Go-Go-Stop was the game in progress at the Aldergrove Park's programme, where a couple of girls every day supervise games and play at the wading pool and playground in the park. Many youngsters are taking advantage of the cool water while summer temperatures soar towards and past the 80 degree-mark.

Aldergrove Pool swim classes started last week. Here is one of the classes instructed to take 10 "bobs". One small girl had a little trouble making that initial dip, but following a bit of gentle persuasion from the instructor she also took her 10 bobs.

To Proceed At Once

Council Gives The Go Ahead On Sewage Contract

Langley Municipal Council decided Monday to go ahead with the proposed sewage plan for Aldergrove, after it had given a sympathetic hearing to a delegation of property owners protesting the increased cost.

This was done in the name of health and progress, and as Mayor Bill Poppy said, "The people who are protesting the sewage plan today are the ones who will benefit from it in a few years."

In view of the new rates worked out by council and the local utilities and sewerage committee since a letter went out to property owners last week, council ordered to proceed.

A delegation appeared before Langley Municipal Council at its regular meeting Monday afternoon to protest the higher rates induced upon the ratepayers for the sewerage system for Aldergrove town.

Bill Buxton, spokesman for the group, told municipal council that the ratepayers had been led up the alleyway by the Aldergrove & District Chamber of Commerce, when the sewage plan was introduced. He objected to the plan because it had been instigated by the Chamber and felt that the ratepayers had not had a proper say in the matter. He pointed out several items in the proposed scheme which he felt could have been done differently, and thought that usage rates could have been figured differently, too.

Another spokesman for the group, Mr. Loewens of Boundy Road, also protested the sewage plan and the increased rates and brought with him a petition containing several signatures. Mr. Loewens stated that farming 12 acres of land did not bring in enough income to pay the increased frontage rates, and told council that he didn't need the sewer.

The delegation suggested that the biggest load be carried by the local businessmen who "could underwrite their taxes."

Council gave a sympathetic hearing to the complaints and Mayor Poppy pointed out to Mr. Buxton that the rates presented by the representatives from the local C. of C. when they went from door to door last year to familiarize the ratepayers with the sewerage plan were proposed rates, and it had been beyond anybody's planning that the Pollution Control Board had come along and demanded a higher standard of treatment and thereby increased the cost beyond the original estimate. Mayor Poppy again reminded the citizens that this was a very serious health and welfare problem as well.

Council has worked with the local committee on trying to cut the frontage cost down some more since the letter went out last week informing the ratepayers of the increase in cost. The latest figures are considered more favorable than the first ones, the ones stated in the letter from Municipal Hall. These latest figures are as follows: Property owners with a frontage of up to 100 ft. pay $75. This involves the largest amount of properties within the sewerage district, namely 209 lots. The balance of the total 262 lots are considered a maximum of 200 ft. and of these 29 will pay the maximum of $150, three property owners will pay between $120 and $150, seven will pay between $100 and $120, and the remaining 14 property owners will pay between $75 and $100. The usage rate will be $2.50 per month for the average household while businesses will pay according to amount of washrooms and other uses. This user rate of $2.50 per month is the same as paid by residents of Abbotsford and Langley.

The reasons behind the higher cost in the construction of the proposed sewage plan, as pointed out to the delegation by Mayor Poppy, were a general increase in construction costs since the 1967 engineers' estimate, and extra treatment equipment as required by the B. C. Pollution Control Board. The first raised the cost with an approximate $25,000, while the latter boosted it a further $60,000. The Mayor also pointed out that the municipality will be assisting the local community with a loan of $25,000. This loan the district will only regain after many years. He also told the delegates that as the land which currently lies idle eventually will be subdivided, there will be more taxpayers sharing the initial burden, and the cost could very well go down after a number of years. He also reminded the residents that this idle land now can be subdivided, while it formerly couldn't.

The delegation also suggested that the whole scheme be called off for another year, but as mentioned by Joe Breier, speaking for the project, this would only add to the cost of the entire project. Said Mr. Breier, "A delay of one year could very well add up to 50 percent to the labor cost."

