Local Soccer Teams Win Five Games

It was indeed a big soccer weekend for Aldergrove!
The hometown teams won five games during the final week of the soccer season 1967/68 last Saturday.
The Aldergrove Legion and the Aldergrove Elks both won the Fraser Valley Cups in their respective divisions.
Aldergrove Legion played for the Aldergrove Legion's 7th Div. Cup in Sumas, and beat the Sumas team 7-1. This was a great comeback for the Legion team who just took a treshing the previous week against Vancouver Marpole.
At the same time, the Aldergrove Elks, shown proudly displaying their trophy, beat the Mission Legion team in Mission for the knock-out cup to the tune of 6-2.

The cup won by this team is donated by Gardiners Pharmacy, Aldergrove.

On Sunday the Aldergrove teams finished off the season, playing against teams from Lake City (Burnaby).
The results were smashing: Aldergrove Blues - Lake City 5-1; Aldergrove Legion - Lake City 7-0; and a combined team of Aldergrove Elks and Firefighters 5th and 6th Div. - Lake City 5th Div. 7-0.

Ag. Association

Meeting Postponed

The annual meeting of the Aldergrove Agricultural Assn. which was scheduled for Wednesday, April 3, and advertised as such in this newspaper, has been postponed for one week.

The annual meeting of the association will be held in the Elks Hall in Aldergrove April 10th (Wednesday), starting at 8 p.m.
The farmer association hopes that a lot of old and prospective new members will turn out for the meeting. 1967 saw a successful Fall Fair in Aldergrove, and the association hopes to establish an even bigger and better fair this year. This objective, however, can only be achieved by the assistance of interested people. So, if you are a farmer interested in your community, why not join the Aldergrove Agricultural Association? It doesn't matter whether you live in Otter, Patricia, Glen Valley Bradner or Mt. Lehman.

Pay For Pride

Langley Remains City

Langley City is still a city ... 36.1 percent of the 1,352 voters went to the polls last Wednesday.
188 persons sought town status while 287 owner-electors voted in favor of retaining city status. 7 ballots were rejected.
The controversial issue had caused much anxiety during the preceeding two weeks. While a delegation protested to city council that electors had not been given enough time to make up their minds, the Major John Conder chaired a special meeting last Monday to answer questions. The vote was then held two days later.
65 percent voted for city status in the special vote requiring a 60 percent majority to pass.
The matter began when Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell told Major Conder and city council that his department would finance the policing and justice administration costs for the community if they chose to incorporate as a town. The six aldermen on council were evenly split on the issue, a delegation of businessmen appealed to council for more time before being forced to make a decision, and a public meeting was held Monday to discuss the pros and cons of town or city status.
The controversy was short-lived because the RCMP contract came up for renewal Saturday, March 30, and officials felt the issue ought to be settled before that date, so that a vote for town status would save the city $20,000 this year.
However, the taxpayers decided definitely Wednesday they preferred to pay the $20,000 and retain city status.

Investigation Called For

A full investigation of National Harbors Board operations on the Pacific Coast was called for last Monday by Davie Fulton, Conservative MP for Kamloops.
He told a press conference the study could be made effectively by the parliamentary transport committee, and would not require a royal commission.
The existing house committee, comprising of members of all parties, could demand and get the answers, Fulton said.
The need for detailed study, he said, is dictated by the urgency of the Kaiser Steel -Fernie coal contract with the Japanese steel industry, by the squabble going on between the Bennett government and Ottawa over the development of a superport at Roberts Bank, and by "the past shortcomings and misjudgments exhibited by the National Harbors Board" relative to Pacific Coast port development.
"I think the transport committee should be asked to investigate the operations, structure and efficiency of the harbors board," the former federal justice minister said.
One area to be examined, he said, is the need for provincial

Get Work Done Without Conflict

Reeve Doug Taylor of the Municipality of Matsqui, in a plea for more co-operation from council Monday night said.
"We have had many controversies and many a fight since the inauguration of this council four months ago.
"However, in spite of this unfortunate situation we have managed to get many things done.
"Just the same, we owe it to the ratepayers of this municipality to get these things done without conflict."

