Sheep in Strong Demand

Great Interest Being Taken in Sheep Raising in Saskatchewan

Judging by the correspondence received by the live stock branch of the Saskatchewan department of agriculture, a great development is due to take place in the sheep industry of this province. Inquiries from intending purchasers are being received daily, and the demand is not confined to any particular section, as farmers from all over the province, attracted doubtless by high prices of both wool and mutton, are anxious to engage in so profitable a branch of their industry. Two thousand head purchased under the live stock purchase and sales act of this province have been placed this fall, and orders for many more are already on hand and increasing rapidly. With a view to keeping in the province as many sheep as possible, a circular letter is being sent to all sheep owners, asking them to advise the department of any sheep they may have for sale. It is hoped by this means to satisfy at least part of the demand this fall. The apparently general desire to go in for sheep raising is viewed with much satisfaction.

A Safe Pill for Sufferers.—There are pills that violently purge and fill the stomach and intestines with pain. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are mild and effective. They are purely vegetable, no mineral purgative entering into their composition and their effect is soothing and beneficial. Try them and be convinced. Thousands can attest their great curative qualities because thousands owe their health and strength to timely use of this most excellent medicine.

Alberta's Total Wool Clip

The total wool clip of the province of Alberta, last season, was 2,086,633, and its total value $1,181,682. It is fair to assume that next season's crop will exceed this by several hundred pounds, as a great many sheep have been imported since last season.

Minard's Liniment Cures Diphtheria.

Fishing Booming

The wider market available in the United States and Canada this year for Newfoundland herring, because of the great reduction in the importations from Scotland and Holland, has stimulated the industry in this country. The winter fisheries are now in full swing off the west coast and better catches than usual are being made. The packers have largely adopted the Scotch curing method, instead of shipping herring salted in bulk, as heretofore, as greater demand and higher prices prevail for the Scotch-cured fish.

CUTICURA HEALS BAD DISFIGUREMENT

Very Itchy. Burned at Night. Could Scarcely Sleep. Healed in One Week.

"My face became very red and swollen and broke out in watery blisters. Then it got very itchy and used to burn so that at night I could scarcely sleep. Later the blisters broke out forming hard scales and my face was badly disfigured. Then I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in about a week's time I was completely healed."

Large Shipments of Cattle From Northern Alberta

The live stock industry of Northern Alberta has received a great impetus by the number of huge sales of cattle that have taken place recently. Not very long ago a shipment of 22 cars was made from Edmonton, Alberta, to the United States, the approximate value of this shipment being $50,000. Recently a still larger shipment was made when 29 cars, containing 626 head of cattle, valued at $68,000, left Edmonton for St. Paul, Minn. These cattle were purchased from farmers in various parts of Northern Alberta and testified to the high standard of animal the Alberta farmer insists on breeding on his farm. A feature of the consignment was a herd of 100 head from Fort Saskatchewan, Alberta, which netted the seller an average price of $108 a head. The future of the live stock industry in Northern Alberta, is very bright. Large stock buyers of the United States and Canada are directing their purchasing power to this part of the country, where sound, healthy cattle are raised as cheaply as anywhere on the continent.

THE CAUSE OF BACKACHE

Every muscle in the body needs constantly a supply of rich, red blood in proportion to the work it does. The muscles of the back are under a heavy strain and have but little rest. When the blood is thin they lack nourishment, and the result is a sensation of pain in those muscles. Some people think pain in the back means kidney trouble, but the best medical authorities agree that backache seldom or never has anything to do with the kidneys. Organic kidney disease may have progressed to a critical point without developing a pain in the back. This being the case pain in the back should always lead the sufferer to look to the condition of his blood. It will be found in most cases that the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to build up the blood will stop the sensation of pain in the ill-nourished muscles of the back. How much better it is to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for the blood than to give way to unreasonable alarm about your kidneys. If you suspect your kidneys any doctor can make tests in ten minutes that will set your fears at rest, or tell you the worst. But in any even to be perfectly healthy you must keep the blood in good condition, and for this purpose no other medicine can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Strange Recovery of Jewels

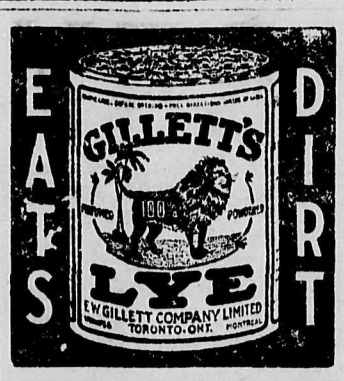
Who Opened the Lusitania's Safe Is a Mystery

When the Lusitania was torpedoed by a German submarine off the coast of Ireland, with the loss of 1,100 lives, she carried with her, among other rich freight, a consignment of diamonds in transit from New York to London upon which the Union Insurance Company of Bangor, Me., carried a risk of $13,000.

The company promptly paid the claim, and entered the $13,000 in its loss account. But, it now appears, long after the great disaster, the insurance company received a London draft for the full amount of its risk, with the information that the diamonds had been recovered, says The Louisville Post.

An Irish fisherman, upon hauling his trawls, found that he had hooked the most valuable fish in his career—a small package, which bore plainly enough the address of a firm of London jewelers, and which upon examination was found to contain diamonds—the gems upon which the Bangor Insurance company, among others, carried risks. The fisherman got his due amount of salvage, and the diamond merchants were glad to return the insurance money.

