JEALOUSY AND ECONOMICS ARE THE REASONS

Surrey to opt out of library?

MURRAYVILLE - Indications are that the Fraser Valley regional library, which was plagued by internal tumult last year, is about to fall apart.

This according to Ald. Muriel Arnason, who is also an executive member of the FVRL board.

Arnason says Surrey may become the second lower mainland municipality to sever ties with the Abbotsford-based library system within a year. Last year Richmond opted out, deciding to set up their own public library service.

Arnason indicates that there may be a number of reasons why the Surrey township fathers want out.

BUILDING NOT NECESSARY?

An important one is the financial 'bottom line'. During the past two years the payments levied on member municipalities by the library board have risen by more than 66 percent, she says. Drastic increase was caused by the building of a new central library in the MSA area.

But there are other reasons as well, according to Arnason. She says the library board was - and still is - being run in a very autocratic manner. Arnason says she has not been informed of any executive meetings for the past year.

This cavalier attitude toward accepted democratic procedures, coupled with grandiose civic projects carried out in Matsqui, may have angered Surrey's aldermen, she says.

"Maybe they (Surrey) did not feel the new (Matsqui) government building was necessary," she says. "After all, it brought no benefit to them."

COULD SPELL END TO SYSTEM

Apart from this inter-municipal jealousy, local officials are worried about what will happen if Surrey leaves the Fraser Valley library system. They think the whole system could disintegrate.

Surrey's officials have said they will ask their residents, through a referendum, what they want, but Langley councilors are worried that this referendum will follow a 'sales campaign' by their colleagues to the west.

"Someone should be telling the Surrey voters the other side of the story," says Langley's mayor, Bill Blair. The possibility of Surrey dropping out is "quite serious", he says. "We can't let Surrey go."

He did not indicate this week whether or not his council would consider a 'remain-with-the-FVRL-campaign' with the Surrey electorate.

CFVRD APPROVES GLOUCESTER IN 23-19 VOTE

Rezoning proposal endorsed

ALDERGROVE - It was done strictly as a courtesy to the regional district board, said director, Langley district mayor Bill Blair.

According to three different legal opinions it is no longer necessary for Langley district to ask the regional board's blessing on the rezoning of the Gloucester Properties' Fraser Industrial Centre.

Blair's chief opponent, director and Matsqui mayor Harry DeJong, apparently saw it as a weakness instead, and asked that the regional district also seek a legal ruling. He said the matter should be postponed once more before a board decision.

DeJong also called it "an unethical way of doing things" by Langley asking once again for board endorsement.

The Gloucester absurdity was once again brought forward by Central Fraser Valley regional directors when they met here last night. They have only been arguing the case for the better part of a decade, and many of the directors who are still on the board were there when the matter was first brought forward during the early 1970s.

Proposal for the Aldergrove industrial development has been argued by every conceivable level of Canadian government during these years, and it has also been through the entire court system.

In the end, DeJong and his fellow Matsqui appointees to the board, still tried to get the matter turned around and the 640 acres returned to the agricultural land freeze.

They argued the case bravely enough once again this week.

But then, when the motion to endorse Langley's proposal in principle was pushed forward last night, it may have come as a surprise to DeJong. The motion was carried.

Directors were split 50-50 on the endorsement issue, but when the 'weighted vote' (number of ballots according to population) was counted, DeJong's group went down in defeat.

Here is how the 10 venerable directors voted. In favor were chairman Reg Easingwood of Langley city, Blair and fellow Langley district representatives Ian Strachan and Mal Harper, and Abbotsford mayor George Ferguson.

Against, DeJong and Matsqui councilors Peter Dueck and Ray Kirkwood, Sumas Mountain representative BrianFrankish, and Langley city Ald. Andy Milne.

The motion was carried, 23 to 19.

But don't discount entirely the possibility that the directorate, in its infinite wisdom, will come up with a new twist. The Gloucester case couldn't possibly be over. Not already.

Canadian politicians. They are a breed unto themselves.

