"Can't Afford to Paint."

The man who says that, forgets that painting properly done is economy, and the fact is he can't afford NOT to paint.

How often you require to paint is largely dependent upon the paint you use.

THE SHERWIN-WILLIAMS PAINTS

out last others. They are the most economical paints you can use, because they cover most and wear longest. Add to this their good appearance, and you have perfect paints—The Sherwin-Williams Paints.

They are made for many different kinds of painting. Whatever it is you want to paint—a house, or anything in or out of the house—we make the right paint for that particular purpose—not one slap-dash mixture for all.

Improving On Nature

Is one of the functions of the tailor. By his art he makes up for deficiencies of shoulder, chest, etc. It is our business to do that, and more. We not only make perfect fitting garments which set off a good figure and improve a poor one, but we put material in our suits which some tailors would not think of selling at less than double our price.

THINKS IT IS A WONDER

That Is Senator Turner's Opinion of the Sullivan Property.

ENOUGH ORE TO LAST 25 YEARS

And the Prospects for a Smelter at Marysville are Very Favorable.

HE SAYS CRANBROOK IS ALL RIGHT

The Herald man saw Senator Turner, of Spokane, and Mr. Hull, of Toledo, Ohio, upon their return from the Sullivan mine, where they had been on a tour of inspection, last week.

"Well, senator," said The Herald man, "what do you think of the Sullivan?"

"It's the greatest body of ore on the American continent," replied the senator. "I thought the Le Roi had a big body of ore, but it is a baby beside the Sullivan. Of course, it is low grade and will not concentrate, but even today, with the price of lead where it is, with a smelter near at hand it could be made to pay handsomely, and what is more would go on paying for 25 years with the ore in sight."

"What are the chances for a smelter at Marysville?" was the next question asked.

"Good," said the senator. "Of course a smelter costs a lot of money, and there seems to be some doubt as to obtaining dry ores with which to smelt our wet ones, but I think and believe there is copper enough on the upper St. Marys to supply half a dozen smelters, but at the present time development has been retarded by lack of railway communication. With the building of the Crawford Bay line, however, these copper properties will be near the railway, development will be pushed with vigor, and we shall have all the copper we want. "It is hard to say," added Senator Turner, "when the smelter will be built, but I am certain in my own mind that a smelter will be built at the falls near Marysville at no very distant date."

"I suppose you have found both Kootenays rather quiet during this trip?" asked The Herald man.

"Well, yes, quiet, but at the same time there is an air of solidity which is noticed more and more each time one comes into this province. Cranbrook has made wonderful strides and your people seem so contented with your town's future, that it gives one unbounded confidence in your town and district, and leads me to believe you have one of the richest mineral districts in the northwest at your doors."

COLON LEITCH INJURED.

Was Struck By a Pole While Watching Some Men Catch Horses.

Everybody knows Colon Leitch, and everybody knows that if there is one thing Colon loves it is a cayuse.

He was down at the big corral in the Baker pasture looking on while Harry Fairfield and others were trying to catch an outlaw cayuse. They had driven the horses into the corral and were walking them up into the corner by means of a long pole, when one of the horses swung around and in an attempt to jump the pole struck it with great force, knocking Harry Fairfield over and stunning him, while the end of the pole swung and hit Colon over the ear, causing concussion of the brain. Al Doyle, passing in a buggy, picked him up and in company with William Lamb brought him in an unconscious condition to Dr. King's office. After the wound was dressed he was removed to the hospital where it was thought an operation would be necessary as the skull appeared to be fractured, but after the swelling had subsided sufficiently it was discovered that the bruise, although quite a severe one, was not dangerous. On Tuesday he was removed to his home, and we are glad to be able to report that he is doing nicely, although it may be some days before he will be around again.

Colon is a favorite with everybody and his dangerous condition cast a gloom over the entire town.

MOYIE

News Notes From the Mineral City

THE NEW COURT HOUSE.

Some months ago the lot between the Moyie Leader office and Mr. Batley's cottages was purchased, as a site for the court house, partly by the government and partly by public subscription Tenders for the construction of the building where called for a short time ago and Messrs. Downey & Neideg, of Fort Steele where the successful bidders. Last week work clearing the ground and excavating for the building was done, and this week work on the structure has commenced. The building is to be a courthouse and jail combined, the former 28x31 feet and the latter 16x18. The courthouse will contain a courtroom, a magistrates and jailer's room, while the jail will be fitted up with three cells and a corridor, the walls of which will be six inches thick. The building, which is to be one and a half stories high, is to be finished by the 1st of August and when completed will be a structure of which Moyie may well be proud.

CORNISH ROCK DRILL.

Last week a party composed of J M. Holman, of the firm of Holman Bros., W. Bennett, of the firm of Bennett Sons & Co., both of Cambourne, Cornwall, England, and R. Machin, agent for the Bennett Fuse Co., of Victoria, B. C., visited Moyie for the purpose of introducing Holman's patent Cornish Rock drill. The machine was invented by Mr. Holman and surpasses many of the drills now in use in this country, as the Rand and the Ingersol. The Holman drill has a much greater working capacity, is less complicated and has stronger parts than the drills mentioned above. It is made of solid steel and is standard gauge. The drill is extensively used in Transvaal, Mexico, Brazil, India and San Salvador, and is rapidly surplanting other makes in British Columbia. The machine was exhibited to the management of the St. Eugene mine and a test made which demonstrated to them the economical results of its use.

THE ST. EUGENE.

The St. Eugene is now running full force and has been doing so for the past month. Monday last was the pay day and resulted in quite a sum of money being put in circulation. Everything is in full swing and the prospects for a good season's work are bright.

THE AURORA.

Tom Rader, the owner of the Aurora mine, is now in Spokane, but O. J. Johnson his partner is still hard at work on the property which is certainly a rich one. The tunnel is now in over 350 feet and the same showing is in the face.

CLAIM AT KITCHENER.

Charles Diamond, who discovered the galena vein near Kitchener, and with Scott and Mills owned it, has sold his interest in the property to R. Johnson, of Moyie. It is the intention to work the claim this summer and start shipping as soon as possible.

INTERNATIONAL HOTEL DANCE.