'Council Wants To Rob Me Of My Power', says Reeve

Tempers flared again at last Thursday's Matsqui municipal meeting as Reeve Doug Taylor claimed council was attempting to rob him of his powers.
Councillor M. Loeppky introduced a draft to a new bylaw to "create and outline the position of Clerk-Administrator for the District of Matsqui."
Reeve Taylor stated as his firm opinion that the proposed bylaw stipulation "to carry out all statutory duties" would interfere with his duties as Reeve, referring to sect. 179 of the Municipal Act.
Councillor Loeppky, however, claimed that on the contrary, the passing of the bylaw would enhance the Reeve's position 100 percent." Loeppky produced a letter from Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell's office which stated that the government office had "viewed the proposed bylaw, although not in detail" and that it appeared in order as far as the provincial government was concerned.
Reeve Taylor pronounced first reading of the bylaw lost after the voting on the motion. Four councillors, Loeppky, Adams, McDonald and Scott voted for the acceptance, while Councillors Jackman and Gardiner voted against the adoptation of

"Municipal Dictator"

Controversial Bylaw Defeated

The controversial Matsqui Municipal Clerk bylaw, born by councillor Marlin Loeppky and mid-wifed by the Stevenson-Kellogg report and other members of Matsqui council was defeated Monday night.
A special meeting had been called to "reconsider and pass" the administration bylaw which was first introduced by Loeppky at Thursday night's regular meeting where it went through the first three readings.
Reeve Doug Taylor opened the meeting by informing council that following Thursday's meeting he had first taken the ferry to Victoria where he had been in conference with Mr. Brown, the deputy minister of municipal affairs. Here he was informed that Municipal Clerk Bill Moxon had brought Loeppky's draft to Victoria where it was presented to Mr. Baird of the department who subsequently wrote Councillor Loeppky in regards to the bylaw.
"This," said Reeve Taylor, "the municipal clerk did on his own on the instigation of Councillor Loeppky, without mine or council's knowledge." The clerk had no business making this trip, the Reeve said, "subsequently I suspended him from his duties on my return."

Calls for Resignation

In view of the fact that this had been fomented by Councillor Loeppky, the Reeve called for the resignation of the councillor.
The bylaw, said Taylor, was nothing but an illegal attempt to create the position of municipal manager. "In fact," he continued," the position as outlined in this bylaw would bring into being the position of municipal dictator, as the post would abridge the power of the council and reeve."
Next Reeve Taylor produced a letter from a municipal solicitor in Mission City whom he had engaged on the case. This letter bore out the Reeve's statement that the position would carry even more power than a municipal manager. This letter further said, "It is outside the assigned powers of councillors to approve of this bylaw."

Council Quiet

When the Reeve had concluded his case the council was considerably more quiet than after Thursday's fiery session. Councillor Andy Jackman remarked, "If any member of council wanted radical changes such as the introduction of a municipal manager, then he should have run for reeve in the (December) election, and really got in there and stirred up things." General merriment followed.
Councillor Loeppky, answering Reeve Taylor, said, "I am afraid I'll still have to vote for the bylaw. I had no intention of taking power away from anybody, and I still think the bylaw only would enhance the position of the reeve."
Councillor Scott remarked that in view of the new information which had remarkably been brought together by the reeve in a few days, it would be extremely dangerous to pass the bylaw. The bylaw was defeated at the following vote when Councillor Scott abstained.

To Re-instate Or Not To Re-instate

Last Thursday a letter from Kamloops was received at the news office, urging us to circulate a petition to the Premier of B.C.
The petition reads as follows:
"A great deal of criticism has arisen because of the Honorable Phil Gaglardi's use of government airplanes and because of his sons' activities in land transactions. This has caused us to lose one of our most valuable cabinet ministers.
"Please set proper rules for the use of government airplanes and regulations regarding the acquisition of land by the families of government members and please re-instate Mr. Gaglardi as minister of highways for the province of B.C."
Accompanying the letter was a newspaper clipping from the Nanaimo Daily Free Press, from which we quote: "this man Gaglardi drove himself hard in the name of the people of B.C. In the final analysis, he may have driven himself too hard: his dedication may have overtaken him. He may have, and probably has, become exhausted, and his judgment lately may have become impaired."
For those of our readers who should wish to sign the above petition, it will be available in this newsoffice for one week from today, after which date we will forward it to the Premier of this province.
If any of our readers should wish to sign a petition urging Mr. Gaglardi to resign as MLA for Kamloops, this too will be available at the newsoffice for the above mentioned period.

