ABBOTSFORD and HUNTINGDON, B. C.

One of Our Boosters

"All roads lead to Abbotsford" but after you have reached Abbotsford if you do not follow some of the roads that lead out to the beautiful homes and fruit ranches the stranger has missed something There is as much if not more enterprise within a radius of Abbotsford than can be found in any part of the Fraser, or for that matter any place in the province. It is noted that whatever is undertaken in this neck of the woods is a success—the energy coupled together with the ability of the citizens of the immediate district surrounding the town is a sure winner every time. Not all the prosperity is included in the area which contributes to the wonderful growth of Abbotsford, but it is certain a very large proportion comes to this centre of the Fraser Valley.

It is a noticeable fact that the people of B. C. are at the present time devoting their energies along special lines and to keep pace with the rest of the province—the banner province of the dominion, Abbotsford has its share of boosters. There are many meanings of the word, "booster", and one with a real true ring is the man who 'gets out and does things' Among this class might be mentioned Mr. D. H. Nelson of the Upland Fruit Ranch and Nursery.

Mr. Nelson has long been a resident of the Fraser Valley, but of recent years one who does his share towards keeping Abbotsford on the map. He decided to settle just outside the present limits of the town and start a nursery. That he has been successful is a noticeable fact and today he has one of the most promising nurseries that there is to be found in the province of B. C.

There is a beautiful ridge of land to the south of Abbotsford and extending from the international boundary in a south westerly direction to the Fraser River It is recognised by those competent to know that this ridge of land is second to none when it comes to fruit raising. An acquaintance of this district and its residents will prove the truth of the above statement, and it is very surprising that more of those interested in fruit growing have not recognised this long ago. There is surely a day coming when this beautiful ridge of land will be dotted with small fruit ranches where their owners are considered as lucky that they should have had the foresight to recognise this.

It was the pleasant lot of a representative of this paper to visit the Upland Nursery this week Very material progress was noted since the visit last year. Mr. Nelson has some 15 acres under

1776--Sumas City, Abbotsford--1911

ABBOTSFORD TAKES SUMAS

Away back in the prehistoric age, out on a loly island in the Pacific, when Selkirk, or was it Rousevelt—was explaining to his Man Friday that it was immaterial to him whether women should be allowed the franchise or weather a Harem skirt was the proper costume for Sunday attire, a number of labor leaders on the Atlantic coast strenuously objected to sundry packages of tea arriving in port without the Union Label attached there to. Their contention was upheld and ever after on the Fourth of July this event is celebrated in "the land of the Free."

Our sister city to the south of us right royally celebrated this event this year with sports that were enjoyed by all. Naturally there was "war" on the program but in this case it was a tug-of-war. The contesting parties were ten stalwart sons whose birthplace is under the "Flag that has braved a thousand years—" and whose —place of residence is the ONLY place on the map—Abbotsford—their opponents being the pick of Uncle Sam's sons from the famous State of Washington

Among the numerous local patriotic boasts that the citizens of Abbotsford delight in informing outside visitors of pre-eminently shines our tug-of-war team all true and loyal citizens, whose prowess in the past have earned them renconins from far and near Naturally it was up to them to make good in Unlce Sam's domain on the Fourth.

After the monetary considera- tion had been duly settled amicably, both teams took their positions behind the cleats and when our anchor, L. Lamson, gave Lord Nelson's famous command, "England expects this day that every man will do his duty" and with a "Steady, Pull" both teams settled to a battle royal which lasted an hour and twenty two minutes.

Excitment reigned supreme thro the trying ordeal, at times the Stars and Stripes would gain an inch or two, but nobly would the "sturdy hearts of oak" respond to the call and slowly but surely did the Union Jack acting as a magnet draw the Stars and Stripes across the line."

Humor, also was not lacking during the event. "Our own Dan" whose genial smile radiates thro the atmosphere from behind the mahogany at the Abbotsford Hotel, had a new line of jokes which he was continually slipping to his opponent across the tape, causing that gentleman annoying mental distrubances which deteriorated his Samsonian efforts, which by a process of mental telegraphy was communicated to the town marshal. This august personage, after the aforesaid mental dope had permeated thro the plethora of gray matter contained under his Stetson, meandered his way quetly up to Dan and with a gentle Wolgast-Moran tap on the shoulder, reminded him that the American eagle was watching his movements and that all joshing should be eliminated. Dan took the tip something unusual—and the rest of the team took the slack, which really, dear old chap, amounted to all the rope. It was equally divided and it may be seen artistically entwined behind the mirrors at the Abbotsford and Commercial.