The puzzle is: Having presumably been locked up in the purser's safe, how did the diamond packet get loose so that it came up on the fisherman's trawl?—From the New London Day.



Bullet Before Report

Experiments Prove Sound Travels More Slowly Than Bullet

In the firing line it has often been noticed that bullets travelling at high speed produce two sounds. A man fired at from about 400 yards hears first a vicious crash. That is the bullet passing. A little later the report of the rifle comes along. The speed of sound has, in fact, been beaten by the speed of rifle bullets.

Modern military rifle bullets, when fired, travel at from 2,000 to 3,000 feet in one second. Sound can only travel along at 1,100 feet per second. So it happens that when a man who has been fired at hears the report of a rifle, he knows he is safe—at least, from that particular shot.

It is, naturally, at long ranges that the two distinct sounds are most noticeable. At a range of 1,000 yards a bullets arrives at least a second, and sometimes more, in advance of the report. The sound of the flying bullet is caused by a vacuum at its rear.

With the Fingers! Says Corns Lift Out Without Any Pain

Sore corns, hard corns, soft corns or any kind of a corn can shortly be lifted right out with the fingers if you will apply on the corn a few drops of freezone, says a Cincinnati authority.

At little cost one can get a small bottle of freezone at any drug store, which will positively rid one's feet of every corn or callus without pain or soreness or the danger of infection.

This new drug is an ether compound and dries the moment it is applied and does not inflame or even irritate the surrounding tissue. Just think! You can life off your corns and calluses now without a bit of pain or soreness. If your druggist hasn't freezone he can easily get a small bottle for you from his wholesale drug house.

COPENHAGEN CHEWING TOBACCO

One of the reasons why Copenhagen Chewing Tobacco is becoming more and more popular is, because it does not attract attention in the mouth.

It is not chewed; on the contrary, a small pinch is placed in the mouth between the lower lip and gum.

This gives complete satisfaction without chewing, and leaves a pleasant, cool after-taste.

Copenhagen Chewing Tobacco is scientifically prepared, of the best old, ripe, high flavored leaf tobacco.

It is in the form of small grains, and being very rich, only a small quantity should be placed in the mouth.

Improving Breeding Stock

Hereford Cattle are Prominent in Alberta

If the possession of the highest priced bulls is any indication, Alberta has gained the lead for the American continent in the Hereford breed of cattle. Within its borders is the home of four of the highest priced Hereford bulls in any state or province in America. They are: Beau Perfection 48th, which has been bred and raised by the Curtice Cattle company, of Langdon, Alberta; Gay Lad 40th, owned by Frank Collicut, and bought for $11,700; Martin Fairfax, who was purchased by its present owner, George E. Fuller, for $17,000; and Gay Lad 16th, purchased by S. C. Moore for $20,000. In addition to these high-priced males, there are many valuable females in this province.

Beau Perfection created a name for himself by winning the first prize at the Calgary summer fair in competition with all the high-priced animals in the province. This bull has been entered for the championship of the world at the International Live Stock Exhibition at Chicago, and his owner, who is sending 15 head of various breeding classes of cattle to this exhibition, is very sanguine of his chance of carrying off the championship.

Fine Potatoes in Northern Alberta

The Edmonton district of Alberta is rapidly making a name for itself on account of its potatoes. This is the rule, rather than the exception in this district.

Bread and Bacon Prices

Why Bread is Cheaper in Britain Than in Canada

Statements persist and are being used in an attempt to discredit the work of the food controller, that the prices of bacon and bread are higher in Canada than they are in Great Britain. The allegation in regard to bacon has been emphatically denied and officially compiled prices from different cities have been cited which prove that the prices for bacon are lower in this country than in Great Britain. In the case of bread, too, the situation has been explained many times. The bread of England is war bread, subsidized by the government and containing other ingredients than white flour. Commencing on September 17, the government of Great Britain fixed the standard price of flour at $7.38 per barrel and the uniform price for bread at 18 cents for a four-pound loaf, with a one-pound loaf at 5 cents. Already $200,000,000 has been appropriated to apply as a subsidy to sustain these prices.

A STARTLING ANSWER TO THE PEACE SUFFRAGIST ARGUMENTS

GERMAN PEACE MEANS HUN WORLD-DOMINANCE

A Woman Who Has Seen the Germans at War, Tells in a Vivid Manner Some of the Crimes She has Witnessed, and What The Hun Peace Would Mean to the World

In your issue of yesterday's date it is reported that 300 suffrage women loudly "cheered a plan to force laying down of arms." This shows, on the part of those women, either ignorance or brutality. For if they knew one-tenth part of the sufferings which are being endured by those who have already been forced to lay down arms, and if they had one ounce of sympathy in their hearts, they would die of shame at having given voice to such monstrous inhumanity.

For peace at this moment would mean a German peace; German peace means German world-dominance, and this means subjugation, by force of arms, of all non-German people; it means militarism, barbarism, slavery, not only in Europe, but also on this continent. For as soon as Europe is conquered America's turn would follow, in accordance with German plans. "Germany's soul," said Treitschke, "is God's soul; it shall and will rule over all mankind."

My eyes were opened to this truth in August, 1914. I was engaged in hospital work in Belgium, when I was arrested by the Germans as a spy and condemned to be shot within 24 hours. When I suggested to the commandant of one of the towns through which I was dragged as prisoner that he should at least look at my papers and see that what I had told him was right, and that I had been engaged in hospital work when his army came a little prematurely into Brussels, he replied: "Right! You are English, and, whether you are right or wrong, this is a war of annihilation." Annihilation, as I understood, of everything that was not German.