Joe Breier also told the delegation that the businessmen do carry the largest proportion of the cost. Most of the businesses only use their premises during the day and do not use the system to the same extent as the average household. He also said, "The businessmen are here to provide a service to the property owners. I don't think we want to go back to the days where we had to travel 10 to 20 miles for a loaf of bread."

Council later decided to proceed with the sewage plan, and members of council voted unanimously that the engineers be given the go-ahead to write up the contract for signing between the contractor and council.

Some Improvement In Employment Situation

Some improvement in local employment conditions was noticeable during the month of June despite a fairly substantial surplus of job applicants, reports Art Neill, Manager of the Canada Manpower Centre, Abbotsford. The bulk of the surplus was in the unskilled categories and was largely created by students joining the labor market plus a number of job seekers from other areas.

Generally speaking, the supply and demand for skilled workers was fairly well balanced though there were a few shortages in some trades.

Agriculture, food processing and services provided the bulk of employment opportunities in the area.

Sawmills and shake and shingle mills were operating at capacity resulting in a demand for experienced sawyers.

Construction eased off slightly but still provided a fairly steady demand for carpenters and other building tradesmen.

There was also some demand for qualified logging skills in surrounding areas.

Residential Construction Double In One Year

Value of residential construction in the Fraser Valley Region during 1967 was about double that of the previous year, according to B. C. Hydro's sixth annual report which has just been released to the public.

Number of residential electric customers served by B. C. Hydro in the region increased during the 12-month period ended March 31, 1968, by 4,397, reflecting a growing trend for people to settle in Fraser Valley communities and commute to the Vancouver area.

The report notes that development of industrial and manufacturing sites in the Fraser Valley continued during the year.

The first plant in Matsqui Industrial Centre, near Abbotsford, was completed during the year. This centre is being developed jointly by the District of Matsqui and B. C. Hydro. Indicative of the accelerating trend towards locating in less congested areas, the report states, the Plastics Division of Union Carbide Canada Ltd. moved staff responsible for sales and distribution to the company's 10-acre manufacturing site in Newton Industrial Centre.

During the 12-month fiscal period covered by the report, 45 miles of new electrical distribution lines were placed in service in the Fraser Valley.

From Langley Magistrates Court

Garry John Fauchon, 19, of Aldergrove pleaded guilty to an impaired driving charge in Magistrates Court last Thursday. He was fined $150 on this charge. He was also charged with driving a motorcycle without insurance and with being a minor driving a motorcycle without insurance.

Ronald Joseph Wrazy, 17, of Aldergrove was raised to adult court after he was placed on probation in juvenile court and three days later was charged with breaking and entering the premises of Langley Peat Ltd. in Fort Langley. Magistrate McDonald handed him a 12-month suspended sentence.

SPCA Branch Opens

A local branch of the SPCA has opened in West Langley, reports Manager J. C. Saunders. The steel and concrete pens have already been taken into use, and 10 more pens have been planned. Additional wooden kennels are available outside.

Inspectors Don Hughes and Arthur Mansel of Langley and Len Bruce of Surrey will patrol the area and haul small animals to the pound. Around the clock service is provided.

Man Dies After Haying

Matsqui Police last week were investigating the cause of death of James Rushworth, 55, of 2886 Jackman Road, Aldergrove, who suddenly collapsed and died 9:30 p.m. last Tuesday.

Mr. Rushworth had been helping bring in the hay at a farm on 30988 Huntingdon Road in Matsqui, when he suddenly foundered and passed out.

James Rushworth was born in Bradford, England, and had lived in Canada and B. C. for the past 16 years. He moved to Aldergrove with his family five years ago, and was at the time of his death employed as a security guard by Johnston Terminals in Vancouver.

Mr. Rushworth is survived by his loving wife Edith and one son, Jay at home; two brothers and one sister in England.

Funeral services were held on Saturday, July 6 at 1:30 p.m. from Henderson's Funeral Home in Abbotsford with the Rev. Norman Calland officiating.

"Rights" Not The Whole Story

As the Commission on the Status of Women travels around the country most of the arguments it hears are balanced and responsible. There is genuine discrimination against the 'second sex' and it has been well documented. Salaries and promotions trail unfairly; the uncertainties and pressures of housewife-wage earner ambivalence have been accurately pointed up.

