Fred closed the house with his usual care. Then he went up to bed.

My bedroom was over the library, and Mrs. Butler and Margery Fleming had connecting rooms across the hall. Fred and Edith slept in the nursery wing so they would be near the children. In the square upper hall there was a big reading table, a lamp and some comfortable chairs.

I was awakened by the pungent acrid smell of smoke. My cigarette had dropped from my hand still lighted and as is the way with cigarettes, determined to burn to the end. In so doing it had fired my bed, the rug under the bed and pretty nearly the man on the bed. It took some sharp work to get it all out without rousing the house. Then I stood amid the wreckage and looked ruefully at Edith's pretty room.

Three pitchers of water on the bed had made it an impossible couch. I put on a dressing gown and with a blanket over my arm, I went out to hunt some sort of place to sleep. I decided on the davenport in the hall just outside, and as quietly as I could I put a screen around it and settled down for the night.

I was awakened by the touch of a hand on my face. I started, I think, and the hand was jerked away. I am not sure; I was still drowsy. The hall was dark and quiet. When I found no one I concluded it had been only a vivid dream. Then I noticed a heavy, sweetish odor in the air. The smell was almost nauseating. For some reason or other—association of certain odors with certain events—I found myself recalling the time I had a wisdom tooth taken out and that when I came around I was being sat on by the dentist and his assistant, and the latter had a black eye. Then suddenly I knew. The sickly odor was chloroform!

I had the light on in a moment and was rapping at Margery's door. It was locked, and I got no answer. A pale light shone over the transom, but everything was ominously quiet beyond the door. I went to Mrs. Butler's door next. It was unlocked and partly open. One glance at the empty bed and the confusion of the place and I rushed without ceremony through the connecting door into Margery's room.

The atmosphere was reeking with chloroform. The girl was in bed, apparently sleeping quietly. One arm was thrown up over her head, and the other lay relaxed on the white cover. A folded towel had been laid across her face, and when I jerked it away I saw she was breathing very slowly and stentorously, with her eyes partly open and fixed.

I threw up all the windows before I roused the family downstairs and saw the silver was intact and the back kitchen door open. And then the doctor came, and I was put out in the hall.

Not until the doctor came out to me and said she was better and would I call a maid to make some strong black coffee did I come out of my stupor. The chance of doing something, anything, made me determine to make the coffee myself. They still speak of that coffee at Fred's.

It was Edith who brought Mrs. Butler to my mind. Fred had maintained that she had fled before the intruders and probably was in some closet or corner of the upper floor. It was I who found her, after all, lying full length on the grass in the little square yard back of the house. She was in a dead faint and was a much more difficult patient than Margery.

We could get no story from either of them that night. It was a strange experience—the night intrusion without robbery as a motive. If Margery knew or suspected the reason for the outrage she refused to say. As for Mrs. Butler, to mention the occurrence put her into hysteria. It was Fred who put forth the most startling theory of the lot.

By George, he said the next morning when we had failed to find tracks in the yard and Edith had reported every silver spoon in its place, by George, it wouldn't surprise me if the lady in the grave clothes did it herself. There isn't anything a hysterical woman won't do to rouse your interest in her if it begins to flag. How did any one get in through that kitchen door when it was locked inside and outside. I tell you she opened it herself.

I did not like to force Margery's confidence, but I believed that the outrage was directly for the purpose of searching her room, perhaps for papers that had been her father's. Mrs. Butler came around enough by morning to tell a semiconnected story, in which she claimed that two men had come in from a verandah roof and tried to chloroform her.

The inability of Margery Fleming to tell who had chloroformed her, and Mrs. Butler's white face and brooding eyes made a very respectable mystery out of the affair. Only Fred, Edith and I came down to breakfast that morning.

Did you find anything, Fred? Edith asked. Fred did not reply, so she repeated the question with some emphasis.

Eh—what? Fred inquired, peering around the corner of the paper.

Did—you—find—any—clew?

Yes, dear—that is, no. Nothing to amount to anything. Upon my soul Jack, if I wrote the editorials of this paper I'd say something. He subsided into inarticulate growls behind the paper, then I heard a sniffle distinctly. Edith was crying—pouring cream into a coffee cup and feeling blindly for the sugar, with her pretty eyes obscured. In a second I was up, had crumpled the newspapers, including Fred's, into a ball, and had lifted him bodily out of his chair.

When I am married, I said fiercely, jerking him around to Edith and pushing him into a chair beside her, if I ever read the paper at breakfast when my wife is bursting for conversation, may I have some good and faithful friend who will bring me back to a sense of my duty. I drew a chair to Edith's other side. Now, let's talk, I said.

Fred had taken her hand and was patting it gently, the while his eye sought the headlines on the wad of morning paper.

You burned that blue rug, she said to me disconsolately, with a threat of fresh tears. It took me ages to find the right shade of blue.

I will buy you that Shirvan you wanted, I hastened to assure her.

Yes, to take away when you get married. There is a hint of the shrew in all good women.

I will buy the Shirvan and not get married.

Here, I regret to say, Edith suddenly laughed.

You! she chortled, and pointed one slim finger at me mockingly. You who are so mad about one girl that you love all women for her sake. You who go white instead of red when she comes into the room! You, who have let your practice go to the dogs to be near her and then never spake to her when she's around, but sit with your mouth open like a puppy begging for candy.

Honestly Edith, do I do that? I gasped. She leaned over and kissed Fred.

Women like men to be awful fools about them, she said. That's why I'm so crazy about Freddie. He writhed.

If I tell you something nice, Jack, will you make it a room size rug?

Room size it is.

Then, Margery's engagement ring was stolen last night, and when I commiserated her she said: Dear me, the lamp's out and the coffee is cold.

Remarkable speech under the circumstances, said Fred.

Edith rang the bell and seemed to be thinking. Perhaps we'd better make it four small rugs instead of one large one.

Not a rug until you have told me what Margery said, firmly.

Oh, that! Why she said it really didn't matter about the ring. She had never cared much about it anyway.

But that's only a matter of taste, I protested, somewhat disappointed. But Edith got up and patted me on the top of the head.

Silly! she said. If the right man came along and gave her a rubber teething ring she'd be crazy about it for his sake.

Edith took me upstairs to measure for the Shirvan, Edith being a person who believes in obtaining a thing while the desire for it is in its first bloom. Across the hall Fred was talking to Margery through the transom.

Mustard leaves are mighty helpful, he was saying. I always take them on shipboard. And cheer up. Land is in sight.

I would have given much for Fred's case of manner when, a few minutes later, Edith, having decided on four Shirvans and a hall runner, she took me to the door of Margery's orom. She was very still and pale.

I hope you are better, I said.

