The strike of postal clerks and mail carriers at Victoria and Vancouver has not put anyone here to any serious inconvenience as yet. The telegraph office is doing a thriving business, and those in other ines of business seem to be goingalong the same asever. The post office and bank employees are having an easy time. Those who do the least business and do the smallest amount of business with the post office are the loudest in the clamouring for something to be done. Same old joke—Empty wagons make the most noise. Happily the strike is over and we may expect a hamper of late mail tonight, and on Saturday evening.

In commemoration of the fourth anniversary of Great Britain's entry into the war, a special united service of the Anglican and Presbyterian churches will be held at the Presbyterian church on Sunday evening, August 4. The Rev J. W. Flynton of Victoria, will have charge of the service, assisted by the Rev. Richmond Craig, of Westminster Presbyterian church, Vancouver. The members of the I. O. D. E. will attend in a body, and the Great War Veterans and the City Council have been specially invited to attend. This is an occasion that should draw one of the largest congregations in the history of Courtenay.

The ladies of the I. C. D. E. who worked so hard to get the children trained for the operaette "The National Flower" were somewhat disappointed at the reception given their entertainment at Cmberland. When the Cumberland juveniles visited Courtenay with an entertainment for patriotic purposes some time ago, the ladies of this district turned out and did everything in their power to make the affair a success, and greeted them with a bumper hous. That the entertainment was a good one goes without saying, as the folowing from the "Islander" proves: "Many compliments were heard regarding both the talented young people who took part and the splendid work of the ladies who had charge of their training and direction."

On Saturday Dominion Police Constable Campbell, who, along with a posse number of others went into the mountains at the head of Comox Lake after the young men who are hiding, evading the military service, came face to face with "Ginger" Goodwin. Both apparently drew their guns, but Campbell fired. Whether the other man intended to shoot will never be known, as he was killed instantly. Goodwin was a well known Socialist, and Labor agitator, and was quite an orator. He was a candidate at Trail on the Socialist ticket at the last provincial election. A Coroner's inquest was held on Wednesday, when the fact was brought out that Goodwin was armed with a 22 calibre rifle. He had over $300 on hisperson. The verdict so for exhonerates the policeman, as he claims to have killed this man in self-defence. The funeral takes place on Friday afternoon.

Then came a profitable contract, which Lawrence obtained against keen opposition, for supplying telephone posts, and Foster was surprised to find that the description of their efforts to get the logs out of a rugged wilderness made a stirring tale. Although he paused once or twice apologetically, the others made him resume, and he began to wish he was not in the firelight when he saw that Alice was quietly studying him. It was his partner's story he meant to tell, but since they were together he could not leave himself out.

He could, however, change the scene, and skipping much, came to start as general contractors at Gardner's Crossing. The Hulton Company, which was not so large then, gave them work, but they were hampered by want of capital, and had to meet the competition of richer and sometimes unscrupulous antagonists. Still they made progress; staking all they had on the chance of carrying out risky work that others would not touch, sometimes testing the patience of creditors, and now and then outwitting a rival by an ingenious ruse. Lawrence lived in the single-room office, cooking for himself on an oil stove, while Foster camped with his men where they were at work.

Then they built the sawmill with the help of Lawrence's check from home, and soon afterwards met with their worst reverse. They had engaged to supply the Hulton Company with lumber of a certain kind for some special work, and then found that few of the trees they required grew near the river. This meant that a skidway must be made over a very rough hill and a gasoline winding engine bought or hired to haul the logs out of the next valley. There was, however, another fir easily accessible that might suit the purpose, but not quite as well, and Foster related how he and his partner sat up late one night calculating costs and wondering whether they should pay Hulton a fine to break the bargain. He added naively that they were some time arguing if they should substitute the inferior wood.

"Whose opinion was it that you should supply the exact material you had promised?" Featherstone asked.

"Well," said Foster, "Lawrence said so first, but I think we both meant to let them have the best."

Featherstone's glance at his wife indicated relief, but something in Alice's face showed that she had known what Foster's reply would be. She had listened with keen interest, and he stopped, half amused and half embarrassed. Perhaps he had talked too much, and while he meant to do Lawrence justice, he did not want to play the part of the indomitable pioneer for the girl's benefit. Moreover, he knew she would detect and despise him for any attempt to do so, and as he valued her good opinion, it was not modesty alone that led him to make Lawrence the hero of the piece.

"So you stuck to your bargain!" Featherstone remarked. "Tell us how you carried it out."

Foster forgot himself and the others as he continued, for he had a vivid memory of the struggle. He took charge of the work in the woods, while Lawrence tactfully pressed for payment of outstanding accounts, put off creditors, and somehow provided money for wages. As extra gangs had to be hired, Foster owned that he did not know how the thing was done. He cut a grade for the skidway up the hill, slashing tangled bush and blasting rocks, worked in the snow by moonlight long after his men stopped, and afterwards learned that Lawrence often went without a meal when pay day got near. But they hauled out the logs and the lumber was delivered. When he stopped, Featherstone looked up with some color in his face.

