B.C. Politics Fairly if Intensely Played--John Houston's Opinion Presented and Criticised.

The Province and News Advertiser last week flew into an incontinent rage. Duncan Ross, M.P., had spoken on the Elections Act. They had a ten-line report of a four column speech. It is not necessary to repeat what they said; it was all unreasonable and foolish on the face of it. In the following despatch taken from the Victoria Times of the 21st inst, we have a fair account of Mr. Ross' speech. Let his constituents read it and form their own conclusion of its fairness.

OTTAWA, May 12—Duncan Ross, M. P. (Yale-Cariboo), contributed a capital speech to the debate on the Dominion Elections Act amendment, yesterday afternoon. He had evidently been making an incursion into the past, as represented in the Hansard reports of the proceedings, for he read some choice extracts from speeches delivered by the opposition members, when the franchise legislation of 1898 was being discussed, which would seem to show that when one is "agin the government" consistency it is not to be regarded as a serious consideration.

Of course, Mr. Foster's flexibility of mind and political morality are so well understood that it was unnecessary for Mr. Ross to refer to his double-shuffle, but it was almost incredible that the benevolent Dr. Sproule, the gentle Mr. Bennett, and even Mr. Borden, could so unblushingly change front. And yet the member for Yale-Cariboo quoted from speeches by these gentlemen which most savagely attacked the principle they now shout for. In those days the very thought of allowing provincial authorities to have control of the franchise made them shudder, as the following utterances of Mr. Foster's will show (1898):

"So long as I have a seat in this parliament I will contend that it is essentially necessary for the dignity and best government of Canada that she should have uninterrupted and absolute control of her own franchise."

Does Mr. Foster repeat that high-minded resolve this year? Not for worlds, because the boot is on the other foot.

Sir Charles Tupper, Mr. Borden, Dr. Sproule, Mr. Bennett, all Tory heavyweights—laid down the doctrine of federal control of the franchise, and now—they characteristically abandon it.

Mr. Ross quoted from the speeches made by the solicitor-general (Mr. Fitzpatrick), who introduced the bill of 1898, and the prime minister, to show that it was the intention, at that time, to simply adopt the franchises of the provinces, and that should the provinces do anything detrimental to the interests of the Dominion they (the federal authorities), were at liberty to make any changes they thought proper.

After dealing with the improper franchise conditions in Manitoba under provincial control, Mr. Ross turned his attention to British Columbia. He said:

My Hon. friend from Qu'Appelle (Mr. Lake), made some reference to British Columbia.

Let me say at the outset that the people of British Columbia have never been educated down to doing small and mean things in connection with their election contests. The voters' lists have been honestly prepared, The people do not buy votes, they do not stuff ballot boxes, and they do not switch ballots; and generally speaking, they play the game of politics fairly, as they play all other games. But while the voters' lists are honestly prepared, they offer the gravest possible encouragement for dishonesty. They are also loaded up with dead men and absentees. In each provincial district there is a collector of votes who is generally the government agent or the mining recorder. He receives applications to be placed on the voters' list every day in the year. The applicant can get a blank form of declaration from any officer of the government, which he fills in and signs before a postmaster, alderman, mayor, justice of the peace or member of parliament, anybody in authority; and he hands in that application to the collector of votes. The application is placed on file, and twice in the year, in May and November, a court of revision is held. If there is no protest his name remains on the list. The operation of putting a man on the list in British Columbia is purely mechanical. No one ever thinks about anything crooked being done in having his name put on the list. There is a provision for getting names off the list not entitled to be there, but it is somewhat cumbersome and expensive. When there is a change in population, those lists often bear the names of absentees and others than bona fide voters. Let me give a personal illustration. A short time ago I sent out copies of a speech to the the electors of my own district, using the latest revised voters list, and through one postoffice alone nearly 200 of them came back endorsed by the postmaster, "Left the country, present address unknown." Then we have in British Columbia a large number of new men who are entitled to go on the voters' lists, and who ban send in their applications to the provincial collector of votes, but their names do not get on until the first court of reuision in November. I propose to quote the opinion of a gentleman who took a very keen interest in public matters in British Columbia for a number of years. I refer to Mr. John Houston, who was president of the Conservative association in British Columbia for a number of years. He was also a member of the local House. Mr. Houston is a conservative, but sometimes he does not work at the game, and he is rather independent in the expression of his views. In his paper, the Empire, published at Prince Rupert, he writes as follows:

"British Columbia has a rotten system of registering votes, and there is no likelihood of the McBride government changing it for the better. Were the McBride government ousted from power, the Liberals would see to it that the law would be made even worse than it is."