She said she was a little better. I who have a local reputation of a sort before a jury, I could not think of another word to say. I stood there for a minute uneasily, with Edith poking me with her finger to go inside the door and speak and act like an intelligent human being. But I only muttered something about a busy day before me and fled. It was singular, but as I stood in the doorway I had a vivid mental picture of Edith's description of me, sitting up puppy-like to beg for a kind word and wiggling with delight when I got it. If I slunk into my office that morning like a dog scourged to his kennel Edith was responsible.

FINGER NAILS DROPPED OFF

Skin Beneath Lifeless. Fingers Painful. Sleepless Nights. Used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. Complaint Gone.

70 Agricola St., Halifax, N. S.—"Some time ago my finger nails began to drop off, the result it was believed of lead poisoning. The nails themselves were brittle and dry, the skin beneath being lifeless looking. My fingers were excessively painful causing sleepless nights. I was treated for about three months and the nails grew again but away from the flesh of the fingers and then fell off again.

"Having heard a great deal of Cuticura Soap and Ointment I sent for a sample of both in the hope of their healing my fingers which were very painful. At night after washing my hands well with the Cuticura Soap I rubbed the Cuticura Ointment all around the finger ends and wore gloves to prevent the Ointment from being rubbed off, then again in the morning washed my hands with the Cuticura Soap. The Cuticura Soap and Ointment had a cooling effect and after using them for a short while I was surprised to feel fingers much less sore and beginning to assume a more healthy appearance; the fungus which had grown under the old nails disappeared and then new strong nails formed. This trouble had lasted about eighteen months before using Cuticura Soap and Ointment yet after using same for three months my finger nails had grown strong and complaint had entirely gone." (Signed) Ernest Beckford, Oct. 12, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. A single set is often sufficient. For a liberal free sample of each, with 32-p. book, send post-card to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. D, Boston, U. S. A.

Polite

A reverend canon of the Angelican church relates that on one occasion it fell to his lot to marry his footman to his cook. The footman would persist throughout the service in putting his finger to his forehead every time his master addressed him, in accordance with custom. The reverend gentleman remonstrated in an undertone:

Don't touch your forehead, John, but say the words after me. Then aloud: Wilt thou take this woman to be thy wedded wife? etc.

John, bearing in mind the canon's hint, replied: After you, sir! and the assembled friends burst into laughter.

Probably the first time in the history of any province in the Dominion a movement has been started in Saskatchewan to form an association in different districts for the co-operative marketing of eggs, and the increasing of the egg output. It is the desire to place this industry on a profit producing basis without increasing the cost to the consumer, and in fact, if the scheme works well, a reduction may be expected. It is proposed to have nine branches of this association; the head quarters to be at Regina. An association has been organized at Lloydminster, and others will be organized at Redvers, Milestone, Tugaske, Forget, Graham Hill, Penzance, Elfros and Wilcox.

AFRAID TO EAT

Girl Starving on Poorly Selected Food

"Several year ago I was actually starving," writes a girl, "yet dared not eat for fear of the consequences.

"I had suffered indigestion from over-work, irregular meals and improper food, until at last my stomach became so weak I could eat scarcely any food without great distress.

"Many kinds of food were tried, all with the same discouraging effects. I steadily lost health and strength until I was but a wreck of my former self.

"Having heard of Grape-Nuts and its great merits, I purchased a package, but with little hope that it would help me—I was so discouraged.

"I found it not only appetizing but that I could eat it as I liked and that it satisfied the craving for food without causing distress, and if I may use the expression, "it filled the bill."

"For months Grape-Nuts was my principal article of diet. I felt from the very first that I had found the right way to health and happiness, and my anticipations were fully realized.

"With its continued use I regained my usual health and strength. Today I am well and can eat anything I like, yet Grape-Nuts food forms a part of my bill of fare."

Hopeless

A gentleman who had been spending a holiday at a Scottish seaside village noted for its golf links asked one of the caddies if he got much carrying in the winter time.

Nae, sir, nae, replied the caddie. There's nae carrying in the winter time. Ye see, it's this way. If it's no sna' it's frost; if it's no frost, it's sna'; if it's neither sna' nor frost, it's rain; if it's no rain, it's wind; an if it's a fine day, it's the Sawbath.

A young man who had spent his life in a country village went to Dublin to seek his fortune. On the day of his arrival he walked into a restaurant and ordered dinner. The waiter brought in the meal in all those little dishes sacred to restaurant keeping and arranged them in tempting array around the man's plate. For half an hour he sat and looked at the untouched dinner. Overcome by hunger, he called the waiter, who had been watching him wonderingly, and said:

Look here, mister, if you don't hurry and bring my dinner I will eat up your samples.

Mrs. R. was an extremely careful mother and had repeatedly cautioned her 6-year-old daughter against handling any object that might contain germs. One day the little girl came in and said:

Oh, no, replied her mother, there are no germs on your kitten.

Yes, there are, insisted the child. I saw one hop.

A Boon for the Bilious.—The liver is a very sensitive organ and easily deranged. When this occurs there is undue secretion of bile and the acrid liquid flows into the stomach and sours it. It is a most distressing ailment, and many are prone to it. In this condition a man finds the best remedy in Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, which are warranted to speedily correct the disorder. There is no better medicine in the entire list of pill preparations.

An Extraordinary Projectile

A child's struggles with the intricate facts of history are sometimes almost as serious a matter to him as the battles of which he reads. The results however, are not always without humor as a story in Everybody's Magazine shows.

General Braddock was killed in the Revolutionary war. He had three horses shot under him, and a fourth went through his clothes.

Returning a Favor

It's going to be war to the knife, declared the suburban man, who was feeding his chickens.

What now? asked the friend.

Why, Blinks, sent me a box of axle grease and advised me to use it on my lawn mower.

Well?

Well, I sent it back and told him to use it on his daughter's voice.

EVIL EFFECT OF CARELESS EATING

When depressed, blue, bilious and out of sorts you may attribute this condition to poison in the blood, resulting from careless eating—eating too much, eating too quickly or eating what does not agree.

For three or four days there are looseness of the bowels, fickle appetite, acute indigestion and all-gone feelings. Efficiency is lowered, business deals are spoiled, pleasures are interfered with, and the sick spell may prove dreadfully expensive to you.

By using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills as soon as trouble is apparent such an attack may be cut short, and regular healthful action of the digestive organs quickly restored. No treatment so promptly cleanses the filtering and excretory organs, and thereby rids the body of poisonous waste matter. The digestive system resumes its natural functions, and vigor and energy are restored to mind and body.

It Sometimes Happens

He dragged his shotgun
Through the fence, muzzle first,
But the gun didn't catch,
And the shell didn't burst.
And his wife through the gloaming
In tears did not wait,
And she doesn't wear black,
And no crape's on the gate.