I am an ardent suffragist in the old country, but I have, since 1907, contended that before agitating for a share of political responsibility women should prove that they are capable of taking a share in national defence. With this object, the Women's Convoy Corps—the pioneer corps of women's war work—was organized in 1908, to learn all work for sick and wounded, between field hospital and base. And during the first Balkan war, in 1912-13 we went to Kirk Kilisee, in Bulgaria, and there established the first war hospital unit to be composed of women only. "Look after national defence and the vote will look after itself" was our motto.

And if national defence should take precedence of politics, how much above politics should we not place defence of the human right of all mankind to freedom?

In Belgium, in France, and in Serbia I have seen the result of German rule in conquered lands, and I know that it means literally hell on earth. In Serbia, with rank of major in the Serbian army, I commanded a flying field hospital throughout the three months of the Serbian retreat, and in the final flight over the mountains of Montenegro and Albania saw the dead and dying bodies of thousands whose lives will have been sacrificed in vain if the freedom of their country is not won. Out of a population of four millions, less than two million are now living, and they account those happiest who are dead. All the children under two years old have perished. Out of one little band of 30,000 Serbian boys who tried to reach the coast during the retreat, 24,000 left their bones upon the mountains. The atrocities committed during the first invasion of Serbia beat the German records in Belgium. Civilians were massacred, villages destroyed, women and children were driven into buildings, wounded that they should not escape, and the buildings set ablaze. In another case 100 people were pinioned, surrounded by wire coil, and placed at the edge of a deep pit; they were then fired upon, and fell, pele mele, into the pit, which was immediately filled up with earth, burying 50 per cent. of them alive. Meanwhile, another party, composed chiefly of women and children, were dragged up to witness the execution, and at the finish were made to throw up their arms and shout "Long live the Emperor Francis Joseph!"

Do the 300 women who are clamoring for peace realize that already Austria, Russia, Turkey, Bulgaria, Poland, Rumania, Serbia, Greece, Belgium a large part of France, part of Italy, are already either directly or indirectly subjugated by Germany, and that if the rest of the civilized world is to be saved, every man and woman who is worthy of a place in civilization must devote every ounce of energy to the task? Is it not petty, pitiable, inconceivable, that at this crisis of human history there can exist women who seem chiefly concerned with personal politics? They are indeed like Nero, fiddling while Rome is perhaps literally burning.

And if Germany wins this war, where then would woman suffrage stand? That is not made in Germany. What place would woman have in the German militarist world? Woman would be only the producer of human food for cannon. "History," says Treitschke, "wears thoroughly masculine features; it is not for sentimental natures or for women."

War is to me as much an abomination as to those 300 women. Before the outbreak of this war I was a member of peace societies, and on the evening when war was declared in our English house of commons I was speaking at a meeting which had been convened by Mrs. Fawcett and other women, in the hope that peace might be maintained. This was before we knew that the honor of Belgium, of France, of Britain of the civilized world was at stake. But I know now from personal experience of the enemy whom in old days I had admired, and from a study of German literature of the last forty years, that German victory and German peace would mean the enslavement of the word. And most ardently I would ask those 300 women who have just won their own freedom to realize that in voting for peace while Europe is in German hands they are using their own enfranchisement to further the disenfranchisement of all mankind.—By Mrs. St. Clair Stobart in New York Times.

"WHO WILL WIN THIS BATTLE?"

Your kidneys are the filters of the body. If they become inactive and fail to eliminate the waste matter, they are apt to throw the whole mechanism of the body out of order, thus toxic poisons can accumulate in the system and be as deadly as snake venom.

Besides causing the minor ailments of rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago and backache, neglect of the kidneys is apt to develop into more serious diseases, such as diabetes or stone in the bladder.

Rid the body of toxic poisons—clean the bladder and kidneys and cure the twinges of rheumatism with Anuric and you win the battle of life.

Anuric was first discovered by Dr. Pierce, and has benefited thousands of sufferers as well as appeased and eliminated the ravages of the more serious kidney diseases. Now procurable at any good drug store, or send Dr. V. M. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., or branch office, Bridgeburg, Ont., 10 cents for trial package.

Thorold, Ont.—"I was wonderfully helped by taking 'Anuric.' For about three years I had kidney trouble and rheumatism. I also had backache. My limbs would swell and I had rheumatism in my arms and hands. My hands would swell and joints would be so sore and stiff I could scarcely do my work. They would pain me something awful. I doctored but without relief. At last I saw 'Anuric' advertised. I began its use and two bottles completely cured me of all my rheumatism, and I think it was permanent for that was a year ago and I have never had any return of this ailment. I have never found a medicine so good as 'Anuric'."—Mrs. R. H. Hutty.

One of Heroes of Flanders

Sergt. Cope, a Soldier of Considerable Valor

How a brave sergeant of the Northampton regiment swam the river Yser and gave the warning of an impending attack in a recent battle on the Belgian coast is graphically but modestly told in his own words in a London newspaper.

