The Squire's Sweetheart

— BY —

KATHARINE TYNAN

WARD, LOCK & CO., LIMITED
London, Melbourne, and Toronto

Hilary led up unconsciously to what the Squire had to tell him about the Souths. He had asked first for the Egertons, talking of Dolly with a slightly conscious air, as though he were a little in love with her. It irritated the Squire, who was never irritable, especially with Hilary. He had a feeling that Dolly was somehow the centre of a tragedy. At another time he would only have laughed. Hilary was incurably sentimental—always in and out of love. It never seemed to affect his happiness or his digestion.

He answered curtly, to the golden youth's amazement. Hilary said nothing, only glanced at his cousin's profile in the half-light, wondering what had put him out. He had been so invariably sweet-tempered in Hilary's experience of him.

"After all," the boy went on, "I am more concerned with Margaret. Why doesn't she write to me? I've written to her; but she has not answered me. What is happening about the Souths?"

The Squire told him. He was very glad the news was no worse to tell. He himself had implicitly accepted Mr. Langton's explanation. The Souths were lying perdus for a time—to escape old Gilbert's brutality, and give the poor woman a chance of having her health patched up. It was not so dreadful to tell.

He had not anticipated how Hilary would take the tale of Margaret's ill-treatment. He was surprised at the boy's passion. Hilary raged and almost sobbed. Only the consciousness of the groups sitting at the other tables kept his emotion under control.

"Her poor little arms," he said. "I remember now how she winced and cried out when I clasped her wrists. To think I should not have known!"

The Squire left him to his emotions. Trains will not wait for belated travellers, and he must get the 8:15. He had a terror lest something dreadful might happen in his absence. As he stood up and went in search of his waiter he was wondering what Hilary would think if he knew how the Souths had retreated into the background of his life. He remembered Langton's firm lips. A man to guard and keep the women he cared for. While he had talked to Hilary he had had a vague sense of terror of he knew not what that might be happening in his absence to his own sweetheart, his poor, pretty Dolly, who had none to guard her but he.

Hilary drove with him to the station; it was not very far. The Squire was thinking his own thoughts as they drove along the Embankment to Westminster Bridge, with the lighted clock-tower high in the sky. Hilary had apparently forgotten his evening parties. He was wondering if he should find Mr. Langton at home if he were to take the taxi on. Very likely, the Squire thought, unless Langton was dining out or at his club. He had a vague passing wonder as to how Langton would receive the boy, who seemed to think that he had only to ask for Margaret's address to be given it.

But he was too much occupied with his own thoughts to heed what Hilary was saying, beyond a feeling of wonder that the youngster seemed to think he had a right.

CHAPTER X

The Plover's Call

Coming out of Silverdale station, the Squire struck off into the fields—not on his way home, but the way that would take him to the New Cottage. He felt that he had to see all was right there; Dolly sitting reading by the shaded lamp, or playing the piano with fingers somewhat spoilt with housework, or occupied with the child. She had been in the family circle of evenings since the dog's death. If he could assure himself with his own eyes that she was there and safe he could go home contentedly to bed, pushing away for a time at least that sense of menace which had followed him to London and come back with him.

He had picked up a number of papers casually from the bookstall at Victoria, just before it was closed. Lionel Egerton often grumbled at the absence of a bookstall from Silverdale station. They would make his excuse for coming if any were necessary. Perhaps none was needed. He had come and gone pretty well as he would of late.

He knocked at the door of the New Cottage. Through the little window of bottle-ended glass at the right-hand side of the porch he caught sight of a blurred blue and green which must be Mrs. Egerton's gown. She always dressed for dinner, however simple the meal was, although her husband sat down in his tweeds or flannels or whatever he chanced to be wearing.

The door opened to his knock. It was Lionel Egerton who opened it. He and Mrs. Egerton were the sole occupants of the room. No Dolly! For some reason he could not explain, his heart sank, heavy as lead. He said to himself that he had known she would not be there. He had known it all the time.

He was no good at dissimulation. He could not sit down and talk indifferently, waiting for Dolly to come in from the other part of the house. Of course she was in the house. Probably with the baby upstairs, or in the kitchen doing something or other, or in the dining-room.

He laid down the papers on the little table by Mrs. Egerton's side. It was too late to stay, he said, with that curious new uneasiness upon him. There was a book for Miss Egerton, a new volume of poems about which he had heard her express curiosity.

"Oh, Dolly," said Mrs. Egerton. "She has deserted us again and gone back to her cottage."

"She is working at some sketches of Susan for a Christmas number. Awfully jolly things, you must see them. She prefers her lonliness when she is busy," put in Lionel Egerton.

"To our society," said Mrs. Egerton with a little laugh.

"Oh, come, Louise," said Lionel Egerton rather shamefacedly. "Poor Dolly. I fear she thinks herself in the way here, with Darby and Joan. She would never be that, poor little girl, but she's sensitive. I'll come over with you to the cottage, Meyrick. She'll be pleased at your remembering her; it's very kind of you."

"Please don't go, Leo," Mrs. Egerton put in hastily. "You know I don't like to be left alone at night."

"Oh, I forgot, Louise has a nervous fit. Just imagine, Meyrick, she's in a funk about old Keeper. She won't look out of the staircase window as she goes up to bed lest she should see his ghost out there in the dark."

"He did not like me," said Mrs. Egerton, with a little shiver.

"Doll doesn't mind the ghosts a bit. You know about the little woman in the shawl who is always turning up there. Not many girls would care to live with such a housemate."

It was on the Squire's lips to say that no girl should be asked to live in such lonliness. But, after all, he knew nothing. Probably there was a quiet happiness for Dolly in the Old Cottage, and he did not suppose there was really anything in the story of the little woman in the shawl. Dolly often said odd things, with a certain wry humor in the expression of her lips which told that she would have been merry if she was a little happier.

"I will leave the book," he said, taking it from the table where he had put it down.

Egerton came outside with him and they stood a while talking.

"I was unwilling for Doll to go back to the cottage," he said apologetically. "But—I thought it was best. She and I were once all in all to each other. It is very hard on the one who is left in those circumstances. I am sure I should have hated Dolly's husband—unless he'd been no end of a good fellow."