There is nothing repulsive in Miller's Worm Powders, and they are as pleasant to take as sugar, so that few children will refuse them. In some cases they cause vomiting through their action in an unsound stomach, but this is only a manifestation of their cleansing power, no indication that they are hurtful. They can be thoroughly depended upon to clear all worms from the system.

Is that Mr. Smith? I called you up to ask if you can say anything good of Bridget Farley, who was with you as cook.

Yes, I can say one nice thing. She left without breaking any dishes.

That's encouraging. How long did she stay?

One hour.

His Full Name

What? said a teacher to a boy with a slow memory, who had tried in vain to tell the name of the school-master, can't you remember your master's name?

No, sir.

My name is Brown, blockhead.

Yes, sir.

Well, you see if you can repeat it.

What is my name?

Brown Blockhead, sir

A Bird With Hands

In the forests of British Guiana, says the London Globe, lives the hoactzin, a singular bird, whose young possess a free claw at the end of each wing, which they use almost as the monkey uses his hands in tree climbing. The nest of the hoactzin is in a tree, overhanging the water and the young, unlike most birds are active from the first. The outermost quill feathers of the wing, which might hamper the free use of the claws, do not grow much until the rest of the wing is strong enough to make climbing less necessary. Then they grow out, and the claws are absorbed. The adult bird does not need them. Should a young hoactzin fall into the water it makes for the shore and seizes a branch, up which it quickly climbs.

JUST ONE MORE WOMEN RISES

TO TELL HER SISTERS THEY CAN FIND RELIEF IN DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

Mrs. John Cabot, After Six Years' Suffering, Tried Dodd's Kidney Pills and Found New Life and Energy.

White Head Parce, Que. (Special). One more woman has risen to tell her suffering sisters they can find relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills. That woman is Mrs. John Cabot, well known and highly respected here, and she expresses her enthusiasm in these words: "I certainly recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills. There's is nothing better."

Asked to give her experience, Mrs. Cabot continued: "My trouble started in a cold, and I suffered for six years. Rheumatism, neuralgia, stiffness of the joints, cramps in the muscles and heart fluttering were among my symptoms, and finally Bright's Disease developed. It was then I started to use Dodd's Kidney Pills, and they helped me almost from the start. After taking four boxes I feel like a new woman."

Dodd's Kidney Pills cure the kidneys. Healthy kidneys strain all the impurities and poisons—all the seeds of disease—out of the blood. Dodd's Kidney Pills not only cure the disease but by ensuring good blood give new life and energy to every part of the body.

Promoting the Janitor

They were joint owners of an apartment house, and one day the junior partner sought his colleagues in some trepidation.

The janitor wants ten dollars more per month, or he'll leave. I hate to give up the money, but we can't spare him.

The senior partner disappeared and returned in a few moments.

It's all right, he said. I have satisfied him, and it didn't cost us anything.

How's that?

The janitor is now the superintendent.

Good work! declared the junior partner. But why didn't you make him superintendent in the first place?

Because, answered the senior member, I knew he'd want a promotion eventually. Every man wants a promotion some time, and to my mind, a good man deserves one.

Scoffers at policewomen will do well to consider one of Chicago's, who subdued a street car rowdy and took him to the station house single handed.

You can't avoid duty by taking a bypath.

BUY BRUCE'S SEEDS

The most successful of the market gardeners in Canada, many of them customers for two generations, and some for three, buy Bruce's seeds, because, ever since this business was established by us Sixty-four years ago, they found they could rely on them in every way, getting better results than from any other seeds.

To these men quality and germination is the big consideration, as their bread and butter depends on their crops.

We would say to the amateur and also the farmer, who are not customers,

"It Will Pay You To Buy Bruce's Seeds"

for it takes the same time and trouble to plant and care for poor seed as for good, and poor seed means dissatisfaction and loss for a surety.

OUR MOTTO

Courtenay River

That the Board of Trade are taking up the question of the River in an energetic manner is shown by the following night letter which was sent H. S. Clements M. P., after the S. S. Fingal had met with her accident on May 13th, and we hope that their efforts will cause the Government to take some action. It is only by such hammering away at our member that we shall have this matter settled satisfactorily.

Hon. H. S. Clements, Ottawa:—Your letter regarding river received for which we thank you. Steamer "Fingal" came up river yesterday, struck sunken log and lost shaft, propellor and rudder besides damaging shoe, total damages about six hundred dollars. Steamship companies have informed us that this is the last straw and they will absolutely refuse all freight for this place until river is cleared of sunken menaces. In a very short time this district will be up against a shortage of feed and other heavy freight, probably tying up building operations and increasing the cost on all heavy material at least four dollars per ton, This looks to us like a case of absolute neglect on the part of the Government as the amount that has been lost in damages to shipping in the past few months would more than pay for clearing the river. Please advise us by wire as to what disposition you can make in this matter as we must have immediate relief.

Courtenay Board of Trade

The Comox Valley and Courtenay Conservative Associations also sent night letters endorsing request of the Committee.

Rev. and Mrs. Wilemar arrived home from the Old Country on Saturday.

Courtenay Land Seekers At Salmon River

Messrs. Sackville brothers, Graham and Ahlin have just returned from a trip to the Salmon River District where they have been looking over the land thrown open for pre-emption by the Provincial Government. About 50 blocks of 40 acres were available, they looked carefully over the country but came to the conclusion that outside of a few blocks the others were not worth the trouble of pre-empting.

They were in the queue at the Land Registry office at Vancouver on May 18th, but the best blocks were all snapped up long before their turn came, so they came away empty handed.

They report the District a long way behind the Comox Valley, and conditions very primitive. Light sleighs being used on the trails as they are impassible for wagons.

COMOX

The reception given in the honor of Mother Irene (the Mother General of Canada) at the Sisters' hospital was a great success. There was a large number of people there, Tea was provided by the ladies of the Altar Society, and music and singing made things lively. Everyone had a good time.

Numbers of people are complaining about losing their cats, some supposed to have been shot, and some done to death by cruel boys, with stones. We are informed that it is a serious thing to kill domestic animals and that the law can punish all offenders.

Mr. Jerry Kentura has rented the house in the Wilcox Block, says he is tired of batching.

J. B, Holmes left by Sunday's boat on a business visit to Vancouver.

Married—At St, Peter's church, Comox, on Tuesday, May 19, Mr. R. Ainslie, Wireless Operator, to Miss Edith Beckensell, daughter of Mr. T. Beckensell, one of the oldest residents of the District. The church was prettily decorated for the occasion, and a large number of their friends were present to witness the ceremony.