"We were retiring to the support line," said the sergeant, "when the Germans started coming down the communication trenches. An officer told me to get a dozen men and try to stop them. I had a bit of a "go" at them as they went from traverse to traverse till all my men got 'sploshed' but three. Retiring again, I got another dozen men together, and had another go at hand-to-hand fighting. We stuck it until there were only seven of us left, the Germans outnumbering us by about twenty to one. I then told the men to look out for their own skins and I stopped until they all got clear. I ran back to a shell hole with my rifle and 'toothpick,' and having twenty rounds left, had another 'splosh' at the Boches, who were busily making a machine gun emplacement, and I put two of them over. As there was nobody left I retired to the canal, ten of the Germans trying to 'Scotch' me, but I only got a tap in the back. I dashed into the canal, which was about 40 feet wide, and I got safely to the other side. I reached the next division's headquarters, made a report and saw one or two Generals, who told me I was lucky to get out of it, and now I'm home on ten days' leave."

Sergeant Cope, the hero of this escapade, is the son of a shoemaker of Peterborough, England. Although he has only just reached his twenty-first birthday he has already been wounded five times.

Tribute to Canadian Soldiers

Dash of French and Tenacity of Anglo-Saxon Accounts for Their Great Deeds

The French newspaper Excelsior published an interview with Lieut.-Gen. Sir Arthur Currie, commander of the Canadian army corps, who paid the highest tribute to his men. In the course of the interview General Currie said:

"It is the mixture of the two races which gives us such fine soldiers. They have got the dash and irresistible elan of the French and the tenacity of the Anglo-Saxon. It is 'furia Francaise' coupled with bulldog grit. When my boys have their teeth in they do not let go."

General Currie recalled with pride that the Canadian army did not know what defeat was. From its first appearance on the battlefield to its recent capture of Passchendaele ridge fortune had always rested on its valor.

"That is one of the reasons of the army's morale," said General Currie. "An army that has never known defeat can be led to the end of the world. But there are other reasons for the army's fine, sturdy spirit. They are fighting with full consciousness of the justice of their cause. These 450,000 volunteers did not join up and leave the comfort of their homes in order to hurl themselves into a war of conquest and lust. They have resolutely descended into the furnace of war in order to defend the cradle of their common ancestors and the civilization handed down by past generations, and they will not give up until the fire is quenched."

General Currie spoke in glowing terms of the officers under his command and of the French army, which he had watched in action.

Asked when the war would end, he replied:

"When there are no more Boches."

All Trades Opened To Returned Men

M.H.C. Perfects Plans Which Will Make Factories Training Centres

There are now 39 different vocations being taught in the vocational training centres of the military hospitals commission linked across Canada.

This number will be increased indefinitely to embrace the whole category of industries in Canada if necessary when the present plans of the commission to place men needing to learn new trades by reason of their injuries, in the factories have been put into operation.

The co-operation of the Canadian Manufacturers' association has made it possible for the commission to offer the men this in estimable advantage of working under actual industrial conditions in learning their new trades.

A DOMINION WIDE CAMPAIGN TO ENCOURAGE GREATER PRODUCTION

CANADIAN PRODUCERS MUST RESPOND TO CALL

Federal Department of Agriculture is Directing the Campaign And the Provincial Departments of Agriculture Have Taken Up the Work with Determination and Enthusiasm

A campaign for increased production of food animals, with special emphasis on the necessity of a larger supply of pork products, has been launched in every province in the Dominion. Co-operating with the food controller, the federal department of agriculture is directing the campaign and the provincial departments of agriculture have taken up the work with enthusiasm and determination to make the campaign a complete success. The objective is an average increase of fifty per cent. in the production of hogs in Canada in 1918.

Following the meeting in Ottawa of representatives of all of the provinces of Eastern Canada, as reported in the last issue of The Canadian Food Bulletin, representatives of the western departments of agriculture were in conference recently with officials of the federal department. Those attending the conference included western deputy ministers of agriculture, western live stock breeders and representatives of breeding associations.

Mr. Hanna addressed the meeting on November 7. He emphasized the necessity of an increased production of bacon to meet the requirements of the allied countries, and stated that the packing house industry would be regulated to the satisfaction of the producer as well as of the consumer. The food controller read a telegram from Mr. Hoover, food administrator of the United States, outlining what was being done in that country to secure an increased hog production.

Mr. Hanna also read the following cablegram which he had just received from the British ministry of food:

"We cabled Owen Smith Monday informing him that we had just been able to secure from the treasury three million dollars for purchase of bacon, hams and lard in Canada and instructing him to purchase up to this amount. Tonnage will be provided. This action will, I hope, provide relief referred to in your cable. Lord Rhondda is sparing no effort to arrange for fullest possible facilities for buying in Canada."

Hon. T. A. Crerar, minister of agriculture, addressed the representatives in attendance at the conference at an evening meeting on November 7. He promised that the government would control the packing houses and regulate the margin of profit between the producers and the consumers. He said that those who had studied the food situation were seized by the fact that there was a shortage of food in many lines, and he feared that there would be a still greater shortage in the months to come. To obviate this as much as possible it was necessary to take the situation in hand at once.

THURSDAY JAN. 17, 1918

On Monday euening the nominees for election to the City Council held a meeting in the Maple Leaf Theatre which a large number of ratepayer's attended. J. H, Macintyre was appointed chairman and announced that Mr. Robertson would address the audience first.

Mr. Robertson said that he had hesitated about coming out for office until the meeting the other night when some facts of the war from a consevattion and prlouction standpoint were put to us straight from the shoulder when it struck me that I could see a chance for doing some good for my country, this city, and the citizens My idea is to bring the people together in unity, To voluntarily make small sacrifices. You see in the paper that a slice of bread saved each day totals 8,000,000. if the people all line up. I would not ask you to upport any particular individual or ticket on the platform for I want the help of every one of them if elected. I never believed in ticket elections, they are not fair, right of just. because any. thing brought up as a ticket measure must have the support of the whole tickst, whether right or wrong. and this would not be the democracy the world is clamouring about, but tyranny.