"Thank you," he said. "It is a moving tale. The money we sent you was well spent. I could have expected nothing better of my son. But I suppose you found it paid to keep your promise."

"In this case it did," Foster answered with a smile. "Hulton's gave us the first chance of any work they did not care to do themselves; you see, we had put in a few wood working machines. In fact, after a time, Hulton told Lawrence to walk through the factory now and then and send in anything the heads of departments required. But I've talked long enough and fear you're bored."

"No," said Featherstone simply, "you have given us great pleasure and made us realize the bracing life my son is leading. You could have done us no favor that would equal this."

Then he took Foster off to the gun room, where they smoked and talked about the day's shooting, until Featherstone said rather abruptly. "Perhaps I had better tell you that I didn't send Lawrence the check that enabled you to build the mill. It was not in my power to do so then."

"But he said the money came from home."

"It did. Alice was left a small legacy and insisted on selling the shares it consisted of in order to help her brother. I must confess that I thought she was rash, but the money was hers. Now it is obvious that the sacrifice she made was justified."

Featherstone began to talk about something else, but Foster felt embarrassed. It looked as if he owed his success in business to the girl's generosity, and although he could not see why this should disturb him, it did.

He went down to dinner rather early and found Alice in the hall. There was nobody else about, and by the way she looked up as he advanced he thought she had been waiting for him. Alice had beauty, but it was her proud reserve he felt most. She did not give her friendship lightly, but he believed it was worth winning.

"I wanted to thank you for explaining things so well," she said. "It's the first time we have really learned much about my brather's life in Canada."

Foster hesitated. "I felt that you wanted to know. But, in a way, it must have sounded rather egotistical. In fact, the thing wasn't as easy as you perhaps think."

Alice smiled. "You couldn't leave yourself out, although it was obvious that you meant to give my brother the leading part."

"I honestly don't think I exaggerated."

"No," she agreed, "it sounded real, and there were touches, little personal characteristics, you couldn't have imagined. You see, I am younger than Lawrence and thought him something of a romantic hero before he left home." Then she paused for a moment. "I got a very bad shock when he was forced to go. You know why he went?"

"I don't; I've sometimes thought he wanted to tell me."

"Then you never asked?"

"I did not; I think I didn't want to know."

She gave him a steady searching glance and he felt that if he had been insincere she would have found out.

ANY CORN LIFTS OUT, DOESN'T HURT A BIT

No foolishness! Lift your corns and calluses off with fingers—It's like magic!

Sore corns, hard corns, soft corns or any kind of a corn, can harmlessly be lifted right out with the fingers if you apply upon the corn a few drops of freezone, says a Cincinnati authority.

For little cost one can get a small bottle of freezone at any drug store, which will positively rid one's feet of every corn or callus without pain.

This simple drug dries the moment it is applied and does not even irritate the surrounding skin while applying it or afterwards.

This announcement will interest many of our readers. If your druggist hasn't any freezone tell him to surely get a small bottle for you from his wholesale drug house.

Get a Good Wife

The Main Thing Is to Marry a Girl With Good Common Sense

"A man who is not happy in his domestic life cannot be thoroughly efficient. If he has to fret and worry over things at home he cannot give the best that is in him to his work. His strength and nerve and enthusiasm are detracted from. The main thing is to marry a girl with good common sense. It is not necessary that she should learn a great deal about his business problems; but if she has solid sense she will know how to be sympathetic, how to economize, how to encourage him, how to inspire his ambition, and how to facilitate the attainment of that ambition by having his home surroundings cheerful and pleasant, by attending carefully to his physical well-being, and by entering into the spirit of his aims and objects. Good health is extremely, important in the struggle for success, and a man's health is dependent in a very large measure upon his home life. A young man in seeking a wife should pay more attention to her heart and her health than to her dowry."—E. P. Ripley, Veteran President of the Santa Fe, in The American Magazine.

The Dignity of Farming

Will Be Looked Up to as One of the Princes of the Land

This war has done one thing; it has made farming one of the most dignified callings a man can engage in. There was a time when many looked on the cultivator of the soil as "a mere hayseed," not worthy of being considered seriously in the economics of the nation, but that day has passed. Today everybody is appealing to the farmer to come to the rescue of the nation by helping to produce something to eat so that we can win the war. The day is not far distant when the "man who makes two blades of grass grow where only one grew before" will be looked up to as one of the princes of the land. — Montgomery, Ala., Times.

Royal Milliners

Royalty and Society Women Who are Experts With Their Needles

It has long been a well-known fact that Queen Mary has often trimmed her own hats, as also has Queen Maude of Norway.

Princess Patricia of Connaught, too, is a clever milliner, and her sister, the Crown Princess of Sweden, has often looked charming in hats which she has trimmed herself.

There are many society women who are experts with their needles, and who can turn an ugly "shape" into a beautiful "creation." One of these is Lady Cheylesmore, and she has several times won prizes at hat-trimming competitions.