A good many of the briefs by individuals, however, are strident and egocentric. Those who clamor with such vehemence for assorted individual freedoms might learn a lot from the women who broke the ground on which they stand.

Emily Murphy, Nellie McClung, Irene Parlby, Louise McKinney and Henrietta Muir Edwards, the famous quintette who established that women are legally 'persons' had other ends in view than their personal rights. They were concerned about widows with no property protection, homeless children, penal reform. Though each of them carved out a notable career - Mrs. Murphy as the first women police magistrate in the Commonwealth; McClung, Parlby and McKinney, Alberta MLAs; Mrs. Edwards as a key figure in the national Council of Women - this was the result of, and incidental to the causes they championed so effectively.

They regarded the vote as a tool for social justice and they accepted responsibilities as legislators (fifty years later in the Federal and Provincial governments combined there are fewer than 20 women.)

Among the greater privileges that should be accorded women is the right to use the full range of their talents for the common good.

A World Of Skulls ?

U. S. army aircraft swooped into the Skull Valley region of Western Utah a few months ago. Experts in chemical warfare aboard the planes gave an order, and large quantities of poisonous gas were released. The name the U. S. army has for the poison is nerve gas.

In the hours that followed, thousands of sheep died. Utah Governor Calvin Rampton put the number at 6,400, and the U. S. army admitted that the poison came from its Dugway chemical weapons centre, 35 miles from Skull Valley.

It was perhaps very apt for the U. S. army to choose Skull Valley for its test site. For the name conjures up visions of how our world may look should military men be given much more say in shaping our future.

After the First World War, the victors emerged with a horror of gas. It was decided that the clumsy experiments of 1914-18 were only the beginning of a new and terrible mode of warfare.

Article 171 of the Treaty of Versailles therefore prohibited the use of asphyxiating, poisonous and other gases. Deadly gases and bacteriological weapons were manufactured during the Second World War, but were never used.

It is a tragedy that the world's nations, including the United States, should persist in its horrifying experiments with chemical warfare. Through the nuclear and thermonuclear bomb, man already has devised weapons capable of wiping out hundreds of millions of human lives in a matter of hours.

Is it really necessary for national security to manufacture deadly gases and germs capable of killing entire populations? The incident in the Skull Valley region of Western Utah was a mishap that cost local farmers about $300,000.

It was also a warning. With generals and nations obsessed by the notion of power, the development of weapons has reached unprecedented proportions. The journey from the accident of Skull Valley to a world filled with little else but skulls and skeletons must remain a possibility, however faint, until all men agree to banish these grisly weapons from the face of the earth.

Produce - Or Else

Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau last week appointed his new Cabinet of 29 Ministers, covering representatives from coast to coast.

The Prime Minister made it clear in making the appointments that no one will be allowed to coast along. Said Trudeau, "Nothing in this world is permanent".

In receiving their appointments, the new Ministers were given their responsibilities and duties, and were told by the Prime Minister, to either produce or else.

Trudeau also made it abundantly clear that from now on the initiation of new policies and decisions will be made by the elected representatives of the people and not by the Civil Service.

Watch Tower Convention Attended By Locals

One of the big events of the season for the local congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses will be the Watch Tower Convention, July 11-14 at the Coliseum and Evergreen Hall, Chilliwack.

L. H. Leighton, spokesman for the Aldergrove congregation said. "Among its many features the program will contain Bible dramas portrayed by live actors, and applying the principles and instructions of the Creator to our day."

The climax of the four-day convention, Sunday, July 14th at 3 p.m. will be the public address "Man's Rule About to Give Way to God's Rule."

Delegates are coming from as far away as Northern B. C., Idaho and Arizona. Leighton went on to say, "This has necessitated booking rooms and accomodation in all hotels and motels in the Chilliwack area. And a canvas of homes is now being made to find additional accomodation for the delegates."

"From this it is becomming apparent," said Leighton, "that it'll be the largest Watch Tower Convention so far arranged for the Fraser Valley."

Mr. Roy Sansome has been appointed to install the public address system. He will be assisted by C. Mason and V. Hebner, also of Aldergrove.