He also deplored the enormous overhead expenses of the city. It is said that enough money has been spent on salaries, lawyers fees and incidentals to have built streets of some class, also sidewalks, and have cleaned up the city generally; sometimes one wondered if Main St. were not a water main. The Electric Light question has been the biggest jumble and the most problemetical question of this city: It must be finished now or put in away in a nice little box away out or sight. I will do all I can to further the estabiishing of evaporating. shibuilding, Flying machine plants, canneries and sawmills.

Mr. Duncan said he had been working for upwards of twenty years with the axe and plough and now had a few hours to spare to give to the Council if need be Neither he nor any member of his family were stockholders in the Electric Light Co. He said that the citizens had decided what they wanted done in the matter of the Electric Light, and if he was elected would endeaeor to carry out their wishes and finish the deal, He also thought the city should have a water system. Everybody knew how bad the main street was He would endeayor to have it covered with crushed rock He said the school site was a good one but we needed new buildings so the children from the country schools could have an equal chance with those in the cities. He was doing his best to secure a shipbuilding industry for the district. and urged that production and conservation was most important. He thoug h thought that the city should give industrial plants free taxes and low water and light rates. He said he was not on any ticket. nor the nominee of any particular gentleman, and no one had any strings on him.

The next speaker was Albert Kerton, who is a candidate in Ward 2. He said he wouldn't have time to get around to see all the electors. If elected would endeavor to have some improvements made in this ward especially. He saw the Lake Trail had a sidewalk but ladies with hobble skirts could not get across the canal which was now full of water.

J. W. McKenzie said he had been left off the slate by Mr. Johnston's nomiating committe because he did not appoint the standing committees just as Mr. Johnston wanted, and did not keep the police force guarding the Lake Trail sidewalk. He was going to support Mr, Robertson for Mayor. He lives in the city and has the city's interest more at heart than Mr. Duncan who lives outside, and who, he said, was formerly on the Electric Light ticket. He was not in favor of any clique or ticket. though they were probably all right in former years The Electric Light question should not be in the election. The council found it hard to float the bonds: the best offer they had at any time was 83, and now a scheme was in hand to have them taken locally. He did not think a water system could be put in for many years. Mr. Duncan had been intimate with the government for many years, but could not get a new school or bridge He had secured $1000 for a bridge over the slough, a promise to build a steel bridge over the river, a promise to pay half the expense of the upkeep of the Comox road, and a new school building for next year. Mr. Duncan had only attended the Council meetings a few times, once to collect a $400 bill for damages for taking some gravel out of his pit, and the city had let a contract to fill it in for $40, and the work is not done yet. He predicted that Mr. Duncan would be too busy on his farm to attend meetings, while Mr. Robertson would not be busy in the evening selling drugs. He asked for the suffrage of the vote in Ward 2, where he hoped a sidewalk would be built in the near future.

Mr, J. K, Urquhart said he was a candidate in Ward 1, and it elected would do his best for the city.

Ald. Leighton was also a candidate in Ward 1 again. He could not do very much at the council board last year, the odds were too great against him, His only reason for again running was because he objected to the Ticket Commissioner and Elections, who was afraid to come out. The rest of the candidates were good fellows and would do their best for the city. He said the city's business should be done by the Councillors and at the Coauncil board. Thought the salaries of city officials was much too high and should be reduced. He had been accused of being in favor of an open town; he certainly was not, and if elected would endeavor to have more improvements in Ward 1.

Harry L0ggie said he had been induced by a large number of ratepayers to stand for election; he would not make any promises except to do his best in the city's interest. Always had been in favor of the city o ning it's own utilities; at the present time it was a hard proposition, but the people had voted for it. Was in favor of the city installing a water system the fire had given us a bad scorching, but we had not done anything yet. More attention should be paid to the main street; he was not one of a bunch to put an alley in a certain place. He was a candidtte in Ward 2, and would be thankful for the support of his friends.

Lloyd Dunham said he was a candidate in Ward 1, but thought the election would be a failure as Mr. Boden was not a candida'e this year; however, he was in favor of the city owning its own utilities, shipyards, and everything else.

Fred Kerton said he was again a candidete for Ward 1; he had sat at the council board before and had left to "do his bit" at soldiering, and was now back again. He wouldn't criticize the Lake Trail sidewalk: when there was so much being said about shipbuilding there was no telling what the canal might be used for.

Ald. Aston said that he had been elected by acclamation in Ward 3 he was a candidate for Police Commissioner. He said Mayor McKenzie was not consistent enough to suit him, "that's why I am not standing by his side in this campaign For three or four months it was next to impossible to get quorums. He had no criticism to make regarding the sidewalk, it was delayed by lack of men and teams He had, as chairman of the Board of Works, early in the year got Union and Isabel Streets surveyed with a view to having it graded, but it was impossible to have the work done, however, he hoped it would be done this year, also that Isabel St. would get a sidewalk and electric Lights.

Harry Idiens is in the field as Alderman for Ward 2, and if elected would give his best efforts for the city, and especially for Ward 2,

Archie Stenhouse is also a candidate for Ward 2, and promises that any measures which were for the city's good would have his hearty support.

Mr. Duncan said in conclusion that Mr. McKenzie had devoted more time to telling the people why he should not run than he had given to his own candidature, and quite a wordy warfare was imminent for a time between the two.

