PRESTON SAYS IT'S SO; DON'T BE SILLY, RETORTS MINISTER

McCLELLAND TO BE DUMPED?

By RUDY LANGMANN

MURRAYVILLE - Government officials in Victoria are prepared to sacrifice Bob McClelland.

That is the length the provincials would go to in order to support the Greater Vancouver regional district's push for a king-sized garbage dump in northwest Langley. Mayor George Preston says that is so. Victoria wants the dump in the Langley peat bog near the Edgewater Bar, and they want it badly. So badly, in fact, that if the expected political furore created by the proposed dump should cost the Socreds their Langley seat, so be it.

Last week Preston came out strongly in favor of the GVRD proposal which was sprung upon an unprepared council on September 18. He said the GVRD wanted it, and the provincials wanted it. If Langley didn't want it, they would get it anyway. Legislation or expropriation, whatever it would take, Langley would get it.

This week Preston was away in Alberta, but before he left Langley city he told dumbfounded council members in a closed cabinet meeting that Victoria would offer McClelland, minister of mines, energy and petroleum resources, as a sacrificial lamb, if need be.

Preston received a lot of flack, in absentia, this week. Not only from Fort Langley area residents (see Town Talk column) but also from his own councilors who have been accusing him of making secret sweetheart deals with North Vancouver mayor Jack Loucks who doubles as chairman of the Greater Vancouver regional district's sewerage and drainage department.

"Just how long has this man (Preston) been negotiating with the GVRD?" Ald. Ian Strachan demanded to know this week. "It is unfortunate this council didn't get involved."

The GVRD has prepared a $1/2 million study and received the blessings for the Landfills offensive? Not necessarily...

ALDERGROVE - A bound nine-page brief prepared by the Greater Vancouver sewerage and drainage district and entitled "Proposed plans for a refuse landfill in the Langley peat bog" has caused an uproar in Langley district council and seriously upset residents in the Fort Langley - northwest Langley area.

Document, still classified confidential, was presented to mayor and council in Murrayville on September 18.

Aldermen all claim that this was the first they knew of the GVRD garbage dump proposal.

Mayor George Preston, they claim, obviously must have negotiated the plans with GVRD for some time.

In the brief, commissioner D.L. MacKay says that "the (regional) district accepts the fact that establishing a landfill operation, in any location, is a sensitive matter primarily because of unfavorable experiences of the past. However, there is a great difference between a garbage dump and a properly designed and operated sanitary landfill."

It then goes on to tell how 500 people recently picnicked at a local landfill operation in Portland, Oregon.

"With proper controls," it continues further on, "landfill operations need not be offensive to the nose or the eye. They can be attractively landscaped and screened, odors and birds can be controlled."

It talks about a pre-determined master plan," and of how 680 acres now partially in cranberries would be turned into a garbage dump to serve the Greater Vancouver metropolitan area for 15 or 20 years to come.

Volume-wise, the new dump would see about 60 deliveries by semi-trailer bulk haulers and container collection vehicles daily. 200,000 short tons of refuse would be the annual capacity during initial years of operation.

Environmental issues such as leachate, odor and scavenger birds would be kept under control, the report says, without specifying details as to how this would be achieved.

GVRD officials anticipate to commence site preparation in early 1982 for deliveries later next year.

When a similar proposal was made some time ago for the Tynehead area of Surrey it was shot down by residents of that community who turned out in droves at a public hearing. GVRD withdrew their proposal at that time.

Tell us the cost, Brooks suggests

ALDERGROVE - "While on the subject of taxes, be sure to publish all the figures on the cost of the proposed swimming pool," a former alderman urged of the present council this week.

"The people who are worried about losing their homes because of increased mortgage costs will be delighted to know how much it will cost them to pay off the mortgage on the pool on top of the cost of operating it," a letter from Aldergrove resident Art Brooks read.

Councilors are preparing a money referendum on the proposed pool, to be presented to the voters at the November 12 civic elections.

Capital investment as well as operational costs will have to be borne not only by Langley property owners, but also by tenants whose rents are likely to get another notch in an upward direction for taxes are to increase significanly.

Town Talk

By RICK McILWAIN

With the current uproar over a proposed garbage dump for Vancouver being located in Fort Langley it seemed only fitting to ask some of the Fort's residents how they felt about it.

JOE GABRIEL

There aren't many more beautiful places than Fort Langley. Especially with the historical value and the effort that's gone into preserving our history, the Fort should be shown more respect than to suggest locating a garbage dump here. Many people come from afar to enjoy our area. Who wants to travel any distance to see garbage dumps and seagulls by the thousands.

A council that would suggest the questionable powerline could be run through our reserve, well what can you expect other than to get a suggestion they locate a garbage dump in our backyard? Let them locate it in Murrayville if they want it so bad.

Who needs a garbage dump leaching into an already badly polluted river? We are trying to clean up the river, not kill it for all time.

Where are they going to get all their landfill if they should be crazy enough to go ahead with this scheme? The handiest source of sand would be to dredge Edgewater Bar. Why not? They haven't shown too many smarts so far.

DR. MIKE NEILSON

I can't see any other reason for council to even consider the garbage dump unless there have been some trade-offs offered by GVRD.

Because of the area's close proximity to the river it gives an extremely hazardous location for leaching into an already troubled river.

Also Fort Langley is an unique village in its being the original capital of B.C. The historic value of the area is already established, but now no one can rest. Constant moves are being made by various forces to destroy our area. Hydro power lines, railway spur lines, commercial restaurants in a residential area, and now a garbage dump. Next will be a bridge crossing to possibly destroy the area. It's almost like the powers that be have it in for Fort Langley. Either we are going to be an historic area or we are going to be bulldozed over into commercial-industrial sites. One or the other.

With the election coming up in November, I would think that if they wish to remain in office they'll have little choice but to turn it down flat.

Depending on council's handling of this garbage dump, even the fact they are considering the dump is going to show itself when I go to the polls.

GORDON SMITH

Basically we have to know more about something like this. I'm against a garbage dump, but who isn't? The possibility of leaching into the river is my main concern.

The in-camera handling of something of this magnitude is uncalled for. The council is elected to protect our interests, but should keep it out in the open. This handling of the garbage dump proposal adds fuel to our local feeling for a ward system. We need representation in Murrayville that will look after Fort Langley.

With the municipal elections coming up, this whole deal is bound to become a major issue. Our mayor may be going back to car sales full time if some things don't change quickly.

Sunday shopping to be decided

MURRAYVILLE - When Langley district voters go to the polls on November 12 they will be handed a special ballot which asks "...are you in favor of the township of Langley bylaw no. 2067?... which in summary would permit all retail businesses to carry on business on a Sunday and any other holiday as defined by the 'holiday shopping regulation act'...yes or no...please mark with an 'X' with pencil provided."

'Pay its own way' just costs too much

MURRAYVILLE - The day may come when there will be toll booths at the entrances to all community playgrounds, parks, tennis courts, ball diamonds and soccer pitches in Langley.

It makes but little sense, according to Ald. Ian Strachan that residents and visitors alike have the use of these public facilities for free at the same time as local officials are determined to make such as ice arenas pay completely for themselves.

"When it comes to hockey, we try to make it completely pay for itself," he told fellow councilors and an Aldergrove delegate Monday afternoon.

Jack Howard, representing the Aldergrove Minor Hockey Association, agreed that if council's aim was to make money, then they could "just kick out the kids" who use the Aldergrove arena.

Howard came before council to complain about recently announced ice time rental increases.

Langley, he said, led the parade among lower mainland communities insofar as top rates were concerned. Not anywhere, in Matsqui, Chilliwack, Surrey, Delta, Richmond, White Rock, Mission or Maple Ridge, did the municipal owners charge anywhere near what they do in Langley, Howard said. "Langley's rates are the highest in the valley."

To add insult to injury, Howard said, the recently announced rate increase of about 33 percent came in the middle of the user organizations' fiscal year. None of the sports groups, minor hockey, ringette, or juniors figure skating could increase their revenue to offset the added cost at this late date in the season, he said.

Howard said the new hourly user rates of $65 for prime time and $45 for non-prime time would mean the minor hockey association would have to come up with an extra $20 for each of the 320 boys enrolled in the Aldergrove sports club.

Because of the lateness in announcing the rate increase, councilors promised to forward the story of the plight of the three children's sports groups to the arena committee for a possible recommendation that the local government's subsidy to the clubs be adjusted to offset the rate hike. They also agreed that future rate increases should be announced to coincide with the groups' budgeting time in early spring.

"The eastern part of Langley is not the most prosperous," Howard reminded councilors urging that they

Irate mortgage payers to gather soon for fight

ALDERGROVE - Local bookkeeper Terry McKinnon has been identified as the public liaison officer for a new organization of people with huge mortgage payments.

McKinnon will be looking after the public image of the Ad Hoc Committee Against Increasing Mortgage Rates.

The new committee is the latest in a large number of such groups forming across the country with one thing in common - an intense anger over interest rates.

The most famous of these groups recently staged a large scale protest on the lawns of the parliament buildings at the nation's capital.

In her first release to the press, McKinnon told the story of the Vanderkooi family of Richmond. Hedzer Vanderkooi and his wife Marja are business people who own a driving school in Langley. Both of them work and have a respectable middle class income, but as is the case with most middle class people in Canada, their income is barely enough to keep their home solvent.

With latest mortgage rate increases, the Vanderkooi's are paying $1,700 a month for their mortgage on a home that is not selling for an asking price of under $90,000.

In a phrase reminiscent of the mad newsman in the film Network, McKinnon said in the release that her committee members are, "Mad as hell, and we're not going to take it anymore."

Apart from protesting through media and sharing their troubles in group gatherings, it is hard to say what the new group can actually do to effect the mortgage rates. It is hoped that some explicit course of action will emerge during a special meeting slated for 7:30 p.m., October 8, at North Surrey senior secondary school (15945-96 Avenue).

At that meeting the committee will discuss their feelings with local MP Bob Wenman (ProCon). Federal housing minister Paul Cosgrove has also been invited to attend, but no confirmation has been received from his office.

Interested home buyers who are either experiencing difficulties due to high mortgage rates, or are expecting to experience them in the near future, are invited to attend the Surrey meeting.

It is also open to those legions of people who have simply given up any hope of ever owning a roof in Canada.

McKinnon can be contacted for further information at 856-8111.

New policy would lock farmer in

By IAN CAMERON

MURRAYVILLE - The skirmish between land owners and city dwellers has been intensifying in recent years.

It all began with the introduction of the agricultural land reserve and the B.C. land commission in 1973. New Democrat socialists had vowed to do their best to preserve B.C.'s farm lands, and when they attained office in 1972 they hastily prepared their masterplan for what was supposedly to become an agrarian socialist state. It did not turn out the expected Utopia, of course.

For city slickers it was okay, mind you. When you live in the east end of Vancouver, the effective freezing of acreages in the Fraser Valley or in the interior of B.C. means little. The attending hardships do not concern you, even if you are aware of what they consist.

As farmers were soon to find out, however, the NDP land legislation was the cause of more than its share of heartache. While an artificially created scarcity of land drove property values for speculative purposes through the ceiling, and while property taxes rose faster than a helium-filled balloon, farmers were all of a sudden unable to sell, unable to retire, and unable even to turn their properties over to their sons.

The bitterness against the "Marxist policies" of the NDP and their inheritors, Bill Bennett's Social Creditors, was ripe among land owners.

But it was only the first step toward final government ownership of all lands, according to councilmen here.

Returning from the annual Union of B.C. Municipalities convention last week, acting mayor Ald. Bill Blair said a resolution presented with only a modicum of fanfare was "one of the most important motions ever to come up" before the UBCM delegates.

Resolution, from Kent municipality would make it impossible for a farmer to sell his agricultural reserve land other than "en bloc" even if it was already subdivided into smaller parcels.

Blair, himself a farmer in Langley, said the resolution was presented on the last day of the convention at a time when most delegates had left, and that it had just been slipped into the delegates information package at the last possible moment.

"If adopted, it would completely take the value out of indefeasible land title," he said.

Ald. Ian Strachan agreed that once again the city dwellers were likely to be in complete agreement. "But if it happened to them, then it would be a different story," he added. "It is just one more way of 'preserving' farm land."

Strachan, too, is a Langley farmer.

Resolution was considered by the UBCM, Blair said.

dump facility from pollution control officials.

Strachan said it was unfortunate they mayor had chosen to go away when he was about to be censured by his council. "He can't do business on our behalf," the upset alderman said. "And for the mayor to even suggest the provincial government would relinquish this riding is ridiculous."

Strachan, however, termed the GVRD a "juggernaut" and thanked the press for breaking the recent news story, at a time when the mayor still wanted to confine council discussions on the subject to the top secret cabinet level. "The press helped us a lot in getting it out to the citizens," Strachan said.

The alderman also had an answer to Preston's claim that Langley would have no place to dump its own refuse within five years. "Even if we grow to 150,000 souls, we'll have enough (potential) garbage lands to last us for in excess of 100 years," he said. Langley's population at the present time is about 45,000 people.

Acting mayor, Ald. Bill Blair, said Langley is "absolutely and unalterably opposed to any GVRD garbage in Langley."

Preston was unavailable for comment, but when The Star contacted Bob McClelland's local constituency office for comment, his secretary, Carol Gran, was flabbergasted. She referred the issue to McClelland, who simply had this to say: "It is one of the silliest things I've ever heard."

McClelland said he had just learned about the GVRD garbage proposal himself this week, and a check with the environment ministry verified that they knew nothing about it either. If leaching from the proposed landfill operation into the Fraser River should prove an environmental hazard, McClelland said, then he felt sure Stephen Rogers environment ministry would quash the proposal.

The local MLA said he personally was most concerned about this possibility of pollution of the river.

Delta combat vandals with patrols

NORTH DELTA - This part of Delta is having a problem with vandals, and as a result a system of volunteer patrols is being established.

Groups of about four residents will patrol problem areas at night.

This patrol system is said to have had a dramatic affect on vandalism in other parts of Delta and Tsawwassen.

Vandalism continues to plague police in this area, although serious incidents involving main street premises have reduced since a similar patrol system was suggested by a local insurance agent.