Lady Maitland, too, is a clever milliner, and she once organized a sale of hats, every one made or trimmed by her own hands. Lady Hervey-Bathurst has trimmed many pretty hats, and before her marriage she had a millinery shop in Sloans Square. Mrs. Arthur Weigall is another society woman who would make a small fortune as a milliner.—Tit-Bits.

Destruction of Subs.

Parts of Submarines Included in Catch of Dutch Fishermen

Not only fish, but parts of German submarines destroyed now frequently constitute the catch of Dutch fishermen when they haul up their nets off the Dutch coast, according to H. Venstra, a dairy expert from Holland.

"Floating parts of submarines are raising havoc with the nets of our fishermen," Mr. Venstra said. "In many cases floatsam and jetsam have been submitted to coast guardsmen and officers of the Dutch navy and were identified as belonging to submarines that probably had been destroyed by depth charges."

A Pill for Brain Workers.—The man who works with his brains is more liable to derangement of the digestive system than the man who works with his hands, because the one calls upon his nervous energy while the other applies only his muscular strength. Brain fag begets irregularities of the stomach and liver, and the best remedy that can be used is Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. They are specially compounded for such cases and all those who use them can certify to their superior power.

A Stupendous Decision

Women Can Become the Dominant Political Power of the Future

Commenting on the granting of the franchise to 6,000,000 women in the British Isles, the Edinburgh Scotsman says: "It is a stupendous decision. It assuredly would not have been taken but for the demonstration of women's capabilities which the war has brought. No one four years ago foresaw how powerfully the fabric of our national life could be buttressed by women's work. That element is everywhere today; it has disclosed reserves of national strength that imply permanent developments; its relation to organized labor in its old form, is one of the problems of the reconstruction period." Woman, if she asserts herself, can become the dominant political power of the future.

CONSTIPATED CHILDREN

Nothing will so quickly remove childhood constipation as will Baby's Own Tablets. They are a mild but thorough laxative; are pleasant to take; do not gripe and never fail to regulate the stomach and bowels. Concerning them Mrs. Adolphe Noel, Petite Lameque, Que., says:—"Baby's Own Tablets are the best remedy for constipation I know of and I would strongly recommend them to all mothers of little ones." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Stamp Out Trade With Enemy

Through control of the nation's foriegn trade, made effective by the president's proclamation requiring licenses for all imports and exports, the U. S. war trade board plans to stamp out completely all trading with firms of pro-enemy character which are furnishing information, smuggling supplies, providing credits or hoarding for post-war purposes in order to give aid and comfort to Germany.

THE SPRING DRIVE

Our boys are going "Over the top" and into "No man's land" this spring. No one has any doubt of their ability to get there. There will also be a spring drive on this side of the ocean, because March is the year's "blue Monday." It is the most fatal month of the year. March and April is a time when resistance usually is at lowest ebb. It is a trying season for the "run-down" man. But medical science steps in, and says, "it need not be"! We should cultivate a love of health, a sense of responsibility for the care of our bodies. Do not allow the machinery of the body to clog. Put the stomach and liver in proper condition. Take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, to be had at most drug stores in tablet or liquid form, tablets fifty cents a vial, composed of native herbs. This puts the stomach and liver in proper condition. You may be plodding along, no spring, no elasticity, no vim, but as soon as you have put the body into its normal physical condition—oiled the machinery, as it were—you will find new vim, vigor and vitality within you. A little "pep," and we laugh and live. Try it now. Send Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N.Y., or branch office, Bridgeburg, Ont., 10c. for trial pkg. The prime necessity of life is health. With spirit and energy you have the power to force yourself into action. The Golden Medical Discovery is the spring tonic which you need.

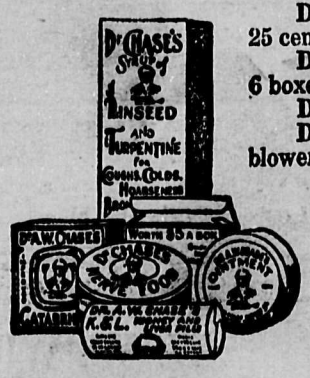
You can now get all my medicines at the Drug Store

AFTER the publication of his Receipt Book Dr. Chase found himself overwhelmed with the demand for his services and his medicines. Not only did patients come from many miles to throng his office, but the mails were filled with letters ordering medicines.

Rather than disappoint his patients and admirers, and always anxious to relieve suffering, the doctor decided to give to the people the great prescriptions which had been so thoroughly tested and so remarkably successful in his private practice.

And so it came that Dr. Chase's Medicines were placed on public sale at nominal prices. To-day you can scarcely find a drug store that is not stocked with a full line of these medicines, and that home is the exception where there is not one or more of them in use.

Like most articles of exceptional merit and large sales Dr. Chase's Medicines are widely imitated, and substitutes are frequently offered in their place. On this account it is very important that you should see the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author, on the box you buy. They are printed on every box for your protection, and imitators do not dare to use them.



Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, 5 boxes for $1.00.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food (Pills), 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.75.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Catarrh Powder, 25 cents a box, blower free, 5 boxes for $1.00.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, 25 cents a bottle. Family size, three times as much, 60 cents.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Liver Cure, $1.00.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Backache Plaster, 25 cents each, 5 for $1.00.

HERE AND THERE.

Germany and the Next War.

Some months ago a cable despatch announced the publication in Germany of a book on the war by Baron von Pretag-Loringnoven, Lieutenant-General and Deputy Chief of the German Imperial staff. "Deductions from the World War" as the volume was entitled, was written for German consumption and its export was prohibited. A few copies found their way across the frontier and the translation is now made available, a few suggestive extracts are here given.

"Only under the absolute command of a war lord can an army achieve a really vigorous development. It cannot be emphasized too often what an immense debt the Prussian army, and therewith all Germany owes to the Prussian kings.

"Nobody can undertake to guarantee a lasting peace—a lasting peace is guaranteed only by strong armaments.

"War has its basis in human nature and as long as human nature remains unaltered, war will continue to exist, as it has existed already for thousands of years. The often quoted saying of Moltke that wars are in human but eternal peace is a dream and not a beautiful dream, will continue to be true.

"We misconstrue reality, if we imagine that it is possible to rid the world of war by means of mutual agreements. Such agreements will, in the future, as in the past, be concluded from time to time between States. The further development of international courts of arbitration, and the elimination of many causes of dispute by their agency, lie within the realm of possibility, but any such agreements will after all only be treaties which will not on every occasion be capable of holding in check the forces seething within the States. therefore the idea of a universal league for the preservation of peace remains a Utopia, and would be felt as an intolerable bondage by any great and proud-spirited nation.

"In any event, as regards us Germans, the world war should disencumber us once and for all of any vague cosmopolitan sentimentality. If our enemies, both our secret and our avowed enemies, make professions of this nature, that is for us sufficient evidence of the hypocrisy which underlies them.

"In future as in the past, the German people will have to seek firm cohesion in it's glorious army and it's belaurelled young fleet."

This frank revelation of the Prussian mentality emphasizes the absolute necessity of an Allied victory of the most overwhelming character.

Every employer and employe should read carefully the following: "A day [illegible] a day when that irresistible force public opinion, will judge a man by his work, and will judge employers by the work they are retaining men to do. Men and women will look hard at the clerks in stores, offices warehouses and factories. We are down to elementals today and our people will not tolerate the thought that while so many of our sons are perishing in France, so many men are doing work that can easily and efficiently be done by women without sacrifice to their womanhood or health.

It is perhaps unnecessary here to specify by name those occupatins which culd be dispensed with in the face of such a crisis as our country and our nation are now facing, but certainly there are many non essential occupations in war time, and all men and women engaged in them should seriously consider abandoning them for the present in favor of farm work

Farm experience is not absolutely necessary to make a man of great assistance at the present time on farms. The color of his blood is of great importance. If it is red enough he will succeed.—Agl. Jiurnal.

Don't Forget. Next Door to the Ilo-Ilo Theatre

Local Motor Car Owners whose cars are equipped with electric starting and lighting systems will be interested in a remarkable device just installed by the Ford Garage—which they recently purchased from a large Chicago concern. A most interesting demonstration was made showing AMBU, this instrument, in action attached to a car at the garage recently—it was weird to see the almost human intelligence of the AMBU as its indicating arrow slowly moved this way or that on the dial showing certain conditions normal or the location of trouble or faults in the electric system of the car.

No doubt many would say that it was impossible for any device to automatically indicate the seat of trouble, but they said of the areoplane and the submarine—not possible- yet they're flying in the air and sailing under the sea.

This invention and its remarkable ability was described and discussed in the leading periodicals of the country.

The motorists of Courtenay are singularly fortunate in having a garage progressive enough to appreciate the advantage of owning such an instrument and they should show their appreciation in a substantial way.

The garags plans to charge a nominal fee of $2.00 for a test of the entire electrical equipment of a car—which will probably indicate the beginning of some trouble which can be quickly corrected and save a big expense later. AMBU not only tells the location and kind of trouble but also how to repair it.

So our car owners need not lay up their cars or go to the trouble and expense of sending parts back to the makers of the electrical equipment.

It is said that serious derangements of electric starting and lighting systems have been located and been repaired in 30 minutes through the aid of AMBU.

The Ford Garage people seem very much interested in showing the instrument to any one and it is fascinating to see it in action. We surely are living in a progressive age.

The Maid of Belgium.

Imagine this situation: Adoree, a Belgian refugee, who has lost her memory because of agony she has undergone, is brought to America by Mr, and Mrs. Hudson. She becomes the mother of a child. Mrs Hunson, who is childless, and whose husband is anxious for a child, persuades Adoree to give the baby to her so assure the child of having an honorable name and future in life. Mrs. Hudson convinces her husband upon his return to Cuba, that the child is his. He is overjoyed. Then Adoree's mother-love overcomes her desire for the baby's future, and she runs away with it. A shock restores her memory to her. This is first of the 'Maid of Bel- striking World Pictu- Crady as Star. part of the picture is more surpri- ing and thrilling than the beginning of the production. Be sure and see it.