Strachan: Much to say about lots of things

MURRAYVILLE - Ald. Ian Strachan - who may or may not be retiring from public office next month - again had a lot to say this week on a variety of political subjects.

On the provincial government's new rapid transit system: "It is a ridiculous situation. I hear it is going to cost the government $16 for each passenger riding on the transit train. Obviously they cannot charge that much for a ticket, but the money has to come from somewhere so must be subsidized. The system is not going to be used to any extent for the simple reason that people will still need an automobile at either end. We are not ready yet for public transportation of this sort, haven't got the population to warrant it."

On the agricultural land reserve: "It's a disaster. It has put the price of all farmland out of sight."

On a council colleague: "Don't see why we have to listen to this constant negativism. We should put her (Ald. Muriel Arnason's) comments on tape."

On Langley district's past planning history and more specifically the ill-fated northwest Langley residential development: "I don't know if the taxpayers are going to make the grade. Eventually it might turn out all right, some years down the road, but can the taxpayers hold out that long...? I have said it before and will say it again; we should govern by need rather than by anticipation."

Rumor has it that Strachan is not going to seek reelection at the civic ballot box in November.

But whether or not you agree with the man, it can be safely said that he will be hard to replace for the sheer volume of controversial ideas he has brought forward during his term of office.

Local truckers lost near Yale

HOPE - Two Aldergrove men died last week when two semi trailer trucks collided north of Yale in the Fraser Canyon.

Robert Hillgardner, 35, and Alvin Gillis, 59, both of Aldergrove, and Raymond Newman, 56, of Burnaby, were the victims in a head on collision just north of the Yale tunnel, RCMP reported.

The two trucks burst into flames and the road was closed for a couple of hours early Wednesday morning.

Bill 89 "chaotic" legislation

VANCOUVER - "The passage of bill 89 by the British Columbia legislature adds more problems to an already chaotic situation in public education," says British Columbia Teachers' Federation president Larry Kuehn.

"It is a continuation of the outrageous attacks on public education and teachers by the Bennett government that goes far beyond any call for restraint during these tough times. The government's plan to cut teachers' salaries and reduce the number of teachers in the system is working all too well."

The system has lost a thousand teachers in the first round of cuts last February, Kuehn says. Now the British Columbia School Trustees' Association has announced that thousands of terminations will be made in December.

"Teachers' morale - and that really affects students - is at an appallingly low level, and premier Bennett and his agent provocateur Vander Zalm are totally responsible," Kuehn says.

"They are dismembering the system, denigrating teachers and drastically affecting the future of our province's children. They have no mandate to do that, and if they won't seek one by the electoral route they should return control of education to local authorities and let the collective bargaining system work to preserve public education."

Home gutted by fire

ALDERGROVE - A young family of three became homeless last Saturday morning when their house at 26759 Fraser Highway was gutted by fire.

Steve and Denise Moran lost everything they owned in the blaze.

Fortunately, Denise and baby Andrew were away at the time the fire was spotted. The family dog woke up the husband and nobody was hurt.

The Morans did not carry fire insurance.

They have found temporary quarters in the Abbotsford area.

Who'll bell the cat?

MURRAYVILLE - When a politician is joking, watch out. The next minute the joke becomes reality - and reality becomes a joke..

This week township councilors here were talking about introducing licenses for cats - the way dogs are licensed.

The feline rodent exterminators may soon have to have local government approval to carry on with their work in Langley township.

Ask no questions

MURRAYVILLE - It must be enough to warm the heart of any bureaucrat.

If you have obtained government approval for one thing or another, says Mayor Bill Blair, don't press your luck. Don't argue that there may be better ways of doing things; do it like the G-man ordered.

A Fort Langley man, who obviously doesn't subscribe to this philosophy, came to council this week and pointed out that the septic disposal system the board of health had approved for the Old Marr House could be made more functionable if other methods of construction were taken into use.

"Why should I bury the pipes five feet under ground?" he asked.