The patrols in North Delta are carrying cb radios that put them in direct touch with police in the event of a vandalism incident being spotted.

Funds were supplied by the Optimist's Club in Delta.

CHILDREN FORCED TO DISROBE

Students warned to avoid strangers

ALDERGROVE - Elementary schools in this area recently sent a notice home with their students, warning that two girls in grade six and seven had been molested the day before.

The notice went home on September 23, explaining that the two young girls had been forced into a bushed area and instructed to partially disrobe.

Neither child was physically hurt, especially as the approach of other students scared the assaillant off. But both were shaken up, and school officials hoped the notice to parents would prevent the same thing from happening again.

"We believe the RCMP are doing everything they can to apprehend the person, but an arrest has not yet been made," the notice stated.

Meanwhile, the notice reprinted a list of 19 safety points for walking children, supplied by the RCMP detachment. It requested that parents review the list with their youngsters.

The following is the list of 19 points, printed here as a reminder for those who have not yet explained them to their offspring.

Between home and school:

1. Walk to and from school with brothers, sisters or friends.

2. Always take the same route to and from school.

3. If you are going to a friend's house make sure your parents or babysitter know where you are.

Strangers:

4. Never accept rides from strangers.

5. Never accept candy or toys from strangers.

6. Never get into a stranger's vehicle such as a van or camper, etc. even if the stranger says he wants to show you something. (i.e. puppies or kittens)

7. Never go for a walk with a stranger.

8. If a stranger approaches you stand a distance from him/her while they are talking to you. Run to a Block Parent, home, friend's house or the police and tell someone what happened.

9. If a stranger does approach you in a car, try to write down the licence number of the vehicle. (i.e in the sand; with a crayon on the sidewalk)

10. If approached on foot, run to a safe place. Try to remember what the person looked like.

11. Stop your friends from going with strangers. Strangers should never touch you.

12. Always tell your parents or babysitter as soon as possible if you are approached by a stranger. Don't wait a few days.

13. Don't play near bushy areas. Play near the schools, with a group of children. Avoid playing alone in the parks or school yard.

14. If you are delivering papers or selling tickets, etc., don't go into the peoples' homes. Stay outside.

15. If the home gives you an uneasy feeling don't even go to the door.

16. If you are home by yourself, don't let strangers in - even repairmen. Check with your parents.

17. Don't offer any information to strangers, i.e., where your parents are, etc.

18. If you are at the movies and a stranger sits beside you and begins to touch you, get up and go and tell the theatre manager.

19. If you answer the phone, never say your parents aren't home.

ROTARY GUEST SPEAKER

Canadian dream destroyed

LANGLEY - Speaking to a meeting of the Langley Central Rotary club last week, Robert Wenman, MP (ProCon - Fraser Valley West) said "The Canadian dream and reality of adequate and affordable housing has been destroyed! The cost-benefit ratio is now too high - not only the economic costs but equally the social costs are intolerable."

Wenman said, "Both parents and family are being forced to take second and third jobs to hold onto their houses, and the process is causing exhaustion, frustration, broken family structures and a sense of hopelessness, all of which erode the basic fabric of our society."

Wenman proposed the following solutions:

Mortgage interest be made a tax deduction.

Mortgages be extended to 30-35 year terms.

Banks, trust companies, pension funds, and other lending institutions be required to maintain a high percentage of their investment portfolio in mortgages at rates perhaps 5 percent lower than the prime rate of the Bank of Canada.

Upward limits be placed on mortgage interest upon renewal.

Blair to contest mayoral seat

MURRAYVILLE - Ald. Bill Blair, a veteran on Langley district council, this week quit his seat on council.

Blair, contacted at his home in Langley last night, confirmed that he intends to seek the mayor's seat in the November 12 civic elections.

Blair, who has been acting mayor for mayor George Preston during the past two years, said he had nothing against Preston. "He's a personable fellow," Blair said.

Preston's opponent in the upcoming election campaign said that it would be a clean fight, and when elected he would work on "bringing together council as one working unit".

Sidewalk requested

MURRAYVILLE - Residents of the Brown Road area north of the Fraser Highway have asked council to build a sidewalk on 240 Street between 48 Avenue and 56 Avenue.

This stretch of Brown Road is unsafe for school children, Marg Creech of 24061 - 55 Avenue told council Monday afternoon.

There are about 35 children walking this road back and forth to Peterson Road elementary school every day, Creech said. They used to be bused every day.

Councilors referred the request to their own public works committee for consideration.

Billed for loss of interest

MURRAYVILLE - The city of Langley has sent a bill to the provincial government in Victoria asking compensation for interest lost due to late return to the civic government of their share in the home owners grants.

"I recommend we do the same," Ald. Muriel Arnason urged of council Monday afternoon.

According to Ald. Ian Strachan the lost bank interest amounts to "hundreds of thousands of dollars."

LOCAL MAN KILLED IN AUTO PILE UP

NEW WESTMINSTER - An Aldergrove man was killed early Sunday morning when the car he was riding in left the road.

Terry F. Kenis, 26, of 29 Avenue in Aldergrove was pronounced dead on arrival at Royal Columbian hospital.

Mark Beaudry and John Ethier, also riding in the car were treated in hospital for injuries and later released.

The accident took place at about 3:00 a.m. on Crescent Road in Surrey.

attempt to hold future annual increases to 10 percent or less.

Maxine Hall, the president of the Aldergrove Figure Skating Club, says the increase will cause a deficit of $2,400 to her group during the current season. "As we are such a small club," she says, "we find it very difficult to raise such a large amount of money through fund raising."

Strachan said it was unrealistic that some sports, such as junior soccer and little league baseball not be expected to pay for the use of park lands while those utilizing ice arenas be expected to pay as if the facility was a private profit-oriented business.

"The reason we get saddled with providing public facilities is because they're not money-making facilities in the first instance," he said.

UIC is senseless

By W. ROGER WORTH

As it is presently operated, Canada's unemployment insurance system doesn't make a great deal of sense.

Consider what's happening.

As the country's jobless rate continues to surpass seven percent, a lot of employers are having a great deal of difficulty finding workers, particularly skilled trades people.

One of the reasons; many unemployed individuals are prepared to sit tight, collecting as much as $189 per week in unemployment benefits, rather than accepting a job.

It's true, the available positions may require individuals to move, but then, government programs are available to finance such activities.

John Bulloch, president of the 62-thousand Canadian Federation of Independent Business, says that what really irritates employers is the fact that they pay a major share of the cash used to finance the system, yet it appears to work against them by providing an incentive for workers to remain on the dole until benefits run out.

And there is little question the program - which will cost several billions worth of taxpayer dollars this year - is extremely generous.

In a supposedly socialist country such as West German, for instance, workers can collect no more than one week's jobless benefits for every two weeks worked.

In Canada, on the other hand, individuals can collect as much as four weeks benefits for every week worked, which at the top rate of $189 per week is not chickenfeed.

And that's just one example.

The basic problem, of course, is that our unemployment insurance program has been downgraded to the point where it has little to do with insurance. Instead, it is a sort of social welfare program.

So there's little wonder Ottawa is taking a long, hard look at the system. With the federal government in debt to the tune of $90 billion (and rising), the need to seriously consider major changes is clear.

"IT'S BORING," SAYS STUDENT

Employment skills course for women only

By GARY CHAMBERS

LANGLEY CITY - Kwantlen College, a community college with a small campus on Glover Road, has begun offering classes for unemployed women. The course is supposed to prepare the ladies for the work force, but there are conflicting reports on its effectiveness.

A student who is being forced to take the course by her local welfare office, says she is learning nothing.

The young woman, who refused to be identified, said the course is a waste of time and money.

"It's boring ... they just tell us not to let men walk on us and stuff like that ... I'm really not learning anything."

Steve Bridges, a field worker with the Aldergrove human resources office, said the course is supposed to acclimatize women for work. Some of his charges have never worked, while others have been out of the work force for extended lenghts of time. The course is designed to put the women in a working frame of mind.

Sheila Powell, of manpower and unemployment in Langley, agreed that the course is being paid for by the government in hopes that welfare and unemployment insurance recipients can be returned to the work force.

She said the cost of the course is split between the human resources and unemployment departments.

Powell also stated that women who take the classes are given an opportunity to develop greater confidence in themselves and become better adjusted.

In attempt to gain a clear understanding of the course content, The Star contacted Ann Blake, who has just been hired to teach one of the classes.

When confronted with the anonymous student's complaints, Blake said the course content may vary depending on the instructor. In her own case, she tries not to turn the classes into formal therapy sessions. She said the students she is receiving do not need sympathy and empathy, but simply need to be directed towards conventional working principles.

"I'm not teaching assertiveness so women can be assertive. I'm teaching assertiveness so women can survive ... what they need is survival skills out there in the rough (workplace)," said Blake.

The instructor declared that she does not want her students to see the classes as "another comfortable place" they have to break away from. She wants them to start planning ahead, and to get used to rising early in the morning.

The only thing Blake does that could be interpreted as pampering her students, reflects her desire to build their self esteem.

She pointed out that sometimes a boss can be grouchy. While this is no problem for an experienced worker, it can deflate the self image of a new employee.

"If you relate your self esteem to how he feels about you ... it will interfere with how you function," she stated.

For that reason, Blake tries to help her students feel good about themselves.

She said most of the women in her class have one major problem, and it is economic. The average income for a woman in Canada is $8,000 a year, and if that were not the case, the problem of women on welfare and u.i.c. would be greatly reduced.

"Most of them would function quite well if they didn't have economic hassles," Blake said.

Learn to manage your money

By RHODY LAKE

MURRAYVILLE - Pat Mugridge is teaching women basic economics in a one-day workshop called "Money management for women" in Langley secondary school this Saturday. The seminar, starting at 9 a.m. and finishing at 4, will focus on the money problems women usually face, including personal record keeping, banking, income tax, how to make credit work for you and investing for fun and profit.

"The old assumption has been," says Mugridge, "that men understand finances and women don't. That's not true. Women have just never been taught.

"Statistics show that women make most of the day-to-day spending decisions and a lot of major ones, too."

She says that increasingly women are finding themselves on their own and are in positions of being responsible for large sums of money. This course is for them as well as for women who are handling a household budget for a family.

Mugridge is a graduate in economics and business management at the University of British Columbia and has taught accounting at UBC and Simon Fraser University. She is presently teaching economics at Kwantlen College and is an accounting tutor at the "Open Learning Institute", a new provincial institute that serves the province with correspondence and telephone tutoring.

This is a course of interest to today's women and anyone interested should enroll now. Thursday, October 1 is the last day for registration. Lunch will be provided in the school cafeteria, inclusive in the class fee.

Check your Langley Continuing Education flyer for further details of this and other Saturday courses offered this week. Amongst them is a "Solar greenhouse workshop" conducted by Chris Mattock of Solar Applications and Research Limited, one of the leading solar designers and consultants in the lower mainland. Learn how to produce fresh vegetables eleven months of the year and make a real contribution to your home heating at the same time.

My first drunk

By BILL CLARK

Today's little story will reveal the first time I ever got gloriously drunk. It's a gentle story, but there will be inevitably those among the readers who will sniff and droplet from their long, thin noses and write the Editor, piosly and pumpously chewing me out. On the other hand, there are those who enjoy a story with compassion and warmth. It is for them I write ...

***

Eastward from Kamloops, in British Columbia, are endless miles of wasteland inhabited mainly by sagebrush and prairie dogs. It is a fragment of Canada specially imported from Hell. In summer it is hotter than the hinges of Hades, relieved only by alkali-encrusted potholes.

A railroad winds alongside the Thompson River, which heads seaward in a canyon a hundred feet below. A lonely wind whines through the telegraph wires beside the railway. It has the banshee moan of a lost soul, seeking Paradise...and if you listen long enough a sense of eerie loneliness will send you screaming into the wilderness.

Into this nightmare from Hades I was dumped at dawn, on a day more than forty years ago, when the sun had just risen to blister the sagebrush and to wake the dust devils that swirled past prairie dog holes.

My companions were a shovel; a pick; a long steel bar that weighed a ton and a contraption called a "Spoon" - which was a scoop-shaped gismo on a ten-foot hickory shaft. With these instruments of torture I was supposed to dig six-foot holes for telegraph poles, in clay as hard as a mother-in-law's heart. Today's kids who want the easy buck may meditate that a day was ten ungodly hours, for which the pay was 22 1/2 cents per hour. Board and room consisted of a blanket and a bunk in an ancient coach on the railroad siding, while meals came from a cook car where ice was unknown and the meat often moved across the table under its own power!

For these simple luxuries there was a pay cheque deduction of one dollar. Simple mathematics reveals that ten backbreaking hours resulted in the princely sum of one dollar and twenty five cents! - but let's return to a gentle story:

The gas-powered gang car rattled onward, dropping another kid every few miles. It would not return until nightfall - and they had forgotten to leave me a water keg!

By noon I was encrusted with sweat and alkali dust and I had a thirst beyond belief! I headed across the tracks to an ancient house, perched on the cliff overlooking the river. It was the only human habitation for miles. I knocked on the door and a small voice answered. A tiny, whispering voice like the cracking of ancient eggshells. I asked for water and small wisp of an woman handed me a pitcher and I held her hand down creaking stairs into a cool, earthen basement. We filled the pitcher with cold cider from the spigot on a cask festooned with cobwebs and then she struggled upward to the kitchen, where we talked of this and that over the oilcloth on the kitchen table while a quart of honest cider sizzled into my parched gizzard.

I asked her how she managed, all alone, and she spoke of section hands on the railroad and the rural postman. They brought groceries once in a while and spoke a kindly word - but most of all, there was Fred.

"Who is Fred?", I asked.

"He is with me always", she answered, with a wild and elfin look in her old eyes.

... and so I left the house and tottered into the white-hot sun which left me stretched in the shade of a telegraph pole, where the foreman found me, hours later, happily suffering the impact of a quart of honest cider.

Forty years later I remembered the blurred snapshot framed on the mantelpiece. There were men in ancient army uniforms and a tiny black bow was pinned to the frame and across the faded picture were some words:

"I am with you always -- Fred."