Newspaperman & Politician

He Was Ahead Of Times

A 5¢ commemorative stamp to be released by the Canada Post Office on the 4th September this year will mark the 100th anniversary of the year in which Henri Bourassa was born, Postmaster General Jean-Pierre Cote announced last week. Bourassa, a politician and journalist, was one of the nation's most colorful public figures during the latter half of the 19th century and the early 1900's.

There is a widespread understanding today that Bourassa was a man ahead of his times. Controversial political viewpoints of his era, which he advocated with religious fervor, are in many instances accepted today as established constitutional practice. This was also true in 1952, the year of his death, for he lived to see many of his teachings bear fruit. An examination of Bourassa's approach provides an insight into his own interpretation of the designation "Nationalist" by which he was known. He did not subscribe to the concept of one French province with the remainder as English. It was his hope there would be a spread of French-speaking persons throughout Canada to create areas of their own culture and language. He visualized the existence of such areas in Western Canada as creating a "double mentality" which would serve as a unifying force from coast to coast. He was perhaps the first prominent politician to openly favor the establishment of Canada as a completely independent nation under the Crown.

Prior to founding the Montreal French language newspaper Le Devoir in 1910, Bourassa had been a contributor to the columns of Le Nationaliste, a Montreal journal, and had been editor and owner of L'Interprete published in Clarence Creek, Ontario.

A man whose mother tongue was French, he achieved a mastery of the English language and his adaptability to the two was put to effective use with brilliant skill in his authorship of numerous pamphlets and books supporting his political leanings; as a fiery orator he is regarded to have reached the pinnacle of his power in the early 1900's.

Politically, Bourassa was active at all levels of Government. At the age of 21 he was Mayor of Montebello, P.Q., mid-way between Ottawa and Montreal, an area which he served as Member of Parliament for a number of years. Periods of his career were also occupied as a member of the Quebec Legislature. Death came on August 31, 1952, the eve of Bourassa's 84th birthday.

Pvt. Robert Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Brown, Aldergrove was one of 19 men who set a new Ft. Gordon, Georgia record on the U. S. Army's Combat Proficiency Test recently. All of the 19 men achieved a perfect score of 500 points.

The soldiers, all in Co. D, 8th Bn., 3rd Advanced Individual Training Bde., far surpassed the old record which was four perfect scores in one company.

The test measures proficiency in five events with a possible 100 points available in each.

The events include the 40-yard low crawl, the horizontal ladder, the 150-yard man carry, the mile run and the run, dodge and jump.

Pvt. Brown was presented a certificate of achievement for his perfect score by his battalion commander, Lt. Col. Henry P. LaForce Jr.

Change In Building Bylaw Considered

Langley District Council is considering a change in the Building Bylaw regarding occupancy in unfinished homes. The reason behind this move is to prevent buildings being moved into zoned areas and occupied before a basement or foundation has been finished, and before porches and other attachments which have been removed from the exterior of the house during the moving have been replaced.

The proposed bylaw amendment will require that the exterior and particularly the foundation be finished within 60 days upon location on the property, and before occupancy will be allowed.

Alderman Blair said this would seem to be a bit tough on people who are building as they have the money available, as it would also apply to houses under construction from the basement up. The question of performance bonds was discussed with Mr. Watson, the building inspector. He declared himself against performance bonds, saying that in allowing the moving onto a property of an old house the objective was to help the average citizen obtain a decent home at a smaller cost, not to aid a business enterprise in making monetary gains.

The request for a performance bond was made by a company which is moving homes from New Westminster by the way of the Fraser River, and locating these residential buildings in Fort Langley.

Visitors From Africa At Derksen-Siemens Nuptial

A double ring ceremony in the Clearbrook Mennonite Brethren Church joined in holy matrimony Ruth Elizabeth Derksen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Derksen of 2941 Evergreen Street, Clearbrook, and Victor Fred Siemens, son of Mr. Gerhard Siemens of 1837 Gladwin Road, Abbotsford. The early evening ceremony took place June 28th, 1968 with Rev. J. Quiring officiating. At the organ was the bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Marlene Derksen, while the groom's brother-in-law sang the solo, and a duet was performed by Mr. Ed Bergen and Mr. Harold Derksen, the brother of the bride.