He said that was what the health inspectorate's office had prescribed.

"If the health people want it (done that way)do it," said Blair. "If they wanted me to put in pink (drain) tile, I'd do it."

Old Saint Nick is feeling the pinch, too

MURRAYVILLE - Times are tough, with more and more people lining up at the local Canada Manpower office and at the provincial human resources branch.

Yet, seasons pass as they are wont, and soon (in less than two months) we will see the return of Jolly Old Saint Nick.

Only Santa Claus this year will not visit every home in Langley. Or will he?

It appears that politics this year has entered the pre-Yuletide spirit, and unless the overgrown elf can convince some local people that they should become less partisan and more cooperative with one another, some innocent children could suffer.

For the past seven years, Langley resident Muriel Arnason has been the co-ordinator of the local Christmas hamper bureau. Agency, a branch of Langley's community services, has been providing baskets of food, toys and other staples for families in need.

This year, there is a new co-ordinator, Carol Gran.

Both Arnason and Gran are district alderpersons, only the former official used to be president of the local NDP constituency, while Gran works as executive assistant to Socred MLA Bob McClelland.

With the change of leadership, there has also been a change in policy.

Whereas Arnason and her 50 or so helpers used to get the hampers together and next distribute them strictly by volunteer efforts, the new program co-ordinator has applied to the two Langley councils for grant monies to carry on.

This is perhaps even more unusual by the fact that Gran, wearing her aldermanic hat, recently proposed that all municipal grants be terminated.

This week she asked, on behalf of the hamper bureau, for what is left in the municipality's special grants account. There is about $30,000.00 in this account.

The two alderwomen had it out on the floor of the council chambers this week.

Arnason accused her colleague of "possible conflict of interest," which Gran denied, and both indicated that they did not understand what is going on.

Gran said she was "so shocked" that her motives should be questioned just because she had typed out her request for money on B. C. legislative assembly letterhead, and Arnason said she could not understand why the taxpayers this year were being asked to subsidize the program when that had never been necessary in the past.

Arnason added that she was willing to do it again her way. She indicated that she had been forced to resign.

Questioned about the apparent jostling for position between the two councilors, Community Services director Louise Tomkulak had this to say:

"She (Arnason) resigned by letter on Oct. 5, but later she apparently changed her mind. When Gran volunteered for the job, we appointed her."

Arnason further explained that she had tendered her resignation after Tomkulak insisted that the hamper bureau operate out of a "tiny cubbyhole" in the rear of the Community Services office.

"I told her (Tomkulak) that we couldn't do it," Arnason said, "and she answered that we had no choice and that this was 'not Muriel Arnason's Christmas hamper bureau'."

Arnason said the agency had never asked for municipal grants money in the past, and she could not see why this should all of a sudden be a necessity when so many people were willing to donate time, money and goods on a free basis.

Gran said she saw it this way: "It is damn difficult to get money today out there, expecially among the business community which is also hurting badly."

There was some slight indication, however, that the two rivals could work together, overcoming their jealousy and work towards a common goal.

After all, both Arnason and Gran really do want to help the poor and destitute.

Last year some forty or fifty people put together some 500 hampers which were handed out just before Christmas.

This year, according to Gran, there is an even greater need. Some 600 to 1,000 hampers will be needed, and there are fewer people out there with anything to give.

Hopefully the joys of Christmas, of giving as of receiving, have not been overshadowed permanently by left to right political beliefs.

Council locks horns over development

MURRAYVILLE - Langley district council doesn't plan, it reacts, says Ald. Muriel Arnason.

She locked horns with fellow council member Ian Strachan this week.

Strachan said he was tired of her "negativism" and Arnason in turn argued her right to argue.

Arnason has become known as a dissenter on council whenever proposed land zoning changes are brought up. It doesn't matter what the present and suggested future zoning is, Arnason is almost always opposed.

On the agenda Monday morning was a suggested bylaw amendment to rezone the Fernridge mobile home park in southwest Langley. It is presently non-conforming on 11.2 ha (27.7 ac.) zoned for urban use. It should be residential.