Of course I cannot agree with that. What I am pointing out is that Mr Houston is not a political partisan, though he was president of the Conservative association of British Columbia; and his criticism is directed against both parties.

"Why, the reader will ask. Because neither the Conservative nor the Liberal parties in British Columbia have any desire to be fair to each other. The men who run the two parties are imbued with the idea that the people who vote have no rights that need be respected. Every voters' list in the province contains as many 'dead' names as 'live' ones; and were the names of every person qualified to vote placed on the lists once a year, it is safe to assume that few of the men now members of the legislature would have M. P. P. added to their names. At the last provincial election in one district in Kootenay, 243 names were on the voters' list at one polling place; yet less than 50 votes were polled. The others were not in the district, At another polling place in the same district, over 100 men who had the qualifications of voters were not on the list because of the clumsy methods of registration. Yet Premier McBride and his attorney-general will rage with fury because the Dominion government proposes to take a hand at revising lists that have been 'dead' since 1903, and stuffed during the last six months."

Then he makes suggestions as to how the lists should be prepared. Now, here is an expression of opinion from an independent source to show that in the province of British Columbia, while I am prepared to admit that the lists are prepared honestly, at the same time they are loaded up with dead men and with absentees.

SMELTER SMOKE.

The ore bins at the B. C. Copper Co.'s smelter now hold nearly ten thousand tons of ore, and the first furnace will be blown in tomorrow. Tuesday should see all the furnaces in operation and the matte flowing out of the settlers. Next week a full force will be employed everywhere.

Mr Armstrong's Visit.

Richard Armstrong, who arrived in Greenwood yesterday, said this morning that all the necessary arrangements looking to the organization of the Greenwood-Phoenix Tunnel Co., Ltd., had been completed and were substantially as stated recently in the Times. The particular business of his present trip was to see what could be done about submitting the by-law to the people of Greenwood providing for a bonus. That the city would undertake this evidence of its sincerity and support was understood in all the agreements. If it were done promptly, work would be started on the tunnel this fall.

Mr. Armstrong left this afternoon for a trip to Spokane, from which he will return next week. After that he will be here some time.

Tip Top Showing

The plant at the Tip Top has been moved this week, about 300 feet further up the lead to the big copper showing on the property. At the new working the lead which extends right across the entire claim is eight feet wide and its lowest assays have shown about $40 to the ton in copper with considerable gold and silver. The hoist is being erected today and the work on the new location ought to be in progress on Monday. The intention is to sink on the showing.

H. V. Fuller is expected in Greenwood next week with a representative of the new shareholders in the company from Lincoln, Neb.

Loses Right Arm.

Roland Sothergill, whose right arm was amputated below the elbow, the result of an accident at the Mother Lode mine on Friday night last, is doing well at the hospital and no further unfortunate developments are expected. The patient is at the Sisters' Hospital, where he is receiving the best of attention. The accident occurred about twenty minutes to ten on Friday night last, and it is understood that Sothergill, who was on his third shift at the Mother Lode, had put a stick of powder in to "bulldoze" a rock obstructing the chute. While making a hole in which to place his fuse, the powder became ignited, blowing his right hand into shreds and deeply pitting his face with powder stains.

Sothgill was not well known at the Mother Lode, having worked there only two days previous to the accident. He had come from Phoenix, where he had two years' experience as a chuteman.

FATAL SENTENCE GIVEN CIDEO

For Murder of Louise King at Niagara, November 18, 1906---No Defence Presented by Prisoner.