Mr. Robertson said that it was he who cornered the inspector and secured the $500 grant for the schools and a promise that the cost of a new school should be put in the estimate for this year. He had been instrumental in getting the lights in the orchard, and if elected the one particular thing he would see to was Main St.

The Annual Meeting of the United Farmers of B. C. was held in the Agricultural Hall on Monday afternoon. There was a fair attendance of the agriculturists of the Valley. The Association now numbers about 130 members The retiring president, Mr. C. F. Jackson, gave a lengthy report of the year's business, and the Treasurer's report showed a balance of $30.95 to the good.

The following officers were elected:

President, G. Every-Clayton,

Vice-Presidents, R. U. Hurford, W. Woohus.

Secretary, A. H. Herd,

Treasurer, W. A. Urquhart.

Directors, J. Pritchard, E. H. Davis, W. Wain. T. Pearse, C. F. Jackson, M. Ball, w. Duncan, H. Bridges, T. Smith, L. Hickman Capt. Vigors, and G. O. Game,

On motion of Mr. wm. Duncan a resolution was passed to be forwarded to our Federal member calling attention to the favorable situation of the Comox Valley for shipbuild- etc., and asking that some assistance in that direction.

It was decided to form a Milk Producer,s Association, and the Executive Committee was instructed to make the necessary arrangements and report at a general meeting to be held on Feb. 1st.

Mr S. Calhoun introduced a resolution asking the government not to accede to the requests of the Trusts and Mortgage companies the order-in-council to have all taxes paid on lands before title is transferrable.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the retiring President and Secretary for their efficient work during the past year.

Letter to the Editor

Editor Courtenay Review

Dear Sir:—It is just about a year ago since I took the advantage to drop you a line, but I hope you will kindly overlook the long delay. as I have done a lot of travelling this summer and have had little time to myself, but first I want to ask you to kindly thank the Daughters of the Empire, Courtenay branch, and also the Overseas Club for their kindness in sending me one of their Xmas boxes which I was delighted to get, and they reached me in very good condition after going from place to place to find me, and the contents were much enjoyed by myself and those who shared it with me. There was no card in either box to send back, to any person so I am taking this chance of thanking the people of Courtenay for their kindness and thoughtfulness of the boys out here. Well, as I have stated I have been on the move very much this summer and in fact at the present time I at the general Canadian base on my way back to my unit, where I hope to be in time for Xmas. I started off on the 3rd of April to a C. C. S. for duty to help with the cases of the famous Vimy Ridge, Here I was placed in the operative theatre, and saw a great deal of the horrors of war, and I went back to my unit about the middle of the month, but was sent to another C. C. S. before the end of the month, and from there to a hospital further down France, then I went on down to Bolegne and the surrounding district where I stayed at English, Canadian, South African hospitals and Convalescent homes, and arrived back with my unit at the end of July, During this trip I had learned a great many things in hospital work and treatment. but I was not to stay with my unit long, for on Aug. 3rd I started off again on a different route but through similar channels and this time I got down to the pretty seaside resort of Dreuville and Treuville, which are two of the finest places in northern France, and here I had a very good time, I left there on Dec. 8th. on my return trip and have got so far and am spending a few days before returning to the boys up the line, but I hope to spend Xmas with them.

Well, I think I have summed up this 9 months' trip in a small space and I hope this will find you and your family and the general health of Courtenay in good condition, but I hope it will not stop the boys from coming out here to get this job finished with so we can all get back again. And now I had better quit. with my best regards to you and the people of Courtenay and District for not forgetting the boys in the Old Country.

I remain
Yours truly
E. G. Everett.

The Squire's Sweetheart

KATHARINE TYNAN

WARD, LOCK & CO., LIMITED

The wind blew coldly in her face as she opened the door of the damask room. She lit a candle and went quickly about the room selecting what she wanted. Dolly's garments flung down in the hurry of departure lay scattered about. Without Dolly's presence the room, damp, unlighted, struck a chill to her feverish and excited pulses. She knew the room had been fitted up for her rival. She had always known it. It were as well if the place were burnt down with all its evil memories.

As she blew out the candle and went downstairs something sighed at her ears and fled past her like a wind.

She stood by Cooper, veiled and cloaked, a small handbag in her hand.

"Ah," he said, "you were always quick. That is good. Now, let us be going. There is food in the cart and a bed where you can lie down and sleep if you want to. The horse is slow, but sure. We shall be in Belgium when the sun rises. After that we shall take the train."

"And the cart?"

"Oh, he'll find his way back somehow. Perhaps the horse may do it for him. He has more intelligence than the man. Anyhow it is not our business. Come!"

"You will extinguish the lights."

"Why no," he said. "I have a mind to burn the place down. It is my own to do what I will with. They will think if they trace me here that I have been burnt in it. I shall never come back. The fire will start in the cupboard over there as soon as we are safely out. It will take some time to spread—to reach the village. Indeed I should not be surprised if no one came near it till it was a heap of ashes. Come."

Again she seemed to listen. There was a movement outside. She looked up startled. The uniform of a gendarme appeared in the doorway; another and another.

She clutched the table. Someone was saying something she could not understand. Her head reeled.

"Good-bye, Kate."

So, after all, he had kissed her. He had sought for her lips, through the veil, impatiently. There was a shout. A couple of sharp reports rang out. Something had fallen—what was it?—and lay huddled about her feet. She was down on her knees trying to lift a fallen head. There was something warm and wet all over her hands.