"The pattern has already been set for this property," said Mayor Bill Blair. "And we do need mobile home parks in the municipality."

Strachan suggested Arnason's objections to any zoning changes should be put on tape and played with every application heard.

People who live in glass houses . . .

DOWNSVIEW, ONT. - Canadians may soon build their houses from old pop bottles and window glass if researchers from Concordia University can bring their idea to market.

Waste glass makes up eight percent of all garbage so researchers at Concordia's centre for building studies have been looking for useful ways to recycle it. They discovered that pulverized glass waste can be mixed with mica to produce a superior building brick.

According to Professor Norman Low, the new brick is harder, more durable, and a better insulator than conventional clay bricks.

The scientists are now trying to perfect the glass brick with the addition of waste sawdust to make it lighter in weight.

CPR course helps fight problem

By DONNA BARNE

MURRAYVILLE - It's well known that where North Americans are most unfit is their hearts. In fact about 700,000 people die from heart attacks each year.

It's this statistic that people like Marion Osenton have been fighting for years. Osenton, who has spoken to various groups in the past, believes it is now time to reintroduce cardiopulmonary resuscitation, or CPR, to the community.

CPR is a life-saving method used to revive victims of respiratory or cardiac arrest. If its techniques are applied quickly and correctly, chances are good that a life can be saved.

Osenton plans to approach clubs, businesses and organizations in the Langley area to give a brief speech on training, and encourage them to take the CPR method.

Osenton has been involved in this training for seven years, and has co-ordinated and taught courses sponsored by continuing education and the Langley Lions for the last two years.

Despite a fair amount of publicity and effort on the part of Osenton and continuing education, Osenton says there "tends to be not so good a turn-out as you would think" to the classes.

She stresses the need for businesses and anyone who deals with the public to know how to perform CPR. A cardiac arrest occurs not only when someone has a heart attack, but also from overdoses, drowning, shock and even choking.

As an instructor trainer, Osenton trains and monitors instructors, thereby helping to maintain teaching standards.

Naturalists go canoeing

By MARY PASTRICK

ALDERGROVE - Several canoeists from the Langley Field Naturalist club spent a lovely Sunday canoeing at Addington Point, with sea otters playfully travelling along the side of the canoes. A number of great blue herons, Canada geese, jays, ducks were seen along the dike and two sandhill cranes lifted from a field and took to the air, on Oct. 10.

GREEN TIMBERS TRIP

A special pre-arranged trip to the Green Timbers in Surrey was led by Adeline Nicol on the self-guided tour through the large nursery.

Since 1930 when this parcel of land was logged off and remained an eyesore, it was decided to reclaim the area and reforestation began. This project has produced millions of seedlings over the years with very careful planning.

On 0.8 hectares there are some one hundred and forty species in the arboretum, of unusual trees that have been collected. A unique feature at this time of year with most of the trees in their fall colors and many variations of seeds, berries, nuts and cones adding a special interest to the field trip.

The naturalists members are looking for more owl pellets to be used for educational purposes. A workshop with school children analysing the pellets will be conducted at the Ft. Langley museum in November. Anyone with access to owl pellets is asked to call 534-3886 so arrangements can be made to pick them up.

NEXT MEETING

The next regular meeting is Nov. 19 at 7:30 p.m. at the Langley arts centre. The program for this meeting is called 'Seabirds summer' and deals with auklets, murrelets, puffins, on B.C.'s most remote islands, with Moira Lemon.

Traffic lights wanted, but not needed

MURRAYVILLE - When the township fathers here recommend to the provincial government that traffic signals be installed at major intersections, they are often told that there is no need for such.

In this particular case it is the provincial highways department recommending that signals be installed at 72 Avenue and 200 Street, but councilors won't hear of it.

"We have more and more traffic (at this corner)," says Ald. Ian Strachan. "Yet we have fewer accidents. It's a paradox."