Through the gap in the privet hedge they could see the light of Dolly's lamp. After all, what reason was there to be afraid? Dolly was practically within earshot of the New Cottage. What could happen to her? The light from the open door shone out across the grass wet with dew. All the sounds and scents of a summer night were out of doors. From the coppice on the hill a night-jar talked melodiously; and a late blackbird disturbed the nests with his "Good-night now!" drawled with impish persistency. Beyond the boundary hedge of the garden were the fields, fields enamelled these days with drifts of little blue flowers—the Squire had noticed that in part the fields were rather blue than green—blue flowers and white and golden, and the deep soft grass between. Beautiful fields they were that stretched away to the hill; park-like fields, studded with spreading oaks and thorn-trees, the grazing-ground for a few cattle, deep-breathing, velvety creatures that moved softly through the quiet night.

Mrs. Jarvis, Box 286, Penetang, P.O., Ontario, writes: "It is a pleasure to tell you what Dr. Cassell's Tablets have done for my baby. When only five months old he fell ill, and though I had medical advice for him he got worse. I tried several special foods, but none of them would stay on his stomach, and he became so thin that he seemed just skin and bone. He only weighed 10 lbs., and we never thought he could live. But chancing to hear of Dr. Cassell's Tablets I got some for baby, and am thankful I did. He is a bonny boy now, quite cured, and weighs 25 lbs. at twelve months old."

The Princess Pats

The West Can Claim Some Distinction in This Connection

Ottawa announces that the Princess Patricia's regiment is officially declared as belonging to the Ottawa-Kingston military district. That appears to be about the coolest piece of man-stealing the department has put over yet. Hitherto Alberta battalions have been broken up to supply men to fill the slackers' gaps in units claimed by towns scattered all the way from one ocean to the other, and drafts have been taken from Edmonton to enable Ottawa and Kingston to have the credit of being represented by units overseas.

But this seems to be the first instance in which a battalion has been stolen intact and put to the credit of a district having no shadow of claim to it. It is the more notable that the battalion in question has been longer at the front than any other Canadian unit, has suffered more, and has come to be the most widely known for its exploits. Montreal supplied the colonel and western Canada the men for the original Princess Pats! Alberta contributing more men than any other province. Reinforcements have been recruited among the students at universities from McGill westward to Alberta, to which Ottawa university and Kingston may have contributed contingents but not disproportionately large ones.

On the face of it, therefore, if this regiment is to be allocated to any particular district Alberta has by all odds the rightful claim, and of all possible competitors the Ottawa-Kingston district has just about the least pretence of a claim.—From the Edmonton Bulletin.

"Brains are a common commodity." "That so?" "Yes. What I'm always looking for is a man who knows how to use his brains."

Point of View

Willis—Pleasure is all in the point of view.

Gillis—That's right. A man goes to a dance, leaves at twelve o'clock feeling fine and fresh, and calls it a good time; but a woman doesn't have a good time unless she stays until four o'clock, spends the last three hours in agony, and goes home feeling as if a steam-roller had run over her.—Life.

A Desperate Case

"Dear," said the fond mother, "I must punish you for disobeying my orders."

"Please ma," said the little boy, "may I go to my room first?"

"Yes," consented the parent, and she cautiously followed her first-born upstairs. There Robert was kneeling by his bed, and his mother heard him say:

"Dear Lord, if You ever wanted to help a little fellow in trouble, now's Your chance."

The whipping was indefinitely postponed.—New York Times.

Saved by British Navy

We know that the Entente navy was and is the one thing that saves us today from any possibility that Germany at present may try to do what she tried to bribe Japan and Mexico into doing. Every instinct of preservation, of national safety, demands an alliance with the Entente, if we are to be safe from such dangers, hereafter, and it is the logical course now if we are best to cope with the submarine war on our shipping and our citizens.—Boston Advertiser.

Luring on to Destruction

There is one reason to believe that more than one of our lost liners have met their doom by hastening to answer the bogus S.O.S. of the submarine which lay in wait for them. Now the survivors of a French destroyer torpedoed in the Mediterranean reports that, while struggling in the water in the blackness of the night, they were brought within effective range of the submarine's guns by the enemy shouting in good French, "This way, comrades!" Could deviltry go further?—Glasgow Herald.

Views of Marriage

Spinster Whose Prejudices Were of a Most Decided Kind

A Miss Graham who died while engaged in war work at Malta, and left legacies of $500,000, held strange views on the marriage question. On the ground that her views indicated an unhealthy and unsound mind at the time when she prepared her will a relative opposed probate.

In the evidence adduced it was proved that the deceased had altered a former will under which her relative would have received a substantial legacy and some valuable property because she had "degraded herself" by entering the abhorrent state of matrimony. The deceased lady even assailed the Archbishop of York for his marriage views, and called him "filthy minded."

The point at issue was submitted to a jury, who held that strange marriage views did not prove a state of insanity, with which the judge concurred. At the same time the foreman expressed the regret that the deceased had had no experience of matrimony, when she might have revised her verdict.

Use City Boys on Farms

Systematic Way to Increase Crops in the Dominion

The Canadian government is adopting a very systematic way to increase the crops of the Dominion. An official commission, composed of professors of diffeertn universities, has been appointed to visit the high schools and colleges and enlist boys for agricultural work during the summer months. Attention will be given the physical ability of the boys and they will sign, with the consent of their parents, for six months' service on the farms. A record will be kept of their work and efficiency, which will be credited to them the same as if it were in the regular classes in the schools and colleges. This looks like a pretty good scheme, not only to get intelligent farm workers, but for the real advantage of the boys. It was tried in a small way last year and the result was that the boys who worked on the farms outstripped in their studies those who remained in the schools. That is the same sort of record that has been made in some manual training schools where the boys who spent half of their time at work and the other half at their studies, took nearly all the scholastic prizes in the interschool contests, while they swept the platter almost clean in the athletic fields. If there could be a scheme invented that would put the large groups of boys who idle away their time in the pool halls and on the streets out on the farms during the summer months, it would be of incalculable advantage to them and their country.—Omaha World-Herald.

Several Thousand Foresters Wanted

Ottawa Calls for Drafts to Let Men Return to Other Units

The Militia Department is calling for several thousand more recruits for the Canadian Forestry Battalions overseas. There are now ten thousand men in the Forestry Battalions in England and France, under the command of Brig.-General Alexander McDougall. Some five thousand of these were supplied by Canada, and the balance was drawn from overseas troops originally enlisted for other purposes. To allow these latter to return to their original units forestry drafts are wanted from Canada. The age limit for forestry recruits is 48 years, and men of 4 ft. 11 inches in height are accepted. Recruiting depots have been opened in all the lumbering centres of Canada.

Democracy Against Autocracy

Autocracy has broken down in Russia. It is doomed in Germany, as the avowals of the chancellor and the secretary for foreign affairs admit, even if the throne and dynasty are saved. It cannot survive in Austria if it shall fail in Germany. This is fast showing itself, as it was from the beginning in its real character a war of popular government against imperialism. On the side of the allies it is a war that "government of the people and by the people and for the people shall not perish from the earth."—Philadelphia Record.