Last Monday evening, a dance was given at the International hotel by the proprietors Messrs. Frith & Hamilton. A large number of persons were present and passed a very enjoyable evening. About 12 o'clock light refreshments were served, after which dancing was resumed and kept up until the early morning hours.

KOOTENAY HOTEL.

The Kootenay hotel is now nearly completed and will be opened by a grand ball on Friday evening. The house is the best in the town, being in every way first-class and stands second to none in the Kootenays.

GENERAL NOTES.

J. A. Harvey the lawyer, of Fort Steele, was in town Tuesday.

A. B. Cowan, of Galt, Ont., was in town on Sunday last.

Ben Fov, one of the men at the St Eugene mill, who has been sick in the St. Eugene hospital in Cranbrook, is again in town.

Government agent Armstrong, of Fort Steele, held court in Moyie on Saturday.

Manager Cronin, of the St. Eugene, is having a cottage built near the offices. It is his intention to bring his family here for the summer months.

T. T. McVittie, P. L. S., was in town last week doing some work for the Moyie Lumber company.

J. Wilson, public school inspector of Vancouver, was in town on Saturday last on professional business.

Work on the new saw mill is steadily progressing.

A number of Moyie people went to Cranbrook last Saturday to attend the Corpus Christi services at the St. Eugene mission.

FROM THE CONSTABULARY

Letters Which Will Prove of Interest to Cranbrook People

FROM TWO OF OUR OLD BOYS

Are Hurried to the Front the Day Following Their Arrival in Cape Town.

SAMMY RAJOTTE GETS POETICAL

The following letters, from two Cranbrook boys who left with the South African Constabulary, will prove of interest to their many friends here. The second letter is characteristic of Sammy Rajotte:

Cape Town, S. A., Apr. 25, 1901.

My Dear Simpson: Just a line, old man, more for Auld Lang Syne than that I have anything new, interesting or startling to give you. Our long, monotonous siege came to an end this morning and despite the fact that our prospects are Krugersdorp, DeWet and Mauser bullets right on the jump, I think every body was about as well pleased to see the turf as some of us will be to see old Canada again in about four years from now, and I reckon that's saying considerable. One's first impression of this country is certainly not of the silkiest, although the bay, with its many and variegated sailing crafts is fair to look upon. The general prospect is bleached and barren looking, with no vegetation to break the monotony. Looking from the ship it reminds me of Baker street before Jack Breckenridge licked it into shape, and as for farm produce I would venture to say that the Cranbrook race track can discount this whole continent. Of course I may be wrong in my opinion of the country, but that is the way it "looks from the road." Since passing Cape Verde islands absolutely nothing has occured, only heat, heat, heat, and sometimes a little more heat. There are quite a few troop ships here, from England and Australia, and we seem to be the heel of the hunt. Today we received our rifles, bayonets, belts, bandoliers, haversacks, water bottles, canvas sheets and 150 rounds of ammunition, and tomorrow at 9 a.m. we entrain for Krugersdorp where they have had 35 days' steady fighting, and expect considerable more, so that we peace makers may get all we want of peace making. I guess they have a different system of making peace in this country to that generally followed, at least it strikes some of us that way. Old Jim Henderson and Sammy Rajotte are in the pink of health, and fat as butter, of course. They are delighted at the prospects of getting into action so soon. They both wish to be kindly remembered to all their friends. Say, Fred, send along The Herald; we haven't heard from Cranbrook for ages. Regards to all, Yours Ever,

F. C. Rankin.

Dear Friend Simpson: Rankin she write you and I'll tink I make you a few lines. I am on top to the ship yet, and so far I can see the plac. I'll thought for like to live in there; she got the big montan here, so high you can't see the top. I don't want to toll you nothing, for us fellas she all go at the front. I guess Frank is toll you all about. I'm glad for that I mak long write to you next time, and halso told how much Boer I'll kill him. This letter she short for Frank she toll him all the news and don't want to give me the chance for wrote you some more.

We got the small bugle boy, meby she stand four foot,
And hevry morning hearly she make him toot, toot, toot.
I lak all right upon the day for hear that bugle call,
But when she play before daylight I don't lak that at all.
We halso got the fine captaine, by gosh, she brave! and when
Hes toll him us about the front it mak the hair on end.
Shes make him Frank the corporale; by gosh! he's the fine man;
Hes make me go on mess fatigue and grease me all my haas.
Jim Henderson, she's my partnere, and she wash all the spoon,
And when I'll got done nife and fork he's dried him up dam soon,
They say the Boers she is bad man, we'll get it in the neck,
But if shes try for hit me there I'll rubber ——.
Now all you B. C. sojer man just listen what I speak,
Suppose you come South Africa you wish got home dam quick.
We got him plaintee sojer man, beeg fella, six foot tall,
Dat's Honglishman, and Scotch also, hes wear no pants at all.
Of course the Hirishman's the best, raise all the row he can,
But when he's want for catch DeWet he's told the B. C. man.

I'm very sorry spoke like this, my frien, and if you dont believe he so you can ax Frank Rankin herself or Jim Henderson. So long, Fred, I'm the big hurry for catch the front. Give my gard all the boys. I remain,

Sam Rajotte.

STRUCK BY A FREIGHT.

M. J. McDonald Meets His Death in the Yards Early Monday Morning.

M J. McDonald, an employe of Robinson & McKenzie's sawmill, was struck and killed by an incoming train from the east at an early hour Monday morning.

Just how the accident happened is a matter of conjecture, as it was very dark at the time, and the enginemen saw nothing of a man on the track, but the supposition is that McDonald was sitting on the platform when struck by the engine. His body was not discovered until the engine had taken the train to the lower end of the yards, and had returned for the caboose, which was standing in front of the station. One of the brakemen, while just ready to throw the switch near the station platform, noticed the mangled remains lying but a few feet away, and hurried up town for assistance. Several parties from the Cosmopolitan returned with the brakeman to the scene of the accident, and upon finding that McDonald was past all earthly aid, his remains were gathered up and taken to Campbell's undertaking rooms, from which place the funeral occured Monday afternoon.