Single parents will be scapegoats

VICTORIA - Approximately 30,000 single parent families will be "profoundly affected" by provincial government policy changes affecting welfare applicants in British Columbia, according to two UVic professors of social work.

Single parents will be "scapegoated" by new policies relating to the definition of employabililty under the guaranteed annual income for need (GAIN) act, say professors Marjorie Martin and Marilyn Callahan.

The policy they criticize, scheduled to become effective Oct. 1, states that, a single parent with one child six months or older or two children, one of whom is over 12, will now be considered available for work and expected to find a job.

Specific time limits (four months) will be placed on the length of time that such single parents can qualify for assistance. After this they must reapply for welfare and produce evidence of seeking employment.

Martin and Callahan have responded to the announcement of the new policy with a paper entitled Poverty, Parenting and Politics, in which they state:

"Getting the single parent on welfare into the work force is presented by the minister of human resources as a feasible thing to do ... Well, we are not persuaded that this will be an easy task, nor even that it is the best approach for all families. Moreover we're not convinced that the ramifications of this policy have been analysed to ensure that the solution doesn't become more problematic than the problem."

Martin and Callahan cite and analyse various difficulties they foresee facing single parents obliged by the new policy to look for work, including shortages of adequately-paid jobs, child care, transportation, and education upgrading for employment.

They note that women will be affected by an unemployment rate averaging 8.5 percent, compared to 5.7 percent for men, and inadequate wages. According to a recent study, women wage earners in Canada average 58 cents for every dollar earned by men, they point out.

If they find a job, many single parents will qualify for only a minimum wage which, at 37 hours weekly, totals $540 gross per month, say the authors.

They produce statistics from the United Way of Vancouver in December 1979, updated with a 13 percent increase for inflation, to show that minimum monthly basic expenses for a mother and one child are $613. "These monthly expenses do not include day care costs which can be $120 per child per month maximum, (after subsidy) according to the human resources day care officials."

The number of children in welfare families is 59,570 and probably two thirds of these would require day care under the new policy, state Martin and Callahan.

But "all types of day care are singularly inadequate in B.C." say the social workers. It is "almost impossible" to find any day care for a child under three in Victoria and there is only one child care space for every 18.08 children up to age nine throughout B.C., according to a Vancouver United Way day care study.

"Clearly a massive increase in child care services is needed if single parent mothers are to realistically look at salaried employment. The recent announcement of an additional three quarters of a million dollars in start-up grants for day care centres is only less than four percent of the present annual day care budget and does not address the chronic funding problems faced by day care operators; soaring cost of building purchase or rent, and salary increases. Most particularly it does not address the problem for families who receive less subsidy from human resources than the actual cost of their day care."

Transportation is another factor which could adversely affect the situations of welfare mothers obliged to seek work, suggest Martin and Callahan. "It is unlikely that the low income mother can afford a reliable car. Bus transportation in the city is feasible although the parent may face four more fares daily if her day care arrangement is in a different part of town. And bus fares are rising regularly."

Education for job readiness presents a major problem, they say, pointing out that only 41 percent of single parents between 16 and 35 years of age have obtained grade 11 education or more, compared to the Canadian average for women of 72 percent.

"The woman with grade 9 to 10 education will spend most of her life waitressing, cleaning houses or offices or working in factories, unless upgrading and retraining is available. At the present time, two year waiting lists for manpower grants are not uncommon."

"Indeed, the track record for employment for single parent mothers is dismal," say the two professors. They refer to an Ontario program designed to improve the work skills fo 300 women on welfare, which costs $749 per person, and which has resulted after three years in only 12 percent securing employment, at minimum wage service jobs.

"The ministry of human resources has pursued various projects and studies in the past year, particularly, the opportunities plan, which seek to improve employability. No results of this year-long program have been published, and we are forced to conclude it has had little effect on the numbers of single parents gaining jobs, although it may have increased employment for counsellors and teachers."

As well as analysing the situation they foresee facing single mothers seeking employment, Martin and Callahan present a list of the "possible and unintended consequences of the new government policy" including:

- increasing stress on single parents because they will have to manage on less welfare benefits than before and if the marriage has recently broken up, the added stress of leaving their children at the time when they need their parent's presence.
- incentive for desperate parents to play the system by having another child if they have only one, or if their eldest is approaching 12 years.
- stress on the child which may result in physical and emotional problems and behavior problems in school. In addition such children under stress may be left alone or in makeshift arrangements while parents are looking for work.
- increasing workloads for ministry staff resulting from the new demand for re-applications for benefits, and the reclassification of vacant child welfare positions to financial worker positions to meet the increased demands. "The consequences for child welfare services in this province are plain: inability of workers to intervene quickly in child abuse situations, reduced counselling services for parents in trouble and increasing frustration for social workers unable to help familes in need."

A final point cited by Martin and Callahan is the possibility of the new policies giving rise to hidden costs in other systems, ministries and community services.

"Although we may save modest amounts of money from minstry of human resources budget, it is unlikely that we will know what we have spent from other budgets."

The social work professors conclude that the changed policy will deny mothers the choice between staying at home or going to work, implying that "it is preferable to work at any job, no matter what the salary or working conditions, rather than raise her children. And that it is preferable, no matter what the quality, consistency or cost, to have other people take major responsibility for the raising of these children."

Top riders gather; thousands to attend motocross nationals

ALDERGROVE - At press time they are burning the midnight oil at Little Rock Raceway, in preparation for the Canadian Motocross nationals this weekend.

The local dirt bike track is the final and toughest track on the Canadian motocross circuit. With its hairpin turns, water hazards and flying-jumps, riders from across Canada have often agreed that Little Rock is the place where they separate the men from the boys in Canadian dirt bike racing.

On Tuesday afternoon things were deceptively quiet. A huge flock of ever present seagulls rested on the calm waters of an adjacent pond, and there wasn't a motorcycle in sight. Just a couple of pickups and a sportscar belonging to the racetrack officials who were preparing the control tower for the big event.

On the weekend that peace will be shattered, as thousands will arrive to compete in and witness the final race of the Canadian nationals.

The 125 class has already been decided. Terry Hofoss of B.C. won that class in Copetown, Ontario for the second consecutive year. He is a factory rider for Team Yamaha, and one of the crowd favorites at most events.

At Little Rock they will decide the final standings in the 250cc class and open class (500cc).

Coming into this race, the top rider is Ross Pedersen, who has a commanding lead in the open class and a substantial margin in the 250cc event.

In the open class he is followed by Dennis James of Ontario and Pierre Coutare of Quebec, both of whom drive on the Yamaha team. Pedersen handles Kawasaki products.

In the 250 class, which is the most hotly contested, the point standings are as follows:

Ross Pedersen 188; Mike Harnden 151; Charles Dezorty 125; Buddy Ford 98; Zoli Berenyi 75; Sheruga 70; Jim Gilson 61; Stan Curington 61; Pierre Coutare 60; and Rob Parker 51.

Further down in the 250cc standings there are three B.C. riders of repute, battling to win a spot in the top ten. They are Jari Heinonen with 48 points; Tim Krogh with 42 and Wally Levy with 40 points. All three of these riders should provide spectators with plenty of high speed thrills.

The riders are entering Little Rock following the second to last national race in Edmonton last weekend.

In that race, as expected, western riders fared well. Eastern riders often lose ground on western tracks, because western dirt bike tracks are traditionally tougher then the easterners are used to.

Inspite of that, there are a many easterners, such as Mike Harnden and Charles Dezorty, who have a good chance of stealing all the glory.

There is $3,000 in prize money up for grabs this weekend, and spectators will be treated to entertainment by the Vancouver firefighters 40-piece band, on hand to help with the opening ceremonies.

The Royal Canadian air cadets will handle traffic control, and the local chamber of commerce is helping with concessions and advertising.

Bikers from across the country have already started to arrive in our fair town, and are busy rebuilding their bikes to peak condition following the punishment of the Edmonton nationals.

The Aldergrove Star will be providing full coverage of the Canadian nationals in next week's edition, but don't let that stop you from attending. Come and witness for yourself, all of Canada's very best dirt bike racers, as they compete for the top honors in this zenith of Canadian bike races.

Even if you have never been to motocross before, we are sure you will enjoy the event, and so will the whole family.

Seahawks lose first in thriller

ALDERGROVE - CFS Aldergrove Seahawks went down to defeat for the first time touch football competition, losing 16-14 to the Davy Crockett cowboys last Sunday.

Despite a consistant driving rain throughout the first half, the game proved to be an exciting contest, with the Cowboys playing far better football in the adverse conditions and grabbing a 14-0 lead.

Seahawks defence must be credited with keeping the game close up until this point as Hawks Q.B. Bernie Walter kept tossing good strikes only to have his receivers lose the handle on the wet ball.

The second half proved to have everything a spectator could ask from a game; close calls and go for broke plays abounded.

Hawks finally got on the board after a long drive with Walter hitting left guard Ray Huppe on a 10-yard scoring pass.

At the opening of the last quarter Walter fired to left end Don Froese on a 15-yard major to cap another long drive. Ron Bartsch was good on the convert, to bring the game within two points, with five minutes remaining. Those last five minutes proved to be pure mayhem, with the Cowboys being stymied by great defence and returning the favor to Aldergrove when they attempted to score in the dying seconds.

For the Seahawks on defence Al Scowen turned in an exceptional game, grabbing two interceptions and knocking down numerous sure receptions. Pete LaCoste also came up with a strong game at the rusher position sacking the opposition five times.

Seahawks next go into action Saturday, Oct. 3 against Abbotsford Keg at Abbotsford junior secondary field at 1:00 p.m.

Sunday, October 4, finds the Hawks playing Captains Cabin at 1:00 p.m. on Abbotsford junior's field.

BOMBERS SLUMP TO WORST EVER LEAGUE DEFEAT

BRADNER - Bombers were soundly defeated 4 - 1 by Whalley Mustangs last Saturday, in a game played at Bradner community park.

Bombers played with all the skill and intelligence you would expect from five-year-olds, making error after error, misskicking and repeatedly giving the ball away to opposing players.

Bradner's only goal came from captain Darrin Hotner, his third consecutive goal in as many weeks.

The only bright spark in an otherwise dismal display was the goalkeeping performance by Nicky Kondolay, who had a superb game making many fine saves.

Let's hope the Bombers can bounce back from this defeat and get down to the skilled, controlled and thoughtful soccer they are capable of.

Alder United scores first shutout

ALDERGROVE - After Cory Bruere, in typical fashion, saved a penalty shot within the first ten minutes, what was a strong start for Aldergrove became a half of soccer totally owned by the United side.

Steve Malish broke the melting ice at the 25-minute mark with a perfectly placed header off a fine cross from the wing.

Relentless effort from the United players as a unit produced another fine goal only fifteen minutes later and they never looked back.

Wayne Ferguson picked up his fifth goal of this young season by driving home a low cross from the right wing.

Two goals were all that was needed as Haney could not find it within themselves to outwork the Alder Inn team. The second half produced some dangerous chances at both ends of the pitch as Haney had to open and press forward while Aldergrove strengthened in midfield and counter-attacked very effectively. The entire Alder Inn team played a strong game and earned this week's two points and a 3-0 record on the season.

Next week finds Alder Inn facing the toughest opponent they're likely to face this season when they take on Langley at Parkside.

If some of our readers are interested in good quality soccer at a fair price (free), then we suggest they visit Parkside at 2:00 Sunday and cheer on the local side.

While the premier division side was making losers of Haney, the Alder Inn first division squad was doing the same to the Harvesters in Sardis.

Aldergrove got off to a slow start in this week's action, looking for its first win of the season. They dominated play in the first half after Ed Loewen's perfect cross was directed by the head of Bill Fehr into the net at the 20-minute mark. No further scoring occurred in the first half, but things appeared in hand as Aldergrove led 1-0 after 45 minutes of play.

Harvesters took an edge in play in the second half but Rod Wiens, the Alder Inn goalkeeper kept them out with solid efforts. A defensive lapse by Harvesters was taken advantage of by Alder Inn when Norm Williams tackled a defender and worked the ball to Les Antone who stroked it into the far corner giving Aldergrove a 2-0 lead after 55 minutes of play. Harvesters finally equalized at the 65-minute mark as a sloppy defensive miscue off a corner-kick brought them within one goal. This was as close as Harvesters were to get, however, as Alder Inn pulled away and finished the game with a beautiful five-way passing play which covered 75 yards and was capped off by Hugh Dobbie who took a Jim Agassiz pass and beat the Harvester netminder to put the game away at 3-1 with only five minutes remaining.

Coach Norm Williams was happy with the week's effort and credits the performance to steadily improving teamwork and the addition of Hardy Ness. A determined defence and strong goalkeeping allowed for what the coach feels his team is capable of producing until season's end.

Good go-Gogetters

ALDERGROVE - Gogetters are off to another good start with two wins under their belts, five to one over Langley Light Bulbs last week and five to one over Langley United on a very wet Sunday afternoon.

Ten minutes into the game Michell Ring put the ball to Carmen Miller to make it one to zip.

Aldergrove Royal Bank Gogetters kept up the pressure with a number of chances by Tina Ramsay on right wing, and they could not be stopped as Sarah Hanon found the ball from the head shot of Michell Ring. It was put into play from a throw in by Nancey Clark.

Number four came from the quick three pass play of Carmen Miller on inside right to Tina Ramsay, and again to Sarah Hanon.

The half ended four to one.

Second half was just as exciting as Langley's defence tightened up to only allow one goal, number two for Nancey Clark with assist going to Sarah Hanon.

Tricia Rickards on defence came up on top to stop the Langley team.

Bel-Aires down Legion 5-3

By BILL ARTUS

ALDERGROVE - In a bitterly disputed game last Sunday morning at Parkside grounds between the Aldergrove Legionaires and the Santos Bel-Aires, with a resulting final score of five to three in favor of Santos, the Canadian Legion team were screaming "foul" when the call by the referee was "fair goal" by the Santos squad early in the second half.

Up to half-time, the Santos Bel-Aires were leading a marginal 3-2 after Bill Clarke hit the net with a beautiful cross-over shot from right wing.

Ed Olney came to the front by scoring with a penalty shot and early in the second half, Scott McIsaac made the score three-all on a free kick.