Newly arrived from the Highlands, Jack McTavish wandered about Comox, until fairly tired out. Long had he hesitated about entering any of the brilliantly lighted hotels. At length he mustered up courage to enter a dining room, and when presented with the menu which was so much "Gum Arabic" to him said, "A'hm no hungry, no hungry at a'. Just bring me a plate o' whiskey and a wee spoon."

UNION BAY

The following is an extract from a letter received by us from the Union Bay Development Co.

The station here is near completion, and now that we have begun selling the town-site, Union is going to go ahead fast. Business and manufacturers are coming down here. We are the sole agents for the promoters on the Island and for the adjacent Islands, and if there are any enterprising Courtenay people who want to get on to a good thing they had better come down here and let us show them where, and how, and why. We began making sales within a couple of hours of signing up our agreement, and the water front and the best of the business and residential sites are going pretty quickly. We are going to put in graded and ballasted streets round the center of the business quarter, and we have some attractive inducements for people in any line who will start in to build on the townsite.

Police Court

On Tuesday of last week Engineer Jackson, of Doan's Tug "Eagle" was charged before Wesley Willard J, P. and G. R. Bates J. P, with stealing tools, the property of Geo. Doan. Evidence was given by Timekeeper Jenkins, and Foreman Hugh Cliffe, which proved that they were in the habit of loaning tools to Jackson. Constable Hannay also gave evidence to show he had visited Mr. Leyburn's ranch at Comox, and there found the tools alledged to have been stolen. Neither Cliffe nor Jenkins could positively identify the tools as Doan's property, and the Magistrates dismissed the case. Mr. P. P. Harrison conducted the case for the defendant, Jackson.

Shocking Tragedy At Oyster River

A shocking shooting affair took place on the Main Island Highway, at about 9.10 last Thursday morning, close to Oyster River, when Robert Suttie shot and killed Richard Hargreaves, road boss on the Government Road.

Suttie and Hargreaves had words early in the morning and Suttie was overheard to say "I will get you and you will be road boss no longer after to-day." Hargreaves took his men out about 7 a. m. and was heard to say jokingly "Suttie has gone for a gun to shoot me." He evidently did not take Suttie seriously and little knew the deadly purpose in his mind. Suttie then walked to Oyster River Hotel and got a rifle which he had left there, he walked back towards Oyster River bridge, meeting Hargreaves on the road he opened fire on him but missed, Hargreaves ran down the road, and W. Storie, who was working on the road and heard the shot was an eye witness of the finish of the tragedy. Suttie covered Storie and told him to keep out, and then raised the gun and shot at Hargreaves who was not more than 60 feet distant. Hargreaves fell immediately and Storie ran to fetch the gang. Dr. Jamieson of Campbell River was summoned and pronounced life extinct, deceased had lived about 3 minutes after being shot.

Constable Hannay and Road Superintendent Wilmshurst were rushed to the scene and Coroner Bickle arrived shortly afterwards, he summonsed a jury and after hearing the evidence, the inquest was adjourned to Courtenay for Friday afternoon.

The Opera House was crowded on the opening of the adjourned hearing, and after hearing the evidence the jury brought in a verdict that the deceased met his death by a bullet fired from a rifle.

The deceased was well known and respected through the district, where he had resided for a number of years. He was 45 years of age, unmarried and an Englishman. Robert Suttie is a native of Fifeshire Scotland, is a miner by occupation but has worked on the Government roads in the summer for the last four years.

Suttie in Court

Robert Suttie who is accused of having shot and killed Richard Hargreaves about 9.00 a. m. on Thursday last, was brought before Wesley Willard J. P., and T. E. Bate J. P., at Cumberland Court House for his preliminary hearing. The magistrate thought there was sufficient evidence to commit him to the fall Assizes at Nanaimo which will open in October next. The accused was removed to Nanaimo on Sunday's boat. The accused bore himself well in Court but we hear that he has expressed his sorrow for his rash act.

Funeral of Richard Hargreaves

The funeral of Richard Hargreaves, late Government Road boss, who was the victim of Thursdays tragedy, took place from Sutton & Kirkwood's unbertaking parlors on Sunday last. The deceased was buried in the English church yard and was followed to his grave by a large number of his friends. The Rev. Laycock conducted the church service and afterwards the members of the L. O. L. had the funeral service. Hearty expressions of regret were heard on all sides, as the deceased was well known and popular through the district.

Circular to Boxholders on Rural Mail Delivery Boxes

As a result of the establishment of the Parcel Post system in Canada the Post Office Department has decided to adopt a new Rural Mail Delivery combined Letter and Parcel Post box to meet the new conditions.

A supply of these new boxes, will be ready for delivery, on or about the 15th of June, 1914.

The price per box will be $4.50 (four dollars and fifty cents.)

In order that the holders of the present box may not suffer hardship by reason of their having already paid $3.00 for the "King Edward" box, they will be allowed (on their returning the automatic self-locking signal device and their paying an additional $1.50 to the Department) to get a new box, the Department having undertaken to make good the balance of the purchase price, thus enabling the present boxholders to procure a new box at the same price required of new subscribers.

The automatic self-locking signal device is the circular piece of mechanism attached to the end of the arm on which the box rests and turns.

Boxholders desiring to exchange their present box for the new one should forward the self locking signal device and the additional $1.50 to the Post Office Inspector of their Division, who will then forward a box of the new pattern.

Put Out Camp Fires

A small picture, entitled "Putting Out the Gamp Fire," a clock poster, and a pocket whetstone with with an inscription requesting care in regard to fire, all of which form a part of the campaign of the forest brauch for the prevention of forest fires, is being distributed by the officials.

The pictures, while being distributed to country banks, hotels, stores, etc., throughout the Province, are designed chiefly for distribution to the school children. They are being sent in bulk to the superintendents or teachers, and the latter requested, before distributing the pictures to the pupils to give a short talk about the relation of the forests to the prosperity of the province, the life history of a forest, emphasizing the great length of time required, and the way it is threatened from youth to old age by fire and finally, the necessity on the part of everyone, to be careful that they do not, through carelessness, set a forest fire which may destroy homes and property, as well as valuable forests The original of the picture is by a noted artist, and is entitled "A Friend or the Forest."

The clock posters, it is felt, present the importance of fire prevention in a manner which will reach every reader. They are to be posted in forest roads and trails throughout the province.

The whetsones are designed chiefly for persons such as loggers, settlers, prospectors, trappers and surveyors who live and work in the forests, and who, more than anyone else can be of assistance in preventing forest fires.

At Kelowna John Ward was fined $25 and costs for having venison in his possession.

JOHN MUNDELL HOME

Mr. John Mundell returned home on Saturday last, looking, and feeling much better for his eight months trtp, four of which were spent in his birthplace, in Scotland and the balance with relatives and friends at Teeswater and Wingham. With reference to his Wingham visit the "Advance" of that place, publishes the following.

