escape doing so from now on, if he continues to lend his aid to a perpetuation of its existence.

WITH THE EXCHANGES.

An eastern exchange states that Wm. Damm's daughter Grace has the scarlet fever, and the whole Damm family is quarantined. We might add that the news comes from Bruce county.—Phoenix Pioneer.

The citizens of Greenwood feel so strongly about the coming of the V. V. & E. to the Boundary that they held a public meeting, and passed resolutions on the subject. They believe and rightly, that everything possible should be done to encourage railway building, instead of discouraging it, as is the plan in some places.—Phoenix Pioneer.

The speaker of the local legislature is an expert counter. Probably he has acquired this useful art from a long acquaintance with golf or cribbage. The other day there were only 33 members in the house when a vote to adjourn was taken. Seventeen voted against the government's motion and 16 for it. Mr. Speaker's keen eye at once saw 17 on both sides, and gave his own casting vote to sustain the government. Great head.—Vancouver Independent.

The daily papers have been strangely silent on the evidence produced before the Royal Commission appointed to investigate the charges preferred by Smith Curtis, M. L. A., against the Dunsmuir government and its scandalous railway deal. Enough evidence was produced there to show that they should be hounded from power, and how any honest man can give them a vote to retain them in their seats passeth understanding. But, then, political morality in this province is at a low ebb.—Vancouver Independent.

SMILES.

"You are in my pew, sir," said Mr. Upjohn, stiffly.

"Then I am sitting in the seat of the scornful!" replied the stranger, getting out of it with alacrity and taking a seat farther back in the church.

"I think," she said, "I should like to marry an imaginative man."

"Well," said her friend, speaking very sweetly, "what other kind of a man can you ever expect to marry—if he has a chance to see you in daylight?"

Uncle—What are you crying for, Georgie? Georgie—Teacher caned me because I was the only one—boo—hoo—able to answer a question to-day. Uncle (indignantly)—This is scandalous, my poor boy! What was the question? Georgie (between sobs)—Who put the bent pin in the teacher's chair?

Chinese Innocence.

"There are some things about that second count that remind me of Bill McGuffin's claim on the Yuba," remarked the old prospector the other day. "Bill had sunk considerable money in a prospect and got hardly a color in return, and, desirous of quitting even on the deal, he brought in some dust from Yuba, and 'salted' it quite liberally. The big pans that he washed out in the day time and put back at night excited a band of Chinese, who were panning out a scant living on an adjoining claim. They offered Bill a good price for the claim, and after 'stringing' them for a day or two he let them have it. Most anything short of murder was considered justifiable when a Chinaman was the victim; so, after explaining the trick to his friends, Bill laid around to see the fun when the 'salting' disappeared.

"After working a day or two, and taking out a fair amount which Bill had placed there, the Chinamen drifted into some new ground, and in short order commenced panning out more gold than Bill could show in the best of his salting. In a week they had taken out five times as much gold as Bill had used in salting it, and it was getting richer.

"Bill and his friends then made overtures to the Mongolians with a view to repurchasing the rich mine. They offered them double the price they had paid for it. But the Chinks 'no sabeed,' nor did they 'sabee' until Bill and his friends planked down four times the amount he had received for it a few days before. Bill ran out of the paystreak the next day; but as the Chinamen ran out of the town the night before, they were never punished for the heinous crime of salting the same mine twice."

Press Opinions of the New Party.

The name adopted for the new movement is the Provincial Progressive Party. The name is good. The party henceforth will not be restricted to trades unions and socialist bodies for its support, but will be broad enough in its principles and motives to afford common ground for everyone who aims to shut off the land-grabbing, monopoly-giving, law-breaking aggregation of grafters which now masquerade as a government in British Columbia, and substitute instead a legislature of level-headed public-spirited men who will conduct public business for the benefit of the public. Then we will have stable, progressive government.—Sandon Paystreak.