However, according to Legionaire spokesman, Bill Clarke, a blatantly off-side kick half way into the second half which resulted in a Santos goal thoroughly demoralized the Legion team with "its unfairness' and they simply lost heart in the whole matter. Clarke said the game became increasingly rough due to the "ref" letting things get out of hand and both teams felt that anything went.

The Legionaires must play the Blue Mountain Royals Sunday at Blue Mountain park in Coquitlam.

Lightweights remain undefeated

ALDERGROVE - Lightweights actually started off the season Saturday, Sept. 19 with a 8-0 win against Langley Super Socco.

Shannon Douglas had a hat trick in the first half with even competition on both sides. With the second half though the Lightweights dominated the game with goalie Kim Green playing out, and scoring three goals, with some excellent passing done by the rest of the girls on the under 13 year olds team.

Teresa Ramsay had several scoring chances with Kim Green playing her position well to insure the goal. Taska Osmond popped in the final goal for a 8-0 win.

Second league game was played at Fort Langley this Saturday against the Panthers.

First half play saw the Lightweights totally disorganized. Hopefully the excuse was that coach Bob Ramsay was absent. Although the play was not up to usual Lightweight standards they managed to keep the ball in the opposing half of the field. Near the end of the half Shannon Douglas scored from an assist by Nikki Messmer who played 100 percent throughout the game.

The second half found Teresa Ramsay winger, and inside Nikki placing the ball continually in front of the net. It was to no avail until Leanne Scanks connected for the second goal of the game. Teresa Ramsay lofted a shot on goal to be robbed by an unfeeling crossbar but was rewarded as ever alert Kim Green (playing out of goal for the second half) punched it in as it fell onto the goal line.

The half line with Tammy Henderson on centre made it almost impossible for the Panthers to penetrate past the defence of Kim Getz and Linnea Douglas. Shannon Douglas stopped two shots on goal brilliantly to end the game 3-0.

Lightweights now remain undefeated in two league games, unscored upon.

Racers lose to win

ALDERGROVE - Saturday is soccer for the Fox and Hounds Racers. They started the game at 9:15 a.m. with Langley Sabres having possession at the toss of the coin.

Sabres moved the ball up to Aldergrove's eighteen yard line but couldn't finish any plays.

When the Racers had the ball within scoring range their opportunities were foiled by an offside.

At the eleven minute mark the Sabres keenly moved the ball to the Aldergrove end with some nice one-touch passing to drill one past Racer's stunned keeper, Jamie Lechner. It was a hard game for Jamie but he didn't quit.

Racers out-played the Langley team for the remainder of the half.

Less than six minutes after Langley had scored, Racers right winger Kevin Snowdon tore the field up on his side with a lot of hard work. He tied the game with a strong instep kick out of the keeper's reach. At the twenty-four minute mark Kevin Wix' clean throwins helped keep possession. Kevin Snowdon put Aldergrove in the lead with another goal and made player of the game for his efforts. Racers were out-hustled on quite a few occasions.

The second half saw the game at even play till the twelve-minute mark. The Sabres gained control and scored again to tie it up. Racers tried hard to go ahead but the ball wouldn't go in. At the seventeen minute mark Racers mid fielder got a little too aggressive in the box and got himself a penalty. The ball went five feet over the net. At the 20 minute mark Racers were losing the ball at mid-field and Langley beat their defence to score the go ahead goal. It's not often the Racers face this type of game. This made it easy for the Sabres to score their last goal for a four to two win.

Racers are going to regroup and expect Brent Neuman and Michael Ross at practice. As a team they tried hard, and it is consolation that a loss is better now than later.

Final drag boat race Sunday

MISSION - Sunday's exciting drag boat race will be the final race of the season at the raceway here.

One of the boats everyone has been talking about and will be watching Sunday, is Ray O'Hara's Port Moody based hydro. Boat is powered by a 512 cu. in. Chev V/8, supercharged and running on alcohol, it puts out approximately 1,200 horsepower.

At the September event Ray ran an elapsed time of 7.89 seconds over the quarter mile at 160 mph.

There should be over 30 boats on hand for the event with everything from flat bottoms and outboards to the big, all out supercharged hydros.

Races get under way at 12 noon.

SUPPORT THE TEAM — BRING BOTTLES

ALDERGROVE - The local senior girls basketball team will be holding a bottle drive on Saturday, October 3.

Girls were second in the B.C. single A championships last year and with just about everyone returning big things are expected of them again this season.

The school bus will be in the highschool parking lot from 10:00 to 4:00 Saturday for anyone wishing to bring bottles and help the girls raise money for the coming year.

Team members will also be going around the Aldergrove area to pick up bottles and if any householders would like to call on their clean up team they should contact Mr. Lee at Aldergrove secondary.

Someone will come by and pick up the unwanted bottles.

Tony declared 80cc champion

ALDERGROVE - Second year rider Tony Rooney of Aldergrove was declared 80cc expert champion of Aldergrove Competitive Motorcycle Association's season-long competition.

Thirteen-year-old Rooney started riding in 1980 and attended Wally Levy's motocross school in Aldergrove. At year end he attended Suzuki's motocross school at San Diego, California. "Learn how to ride first and then go out and practice and race," said Tony's dad, and that's how it's been.

Next year he is moving up to a Honda 125 and hopes his ambition to become a factory rider will be fulfilled. Rooney also has aspirations of becoming world champion in the future. He is currently sponsored by Tonka motorcycles and if his current rate of improvement holds, his hopes and aspirations could well be met in the not too distant future.

New bikes to watch for

By GARY CHAMBERS

ALDERGROVE - With the 'nationals' just days away, motocross enthusiasts will want to bone up on the latest equipment specs.

In motocross, as in any motor sport, so much depends on the engineering proficiency of the manufacturers. For that reason, new bikes on the market deserve close attention, to see how they perform in relation to last year's models.

We did some quick checking and found four new dirt bikes that just might put in appearances at Little Rock Raceway this weekend. You might find it interesting to look for these bikes, and watch their performance.

The first is the Honda XR 250 R. This bike is recognizable by the figures '250 R' emblazoned on the side of the saddle, and by the new Pro-Link rear end, which also displays its identity in prominent position.

Technically the bike sports a 249cc four stroke engine, fitted with a 30.5mm Keihin carburetor. It runs on premium fuel and has a 320mm (12.6 inch) ground clearance.

The tranny has six speeds with the highest gear ratio set at 0.867:1.

The most exciting change on this bike is the Pro-Link rear end, which consists of a shock absorber and two pivoting levers. This new and unique suspension system is being touted as a great advancement in motocross engineering, and may help the 250 R to make a good showing in top class competition.

The Suzuki RM 465 X is another new kid on the track. The bike is recognizable by the RM on the side of the saddle, and the term Full Floater decaled on the rear end guard.

Power is a 464cc two stroke, controlled by a five speed transmission. Highest gear ratio is 0.869:1.

The suspension rating of this bike is very high, and plenty of aluminum and plastic construction has kept the weight down.

Lightweight and high power could make this bike a good finisher, but watch for mechanical problems involving the fuel feed. Oil mixture on the RM 465 is critical, and slight variations from the recommended specs could create jetting problems for the carburetor.

Younger riders might be seen on board a new Kawasaki KDX KE100.

These peppy little five-speed two-strokes have rotary valve carburetors to pull curb weights of 152 or 203 pounds respectively.

These are simple bikes with gobs of power and suspension to keep the younger rider satisfied. The only mechanical problems to watch for involve the ignition points, which have been discarded on many other dirt bikes.

Last but not least there is the Honda Cr 450 R. Recognizable by the new Pro-Link rear end and the figure 540R on the saddle side, this hulking brute is said to have most of the appointments a motocrosser requires.

We suspect that if any 450R's show up they will do well on the local track. Little Rock is a very difficult course, testing riders on all fronts. Bikes racing here spend a good deal of time in flight from cliff faces masquerading as hills.

In that respect the new 450 R shines. Track tests show that bike handles well on high-flying jumps, feeling more like a 250 due to its lightweight construction.

Another edge this bike might have is in the braking department. Honda is recognized as the leader in stock brakes, and on a course like Little Rock a rider needs good braking power, especially on a four speed such as this.

If the Honda 450 R fails it will most likely be due to rider error on the corners. Watch for riders who try to take this bike around the corner at high speed without sliding the rear wheel sideways. Track tests have shown that this bike is very demanding on the corners, and riders who can't endure lots of back-sliding corners may be aboard the wrong machine.

These are just a few of the many fine pieces of racing machinery you are likely to encounter at Little Rock Raceway this weekend.

Clip this article out and stuff it in your windbreaker pocket. If you manage to spot one or more of these bikes on the track, it will help you enjoy the day's racing, comparing their performance to some of the other machines in use.

81 - 82 basketball season prepared

ABBOTSFORD - A small but dedicated group of men and women are getting prepared to officiate over 600 basketball games at the high school and college level this fall and winter. The Fraser Valley Basketball Officials Association is responsible for the recruitment, training and assignment of basketball referees in the Valley from Hope to the towns of Langley and Maple Ridge.

Training sessions will be held in the Chilliwack, Abbotsford and Langley areas starting September 28, 29 and October 1 respectively. Participation in the provincial clinic at Courtenay October 9-11 and all day events are also on the agenda. Prospective referees, coaches, players, students, and those interested in learning the rules of the game are encouraged to get involved.

During a season an official may work from one to six days per week and earn 'pocketmoney' as well as valuable exercise, recreation and life skills.

For more information contact either of the following: Hal Howie, Chilliwack, 823-6932; Ralph Visser, Abbotsford, 853-3920; Mike Thomson, Langley, 530-0947.

The association's first business meeting will be Monday, October 5 in room 101 of the Abbotsford senior secondary school at 7:30 p.m.

DOWNRIGHT GOOD SOCCER

By RUSS DAVIDSON

ALDERGROVE - At one o'clock on Saturday afternoon September 26, the Surrey United Elks came to town for a game of down-right good soccer. The first ten minutes saw the players feel each other out, but at the ten-minute mark, the Legionaires started their pressing, and it paid off with a pass from Danny Wakelyn to Paul Liebel, who shot to Greg Zembik. Zembik took the shot, but it was stopped. The rebound hit Andy Brown, and he put it in the net.

Second half saw Bryan Bell take a pass from Adrian Reglin. Bell passed to Danny Wakelyn, and he in turn fed Darren Baxter for his first goal.

Baxter's second goal came from an assist from Andy Brown and Chris Bell. This was the picture goal of the game.

Adrian Reglin played a tireless game at the half, and was the best player on the team. With less than one minute to play, the Legionaires were caught with a hand-ball, and a free kick was awarded to Langley. The shot was a good one, but Arron Cochrane got his hand on the ball, only to find it hit the goal post and fall into the net.

Game ended 3 - 1 for the Legionaires. All the boys played a good game.

Next game will be Saturday, October 3 at Shortreed, at 1:00 p.m.

Salmonbellies vs. Ontario's Excelsiors featured

CLEARBROOK - Action in the Mann cup series for the Canadian senior A lacrosse championship is featured Friday night in the sports timeslot on MSA cablevision's community channel.

New Westminster Salmonbellies and Brampton, Ont. Excelsiors are matched in the final, with a telecast time of 7 p.m. on MSA cable 3.

New Westminster played an exhibition at MSA arena at the start of this past season, losing to Coquitlam Adanacs, and they trailed first-place Coquitlam during the season before scoring a playoff upset to win the Western Lacrosse Association championship.

Sailing high above the crowd, last year's national motocross championship riders provided 5,000 spectators a show to remember. R. McIlwain photo

Spiritual awakening sweeps Australia

VANCOUVER - "There is one surprising place in the world today," said Sir Alan Walker, the world-famous Australian evangelist.

He was referring to Northern Australia where a spiritual awakening has swept over 34,000 square miles of remote territory, the homeland of the aborigines.

"Christian missionaries have been at work among what are as primitive a people as can be found anywhere on earth," he said.

The revival began through a school teacher, and broke out amongst the various tribes. Many were converted to Christianity.

In answer to prayer, drunkards were suddenly made sober. Family quarrels have been healed.

"The number of patients having to attend medical clinics has been cut in half," he reported.

"Night by night the miracle of changed lives is happening," he added.

The Australian director of world evangelism will speak at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday evenings, Oct 7 to 10, inclusive, at the public meetings in the Agrodome, Exhibition Park. At 3 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 11, he will address the mass rally also at the Agrodome. The public is welcome to attend - and there is no admission charge.

There is a seminar for the clergy and all interested laity at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday and Thursday mornings, Oct. 7 and 8, at the Canadian Memorial Church, 1811 West 16 Avenue.

Dr. Gordon Turner of Toronto will also participate in the seminar on Thursday morning.

On Friday noon, Oct. 9, he will address a rally of lower mainland ministers and church workers in Surrey, under the auspices of the Surrey-Delta ministerial association in co-operation with the ministerial associations of the Lower Fraser Valley. Host pastors are Surrey Centre Anglican rector H. Butcher and Grace Reformed pastor

Sir Alan Walker

John Moerman, at the joint meeting to be conducted at People's Full Gospel Church, 14456 - 104A Street, Surrey.

Co-ordinating the visit of the distinguished Australian knight is Mun Hope, chairman of the Fraser Valley Crusade for Christ.

U.B.C. rally

Sir Alan's busy schedule will also include a rally at the University of British Columbia at 12:30 noon, Thursday, Oct. 8, in room 104 of the Angus Building, under the auspices of chaplain George Hermanson and the chaplaincy of the university.

Women's rally

Lady Winifred will also address the lower mainland women's rally at 1 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 8, at the First Baptist Church, 969 Burrard Street, when Mrs. D.W. Hambidge will chair the non-denominational meeting. Kay Ross will be the pianist. Amelia Falls and Christine Charter are co-ordinators. There will be no admission charge, refreshments will be served, and all ladies are invited.

Church Services

Sir Alan will be the guest preacher on Sunday morning at St. Andrew's-Wesley United Church, at 11 a.m. October 11.

Lady Winifred will the guest at Brighouse United Church, Richmond, on Sunday morning, Oct. 11.