The deceased was about 40 years of age, and leaves a wife and five children near Sidney, C. B. He had been working at the saw mill for some time and Mr. Robinson spoke of him in the highest terms as a workman.

Funeral of Clyde Barney.

Mr. and Mrs. Cliff. Barney, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Barney, returned last week from their old home in Richmond, Vermont, whither they had taken the body of their son, Clyde, who was killed on the Crow a few weeks ago, for burial. In writing of the funeral of Clyde Barney, the Richmond Gazette had the following:

The funeral party reached here Saturday night on the midnight train and was met at the station by several of our townspeople and the casket conveyed to the Universalist church, where the funeral was observed Sunday at 11:30 a.m., Rev. Alonzo Chase officiating. Six young men, Arthur Boswick, Fred Kenyon, Clayton and Merton J. Sabins, Leon and Earl Hall, friends of the deceased, acted as bearers, while the sad rites were under the direction of Undertaker Green. The casket and pulpit where laden with flowers, conspicuous among which was a floral pillow in white with the word "Clyde" in blue, the offering of several of his friends here. Music was furnished by a quartet composed of Mrs. T. W. Towers, Mrs. F. H. Flagg, E. T. Jacobs and F. H. Flagg. The church was completely filled, extra seats having to be brought in. The interment was in Riverview cemetery. The deceased, until he left for his western home, in Cranbrook, B. C., resided in this village and was for a time employed at the condensing factory. Of a sunny nature he won many friends and all will regret his untimely and sad fate and sympathize with his stricken parents in this loss of their only child.

Corpus Christi at the Mission.

Each year, in the month of June, the feast of Corpus Christi is celebrated at St. Eugene Mission by the Indians of the Kootenay and Shuswap tribes. Last Sunday the feast was held as usual, and about 500 dusky Redmen, women and children, from all points in East and West Kootenay, gathered at the Indian village to participate.

A number of Cranbrookers drove over and spent the day in the beautiful valley enjoying the picturesque scene enlivened and brightened by the many colored costumes of the Indians. At 3 p.m. a procession was formed and the Indians, followed by the priests, marched over the village, ever now and then passing under arches made of evergreens. Every few minutes a firing party of Indians fired a salute, and at different points on the line of march, where altars had been erected, the whole procession knelt in prayer. At the close of the parade the procession returned to the church, where after singing a hymn, they departed.

As several cameras were much in evidence, in a few days we shall probably see pictures of the gathering from many points of view.

The Football Game.

Probably one of the warmest football games ever played in Cranbrook was the one between the seniors and juniors at the athletic grounds last Thursday evening, for the medals which were offered as prizes in the sports on the 27th of May, at which time the same teams competed without either side scoring. Not a little feeling existed between the members of both teams, as the juniors, elated over their success in shutting the seniors out on the 27th, where going to teach them a few points about the game that they were not next to, while on the other hand the seniors were equally determined to show the other fellows where to head in. About 150 people shivered through a very raw evening to watch the game, and needless to say the sympathy of almost the entire crowd was with the juniors, and when the younger chaps made but the faintes excuse for a good play, the way that crowd yelled and guyed the senior would have made a band of Comanches turn green with envy. But the guying only made the seniors play better ball, and when time was up the score stood 4 to o in their favor.

WILL CELEBRATE JULY 1

Arrangement are Being Made For a Monster Blowout.

FINE LIST OF ATHLETIC SPORTS

Including a Series of Football Contests for the Beattie Cup and Eleven Medals.

WILL ALSO BE A BASEBALL GAME

That Dominion Day will be celebrated in Cranbrook this year in a manner which is characteristic of everything that the citizens of this town undertakes, is now an assured fact. The Cranbrook Football club has leased the grounds from the Turf and Athletic association for July 1, and intend holding a monster athletic meeting, at which there will be football and baseball games, foot races for the amateur championship of East Kootenay for the several distances, bicycle races and other athletic sports, besides a good list of Indian contests. The various committees are working hard, and if work counts for anything, the meeting will be a great success.

A varied program and good sport is promised. One of the most notable features will be the football games for the championship of East Kootenay. There will probably be four teams enter for this event, the prizes being the Beattie cup, valued at $75, and 11 medals, and rumor states that Kimberley and Fernie will both make an effort to secure the coveted trophies, and give the home team a hard fight. Arrangements are also completed to have a first class baseball team on the grounds to play the Cranbrook Baseball club, the latter having very kindly consented to help the football boys out in their meeting. No expense is being spared to have both the football and baseball games the closest and most exciting ever witnessed in Cranbrook, and every inducement is being offered to bring the strongest players here.

The foot races are as follows: 100 yards, 220 yards, half mile, and hurdle race, and these, with other contests are open solely to amateurs. Several of the Cranbrook football boys are in training for these events, and fast times are predicted. Moyie, too, has some hot runners coming, amongst them Hanna and Beale, both record sprinters.

Altogether there will a grand day's sport. Special rates are being provided for by rail, and it is expected there will be a big attendance of visitors. The prizes are costly and handsome, several being donated by local gentlemen who remember the days when they used to do the 100 yards in 10 seconds flat—or thought they did—and want to give their assistance in other ways now those days on the cinder path are over. There is talk of a veterans' race, and we would like to see it. With Hutch, Dr. King, Beattie, Old Man Simpson and one or two others, there would be such a cracking hot finish that the judges would have their work cut out spotting the winner.

Such a meeting as is being organized deserves support, and it remains with Cranbrook's loyal citizens to give it that support by their attendance and by bringing their friends.

Any communications regarding entries and particulars for the races and games, or for arrangements for the day should be addressed to the secretary, J. J Hunter, of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Cranbrook.

The Waragraph Company.

The Waragraph company, which showed in the hall Friday and Saturday evenings, did not attract as good houses as the merits of the entertainment deserved. The views, with but few exceptions, were plain, and were beyond a doubt the best yet seen in Cranbrook. The Queen's funeral procession was pictured in very good shape, and the most noted personages were easily discernible, while the comic pictures created a great deal of amusement among the old and young alike. Several British-Boer war picturers were also shown, but were rather dim, and of such a nature as to cause broad smiles to appear upon the faces of four or five Strathcona boys in the audience. But the slide that, without a doubt, won more applause than all others was one shown on Saturday evening, on which was printed in large letters, that old, sweet song, "Hutch—Insurance."