This week Wingham was honored with a visit by her first school master, in the person of Mr. John Mundell of British Columbia. Mr. Mundell is on his way back to British Columbia from a visit at his birth place in Dumfriesshire, Scotland, and is spending a short time with his relatives in Turnberry, Culross, and Teeswater. In 1861 Mr. Mundell came from his home east of Toronto to the Queens Bush in Turnberry, and was engaged as school teacher in school section number ten, Turnberry, which is better known as Holmes' school house, Wingham was then known as the town plot and had no schoolhouse, but the children went to Holme's school house where Mr. Mundell was teaching. After there were a sufficient number of children in the Town Plot, a school house was erected, and Mr. Mundell was invited to be the first school master. This was in 1863. He taught two years in the Town Plot and then went to Teeswater, where he taught one year. Mr. Mundell then attended the Normal school at Toronto where he obtained a life certificate for Ontario, and while there attended a Commercial College, after which he entered University to study for the Ministry, but through overstudy and close confinement his health gave out, and he was advised by his physician to seek another climate. He decided to go to British Columbia. In those days there were no transcontinental railways and he had to go to New York, then by steamer to the Isthmus of Panama and enroute, visited the West Indies, Mexico' etc. He crossed the Isthmus of Panama and then taking a steamer, visited California on the way, and eventually landed in Vancouver Island, where he has resided over forty years. He arrived in British Columbia in 1871, being the year in which that Province entered the Confederation. and after teaching 17 years. bought a farm of 175 acres, later selling 160 of timbered land, and retaining 15 acres for intensive farming, engaging in poultry, fruit, etc. Mr. Mundell is very enthusiastic as to the future of British Columbia, believing that her natural resources are a wonderful asset. While 78 years of age, he is hale and hearty and will return to his home in the spring. In the meantime he is making his home with Miss Margaret Rome, his niece of Teeswater. He is an extensive traveller, having crossed the Atlantic seven times. His old students in Wingham will no doubt be pleased to learn of his success in that new land. While in Wingham Mr. Mundell was the guest of Mr. R. A. Graham, who was teaching in Wroxeter at the time he was teaching in Wingham.

Editor Courtenay Review

Sir;—I read with interest your remarks recently anent the Oriental question, and considered them timely. With your permission, I should like to say a few words on the question.

The history of the Chinaman in this country has been one of unspeakable fiendish crimes, which for the most part pass seemingly unheeded, and has, so far at least, failed to stir our people to a true realization of the dreaded "yello v peril" which is, or should be a matter for serious consideration,

The "Chink" by nature is a moral degenerate of the lowest type, utterly devoid of principle, lacking in everything pertaining to a civilized life, but endowed with the repulsive instincts of the lower animals; aside from these he may be alright--in China.

The Government wisely offer a reward or bounty on wolves because of their destructivenes to animal life, but the Chink. his prey being merely human beings, is accorded protection.

It is high time the press took hold of of this matter, and it is to be hoped that it will keep everlastingly at it until our fair country is awakened to the horror of the situation and rids itself of these undesirables. W. B. C.

To The Courtenay Review.

Someone kindly sent me a copy of your paper of April 30th giving an account of the death of Wm. A. Stiles, a young man whom we all loved and esteemed. Would you kindly through your columns thank Thomas R. Smith and all those that had a part in fixing up the body for burial and shipment to our home where it arrived in good condition. Will you also convey to his fellow workmen and others our sincere thanks and appreciation for their sympathy and the beautiful floral tributes they so kindly sent.

Courtenay Review

Dear Sir:—In reply to Mr. Cameron's statement in your paper that the Sisters Hospital at Comox being denominational could not obtain a Government grant, I wish to say that Mr. Cameron is very much mistaken; as the Comox Hospital is undenominational, and is, and was, at the time he wrote the letter, receiving the Government grant. As Mr. Manson states it would be impossible for the Sisters to receive the Goevrnment grant if they ran a denominational hospital, but they never had any such intention, as all their hospital (and they have a large number in Ontario) are absolutely undenominational; as for his statement, that they do not take any but well paying patients, I think Mr. Cameron will find if he enquires into the matter, that no patients, however poor they may be, are ever turned away from a Hospital owned by the Sisters of St. Joseph.

Silence Hour

One mother of a large household has a system of recreation which is really a novelty. The day and its duties are carefully apportioned, and the schedule is followed as closely as possible. By doing this the mother is able to take one afternoon a day for complete rest. In her case it is from 2 to 3 o'clock. She places a large placard at this time on the stairs, proclaiming "Silence." By the mother's persistence in taking this quiet hour others have grown to respect it until it has become a part of the home. In her home the mother really rests or else reads. No one goes near her unless it is absolutely necessary. The children close doors quietly when they see the placard and play where their voices will not reach the mother's room. At the end of the sixty minutes the mother reappears and takes up her usual duties. Several hours of absolute freedom a week can do a great deal to make over and refresh a weary body and still more weary nerves. An hour for rest in almost every household can be found if things are done systematically.

A colonel wanted a manservant, so he inserted an advertisement in the local weekly and received a great many applications, but none of them suited his requirements. But at last an Irishman was shown into his presence.

What I want, said the colonel, is a useful man—one who can cook, drive a motor, look after a pair of horses, clean boots and windows, feed the poultry, milk the cow, and do a little painting and paperhanging.

Excuse me, sir, cried Murphy, what kind of soil have ye here?

Soil! snapped the colonel, what's that got to do with it?

Well, replied Murphy, I thought that if the soil was clay, I might make bricks in my spare time.

Bacon—What's become of that young man typewriter you had?

Egbert—Oh, he's gone away, for a while.

No, I have sent him to the house of correction for a time.

THIN-BLOODED MEN AND WOMEN

Need the Rich, Red Blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Actually Make

Thin-blooded people do not remain so from choice, but from indifference; in some cases from despair. People who are pale, languid, with palpitation of the heart, some difficulty in breathing and a tendency to be easily tired are suffering from thin blood. They need only the resolution to take the right treatment and stick to it until cured. The remedy that can be relied upon is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. With every dose they make new blood, and new blood means health and strength. The red cheeks, good appetite, increasing weight and strength that follow the use of these Pills prove their great value to thin-blooded people. Here is an example. Mrs. R. Steele, Afton Road, P.E.I., says: "Following child-birth I took a pain in my head which grew so bad I had to call in a doctor. He told me that my blood had turned to water and that I was in a serious condition. He treated me four months, but still the pain remained, and my condition was growing pitiable. I lost my appetite and was so weak and run down that I could no more than walk across a room. I was as pale as a corpse, and the doctor told my friends he had but little hopes of my getting better. A cousin who came to see me urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I sent and got a supply. In about a month after beginning their use I had much relief, and by the time I had taken six more boxes I was fully cured and felt as well as ever I did in my life. I have never had a twinge of the pain since, and feel that I owe my life to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as they cured me after the doctor had failed."