Francesco Cidio on Wednesday afternoon turned silently out of the prisoner's dock and down the stairs to the cells below with the heaviest sentence the law can impose resting upon him. The dignity, the justice, the relentlessness of British law, all were exemplified in the scene. The crime of which the prisoner stood convicted, and for which he had been condemned to die, was an inhuman one. Of him, it is not fair to say that he was insensible as to the position in which he found himself. Throughout his trial he had, it is true, retained an unusual composure, but at times the prisoner's head fell, and the quick, convulsive jerk of his features showed that he was suffering keenly. When he learned that the days of his life were to be few, his face paled, and without anything to say, he walked out between the officers.

The evidence of his fellow Italians was given generously against him. Cidio, or Agilio, as his name appeared on the payrolls of the Kettle Valley Railway, had been drinking on the day of the outrage, and his actions, generally, showed a frenzied condition. He had flourished a knife, torn his clothing with his teeth, and thrown his watch upon the bar. But remonstrated with by his fellows for having frightened Mrs. King and her daughter from the house, he had wished to apologize. He told King that he needn't be afraid of him, and he had tried to reassure Mrs. King. Later in the day the crowd had gone to the home of their foreman, Maglio, and had music—two violins and singing. In the evening Cidio had called there and tried to persuade Mrs. Maglio to leave her husband and go away with him, hinting that something would happen to King and that Maglio would desert her for Mrs. King. She told him she could go back to Nelson. She didn't want to marry again if anything happened to her husband. Leaving there, Cidio had gone up the hill toward the powder magazine.

Cidio and another man named Revelly, who was tried previously in connection with the case, had the keys of the magazine. At least three boxes were missing from the magazine, and perhaps five. Just previous to the explosion, the men who were in the bar and near the lunch counter below, saw the fire through the cracks in the flooring of the room above, occupied by Cidio and Revelly, but scarcely had the cry of fire been raised, when the explosion came.

The next morning Cidio, alias Agilio, or Painblanc, was missing. On the books of the company there was to his credit $31.30. Evidence of his flight from Midway to Oroville, where he arrived without money, was given. From there he had driven 80 miles through Brewster to Wenatchee, and then he went to Spokane, Oregon and finally was found in a saloon in the Italian quarter of Salt Lake City by Chief Constable Devitt and L. H. Smyth, chief deputy marshal of the U. S. district of Utah.

The evidence that brought the verdict against the prisoner was his own confession to these officers, confirmed by the story told to A. L. Scarcelli, brother of the man who ran the saloon from which Cidio was taken "to dig a ditch." Cidio had been led by Deputy Marshal Smyth to the jail, fronted by the Sheriff's residence, where, instead of being shown the plans of the work he was to do, Cidio was told he was under arrest. In answer to questions by Chief Constable Devitt, he had confessed that he was guilty. On the following day he told Searcelli in his own language that the story which had appeared in the papers was true. Cidio had afterwards fought extradition vigorously, but at the trial appeared without counsel. W. P. Dockerill, of Rossland, was appointed to defend him.

The attorney-general, in addressing the jury, reviewed the circumstances of the case, claiming that the accused, whom he referred to more than once as "a Dago working on a railway," was the only man of the crowd with a mind, like the mind of the man who would do a deed like this. His actions that day had shown him to be so. His words had shown that he had murder on his mind; he had spoken of death. The guilty flight of the man, leaving his month's wages behind, his out-of-the-way journey to Spokane, and his subsequent appearance in Oregon and Salt Lake City, under still another name, were all the actions of a fugitive from justice. When captured, he had thought the jig was up, and confessed.

Mr. Justice Clement, in addressing the jury, confined himself to an explanation of the points of law. He first demolished Mr. Dockerill's argument that the confession was obtained by inducements by saying that he had ruled otherwise, and had admitted it as evidence. He clearly explained the content of the word murder, and stated that there was evidence in the case, the fact that the accused was irresponsible through drink, for a verdict of manslaughter.