Hotel at Old Town.

Oliver Burge, one of the best known hotel keepers in South East Kootenay, left yesterday morning for Perry Creek, where he has leased the big hotel building at Old Town, and will open up a first-class hotel there. He is having the place thoroughly overhauled and has taken in a large amount of supplies, and expects to be ready for business by the first of July. The house will be known as the Perry Creek hotel.

FERNIE

News From the Coal Metropolis

[From the Free Press]

A game of lacrosse between Lethbridge and Fernie will shortly be played here The date has not yet been fixed.

H. J. Johnson, and Rev. R. F. Stillman visited the mine in which they have an interest, on Moyie creek, this week.

Gordon Warren, ledger-keeper in the bank here, has been removed to Rossland. Mr. Browne, of Rossland takes his place.

School Inspector Wilson was in town this week inspecting the public schools He left for Michel on Wednesday, where it is expected a school will be started immediately after the holidays.

Building operations in Fernie are moving rapidly these days. About a dozen new houses have been erected in the woods at the north end, and four more are in course of erection below recreation grounds.

Thirty-four new ovens are now well under way, and good progress is being made on forty or fifty more.

The movement on foot now for some time for a co-operative store in town, seems at last to have been successful, and we understand that the new business will be opened in a building in the Old Town next week.

The inquest on the body of Stephen Rowan, who died from the effects of burns which he received while working in the mine, was held on Monday last. The evidence clearly showed that the man was entirely responsible for the accident, having violated the rules of the mine, and the jury accordingly brought in a verdict to that effect.

FORT STEELE ITEMS.

From Fort Steele Prospector.

A number of home seekers were in town during the past week.

Business is picking up; the merchants are wearing a Kootenay Central smile.

The next regular meeting of the license commissioners for South East Kootenay will be held June 15th.

Thirty five new locations were reported in the Fort Steele mining division during the month of May. Since the first of January, 1901, 400 certificates of work have been recorded. During the month of May 500 miners' licenses were issued by the mining recorder at Fort Steele.

Mr. John Corrigan, who has a ranch on Six Mile creek, while sowing grain, found a gold dollar which was dated 1860. It was probably lost by some old time prospector in the early sixties. Mr. Violet who came down from Boulder creek on Thursday reports the finding of a tree bearing the following inscription: P. & B, Aug 5th, 1864. The tree is situated on the Boulder creek summit.

Provincial Notes.

At Vale, on June 3, the Fraser river was 37 feet 6 inches above low water mark.

The mail stage from camp McKinney to Greenwood left the road while descending Jolly Jack creek, about five miles east of camp McKinney, on June 3, instantly killing Andy Kirkland, the driver, and seriously injuring two passengers. The two horses were killed.

The grocers of Nelson have organized under the name of the Retail Grocers association, their objects being to protect themselves against bad debts, to arrange discounts with the wholesale houses and to decide on a uniform scale of prices for staple articles.

The orchards around Nelson are suffering by deer feeding on the tender shoots of the trees. There are several tender shoots in Cranbrook suffering from the effects of too many dears.

The Alexandria coal mines, at Nanaimo, will be opened at once with a full force of miners.

Moyie people are complaining because the contract for building the new government buildings in that town were let to Fort Steele contractors.

The Catholics of Kaslo are building a $3000 church.

Trout Lake City will celebrate Dominion Day.

Notice to Pre-Emptors of Crown Lands.

The attention of Pre emptors of crown lands is hereby called to an amendment to the "land act," passed at the last session of the legislature, which provides as follows, viz:—

"9 Pre-emptors of crown lands, whether in arrears in payment of instalments of purchase money or not, who at the time of coming into force of this act have obtained certificates of improvement, or who shall have obtained certificates of improvement within twelve months thereafter, shall on conforming with the provisions of the "land act," except as hereby altered, be entitled to obtain crown grants of their pre-emption claims upon completing payments of purchase money at the rate of seventy-five cents per acre, and crown grant fees, which payments may be made as follows:

"Twenty-five cents per acre on or before the 31st day of December, 1901;

"Twenty-five cents per acre on or before the 30th day of June, 1902;

"and the remaining—

"Twenty-five cents per acre on or before the 31st day of December, 1902 and without any further payment of interest or arrears of interest."

Canadian Pacific Railway Lands

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company control a large area of the choicest farming and ranching lands in the Kootenay District. The prices range from $1.00 to $5.00 an acre, the latter being for first-class agricultural lands. These lands are readily accessible by the Crows Nest Pass Railway.

Terms of Payment

The aggregate amount of principal and interest, except in the case of lands under $2.50 an acre, is divided into ten instalments as shown in the table below; the first to be paid at the time of purchase, the second one year from date of the purchase, the third in two years and so on.

The following table shows the amount of the annual instalments on 160 acres at different prices under the above conditions:

160 acrs at	$2.50 per acr,	1st instalment	$59.95	9 equal intal'ts at	$50.00
"	3.00 "	"	71.90	"	60.00
"	3.50 "	"	83.90	"	70.00
"	4.00 "	"	95.85	"	80.00
"	4.50 "	"	107.85	"	90 00
"	5.00 "	"	19.85	"	100.00

Lands under $2.50 per acre are sold on shorter time.

DISCOUNT FOR CASH

If the land is paid for in full at the time of purchase, a reduction from the price will be allowed equal to ten per cent on the amount paid in excess of the usual cash instalment.

Interest at six per cent will be charged in over due instalments.

The Company has also lots for sale in the following town sites in East Kootenay: Elko, Cranbrook, Moyelle, Kitchener, Creston and Kimberley.

The terms of payment are one-third cash, and the balance in six and twelve months.

Kimberley is the business and shipping point for the North Star and Sullivan mines.

A STORY OF STORIES.

Continuity of Titles to Works of Dickens Woven Into a Running Tale.