F.V.M.P.A. Manager Reports

Good Year for B.C. Dairy

The B.C. dairy industry has experienced an exciting year of growth and new development, General Manager George Okulitch told the 51st annual meeting of the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association.
"I think we can look with optimism to our future and the expanding growth of our industry," he said.

Speaking to a capacity crowd in Mission City's Legion Hall, he pointed out that the industry has not fared as well in other areas of Canada.
Reviewing Association business in 1967, he said distribution facilities had been extended to serve more adequately the needs of the consumer in other areas of the province. Sales growth for milk and ice cream products in the Prince Rupert, Terrace and Kitimat areas was particularly encouraging. A new distribution depot was built in Prince George to service the growing volume in Central B.C. In the late fall of 1967, a distribution depot was opened in Kelowna to take care of developing business in the Okanagan.
Partly as a result of this expansion, Class 1 sales increased to an all-time high of 156,213,400 pounds or 46.2% of the total FVMPA production. This figure was up from 43.5% in 1966. He observed that the total increase of Class 1 sales of the Vancouver area in 1967 over 1966 amounted to 21,928,135 pounds. Of this amount, 16,332,886 pounds was an increase experienced by sales in the Vancouver area and approximately 5,500,000 pounds was the increase of sales by the Vancouver area outside of the Lower Mainland Milk Board area.
Total gross sales income of $40,569,806.00 broke all previous records with an increase of 9.12 percent over 1966 figures.
Dealing with home delivery, Mr. Okulitch stated: "We are still very much interested in the home delivery system and believe it can survive through continuous training of sales drivers, consolidation of routes, increased productivity on routes and education of consumers for fewer deliveries and larger volume purchases."
The FVMPA share of the fluid home delivery market last year was 44.57 percent, up from 43.11 percent in home delivery sales, compared with an Association decline of only 4.3 percent.
Eggs were introduced to home delivery in May, 1967, and sales have averaged 600 dozen per day.
The Association General Manager declared his belief that members share with their management a confidence in the future and expanding growth of the dairy industry. But he cautioned, "I do not wish to imply that the future is all clear sailing. There will certainly be difficult and serious problems facing us ... the so called synthetic products certainly will be a serious threat ... continuous demands by the unions for increased wages and fringe benefits, are problems to be faced and solved."
Commenting on the synthetic products, he emphasized that they cannot nutritionally and flavor-wise compete with the natural products now on the market. The benefits as far as health is concerned and especially the health and development of children, is very doubtful, Okulitch pointed out. The synthetics are not recommended by public health organizations.

Householders Petition

A petition for water service from 10 householders in the Station Road- Swensson Road area, was received by Matsqui municipal council last Thursday. Council discussed installing of a new watermain for the area (at the present time the Swensson Elementary school is being supplied through a 2" plastic water line), but referred the request to the water committee.
Another application for water from Mr. William Wiebe on Clearbrook Road, was also referred to the committee.