The jury retired at about 11:40 a. m., and when court was resumed at 2 o'clock, the foreman reported that they had found the prisoner guilty as indicted. His sentence was pronounced, Mr. Justice Clement showing considerable emotion in delivering the fateful words.

He was removed that same afternoon in charge of three constables to the County jail at Kamloops whence he will be taken on the 31st of July next to the place of execution.

The jury which heard the case was as follows: Kenneth McKenzie (foreman), Murdock McLeod, Hugh Macgillviray, Elmore Collier, W. J. Harrison, J. Dockstead, F. Moshier and E. Pope, of Greenwood; P. T. McCallum, H. A. Sheeds, E. Spraggett and Leo Nader, of Grand Forks.

The Ross rifle is now having its inning. Who does not know Colonel Sam Hughes, the ultra military expert of the Conservative party? Colonel Sam occasionally blurts out what he thinks regardless of the consequences, and his utterances of last week are a sample of this. He had disagreed with his party before, and the party show very plainly that they do not like it. The incident shows up too clearly the absolute lack of sincerity in the campaign against everything, whether of benefit to the country or not, that the Government does. The attitude of the opposition—an opposition which has languidly drawn its pay through ten years past—is now a pure play to the gallery, which, with intelligent people, will count for little. In view of a general election, the opposition is becoming active, but thought of the country's best interest is far from the mind of Foster, Borden, et al.

The presentment of the Grand Jury contains a most deserved complimentary reference to the Sisters' Hospital. The hospital is decidedly a credit to the community and its conveniences are of quite incalculable value.

It is one of the very disappointing things to anyone attempting an unselfish and charitable work, that so often the public refuses to rise spontaneously to provide the necessary assistance. The Grand Jury is asking throbgh the proper channel that adequate fire protection be afforded the hospital. A request for the extension of the fire mains to the hospital grounds, or near them, has been before the council of the city before. It is sincerely to be hoped that, when it comes again, the city will be able to make this very necessary expenditure, and in so doing, give tangible evidence of the appreciation which it really has for the work being done by the Sisters.

The hearty celebration of Victoria Day, it is hoped, will long be continued by the Canadian people. Making it a permanent holiday, in place of the celebration of his own birthday, was a splendidly worthy action on the part of our Sovereign. While we keep it in memory of his gracious mother, Canadians may be proud of her unselfish and kingly son.

Now, what does this proposed legislation do? As I understand the measure now before the House, it accepts the provincial lists as a basis for the federal lists. It provides for putting on the names of people who have been improperly left off, and it provides for striking off the names of people who should not have been put on, In the preparation of the lists it provides for nothing that will in any way interfere or disturb the lists, honestly, efficiently and completely prepared by the provincial authorities; or, in other words, if the provincial authorities prepare honest lists, complete lists, there will be nothing to do for the Dominion officials appointed under this legislation.

Mr. Herron: Who are to be the judges whether the lists are honest or not?

Mr. Duncan Ross: The judges appointed under this legislation.

Mr. Herron: They are government officials, I understand, appointed by this government.

Mr. Duncan Ross: What I mean to say is that the judges appointed under this legislation will put on or take names off the list in accordance with the laws of the province in which they are acting; that is, they will supplement the work which the provincial authorities ought to have done themselves; and if the provincial authorities do their work properly there will be nothing for the Dominion revising judges to do. This bill also provides the necessary authority to adjust the lists when there is an overlapping of constituencies. My Hon. friend from Qu'Appelle, in answer to a question of mine the other night, suggested that there was no such authority in the old Act. Well, I think there was, but when our officials attempted to exercise that authority they were prosecuted by Colin Campbell, attorney-general of Manitoba.