An inveterate Dickensonian uses the following printed on a card as a book-mark—a continuity of Charles Dickens' works, which in themselves make a connected story:

In "The Haunted House" one evening "Oliver Twist," who had had some very "Hard Times" in "The Battle of Life," having been saved from "The Wreck of the Golden Mary" by "Our Mutual Friend," "Nicholas Nickleby," had just finished relating "A Message from the Sea" with "Two Ghost Stories" and "A Tale of Two Cities" to "Martin Chuzzlewit," during which time "The Cricket on the Hearth" had been chirping right merrily and "Master Humphrey's Clock" and "The Chimes" from the adjacent tower were also heard; "Seven Poor Travelers" and "Two Idle Apprentices," who had been "Hunted Down" from "Mugby Junction" for playing on "Tom Tiddler's Ground," commenced singing "A Christmas Carol" and recounting "The Perils of English Prisoners," "Barnaby Ridge" and "George Silverman," who were just "Going Into Society," then arrived from "The Old Curiosity Shop" with "Some Pictures from Italy," "Sketches by Boz" and "A Child's History of England," to show to "Little Dorrit," who had "All the Year Round" been busy with "Household Words" and "Pickwick Papers." "David Copperfield," who had been making "American Notes," entered and informed the company that the "Great Expectations" of "Dombey and Son" regarding "Mrs. Lirriper's Legacy," had not yet been realized and that he had seen "Boots at the Holy Tree Inn" taking "Somebody's Luggage" to "Mrs. Lirriper's Lodgings," in a street that had "No Thoroughfare," where "The Haunted Man," who had just given one of "Dr. Marigold's Prescriptions" to "An Uncommercial Traveler," was brooding over "The Mystery of Edwin Drood,"

The King's Garden.

An inspection of the gardens at Sandringham cannot fail to be of deep interest at any time of the year. For example, says The Gardener's Magazine, so extremely fond of pink China roses is Queen Alexandra, that 10,000 plants of the variety Armosa were planted in the autumn of 1899, and a similar batch the previous year. Roses are evidently favorite flowers here, as huge quantities are grown. One very long border, fully four feet high, the front being arranged and prettily planted with rockery subjects, cannot fail to be of much interest during the flowering season of both subjects. The bulk of the roses on this border are teas and hybrid Chinas, including such charming varieties as Papa Gontier, Laurette Messimy, Princess de Sagan, etc. As many as 10,000 blooms have been gathered from this border in one morning. Another example of the requirements from this garden may be found in that two bushels of spinach is the daily quantity required the year round. Cauliflowers, too (broccoli included, of course), have not had a break in the daily supply for five years. As much as 24 acres of kitchen garden, including eight acres of potatoes, is an absolute necessity to meet the demands of the establishment.

Anecdotal.

A Toronto reporter approached a guest at the Queen's Hotel recently and inquired if he was not the gentleman whom he had interviewed a few months ago in regard to his mining operations in British Columbia. "Yes," replied the guest, "a pretty mess you made h'of it, too. You left h'out things that h'I said h'and you put h'in things that h'I didn't say." "Well," replied the reporter, "I may have left out some of your aitches or changed them around to some extent, but I'll swear that otherwise I reported you with exactness."

A colored preacher upon the occasion of delivering a forceful harangue to his congregation, sais: "I see before me 12 chicken-thieves, including William Sanders." Now, Sanders was a handy man with a razor, and the parson's friends urged him to set things right with Sanders at the first opportunity. The parson made on the next Sunday the following announcement: "Brethren, at our last meeting I made a statement which, after mature deliberation, I desire to correct, realizing as I do that my remarks upon that occasion might not have been understood correctly. What I should have said was: "There are in this congregation 12 chicken-thieves, not including William Sanders."

One of the most embarrassing things connected with a modern battlefield is the shrapnell shells. There is not so much danger in their fire as in that of modern musketry, but the sound of the shrapnel is much more disconcerting and demoralizing; its wild "whee-wew-wew-wew" suggests missiles filling the air and coming from all directions. A surgeon relates that as he was standing in front of a hospital tent near where two colored troopers were lying, he heard one of them say, as a shrapnel wound past: "I don't care for them Mauser bullets, for when you hear one of them, you know it's done gone past. But I sho'ly would like to know where de cannon is dat shoots dem camp-kittles full o' rock!"

KICKED BY A HORSE.

ROBERT HALL OF AKONA, ONT., NARROWLY ESCAPES DEATH.

Struck Twice in the Same Place—The Kidneys Turned out of their Natural Position—Doctors Said he would Die, Yet Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Him.

Forest, Ont., April 22.-(Special)—Probably the best known man in the Townships of Warwick and Bosanquet, is Mr. Robert Hall, of Arkona. Mr. Hall says:—

"Five years ago last April I was kicked by a horse in the left kidney. The doctor that treated me said the kidney had turned out of its place, and I passed blood for several days.

"I did not get quite well from that until I got another kick, which caused me to pass blood again from my kidneys.

"I continued to doctor until last fall, when they told me I could not get well and that I would die, so I quit taking their medicine.

"I lost the power of my legs, and had to be lifted in and out of bed. I was so low that I was not expected to live from one day to the other.

"I started to take Dodd's Kidney Pills, and from the first I commenced to improve, and by the time I had taken five boxes, I was quite well. Dodd's Kidney Pills certainly saved my life."

No more startling case has ever taken place in the neighborhood of Forest, and many questions have been asked of Mr. Hall in explanation of the very startling statements made above.

He has but one answer—"Dodd's Kidney Pills saved my life, and that after all the doctors had told me I could not get better, and that I must die."

Mr. Hall is certainly a living monument to the wonderful curative properties of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Dodd's Kidney Pills is the only remedy known to science that has ever cured Bright's Disease, Diabetes, or Dropsy. They never fail.

Education in China.

Education of a certain type is very general, but still there are vast numbers of countrymen in China who can neither read nor write. There is a special literary class who alone know the literature of their country, to the study of which they devote their lives. There are boarding schools, day schools and colleges. Examinations mainly confined to moral philosophy and literature are held in the prefectoral cities of each province twice in three years for the lower degree necessary as a passport to the public service, and of the six or seven thousand candidates who have come forward, not more than sixty can be admitted to the degree of Literary Chancellor. For the higher degrees, other examinations are necessary. There is a "College of Foreign Knowledge" at Pekin, where European languages, mathematics, science, etc., are taught by European, Japanese and American professors. There are besides many Christian mission schools where the English language and lower branches of the western sciences are taught. The Government also maintains naval and military colleges and torpedo schools at the various arsenals to teach the young Chinese modern methods of warfare.