Victoria, July 30.—Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, will leave toward the end of the week for New York, where he will attend to details involved in taking up by the government of some $780,000 of bond, issued by the municipality of South Vancouver. and the substitution there for of Provincial Conds under an agreement provided at the recent session of the Provincial Legislature.

Livestock Branch States Policy on Slaughtering of Young Animals

The livestock branch of the department of agriculture has expressed the opinion that "any action taken arbitrarily to prohibit the slaughter of calves or females or to limit the market for Canadian cattle through restrictions upon exports or otherwise would be absolutely unwise." Under present conditions the farmer reaps a profit from the feeding of calves to veal age, while previous to the war such calves were killed as soon as born. Such prohibition as that proposed would, therefore, cause a return of the pre-war practice, resulting in a very considerable waste of food.

French Strong for Boycott

Germany Cannot Live Without Permission of the Allies

French opinion is more and more inclined to emphasize the enormous value to the allies of the economic weapon against Germany. Nearly every day there is a call here for a plain statement from the allies as to the manner in which the economic boycott will be used if Germany persists in prolonging the war.

Edmond Laskine, a well-known writer on economics, remarks in Liberte that the allies hold trump cards of which no Ludendorff or Trotszky can deprive them.

"These," he says, "are the mastery of the most important world markets and a monopoly of the most important raw materials. When the German chancellor poses in the Reichstag as the supreme dictator of war and peace, the allies can reply through the voice of their authorities that although Germany may be master of Reval and Riga, the allies are the masters of the world.

"The Germans can pillage and massacre without our permission, but without that permission they cannot live. Germany must be given to understand that a resumption of normal economic relations depends not only on her accepting the allies' peace terms, but on the date when she accepts them.

"So far as German exports are concerned, the allies ought to prepare a boycotting system of conditional duration. The Germans ought to be told that if they agree to peace within six months their products will be excluded from the allies' markets for five years only; if the war lasts another year our boycott should continue ten years after the signature of peace, and so forth. It would thus be left to Germany herself to decide how long the boycott on her trade would last."

Steel Helmets

Number of Deaths Due to Wounds in the Head Has Decreased

The plain steel helmet worn by all our Tommies is becoming quite familiar even to people in England. It will surprise most people who have seen these helmets to know that there are no fewer than sixty-four distinct operations necessary in turning out one of them.

The first step is stamping out discs from large sheets of steel. A special machine is used for this purpose, exerting a pressure of 150 tons, and capable of cutting out 5,000 steel discs a day.

Each disc is placed under a shaping machine, which presses the disc into the form of a helmet with a broad rim. Polishing and cutting machines remove all irregularities in the helmet, after which it has holes punched in the crown, some for ventilation purposes, others for fastening on the regimental crest. Each helmet is cleaned and dipped in a special mixture, which makes it a dull, inconspicuous bluish-grey. A lining and leather chin-straps are then fastened on, and the helmet is complete.

Since the French army has been protected with the helmets the number of deaths due to wounds in the head has decreased to a remarkable extent.

Nothing Like It For Bronchitis And Weak Throat

REMARKABLE CURES IN THE WORST CASES REPORTED DAILY

Cures Without Using Drugs

Doctors now advocate an entirely new method for treating bronchitis and irritable throat. Stomach dosing is no longer necessary.

The most approved treatment consists of a healing vapor resembling the pure air of the Adirondacks.

This soothing vapor is full of germ-destroying substances, and at the same time is a powerful healing agent. It is sent to the bronchial tubes and lungs through a skillfully devised inhaler that can be carried in the vest pocket. Simplicity is the keynote of this splendid treatment.

CATARRHOZONE is the name of this wonderful invention that is daily curing chronic cases of weak throat, bronchitis and catarrh. Every breath through the inhaler is laden with soothing, healing substances that destroy all diseased conditions in the breathing organs. It can't fail to cure because it goes where the trouble really exists, and doesn't attempt to cure an illness in the head or throat by means of medicine taken into the stomach. Catarrhozone is a direct, breathable, scientific cure.

There is no sufferer from a grippy cold or any winter ill, that won't find a cure in Catarrhozone, which is employed by physicians, ministers, lawyers and public men throughout many foreign lands. Large size lasts two months and costs $1.00 and is guaranteed; small size 50c, sample size 25c, all storekeepers and druggists, or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

The Art of Forgetting

Blot Out as Far as Possible All the Disagreeables of Life

If you would increase your happiness and prolong your life, forget your neighbor's faults. Forget the slander you have heard. Forget the temptations. Forget the faultfindings, and give a little thought to the cause which provoked it. Forget the peculiarities of your friends, and remember only the good points which made you fond of them. Forget all personal quarrels or histories you may have heard by accident, and which, if repeated, would seem a thousand times worse than they are. Blot out as far as possible all the disagreeables of life; they will come, but they will grow when you remember them, and the constant thought of the acts of meanness, or, worse still, malice, will only tend to make you more familiar with them. Obliterate everything disagreeable from yesterday; start out with a clean sheet for today, and write upon it, for sweet memory's sake, only those things which are lovely and lovable.—Southern Churchman.