In British Columbia, a portion of the provincial electoral district of Yale is in the New Westminster federal district, and the other portion is in the federal district of Yale-Cariboo The Yale-Cariboo election was a deferred election. The only list available was the provincial list for the whole provincial district of Yale. I may say to the House that in British Columbia we have no well-defined polling sub-divisions. I remember quite well that in the year 1904 neither one of the returning officers—the returning officer in New Westminster or the returning officer in Cariboo knew what to do with this list, but finally they decided that Armstrong, the New Westminster returning officer, would guess at the people whom he thought should vote in New Westminster, and he would vote those on November 1st, while, O'Hara, the returning officer in Yale-Cariboo, would vote the balance in Yale-Cariboo on November 22nd. The work was done the best way they knew how, and there was no complaint from either side, because it was honestly done, but it afterwards developed that a small settlement south of Hope voted in New Westminster instead of Yale-Cariboo, and the Hon. member from New Westminster (Mr. Kennedy), got a small Liberal majority to which I was entitled. The point I am making is that it is surely not arguable that there should not be some one in authority to furnish these returning officers with lists properly made and certified. It surely is not arguable that we should not have passed in this parliament such legislation as will put into the hands of returning officers lists upon which the people may vote, and not leave them open to prosecution at the hands of partisan officials. I may say that there was no trouble in British Columbia in 1904, because everybody thought the work was honestly done, although it may have been imperfectly done. But, since then, there has come to us in the province of British Columbia an attorney-general who would indict His Majesty the King, if he thought he could make any political capital out of it, and I, for one, do not propose that any officer of this government who is honestly attempting to do his duty in connection with an election should be open to prosecution or persecution at the hands of partisan officials of the provincial government.

Now, sir, regarding the other clauses of the bill, I have little to say. I never had much confidence in legislation intended to make people honest in election time. I have very little patience with legislation that is intended as a sop to the Pharisee and which some of those who so loudly applaud have no intention of observing. I would put a man in jail for buying the elector. I would put a man in jail for tampering with the ballot box or switching or mutilating ballots. and I think a man ought to go to jail for publishing absolutely false statements during an election. But on the other hand there is no virtue in an election law with a lot of details which nobody intends to observe and which only bring the whole legislation into contempt and create a disregard for the bigger things that count.

A good deal has been said about the Liberal party going back on the position taken before 1896 and crystallized into legislation in 1898. Mr. Speaker, the principle of accepting provincial lists still remains, notwithstanding the proposed amendments. Notwithstanding this legislation we stick to the principle of accepting provincial voters' lists, and we do say that if these provincial voters' lists are honestly made, there is nothing at all for any officer appointed under this proposed legislation to do. The amendents are intended to meet evils and defects that have arisen since the 1898 legislation became law. As I pointed out at the outset, the solicitor-general, who introduced that legislation, and the Right Hon. first minister (Sir Wilfrid Laurier), who led the House at that time, stated that further legislation might be necessary to meet any evils that might arise in connection with the legislation then introduced.

Personally, I am not worried very much whether the Liberal party was theoretically right in 1898, or in any other year. I am satisfied it is right now. I am satisfied that this parliament should never divest itself of authority to ensure to the federal elector fully qualified, his right to vote, and notwithstanding anything that was said or done in 1898, or any other year, it would be cowardice on our part not to pass legislation that will cure the existing evils despite the onslaughts of our opponents in this House and outside of it.

The Modesty of Women

Naturally makes them shrink from the indelicate questions, the obnoxious examinations, and unpleasant local treatments, which some physicians consider essential in the treatment of diseases of women. Yet, if help can be had, it is better to submit to this ordeal than let the disease grow and spread. The trouble is that so often the woman undergoes all the annoyance and shame for nothing. Thousands of women who have been cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription write in appreciation of the cure which dispenses with the examinations and local treatments. There is no other medicine so sure and safe for delicate women as "Favorite Prescription." It cures debilitating drains, irregularity and female weakness. It always helps. It almost always cures. It is strictly non-alcoholic, non-secret, all its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper; contains no deleterious or habit-forming drugs, and every native medicinal root entering into its composition has the full endorsement of those most eminent in the several schools of medical practice. Some of these numerous and strongest of professional endorsements of its ingredients will be found in a pamphlet wrapped around the bottle, also in a booklet mailed free on request, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. These professional endorsements should have far more weight than any amount of the ordinary lay, or non-professional testimonials.