Archbishop D.W. Hambidge, Anglican primate of B.C., is urging all parishes to attend the Mission to the Eighties with Sir Alan.

"Anglicans have a tradition of supporting movements which present Jesus Christ to all," he said.

A public reception has been arranged for Sir Alan and Lady Winifred at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 6 at Broadway Tabernacle.

SMALLENBERG, VAN LEERSUM UNION

Wedding vows exchanged

ALDERGROVE - A local beauty, Lorraine Smallenberg, radiant in white lace wedding gown and veil was married to Rick Van Leersum of Langley in an evening ceremony at St. Ann's Catholic Church on 272 Street last Saturday. Father Hennessy from Hope officiated at the beautiful union.

Bride was given in marriage by a family friend, David Keillor and the bride's mother, Betty Smallenberg, wore a matching beige two piece outfit with accompanying corsage of carnations.

Maids of honor were Betty Brenner, Michelle Smallenberg and Gail Kerry.

Included in the large congregation assembled to witness the joining of Lorraine and Rick in holy wedlock were Mrs. Bruce Langley and father, Hank Van Leersum of Edmonton.

After a reception held in the OAP hall, catered to by the United Church women's guild, the happy couple left for a honeymoon at Harrison Hot Springs.

WORKERS' COMPENSATION.
NOT USING IT COULD COST YOUR BUSINESS A BUNDLE.
With all the other problems of operating a small business, it's sometimes easy to put off or overlook the responsibility of ensuring that your business is protected by the Workers' Compensation Board.
And that could be one of the most expensive omissions you ever made.
Because, if one of your workers is involved in an on-the-job accident, you would be liable for the entire cost of his injuries and rehabilitation—a cost that could be many times that of compensation coverage.
Don't risk it. A simple phone call or visit to any W.C.B. office will give you all the information you need about compulsory or elective coverage. You'll find that, for a small cost, you can buy a big piece of "peace of mind".
EMPLOYEES: if you're not sure about your coverage, discuss this ad with your employer or call the Assessment Department in your nearest W.C.B. office.

Concert pianist offers instruction at new Piano House

ALDERGROVE - There are certain things one can do to help make a house into a home, and one such thing is to buy a piano.

The kindly old king of instruments provides families with hours of pleasure, helps children and adults to develop hidden talents and even becomes the life of the party when entertaining friends.

Aldo Monticone.

The trouble is that buying a piano is a very expensive proposition. A new piano runs easily into four figures, and often five. But there is an alternative.

Many experienced piano players claim that used pianos are better than new ones, and they certainly make financial sense. It is the only way to obtain a good piano for less than $1,000.

Aldo Monticone, who owns and runs the Piano House in Aldergrove, agrees that his used pianos are often better than the new ones. To begin with they are encased in solid wood cabinets, while most new pianos are constructed of pressboard. Solid wood delivers a better resonance, and sound is the most important feature of any piano.

In addition, the pianos at the Piano House can be styled to fit in with your furnishings. All Piano House instruments are refinished and properly tuned before delivery, but the type of stain or paint used is up to you.

When you first see your new piano at the Piano House it is likely to have a coat of chipped white paint on it, and it may be very out of tune.

You tell Monticone what finish you require and it is done, included in the price of the piano. Then the piano is tuned, but not until it has been delivered to your home. Moving a piano often throws it out of tune, so it makes little sense to tune an instrument in the store and deliver it to the home afterwards.

Aldo Monticone knows pianos, and so he should, after a career as a concert pianist.

After graduating from the Guiseppe Verde Conservatory in Turin, Italy, Monticone persued a career on the stage. He eventually played concert engagements all over Europe, North America and South America.

"I love to play, but I don't want to perform like I used to," says Monticone. "I like now to give my experience to young kids."

Aldo stresses that the ideal age to start playing is six, although he has taught students up to seventy years old with considerable success. He cautions that there are many people in the piano teaching business, but not all of them are truly aware of the finer points of the instrument.

His years of practical experience before discerning music lovers all over the world, have given Monticone the kind of knowledge necessary to teach children and adults to play properly. His main message to customers is that they can visit him and feel confident that they are dealing with a man who knows the instrument and its capabilities.

"It's a very difficult instrument to play," stated Aldo, adding that instruction on a good instrument is essential to the budding concert pianist.

Aldo Monticone is not a high pressure salesman. His approach to piano sales reflects his feelings as an artist and teacher. He feels that the purchase of a piano and the selection of a teacher is a big step in anyone's life, and should not be fogged with sales pitches and hype.

The Piano House is one of those stores where you can drop in and browse, talk with the proprietor and not feel badgered or pressured. Considering the price of a piano these days, and the length of time it can take to master the instrument, that is a valuable kind of service to find.

If you are musically inclined, or if you have someone in your family so inclined, why not drop in and see for yourself. Talk to Aldo about his life and the instrument, look over his selection of fine used pianos. Ask about the various possible stains and varnishes available.

We are certain that you can find no more satisfying place to purchase a musical instrument. And we are sure that you will agree, that the addition of a piano into your home could be one of the finest moves you will ever make.

First Aid classes offered by St. John's

ALDERGROVE - St. John Ambulance classes will be starting here on Oct. 12.

Classes are for standard first-aid tickets. This is a 10-week course, in which first-aid is learned for all emergency situations. The standard first-aid ticket could be the deciding point for a employer's decision on hiring an employee.

For parents this course could mean the difference between total panic or fast efficient first-aid treatment of any emergency concerning their children.

Classes will be held every Monday night from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. at the Aldergrove fire hall on 272 Street.

Cost of the course is $30. Anyone interested in taking the course should contact Susan Stekler before October 10 by phoning 856-2482.

Watch that wire

VANCOUVER - That power wire that crosses the yard to every household can pack a deadly punch.

A Vancouver workman was electrocuted recently when he held onto the metal pipe of the electrical service entrance and touched an exposed portion of electrical wire at the same time, causing 120 volts to pass through his body.

Workers and residents doing home repair or tree pruning should be aware of the potential hazard. The elctrical service entrance is located at an elevated position and is normally quite safe. However, anyone climbing or reaching up to clean eavestroughs or siding should stay well clear of the connection and all overhead electrical wires.

Permanent Pole was first to computerize trusses

With greater flexibility in modern day construction, design engineers are looking to the use of wood trusses with wider free spans for the use in shopping centers, office buildings, industrial plants and institutional buildings.

Permanent Pole was the first truss company to develop a computerized system for truss fabrication. Their system is now used by many major competitors across Canada.

"Modern manufacturing, transporting and erecting equipment with an expert engineering staff make our job on your site an efficient and less costly operation," says a company spokesman.

"Let us show you how to get more "free span" for your dollar."

They now stock the all new "Deck Pak" squares (wooden patio deck), that you can do yourself in a single day. Deck Pak squares make it easy. They are ready to use 30x30 inch squares (6¼ sq. ft.) made of pressure treated wood. On level ground a 100 sq. ft. deck can be assembled in less than two hours. It will be the envy of your neighborhood.

Come in and see it today. It's available from Permanent Pole.

Energy series will answer questions on B.C.'s future

MURRAYVILLE - Energy sets our whole universe in motion, from the smallest micro-organism to the largest planets. It is not restricted to living things but operates mechanical objects of all kinds. Energy is both tangible and intangible and changes its form all the time. Ever since man has existed, energy has played an extremely vital role.

Energy in perspective is the topic of a series of lectures and films that the Langley school board department of continuing education is sponsoring. Conducted by B.C. Hydro's speakers, the series will start on October 1 and run for four consecutive Thursday evenings from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Beginning with a short historical and global overview of man's energy use to date, the series will then concentrate on the present energy resource situation in British Columbia.

The series will give the participant a basic understanding of the world energy situation, and more specifically, a good grasp of B.C.'s position, in terms of both fossil fuel resources (oil, gas, coal and uranium) and of alternate energy resources (solar, tidal, biomass, wind and geothermal). In addition, the great potential of conservation, perhaps the greatest energy source of all, will be fully discussed.

Lectures will take place in room 132 of the Langley secondary school on 21405 - 56 Avenue.

Talk to Pacific Truss

A truly B.C. company with professional engineers with the expertise in innovation, imagination and solid engineering skills in the construction of prefabricated trusses.

There's a lot more to the truss business than a few two by fours.

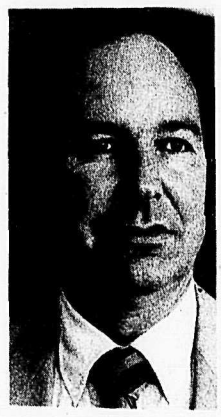
"We take pride in every prefabricated truss building we erect," says a company spokesman.

"At Pacific Truss we're here to serve you, contractors, architects, structural engineers.

"We know what we're talking about. So come in and talk to us -- about your next project."

Farm is pulled from reserve

MURRAYVILLE - Council here this week received a letter from two puzzled property owners who are unsure of just what happened to them.



"In January 1981 (our) land was removed from the agricultural land reserve," writes Arnold Dahlke of 20219 - 96 Avenue.

"We have farmed this six-acre parcel for a number of years, and while it was not our main source of living, it contributed to our income through the sale of berries, mushrooms and eggs. This meant farm exemption on our property taxes.

"A letter has been received from your (Langley) corporation stating that this is the last year for farm exemption on this property. We will be faced with higher taxes for 1982.

"Since the land now has no zoning, it is not saleable and we would request that the corporation of the township of Langley zone it; there must have been a use in mind when it was taken out of the agricultural land reserve."

VANCOUVER - Vern G. Krienke has been appointed B.C. Hydro area manager for the Fraser Valley east area, which includes Abbotsford, Chilliwack and Hope.

The area manager's position was created as a result of the amalgamation of the Fraser Valley and Metro divisions of electrical operations to form the new lower mainland division.

Whelan to introduce new betting legislation

OTTAWA - Agriculture minister Eugene Whelan last week announced that proposed amendments to section 188 of the criminal code concerning race track betting will be introduced in the upcoming session of the house of commons.

The amendments are necessary to put into operation some of the initiatives announced last November by the agriculture minister in a new betting policy action plan to stimulate the Canadian horse-racing industry.

The changes to the criminal code concern inter-track betting, the rates of commission tracks collect on bets and administrative procedures.

Inter-track betting would allow bets to be made at one track on races at another track. This would be possible where an agreement is worked out between tracks or where tracks are under common ownership.

Raising the amount a track can retain from bets will provide increased revenue for track operations and race purses. Once the new rates have been set, tracks could determine their own commission rate within prescribed limits.

Whelan said administrative matters, such as regulating the number of races that can be held per day and the federal levy collected on horse race bets, will be removed from the code and included in the regulation-making authority of the minister.

The federal levy provides the funding required by Agriculture Canada to regulate and supervise pari-mutuel betting in Canada.

"In addition to the criminal code amendments, regulations also announced last November authorizing pre-deposit telephone account betting now are in their final stages and will be signed soon," Whelan said.

"These changes to the criminal code and regulations with regulatory changes already made since November, will make it possible for each track to work out a system of pari-mutuel betting that best suits its needs. All changes in the new betting policy are optional," Whelan said.

Regulatory changes already made cover advance betting, more pools per race and new betting pools.

"The new betting policies will give the racetrack associations more ways to serve their patrons and will enable the government to react more quickly to the needs of the racing industry," Whelan said.

Get perfect grazing all year 'round.

A Harvestore® system for haylage can give your animals the equivalent of perfect grazing 365 days every year. How? You cut, chop and store your forage crop when it's at its protein peak, and that's the way it stays until the moment it is fed.

- Harvestore system haylage is a rich, palatable, mildly fermented feed that converts well to milk or meat.
- You cut each growth earlier when it's at its protein-rich best.
- Early harvesting means some Harvestore system farmers get at least one extra cutting every summer.
- Protein-rich Harvestore system haylage means you can feed more animals — but you'll buy a lot less purchased protein.

Harvestore system haylage is the most efficient and productive feed you can give your animals. Find out all the facts about the Harvestore system. Give us a call.

Hydraulics covered in seminars

MURRAYVILLE - Langley school board's department of continuing education is offering two unique courses this fall. The Saturday seminars, titled Fluid Power I and Fluid Power II, will give students an introductory approach to hydraulics which will include theory as well as industrial applications.

Kai Holmsborg, a consulting engineer in hydraulics with the Hanson Tool Company, will be instructing the students. On Saturday, October 24, he will discuss various aspects of pressure, both high and low, and will deal with other hydraulic topics that class members raise during the seminar on Fluid Power I.

Two weeks later on November 7, the succeeding course called Fluid Power II will be held. During the day-long seminar, Holmsborg will deal with equipment repairs and maintenance, preliminary engineering, hydraulic circuitry, symbols and components such as valves, cylinders and hoses. As well, plant air distribution and safety aspects will be covered.

Both these courses will be held in room 220 of the Langley secondary school at 21405 - 56 Avenue between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. on both Saturdays. Pre-registrations for each course must be done two days prior to the class in room 88 of the school. More information can be obtained, by calling the department at 534-7891.

Due to the scarcity of information classes in hydraulics, these two courses sre highly recommended for those wishing to learn more or upgrade their skills.

'BOEING, BOEING' AT WHITE ROCK

Paris in the fall is truly lovely

WHITE ROCK - "I love Paris in the fall."

And you will love White Rock in the fall, particularly on October 14 when the local players club opens its season with a delightful farce, "Boeing, Boeing."

How would you like to have at your beck and call, three stunning stewardesses complete with no-overlap scheduling? It's the perfect arrangement for French architect Bernard (played by Gord Mantle(until the advent of speedier jets causes all three sweeties to arrive on his doorstep at once.

The fun and merriment that ensue are in the capable hands of director Vicki Watts, best remembered for her sincere portrayal of Anne Frank in last year's big hit of the same name. Assisting Vicki as stage manager is Karen Doolan.

Also in the cast are Tim Driscoll (last seen in "Little Hut") with such pretty faces as Donna Cox (of "Laura" fame), Sally Walton (delightful in the role of Susan from "Little Hut"), and newcomer to the White Rock stage, Cindy Barrett. Rounding out the cast is Dorothy Harvey (also from "Laura").