Just The One

The children happened to be present when mother received an applicant for the position of nurse-maid.

"Why were you discharged from your last place?" asked the mother, when she had ascertained, after much ingenuity, that the applicant had not voluntarily left that place.

"Well, ma'am," said the girl, very frankly, "to tell the truth, I sometimes forgot to wash the children, ma'am."

Whereupon there came from the children in chorus, "Oh, mother, please engage her!"—Harper's Magazine.

Notwithstanding these facts, our modern and well equipped plant for this particular work enables us to still keep our prices reasonably low. Before placing your next order write us for samples and prices, or consult the proprietor of this paper.

We make a specialty of Carbon Back or Coated Books, also O.K. Special Triplicate books. Genuine Vegetable Parchment for Butter Wrappers

We are large importers of this particular brand of paper. Our prices on 8x11 size in 100M quantities and upwards, are very low, considering the present high price of this paper. We can supply any quantity printed "Choice Dairy Butter" from stock.

German Ability in the War

One Is Not Tempted to Envy the Germans for Their Cleverness

There has been far too much laudation of German ability in this war. When one considers the vast amount of forethought given by the Germans to the war and the mobilization for a period of forty years of the best brains of the country toward the one end of military success and then surveys the results achieved one is not tempted to envy the Germans for their cleverness, but rather to think how much better the French, the Americans, or the English would have done the job if they had given their mind to it. The Germans in international politics remind us of the dull schoolboy who, having worked out with immense industry an enormous sum in multiplication and division quite correctly to thirty places of decimals, manages at the end to produce a widly incorrect result by pointing his decimals two or three places out.—H. Sidtbotham in Atlantic Monthly.

When a man is dressed in a little brief authority he is even more conspicuous than a woman in the present style of abbreviated skirt.

Germans Buy British War Loan

Germans Buy British War Loan

Some Germans have a strange way of showing their confidence in the victory that is to settle the war in their favor. A number of Germans, well-known to people in England, knowing that they could not purchase certificates in the recent war loan, set the wheels of negotiation going through friends in neutral nations and bought largely in this way. The fact has just come to the knowledge of the London Stock Exchange and now it is a question with the broker, who innocently arranged it whether he can in any way cancel the deal.

Well-Known Farmer Gives His Evidence

SAYS DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS CURED HIM OF GRAVEL

Dr. William Wood of Hadlington, Ont., is Added to Long List of Cures by the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills

Hadlington, Ont., (Special)—Mr. William Wood, a well-known farmer living near here, is shouting the praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills. He claims they cured him of two of the most painful and dangerous forms of kidney trouble, bladder trouble and gravel.

"Yes, I was troubled with gravel and bladder trouble," Mr. Wood said when asked about his cure. "But since I took four boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills my troubles are gone. I also had heart flutterings and shortness of breath. There were flashes of lights and specks before my eyes and I was very nervous. All these troubles have gone, too, since I used Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Others in this neighborhood have used Dodd's Kidney Pills and found that they are the greatest of all remedies for kidney troubles of any kind. Dodd's Kidney Pills are specialists. They cure sick kidneys and that is all they claim to cure. The reason they are given credit for curing rheumatism, lumbago, dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease is that all of these diseases are caused by sick kidneys.

Using Grass to Make Paper With

Although several of the largest paper mills in England have been forced to shut down because the government stopped the importation of pulpwood, many others have managed to keep going by utilizing grass which they obtain from Scotland, the Fenlands and India.

Printing paper and notepaper is being made from grass mixed with other materials. The cheapest fibre is obtained from rags which are no longer exported. Rag cuttings are now worth $140 a ton, which is still below the cost of wood pulp, now selling for $150 a ton. It was $40 a ton before the war.

Both Canada and the United States are to prohibit the export of wheat to neutral countries. Yet there were those who were urging a few weeks ago that the entrance of the United States into the war made no difference in the free wheat question. It made all the differin the world. A step which was unwarranted when the United States was a neutral was the proper one to take when that power became an ally and started in to pool its resources with ours in order to supply those who are fighting our battles in Europe,

It has been noticed in immigration circles that scores and even hundreds of young men who have departed from this country for the United States last fall and winter are coming back home now that the republic has entered the war. Well, there's no place like home under certain circumstances.—Montreal Gazatte.

Letter to the Editor :

To the Editor Review

Dear Sir;—In view of the recent statement issued by Mr. Hoover, Chairman for the Commission for Relief in Belgium which points out the impossibility at present of obtaining the necessary shipping tonnage to forward to Belgium the food supplies in the same quantities as in the past, and also draws attention to the fact that the United States government have made arrangements to loan to the Belgian government the sum of $45,000,000 payable to the Commissioner for Relief in Belgium in six monthly instalments, which sum will cover the cost of such food supplies as can be shipped in that time by the limited number of ships available to the Commission, the Central Executive Committee of the Belgian Relief Fund in Canada finds it unnecessary for the present, to make appeal to the generously disposed people of Canada on the plea of the urgency of support in order to stave off starvation.

The needs of Belgium continue however as pressing as in the past and the situation may be considered as being even more pitiable as, through the forced decreased in imports, Belgium will be compelled to fall back on her last native resources already so denuded. In order to maintain that so limited ration that has been doled out in the past it will be necessary to encroach upon the Country's stock of Milk Cattle which have been reserved to maintain a supply of fresh milk for the children.

In the hope, however, that the recent swiftly developed shortage in the world's shipping, the cause of this new departure of the Relief Work, may not permanently endure, In the hope that the necessary funds may be available should any emergency or special occasion arise, and in view of the fact that in any event relief in many forms will be required after the war, the Committee hope that all the generous supporters of the fund in the past and all those who have pledged themselves for future payments will continue to support the Fund and thus continue to show their sympathy with the people who gave their all for the cause of Humanity

All such donations received after the 15th of June will be disposed of to the best advantage of this stricken people, according to the wish that may be expressed to any donor or according to the actual or more pressing needs of any of the already organized channels of Relief work such as:—

"Queen's Fund for the wounded soldiers."

"Home for the Belgian soldiers"

"Relief for Belgian prisoners in Germany."

"Anglo Belgian Committee of the Belgian Red Cross."

"Relief for Belgian children suffering from Tuberculosis and rickets."

"Belgian orphan fund."

"Belgian National Relief Fund for war orphans."