The bride was given away in marriage by her father. She wore a beautiful traditional full-length gown fashioned in organza over taffeta, with long lily point sleeves. The scalloped neckline was edged with sequins, and lace was featured around the bottom of the dress and the flowing cathedral style train. A four-tiered veil in lace with scalloped edges was held in place by a drop pearl headpiece. Her bouquet was in pink rose cascade with white stephanotis and white carnations.

Three sisters of the bride and one niece of the groom made up the bridal party. Maid of honor was Elaine Derksen, and junior bridesmaids were Lois and Daphne Derksen. Flower girl was Dawnette Siemens. They were dressed in identical dresses fashioned in mauve crepe georgette over taffeta. The gowns featured empire waistlines accentuated by dark mauve velvet ribbons, bell poufe sleeves and a jewelry neckline. The girls carried bouquets of white shasta Daisy cascades with mauve net and ribbons. All the bouquets and corsages were designed and made up by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Lydia Derksen.

Mr. Walter Janzen and Ed Siemens, the groom's brother were best men, and Alvin Siemens, Art Dahl, Wallace Derksen and Rudy Kopp served as ushers.

The reception took place in the lower auditorium of the Mennonite Brethren Church in Clearbrook, where Mr. Walter Janzen was master of ceremonies. The bride's uncle, Mr. Waldo Remple delivered the speech to the bride and groom. The prayer was said by the father of the bride.

In charge of the guestbook was Elaine Derksen. Harold Derksen sang "A Promise Of Our Bond Of Love", and the bride's three sisters sang "God Be With You As You Go."

The wedding trip went to San Juan Islands and the west coast of the U. S. Upon return, the newlyweds will reside at 6295 Domain Street, Vancouver.

Out of town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Kroeker of Winkler, Manitoba; Miss Susie Brooks of Idiofa, African Congo; Mr. and Mrs. W. Pankratz of Panorama City, Los Angeles, Calif.; and Mr. Tuta Alexander, a native of Idiafo, African Congo.

Father Of Bride Officiates At Wedding

The father of the bride was officiating at the wedding ceremony joining Miss Erna Unger, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. John J. Unger of Clearbrook, and Eric Stormer, son of Mrs. John Bechtloff of Bonanza, Alberta, in holy matrimony.

The double ring ceremony took place in Mountainview Gospel Chapel on Saturday, June 29th. Rev. J. J. Unger officiated, and a short message was given by Rev. Herb Neufeld. At the organ was Mrs. Ruby Janzen, and soloist was the bride's nephew, Melvin Unger accompanied by his sister Linda.

The bride wore her own creation, a beautiful full-length gown in imported brocade fashioned in a slim fitted style with a full-length train flowing from the shoulders. Her head piece was a pearl tiara, and she carried a solitary Duchess rose.

The maid of honor was Miss Hilda Willms, the bride's best friend, and junior brides maid was Miss Ester Unger, the niece of the bride. They wore identical gowns styled similar to the bridal gown but fashioned in turquise bonded crepe. They carried bouquets of white gardenias.

The groom's best man was Henry Stormer, his brother; and ushers were John Unger, the bride's nephew, and Derek Krueger, the groom's cousin.

The reception took place at El Rancho in Abbotsford, where Mr. Henry Unger served as master of ceremonies. Grace was said by Rev. Herb Neufeld. In charge of the guest book was Miss Ester Unger.

The honeymoon took the young couple to the Okanagan, and upon returning they will reside at 2360 Quadrant Crescent in Prince George.

Out of province guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. John Unger and family from Alberta, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Kupker and Doris from Oyama, Mr. and Mrs. Krueger of Vernon, Mrs. W. Krampitz of Vernon, Mrs. D. Neitsch of Oyama, Dr. and Mrs. P. M. Plummer and family of Prince George, Mrs. H. Wolfe of Victoria, and Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Shoup of Kelowna.

Council Approves Park, But For Everyones Use

Langley District Council has approved a local Legion request to lease about 12 acres of land on Brown Road north of Dogwood Avenue for creation of a park site with playground facilities.

Alderman Bill Blair says the proposed development would be an asset to the community, but supports a suggestion by Municipal Planner Ken Major that any facilities be made available to residents of the North Brown Road community as well.