This year's opening show will run from October 14 - 18 and 20 - 24. This includes a special performance on Sunday, Oct. 18 This Sunday performance will be an opportunity for the players club to see if there is sufficient demand for a Sunday evening show.

Book in advance. Box office opens on Oct. 5 at 1572 Johnston Road or phone 576-7535.

ALBUM REVIEW

Armatrading explores new depths

By KURT LANGMANN

Walk Under Ladders
Joan Armatrading
(A&M)

Joan Armatrading staked out her unique territory with her immensely popular 1976 album and its powerful, intimate hit single "Love And Affection." Her talents as a songwriter, singer and guitarist had been obvious on her first two albums, but she came into full blossom on the third album.

Joan Armatrading.

Having met and fulfilled this challenge so admirably, the next four albums found her starting to seek new musical challenges while retaining her personal, emotional lyrics.

Her latest album finds Joan exploring new ways of presenting her ideas, and it is a natural progression from last year's album, "Me Myself I." As an album, it works much better thanks no doubt to producer Steve Lillywhite (famous for his work with XTC and others).

The rock edge is much sharper and harder even with the reggae-flavored songs, and her singing is not as vulnerable. This growing confidence is well-put in "I'm Lucky."

There's a wide diversity in songs though, from the plaintive, "I Can't Lie To Myself" to the straight-ahead rock of "I Wanna Hold You." "Eating The Bear," a personal favorite, presents a side of Armatrading that I didn't expect to ever hear.

It's a very good album from an exceptional entertainer. On a scale of ten, a 10.

Hoy-Hoy!
Little Feat
(Warner Bros.)

This double-album is a compilation of songs from one of the most influential, yet least successful '70s rock bands.

Led by the late Lowell George, an ex-Mother Of Invention band member, Little Feat were top musicians and songwriters respected by their musical contemporaries and critics alike. However record sales were insignificant and thus this is not a "greatest hits" release.

Hoy-Hoy! may not qualify as a "best of" record either, although the many styles of the band are well represented. There's the country rock of "Easy To Slip;" the grittiness of "Forty-Four Blues;" the rock energy of "Teenage Nervous Breakdown" (the latter is termed as, "the worst song I ever wrote," by Lowell George). "Gringo," a new song from Bill Payne, shows the cross-influences between Little Feat and others like Steely Dan or the Doobie Bros.

On a scale of ten, a 9.

Tonight!
Four Tops
(Casablanca)

The Four Tops are a special and enduring vocal quartet. If they're still together in 1984 (and I hope they are) they will be celebrating thirty years of performing together, as well as a string of million-selling hits.

Lead singer Levi Stubbs is outstanding; his powerful and pitch-perfect voice excells throughout the nine melodies on the new lp. The Four Tops draw on a variety of songwriters, from Kenny Loggins to Stevie Wonder, and with flawless and tasteful arrangements they've transformed the songs into highly-charged and personal statements. A love-lorn ballad, "I'll Never Ever Leave Again" is bittersweet but delectable and "Don't Walk Away" recalls their early Motown sound, especially with its chiming orchestra bells. "When She Was My Girl" is a current hit from the album, thanks to the sweeping backing vocals led by Lawrence Payton and the dramatic lead of Stubbs.

The Four Tops take no chances on their new album, but turn in exciting and craftsman-like performances that are well worth hearing. In this respect they have revitalized sweet soul music for many people. On a scale of ten, a 9.

Deserters

High 'N' Dry
Def Leggerd
(Mercury)

We're Gonna Rock
The Look
(A&M)

Light-weight, cliche-ridden drivel guaranteed to get on your nerves and bore you to tears simultaneously. Who needs it?

The Keys Album
The Keys
(A&M)

This is also light-weight and cliche-ridden but rises above drivel thanks to the sheer class of the twelve original songs and the appeal of these four English rockers. There's no big message in their beat melodies, other than the simple pleasure of enjoying the snappy tunes on their own merits.

Produced by Joe Jackson, the Keys Album is pure party pop, the likes of which we haven't heard in a long time. On a scale of ten, an 8.

Frank Zappa and his eleven-piece band return to the Coliseum Concert Bowl this Saturday evening for another in this series of eclectic performances. Tickets at Eaton's.

QUILTERS GUILD

A fashion show with flair!

FORT LANGLEY - Sunday, October 4 at 2 p.m. is the time scheduled for the unveiling of the Fraser Valley Quilters Guild's latest creations.

Quilting has broken away from its traditional bed-covering form and entered the world of fashion. Skirts, vests, satchels, dressing-gowns and full-length dresses are just some of the lovely garments that have been created by a quilting technique and that will be modelled. At the conclusion of the show, an appliqued coverlet, that was also made by members of the quilters quild, will be raffled.

These events have been organized in conjunction with the museum and exhibition centre's latest show - "Quilts: The McKendry Collection." This well-known collection of historic Canadian quilts will be on exhibit until October.

Langley Centennial museum is located at the corner of Mavis and King Streets. It is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday to Saturday, and from 1 to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

Langley Music School impresses

MURRAYVILLE - The aims of Langley Community Music School are extremely impressive.

What the faculty have in mind is to make the school's summer program equal to those of the Courtenay and Okanagan schools, vice president Lori Fraser told council members here this week.

Fraser, who came to council to thank them for a grant received for LCMS' 1981 summer program, said more than 100 musicians and would-be musicians took part.

LANGLEY ARTS COUNCIL

Members learn from experiences of Vernon arts

By TOOTS TUCKER

LANGLEY - At their recent meeting held in the arts centre, Langley Arts Council president Joanne Boyle, and past president Janice Major gave an account regarding their participation at the assembly of B.C. Arts Councils conference which was held in Vernon in May.

Presentations of various workshops and lectures made available in the conference package, Joanne and Jan found themselves very involved with several worthwhile sessions including "Recreation and the Arts", and "The Municipality and the Arts". They related that the district of Vernon made an extensive organized effort to attain their wish in realization of an arts centre for their community. As a result, the convergence of interested groups and citizens acted as a catalyst for the development of programs appealing to children, adults, and senior citizens with recreational and visual arts, crafts, writing, music, photography and dance flourishing throughout their district.

Subsidies of physical recreational facilities are most often allotted to sports facilities, and cultural activities are often misdirected to fund raising events.

Many cultural events to the district are activated in district and municipality. The Fraser Valley rock and gem club are busily preparing for their annual exhibition for October 17 and 18 from noon to 10 p.m. and Sunday from noon until 6 p.m. It will be held in the Elk's hall in Aldergrove. Many impressing displays of the members' crafted gems and minerals, demonstrations of their interesting hobby, and door prizes are some of the features which will be enjoyed by young and old.

Langley Players drama club are in constant rehearsal schedules for their upcoming performance entitled, "Haunting of Hill House" with an opening date of November 12 at the Brookswood hall.

Langley Camera Club will present another very exciting and colorful "Photo Phantasy" on October 27 in the Douglas hall at 8:00 p.m. The Fraser Valley Quilters Guild will have successfully completed an exhibition of quilts in the Langley Centennial museum, and the Fraser Valley Potters Guild are presently finalizing plans of their juried exhibition of clay things in the museum for Oct. 6 to Nov. 7.

Finally, the arts council has been very involved with past and present events which include bus tours of day trips to the Victoria museum and parliament buildings for October 13, and on November 10 a visit to the Vancouver art gallery , Burnaby art galleries, and to South Granville. Their Theatre just for Children series will be underway on October 10 when the famous Raincoast Puppets perform in the Murrayville hall, and on November 21, the youngsters in this community will be able to enjoy the Green Thumb Players performances.

Last, but not least, the very popular Xmas craft fair will again be presented on November 21 and 22 in the Village Auction building in Fort Langley, in conjunction with the LAC juried arts exhibition held in the Langley Centennial museum.

This community and district sorely needs a stationary complex for its many worthwhile endeavors. The next general meeting will be held on Wednesday, October 28, in the Brookswood community hall (42 Avenue and 200 Street) at 8:00 p.m. One of the main aspects to be considered will be a further directive of a theatre/arts complex and also a study of the forthcoming referendum. All concerned citizens are urged to attend.

ABBOTSFORD - An impressive slate of instructors has again been assembled for the fourth annual Abbotsford Photo Arts Club photographic seminar to be held Friday evening and all day Saturday, October 2 and 3 at Trinity Memorial United Church on the corner of Montrose and Hazel streets.

"We must be doing something right," says club president Sara Shadbolt, adding that registrations have already been received from Vancouver Island, the Okanagan and the prairies, as well as from all over the Fraser Valley and the Greater Vancouver area.

"There just aren't that many photographic seminars of this calibre around," says Shadbolt, "and we have made ourselves an excellent reputation over the past three years, with good organization, fine speakers and friendly club members."

The only larger photographic seminar in the west is Camera Canada College '81, run by the National Association for Photographic Art (NAPA) and held this past summer at the University of Alberta.

APAC has managed to secure one of the speakers from Camera Canada College '81; wilderness guide Chris Harris of Eco-Summer Canada, will give his thrilling slide show on the ascent of Mount Logan, Canada's highest mountain. This challenging presentation will culminate the two day seminar.

A banquet dinner, catered by club members and included in the registration fee, will precede Harris' Saturday evening program.

Other instructors include two award-winning husband and wife teams, Wes and Marja Bergen, and Don and Mildred McPhee whose nature pictures are internationally acclaimed.

Vice-president of NAPA, Fred Chapman, will also lecture. Chapman works closely with Freeman Patterson, author of two best selling books, Photography for the Joy of It, and Photography and the Art of Seeing.

Dennis Rickett, full time instructor at the Emily Carr College of Art in Vancouver, will talk on Finding and expressing Oneself through Photography.

Lecturers making their second appearance at the seminar include Barrie Jefferies, zone director for the Photographic Society of America, and Sib Dow, both from Vancouver. Both men have lectured extensively to camera clubs and photographic conventions in Canada and in the U.S.

To accommodate the less advanced photographer a series of three mini-lectures for beginners will be conducted alongside those sessions which presuppose a certain degree of technical proficiency. This has proven to be an appreciated aspect of past seminars.

Registration, which includes eight lectures, refreshments and one dinner, has been held at $20 ($15 for seniors and students). Registrants may bring a guest for dinner and the Saturday evening show for a nominal $3 extra.

Due to space limitations pre-registration is advised. Registration forms are available from local photo stores or call Helen Embury at 853-6801. Registrations will be accepted at the door on a space available basis only.

Lucky Mike is top colt on the block at $20,000.

FORT LANGLEY - The silver triple-tonguing of the sweating auctioneer echoed through-out the Thunderbird arena here Sunday afternoon at the Canadian Thoroughbred Breeder's Society (B.C. division) mixed sale but failed to extract any spectacular prices for the obviously well-bred examples of horse flesh offered on the block. An astonishingly large crowd were on hand to view the beautifully constructed participants of the alleged "sport of kings" but although the atmosphere was a festive one, modern day economics apparently put a damper on the price ceiling. As the "mixed sale" closely followed the society's select yearling sale in August at the same location it was not unexpected that the high at the current sale was far lower than the $100,000 top buck at the previous event.

A chestnut colt by Lucky Mike, son of Lucky Mel, brought the top bid. The Lucky Mike colt, out of the mare Dynamic Mom, went under the hammer for $20,000, far in advance of the general bidding. Dynamic Mom, a half sister to Sweeter 'N' Willie, who was a stakes winner at Exhibition park last year as a two-year-old, also distinguished herself in Alberta. She was stakes placed, with seconds in the Alberta derby and the Calgary and Edmonton distaff added-money events. The colt, Lucky Mike, consigned by Fort Bloodstock was bought by Jim Moroz of Edmonton.

Locally, several fine-horse fanciers were successful in obtaining blood stock. Hip No. 3, a bay colt born May 6 this year out of Tempting Ticket and sired by Body Bend was purchased by Aldergrove resident, Robert Stireskey for $3,000. The as yet un-named horselet's sire, Body Bend, was stakes winner of five races totaling $71,059. His sire, in turn, Never Bend was a champion at two years old; winning over 55 stakes to a total of $641,524 and being classified as one of the leading sires in England.

M.P. Grace of Aldergrove was successful in obtaining hip No. 17, a brood mare called Tenuity, foaled in 1966, for $1,300; Mavis Bateson of Aldergrove received the fall of the auctioneers hammer for No. 20, Craig's Treasure, for $5,000.

Craig's Treasure, a chestnut mare foaled in 1976 and sired by Craig D. is a stakes winner of eight races to the tune of $32,745. Rick Ball, also of Aldergrove, bought No. 31, Sadair for $4,000, the stakes winner of eight races in twelve starts at two years old, who amassed $498,216. Sadair (1962) has sired 19 stakes winners including Pampered Miss, winner of the French 1,000 guineas. M.P. Grace of Aldergrove bought no. 37, Marcellina Plum, a chestnut filly for $3,000; John Timpany of Aldergrove was successful in buying No. 40, Bendy's Boy, a chestnut colt, and no. 72, Gray Colt for $2,000 and $1,500 respectively. Later on in the auction, Timpany also bought no. 96 New Hustler and chestnut filly and Thunderbud, a dark bay, for $2,900 and $1,300 respectively. Hip no. 93, a bay filly out of Miss Victory and sired by Winning Hit was purchased by Aldergrove resident D.P. Gormley for $6,000.

The original catalogue for the mixed sale listed 117 hip numbers, including brood mares and horses of racing age, but most of the animals offered were yearlings. The original number was increased by a supplement to the catalogue, thereby increasing it to 135 entries.

There were 22 buy-backs and 15 scratches or withdrawals in the auction which culminated with 98 horses sold and an overall total of monies taken at $386,000.

The weather was rotten but horses, riders were beautiful

By BILL ARTUS

Blow ye tempest blow and my spirit shall not fail,
I have met with many a foe and weathered many a gale.
- Tennyson

ALDERGROVE - The words of the "Riders of the Valkyries" seems to be especially appropriate to the 1981 'Grove pony club's 10th annual fall trophy show held at the Langley Rider's arena, last Sunday morning, Sept. 27. Although the weather was uncommonly inclement, the general approach to the driving wind and rain was, "What the heck, we are here to compete and show our horses and that's exactly what we're going to do."