Joints Quit Aching---Nerviline Drives Soreness Away

NO MORE STIFFNESS, PAIN OR MISERY IN YOUR BACK OR SIDE OR LIMBS

Wonderful "Nerviline" is the Remedy

A marvelous pain reliever.

Not an ordinary liniment — just about five times more powerful, more penetrating, more pain-subduing than any thick, oily or ammonia liniment. Nerviline fairly eats up the pain and stiffness in chronic rheumatic joints, gives quick relief to those throbbing pains, and never burns or even stains the skin.

"Rheumatism kept my joints swollen and sore for ten years. My right knee joint was often too painful to allow me to walk. In this crippled, tortured condition I found Nerviline a blessing. Its warm, soothing action brought relief I had given up hoping for. I rubbed on quantities of Nerviline and improved steadily. I also took Ferrozone at meal time in order to purify and enrich my blood. I am today well, and can recommend my treatment most conscientiously.

(Signed) C. PARKS,
Prince Albert

Not an ache or pain in the muscles or joints that Nerviline won't cure. It's wonderful for lumbago and sciatica; for neuralgia, stiff neck, earache and toothache. Nerviline is simply a wonder. Best family liniment known and largely used for the past forty years. Sold by dealers everywhere, large family size bottle 50c., small size 25c. Refuse a substitute, take only "Nerviline."

The Fashionable Face

Browne—Say, old man, I haven't seen or heard anything of my wife in two or three weeks. You haven't seen her lately, have you?

Some Surprise for the Doctor

There is a story current about a widely known London doctor. About 3 o'clock one morning he was rung up by a wealthy patient and begged to come over at once. Turning out of bed he rushed off expecting to find the man in extremis. Imagine his surprise at being ushered into a dining room where a gay supper party was assembled. The first remark made to him was: Oh, doctor, I am so glad you have come. We wanted you to settle a bet as to exactly where the diaphragm is. He not only told them where the diaphragm was, but told them them many other things. The patient tried to mollify him by asking his fee. Still furiously angry he named a staggering one which to his surprise was paid on the spot.

He is clear-headed and fearless in debate and an excellent public speaker and a lawyer of good ability.

He was born in Ottawa in 1872 and educated there, being a graduate of Ottawa University, with honors in philosophy. He subsequently studied law at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, and was called to the Ontario Bar in 1897. He was created a King's counsellor in 1910. He has practiced his profession with success in the capital ever since graduation and rapidly came to the front, as a leader among the French-Canadians of the capital He has been president of the Monument National, and of the Ste. Jean Baptiste Society, and of the L'Union Canadian of Ontario. He has been a vice-president of the Ottawa branch of the Over-Seas Club and chief ranger of Court 304, C. O. F., and he has also sat at the Aldermanic Board and been a license commissioner for Ottawa.

Lisping In Golden Numbers.

There have been so many big cases in the British law courts during the past few months that speculation has been rife as to the incomes made by fashionable K.C.'s. It is not unusual for a prominent lawyer to pocket $100,000 a year, and yet the majority of them are quite willing to make financial sacrifices in order to attain Cabinet rank.

Nowadays Mr. F. E. Smith appears to be engaged for every big case, and oft-times he keeps several cases going on the same day. His income must be of handsome proportions, and yet he is certain to take Cabinet office when the Tories return to power, though his income will only be something like a fourth of what it is now. It is questionable, however, with all his big fees whether "F. E." has talked to greater profit than his bosom friend, Mr. Winston Churchill Just as he returned from the Boer War, and before he was known as a Parliamentarian, Mr. Churchill pocketed £364 as his share for an hour and a half's lecture at St. George's Hall, Liverpool. His present salary is a wretched dole compared with that rate of payment.

Now She's Much Younger.

Wilfred—Do you know Miss Cutey too?

Ernie—Yes; we used to be the same age when we were growing up.—Judge.

The Limit.

I can stand for the man with the cute little bow
On the back of his green colored hat,
For there are a lot of good fellows I know
Who sometimes have fallen for that;
The fedora of plush is a lid I don't like—
It's a fad that will never be missed—
But somehow I've always an itching to strike
The man with the watch on his wrist.

I grow peevish at times at the ladylike man
Who says "Mercy me!" and "Oh, dear!"
And the chap in the ballroom who uses a fan
Is the chap I could swat on the ear.
The swell with the cane in the crotch of his arm
Isn't human, I often insist,
But some day somebody is going to harm
The man with the watch on his wrist.

KING GEORGE AS FARMER.

His Majesty Had Thirty-Five Entries in Smithfield Show.

The crowned heads of Britain, for many years, have recognized the fact that agriculture is the basis of a country's prosperity.

For several years past many of the big prizes at the Smithfield Show, London, have been awarded to the farmer sovereign, whose exhibits are always a feature of the show.

Even as far back as 1800, King George III. was an exhibitor at the great show, but failed to secure a prize. Six years later, the Duke of York was successful. Queen Victoria won many trophies, being awarded the Champion Cup for the best beast in the show in 1883, 1889, 1890, 1895, and 1899, and it may be incidentally mentioned, that by her command no exhibit that has not been bred on one of the royal farms has been exhibited by the sovereign, since the year 1890.

King Edward won the championship of the cattle section in 1874, and the Cup for the best pen of sheep in 1885; while our present King won the championship for pigs in 1895, and the Prince Consort a gold medal for pigs in 1859.

Nor has the Smithfield Club lacked royal support from other points of view; as King Edward was their president in 1875, 1883, and again at the Centennary Show in 1898; while H.R.H. the Duke of Edinburgh occupied the position in 1887 and H.R.H. Prince Christian, who is a constant exhibitor, in 1893.

At the recent show, Windsor, Sandringham and Balmoral were all represented, the royal entries totalling thirty-five. King George inspected all his entries, and handled many of them.

Perhaps the King chiefly differed from more specialist exhibitors, in the particular interest he took in the men who tended his stock. As he stroked the forehead of his beautiful shorthorn heifer he inquired of the herdsman how many years he had served at Windsor; and if ever a Scotsman rolled his "r's" it was that herdsman when he replied with obvious pride, "Nearly thirty years." But in those thirty years he had never seen Windsor so unrivalled.

Someone propounded the theory that the soil of Windsor, which used to produce the best English oak trees, must have similar properties in stock production. Out of twelve entries from Windsor three special-breed cups won in Devons, Herefords, and Shorthorns—of which the first two are sometimes supposed to need west-country air — and seven first prizes and two seconds. The Sandringham farm won a few firsts; principally in small classes for small cattle, kerries and crossbreds of this breed.