All donations received prior to the 15th of June will be held at the disposal of the Commission for the Relief in Belgium, for the purchase in Canada of Canadian produce, according to our previous pledges.

The Central Executive Committee will issue in the immediate future a report covering the whole of their operations up to the 15th of June.

Thanking you for publishing the above, we remain,

Yours truly,
A. De Jardin,
Hon. Secretary-Treasuret.

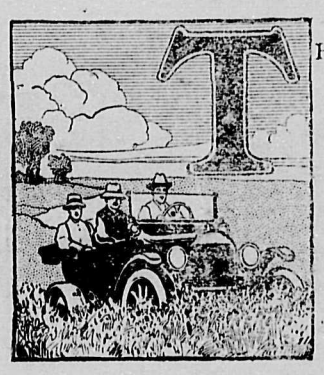
A Car of Proven Quality



THE Ford has been on the market for twelve years, surely long enough to prove it's high quality. There is nothing experimental about it. Every part has stood the test of time and proven its stability with hard service. No other car has ever approached the durability records of the Ford.

No matter what price you pay for a car you cannot get one with a stauncher chassis. Government labaratory tests have shown that the different parts of the Ford car are superior to those in any other car. Ford Vanadium steel has never been equaled in strength.

If you want a car that can plow through deep mud sand and gravel—that can cross fields. corduroy roads and Ford streams—that can climb the steepest hills with ease—that will give the greatest mileage all year round with the least expense and care—then there is only ONE car for you—The Ford.

Possibilities of the Telephone

There is an excellent instance in Vancouver of how a suburban drug merchant built up business by telephone, Two morals adorn the tale. One, that such a possibility is open to every shopkeeper; two, that with the telephone in the house one never needs to travel, even as far as the corner store, And the telephone is just as effective in reaching outside points. No matter where you want to go, the telephone will take you. No time wasted, no travelling expense.

The account of A. Griffiths was added to the laid over list and the balance referred to the finance committee to pay if found correct

Ald. Hurford reported that the matter of the lanes was progressing, and that a meeting of all interested was being called for June 19th.

Ald. Brown reported that there was no offence from the stream which empties into the river at the side of the telephone office. The chairman of the Sanitary committee was instructed to make a further inspection and endeavour to locate the odor complained of,

By-law 29 was read a third time and finally adopted,

The matter of the sidewalk between the bridgds was laid over until some later date in the year.

The city clerk was instaucted to write Mr. Young the Water Rights Comptroller, giving full particulars in reference to the water escaping from the Kilpatrick dam and find out the rights of the city in reference to same for further reference.

Ald. Aston reported that a side walk could be constructed along the Isabel St. bridge for approximately $20.00; also that Mr, Perez had complained in reference to some small stumps opposite his property on Alice Street. Also that a request had been made for the grading of Victorio street Ald. Bston also reported that drain could be constructed at the River side Hotel for $30.

Moved by Ald. Hurford, seconded by Ald. Leighton, that the chairman of the Works Committee be given authority to remove the stumps in front of Mr. Perez's on Alice St. up to $15. Carried.

Mrs. Cokeley has received the following letter from the chairman of the Red Cross Society at Victoria re the waste paper proposition;—

"We are having a dispute about the prices at present, but expect to get it straightened shortly. Under any circumstances crushed paper is of no use unless baled by a machine and then only worth $6 a ton here. Newspapers smoothed out and folded once (size about 12" x 18) and neatly and tightly tied in bundles so as to stand handling are worth $20 per ton. Magazines and catalogs tightly tied in bundles of one size and one class of paper were worth $20 at first, but have been reduced to $15. and there is a talk of a fifty per cent cut on the latter price. If we can get the higher price it would pay to ship via freight to us at Victoria or if you can get a carload (12 tons) they could be shipped direct by rail, or arrangements could be made to ship by boat direct to Seattle. Newspapers properly put up are a sure sale. I would just like to say that if every one could put the paper up so as to meet the requirements I think arrangements can be made within a short time to handle same."

Yours faithfully
F. W. Jones,
Chairman.

NOB HILL

The farmers are nearly through seeding. Some of the low land is not dry enough yet, but with a few dry days it will be ready to sow, and now the seeding is about over and housecleaning is in full swing a great many of the farmers are thinking of packing up their grips and hiking to some place where housecleaning is not going on. They are afraid the strain on their physical constitutions will shatter their nerves, as it is terrible to behold the situation, The houses are turned inside out; the furniture is scattered over about two acres, the bedding is hanging on the fences, and the trees in the orchard are covered with all kinds of clothing. In among this the women are to be seen with fire in their eyes, armed with long poles, knocking thunder out of the carpets and I would advise any respectable book agent of a respectable reputation and is not in the habit of using cuss words to keep out of this vicinity for about six weeks, and the sky pilots had better postpone their visits until the housecleaning is over, for when the women get down to business the grub is not up to much. I think it would help a great deal if the poor, down trodden men would take their names off the church roll during the housecleaning, so as to give them a chance to make a few remarks without breaking the rules of the church. Any stranger who passes along the high way will remember how things look It is terrible.

Little River

Everybody who has proper respect for themselves is getting an auto, Little River now being in the lead. One of our prominent citizens purchased one recently, and is having the time of his life running it and while climbing a hill he had an experience that made his hair stand on end. As he was wanting a little more power he yanked on the throttle to give it a little more juice and speed, but instead of going forward it started to back down the hill with a terrific velocity, But as he is a man of great presence of mind, he yanked on the friction lever and reversed the engine and brought it to a standstill. He thinks that before a green hand undertakes to run a car in the streets in business hours he should practise running a wheel barrow in the back yard, as he considers a wheelbarrow nearly as dangerous as a car, because it will face you from every direction and it makes no difference whether it is upside down. He says the only time you can trust a car or barrow is when you are a safe distance from them. He says it is dangerous to be safe.

Dairymen's Convention

Kelowna will be the scene of a gathering of B, C. dairymen on Friday and Saturday, June 22 and 23. It was hoped that the annaul convention of the B, C. Dairymens Associetion would be held in Kelowna on the same date as the Fall Fair which is September, but at a meeting of the association held recently, Mr. T, A. F, Wiancko, Secretary of the Association, announced that this would be impossible. As an alternative, Mr, Wianko suggested that an extra convention be held in June. and this idea was agreed upon, with the results that the convention will be held as stated above.

As is usual at meetings of this association, an extremely interesting program has been arranged. Hon. John Oliver, Minister of Agriculture is expected to be present and to address the convention. and Mr, W. Scott, deputy minister, will also be there, it is expected, and will speak to those in attendance.