Silvertips and other prominent citizens were among the foremost rooters and all vowed that if Abbotsford lost they would withdraw their allegiance from our town and go and live at Mission City and for the rest of their lives Hope that Illey would never be compelled to suffer the tortures and slings of outrageous fortune which would be thrust upon them by an aggregation of sports who would allow themselves to be dragged all over the universe, but Abbotsford won

This is the team that carried off the laurel wreath and incidentally the FIFTY DOLLARS:

L. Lamson, anchorman, J. Graham A. McGillivray, W. Spalding, Percy Wilson, Dan Kenny, D. McPherson A. McInnes, J. Barber, H. Todd.

ANOTHER CLAY WORKS

Work is being begun on the clay works on Sumas Lake about five miles east of Abbotsford. Building operations are now on. It is expected when the buildings are completed and the new enterprise is in full swing that about five hundred men will be employed. It is looked upon as the largest enterprise yet started in the Fraser Valley and the largest works of its kind on the Pacific coast.

WILL SOON BE HERE.

Richards and Pringle's Famous Georgia Minstrels have probably made more people laugh than all the other minstrels combined. All those companies that sprang into existence soon after the birth of the Georgias have long since been forgotten.

The public were quick to distinguish between the real and the imitation, and the management of this company appreciated this confidence, and have ever striven to give that which was best, high class and most desired.

That the policy of giving the public its money's worth and a little more is the best policy, thirty years of prosperity amply proves.

The date of this company's appearance at the Maple Leaf Hall is Saturday, July 15.

Oh, listen to the band! They will parade the principal streets at noon.

A little nonsense now and then is relished by the best of men.

Mr. A. McArthur principal of the Abbotsford public school will in the course of a few days leave for Victoria where he will spend a part of the summer holidays.

THE CLOSING DAYS

A Toronto daily last week contained a dispatch from a neighboring city that John Jones, aged 101 years, had gone to the County Industrial Home there to end his days, and he is said to have gone at his own request. But how the report startles us, that a man after fighting the battle of life for over one hundred years has to end his days in a poorhouse! The dispatch further stated that the old gentleman had a son of seventy-five and two grandsons of over fifty living in the same county. Naturally the reader would thing it strange that so sad a course could have been necessary. But if the inner history were known, it would probably be revealed that the son and grandsons are in almost as bad a plight as the old man, and that he preferred to go to the poorhouse rather than to add to their burdens. The case is a pathetic one, but it is not unique—you hear of such every day—and the whole story emphasizes how terrible is an old age of penury, and how important it is that we should regard youth "as the springtime which soon departeth, and wherein we ought to plant and sow all provision for a long and happy life." If the old gentleman had been in receipt of a Canadian Government anuity of only $200 his presence in the home of the son or grandson would have been a boon rather than a burden, and the cozy corner would, no doubt, have been kept for him. He may have been a sober and industrious youth, but he had no system of investment which was absolutely safe, and which would yield him a bountiful return for the amounts which he might from time to time save; and so his money was spent or lost as fast as it was earned. But there is no such excuse for the boys or girls, men or women of Canada today, for by the Canadian Government Annuities Act they are provided with a system by which their savings will be taken care of and invested by the Government, and under which they will receive a return larger than it would be possible to secure from any other safe investment, because when the annuity begins each payment absorbs a portion of the purchase money as well as of the interest thereon, and if the annuitant lives the average number of years he may be expected to live he will get back all that he had paid in with accumulated interest at 4 per cent. If he lives beyond this period, the annuity will not cease, but will be continued to him every three months so long as he may live. The plan is available at any money order office in Canada. The postmaster will give you a booklet which will explain the system, and if you wish for information as to the cost, all you need do is to write to the Superintendent of Annuities, Ottawa, postage free, giving him your age last birthday, and he will advise you by first mail what this will be. Remember that it is the only absolutely safe plan by which your old age may be made free from anxiety, and happy and comfortable, and that it is the only sure plan by which a wage earner or person on small salary can provide for the rainy day.

When the duck lays an egg she just waddles off as if nothing had happened. When a hen lays an egg, an exchange says, there's a hell of a noise. The hen advertises hence the demand for hen's eggs instead of duck's. Put this in the crown of your hat Mr. Non-Advertiser. It might soak in sometime.