The King again and again laughed heartily throughout his extended tour of the show. He merrily urged his shepherds who were holding his pen of Southdowns, to use their best devices when it came to a contest with the pen of Hampshires which were known to be dangerous rivals, as they proved.

The immense zeal of the guardians of some of the stocks to show their animals to the best advantage before the King produced an almost embarrassing situation in the Gilbey Hall, which was devoted to machinery and pigs.

As soon as the King, accompanied by Sir Bowen Bowen-Jones, this year's president, appeared in the hall almost all the prize pigs were roused from their recumbent ease by vigorous slaps with flat "bats" that are the technical weapon. White pigs and black pigs and red pigs at once started such a chorus of protest, some upsetting their troughs and shaking the flour from their "fleeces," that the spick-and-span Gilbey Hall might have been an Irish fair and so it continued.

Somebody Guessed Right.

The Cheddar cheese which is brought into the rooms at Simpson's Cheapside, London, each day at lunch time, had its height, girth and weight, correctly guessed by one of the diners the other day. The measurements were: Height 13 3-4 inches, girth 28 3-4 inches, and weight 24 1-2 pounds. This feat has only been accomplished nine times in twenty years. Old city men who have lunched regularly at the same restaurant for forty years make the three guesses each day. The cheese is brought in on a foot-high revolving pedestal, and placed in front of the chairman. Each guest is supplied with a slip of paper on which to record his guesses, and whenever any one succeeds the proprietor asks all the guests to drink the health of the winner in champagne. The custom is believed to be nearly two hundred years old, and before the luncheon, for which sixty-five places are set at three tables, the chairman invariably says grace.

Preliminaries.

Struggling Author (who has just read his latest story to his wife)—There. That's the best thing I ever did.

His Wife—Yes, dear. What magazine shall you send it to first?—Puck.

Hulks (also broke)—Who is it?

James—My pipe. I can still draw on that.—Stray Stories.

THE WARBLER FAMILY.

There Are Thirty-Three Kinds Found In Ontario.

The Sylvicolidae, or Warblers, are a very wide family connection—embracing in all thirty-three varieties of birds which honor Ontario with their prized presence, some, it is true, in such very limited numbers as to be comparative rarities, says C. M. C. in Toronto Star Weekly. There is a prevailing strain of brilliant coloring running through them; their beauty, indeed, is more a prominent feature, as usual, than any proficiency in a melodic sense. In fact, a college professor, hard put for a joke, well might state the breed to be so-called, because they do not "warble." The blue yellow-backed warblers utter but a soft, drawn-out twitter; the mourning warbler nothing further than a low, pensive, simple "twit"—their only songs. The Blackburnian variety — the most beautiful of the whole family — breeds in Northern Ontario, so that, except on its passage north and south, we see too little of it; unless in too great a haste it is its habit to stop off for a week or so each October's end.

Speaking generally, the warblers may be said to nest on low bushes, although a few, like the Pine-creeping and Golden-crowned thrush species, resort to ground-nesting to rear their brood. Their little cousins—sometimes known as the Canadian Fly-catchers (Myiodioctes Canadensis) — utililize both situations indifferently. The Yellow warblers — so commonly observed about civilized haunts and prized for their assiduity, in ridding the fruit trees of small insects—have a peculiarity of not being able to forego building in a willow or a maple, if they can find one situated adjacent to an orchard. The entire Warbler family has the distinction — also value — of feeding alone upon insects.

After the Yellow Warbler — whose name sufficiently describes him—the commonest of the warblers are, perhaps, the Red-start, the Golden-Crowned Thrush, and the Water Thrush or Wagtail. The first is five and a quarter inches long; black, if one is asked to describe him; but the white breast and the ruddy orange tint of the sides of the breast and base of the quills and tail make him one of the prettiest birds of our woods. The last-named is olive-brown above, of a prevailing sulphur-yellow below, and is generally to be found near a stream or pond, wading in the shallows, diligently "wagging" his tail with the relish his feed of aquatic insects imparts.

From his appearance the Water-thrush has been sometimes confused with the Golden-crowned Thrush, but the latter never nests or feeds near the swamps and moist ground. Above he is olive-green with a tinge of yellow; his crown has two streaks of black enclosing a broad orange stripe, beneath, his plumage is white, while his breast and sides are sooty black—also a truly beautiful summer resident, one can see. If she can, this pretty creature prefers a pine-wood for the scene of her nuptials. Suppose the five young to have safely chipped themselves out from the creamy-white eggs that you knew were hatching, although not wishful to disturb. The ground-nesters have so many enemies that it seems a wonder their kind does not become extinct—till you remember how mother nature, with an eye to that very chance, gives for each of such birds the right hues of plumage to protect it, as well as by directing its instincts so that these dangers may be minimized.

What the golden-crowned thrush mostly hunts for is a nesting site on a knoll, irrespective of direction, where she can cunningly thatch her nest with the needles, so like the ground around. Which explains why she is far better known to most people as the "oven-bird"—Seiurus aurocapillus.

"What Neck'st?"

W. F. Stevens, the robust Live Stock Commissioner for Alberta, is widely known for his geniality, a quality which seems to accompany stoutness of person. He was in Winnipeg one hot July day and had occasion to buy a new collar. Entering a gent's furnishing store on Portage Avenue he startled the oblig' young clerk by asking for a collar, size 22.

"Sorry, sir," the boy replied politely, "but we are just out of that size. There is a store, however, just around the corner that could probably supply you."

Imagine the feelings of the live stock authority when he rounded the corner and read the following sign:

"Northwest Harness Co., Ltd. Use 'Fit-Well' Collars on your Horses."

Light Rifles For Cadets.

The Cadet Corps of Canada are to be supplied with 22-calibre rifles. The Ross Rifle Company is making the rifles of a pattern approved by the Militia Department. They will weigh about five pounds or less and are almost a miniature of the long Ross.

In the past, while the cadets used the long rifles for shooting over the ranges, and will do the same in the future, the rifles were found too heavy for drilling in the case of the smaller boys. The light rifles will be used for drill purposes and for indoor shooting.

MARVELLOUS LONDON.

There Is No Other City Like Her in the World.

Sir William Soulsby, who was private secretary to the Lord Mayor before most Londoners of to-day were born, and has been private secretary to every Lord Mayor since has been doing a great service in trying to drive home to the Londoner that London has a personality, that London is unique—wherefrom it follows that a Londoner must rank above all other men in the world.

But Sir William stopped short, or the interviewers did not report him fully, London is not a city; London is not like anything else in the world—merely because it is the very Heart of the World. To-day, to be a Londoner is equivalent to having been a Roman citizen of two thousand years ago.