Sun Life Leads Canadian Companies

Notable Expansion Continues to Be Shown by This Reliable Company

The Sun Life of Canada's published statement of 1917 results, which appears in this issue, is in every sense a satisfactory document. It shows assurances issued and paid for in cash during 1917 for a total of over $47,800,000, the largest amount of new business ever issued and paid for by any Canadian life company in any year. Assurances in force now total over $311,800,000. Assets increased by over $7,000,000 to over $90,000,000, the largest assets ever attained by a Canadian company. Cash income totalled over $19,288,000. Payments to policyholders exceeded $8,800,000, bringing total payments to policyholders since organization to over $69,000,000.

The record of the Sun Life of Canada for 1917 reflects the highest credit upon the Directors and Officers of the Company and should be equally satisfactory to the Company's policyholders.

The new Head Office building on Dominion Square, Montreal, has now been completed and the staff have been installed in their new quarters, where, with the most up-to-date equipment, the work of administering the Company's rapidly-growing business will be carried on with the greatest possible degree of efficiency.

It was the first vaudeville performance the old colored lady had ever seen, and she was particularly excited over the marvellous feats of the magician. But when he covered a newspaper with a heavy flannel cloth and read the print through it, she grew a little nervous. He then doubled the cloth and again read the letters accurately.

This was more than she could stand, and rising in her seat, she said:

"I'm goin' home. This ain't no place for a lady in a thin calico dress!"

DISEASE COMES THROUGH THE BLOOD

To Cure Common Ailments the Blood Must be Made Rich and Red

Nearly all the common diseases that afflict mankind are caused by bad blood-weak, watery blood poisoned by impurities. Bad blood is the cause of headaches and backaches, lumbago and rheumatism, debility and indigestion, neuralgia, sciatica and other nerve troubles. It is bad blood that causes disfiguring skin diseases like eczema, and salt rheum, pimples and eruptions. The severity of the trouble indicates how impure the blood is, and it goes always from bad to worse unless steps are promptly taken to enrich and purify the blood. There is no use trying a different medicine for each disease, for they all come through the one trouble—bad blood. To cure any of these troubles you must get right down to the root of the trouble in the blood. That is just what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do. They make new, rich red blood. They simply purify and enrich the blood, and the disease disappears. That is why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured thousands of cases after other medicines had failed. Here is proof of the power of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to cure. Mrs. M. Stills, who resides near the town of Napanee, says: I cannot praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills too highly. I was very much run down in health, suffered from frequent spells of indigestion, biliousness, and sick headache. I had an almost constant pain in my head and my housework was a source of dread. In fact I felt so miserable that life held but little enjoyment. I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which I did, and the result was simply marvellous, and can best be summed up by saying that they made me feel like a new woman, and fully restored my health. I would advise every woman and girl who has poor blood, or is run down in health to give these wonderful pills a trial. I am never without them in the house.

At the first sign that the blood is out of order take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and note the speedy improvement they make in the appetite, health and spirits. You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CAMPAIGN OF FRIGHTFULNESS HAS NO TERRORS FOR BRITISH MARINE

IS VERY DISCONCERTING TO HUN CALCULATIONS

The Trouble is Not That the British Sailor is Alarmed, but That He is Too Careless and Contemptuous of the Risks Occasioned by Submarine Depredations

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, former president of the United States, was right when he said, as reported: "If the Hun has any notion that he'll frighten the British seaman off the waters by his frightfulness he has another think coming." The trouble doesn't seem to be that the British marine is too cautious and self-calculating in dealing with Teuton U-boat frightfulness, but that he is too careless and contemptuous. It has been necessary for the admiralty to issue during the past few days an official warning to the effect that several vessels have been torpedoed by reason of failure to screen their lights when passing through the danger zone at night. A special observation showed that only one out of eight ships passing a given point obeyed the order to darken their signals.

Of course this is serious and foolhardy conduct, and very reprehensible at a time when shortage in ships is most acute. But the daring disobedience must be disconcerting to the calculations of the Hun. He estimated the character of the British seaman by Teutonic standards. He figured on success through fear and frightfulness. By sinking their ships and displaying deviltry toward seamen and passengers, including women and children, he imagined Britain would soon find herself unable to secure men to sail her vessels. He boasted that he would bring her "to her knees"—and set feverishly about his fiendish job.