They had all left her. There was a crackling sound and a smell of fire. Everyone was rushing about calling for water. A flame ran up the wall, disappeared and broke out again in two or three different places. The farm house and steading would burn like tinder. There was no water at the farm to quench it and the wind was high outside.

She thought in a wandering way of how she should have been going along in the hooded cart with her husband by her side—on that new venture of theirs, that new beginning for which she had had heart enough, though she had thought her heart turned to stone long ago. And now he was lying dead at her feet, dead by his own hand, all his sins upon his soul; no more time for beginning anew, for repentence, in this world.

"Oh Lord," she sighed in her heart. "Remember that one woman loved him, wicked as he was."

The men were kind. A whisper ran through them that the woman was his wife. They carried the man, past all human help, to the cart outside, where the driver lounged by the wall indifferent as to whether his passenger was living or dead. She got in after the dead man had been laid on the mattress, and, crouching by his head with his cold hands clasped to her breast that could not warm them, she was carried down to the village.

CHAPTER XXV.

"Port After Stormie Seas"

The Squire's marriage day was more than a year old. The young leaves were on the trees and the whole world breaking to riotous bloom when an heir was born to Silverthorne and people were pitying Hilary Strangways because he was dispossessed.

Hilary had not pity at all for himself, being a person of simple tastes. He did not at all intend to spend his days as a lily of the field; and he was not much in love with the London life which he had hitherto led. He was likely to be somewhat less in demand in society as a clerk at the F. O. than he had been as the cousin and presumptive heir of Mr. Meyrick of Silverthorne Manor.

As a matter of fact he was engrossed in other matters at this moment to the exclusion of his dispossession. Sir Gilbert South had been dead a good while now, but neither Lady South nor Margaret hed returned to Marigolds. The place had come to Margaret by her father's will, a will made some years back. She adored Marigolds, but she had not returned to visit her inheritance, to banish its ghosts. After the strain of nursing her mother she had been very ill. Mr. Langton reported to Hilary that the girl suffered from a sickness of life which would pass in time. When it passed all would be well.

"You don't know, my dear fellow," he said laying a kind hand on Hilary's shoulder, "what the girl has gone through. You have never seen angina pectoris, have you? No. I'm glad you have not. Margaret has nursed her mother through many attacks. A fine, generous, noble creature. She had all the responsibility before I came. They are having a long rest now. Lady South has been very free of these attacks lately. Be patient, my dear Hilary. Your time will come. For the moment Margaret can think of nothing but her mother."

Hilary had had a year of being patient and he was pretty sick of it. He was often with Mr. Langton. Beyond the fact that he hoped for news of Margaret there was a comradeship between them. They both suffered the sickness of hope deferred. Its results were worse in the case of the elder man. He had aged a great deal since Hilary first saw him. Weariness lay over his face and eyes like something palpable. He had a dusty, uncared-for look. There were times when Hilary forgot the irksomeness of waiting in his pity for the other man. After all he and Margaret had youth. What chance was there for a man in love with a woman no longer young, and a sick woman?

Once when Hilary grumbled Mr. Langton showed him just a corner of his own grief and hit it again.

"Don't rail on Fate, youngster," he said. "You with your glorious bed of youth and life to rail on a crumpled rose leaf. If you had served all your life hardly and patiently for one woman, keeping away from her when you knew that she needed help, and if you were face to face with the prospect of her slipping out of life, without having been yours for one single moment—I have never even told her I loved her—you might have grounds for dissatisfaction with your lot. As it is—next year or the year after you will be a King."

"Why, Gracie," exclaimed an old friend, "are you going to be married next week? You are a base deceiver. Why, you told us only a few days ago that you were booked for a personally conducted tour with a small, select party."

Forty Dollars an Acre for Timothy

One of the largest fields of timothy seed in Southern Alberta is that of J. M. Davidson, of Coaldale. This field comprises 375 acres, and has yielded 90,000 pounds of seed, which will sell at sixteen cents a pound. At this price the crop is worth more than $15,000—a return of about $40 an acre.

Many Germans Enter Holland

During August and September no fewer than 35,000 German deserters crossed the Dutch frontier. The dread of having to endure another winter in Flanders is probably the chief reason for this increased leakage. Suspicions are, however, being entertained that all these desertions may mean something quite different and that the Germans are allowing men to pass into Holland with a hidden purpose.

On a Cash Basis

Western People are Urged to Discourage the Credit System

C. Vere Brown, speaking in Winnipeg, said that about 40 per cent. of farmers in Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan were in a position to deal on a cash basis, but did not do so because they had formed the credit habit and because the average merchant did not require them, or make it worth their while, to pay cash. Out of 890 merchants in rural centres where the Bank of Commerce has branches, 703 allow no cash discount, Mr. Brown declared. The refusal of rural merchants to give discounts for cash was one of the main reasons for the success of the mail order house, the speaker asserted. The banks were now attempting to give better service to the agricultural population, and greater co-operation was required.