The British Census.

A census of Great Britain is being taken at almost the same time as our own. There are engaged in the work 40,000 enumerators. There the plan is to leave the schedules with the householder for one week, and on a given date throughout the United Kingdom the enumerators called for these papers. Where they had not been filled they attended to the matter. It is estimated that there will be forty-one millions of people in the British Isles at the taking of this census; it is also estimated that the cost of taking the census amounts to one penny per head of the entire population. At this estimate the cost of taking the census of forty-one million people would be about £171,000.

KINDNESS OF HEART.

A TRAIT OF CHARACTER OF WHICH THE QUEEN HAS ABUNDANCE.

Anecdotes Concerning the Consort of His Majesty King Edward VII—Her Majesty Wins All Hearts by Her Inexpressibly Delightful Spontaneity—Suits the Action to the Need Presented to Her.

Anecdotes concerning Queen Alexandra, and illustrating the sympathetic charm of her personality, are numerous. As Princess of Wales she has officiated at more public functions and has mingled more generally with her subjects than might have been the case had her husband succeeded to the throne early in their married life; so that ample opportunity has been hers to display the traits which have endeared her so widely, and the English people have grown to feel intimately acquainted with her.

A story is told concerning a visit paid by the Princess to Cambridge, and of how "an undergraduate, in imitation of Raleigh's gallantry to Queen Elizabeth, spread his gown on the pathway for the Princess to walk on. She paused for a moment as if puzzled or startled by this sudden act of superfluous devotion; but when one of the suite had whispered a word of explanation, it was charming to see how sedulously she lifted her dress to show the dazzled and rather abashed proprietor of the purple toga of Trinity that she was actually setting her foot on the gown, bowing her acknowledgments to him at the same time." The observer who narrated this incident added, concerning the way in which the Princess won all hearts: "The true secret lies in the Princess' simplicity of manner, in the openness and unrestrainedness of her enjoyment. . . . There is something inexpressibly delightful in this spontaneousness."

Illustrative of Alexandra's kindness of heart, in which she so much resembles the late Queen, it is told how she entered the hall of Marlborough House one day shortly before Christmas, and noticed a young girl standing there, whose appearance betokened delicacy and who looked wearied. Her Royal Highness bade her be seated, and learned that she was the bearer of some little garments which had been ordered for the royal children. Pleased with the modest manner of the girl, who did not know that the kind and gentle lady was the Princess, Alexandra led the way to her own room, where she examined the work and made inquiries, by which she gained the information that the bearer had executed most of it herself. The conversation thus begun gradually revealed that she had an invalid mother, who remained alone at home during the long hours when she was compelled to work in a shop; and that the sewing machine rage, then new, had made her desire to become a skillful operator, in order that she might earn enough money to own a machine of her own some day, and thus be able to keep her mother company while at work.

The Princess summoned a servant, and ordered a bottle of wine, biscuits, oranges and other invalid delicacies packed and brought to her, meanwhile writing down with her own hand the young girl's name and address. She presented her with the basket of dainties, telling her to take them to her mother, and on Christmas morning the latter was the recipient of a handsome sewing machine, inscribed, "A Christmas gift from Alexandra."

Perhaps nothing more endeared Alexandra to the people than her tenderness as a wife. This was instanced on the occasion now so freely quoted when, the Prince departing for a tour of India, she entrusted one of her suite with a portrait of herself, in order that on the Prince's arrival in India he might be surprised with the unexpected sight of his wife's face. During his terrible illness with typhoid fever she was devotedness itself. At the crisis, which occurred one Sunday, the vicar of St. Mary Magdalene's, Sandringham, received the following short note from the Princess, just before the opening of the service:

"My husband being, thank God, somewhat better, I am coming to church. I must leave, I fear, before the service is concluded, that I may watch by his bedside. Can you not say a few words in prayer during the early part of the service, that I may join you in prayer for my husband before I return to him?" When the Prince at last recovered, the faithful wife erected in the church a brass lecturn, upon which is the inscription:

To the Glory of God,
A thank-offering for His Mercy,
14th December, 1871.
Alexandra.

"When I was in trouble I called upon the Lord and He heard me."

Forests of Boxwood in Turkey.

The Levant Herald of recent days says that although large forests of boxwood, which is so largely used by wood engravers, exists in the neighborhood of the villages of Kossovo and Monastir, Turkey, the trade in this wood was little known in the Salonica market until quite recently. During March last two large shipments of boxwood were made to Liverpool, England, and the owners of these forests are now preparing to work them on a larger scale.

Queen Victoria's Bible Class.

Queen Victoria once conducted a Bible class. Long ago, when she was staying in London, she would call together the children of her married servants in one of the private rooms of Buckingham palace and read the Bible to them. At the close of the reading she would explain the chapter, and children's hymns were sung.

The skeleton of the largest extinct animal known has been put together for the exhibit of the National Museum at the Pan-American exhibition at Buffalo. The name of this animal is the Triceratops. If people were bound to silence on all subjects of which they are ignorant, what a sudden and all-prevailing hush there would be at times.

The New Great Seal.

It will probably be at least a year before a new great seal is issued, says the Westminster Gazette. Formerly it was necessary for the King on his accession to issue a proclamation sanctioning the use of the old seal till a new one was made, but the convenient act of Anne has rendered this unnecessary. George III did not have a new seal made until four years after his accession—on August 3, 1764. George IV sanctioned a new seal on September 17, 1821; and William IV on August 31, 1831. The Queen's first seal was issued on July 18, 1838, and lasted till January 23, 1860. Her second seal lasted from that date till Aug. 14, 1878, when her third great seal was made. Her fourth great seal was made only a year ago.