The programme of the Labor party drawn up at the Kamloops convention last week is one which is bound to attract considerable attention. This is the first time that an attempt has been made to organize a labor party for the province. Labor candidates have run in isolated constituencies on platforms which carried little weight as being merely the expression of opinion of the labor party of single ridings here and there. Now we have a clear cut manifesto representing the demands of the party throughout the province. If in power these are the measures which they will carry. If in opposition still these are their aims. The platform is a radical one. Other platforms have also contained radical planks. The difference in this case is that the radicalism is sincere. At the same time the platform is a sober and reasonable one. And it is open to question whether an administration which coupled some such programme as this with a hearty effort to develop the resources of the province, would not fill the bill at least as well as the "business" governments which have been falling down all over the place in the effort to run our affairs for the past few years.—Revelstoke Herald.

Workingmen have the right to organize for the purpose of securing higher wages or shorter hours of labor, or otherwise improving their relations with their employers, and have the right to strike where their object is not to gratify malice or inflict injury upon others, but to secure better terms of employment for themselves. This is the ruling of the New York Court of Appeals in a case decided lately.

MINES IMPORTANT.

Man Who Digs in the Ground Makes Civilization Possible and Adds to World's Wealth.

"The man who makes a fortune on the board of trade, or on the stock exchange, or in building up a gigantic business, adds not one cent to the world's state of available wealth," said Secretary Mahon of the miners' congress.

"The world, in other words, is no richer because he is richer. He is richer, rather, because some one else is poorer. On the other hand the miner, whether he digs out $10 or $100,000, adds that much to the world's wealth, and with this added wealth contribute just that much to the possible amount of the world's comfort and happiness. The miner is the king wealth producer of the nation.

"Few explorers have ever endowed a nation with a richer dower than the prospector; he it was who gave California, Colorado, Montana, Idaho and the great West to civilization. But for the prospector and the products of his discoveries there would be no great West today. The frontier would be resting on the Missouri river.

IMPORTANCE OF MINING.

"It is claimed that the agricultural products of the country exceed that of its mineral. The mining industry can well afford to acquiesce in this claim, since permanent and substantial gain belongs to our mineral product.

"For example, at the end of each and every year the agricultural product is consumed, even in its production, part of the previous supply being destroyed as seed. This is not a feature in mining; on the contrary, the mining industry is constantly adding to the permanent stock of the wealth of the world.

"Much of our precious metals are by nature in forms that bear no resemblance to the brilliancy of the molton metal. Sometimes it is concealed in a thousand times its volume of worthless rock; but the ingenuity of man extracts it in perfect purity, ready for the varied uses of human life, and there is nothing relieves business depression, loosens the bonds of industry and labor as quickly and as certainly as increased supply of the coinage metals of the world.

PRODUCTION OF MINES.

"From 1892 until 1898, gold, silver and copper mining were about the only industries that paid dividends, and in fostering and advancing the mining industry, which is the aim and purpose of the International Mining congress, holding its fifth annual session in Butte, September 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5, 1902. We give practical recognition to the great solid and lasting rock upon which rests the success of all our other industries."—Butte Inter-Mountain.

Prosperity of Mining Industry.

The unparalleled prosperity of the mining industry at the present time is attracting widespread attention. People are beginning to realize that fortunes and competency can be acquired by investing in mining property and mining stocks; in fact, the number who are realizing this and profiting by it is daily increasing. They are beginning to learn that there is an element of hazard in every business venture, but not as great a risk in mining as has been imagined in the past. Continued successes have taught them that mining is a business; that improved machinery, scientific knowledge and business management, places mining on as safe a basis as the ordinary business enterprise; also that thousands of people are acquiring wealth by judicious investments in mining stock, the result of their co-operation in the development of meritorious properties of ably conducted, legitimate mining enterprises. May the education become universal, and more of the treasures in the gold-ribbed mouutains of the west be produced for the benefit of humanity.