Proud mothers and fathers carefully coached and groomed aspiring young riders and the general concensus was that the whole day was a complete success and well worth the trouble of braving the elements. The pony show, which was open to pony club members only, was a study of "poem in motion" from the prancing magnificent mounts to the carefullly garbed and groomed riders who ranged from seven years old to seniors of over 18. "Pony" is a horse described as being under 14.2 hands and anything over the span is classified as horse. "Green" is described as any horse or pony in first or second year of showing over "jumps" or fences. CEF rules served as a guildeline but were to be modified at the discretion of the judge and show committee.

All riders were required to wear hard hats and boots. Jackets, though prefered, were not deemed to be necessary but safety harness over jumps was absolutely mandatory. All horses and ponies entered in classes where height was a consideration were required to be measured should a competing contestant request it. Show chairladies Vi Williamson and Carol Clugston kept a careful eye on the results of the meet, as did show secretary Alene Levac.

In charge of ribbons and trophies, Myrna Wellenbrink, made sure that the contestants received their just rewards which they had worked so hard for throughout the year.

Equitation (Group one) Wildman Enterprises Trophy - cancelled.
Equitation (Group two) Fuller Meats Trophy - Diane Kwiczak G.P.C.

GARDENING IN THE VALLEY

By DON ANSON

Hollow flower stems of yuccas will hold rainwater and this tends to set up decay in the heart of the plants. Therefore you should be careful to see that after they have flowered the stems should be cut down as low as possible and slits should be made in the remaining stem portion to allow moisture to drain away. Proceed the same way with other hollow-stemmed plants such as delphiniums.

Whether or not you like garlic, it should be grown in every garden if only for the reason that it is an excellent bug dispeller. Grow garlic near your roses if you want to get rid of those annual aphids.

To grow garlic, just take a clove (segment of the bulb) and plant it in spring. During the summer it grows, splits and produces a cluster of young cloves which in late summer are ripened and may be stored for home use.

This garlic cluster is enclosed in a pale membranous sheath. Use the outer cloves for replanting and the inner ones for kitchen use.

Garlic prefers a well drained, sandy soil and it will not tolerate excessive moisture.

If you are fond of chives, why not use them as an edging for the flower bed? They have a most attractive flower which lasts in bloom for a considerable time. For kitchen use, it is best to cut down chives right to the ground level at least three times each year. They grow again very quickly. Personally I find that finely chopped chives and parsley make an excellent addition to mashed potatoes.

Here is an idea for ripening those green tomatoes. Put them in an old shoe box, not touching each other but with one ripe tomato included. The idea of the ripe tomato is simple. Like most ripe fruits it will give off minute quantities of ethylene gas and this acts as a ripening agent. Keep the lid on the box and examine it regularly.

Many gardeners will be putting in bulbs during the next two months. May I offer a few words of advice. Plant them a little deeper than you think necessary and give them a good sprinkling of bonemeal in the planting hole. If the ground lies at all wet, place the bulbs on a small handful of sand before filling up the hole.

As soon as the dull fall weather arrives, so too do fungus diseases. Even now, faded flowerheads are showing signs of the dreaded "grey mould" that shows botrytis is present. Left to rot on the plants, these flower stalks will spread infection back to the stems, so cut them off as soon as you see them.

There are nearly 100 different kinds of cabbage. The tallest by far is the open-leaved cabbage dultivated for stock feeding in the Channel Islands. It is known there, for obvious reasons, as the tree or cow cabbage. Stems commonly grow 10 feet tall and even reach 20 feet. They are so hard and woody that they are sometimes used as walking sticks.

One broad-leaved variety of this form is grown extensively in the southern part of the United States and is called collards.

Cabbages are probably the oldest known vegetables and have an amazing number of attributes according to folklore. The Romans ascribed to it the happy quality of preserving a person from drunkenness but it had to be eaten raw though previously macerated in vinegar. At one time or another, herbalists have regarded cabbage as an infallible cure for most deseases and illnesses.

Attar of roses is the purest essence of roses and extremely costly. This is understandable when it is realized that it takes 3,500 ounces of rose petals to produce one ounce of anadulterated attar.

Some roses are totally scentless, while others, with varying degrees of pleasantness, smell of apricots, raspberries, carnations, mignonettes and musk.

Believe it or not, some roses smell quite revolting with a stink similar to skunk cabbage.

Dead leaves of pampas grass may be burned on the plant. Choose a dry day when the leaves are crisp. As long as you do this before new green shoots appear in spring, you will do no harm to the plant.

Another way of removing dead pampas leaves is simply to cut them away. For this job it is essential to wear a stout pair of gloves as the leaves can tear your hands badly.

November is a good time to plant raspberry canes. Prepare the ground well beforehand. Double dig and manure liberally. Put post and wire supports in place at the same time to avoid distrubing the newly planted canes later on.

Cut back the canes to nine inches from the ground next February.

The author will endeavor to answer any questions on the subject of outdoor gardening. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: "Gardens", c/o The Star, Box 220, Aldergrove, V0X 1A0. All letters will be answered personally, but some may be answered in this column.

Soar like a bird

MURRAYVILLE - Have you ever dreamed of soaring high in the sky like the birds with only the wind whisting in your ears? It seems so effortless to fly with the wind currents and see the ground slip by, doesn't it? Don't you think it is time for you to experience that feeling for yourself?

Langley school board's department of continuing education is sponsoring a hands-on hang gliding course that will guarantee each student some experience flying in the air. Two classroom sessions at the evening ground school will cover such topics as basic aerodynamics, micrometerology, and glider design. Films will also be shown and students will practise basic hand gliding techniques on a suspended control bar, before undertaking an actual flight in the field.

All the equipment will be supplied by the instructor, John Szirony, who is a professional in the field and who is certified by the Canadian and U.S. national hang gliding associations. Any interested students may extend this course to 30 yours to obtain the Canadian and B.C. Hang Gliding Associations' level I certificate and association memberships.

The two classroom sessions will be held on the gym stage of the Langley secondary school. They will both start at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, September 30 and Thursday, October 1. A field session will be held on Saturday, October 3 from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Registrations for the $45 course can be done in room 88 of the school or by phoning the department at 534-7891.

New members elected to Langley hospital board

MURRAYVILLE - The Langley Memorial Hospital Society at their annual meeting held in September elected Ena Bontkes, Mel Burgess and Dr. Barbara Foxwell, all new members to the board, for three year terms. The annual report, including the financial statements for 1980/1981 were read and adopted.

The board of trustees at their regular meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 22 elected officers for the 1981/1982 term. Nigel Powell was chosen president; John Scholtens, vice-president; Peter Dueck, treasurer; and administrator Richard Holinaty, secretary.

New Film "Light – The Natural Enemy of Milk" Bows at C.H.E.A. Show

A new documentary motion picture, "Light – The Natural Enemy of Milk", made its debut at the Canadian Home Economics Association's annual conference in Toronto recently, and it should be of interest to homemakers everywhere.

The film, features the internationally celebrated Food Scientist Dr. John M. deMan, from the University of Guelph.

Dr. deMan has pioneered research in Canada into the devastating effect of light on fresh milk and other dairy products.

The film traces the evolution of man and the role that the sun has played in both creating our world, as well as the largely unknown role it plays as a destroyer of fresh and processed foods.

The 12 minute, 16mm color film is directed to college, university and secondary school nutrition, home economics and food sciences students.

It is an interesting film, and demonstrates rather graphically what I have always believed – that the paperboard carton is the best all around milk package in offering protection to the consumer for both the flavor and nutrition of milk. Now, here's this week's recipe:

PINEAPPLE RICE CREAM

An old favorite, always enjoyed. In the summer, replace the crushed pineapple by 2 cups (500 mL) crushed sweetened strawberries.

1/2 cup (125 mL) uncooked long grain or converted Rice
1/2 cup (125 mL) sugar
1 cup (250 mL) well drained crushed pineapple
1 cup (250 mL) whipping cream

Cook the rice according to directions on package. Cool completely.

Mix together the cooled rice, sugar and crushed pineapple.

Whip the cream and fold into the rice. Pour into a crystal dish and refrigerate until ready to serve. Serves 6.

Is any health risk worth taking?

By ALLAN R. MAGIE
PhD., M.P.H.

I was recently shocked by an article which appeared in a well-known scientific journal. It dealt with something in which everyone should be interested - risk assessment. Those are just big words used for weighing the results of taking various alternatives. For example, would it be safer to travel a thousand miles by car than a thousand miles by commercial airliner? That should have been easy. The airliners is by far the safest. In fact, past records of accidents (and deaths) show that it's about ten thousand times safer to travel in the United States by scheduled airliner than by automobile.

The conclusion reached in this particular risk assessment was that the risk of cancer from using the artificial sweetener saccharin was less than the risk of serious health effects from becoming excessively overweight. In other words, if a person was able to maintain a healthier body weight by using saccharin, instead of sugar, he would more likely escape some of the risks to health from obesity - heart disease, high blood pressure, diabetes, etc. - all of which are a greater threat than cancer resulting from saccharin use alone.

Calculations showed that the cancer risk of using the saccharin was similar to the increased health risk of a person 10 percent overweight eating one extra calorie (the amount found in a typical diet beverage). If the artificial sweetener were not used, the 100 calories normally found in such a sweetened beverage would be 100 times as bad!

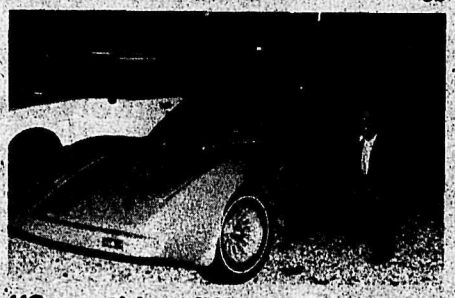
Unfortunately, such a simple conclusion is very misleading. Because of the delay in cancer development no one is in a position to say just how much risk to human health results from saccharin use. Perhaps there are also other dangers from using such chemicals that are not yet known.

But there's another side to this. Do we have to make a choice between two health risks? Why should either one be necessary?

Isn't it possible for a person to select healthful foods that allow him to keep an ideal weight? What's happened to that good old-fashioned will power? Keep slim without having to depend on artificial sweeteners and other non-foods.

The choice comes down to this: Use saccharin and risk cancer; overeat and risk heart disease, high blood pressure, stroke, and diabetes - or do neither and be free of such hazards.

After all, it's your choice - and your health.



"Something different" is his joy

ALDERGROVE - Apropos the old joke of, "bring me a skein of steel wool and I'll knit you a Volkswagen," or, "steel wool comes from hydraulic rams," Don Parker of Aldergrove, after five years of racing amateur formula "V" hot rods, decided that he wanted something different. So, as the saying goes, he did something about it and the resulting joy-to-drive joy-to-behold, is a Bradley GT2 which he mainly put together himself at an approximate cost of $11,000.

As Parker brashly admits, he is an incurable car nut and his present vehicle, which he has owned and driven for three years, is a beautiful yellow bunch of bolts and fibreglass mounted on a standard Volkswagen chassis that is compiled on the lines of the traditional Ferrari-Boxer; incorporating the swallow-wing doors of the Mercedes SL300 and the A-1 perfor*mance of the incomparable* Corvette. Needless to say - it is not for sale.

Allergies are likely cause

By DR. BOB YOUNG

Postnasal drip is a general term used to describe the accumulation of material behind the nose with subsequent dripping down the throat. This is the complaint of a reader who is bothered by this problem at night only. His sleep is distrubed as he has to clear his throat many times each night.

There are several causes of postnasal drip, and as has been mentioned in this column on many occasions, the definitive cause, or diagnosis, should be determined before therapy starts.

Mucous may collect in the posterior part of the nose as the result of a foreign body being present. This is most usually seen in children who have a propensity for sticking beads, beans, and other small objects up the nostrils.

Sinusitis is also a possible cause of a postnasal drip. An acute sinusitis is usually obvious, treated promptly, and the drip disappears when the patient recovers. A chronic sinusitis may cause intermittent symptoms, be more difficult to diagnose and be more resistant to treatment. A persistent or recurrent drip down the back of the throat may be the only sympton.

Allergic and sensitivity reactions may also result in the production of excess mucous, secreted in this instance in an attempt to protect the delicate membranes. Hay-fever and dust allergies are commonly seen, and exposure to irritating fumes causes a similar effect.

Although they are rare, tumors do occur in the area behind the nose and can cause obstruction to breathing and discharge material, often blood-tinged, down the throat. Such tumors are serious and demand aggressive treatment.

Some people develop a temporary postnasal drip and the associated throat clearing and coughing develops into a habit that may remain long after the cause has gone. Treatment of this habit may be exceedingly difficult.

My correspondent, who has symptoms only at night, would be wise to try and find out if he is allergic to something (perhaps a pillow) in his bedroom.

Agri-date board service commences

ABBOTSFORD - What's happening in local agriculture? When is the next meeting of the co-op? Where is a dairy short course being held? What is the date of the dispersal sale? These are the types of questions the new Agri-Date board at the B.C. ministry of agriculture and food regional office here is designed to answer.

The Agri-Date board is a large magnetic calendar board with the capacity of listing four to seven activities each day for a complete year. Agriculture and farming events such as sales, field days, meetings and conventions, will be posted on the board for easy reference. This will also aid the planning, scheduling and co-ordination of the many events of interest to the farming community. Information can be added to or obtained from the board by any interested person or group by phone, in writing or in person. Board is intended to be a regional co-ordinating center for all agricultural events and activities in the south coastal region. Producers, agencies, organizations and individuals are invited to use the service.

Interested? The system has potential benefit for everyone involved with the region's agriculture. According to Wayne Wickens, south coastal regional director, BCMAF, "The board will show greater value the more it is used. I would encourage all agriculture groups to use this co-ordinating center as if it were their own."

Want to know what's going on in agriculture? Call the Agri-Date board in Abbotsford at 859-5281 or call your local district agriculture office for more information.