"Shoot the Way You Shout"

A Good Motto to Be Learned During These War Times

Theodore Roosevelt has long been known as an apt phrasemaker—"speak softly, but carry a big stick," "malefactors of great wealth," "race suicide," and many others come to mind as his contribution to the vernacular strength of what we may perhaps be permitted to call the American language. At a recent meeting in New York he coined another epigrammatic sentence which should be added to the list. A great audience gathered in Madison Square Garden at a public meeting under the auspices of the mayor's committee on national defence. The crowd shouted its approval of the patriotic speeches to which it listened. The speech of a captain in the Australian army who has been wounded twenty times in the war was received with especial enthusiasm. When Mr. Roosevelt's turn came he referred to this Australian soldier's speech as the best address of the evening, and said to the audience that they did well to applaud him, but added: "I want to see you shoot the way you shout." The country must realize this more fully than perhaps it does if the United States and its allies are to be victorious in the war. "Shoot the way you shout" is a good motto for these war times.—The Outlook.

THANKFUL MOTHERS

Mrs. Willie Theriault, Pacquetville, N. B., says:—"I am extremely thankful that I tried Baby's Own Tablets for my baby. Through their use baby thrived wonderfully and I feel as if I cannot recommend them too highly." Baby's Own Tablets break up colds and simple fevers; cure constipation, colic and indigestion and make teething easy. In fact they cure all the minor ills of little ones. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

What Would It Be Worth to You To Be Free of Indigestion

INDIGESTION becomes a habit to a certain extent. Many of the conditions under which we live are artificial. We eat too much, take too little natural exercise, and have too much worry and anxiety. The digestive system does not get a chance.

The liver is usually first to get out of kilter, then the bowels become constipated, and the whole process of digestion is disorganized. Instead of being properly digested, the food ferments and causes sour stomach, belching of wind, pressure of gas about the heart, suffocating feelings and fainting spells.

Headaches, pains in the limbs and back, tired, depressed feelings, irritability and discouragement are other symptoms.

You may have tried stomach medicines and aids to digestion until you have given up in despair.

And Rid of the Poisons Which Cause Pain, Tired Feelings?

Operation Avoided

Mrs. Annie Watkins, Glace Bay, New Harbor, N.S., writes: "I think it is time for me to give my experience with your wonderful Kidney-Liver Pills. For seven months I suffered with what the doctor called indigestion, but whatever it was, I suffered terribly. The pain would start under my left shoulder and pass down my side until it reached the pit of my stomach. It just seemed as if the flesh were being torn from the bone. At times I used to go without food from one morning until the next. I had no energy left for work at all. At last our doctor sent me to the hospital for a month. For four days and nights I never broke my fast except for a drink of water. After four weeks' treatment there I returned home, and was back only four days when the pain came back worse than ever. Then I was told I would have to undergo an operation, but I would not consent to that. At last I read about Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and started to take them. At first I did not notice much difference, but still I kept on using them, and by the time four boxes were used I was perfectly well again. That was in 1914, so you see I can safely say that I was cured. I shall always be grateful to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, as they did more for me than four doctors."

But what would it be worth to you to be free of all this trouble, to feel again the old energy and vigor, and to enjoy healthful living?

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are not offered to you as an experiment. There is no question as to what they will do by way of awakening the action of the liver, kidneys and bowels, and removing the cause of indigestion and kindred ills.

Their curative powers have been proven in hundreds of thousands of cases, until they are established in the great majority of homes as the one family medicine which is indispensable.

It is for you to apply this treatment in your own case. It will only cost you a quarter to make the test, and we do not hesitate to predict that the results will surprise and delight you.

A World Beater

Saskatchewan's Production per Capita Unequalled

In a recent speech at Regina, Saskatchewan, the Hon. C. A. Dunning, provincial treasurer of that province, stated that he believed he was absolutely within the mark when he said that this year the total production in the province of Saskatchewan, with a population of 700,000, agricultural and otherwise, was $400,000,000, the production per capita possibly not being equalled anywhere else in the world. Of this amount, he thought he was not placing the profit too high at one-eight. This would mean a clear profit of $50,000,000 to the people of Saskatchewan.

Miller's Worm Powders will eradicate the worm evil that bears so heavily on children and is believed to cause many fatalities. When Germany can get the point of view of other nations and appreciate their standards, their principles, their sensibilities, their motives—in a word, when Germany can read their souls,—then we shall be at Liberty to hope that never again will world war be made in Germany This war has been not only a political blunder of the first magnitude. It has been a physological blunder of the first magnitude. By studying the psychology of her enemies Germany will find that out and be too shrewd as well as too decent to dream of repeating the exploit. —Chicago Tribune.

The British Tommy has always been famous for his powers of Romance, if asked questions he did not want to answer by people who had no right to know, The latest illustration is afforded by a repatriated soldier of a Welsh regiment. He had been a prisoner in the camp of Gutrow where the German authorities, with a view to securing skilled labor, were anxious to learn the occupation of the prisoners. But surely never before were such callings—a treacle bender, a watchmaker's striker, a milestone inspector, The Germans gave it up.—Christian Science Monitor.

Miss Belle Berkley is visiting at Vancouver this week. Miss Pike is taking her place at the Post Office.

The Unionist supporters in Victeria have formed a permanent organization for the support and extension of the Union cause. Men and women of all the old political faiths comprise the new body, This is a good move and with time with what is taking place elsewhere in our dominion It gets rid of the respective "old gangs" of the two former political bodies, it brings men and women into the position usurped formerly by party heelers, party hacks, and ward bosses, and it substitutes the respectable and constructive element for the "ragtag" and bob-tail" and self seeking element of the old silly systems under which we laboured for centuries past,

Now, Courtenay, follow the lead and follow up the Union victory by forming at once a Courtenay Association. This would be a unique body, if properly organized and would embrace all but a few soreheads and bigoted Laurierites. Let our local Union leaders see to it,