It is not surprising that the great seals have soon become worn out, for until 1877 the great seal consumed two and half tons of sealing wax a year. Then a statute was passed enabling a "wafer great seal" to be used for all except the most important documents. It is generally known that an old great seal is the perquisite of the Lord Chancellor; but it is not so generally known that by a pleasant act of courtesy in political life it has become customary for the Lord Chancellor to give one half of the seal to his predecessor in office.

Glue All Around You.

"Glue greets you in your cradle and bids you adieu in your coffin," remarked a dealer in the article. "I don't suppose a tenth of the people stop to think how variously glue serves them. It's in their hats and shoes, their carpets and furniture, their pencils, paper, pastry, confectionery and medicine, on their walls, in the stiffening of their apparel and in or on some dozen or more articles with which they have daily dealings. Sixty million pounds of it are used a year, the cheapest at nine cents, and the dearest, which is used in pharmacy and the confectionery trade about 90 cents.

In the industries it is used almost universally. Alcohol, turpentine and coal oil barrels have to be sized with it, and wooden boxes for merchandise made of small pieces are joined with it, while of course it is used throughout the furniture trade. Only newspaper printing paper is made without some glue, and any paper that is to be written on with ink or present a smooth finish has to treated with it at some stage in the manufacture."

Effects of Alcohol on Second Generation.

A man 91 years of age, living out of doors, and working moderately, is reported as an example of the harmlessness of the continuous use of pure whisky. He has drunk a pint of spirits daily for 60 years, and is especially hale and hearty, never having had any illness. His example has been quoted freely in several of the liquor journals, and by the defenders of moderate drinking. A letter of inquiry to the physician living in the vicinity brought out the following facts: The man is of inferior intelligence, with a large physical frame, and inclined to follow very methodical habits of living. While the effects of his drinking are not prominent in his appearance, they are very evident in his children. Of three children by his first wife, two died in infancy; one became an epileptic and died at 15. Of four children by his second wife, one is feeble-minded, the second is choreic, the third dissolute and drinks, the fourth is erratic, passionate and a wanderer. All are decidedly inferior, both physically and mentally.—Journal of Inebriety.

The Nursery Doctor.

To relieve the pain of a badly pinched or brusied finger, plunge it immediately into very hot water.

Fresh air and exercise are the best tonics for young folks, but too much of the latter will do harm to a child.

Less fat and less sugar are required for the child's summer diet than for his winter diet. Both fat and sugar are heat producing.

Let children's meals be as frequent as is necessary, but do not allow eating between meals. Sweets should never be eaten on an empty stomach, but they are comparatively harmless at the end of a meal.

Eggs are excellent food for children, especially those who are nervous. They are easily digested when lightly or undercooked, but only one child in ten can digest the white of a hard-boiled egg.

Shoes without heels are much more healthful for the young, because they strengthen the ankles. If a child's ankles seem weak, rub them with a little alcohol.

The Member's Bear Story.

"Bears," said the member just back from a trip. "Yes; saw one. Wait till I tell you. Ball, the guide, wanted to go and look at a bear trap before he went down the river, and I went along with him. He had his ax and I carried a gun. As we came in sight of the trap there was the bear. 'We've got him!' said Ball, in the words of the Winchester Calendar. I was raising my rifle, but Ball said: 'Don't shoot; he's safe.' We walked up close and the bear stood up. Ball aimed a crack at him with the ax, and the bear dodged to one side and trotted off. He wasn't in the trap at all, and I forgot to shoot. Ball said—Never mind."

The Intellectual Baby.

"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "have you any doubts remaining about baby's being the smartest child in the world?"

"I must confess," he answered, as he rattled his newspaper rather irritably, "that I have seen no proofs of any superlative intellectual superiority."

"That simply shows you are not observing. Do you remember how you read that long list of Chinese names last night?"

"Yes."

"Well, baby was trying to talk today, and it sounded exactly as if he had learned everyone of them by heart!"

Mrs. Louis Botha, the wife of the redoubtable Boer general, who was employed by Lord Kitchener to sound her husband regarding peace, is a fascinating little Scotch lady, whose superior education detracts nothing from her pride in her husband. She sings, acts and paints with more than ordinary skill, and is very popular among a wide circle of friends and acquaintances both for her vivacity and her powers of entertaining.

MISERY AND HEALTH.

A STORY OF DEEP INTEREST TO ALL WOMEN.

Relating the Sufferings of a Lady Who Has Experienced the Agonies that Afflict So Many of Her Sex—Passed Through Four Operations Without Benefit.

Throughout Canada there are thousands and thousands of women who undergo daily pains—sometimes bordering on agony—such as only women can endure in uncomplaining silence. To such the story of Mrs. Frank Evans, of 33 Frontenac street, Montreal, will bring hope and joy, as it points the way to renewed health and certain release from pain. Mrs. Evans says: "I feel that I ought to say a good word for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, in the hope that my experience may be of benefit to some other suffering woman. I am now twenty-three years of age, and since my eleventh year I have suffered far more than my share of agony from the ailments that afflict my sex. At the age of 16 the trouble had grown so bad that I had to undergo an operation in the Montreal general hospital. This did not cure me, and a little later I underwent another operation. From this I received some benefit, but was not wholly cured, and I continued to suffer from pains in the abdomen and bilious headache. A few years later, having with my husband removed to Halifax, I was again suffering terribly, and was taken to the general hospital, where another operation was performed. This gave me relief for two or three months, and again the old trouble came on, and I would suffer for days at a time, and nothing seemed to relieve the pain. In February, 1899, I was again obliged to go to the hospital and underwent a fourth operation. Even this did not help me, and as the chloroform administered during the operation affected my heart, I would not permit a further operation, and was taken home still a great sufferer. In 1899 I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and decided to do so. I have used the pills for several months and have found more relief from them than from the four operations which I passed through, and I warmly recommend them to all women suffering from the ailments which afflict so many of my sex."