"Cosmos"

How did life on Earth begin? Do other planets have life? Dr. Carl Sagan explores the origin, evolution, and diversity of life on Earth, showing the underlying similarity hidden within the variety of living creatures in "One Voice in the Cosmic Fugue," the second episode of "Cosmos" airing Tuesday, October 6 on PBS.*

The "Cosmic Calendar" pinpoints the beginnings of life on Earth and shows the evolution of plants, dinosaurs, and mammals. With stunning computer animation, the heart of the living cell is entered to examine DNA, the master molecule of life.

To understand how evolution occurs, Dr. Sagan follow the story of the Japanese Heike crab, which humans have changed in form by selecting which crabs should live and which should die. Spectacular animation sequences trace the evolution of human beings from one-celled organisms in the primitive ocean.

The creatures on other planets, if any, also will have evolved to fit their particular alien environments. Imaginative paintings produce a speculative look at the hunters, floaters, and sinkers that could exist in the atmosphere of a Jupiter-like planet.

"Cosmos," the highest-rated regularly-scheduled series in PBS history when it aired last year, began its second season September 29 and will run until December 22.

High-Living Beasts

(IDRC) - South America's camelids -- the alpaca, the llama, and the vicuna -- have long been the friends of the poor mountain people of the High Andes. They are providers of milk, meat, and fine quality wool, and are gentle natured beasts of burden.

Until recently scientists largely ignored the camelids, lumping them in with sheep, despite the fact that they are really small humpless camels. Unlike sheep, camelids not only survive but thrive at very high altitudes, being quite at home at over 4,000 metres.

The Veterinary Institute *of High Altitude and Trop*ical Research (IVITA) in Peru recognized the animals' worth some years ago and began studies to see if production could be increased. One of their findings was that many of the camelids are infested with parasites that make their meat inedible, reduce wool production, and may lead to early death.

With the help of Canada's International Development Research Centre, IVITA is now developing improved feeding, disease control, and animal husbandry systems for these valuable animals.

Teeming World

(IDRC) - The year 2110 will be a milestone in human history, experts are predicting. According to a recent United Nations report, world population growth will come to a halt about 130 years from now. By that time, the number of people on the planet will have swollen to about 10.5 billion -- 2 ½ times the present figure.

However, the report says the total could reach as much as 14.2 billion or remain as low as 8 billion, depending on the success of today's population programs in slowing growth rates.

Europe will be the first region to achieve zero population growth (probably in 50 years), followed by North America, the U.S.S.R., South and East Asia, and Latin America. Africa's population will be the last to stabilize -- with four times as many people as it has now.

When world population finally levels off, 87 per cent of the earth's human inhabitants will be living in today's developing countries. Right now the figure is 76 per cent.

Lacy J. Dalton has been on the road recently, plugging her Columbia single, "Taking It Easy," from her album of the same title. Lacy has enjoyed sellout crowds in Tulsa, St. Louis, Knotts Berry Farm and the San Jose, California State Fair.

She is currently in the midst of a month long tour throughout the upper northwest, after performing on the Minneapolis "Air Play Show," the "Almost Alive Show" in Memphis, and taping a segment for "That Nashville Music."

"Hee Haw's" dobro player, Shot Jackson, is reportedly doing well after open heart surgery and should be able to tape the syndicated TV show this month.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Walker have opened the Charlie Walker Magic Mill Center in Hendersonville, Tennessee. The store specializes in fresh baked goods and health foods.

One of the best singles on the current country market is Reba McIntire's "Today All Over Again," co-written by Lola Jean Dillon and Bobby Harden. This ballad has kept Reba at the top of the country charts for the past several weeks, and the track is also in her latest Mercury album.

Mae Axton is telling the world that it's football time again, and that in life, as in football, there are winners and losers. According to Mae (and she's usually right), in both football and life, the players are giving it their all to bring home the "win." In case you don't know, Mae's son, Hoyt, was an All-State Florida Tackle and Oklahoma State University lineman before becoming Hoyt Axton, the singer/writer/actor/entertainer/etc.

Hoyt's newest Jeremiah Records single is "We've Got to Win This One," which brings to mind that Hoyt's dad, John Axton, was Little All America in college and has been named to the Oklahoma Coaches Hall of Fame and to the Hall of Fame at Oklahoma East Central University, after a coaching career that spanned nearly 40 years.

"We've Got to Win This One" is a pep talk in song, and should apply to all of us who stumble along in life, whether it be in sports or just day-to-day living.

Winterize now or get the winter blues

Each year at about this time, we hear the same message from most motoring columnists, "Are you and your car ready for winter?" And every year, we seem too busy to heed the advice, until the morning after the first subzero night of winter, when we call the local garage to report that the car won't start. Hopefully, we have all learned from previous mistakes.

If you didn't take advantage of the long balmy fall days get busy now before it's too late. You don't need last minute hassles with your garage mechanic with the high cost of servicing these days. Try some wintering procedures yourself that can save you immediate dollars and maybe hundreds more in the long run.

You don't have to be an experienced mechanic to winterize your car; in fact, there are several fairly simple procedures that any motorist with limited mechanical knowledge can perform.

All too often, car-owners may think that putting snow tires on is a catch-all solution for winterization. Snow tires are essential to safe winter driving and they should not be overlooked. A great deal more is required, however, to safeguard your car for the tough months ahead.

Anti-freeze/coolant

One area that should be of vital concern to you is your car's cooling system. If it's weak or has been neglected, you're running the risk of rust and corrosion in your radiator. Even after only 9000 miles, you could end up with clogged passages and that could mean costly damage. A clogged or corroded radiator for example, will cost an estimated repair bill of $150 – $300, while burned valves and others range from $500 – $700 in repairs.

According to the people at Prestone, makers of Prestone II, an anti-freeze/coolant has two specific jobs, to keep the engine coolant from boiling over as a result of extremely high temperatures, and naturally, to keep the engine from freezing during those long, cold winter months.

The Prestone people also have a Do It Yourself Flush and Fill product on the market that lets drivers back flush their cooling system themselves, which can save money.

The Flush and Fill method has a big advantage because it flushes the entire cooling system, including the engine block, not just the radiator. All you need is a screwdriver, a knife and a common garden hose... and about 15 minutes.

Battery

The three most common signs of winter car trouble are no-start, rough idle or lack of power and performance, and, in most cases, they can be directly attributed to neglected battery cables or a dirty ignition system. With a minimum amount of tools and experience, the battery can be easily cleaned.

By Charles Martin, Motoring Correspondent

Using a solution of baking soda and water and a clean cloth, remove the corrosive build-up around the battery posts and cables. When corrosion forms in this area, it can build up to the point where it insulates the battery cable from the post, and, as a result, the car receives no power.

After scrubbing the deposits away from the outside of the cable, carefully remove the cable from the posts without damaging or prying at the threads. If they are unusually difficult to remove, a special battery cable puller can be purchased.

Next, clean the inside surfaces of the clamps and the outside surfaces of the posts down to the bare metal. Remove the caps on top of the battery and check the electrolyte level. If the fluid is down, use distilled water to bring the fluid back up to the proper level.

Ignition

The distributor, rotor, ignition coil, dust covers and spark plugs are all components of the ignition system and should be kept free of dust and defects. Wash these components with a cleaning solvent and inspect them for cracks and other defects. If there is a hairline crack in the distributor cap, for example, the component should be replaced immediately. Spark plugs should be serviced and replaced regularly as specified by the manufacturer. Any auto parts specialist can tell you exactly what kind of plugs you need for your car and how much they should be "gapped" for maximum performance. There's no need for any confusion.

One of the easiest and least expensive things any motorist can do is put together a winter emergency traveler's kit. It can save both aggravation and money and could spell relief when a problem arises.

At the very least, here's what your emergency kit should include:

- a sturdy shovel,
- a 15 foot tow rope,
- a flashlight with fresh batteries,
- at least two roadside flares,
- a role of vinyl or rubber electrical tape in case of emergency hose repairs,
- a set of jumper cables,
- and Prestone II.

Even drivers who have no intention of ever leaving city streets could do well to carry such basics which can be stored easily in the trunk.

TOUR BRITISH COLUMBIA

The cool, quiet Kettle

by Lyn Hancock

Almost everyone knows the beautiful but busy lakeshore drive between Osoyoos and Vernon. But for a change of pace on your next Okanagan holiday, try "The Kettle."

This little used road through the Kettle Valley east of Highway 33 offers uncrowded campsites, unlimited fishing, and pristine lake and forest scenery. It is just far enough away from the noise and bustle of the Okanagan but close enough to buzz back in for a restaurant meal or a night on the town if camp cooking palls.

If you don't have your own vehicle, Penticton or Kelowna are ideal places to start your journey. The airline flies there daily and there are plenty of places to rent cars when you get there.

12 O'CLOCK HIGH

Hurry north to Vernon and set your odometer at zero when you pass the floral clock in Polson Park. This is Highway 6 bound for Lumby and Cherryville. As you turn your back on the hot Okanagan, you enter the cool forests and mountains of the Monashees which give birth to both the Kettle and West Kettle rivers.

The prettiest part of your journey begins at km 80 just past McIntyre Lake as you turn onto the excellently gravelled and graded Kettle Forest Development Road which follows the Kettle Valley south to Rock Creek. Here, thanks to the B.C. Forest Service, you can choose from among several picturesquely situated recreation sites.

TOUCH OF CLASS

Camping areas are furnished with tables, toilets, firewood and garbage cans. Some campers even leave bouquets of tabletop wildflowers. However, even on a long weekend in summer, you are likely to have the road to yourself and share only with abundant wildflowers, ground squirrels, deer and rainbow trout.

Some of the most outstanding campsites are at Bruer Creek (km 95), Winnifred Creek (km 100) and Mohr Creek (km 110). Leave your car at Winnifred Creek and walk the trail to a 24 meter waterfall which crashes over the boulders in a shady canyon to meet the Kettle River. Have your camera and fishing rod ready. Deer often wade the river here and trout rise to the fly.

The road, lined with wild roses, winding through tall lodgepoles along the Kettle River, crossing innumerable creeks and passing unnamed campsites, spawns many side roads. One, at km 130, is rewarding and easily remembered. From the Damfino (Damned if I know) Creek and Bridge, a road leads northwest 13 km to Nevertouch Lake.

GENTLE CREATURES

Game was once so plentiful here that hunters sat in nearby trees to let the white-tailed deer come to them. Even now the casual camper glimpses deer, as well as the ubiquitous squirrels and chipmunks. Launching a boat is easy at Nevertouch and when you get tired of fishing, you can explore the island in the lake.

You'll find the State Creek campsite near the former community of Christian Valley (km 175). Continuing south on the Kettle Valley Road, you reach pavement at km 190; the Westbridge Store and remains of the old Kettle Valley Railway line at km 225; the excellent Kettle River Provincial Park at km 230; and the major Highway 3 at Rock Creek (km 240).

As you follow the signs west and north to Penticton and Kelowna, to increasing crowds and civilization, look back over your shoulder as the road switchbacks high above the river. You are saying goodbye to one of the most beautiful, unspoiled, seldom visited, yet easily accessible areas in B.C.

Native youth take pride in heritage

VANCOUVER - There is no way of putting a measuring stick to the Canadian character of Labatt's beyond the fact of its 100 year record of active involvement in promoting Canada's cultural heritage. This summer the wholly owned Canadian company expanded upon this noteworthy tradition.

Through Labatt's summer job creation program for students, the museum of anthropology at the University of British Columbia hired three native youths, between 15 and 17 years of age, to study native West Coast culture. Over the summer months they gave impressive oral presentations based on their research and displayed both group and individual projects to over 3,000 museum visitors.

On a special field trip to the Makah cultural center at Neah Bay in Washington the youths were invited to speak to an enthusiastic audience at the center. They spoke of their heritage and explained the use of many tools, cooking and dress items first made by ancestors centuries ago. "This was one of the highlights of the summer," explains program manager Madeline Rowan. "The teenagers raised enough funds for the trip south of the border by organizing and hosting an Indian-style salmon barbecue. It was thoroughly enjoyed by friends, museum and other campus works alike.

"Their efforts were well worth it as the exchange of ideas and discussions following their presentation was an exciting experience for all," Rowan says.

The unique native youth program was conceived of three years ago by anthropology enthusiast and lecturer, Rowan, and noted author and lecturer on coastal Indians, Hilary Stewart. "The objective of the program is to provide an opportunity for interested local native youths to learn about their heritage in a practical and fun way," says Rowan.

During the past few months Angela Campbell, Kim Guerin, and Ron Joseph have explored the utilization of the cedar tree in the Indian culture. They made a variety of items based on ancestral methods for stripping the bark and processing the wood for the honing of special carving tools and weaving of clothing, in particular.

According to the students they have shared in many benefits by working at the museum. "The opportunity to have met such respected artists as Bill Reid, Jim Hart, Mike Nichols and Wally Henry revealed the dedication discipline, and skills a good artist must develop", says Kim who "learned a lot" from making a ceremonial rattle on her own. Together the group of students working at the museum spent two weeks making a child's skirt from the cedar tree's inner bark.

Speaking of the value of a native youth program Bill Reid says, "This project which exists this summer through the assistance of Labatt's is an excellent concept that should be developed further."

"For the student to really achieve the skills needed to carve or paint a year-round program should be developed," Hart adds. "Just to learn how to properly sharpen and modify special carving tools is a course in itself."

Ron Joseph, a 17-year-old who designed t-shirts for the group and fashioned a cedar beater out of B.C.'s indigenous wood, learned the use of various coastal Indian tools. He incorporated what he learned into the presentation designed for museum visitors. Having enjoyed meeting people from all over the world Ron plans to travel through Europe over the next few years. "I learned a great deal about other cultures as well as my own this summer. I'd like to learn more."

Angela plans on pursuing a degree in anthropology after she completes high school. The slide show she assisted in producing portraying the life-style of B.C.'s natives, who lived in villages up and down the coast for thousands of years prior to the arrival of the white man, inspired many of the museum's visitors. On many occasions they engaged in lively discussions with the students long after the presentation ended.

Rowan says in evaluating the project, "What emerged was a sense that the native youths experienced, in a small way, a portion of their heritage; and further, they communicated their pride and enthusiasm to all they met. The museum is grateful for the generous support of Labatt's and to the federal government's student employment program coordinator who recommended our project to Labatt's."