Hammond Jottings

(From Fraser Valley Record.)

Mr. S. P. McIntyre has sold his property here and left for Alberta.

BIRTH—To Mr. and Mrs. Thos McKenzie on June 24th, a daughter.

One of the best tennis courts in the province is nearing completion here. It will cost in the neighborhood of $500. It is built on Mr. McIvor's property and will be opened this week. Mr. Nichols of Vancouver is the contractor and planned the court.

Messrs McFarland Bros. have purchased some lots opposite the Hotel Hammond and intend to build a store and start in business for themselves.

Mission City and Hammond will meet on the baseball field this week.

The Hammond Board of Trade has secured its charter and another meeting will be held this week in the interests of thorough organization. The board has a bright future before it and should be the means of making Hammond known far and near. Mr. J. McIvor is the secretary.

Mr. R. W. Kempe, who owned property on the Ridge has sold and purchased in Hammond; and is building two green houses, one 100x18 and another 75x18. These are nearing completion.

Mr. Dale is building a shoemaker shop which will be occupied as soon as completed.

Those of the Baptist faith have purchased the old Hammond school house and will move it into Hammond having purchased property on the Lorne road for that purpose. To the Rev. P. H. McEwen who holds the services each Sunday for sometime past belongs the credit of the Baptists having a place of worship of their own.

Last term there were 70 pupils enrolled and in attendance at the Hammond school.

It is reported on very good authority that the new station at this point will be built at an early date, the Board of Railway Commissioners after having gone through the correspondence between the C. P. R. and the Hammond Improvement Association, have ordened the building of a station on the north side of the track. The work is supposed to begin at an early date.

PROCRASTINATION

The wisdom of prompt action was lately demonstrated in rather a pathetic way. Two sisters had listened to an address directing attention to the Canadian Government Annuities system as an opportunity for safe investment to people of small means, and with the result that both resolved to take advantage of it immediately. Each had the sum of $2000 invested in the stock of a certain bank. The younger sister, aged 65, did not delay, but at once sold her stock and made the purchase, and is now in receipt of an income of over $50 quarterly, the first instalment of which was paid to her three months after the purchase had been made. This gives her for life an income equal to 10 per cent on the tended to follow her example, but, untended to folow her example, but, unfortunately, on the advice of Mr. Knowall, put off doing so until it was too late. The bank failed, and her savings of a life time were swept away as in the twinkling of an eye. But not only was her $2000 lost, but she became indebted to the bank under the double liability clause in the sum of $2000. Had she invested the amount as did her sister in the purchase of an annuity she would have had an income no matter how long she lived, of $225 a year.

Further information may be obtained on application to your postmaster, or to the Superintendent of Government Annuities, Ottawa, to whom all letters go free of postage.

A SORTING BUSINESS

A friend of mine in America told me of two boys who had been out nutting. When they had filled all their pockets they desired to retire to some quiet spot to share out the spoils, so they determined to go into the cemetery which was close by. As they climbed over the high wall two nuts fell out of the boy's pocket. Instead of going back for them they decided to leave them till last, when they would have to return.

So they got to work dividing the nuts, the method used being to take one in turn, one of the boys repeating "You'll take this, and I'll take that."

A short time after an old man was passing the cemetery and he heard a noise on the other side of the wall. So he stopped and listened. "You'll take this, and I'll take that. You'll take this, and I'll take that." And he was afraid, and ran back to the village and said to the first man he saw, "Come to the cemetery, God and the devil are sorting out the dead."

So they went back to the place and listened. Yes, still it went on, "You'll take this, and I'll take that." Then suddenly the sound stopped, and a subdued voice added, "And then, there's the two on the other side."

The story goes that the second man easily outran the first in the erace to the village.

HELP THE POOR.

Maybe the editor does not belong to your church or lodge or agree with you politically, says an exchange; but he is doing a lot more than you have dreamed of doing to keep the name of your town on the map. And he can't keep it in glowing colors and buy Venetian red to do it with forever, unless he is a man of independent fortune. If he's the right sort he won't ask you to subscribe or advertise unless you get 100 cents on the dollar, but he can sing the town's virtues in a much clearer tenor if his advertising columns are well filled and the citizens occasionally help him by telling him the news instead of criticising him or trying to take business away from him because he does not happen to see things as some of them do.