A large gathering is expected, as there are a number of farmers in the Okanagan district who are deeply interested in dairying, and who will be glad no doubt of the opportunity to hear such able and experienced speakers on subjects of vital interest and importance to them.

The soldiers land settlement act, which will provide for a free grant of Dominion land to veterans of the imperial forces, coupled with a provision for a loan, to be advanced under supervision, of $1,500 or $2,000, will be presented in the house by Hon. Dr. Roche, minister of the interior, who with Hon. Martin Burrell, minister of agriculture, has had charge of its preparation. It is understood that its terms were settled and approved by the prime minister before leaving for England, and a full memorandum of its provisions was furnished to J. Germany's Influence

Germany Blamed for Disrupting Peaceful Ideals of the U.S.

When all is said and done, the greatest injury which we have sustained from Germany is the one which is not mentioned in the list of our grievances. Our commerce has been attacked; American lives have been sacrificed to the German government's disregard of international law—these are the grievances everywhere specified. But greater than these and more vitally affecting the nation is the fact that by reason of the German government's action we have changed from the greatest peace nation of the world to a nation that must put itself on a purely militaristic basis and organize a conscriptive system which may never be dispensed with.

If the militarists are right, then we ought to thank Germany for so transforming our life. That is to say, if during all these years we have been playing the part of the fool by eschewing militarism and refusing to support large standing armies, then we ought to thank Germany for shocking us out of our folly and forcing us to do the thing we ought long ago to have done.

But if our old ideals were right, if we were justified in offering the world the spectacle of an unarmed nation maintaining peace by the justice of its actions, then we can only blame Germany for bringing us down to her own level.—From the Detroit News.

YES! LIFT A CORN OFF WITHOUT PAIN

Cincinnati man tells how to dry up a corn or callus so it lifts off with fingers

You corn-pestered men and women need suffer no longer. Wear the shoes that nearly killed you before, says this Cincinnati authority, because a few drops of freezone applied directly on a tender, aching corn or callus, stops soreness at once and soon the corn or hardened callus loosens so it can be lifted off, root and all, without pain.

A small bottle of freezone costs very little at any drug store, but will positively take off every hard or soft corn or callus. This should be tried, as it is inexpensive and is said not to irritate the surrounding skin.

If your druggist hasn't any freezone tell him to get a small bottle for you from his wholesale drug house. It is fine stuff and acts like a charm every time.

The Krupp's World of Shells

How Munition Making Is Speeded up In the Land of the Hun

Writing to the Paris Matin some one who spent four months in the Krupp foundries at Essen gives his impressions of what is being produced there: "Three hundred thousand workers, of whom about 60,000 are women, marshalled in gangs on day and night shifts, sweat blood and water in order that the Emperor shall not lack projectiles. All these people, with the exception of the women have been impressed by the military authority. The ages of the men, are from eighteen to forty-six years, and they are all told off for the manufacture of munitions. It is the same with the specialists above the age of forty-five up to fifty.

"The salaries paid them for working thus from six o'clock in the morning to six at evening for the day shift, and from six in the evening to six in the morning, for the night shift, varies between eight and fifteen marks a day. The women, however, never get more than five marks. This daily salary, which in the eyes of some may appear a big one, has only the real and maximum value of five French francs, so much has the cost of living gone up.

"In the month of May, 1916, Krupp was constructing simultaneously seven howitzers of 420 milimetres. As it takes on the average from six to eight months to make this kind of gun, these should be about ready. In the opinion of the head of the workshop, Krupp alone now turns out 200,000 shells of every calibre a day, without counting the manufacture of artillery cannon."

"Is your daughter studying music?"

"I wouldn't exactly call it studying," replied Mr. Camrox "She makes so much noise about it, I don't see how she can possibly get her mind on the subject."—Washington Star.

British Army a Producer

The armies are self-supporting, too as surely armies never were before. There is the very romance of organization in the fact that "in Mesopotamia something like 3,000 acres of vegetable gardens are under cultivation;" and there is certainly the hard economics of it in the fact that the waste fat now saved from the soldiers' rations produces 1,000 tons of refined glycerine a year, which means "propellant charges for approximately 12,500,000 18-pounder shells," and, incidentally, a saving to the munitions ministry of nearly 200 pounds a ton on the prive of glycerine as purchased from America.—London Daily Telegraph.

It is a Liver Pill.—Many of the ailments that man has to contend with have their origin in a disordered liver, which is a delicate organ, peculiarly susceptible to the disturbances that come from irregular habits or lack of care in eating and drinking. This accounts for the great many liver regulators now pressed on the attention of sufferers. Of these there is none superior to Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. Their operation though gentle is effective, and the most delicate can use them.

Burnt Into German Mind

Mention of British Nurse's Name Costs Belgian Woman Month in Jail

A well-authenticated incident which occurred recently during a German court-martial in Belgium has just become known in France. M. Paul Terlinden, Burgomaster of Rixensart, appeared before the court charged with shielding a wounded Frenchman, for which he was condemned to twelve months' imprisonment.

His daughter, Baroness de Coninck, a young married woman, whose husband is at the front, was present at the hearing. A German officer sat down beside her, saying: "I believe, madam, I have met you before."

Baroness de Coninck replied: "You are mistaken. I don't know you, sir."

The German persisted, saying: "Perhaps I am mistaken, but you greatly resemble an English woman whom I knew well."

"Evidently you mean Miss Cavell," retorted the Baroness.

For this answer she was sentenced to one month in prison.

THOSE AWFUL CRAMPS

Suggestions that may save Much Suffering

Marysville, Pa.—"For twelve years I suffered with terrible cramps. I would have to stay in bed several days every month. I tried all kinds of remedies and was treated by doctors, but my trouble continued until one day I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for others. I tried it and now I am never troubled with cramps and feel like a different woman. I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound too highly and I am recommending it to my friends who suffer as I did."—Mrs. GEORGE R. NAYLOR, Box 72, Marysville, Pa.

Young women who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, headache, dragging-down sensations, fainting spells or indigestion should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Thousands have been restored to health by this root and herb remedy.

When Russian Soldiers Sing

March the Streets Singing Their Wild Russian Songs

Nowadays there are soldiers everywhere in Petrograd—big blond boys in long tan overcoats with flat caps slapped rakishly over one ear. They drill in dozens of squares, on the cobblestones space below the dome of St. Isaac's—which suggests St. Peter's and Rome—and march the streets day and night, singing their tremendous Russian songs.

Three or four files start the air, after a measure or two the next section comes in, and so on down the street until presently the whole column is booming a sort of "round." The song, wild and melancholy with tremendous basses, goes down the street in a series of waves, and as one descends in front of you another is flung to the housetops a little way down the block.