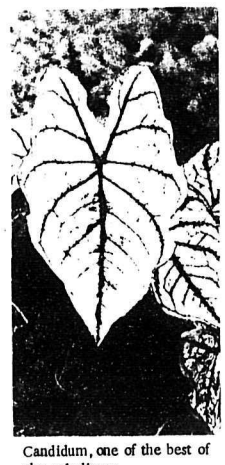
Garden Notes

by A. R. Buckley

Use Caladiums For Colour

The planting of fancy leaved caladiums in your garden will assure you a wealth of brilliant and flamboyant color during the summer. In addition, these plants require little for successful cultivation.
These tropical South American plants thrive in partly shaded places where most popular annuals will not grow well at all. They provide a colorful display when planted in flower beds, window boxes and porch planters, in tubs and patio containers or when used as pot plants for indoor decoration.
Intensive searching through garden centers and nursery catalogues could reveal as many as fifty different kinds ranging in color from that of Candidum, the popular white-leaved cultivar, to Kathleen, a large vigorous cultivar which has leaves with an overlay of brilliant rose-pink blotches and speckles on a base of green.
Caladiums are lush vigorous plants that grow one or two feet high and have striking heart-shaped or shield-like leaves carried on strong stout stems that arise directly from the tubers. These leaves are opaque and leathery looking in some varieties and almost transparent with a delicate filmy texture in others. Their exquisite coloring and patterns suggest somewhat the beauty of stained-glass windows.
Growing caladiums is quite simple. If you can prepare a soil rich in humus and give them plenty of warmth, moisture and fertility, they will grow with great vigor. Light shade is best but they will grow well in full sun for part of the day. They must be planted, however, in an area which is sheltered from strong winds and lashing rains, for most kinds have fragile leaves large enough to catch the slightest breeze.
The first step toward the successful culture of these showy plants is to purchase good quality tubers any time from now until mid-June. Many good ones are available from garden centers, but a wider selection may be obtained from bulb and plant specialists. It is best to start the tubers early inside and transplant them later when they have formed a few leaves. The best time to do this is in March or April so that they can be planted out during the warmer weather of June.
Start the tubers in flats or pans of peatmoss and sand as you would tuberous begonias. Plant several tubers in a 7-inch pan or a seed flat. Don't let the tubers touch each other but keep them two inches apart to give them plenty of room for growing. Otherwise you will break the roots when transplanting. Unlike begonia tubers, these need heat before they will start into growth, so place them in the hottest part of the house until they sprout. You can put the containers of tubers inside a larger box and stand them directly on or near a heat register or duct. To maintain the humidity in the box, place an inch of peatmoss or gravel at the bottom and keep it moist; then cover the box with polyethylene.



Candidum, one of the best of the caladiums.

When the plants have grown to two inches high, remove the box from the radiator or heat duct and place them in a cooler part of the house near a light window or under fluorescent lights in the basement. Soon after, when the tubers have abundant roots one or two inches long, transplant them into four or five inch pots filled with a mixture consisting of one part soil, two parts peatmoss and one part coarse sand and one part dried cow manure. When the temperature outside is warm enough and the leaves are beginning to show good color effect, stand the plants in the shade for a few days and then plant them in their summer quarters.
To prepare the soil outdoors in the flower bed, mix with the soil abundant compost, peatmoss or well-decayed leaves and a handful of 6-9-6 fertilizer for each square yard of surface. Make sure that the bed is well drained, for these plants will not thrive in low-lying poorly drained or waterlogged soil.
In summer, water the plants well when the soil appears dry. Every two weeks give them a very light application of a complete fertilizer.
When sharp frosts are indicated, dig the plants and take them to a warm dry place. After the foliage has died down, clear the decaying stalks and shake off some of the soil. Then store for the winter in dry sand, peatmoss or vermiculite in flats placed in the warmest part of the basement. Unlike most tuberous plants, these will not sprout prematurely if stored in temperatures of from 45 to 60 degrees F.
Good cultivars, apart from the two mentioned earlier, are Crimson Wave, which has bright red leaves, spotted with green and a green margin; Itacapua, a deep red with rich dark green shading and red dots; Lord Derby, with rose-pink leaves enhanced by a green netting and veining; Poecile Anglais, a low growing kind with red leaves; Pink Beauty, with leaves of salmon pink marbled with green; Scarlet Pimpernel, having white leaves with red centers and red ribs, and Sea Gull, a form with dark green leaves and showy white ribs, exactly the reverse of Candidum.
Described in this year's catalogues are three dwarf cultivars that produce an abundance of lance-shaped leaves. They are Ace of Spades, a form having light red leaves with a narrow border, spotted white; Pink Glow, the leaves of which have pink centers with a narrow green edge; and Ripple, a very dwarf or low growing cultivar with milky-white leaves and prominent green veins.
It is a good idea to keep some of your caladiums in pots so that at a moment's notice you can place them in parts of the garden where some special emphasis is needed or where there is a void created by plants that have just finished flowering. Because they are easy and lots of fun to grow these versatile plants should be at hand in every garden.