The Personality of London — we ought to thank that doyen of private secretaries, that super-private secretary, for the phrase. London has a personality, she is a living thing, the most vast, most pathetic, thing which our civilization has produced.

Can anyone conceive the world with London eliminated. It would be a world in ruin, a world in sackcloth and ashes. Trade rivals may hate us, rail at us, raise tariff barriers against us; but London remains all-essential to their trade. A disaster to London would mean starvation to untold millions.

To-day how many Londoners realize the immensity of their privilege in belonging to the Imperial City? Here and there you find a man who knows one who has been behind the scenes and understands the hollowness of the claims of other cities, other nations. In one short street alone, Mincing-lane, the greater part of the trade of the Far East is handled, and the Far East has always been, from a trade point of view, the prize of the world.

There are about half a dozen such places, places right on the main track, where your hand is on the world's pulse. Of these, I think, I would put Hong Kong first, the greatest of seaports, the finest jewel in the Imperial crown, the clearing-house of half a world. Stand on the steps of the postoffice of Hong Kong, and you will see all the nations of the earth pass before you; and, sooner or later you will see all the men and women you have met in other great ports pass you. Stand on the quay, where the police take your name before you enter a sampan, lest your boatmen cut your throat, and you will realize, in part at least, the immensity of the British Mercantile Marine; also you will realize, if you have a sense of proportion, the growing menace of German competition.

Really, Hong Kong is part of London, as is also Singapore, which runs it close in wealth. Until you have seen these two ports, you cannot realize at all the secret of our national greatness. We are the richest people the world has ever known, we handle a volume of trade almost to put a few million people into Australia and South Africa, and have lent them more than a few million pounds, but such places as Hong Kong and Singapore, and because London business men and London bankers seized the opportunities presented to them.

Calcutta and Bombay are splendid magnificent; but they are not parts of London. India herself is great enough to claim, and to hold, them for her own. Other famous cities, such as Melbourne or Toronto, are merely Colonial, with Colonial interests. You cannot feel the pulse of the world beating in them.

What other city has a personality, in the cosmopolitan sense of the word, what other city can take unto herself all the peoples of the world, absorb them, make them part of her wondrous self?

Paris is—well, Paris. She is unique, delightful, the France. The Parisian has little or nothing in common with that wonderful peasantry which forms the backbone of the second nation of the world. Vienna, Berlin, Peter burg—these are merely local capitals. Rome is the ghost of a great tradition.

Landmark Is Modernized.

An ancient stone weir on the River Dee, constructed by Hugh Lupus Earl of Chester, between 1070 and 1101 is being utilized to supply the city of Chester with electricity. The weir was originally erected to drive corn mills, and the milling industry continued up to 1907. In 1910, however, Chester Corporation, who had purchased the property, dismantled the mills. Mr. S. E. Britton, the city electrical engineer, then devised a scheme for converting the water power into electrical energy, and it is believed that the annual saving thus effected will repay the capital expenditure in five years. It is estimated that the installation will yield 1,250,000 units per annum at a cost of less than 0.3d per unit, inclusive of capital charges.

Thumb Prints Deed Signature.

Two human thumb prints form unusual parts of a real estate deed recently filed in Fort Madison, Ia. The deed is for some former Indian lands in Oklahoma, and the thumb prints were taken in the place of signatures Above each thumb print is the name of the owner, written by the real estate agent who transacted the transfer of the property from the government to two Indians. This deed is unique in real estate records

FOLLOWS SIMPLE LIFE

EMPEROR FRANCIS JOSEPH IS A LONELY OLD MAN.

Head of the House of Hapsburg Derives His Throne From a German Baron Who by an Act of Kindness Earned an Empire—Austria-Hungary Is Biggest Country In Europe Except Russia.

The Emperor of Austria-Hungary, who is often spoken of as the most lonely monarch in Europe, is a famous shot and is descended from a race of keen sportsmen. It was, in fact, on a hunting expedition that the first Hapsburg to come into prominence met with an adventure which helped him to the crown of what was then "the Holy Roman Empire of German Nationality."

Rudolf von Hapsburg was a simple German baron who led a quiet life in his castle, Hapsburg, among the Alps, and did not concern himself with the troubles which rent the empire into warring factions. He was riding home one night after a day's hunting when he came to a swollen mountain torrent. The tinkling of a little bell on the further bank attracted his attention. He saw a priest and an accompanying acolyte carrying the viaticum of some dying sinner, and their way was barred by the stream.

Rudolf von Hapsburg set the priest upon his horse and not only helped him safely across, but escorted him cap in hand, meekly and on foot, to his destination. The recital of this graceful act to the German princes assembled for the election of an emperor is said to have induced them to vote in favor of Rudolf von Hapsburg. At any rate, Rudolf was crowned emperor and managed a very difficult empire with considerable skill.

The empire of Kaiser Franz Josef is greater in extent than any other European state, save Russia, and wherever you go in it you will find a "jagd-schloss," a shooting box, where the mighty lodge when following their favorite sport.

Whitewashed, with red-tiled roofs, and flanked by little round towers, these castles stand among clumps of trees in the fertile duchies of Austria, or rise up on a mountainside dark with fir trees. They look so peaceful, but heavy cares intrude even here, and the spirit of the place is not in harmony with its outward semblance.

The guns had hardly ceased speaking in the Balkans when Emperor Francis Joseph sought rest and peace in his castle among the Alps near Ischl.

When the Archduchess Sophie, the emperor's mother, bought this chalet it was a very unpretentious place. It has gradually been added to. But it still retains its original simple character. Every room looks as if it were lived in. The imperial owner's living apartments are as simple as, or even simpler than, the other rooms. He sleeps on a small camp bedstead.

Francis Joseph's daily life is in perfect harmony with these plain surroundings. He rises between 4 and 5 every morning, and after a cup of coffee and roll, without even butter, goes straight to his desk and begins the work of the day. Although far away from the seat of government he cannot escape the affairs of state.

Usually the emperor works steadily until about eight o'clock, when he goes for a quiet stroll in the forest for an hour or so. Then he returns to his desk and has a sort of light preliminary lunch, a chop or cutlet, with one glass of beer. This is brough on a tray to his writing desk. With occasional interruptions work goes on until midday, when a family luncheon is served.

Francis Joseph confines himself to a slice of "Rindfleish," that boiled beef of which Austrians are so fond. One glass of Austrian wine, red or white as he may fancy, or the doctor may direct, is all that he drinks. This is followed by a mild cigar, smoked from a long holder.

In the afternoon, between four and five o'clock, the emperor goes on a long drive through the forest. He never fails to take his gun along, and usually manages to have a little shooting on the way.