Officials of Royal Canadian Legion Branch No. 21 had wished to limit use of the new facilities to their own members and families. But while council is willing to allow the Legion to administer the park, it feels local residents should be permitted some use of the site, and will include this stipulation in the official agreement.

The Brown Road Park development was first mooted four years ago at which time the provincial government deeded five acres of their property to the Langley Municipality, but the community failed to initiate the expected development.

Canada Department of Agriculture's Health of Animals Branch inspected 788 whales slaughtered and processed in 1967.

RCMP Investigating Break-In

Langley RCMP are investigating a break-in that occurred Monday night at the A. & W. Drive-In in Langley.

Thieves gained entry to the building through an office window and got away with about $140 worth of cigarettes and cash. RCMP checked out fingerprints found on the scene.

"Erect Sign On Own Risk," Says Council

A request to erect a sign on municipal road allowance was received by Langley Municipal Council from Koehler's Meat Processing Plant on Jackman Road. Koehler's stated that the trees in front of their property shielded the view of the neon sign, and not wanting to destroy the trees asked council's permission to erect a sign on the road allowance, approximately two feet in.

Council stated that if a sign was erected there it would be on the owners' own risk, and they could be required any time to take it back down.

CNIB Bursary Award

Abbotsford Student Receives $100 Award

Garden Notes

by A. R. Buckley

WATER GARDENING

A garden landscape can often be improved by the display of water.

You can have a water lily pool in full sun, a plain fountain in a pool with a background of stones or plants, a gently trickling waterfall or a series of waterfalls from overflowing pools, a large lake or swimming pool, or just a plain bird bath.

You can easily make a water garden in your landscape, complete with falls and a pool. In fact, ready made waterfalls of feather-weight rock with built-in miniature electric pumps are available at a fairly reasonable price.

Plastic water lily pools can also be purchased from water plant specialists. It is not hard to build a pool operated from your home water supply, or to grow the beautiful water lilies that always seem to be so exquisite in the Macoun Memorial Garden at the Plant Research Institute.

If you're thinking of having a pool you must, of course, decide first where the water supply is to come from and where the water is to go after it fills the pool, whether or not the pool should be formal, what size, and what material it is to be built of.

A pool, like all other landscape features, must be in keeping with its surroundings.

Sloping land with no level area presents the most difficult problem because it means that a lot of grading has to be done.

A broken topography can be used if you make a stream and place rocks, boulders and flat stones in natural positions along its course.

A rivulet of this kind should not be perfectly straight, but be like a mountain brook with angles and curves down the slope, and following the contour of the land.

A pool must have a supply of fresh water. This may come from a stream, clean drainage water, or the house supply. Sometimes a continuous trickle from the main source keeps the pool clean and attractive at a low cost, and it can be made to flow into the regular drainage system. With an electric pump and storage tank the same water may be used over and over again.

Choose the most desirable place for the pool, even if you must go to the small trouble of supplying it with water. The greatest value of a pool lies in what its surface reflects, so place it in front of a group of plants, a rose pergola, or some architectural feature.

To provide good reflection, the surface of the water should be near ground level and the pool so situated that the reflection will be seen from the house or some other well frequented spot such as the patio or wherever lawn chairs may be.

A pool affords the opportunity for the culture of water plants. If these are water lilies, full sun will be necessary at least in the morning. If the pool is of any size at all, details of construction are best left to the landscape contractor, who will save you money in the long run. Your main problem will be with the choice of material and planting. Make sure, however, that the pool is at least two feet deep if you want water lilies. Allow for shelves at the edges of the pool to accomodate shallow rooting plants such as arrowhead, wild calla, water-snowflake, frog's bit and water chestnut. These waterside plants add considerable interest to the pool and seem to tie it in better with an informal landscape.

Get a catalogue at once from a water plant nursery and make your choice. You will find a large selection of two kinds of water lilies, hardy and tropical. The hardy ones should be planted now and the tropicals in about three weeks time.

Planting is simplicity itself. You will need an old dishpan and boxes or tubs. Fill these with a mixture of eight parts good garden loam and one part dried cow or sheep manure, which can be bought at your garden center.

To a bushel of this mixture add a handful of 6-9-6 or 10-10-10 fertilizer.