RCMP report that 16 accidents occured at the intersection in 1976, 15 in 1980, and only 14 in 1981.

One more traffic light will only slow traffic down on a main thoroughfare, thereby creating more accidents," says Strachan.

Highways department wants Langley to pay $21,000.00 as its share of the cost of installing the lights. Annual costs would be extra.

Municipal engineers and administration have recommended acceptance of the plan.

ALR application approved for colony farm

COQUITLAM - An application for no farm use in the agricultural land reserve for a 10-acre portion of the Colony Farm in Coquitlam has received the support of the Greater Vancouver regional district board of directors.

A number of directors voted against the application, including Coquitlam mayor Jim Tonn, who argued that the proposal did not have the support of his municipal council.

The B.C. Buildings Corporation wants the land for a new complex to replace existing buildings belonging to the forensic psychiatric institute, operated by the B.C. ministry of health. The buildings will be occupied by patients who work on the colony Farm property as part of their treatment program.

The buildings to be replaced were put up during the 1940s. The facilities are now in poor condition and estimates for renovation run as high as replacement costs. In addition, the proposed new buildings will be designed to provide greater security.

Scholarships, bursaries reward hard-working grads

ALDERGROVE - This year 76 graduates from four Langley area secondary schools have won a combined total of $40,325 in scholarships and bursaries. Students graduated in June from Aldergrove secondary, D.W. Poppy secondary, Langley secondary, and Mountain secondary. Provincial government has provided $16,000 with the remaining $24,325 being provided by numerous local donors.

The local donors have contributed over $270,000 in the 26-year history of the Langley scholarship fund. The people of Langley are clearly strong supporters of their youth and value further education of the young.

School awards will be held at Aldergrove secondary on Thursday, October 28 at 7:30 p.m., at D.W. Poppy secondary on Tuesday, October 26 at 1:00 p.m., at Langley secondary on Thursday, October 21 at 7:30 p.m., and at R.E. Mountain secondary on Wednesday, October 20 at 1:00 p.m.

Man is dog's best friend

WINNIPEG - Thomas George has shown that sometimes man is dog's best friend.

George, one of 20 people presented with awards for heroism, revived an unconscious dog with mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

"It was hard, but I did it," said George, 30, who was out for an evening stroll about two years ago when he spotted a fire.

He called police, rushed back to the smoke-filled home and spotted the dog lying motionless near the front door.

After taking out the animal and reviving it, he returned to the house and rescued a young man he found sleeping in an upstairs bedroom.

George later received a Royal Canadian Humane Association award.

Major church growth thanks to vision of founders

A dream of a far-sighted congregation became an official reality Sunday. The Aldergrove United Church congregation laid the cornerstone of their new church under construction on 272nd Ave.

Over 30 years ago the congregation began making plans for future needs and today their plans are taking form. An expanded facility for an expanding population.

It's never too late to go back

ALDERGROVE - Many people assume that September is the month when students return to school. In most cases this is true, but there is an exception. At Aldergrove's secondary school Work and Learn program is exceptional because students may enter any time during the year.

The Aldergrove Program (VAST) is a self-paced, self-instructional, high school equivalency program. Students work through a prescribed curriculum in three basic subjects, communications (English), mathematics and science.

Program is divided into two levels. Completion of the VAST level three courses qualifies the student for a grade 10 equivalency. Completion of the level four courses qualifies students for a grade 12 equivalency.

Classes meet on Monday and Wednesday evenings from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. in portables at the back of Aldergrove secondary school. Students must be at least 15 years old and have a sincere desire to continue their education. Further information may be obtained on Monday and Wednesday evenings or by calling Dave Coutu at the school during the day (856-2521).

Gold is where you find it

By ADRIENNE BARKER

Ever since the days of the Klondike Gold Rush, 'gold fever' has prompted many fortune seekers to take up the trail of the pioneers. However, the thrill embodied in the discovery of a major find or the smallest nuggets from a stream bed cannot be diminished in the eyes of the 'prospector'.