The most intelligent women now-a-days insist on knowing what they take as medicine instead of opening their mouths like a lot of young birds and gulping down whatever is offered them. "Favorite Prescription" is of KNOWN COMPOSITION. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

In complimenting the hospital management upon the excellent state of that institution, we would like, however, to emphasize the importance of a more adequate fire protection, and strongly advise the placing of a suitable hydrant nearer the building, and the installation of fire alarm boxes on the premises.

MINING

Crow's Nest Pass Co. pay roll for April was $140,557.75.

The announcement that the U. S. customs authorities in future would admit sulphide zinc ores free, has been officially confirmed. The change means a great deal for the Slocan mine owners.

Taking advantage of the new decision as to sulphide of zinc recently made on the tariff of the United States, a shipment of zinc ore has been made from the Whitewater mine to the Kansas smelters.

The Blue-Bell mine, another Slocan lead-zinc property has opened up a new concentrator. The machinery of this mine is now up-to-date.

Chas. Biesel, formerly superintendent at the Snowshoe, who is now looking after some of the Consolidated Company's mines at Trail, was a visitor in Phoenix from Saturday to Monday. He is taking his family to Trail to reside temporarily.

An immense cave-in took place at the glory hole on Granby hill about a week ago. Thousands of tons of rock, largely waste, were precipitated to the bottom of the pit, filling several chutes down to the 300-foot level. Luckily no miners were in the vicinity at the time and no person was hurt.

Flour is selling at $75 a sack in the Ingenika country, but the prospectors claim that the diggings are gilt-edged. Top ground will go $30 a day to the man, and at a depth of 32 feet the dirt runs 40 cents per pan, but they are not yet down to bedrock. Snow is reported to be lying deep in the Ingenika country and pack trains will hardly be able to get in there until the middle of June.

The world market for silver is made in London, and the United States is obliged to base its quotations and business on the London figures.

A Horticultural Marvel.

If you put the buds of a Northern Spy into a Rhode Island Greening tree and cut back all the branches of the latter, those buds will so dominate the tree as to compel it to send its feeding roots straight downward even after the wide-spreading horizontal root system of the Greening has been firmly established. Then, after a few years, when your trees have become Spies, you can transform them into Kings, which will prove very profitable, bear several years earlier and enjoy the long life and immunity from canker and crown disease which are characteristics of the Spy.

"The process is very simple," says Mr. George T. Powell, in Country Life in America. "I buy two-year-old Spies from a nurseryman, plant them, and a year later I insert the buds of any variety I want to grow. The only difference is that trees have the blood of three varieties in them instead of two. For you must know that all apples nowadays are grafted."

Provincial Items

Foley, Welch & Stewart will send 1,000 additional men to Prince Rupert beginning with June 1.

Empress liners between Victoria and Hong Kong will take one hundred hours more to make their trip. The steamers will average little more than thirteen knots.

Divorces granted in Dakota on a spurious domicile, have been declared invalid in Canada and Scotland by the Court of Chancery. Richard Sterling is shut out from an inheritance of $500,000 by the decision.

The conference of the Methodist Church in B. C, will raise $100,000 to clear the debt from Columbia College and to provide for a theological school in affiliation with the Provincial University.

Geo. McCalla was sentenced to 10 years in the penitentiary at Vernon on Saturday last for killing Joseph Ethier last winter. The shooting occurred on 30th December, during a drunken brawl at the Victoria Hotel there.

That it has been decided to sell the Prince Rupert town lots by auction in Vancouver or Victoria in September or October, has been denied by G. U. Ryley, land commissioner of the G. T. P. Sixty-four prairie townsites are being sold privately at list prices.

The Real Reason.

That midsummer days are the longest in the year is because heat expands.

That criminals weigh less than moral men, is because they're lighter fingered.

That a man swears at a dull razor, is because the pesky thing lost its temper first.

That roses are referred to as "blushing," is because they are properly ashamed of the prices they bring.