They march slowly, with a curious rolling of the shoulders and swinging of their long tan overcoats. Their feet go out and down with a snap—clop . . . . clop—in a sort of modified goose step, and to accent the rhythm they are taught to swing the free arm, the one not carrying the rifle, in a wide, slow arc, almost up to the opposite shoulder and back again.

And this slow, deliberate reaching forward and setting down each foot—one recalls Kipling's "bear that walks like a man"—together with the long high swing of the closed fist, repeated by innumerable blond giants in long, swaying overcoats, is curious and impressive. There is something more than accident in this, or the drill sergeant's notions—something at once tremendous and quaint, something of the faith, heaviness and slow, unconquerable power of Russia itself.

WOMAN SUFFERAGE.

Its War Time Aspect.

London, Eng. The women of England are doing their duty. They are taking care of the wounded, or if they cannot assist in work of that kind they are adding their savings to promote the good work. They are knitting and sewing for the soldiers at the front. The suffragists have given so little trouble to the government that it will undoubtedly soften the hearts of those in Parliament, since the "militants" have turned all their energies to aid the fighting men of England, and so sufferage may soon come after this terrible war is over.

Thousands of women in Canada have overcome their sufferings, and have been cured of woman's ills by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This temperance medicine, though started nearly half a century ago, sells most widely to-day, because it is made without alcohol or narcotics. It can now be had in tablet form as well as liquid, and every woman who suffers from backache, headache, nervousness, should take this "Prescription" of Dr. Pierce. It is prepared from nature's roots and herbs and does not contain a particle of alcohol or any narcotic. It's not a secret prescription for its ingredients are printed on wrapper.

Many a woman is nervous and irritable, feels dragged down and worn out for no reason that she can think of. In ninety-nine per cent. of these cases it is the womanly organism that requires attention; the weak back, dizzy spells and black circles about the eyes, are only symptoms. Go to the source of trouble. When that is corrected the other symptoms disappear.

St. Thomas, Ont.—"I wish to say for the benefit of other women who suffer that I recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription as a great help. I have personally recommended the same to many who in turn have been helped a great deal by its use."—MRS. F. J. BOWDEN, 19 Oliver St., St. Thomas, Ont.

Good Advice from an Ancient

Juvenal, who wrote in the first century of this era, urged the poorer people of Rome to move into the country, where, for the same amount of rent which they paid in the city, a small place of residence could be bought, and they could be free from the dark and narrow quarters which they called home. Somehow this advice has a familiar sound in the twentieth century, and what is more to the point, it is just as applicable now, and is just as sound as it was then.—Christian Science Monitor.

It does restore the sufferer to normal bodily trim and mental happiness.

safe, sure and efficient, which catches the fly and embalms its body and the deadly germs it carries in a coat of disinfecting varnish.

Government Issues Warning

Earnest A. Sweet, Passed Assistant Surgeon in the United States Public Health Service, makes the following statement in Supplement No. 29 to the Public Health Reports "Of other fly poisons mentioned, mention should be made, merely for a purpose of condemnation, of those composed of arsenic. Fatal cases of poisoning of children through the use of such compounds are far too frequent, and owing to the resemblance of arsenical poisoning to summer diarrhea and cholera infantum, it is believed that the cases reported do not, by any means, comprise the total. Arsenical fly-destroying devices must be rated as extremely dangerous and should never be used, even if other measures are not at hand."

4,000 Flying Machines in the States

A New York firm alone has intimated that in a few weeks time they will have the plant to enable them to manufacture some 2,000 aeroplanes in twelve months. In two years they can deliver to the United States 4,000 and arrange for a wide margin to meet the demand for improvements. In an interview the manager of the firm, whose name has been withheld for obvious reasons, stated that with that number of machines any active opposition to the expressed will of the nation, in the event of war, would be detected. There could be no massing of rebellious civilians with an aerial corps conducted on military principles.

AMERICAN JOURNAL PRAISES THE VALOR OF OUR CANADIAN TROOPS

GREAT ADMIRATION FOR RARE COURAGE SHOWN

Canada's Sons Have Won for Liberty More Than Added Territory, but a Victory Which Answers German Idea That The World Can Be Reconstructed by Material Force

In a lengthy editorial under the caption "Well done, Canada," the New York Tribune says:

"Every American will feel a thrill of admiration and a touch of honest envy at the achievements of the Canadian troops about Arras on Easter Sunday and the following day.

"The glory of the Canadian fight at the Ypres salient has been too little appreciated on our side of the northern frontier. Rarely in history have troops, volunteer troops, suddenly exposed to a flank attack through no fault of their own, but by the collapse of their neighbors, had to bear a more terrific blow than that which followed the first gas attack. Yet in the midst of confusion, assailed by the appaling poison of German making, the Canadian volunteers stood and died as the British regulars had stood and died in the greater battle of Ypres of 1914.

"And now the Canadians have swept up the famous Vimy ridge, which halted the French veterans of Foch and proved too great an obstacle for the genius of the greatest offensive fighter France has yet produced in the war. After long months of waiting the Canadians have had their hour. They have had a chance to avenge their comrades, crucified by German brutes in Flanders; they have had an opportunity to write the name of Canada on the war map of Europe and their imprint will be remembered—in Germany quite as much as in America.

"We shall know later at what price this achievement was accomplished, but no price will be too high and for Canada this day of victory will have a lasting value. For Canada, too, its value will be less than for the British Empire.

"Nearly three-quarters of a million of Canadian and Australian troops have responded to the call of the British Empire, more than half of them wearing the Canadian Maple Leaf. German plotting, German scheming, the wise plans of the professors on paper and of the German soldiers on the map, have been answered. It is possible to speak to Germans now.

"Americans will feel a certain envy in the thought that Canada has outdistanced us in reaching the battle-line, which is the frontier of our common civilization. We shall take what comfort we may from the knowledge that among the Canadian forces are a considerable contingent of citizens of the United States, an unofficial vanguard, we shall trust, of that American army which is in due course to take its place along the French front. They are serving in worthy company.

"No praise of Canadian achievement can be exclusive. From the plain and from the mountains, from the cities and the prairies Canada has poured out her thousands and her hundreds of thousands; she has sent across the ocean an army greater than Napoleon ever commanded on any battlefield; her volunteer regiments have shown that same stubborn and tenacious quality which is the glory of the British army.

"Canada's sons have won for liberty not merely a few square miles of French territory, but a victory which makes answer to the German idea that the world can be reconstructed without regard to the spirit of man, merely by material force.