Kaiserism is learning the dauntless character of Britons. After months of ruthless operation of the underseas menace, after more than twelve hundred merchant vessels have been sunk within a year, the Hun finds that instead of having frightened his unflinching enemy from the sea it is necessary for his foe to issue specific warnings against the careless contempt in which British seamen hold his treacherous submarines. The spirit of the sea-grit Isles finds expression not alone on the fields of France and Flanders, and in the Far East, but in the silent, effective service of the fisher folk, whose trawlers are forever picking up mines and gathering in submarines, the scions of Drake and Nelson ceaselessly patrolling the waters, and the men who go down to the sea in unprotected merchant vessels and liners against the unseen and lurking danger. When this spirit is broken Britain may be beaten. But the Teuton knows now that he cannot break it. —Toronto Globe.

In a time needing food economy many people are not getting all the nourishment they might from their food. It is not how much you eat, but how much you assimilate, that does you good.

The addition of a small teaspoonful of Bovril to the diet as a peptogenic before meals leads to more thorough digestion and assimilation and thus saves food, for you need less.

Betrayed by Slang

Spy Gave Wrong Answer to Question Couched in Slang

Civilization will become a myth like the lost Atlantis if another war, waged more scientifically and more diabolically than this one, is ever allowed to occur, said John Masefield in an address at Acolian Hall. His subject was "The War and the Future." He told of war incidents "which have come under my eyes or have happened to friends of mine," and he touched on the end of all wars, which he earnestly believes must result from this one.

"If two great nations—yours and mine—would agree to end war, it would be done," he said.

His stories made the war seem near and real, peopled by human beings. Incredibly neat was the self-betrayal of one spy at Gallipoli, who was unversed in the intricacies of English idiom. "It was the day after the landing, April 26," he said, "and an Australian captain was up the hill at Anzac. And an Australian major came to him and said, 'Don't let your men fire to their front for the next half hour, because an Indian working party has just gone up and might be hit.' And the captain thought this odd, as he had seen no Indian working party. The major had the number 31 on his shoulder strap, and the captain thought this odd, as only eighteen battalions, from 1 to 18, had landed. And he said to the major, 'I say, are you fair dinkum?' (which means, Mr. Masefield translated, straight goods, on the level). And the major said, 'Yes, I'm Major Fairdinkum.' So they shot him for a spy, and it seems he had taken the number 13 from a dead man and twisted it around, which was unwise of him."

And Mr. Masefield told little incidents of everyday life and of the nerve and verve and general gaiety of the men who fight the war.

"General Birdwood had charge of the Australians," he said, "and the men called him Birdie and worshipped him. He was a bright little man and greatly loved. He was given to talking to every one, and every man on the peninsula believed that Birdie knew him by name. One day he was walking along the trenches and looking into the dugouts and chaffing the men. It was very hot and there was scarcely any water. And he saw a soldier washing in a cup as big as a finger-bowl. And he said, 'Hullo, having a good washup? And the man answered, 'Yes, general, and I only wish I was a bally canary.'"

German Troops Buy Furloughs

Holding of Old Men in Trenches Hotly Protested by Socialists

The Berlin Socialist newspaper, Vorwaerts reports a debate in the Reichstag during which strong complaints were made against the treatment given the older classes of German soldiers. Herr Stuecklen, a Socialist member, said the government had no intention of releasing the older military classes. He criticised the fact that in the landstrum men 48 years of age still were being kept in the trenches, despite the order that they be taken out of the firing line.

In consequence of the arbitrary procedure of officers regarding furloughs, added Herr Stuecklen, increasing numbers of soldiers had taken their own furloughs and were now undergoing imprisonment for desertion.

Herr Mueller-Meiningen, the radical leader, said that 10,000 of the older men were still in the firing line. The pretext that there were no reserves to replace such men were scouted by Herr Ryssel, a Socialist.

"It would only be necessary," he remarked, "to request all the pan-German braggarts, who thank God the war is not yet ended, to volunteer. The feeling at the front is not enthusiastic, and this is not surprising in view of the treatment the soldiers are getting."

Criticising the food of the soldiers, Herr Ryssel declared there were units in the army called "hunger companies," and he remarked that a furlough could be bought by subscribing to the war loan. He ended by demanding the appointment of a commission of inquiry to examine into the sentences passed by military tribunals.

General Scheuch denied that men had been called up because of their allegiance to a political party. He added, however: "We certainly call up those who prove to be agitators."

Free Men for Farm Work

The Canada food board is preparing plans for the mobilization of labor for spring seeding operations. Men familiar with handling horses will be specially needed and it is essential that they be secured to work on the land. For this reason employers of such labor, in urban centres, will be well advised to consider the adoption of co-operative methods of delivery in order to free the men capable of driving horses and especially those with farm experience.

MILITARY SUCCESSES OF ENEMY WILL ONLY PROLONG THE WAR

NO PEACE WHILE SPIRIT OF CONQUEST ENDURES

Interest in the War by People of Germany is Maintained by Occasional Spectacular Achievements in the Field, and Crushing Defeat is the Only Way to Bring Peace

The greater the German success on the battlefield, said Arthur Henderson in a recent speech, the more remote was world peace. He accepts the view that there can be no peace until Germany abandons her policy of conquest and military domination; successes, by encouraging the German people to believe in military piracy as a profitable business undertaking, tend to postpone the time when this will be the view of the German people.