That a wave is called a swell, is because it arrives at the shore in great style and goes away broke.

That the army of unemployed is not decreasing, is because its members want too many afternoons off a week.

That the present-day aero clubs are considered so exclusive, is because the members necessarily all move in the upper circles.—Warwick James Price in The Bohemian.

HOW'S BUSINESS

"Business is poor," said the beggar.
Said the undertaker, "It's dead!"
"Falling off!" said the riding school teacher.
The druggist, "Oh, vial!" he said.
"It's all write with me," said the author.
"Picking up!" said the man on the dump.
"My business is sound," quoth the bandsman.
Said the athlete, "I'm kept on the jump.
The bottle declared it was "corking!"
The parson, "It's good!" answered he.
"I make both ends meat," said the butcher.
The tailor replied, "It suits me"

Fisheries Treaty

The treaty between the U. S. and Canada, recently presented to the Canadian parliament with regard to the fisheries is a very important one. Each country is to appoint a commissioner. The commissioner will have the power to determine the length of the close seasons, propose limitations and the adoption of a uniform system of registry. Jurisdiction may be exercised by either government over the citizens and subjects of the other apprehended for the violation of regulations.

The contiguous waters to which the regulations will apply, include: Straits of San Juan de Fuca; these parts of Washington: Sound, the Gulf of Georgia and Puget Sound lying between 40 min. 10 sec. and 49 min. 29 sec. N. lat., and such other contiguous waters recommended by the commission and approved by the two governments. The Canadian government shall protect by adequate regulations food fish frequenting the Fraser river.

WORTH TAKING

One ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion;
One ounce Compound Salatone;
Four ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla;

Mixed and taken in teaspoonful, doses after each meal and at bedtime, is pronounced by a prominent physician to be the best mixture for the cure of the kidney, bladder, and all urinary troubles.

This says the doctor, is the most simple though remarkable prescription ever written to cleanse the system of impurities and waste matter. It acts as a powerful tonic to the kidneys, forcing them to filter out the acids and poisons, overcoming rheumatism, lame back, sciatica and other afflictions arising from sour, impure blood.

The ingredients can be procured at any good drug store, and being purely vegetable and entirely harmless, can easily be mixed at home.

If you have a suffering friend show this to him, as he will undoubtedly be pleased to learn of so simple and highly recommended a remedy.

TOWN TOPICS

In honor of the visitors, the sun shone a couple of days this week.

The Greenwood Steam Laundry will be doing business again on the 8th of June.

The bowling alley is attracting quite a number of its former enthusiasts. Edwin Hallett is again in charge.

WANTED—Good girl for general housework. Apply Mrs. (Judge) Brown, Kimberley ave.

Fishing Tackle, Rods, Reels, Lines, Flies, etc. It pays to deal at McRae Bros.

A reduction of 25 per cent. on last year's Wall Paper looks good to many. How about you? This reduction means money saved. McRae Bros.

Quite a number of Greenwood people took in the celebration at Grand Forks on Monday. W. Hassard's horse took second place in the free-for-all, and won a special challenge race.

The Cheesaw ball tossers will appear in Greenwood on the 7th of June. The local team has been greatly strengthened by a number of recent additions—men who are settling in the community.

J. J. O'Malley, R.O., the Eyesight Specialist, of Grand Forks, B.C., will be at the Kootenay Hotel, Monday to Saturday, June 15th to 20th. As I am permanently located here you are guaranteed first-class work at right prices. Save your eyes for me.

Boundary Valley Lodge No. 38, I. O. O. F., on Tuesday evening last, elected the following officers: Sid Storer, N. G.; D. A. McDonald, V. G.; G. B. Taylor, F. S.; A. Jaynes, R. S.; E. H. Mortimer, Treas. The installation will take place early in July, at which time the other officers will be appointed.