To plant a hardy lily, wet the soil well and then press it around the root of the lily but allow the growing tip to extend about the surface. This growing tip is very tender indeed. Be sure not to touch it.

Place a flat stone over the root and cover the soil surface with sand or finely crushed stone. Then submerge the container so that a foot of water covers the crown. It may be necessary to raise the container to meet this need.

Tropicals are planted in the same way, but they must not be deeper than eight inches below the surface and, of course, the water should be quite warm, up to 70 degrees at planting time.

The spectacular tropical lilies may be obtained in blue as well as in other colors and will open at night instead of closing as some of the hardy water lilies have a habit of doing. So, if you have both kinds, you will have not only a variety of colors but a display by day and night.

Batter Chatter

Tart Sweet Plum Gold Mold

Our recipe suggestion for today introduces the spritely taste of pureed fresh plums molded with a snap of ginger and lemon juice. California leads in the cultivation of this plump and juicy fruit in season through September, with July and August the biggest months.

West Coast plums are mainly of Japanese and European variety -- the Japanese, mostly shades of red verging to yellow -- the European, mostly purple to black. When they yield to slight pressure, plums are ripe for eating.

They are a succulent source of a useful amount of vitamins and minerals and reasonably low in calories. Fresh plums, a favorite snack, are a perennial favorite in the summer fruit bowl, and picnic hamper.

FRESH PLUM MOLD
2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
1/2 cup cold water
1/2 cup hot water
1 cup sugar
1/8 teaspoon ginger
1/2 teaspoon fresh lemon juice
1-1/4 pound fresh ripe plums
1/8 teaspoon salt
1 egg white
Whipped cream (optional)

Soften gelatine in cold water. Add hot water, sugar, ginger and lemon juice. Stir until gelatine is dissolved. In the meantime, slice plums, mash and put through a food mill or electric blender until pureed. Fold into gelatine mixture.

Chill until mixture mounds when dropped from spoon. Add salt to egg white and beat until soft peaks form. Fold into plum mixture. Turn into a 1-quart mold. Chill until firm, about 4 hours. Serve with whipped cream, if desired. Makes about 6 servings.

Mushrooms Add Zest

Summer is salad time and since fresh vegetables are inexpensive and at their peak of goodness we should plan to serve as many interesting salad combinations as the imagination allows.

Salads are easy on busy mothers too, for many can be prepared first thing in the morning and allowed to mellow in the refrigerator until supper.

Mushroom potato salad is just such a dish. It combines many of the fresh, succulent vegetables which are now appearing in the markets. For best flavor, use new potatoes for they have a distinctive flavor and sweetness which ensures the success of a potato salad.

Mushrooms are in good supply during the summer. Serve them raw as nibblers, mounted in French dressing as a side-dish, or incorporate them into your favorite barbeque sauce. Mushrooms freeze very successfully so plan to put some away for winter. They need only to be washed, dried and sliced into plastic bags before freezing. Many homemakers freeze their mushrooms on cookie sheets before bagging to ensure free-flowing slices of mushrooms. Use the frozen mushrooms as a substitute for fresh in any recipe. No defrosting is necessary.

Mushroom potato salad is hearty and almost a meal in itself. Serve with tomato wedges and a cheese or cold meat tray for great family enjoyment.

MUSHROOM POTATO SALAD
4 cups diced cold potatoes (about 6 medium potatoes)
1 cup sliced mushrooms
4 slices dried bacon
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 sliced green onion or 2 teaspoons chives
1 cup dried celery
2 tbsp. minced parsley
2 tbsp. diced pimento
1/3 cup sour cream
1/3 cup mayonnaise
2 tbsp. bacon drippings
1 tsp. salt and pepper.

Cook bacon in skillet until crisp. Add mushrooms and lemon juice and saute two minutes. Drain bacon and mushrooms.

Combine potatoes, bacon, mushrooms, onions, celery, pimento, parsley, and pickle relish.

In a one cup measure combine sour cream, mayonnaise, vinegar and bacon drippings. Add salt and pepper and mix thoroughly.

Pour dressing over salad slowly. Do not add dressing all at once as it may not all be needed. Mix thoroughly. Taste for seasoning. Chill at least four hours.