F.V.M.P.A. Approves Merger Negotiations

Membership of the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association gave authority to their Board of Directors to conduct discussions and negotiations with Vancouver Island dairy organizations on the subject of possible mergers.

Amalgamation of B.C. cooperative dairy companies has been in the news in recent weeks, but no action has occurred.

The Association, meeting in annual convention on March 29th, approved resolutions asking for early implementation of the Lower Fraser Valley Flood Program; and the taking over of calibration tests of milk tanks by the government as is done in other areas of trade.

Two resolutions on advertising were passed. A drastically stepped up advertising program by the Association to make their publicity more realistic and effective was adopted by the meeting. Unanimous acceptance was given an intensified advertising program by the Dairy Foods Service Bureau, the national advertising and merchandising unit of the Dairy Farmers of Canada. The cooperative dairy farmers recommended increased producer contributions to the Bureau to be considered.

A thorough study of milk tank pick up costs, and the implementation of a minimum charge for tank pick up found support at the meeting.

A motion requesting the Milk Board to prevent trading in milk quotas by a third party was defeated.

A significant resolution that received a great deal of discussion came from the Board of Directors. Authority was approved to begin a program commencing April 1st, 1968 to eliminate the pick up of milk in cans, such a program to be completed by March 1st, 1970.

Usurp Power

the bylaw. Reeve Taylor also cast his opposing vote, and said that since the motion needed a two-thirds majority in order to be carried, the first reading was lost and the bylaw defeated.

A heated discussion followed, and the four councillors determined to pass the new bylaw managed to get it through the first three readings, hotly opposed by the Reeve.

"Council does not have the power to take any power away from the Reeve," Taylor said. "We have now fought amongst ourselves for three months already," he continued, "and I am sure the taxpayers of the District of Matsqui will not stand for this in the long run. They want responsible, efficient local government without friction."

Municipal Clerk Bill Moxon advised council they couldn't pass the bylaw at the initial sitting, a period of at least 24 hours had to elapse, and a special meeting was called for Monday, April 1st to "reconsider resolution to adopt the bylaw."

Councillor Bill Scott, perhaps the least ruffled of the members, calmly remarked that he would like to see the bylaw defeated - not by council but in Victoria. "However," he said, "I see nothing in the proposed bylaw that can cause disharmony amongst us."

Reeve Taylor answered him that council was quite capable of settling its own affairs by vote. This was no concern of Victoria's. "And," he said, "I will keep on using my veto to prevent this usurping of power which can only lead to further incompatibility."

Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Schroeder and G. H. Wiebe, all of Aldergrove, attended the 51st annual meeting of the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association last week at Mission City.

"British Columbia has a much greater stake in adequate port development than most of the provinces because a large part of B.C.'s economy is tied to port business," Fulton said.

"It is certainly reasonable, therefore, that the provincial government of B.C. be consulted in matters of West Coast port development and operation," he said.

Chit-Chat

by Ann Homewood

April Fool's Day fell a bit flat this year with very few pranks being pulled. Two of the Grade 12 home rooms switched rooms and the teachers (and some students) did a double take when they started to take the attendance. A few others tried to bring a real car into the east hallway, but a certain teacher put a damper on that idea.

Sports activities have been running a bit slowly during the last little while apart from floor hockey. We have a smashing good team who have striven to uphold our good name in that particular field. The Gym Club is practicing hard for upcoming events and the attendance is good.

Tuesday was D-Day for report card marking. Students carried their reports around to classes but they will not be taken home until next Thursday. Tuesday was also the day for the trip to the Queen Elizabeth Theatre for the USSR Choral concert. The busload of students thoroughly enjoyed themselves and they agreed that it was well worth the trip.

Sports jackets are being sold this week for those students participating in school sports. They are being sold in two different styles - for boys and girls.

McLeod-Valentine

21st. Birthdays Chosen for Wedding

An early evening ceremony united Diane Frances McLeod and Derwyn Christopher Caulfield Valentine in holy matrimony Saturday.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don McLeod of Aldergrove Mobile Manor, Aldergrove. The groom is the only child of Rev. William Valentine of St. Dunstan's Anglican Church, Aldergrove.