"Our entrance into the war should make a new bond between the Canadians and ourselves."

The Haughty Master Cecil

The waywardness of Master Cecil, a boy of six years, sometimes made it necessary for his mother to use her slipper. This usually resulted in a haughtiness of manner and expression for some hours after Master Cecil had been "attended to." One evening his father came home to discover palpable proof of the fact that Cecil had been having a private interview with his mother.

"Well, Cecil, what's the trouble now?" asked his father.

"Your wife has been licking me again Sir!" was the reply.

Addresses Civil Engineers

Analysis of the Railway Situation by Mr. W. F. Tye, C.E.

In a paper presented to the Canadian Society of Civil Engineers Mr. W.F. Tye, formerly Chief Engineer of the Canadian Pacific, gives a masterly analysis of the railway situation in this country. From his years of experience thinking and solving railway problems as one of the outstanding railway engineers in Canada, Mr. Tye has had not only the attitude of the engineer but that of the economist as well.

Amongst Mr. Tye's summarized conclusions are:

The National Transcontinental, the Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian Northern Railways are unable to earn their operating expenses and their fixed charges. Canada has built, and is operating, the first of these roads, and Canada and the various provinces have guaranteed the principal and interest of most of the bonds of the other two. As the roads are unable to earn their fixed charges, they must, of necessity, be paid by the country.

The failure of these roads is due to the duplication of lines by all the railways, encouraged and bonused by the government; to the excessive cost of the Grand Trunk Pacific and National Transcontinental Railways; to the failure of the Grand Trunk Pacific to provide itself with an adequate system of feeders in the West, and to the construction, by the Canadian Northern, of the long and unproductive stretches of road across British Columbia and Northern Ontario, without feeders, terminals, etc.

If these railways are to be maintained in two separate systems, it will cost at least $400,000,000. It will be necessary to build five or six thousand miles of feeders in the West, and two or three thousand miles of feeders in the East, and terminals costing many millions.

A consolidation of the Grand Trunk, the Grand Trunk Pacific, Transcontinental and Canadian Northern Railways would give a well-balanced system. Such a combination would not require more than $100,000,000 to put it in proper physical condition.

Including operating expenses and fixed charges, it costs the Canadian Pacific about $70 to do $100 worth of business, and it costs the Intercolonial and the other Canadian government roads from $200 to $220 to do $100 worth of business.

Canada should follow the wise example set by Sir John Macdonald when dealing with the Canadian Pacific in 1879-80, and form a new private corporation with sufficient power and the necessary safeguards, to take over and consolidate the Grand Trunk, Grand Trunk Pacific, Transcontinental and Canadian Northern Railways, and develop another Canadian Pacific.

Such a combination would start with gross earnings of at least $100,000,000 per annum, with a probable average increase of 8 per cent. per annum, and probable net earnings of from $25,000,000 to $30,000,000 per annum, and a net revenue from other sources of about $2,800,000. Its fixed charges at consolidation would be about $35,000,000 and it would be under the necessity of spending, in the first five to seven years, at least $100,000,000 to provide rolling stock, and to put its properties in good physical condition.

In order to control its policy and to share in its certain prosperity, Canada should have an interest in the new company. The Dominion government should furnish 40 per cent. of the money required, own 40 per cent. of the stock, and appoint 40 per cent. of the directorate, but take no part in the actual management. This would give all the advantage of government control without any of the manifest disadvantages of government management.

Arrange School Fairs

Agricultural Society at Moose Jaw Devises Excellent Plan

Arrangements for holding school fairs in the various municipalities adjacent to Moose Jaw and of eventually bringing the prize winners of the various schools to Moose Jaw for competition in a big central fair, are still being made and it looks as though the efforts of the Moose Jaw agricultural society in this respect will be crowned with success.

The idea in brief is to have as many schools as possible enter the competition, the pupils themselves to look after the raising of garden produce, roots, grasses, poultry, pigs and calves. The municipalities are being asked to help the idea along and with the aid of the trustees of the various schools it is thought that a number of successful local exhibitions will be held. After the competitions are over, it is the idea of the association to bring all the prize winners of the various schools to Moose Jaw and have them compete one with the other for valuable prizes to be given by the agricultural society. Other help may also be asked for to make the event a success and as it means bringing quite a lot of children together with their parents and friends from the rural districts, it is altogether likely that Moose Jaw merchants will wish to be represented in the prize list.

Doctor Tells How to Strengthen Eyesight 50 per cent. In One Week's Time in Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home

LONDON.—Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eye strain or other eye weaknesses? If so, you will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope for you. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says, after trying it: "I was almost blind; could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can even read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules. Here is the prescription: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and allow to dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you, even a little, take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time.

Note: Another prominent Physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "Bon-Opto is a very remarkable remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them. The manufacturers guarantee it to strengthen eyesight 50 per cent. in one week's time in many instances or refund the money. It can be obtained from any good druggist and is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family." The Valmas Drug Co., Store 6, Toronto, will fill your orders if your druggist cannot.

COLOSSAL FAILURE OF GERMAN DREAM OF WORLD DOMINATION

WAR OF CIVILIZATION WAGED AGAINST BARBARISM

Men of Many Nations Have Chosen To Die and Have Risked The Supreme Hazard Rather Than Permit the German Gospel of Ruthlessness to Prevail in the World

Thirty-two months have passed since the first German soldier crossed the Belgian frontier and by his crossing opened a breach in the wall of civilization through which wave after wave of barbarism has entered. We are nearly three years away from the moment when Germany elected to put into play all that vast machinery she had prepared over a generation, to employ all those colossal plans she had made to achieve that world power of which Bernhardi wrote and German leaders dreamed.

And now, after these months, how much of all the German ambitions has been realized? Belgium was struck down that Germany might get at once at the throat of France, and today German troops in France are retreating, while France remains unconquered and a million Germans lie buried between the Meuse and the Channel.

To overawe Belgium German troops acting under orders performed their sordid task of ruthlessness in Louvain; they slaughtered children, outraged women, murdered old men; they turned the city into a shambles—and after thirty-two months the soul of Belgium remains unconquered and the sound of the Allied guns draws nearer to the ruins of Louvain.

To paralyze Russia, German spies and German agents corrupted Slav generals, sowed the Russian court with treason and enlisted Russian autocracy and royalty, and today Russia is in fact a republic and the voice of the Russian people has repudiated the treason of Russian leadership.