Serve garnished with green pepper rings and hard-cooked eggs.

Long Term Loans For Fur Farmers

Long-term credit for fur farmers was announced last week by Agriculture Minister J. J. Greene. Through an amendment to the Farm Credit Act regulations, the definition of farming has been expanded to include the raising of fur-bearing animals, thus making fur farmers eligible for loans from the Farm Credit Corporation.

The decision to make this credit available, said Mr. Greene, was taken after a detailed survey of the mink-farming industry by Corporation officials, with the cooperation of the Canada Mink Breeders' Association.

The Minister noted the importance of the industry for export as well as domestic markets. He indicated that the provision of long-term credit was intended to strengthen the position of Canadian producers in a very competitive business.

Notes from The Winemaker's Corner

Blackberry Wine.

Trailer Bylaw Revised

Final reading was given the by-law amendment to the Mobile Homes Park Bylaw at Monday's council meeting in Murrayville. The revised bylaw will permit trailers under permit to locate on private property other than areas zoned for residential use and areas zoned for less than the two-and-one-half acre breakdown under the Subdivision bylaw. It will be required of the owner that he comply with the current bylaws concerning water and sewage disposal. It will also allow a person who owns property consisting of a house and five acres or more to locate a mobile home on the property, but only when this home is to be used by members of the immediate family.

Elks Donate Vapo Tents To Aid Local Hospitals

Seven Fraser Valley Elks Lodges have provided six multi-purpose vapo tent attachments to six Fraser Valley hospitals.
The equipment is used for children with respiratory or circulatory ailments.

One of the units was presented to Langley Memorial Hospital last week. It is the first equipment of its kind to be used at the Langley Hospital.
The donation is the result of a drive by Elks lodges at Aldergrove, Langley, Abbotsford, Cloverdale, White Rock, North Surrey, Chilliwack and Hope. Other hospitals receiving the valuable equipment are the MSA Hospital in Abbotsford, and hospitals in White Rock, North Surrey, Chilliwack and Hope.
The purchase of the equipment has been accomplished through the Elks' national Purple Cross Fund.

Benevolent Society Offer To Continue Operation Of Home

A spokesman for the Elin Benevolent Society, Mr. Austereich, appeared before Langley council after learning council's decision to close down Langholm. He suggested to council that his society, who presently have a resthome and apartmentbuilding for elderly people in Langley, take over Langholm.
The society would proceed with the necessary alterations as requested by the Welfare Department, and keep the present boarders at the home, he said.
Council gave this proposal serious consideration and decided to proceed further after a meeting could be held between council and the Welfare Institutions insurance office.

Anita Bryant Appears At PNE

Singer Anita Bryant, star of the Pacific National Exhibition's big Grandstand Show August 22 to 24 inclusive, is a deeply religious person who has appeared with Evangelist Billy Graham and has sung sacred music to audiences throughout the world.
The Miss America beauty contest runner-up, whose renditions of tunes like 'Till There Was You', 'Paper Roses' and 'In My Little Corner of the World' have sold a million copies, will appear twice daily at PNE '68.
Matinee performances will be held each of the three days in the brand new Pacific Coliseum and each evening at 8:30 p.m. at Empire Stadium.
Miss Bryant has collaborated with Dr. Norman Vincent Peale in an album of sacred music and this year took part on the annual Congressional Wives Prayer breakfast which attracted U.S. President Lyndon B. Johnson and Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Hubert Humphrey, wife of the Vice-President.
Anita for seven consecutive years appeared with the Bob Hope Christmas Show entertaining U.S. troops throughout the far corners of the world. Her appearances before the troops won her the U.S. Silver Medallion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars Award and Gold Medal and Citation and the National Guards' Guardsman Award.
Anita's television appearances include: The Perry Como Show, Lawrence Welk Show, Ed Sullivan Show, Mike Douglas Show, Merv Griffin Show and The Today Show.
She has also been well-received in the legitimate theatre in such productions as 'Annie Get Your Gun', 'The Sound of Music' and 'Guys and Dolls'.
The all-new, big grandstand show will present different headline stars and support acts in each of the four complete entertainment packages to be seen twice daily during the two-week annual Fair, August 17 to September 2.