An excursion party of about thirty students from the Mining School of McGill University, Montreal, disbanded here Wednesday at noon. Some of the boys will work at the Mother Lode, and some at Rossland for the summer, and others will go to their homes over Canada and the United States. The party left McGill nearly a month ago, and crossed the continent in two special cars. Only one car arrived here, the other one being discarded at Castlegar because of the washout at 47-5. The boys arrived here on Tuesday morning. Mr. Gray, one of the demonstrators, who was of the party, will spend the summer in the assay office at the smelter. The excursion was in charge of Dr. John Bonsell Porter.

Low prices combined with high quality conduce to economy. This combination is pre-eminent in our new 1908 Wall Paper stock —McRae Bros.

Tierney & Co.'s grading gang on the Mother Lode spur has a good part of the new switch-back grade in shape. There is only one piece of rock cutting in all the new work, and it is not difficult. The new track will leave the present one just below the lower trestle, and will pass under the upper end of the upper trestle and on up the side hill until the upper grade is reduced to a reasonable percentage. The tail, that is, the extension of the track after passing the junction of the upper and lower grade, will be about 650 feet in length. The upper grade, which leaves the present track just before it turns on the trestle work, is already pretty well down. The distance between the two bridges is three-tenths of a mile, so that there is nearly a mile of grading work to be done. It has, perhaps, not been understood that the train coming from the Mother Lode runs out past the junction of the two grades, and then the switching being done, comes down without turning. The grade is a V-shaped switch-back grade.

The officials of the Court and the witnesses of the various trials tested the hotel accommodation of Greenwood this week. Among the visitors were the following: Mr. Justice Clement and Sheriff H. C. Kerman, of Grand Forks; Miss Harris, court stenographer, J. A. Macdonald, who appeared on Portman v. The City of Greenwood, and W. P. Dockerill, who defended Cidio, all of Rossland; D. Whiteside, E. Miller, D. D. Munro, G. M. Fripp, Fred Clarke, E. Spraggett, H. A. Sheeds, W. B. Bishop, J. A. Dinsmore, Martin Burrell, J. A. McCallum, P. T. McCallum, F. E. Cooper and C. Scott Galloway, all of Grand Forks; W. H. Docksteader and G. W. Rumberger, of Phoenix; Constables Jensen of Eholt, and Aston of Midway, and C. J. Leggatt of Midway.

A Double Wedding.

A double wedding took place yesterday at the home of Mr. Donald Stewart, when Adolphus Stewart Embree, B. A., and Miss Lucy Ladd McKenzie and William Brouard Embree and Miss Marion Eugenia McBain were united in marriage. All the parties are residents of Greenwood, and the ceremony was performed by Rev. M. D. McKee.

On the afternoon train Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Embree left for Nome, Alaska, where Stewart, who is a printer, and was a type slinger on "The Miner" with J. W. Grier, will edit a paper to warm up the cold countryside north. Mr. and Mrs. William Embree will remain in Greenwood.

CORRESPONDENCE.

The motor of the Denoro Mine Crusher was put out of business for two days last week owing to the lightning burning out a number of coils.

Divine service was held last Sunday at the Miners' Hall, Rev. S. Lundie officiating. He preached very forcibly on the "Invitation to the Great Feast," and was greatly appreciated by the large number present. Sunday school followed the service.

Mrs. Jas. Cunningham returned home Tuesday after spending two weeks with friends at Greenwood.

Mr. M. W. Ludlow, the genial proprietor of the Windsor hotel, has great faith in the future of Denoro, he having signed a contract for four years to carry the mail to and from the Postoffice and Emma mine depot.

The mining engineers from McGill University spent some time Wednesday in Denoro visiting the Emma and Denoro mines of the B. C. Copper Co.

Mr. M. W. Ludlow and his sister, Mrs. E. S. Hines, spent Wednesday at Grand Forks.

Mr. G. Thompson, Greenwood, has been here for the last two weeks painting and paper hanging.

The old timers of Denoro are still pouring in from all parts. They say "there's no place like——Denoro."

Denoro can boast of several chicken ranches with a liberal supply of fresh eggs. The only thing lacking here is cow's milk. Many of the folks here have forgotten the taste of it.

In all probability, the Emma mine will start up on the 1st of June.