Mr. Henderson, whose position is becoming more assured as the leader of allied Labor and Socialist forces in Great Britain, has clear ideas of what is necessary to safe-guard the world against a renewal of a world-wide war. He wants a league of nations, the complete democratization of the machinery of government in all countries, limitation of armaments, and the abandonment of all plans of economic boycotting.

These are highly desirable ends; and Mr. Henderson has a clear idea how they can be obtained. The democratic peoples of the world, he says, can only sheathe the sword when the German people are able to induce "a change of mentality" in their leaders. He assumes, no doubt correctly, that only from the German people can come the impulses which will break the power of the war lords and fit Germany to belong to the proposed league of nations; but how are the German people to be brought to this frame of mind? The peace offensives carried on by Mr. Wilson, Mr. Henderson and others may help; but nothing but the actual demonstration by results that war is a huge and criminal blunder will complete their enlightenment.

There have been periods in this war when the German people appeared to be on the eve of disillusionment; but in each case they were enabled to recover their faith in the efficacy of the "German sword" by some spectacular achievement in the field. The crushing of Serbia in the fall of 1915; the overrunning of the larger part of Roumania in 1916; and the Italian successes in October, 1917, were all carefully staged for the encouragement of civilian faith in the army; and now there comes this unresisted advance into the heart of Russia which has, for the moment at any rate, renewed the original lust of the German people for the conquest of the world by the sword.

Until they learn the truth of Mr. Henderson's statement that such military successes as are within their power, merely prolong the war and postpone indefinitely the peace which they undoubtedly desire, they will consent to the Prussian program of rapine and piracy. They can only be taught by experience, which is a slow process. They will have to be convinced by the progress of events that the high hopes based upon their victories over the disorganized mobs of Russia were illusory.

This implies the continued vigorous, unrelenting conduct of the war—and this is the program favored by Mr. Henderson, who speaks for British Labor. Mr. Henderson's position is sounder than that of the Marquis of Lansdowne, who is obviously prepared to yield something to save the social order which means so much to him and his class. The one sure chance still left for the right ending of this war is in the rallying of all the forces of Labor throughout the allied world to the cause with a determination to see it through. It is becoming increasingly certain that this support will be forthcoming in ample volume.—Manitoba Free Press.

WHY MR. AND MRS. WEST RECOMMEND DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

They Cured Mr. West's Lumbago and Made Mrs. West Feel Like a New Person. They Are the Best Tonic.

St. James, Man. (Special).—That Dodd's Kidney Pills are living up to their great reputation in the West is twice proved by Mr. and Mrs. G. West, well known and highly respected residents of this place. Let Mrs. West tell the story of what the great Canadian kidney remedy has done for her husband and herself.

'My husband suffered from attacks of lumbago," she states, "and the doctor did him no good, but I can truthfully say that since using Dodd's Kidney Pills he is entirely free from lumbago.

"I myself took six boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and am just like a new person. I have gained 10 lbs. since using them and my friends compliment me on how well I look.

"I have recommended Dodd's Kidney Pills to some of my lady friends who were complaining of not feeling well, and they, like myself, speak highly of them."

Dodd's Kidney Pills cure the kidneys. Cured kidneys make pure blood. That is why Dodd's Kidney Pills are the best tonic.

THE PROPER WAY TO USE

COPENHAGEN

CHEWING TOBACCO

Copenhagen Chewing Tobacco is entirely different from the ordinary "plug" or 'fine cut".

It is made of the best, old, rich, high flavored tobacco.

Being in small grains, it imparts its strength and flavor more freely and fully than tobacco in the usual form.

For this reason, Copenhagen is not chewed, but is placed in the mouth between the lower lip and the gum.

A small pinch is all that is necessary to thoroughly satisfy, and those who are using "Copenhagen" for the first time should take care to use only a small pinch, otherwise "Copenhagen" will be thought to have too much tobacco strength.

"It's the most economical chew".

She is 52 feet over all, 8 ft. 10 in. beam, and has a 6 ft. hold, and is about 20 tons burthen. With the exception of the ribs, stem and stern post, which are of oak, she is built entirely of local grown timber, which was cut at Anderton's mill. She is equipped with a 20 h. p. heavy duty distilate-burning engine. The keel was laid on March 25th, and she was completed within 4 months by Mr. Hellen, a local boy, working alone the most of the time. She is also fitted with a three inch water tight bulk head. Mr. Hellen intends at some future date tobuild a larger boat for his own use.

There is no reason why a small freight boat locally owned should not be built for this district. At the present time it is impossible to get a freight boat to go up the Courtenay River, and it is well known that when the new railway freight rates come in-force they will make shipping alone prohibitive. There's plenty of good money in the district and it could earn good dividnds if put into a freight boat.