The double-ring ceremony took place in St. Dunstan's Church with the groom's father officiating.

Diane McLeod was given away in marriage by her father. She wore a traditional floor-length gown, fashioned in brocade with a floral design. The full train flowed from the shoulders and the cathedral-length veil was held in place by a chiffon rose. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

The sister of the bride, Mrs. Patricia Haxton served as matron of honor. She wore a street length dress fashioned in aqua lace with white accessories. Mrs. Haxton carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

Mrs. Don McLeod was dressed in a royal blue dress with white accessories.

Serving as Derwyn Valentine's best man was Mr. Robert McMillan. Mr. Norman Green was at the organ.

The following reception took place in the Aldergrove Hotel Dining room, where Richie Fatkin served as the master of ceremonies. He also introduced the very important Canadian, Mr. Richie Fatkin who proposed the toast to the bride. The table Prayer was said by Rev. Valentine.

For the wedding trip to places unknown the bride chose a mint green suit.

Upon their return from the honeymoon, the young couple will reside on 1393 Robson St., Ste. 305, in Vancouver.

The wedding day also marked the 21st birthday of both the bride and groom.

The Spring of Drop-Outs

This is the spring of drop-outs... Political drop-outs, that is. First we had Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson announcing his retirement a while ago. We can understand this, and sympathize with Mr. Pearson. He was a great statesman and diplomat who guided Canada through a not-too easy period of the middle sixties. In spite of the turbulent times Mr. Pearson's government, often in hectic opposition, got things done and passed more important legislation than had been seen during the previous majority governments. - Mr. Pearson is now tired and wants out before he is beaten. A commendable as well as sensible move.

Number two, of course, is "Phlying Phil", our former B. C. Highways Minister Phil A. Gaglardi, who resigned last week because of the controversial land deals involving his sons, and the equally disputable use of the government jet. Mr. Gaglardi, 55, however, doesn't intend to retire from politics. He is staying on as a minister without portfolio, and hopes eventually to get "back in." We hope for Mr. Gaglardi's sake that he makes it, and that he, as an intelligent man, will be able to convince the citizens of British Columbia that he is innocent of all wrong-doings of which he is charged. We must add though, that to date we have not heard a very strong case for the defence. We appreciate the building of the highways system in B. C., but we would like to be 101 percent convinced that our elected representatives are as much "above board" as Mr. Gaglardi says he is.

And then, the bomb.

President Lyndon B. Johnson of the United States announcing Saturday night that he didn't intend to seek re-election as president for a second term! -- And that he had ordered a de-escalation of the war in Vietnam! -- If it had been two days later we would have said, "Oh, of course, April Fool" -- but there he was, live and in color, actually uttering those words. What has the world come to? President Johnson, too, looked a bit old and tired. Has he finally realized that he cannot beat them, and that he might as well join them?

No matter what triggered Mr. Johnson into this action, we think it's one of the best moves in world policy that has happened for years, and we thank Mr. Johnson with all our heart. Now we hope this sign of good-will on the part of the U. S. will induce North Vietnam and the Viet Cong into taking matching steps towards a peace in the far east.

In the meantime, next week we have the Liberal convention at which our future Prime Minister will be elected. And in the United States they are already well underway with the primaries for the 1968 Presidential election in November. We trust that the two leading North American countries will elect men into office who are not only honest and energetic men, full of youthful vigor, but also men who are in touch with the changing times.

Report From Ottawa

Why N.D.P. Insisted On Drug Price Bill

by Barry Mather, MP.

Ottawa -- The New Democratic Party recently came in for praise and also for some criticism for insisting that the Liberal Government act on its own legislation and either introduce or undertake to introduce a Bill whose aim is to reduce the prices of drugs.

It was said by some that the New Democratic Party was being unsporting in delaying the House of Commons' holiday and thereby the political campaigning of Liberal leadership hopefuls. The Party was sticking to a sort of "work to rule" policy in the Commons and giving scutiny, and debate, to the many million-dollar supplementary estimates from various Government departments, as these came before Parliament.

It was said by others, notably those suffering as a result of the high cost of drugs, that, the NDP was doing a service to the public and "more power to it!"