There are several methods for the recovery of gold, each depending on how deeply committed you want to get and the amount of time and money you wish to invest. The simplest, least expensive, and primary method is "panning". The object of panning is to separate and concentrate the heavier material by washing away the lighter. The most common panning method is called "wet" panning, in which case a ready supply of water must be available in sufficient quantity. This is generally done at the stream bank.

Your first course of action is to select the most likely areas for an accumulation of gold. Information on all prospective gold-panning areas can be obtained through the B.C.-Yukon Chamber of Mines in Vancouver.

Now that you have a destination in mind, you'll want to make a small investment in some gold-panning equipment: a gold pan, magnifying glass, tweezers and some vials for storing your "find". The gold pan can either be steel or the plastic variety. Each has its advantages. The traditionalists prefer the metal pan. They claim it is more durable and can be used for other purposes such as a fry pan or wash bowl. The standard size is 16 inches; however, the 12 inch and 14 inch models are easier to handle in the beginning and are fine for sampling an area. Other gold panners prefer the new high impact plastic variety since it is lighter in weight, certainly as durable under normal use, and can be bought in either black or green to contrast the gold against a dark background.

Panning is basically a simple procedure, but one with many individaul styles. It's best to practice before your initial trip by placing a few BBs or fine buckshot into some test material and pan this in a large wash tub at home. If you find all of the 'simulated' nuggets in the remaining concentrate you will have achieved enough proficiency to feel confident that you won't lose the heavier gold.

Several books have been written on 'gold fever' and, in particular on gold panning. Consult your local library or mining museums for information on gold-panning techniques and general know-how.

However, if you're just after a little fun and experimentation with gold panning, be sure to visit Willowbrook Mall from October 18 to 23 to try your luck at their gold-planning sluice box in the mall. You could be one of several lucky shoppers to Strike it Rich!

Ms. Barker is Marketing Director for Aldergrove Centre Mall and Willowbrook Mall.

Computers big at Poppy

by PETER HUANG

POPPY SCHOOL - At first, it was just one computer in a small room for a few people. Now the school has twelve Apple 11 computers and about as many CBMs (Commodore Business Machines). With the growth in the number of computers, the number of people using them has increased almost proportionally. Since Poppy school's first locally developed computer science class began two years ago, more and more students have enrolled in both the classes and the computer club.

This year's club, which began three weeks ago and meets every week, has been working hard to learn the Apple 11's basic language. Organized by H. Brydle, the club has acquired an instructor to help the incoming new programmers. The future of computers is especially promising and the students are certainly being prepared for it.

Bridge club averages out

Well, the law of averages does apply to Bridge. Last Friday Stella Bowes and Hovyd Vandenend managed to bid and make a Grand Slam no trump. Congratulations. The high score for the evening went to Rene Rowling with 6630 points while Stella Bowes was second with 5350 points. Of course somebody has to have the lowest score. This week it was Wynn Scharf with 1230 points only. With the world series over we hope to see all our bridge players on Friday again.

Go, Strachan, go . . .

Editor, The Star, Sir,

Your issue of Oct. 13 gives prominence to Ald. Strachan's statements favoring the funding of education by the voucher method. It is a pleasure to learn that there is at least one more person in this district who has seen the disastrous consequences of taking the upbringing of children out of the hands of parents, and who favors the responsibility being returned where it belongs.

Nature gives children to parents whom it endows with the quality of love for these helpless and immature beings. In normal people, parental love is a force that constantly works for the benefit of the child as they perceive that benefit. It is undeniable that where parents exert control over the schooling of their children, they unselfishly try to have their children taught to be honest, polite, industrious, and knowledgeable in the social skills of living. If their aim were otherwise, how could they have a happy family life? In addition, parents who have developed their own minds, wish to see the ability to reason being developed in their children. Since there are many concepts of education among parents, there should be as many types of educational opportunities for their children. We should have schools oriented toward sport, religion or irreligion, science or arts, philosophy or vocations.