To terrorize Britain Zeppelins were sent over London and many innocent non-combatants were killed. Edith Cavell was executed, Captain Fryatt was murdered, submarine fleets were launched to sweep Britain from the seas, and today 2,000,000 British troops are advancing in France, and wherever a German agent has endeavored to sow treason in a British colony Britain has reaped a crop of loyalty and devotion. Australia, Canada, South Africa are represented in the British battle line. The stones of the British empire have been cemented by the blood of Britons and Colonials alike, shed in the same cause.

Great Britain, Italy, Roumania, the United States, each of the great neutrals, has in turn laid aside that neutrality which had become impossible; there has been a plebiscite of peoples, and the verdict of mankind is written; men of many nations have chosen to die, men of many races have risked the supreme hazard, rather than permit the German gospel, expressed utterly in the Belgian invasion, to prevail in the world.

There is no device known to materialistic civilization, to scientific and organized civilization, that the German has not employed. He has used the hospitality of other nations to plant treason within their borders; he has endeavored to turn one man against another in each neutral nation; by treason, by terrorism, by intrigue, by violence he has sought to undermine the liberties or to subdue the spirit of mankind. In Europe as in America his spies and his agents have labored in darkness to turn nations against each other. he has offered to Italy provinces of France as he has offered Mexico states of our nation; he has corrupted, cheated, murdered, robbed.

And what has all this profited him? His terrorism has aroused the courage of those he sought to intimidate and his ruthlessness has armed the hands and the wills of those he sought to paralyze. His corruption, his intrigue, have but united those he sought to turn against each other; his brutality and his barbarism have roused his opponents to a determination which broke the first rush of his hosts at the Marne and the Yser and is now turning backward toward Germany itself the slowly weakening mass of his armies.

What a monstrous thing this German attack has been, and what a colossal failure! The world has not been conquered, no part of it; no people among all that have been attacked has abandoned the battle, however heavy the first blow. Europe has been sown with German dead, but the harvest has only been enemies. The German calculation included all but the spirit of man, but the spirit of man has proven the decisive factor. Mankind has willed that the German menace should not prevail, and we are seeing at last the ebb tide of barbarism on the French fields.—New York Tribune.

What Happened in Kansas

There are, of course, differences in soil, but, when people talk about making back-lot gardens this spring they might as well be reminded of something that happened to a Kansas back-lot gardener last season. He planted pumpkins. They grew, and they continued to grow until they ran over the neighboring back lots and climbed the porches of neighboring houses and trespassed even upon the alley and the street. Everybody within the block made free with that man's pumpkins, and yet a petition was sent to the town council asking that he be forbidden to grow things this year. He has compromised the matter by erecting a close wire fence around his premises, and the neighbors are now afraid his pumpkins will grow upwards until they shut out the afternoon sun.—From the Christian Science Monitor.

There are nine soldiers wives residing at Comox whose husbands have gone overseas to help defeat the Huns. On Friday evening last they held a dance in Martin's hall. Many were present from all parts of the district. Whatever the Comox ladies do in the way of entertaining is always done well, and promoters of the dance had left nothing undone to please their patrons, The total receipts were $45. The ladies desire to thank Mr. O. H, Fechner for use of piano, Mr. Ball for lights. and Percy Smith for music, etc. The hall was prettily decorated for the occasion. and corner was fitted up as an ice cream saloon, which was well patronized by those present, Exquisite music was furnished by Mrs. Laban and Mrs. Percy Smith.

At the Presbyterian Church on Sunday evening the service was largely of a musical character, the choir having arranged special music for the occasion, and was assisted by Miss Winnifred Wood, who sang "Jesus Lover of My Soul." and "Ave Marie" very sweetly. The other numbers besides the hymns were "Behold the Evening Light" Shelley; Solos by Misses Hodgson and Menzies. Solo, "O Rest in the Lord." Mendelsshon, Mrs. MacIntyre. Anthem, "The Lord is My Light," solo by J. W. McKenzie.

Sunday was the anniversary of the leaving for overseas of the 102nd Battalion. The minister, made special mention of the gallant work the Battalion had been doing at the front, We, in Comox district take a special interest in the battalion as it was recruited here and many of our strongest and bravest young men enlisted with it, a number of them have made the Supreme Sacrifice and will not return. Many honors and promotions have been won by the members of the Battalion. and it seems to be liked at the front, for one of the officers in a recent letter said they were well over strength now. having over twelve hundred men, although over one half of the original men had fallen. The church was prettily decoeated with maple leaves, red flowers and the flags of the Allies, the work being done by Misses Annie Carroll and Jean Menzies,

The ladies who organized the entertaiument for the benefit of the soldiers at Qualicum Beach and Prisoners of War Fund have every reason to be gratified with the result of their endeavor, The Clerk of the weather furnished ideal weather, just the right temperature to make ice cream in great demand and the large supply was sold out early in the afternoon, A large crowd gathered at the Athletic grounds expecting that a program of childrens sports would be carried out, but the parties in charge of the proceedings fell down on the job. and the only amusement furnished was a cricket match, ladies vs. gentlemen The tea rooms and candy booths did a roaring business The Cumberland band played numerous selections during the afternoon which were thoroughly appreciated. In the evening the Agricultural Hall was filled to overflowing by an appreciative audience listening to the program furnished by the Comox ladies, a full report of which appeared in these columns a few weeks ago, after the performance at Comox. Needless to say. they acquitted themselves well, and will be sure of a welcome should they again grace a Courtenay platform. The hall was prettily decorated for the occasion, A large crowd enjoyed themselves afterwards tripping the light fantastic to the joytul strains of the Ilo-Ilo orchestra. Ticket number 39 is the winning number in the banjo raffle, won by Miss Margaret Hayman.

Courtenay Review

Serve Save Produce

EVERY ONE CAN do something for his country

Some can bear arms
Some can produce food
Some can make munitions
Some can give money

It is the privilege of all to help.

YOU CAN SERVE by Fighting—Working—Saving—Giving

This is NATIONAL SERVICE

Are YOU doing your part?

ALL EYES turn now to the Canadian Farmer, for he can render the Empire SPECIAL SERVICE in this sternest year of the war.

But—our farms are badly undermanned—25,000 men are needed on the land.

With insufficient help, the Man on the Land fights an uphill fight to meet the pressing need for Food.

CITY and TOWN can help.

Municipal Councils, Churches and Schools, and other organizations, both of men and women, can render National Service by directing all available labour to the Land.

Farmers themselves can exchange labour. School boys can assist.

Were you raised on a farm? Can you drive a team? Can you handle fork or hoe? If you can't fight, you can produce. Spend the Summer working on the Farm.

Let every man, woman and child in the Dominion who has access to Land, no matter how small the plot, make it produce Food in 1917.