Writing under a later date, Mrs. Evans says: "I am glad to be able to tell you that not only has the great improvement which Dr. Williams' Pink Pills effected in my condition continued, but I am now perfectly well. I had given up all hope when I began the use of the pills, but they have restored me to such health as I have not before known for years. I feel so grateful for what your medicine has done for me that I gladly give you permission to publish my letters in the hope that other women will follow my example and find health and strength and new happiness through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

No discovery in medicine in modern times has proven such a blessing to women as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They act directly on the blood and nerves, invigorate the body, regulate the functions, and restore health and strength to the exhausted patient when every effort of the physician proves unavailing. Other so-called tonics are mere imitations of these pills and should be refused. The genuine bear the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" on the wrapper around each box. They are sold by all dealers in medicine or can be had post paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Women Are Slaves to Bric-a-Brac.

"There are no people on the face of the earth who litter up the rooms of their homes with so much useless, and consequently bad furnishing as do the Americans," writes Edward Bok in The Ladies' Home Journal. "The curse of the American home today is useless bric-a-brac. A room in which we feel that we can freely breathe is so rare that we are instinctively surprised when we see one. It is the exception, rather than the rule, that we find a restful room. As a matter of fact, to this common error of overfurnishing of so many of our homes, are directly due many of the nervous breakdowns of our women. The average American woman is a perfect slave to the useless rubbish which she has in her rooms. This rubbish, of a costly nature where plenty exists, and of a cheap and tawdry character in homes of moderate incomes, is making housekeeping a nerve-racking burden. A serious phase of this furnishing is that hundreds of women believe these jimcracks ornament their rooms. They refuse to believe that useless ornamentation always disfigures and never ornaments. Simplicity is the only thing that ornaments. It does more; it dignifies. The most artistic rooms are made not by what is in them, but by what has been left out of them. One can never quarrel with simplicity, and nothing goes to make for perfect good taste as surely as a simple effect. A tasteful effect is generally reached by what has been left undone. And that is the lesson most needed in America to-day, not what we can put into a room, but what we can leave out of it."

Gold is always being discovered in the most unlikely places, and a German mining engineer has now startled his countrymen by a plain statement of his reasons for supposing that there are auriferous deposits worth about £7,000,000 in the bed of the Rhine, between Basle and Wissemburg. Unfortunately it is one thing to know that the gold is there, and another thing to get it out.

An ex-waiter on the C. P. R. dining car tells some amusing stories of passengers who dine on the cars. A few days ago he took finger bowls to two stylishly dressed ladies, garnished with a piece of lemon. They drank the water, and when they gave him their finger bowls and asked for "a little more lemonade, please," he was so amused that he had to swallow his "chew" to enable him to control his countenance.

THEY NEVER FAIL—Mr. S. M. Boughner, Langton, writes: "For about two years I was troubled with Inward Piles, but by using Parmelee's Pills. I was completely cured, and although four years have elapsed since then they have not returned." Parmelee's Pills are anti-bilious and a specific for the cure of the Liver and Kidney Complaints, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Headache, Piles, etc., and will regulate the secretions and remove all bilious matter.

SORE FEET.—Mrs. E. J. Neill, New Armagh, P. Q., writes: "For nearly six months I was troubled with burning aches and pains in my feet to such an extent that I could not sleep at night, and as my feet were badly swollen I could not wear my boots for weeks. At last I got a bottle of DR. THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL and resolved to try it, and to my astonishment I got almost instant relief, and the one bottle accomplished a perfect cure.

Carlyle and His Cat.

In a letter of Mrs. Carlyle's, written to her maid Jessie, there is an amusing reference to Carlyle and his cat. Says Mrs. Carlyle: "That cat! I wish she were dead! But I can't shorten her days because, you see, my poor, dear, wee dog liked her. Well, there she is! And as long as she attends Mr. C. at his meals (she doesn't care a sheaf of tobacco for him at any other time) so long will Mr. C. continue to give her bits of meat and driblets of milk, to the ruination of carpets and hearth rugs. I have over and over again pointed out to him the stains she has made, but he won't believe them her doings. And the dining room carpet was so old and ugly that it wasn't worth rows with one's husband about. Now however, that nice new cloth must be protected against the cat abuse. So what I wish is that you would shut up the creature when Mr. C. has breakfast, dinner or tea, and if he remarks on her absence say it was my express desire. He has no idea what a selfish, immoral, improper beast she is, nor what mischief she does to the carpets."—London Globe.

A Confusion of Ideas.

Sir Henry Howorth, who was formerly a member of Parliament, is a writer of mark, certainly of research, for his "History of the Mongols" took many years of steady and arduous inquiry.

A good story Sir Henry tells against himself in regard to this work. One evening, while taking in to dinner a lady who had been lightly primed as to his great subject, there was a strange conversation.

"I understand, Sir Henry," the lady said, "that you are fond of dogs; so am I!"

"Dogs, madam," was the reply. "I really must plead guiltless; I know nothing at all of them."

"Indeed! And they told me you had written a famous history of mongrels."—Yorkshire Post.

HOW TO CURE HEADACHE.—Some people suffer untold misery day after day with Headache. There is rest neither day or night until the nerves are all unstrung. The cause is generally a disordered stomach, and a cure can be effected by using Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, containing Mandrake and Dandelion, Mr. Finley, Wark. Lysander, P. Q., writes: "I find Parmelee's Pills a first-class article for Bilious Headache."

Jake Fink received a letter this week from his brother John, who is on his way to Dawson City. At the time of writing John was at Skagway, waiting for the ice to go out of the river, and wasn't a bit stuck on his stopping place, as he said it was the deadest place on earth the wind blowing 90 miles an hour from the north, the snow eight feet on the level and the thermometer about a yard below zero.

Another Story.

Nelson Tribune: It now looks as if the Great Northern and Canadian Pacific had made a deal whereby the Crows Nest Southern and its extension to a connection with the Great Northern at Kalispell would not be built. There is a narrow-gauge road, called the Great Falls & Canada, between Lethbridge, Alberta, and Great Falls, Montana. It crosses the Great Northern at a place called Selby Junction, which is about equi-distant from Lethbridge and Great Falls. The Great Northern, it is said, has purchased the part of the road between Great Falls and Shelby Junction, and it is to be widened to a standard gauge. If the part between Shelby Junction and Lethbridge has passed into the control of the C. P. R., as it has been rumored it has, it also will be made a standard guage. This would be the most direct route over which the Crows Nest coal could be hauled to smelter points in Montana.