The public schools, funded as we find them almost everywhere, are imposed upon parents and children. The curriculum is decided by a few politicians and a few teachers who loudly profess to have the interests of children at heart, but whose credibility is suspect. Many are really sick in mind insofar as they have the urge to become powerful in one way or another. These people when faced with the choice of,-"Will this decision promote my ambition, or will it promote the welfare of the welfare of students?"-unerringly take the selfish option while vociferously protesting their concern for the students.

The parent's natural role is to rear a boy or girl to a state where that child becomes independent; a person capable of making sound and morally acceptable decisions. The role of the power-seeker is different. The school board member wants to move up to local government, then to provincial government, and so has an interest in politically brainwashing students. The teacher in school or university who uses his power and position to promote an economic, political, or religious theory, also engages in brainwashing. This indoctrination destroys the capacity to think. It has been going on for so many years that when an individual takes an original position against a popular fallacy, - even as Ald.Strachan is doing now - he is likely to be shouted down by both the profane and academic mob whose minds have been crippled by public education.

Ald. Strachan's proposal is in line with the age-old principle that whoever pays the piper calls the tune. When a parent has in his hand a cheque for a year's tuition for each child of school age, and when he can take those cheques to any school he pleases, public or private, then schools will have to compete for students just as many businesses compete for clients. Dissatisfied parents will be able to transfer their children to schools that appear to be providing a better service. This natural free-choice system works both ways. Any student known to have been disruptive will be unwelcome in his neighborhood. Parents will likely be asked to pay a premium above the value of the standard voucher issued before any school will take the brat. Such parents will take this blow to their bank account seriously and so decide to put a little more effort into the upbringing of their children.

So, if we prefer honesty to dishonesty, good manners to churlishness; if we prefer competence to incompetence; if we prefer a free and developed mind to a state of programmed robotism, let us investigate further the virtues of the voucher system for funding education.

Yours sincerely,
ERNIE BRYAN
Aldergrove

. . . yes, please do, but where to?

Editor, The Star, Sir,

Have you changed the name of your fine paper? The Strachan Star? It seems that the retiring alderman is not the retiring type when it comes to speaking out on things he apparently knows little or nothing about.

"All would benefit," says Strachan (your kicker for "Competition urged for schools" Wednesday, October 13).

Baloney!

If he is so upset that the municipality is the "middleman" between teachers, students and the taxpayer, then why doesn't he urge council to change their option under the Assessment Act and let the school board collect its own taxes. Anyone in their right mind knows that that would be doubling the tax collection bureaucracy - which we don't need.

If he is so upset, then why doesn't he recommend that council inform the public about the items on their tax bill and point out which governing body is responsible for each item.

The voucher system is not the panacea he makes it out to be. One of the major problems with the present school system is that it is only funded on an annual basis - not for two, three or five years at a time. The voucher system would have kids changing schools whenever they didn't like the teacher and taking the rest of their voucher fund with them. Schools would be operating on a daily basis. Let him try running his dairy farm on that basis and we will see what kinds of plans he can make when his cows want to go to a greener pasture next door because the grass might taste better or because there are better looking bulls there.

If he feels that "society does not get full value for this money", ($2,400 per year per child) then let him be specific. His generalism is typical of people with criticism but without suggestions for improvement.

From my perspective - as a former teacher and a former trustee - there are so many changes in the educational system since I attended - let alone when he went - that the public has little or no understanding of current educational philosophy, methodology or curriculum. (School boards and teachers associations are partially to blame for poor communication with the taxpayer.)

His explanation of the voucher system only goes to underscore my criticism of the ramifications that system has on its financing. If a child is moved from one school to another, their voucher funds go with them. Just ask your nearest elementary school principal, Mr. Strachan, how he could run his school with such a nebulous financial base.