In the end the New Democratic Party won two points. The Prime Minister checked with his Cabinet and then gave the Country the assurance that the "Drug Price Bill" was one which would have early priority ... (this was not given before the NDP dug in its heels) ... On the other point, the Government agreed that there would now be no reduction in the health services furnished our Indian and Eskimo people. This was something which both the Conservative Party and NDP had demanded.

In the end, the Liberals had time for their campaigning and no interference with their convention.

So the story is one with at least a semi-happy ending ...

But what was so important about the "Drug Legislation"?

Well, here are some facts which impelled the NDP to stick to its guns!

During the debate on the Bill my colleague, Dr. Wm. D. Howe MP made reference to the large price spread between drugs sold brand name and those sold by chemical name. The price for the same kind of drug is in many cases 3 to 5 times as high when it is bought by brand name. Yet, because of persistent advertising pressure by pharmaceutical houses, this is the way most drugs are prescribed. It is interesting to note that many hospitals which have to buy large quantities of drugs, buy their supply by chemical or generic name, otherwise it would cost them, and ultimately the taxpayer, a fortune. It may well be in the public interest that a publicly-owned Crown Corporation be established to manufacture and distribute drugs which would then be available to drugstores and institutional buyers such as hospitals, veterans' hospitals, etc.

During one stage of the Debate on Drug Prices, tremendous pressure was exerted by the wealthy Pharmaceutical Manufacturers' Association. They implied that any attempt to reduce drug prices would result in decreased drug research and manufacturing in Canada. The fact of the matter is that only a small percentage of drug manufacturers' profits goes into research (they spend several times as much on advertising and promotion as they do on research) and most drugs sold in Canada are compounded outside the country and merely capsuled and labeled here in Canada.

400 Attend Co-op Meeting

400 persons attended the 47th annual meeting of the Surrey Co-operative Association last Monday in the Cloverdale Community Centre and heard president L. A. Currie and his directors report both sales and tonnage had risen during the past year, along with a notable increase in membership.

Sales were in excess of 16.9 million dollars, tonnage stood at nearly 143,000, and membership has risen by over 1,000 to an all-time high of 11,284.

More than 2.3 million dollars has been paid on construction of the new mill at Abbotsford which is expected to cost about $4,020,000. -- well above the original estimate of approximately $2.5 million.

Election of officers is scheduled for this week to fill expired terms of officials from Langley, Surrey and Abbotsford.

Dairy President Reports

Record Sales and Production

"The biggest year in our history, in both total volume of milk received and gross sales value."

This was the optimistic note sounded by H. S. Berry in his annual report to the 51st Annual Meeting of the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association in Mission City.

During the twelve month period of 1967, 1,360 shipping members supplied nearly 386 million pounds of milk to four Association plants. Out of this amount, the farmer owners of the FVMPA processed and manufactured dairy products with a gross sales return of $40,569,806.00. Of this figure, $21,285,511.00 was returned to them - another record. He said the Association has contributed approximately $625 million to the economy of the country since 1917.

Mr. Berry announced that the average return to the producer increased by ten cents a pound butterfat, from $1.2908 to $1.3908. Higher producer values were realized from increases in Milk Board prices. However, in addition, an extra payment in 1967 of twelve cents a hundred weight over Milk Board prices was paid on all milk shipped. To add to this return, the quality bonus brought $320,364.00 to FVMPA dairymen. The combined additional revenue they received amounted to $777,464.

"Increased farm returns for FVMPA shippers has helped them to keep pace with the inevitable rising costs of operation of their dairy farms," he told the meeting.

The FVMPA head welcomed the Bulkley Valley shippers who had become associate members when the Kitimat dairy was purchased by the Association at the beginning of 1968. He called attention to the need for agricultural groups to work together in an era of big business, big labor and big government.

The cooperative is still "the producers most effective way to increase bargaining power, and bring in a fair return to the producer," declared Berry.

"The inequity in market strength between farmers and the corporations they must do business with is greater today than it was forty years ago. To maintain a voice in the face of our dwindling influence as an economic group, we as farmers must work together."

"We will see more and more mergers," the Fraser Valley president predicted. Speaking of the discussions between the Shuswap-Okanagan Dairy Industries Cooperative and the FVMPA, he said "no decisions or conclusions to implement an amalgamation have been reached by either organization."

A complete merger, with the two Milk Board areas becoming one area, would bring financial benefits to both organizations, he stated. The membership would be kept informed of progress made in this direction.

Negotiations were presently taking place with the Comox Creamery, he said, that could lead to the Comox Creamery Association becoming members of the FVMPA.

The new units that could result from amalgamations provide many advantages. Greater purchasing power, resulting in savings on supplies and services; more efficient plant operation, better utilization of plants and staff, elimination of duplication and product make and packages and economics in advertising and merchandising.

And proposed merger plan would be presented to the membership for approval or rejection at an annual general meeting.

Directors Re-elected

Four Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association directors were re-elected by acclamation to the Board March 28th at Mission City.

Elected were H. S. Berry of Langley, Jake Hoogendoorn of Agas*siz, G. W. Park of Pitt Meadows* and A. D. Rundle of Chilliwack. Nominations for the four Board positions closed during the first day of the annual meeting.

Berry, Park and Rundle were elected for a two-year term and Hoogendoorn for one year.

When Old Robin Red Breast Sings

When old Robin Red Breast sings,
His sweet melody in springs,
It brings back sweet memories of long ago,
It turns back the page of time to that village dear of mine,
And it's there this homesick heart does want to go.

In the morning clear and bright,
He would fill me with delight,
'Twas a call to get dressed then for the day
With my pals we'd run with glee,
In the Meadows far away
Where old Robin Red Breast sings His Melody.

I would love to be there once more,
Go through the fields and by the shore,
And watch the sail boats tossing in the breeze -
But I know I ne'er shall see,
And never more will I be
Where old Robin Red Breast sings his Melody.

Indoor Rodeo Planned

The Kiwanis Club of Maple Ridge-Haney is planning its first annual indoor rodeo. Ford Jackson and Hank Moerman say it will be a professional rodeo, with the usual bucking broncos and many other features, prizes totalling more than $1,600. It is recognized by both the Canadian and American Rodeo Cowboy Associations.

Maple Ridge municipal council, and the local fair board, have both offered approval and support for the event -- scheduled for the civic arena in Haney May 3rd and 4th. Reeve Peter Jenewein says if the engineer and the architect also give approval to the scheme no other obstacles would have to be overcome. Jackson says the 80 head of choice stock for the two-day rodeo will come from Kamloops and Cache Creek. He adds that indoor rodeos are becoming very popular because of the availability of seats all around the scene of activity and the fact weather conditions can be ignored.

Trumpets Of The Lord Telecast

A 90-minute color production, a TV version of the successful off-Broadway "gospel" musical Trumpets of the Lord, will be telecast May 8 on CBC-TV's Festival series, and on the National Educational Television network in the U. S. on May 10. Trumpets of the Lord, a production of NET, will be produced by Amherst Productions Inc., New York, in association with the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, and will be taped at CBC Toronto studios April 17 - 19.

Trumpets of the Lord is a musical based on seven famous sermons from the Negro folklore of the American South, from the book God's Trombones by the late James Weldon Johnson. The TV production's all-Negro cast of nine performers (three principals and a chorus of six) will be announced later.

Producer is Amherst's Howard Schwartz. CBC-TV's Norman Campbell has been assigned as director, and Nikolai Soloviov of the corporation's design department will be the designer. Executive producers are Craig Gilbert for NET and Robert Allen for CBC.

Rehearsals for the TV production will be held in New York for an eight-day period prior to the Toronto taping.

Trumpets of the Lord was an off-Broadway hit in 1963 and '64, opening at the Astor Place Playhouse and later moving to the Circle-in-the-Square. It was both a critical and box office success. The stage production was revived in June 1967 at the invitation of France's Jean-Louis Barrault, to represent the American theatre at the Theatre of Nations Festival in Paris, where it was equally well received.

The musical brings together in play form the sermons in verse from the writings of James Weldon Johnson, who has been called "the unofficial spokesman for the American Negro."

Set in the backwoods churches of the deep South, Trumpets of the Lord is a blend of gospel music and words, and the sermons range in subject matter from the Creation to the Ascension.