Next he mouths that money is spent on a cumbersome system of buildings. I hope he would do his homework. The system of building (schools) is cumbersome as there are 51 steps between concept and building - all at the desire of the Ministry of education as they feel that local school boards aren't competent enough to handle building their own schools. If a municipality operated that way, Mr. Strachan, we'd see how long it would take council to get a pump station in for a sewer system for a 100 home subdivision. The homes would be declared heritage sites before the pump station would be operational.

If he were to review Ministry figures he would see how much is spent on buildings in proportion to the rest of their budget - and then he would see whey the building situation is in such a terrible mess in this province. Where he gets this "cumbersome system of buildings", I don't know.

Mushrooming administrative bureaucracy? To whom is he pointing the finger? Langley? According to Ministry of Education statistics, Langley is one of the best districts in the province for amount or percent of funds allocated for administration and has one of the lowest ratios in the province for administrators to pupils.

The next grandiose statement is a beaut.

"Teachers salaries would be based on their ability to teach."

Yes, there are criteria available to determine 'ability to teach', but no provincial government could ever get that into legislation.

Mr. Strachan, the government can't even get principals and other administrators out of the BCTF. How can you expect to get those who assess teachers to do a totally unbiased job when they are members of the same union or federation.

It would be nice to have teachers assessed and paid on their ability to teach but you can't even get an incompetent teacher out of the system in less than two years and for less than $100,000 court costs.

You'd have a hell of a hard time to get that type of system accepted by the teachers. You'd be upsetting their highly insular position - and they certainly wouldn't stand for that. They'd bring the House down (the one in Victoria).

Does this man know the realities of today's teaching profession? "Some teachers are only for the teachers and they are getting a little too political." That's like saying some union members are only for union members..." or like saying "That's like doctors are only for doctors...'

Naturally, sir, those who you and other members of the public see on TV are "only for the teachers". Those teachers are elected representatives of their fellow teachers who are charged with attending to the economic welfare of their colleagues. It's a defense lawyers responsibility to get his client off the rap - even if it is murder, isn't it.

If he thinks B.C.'s scene is too political, head south and take a look at several states. They are so political, it makes our province look like a kindergarten tea party.

Next, Mr. Editor, we see him heading into confrontation with the school board over spending money in a free handed manner while they (sob, sob) have to account for every dollar. ("Council heads for confrontation with school board", same issue, front page, second story).

Langley trustees have one of the best records in the province for prudent spending.

What's his bitch? Has he bothered to obtain either the budget analysis by the Ministry of Education or the B.C. School Trustees Association to see how well Langley fares?

If they want to know about public accounts ask the secretary treasurer for a copy of the latest; if they want to know about expense accounts just ask - Langley's are nothing out of the ordinary. Administrative salary levels - much the same as the rest of the province. Most of these things are well in hand by those involved in educational labor relations. Langley is one of the most tightly controlled districts with less going into these items than most other districts.

Then we see him talking about teachers' salaries versus the average Canadian worker. Your figures are a little out of date Mr. Strachan, by about four years. Check out the $12,000 with Stats Canada and you'll find it's more like $18,000. The use of averaging when you are talking of school teachers is inappropriate. That group also includes principals and other administrators who are no longer in the classroom. Next, because it is so hard to get a job elsewhere these days, teachers are staying put; hence most districts have a higher percentage of senior and more experienced teachers. That's what makes the 'average' so high.

The average "actually working in the classroom" teacher is earning about $26,000-about the same as a plumber who spends less than half the time acquiring his skills of his trade.

Mr. Strachan hasn't been listening to the hypocracies of the provincial government on restraint otherwise he would not be mouthing off so readily about teachers actions and those of trustees.

I could go on Mr. Editor, but I've seen way too many council types who are woefully ignorant of the constraints of our educational systems. Trying to educate them is like talking to a brick wall.

But then it makes for printer's ink if they are running for political office at a higher level. Retiring, Mr. Strachan, what to...? MP...

Yours truly,

Bennett apes depression's Tolmie

Editor, The Star, Sir,

A famous philosopher once said, "history often repeats itself, the first as a tragedy, the second as a farce." Premier Bennett with his six and five percent wage increases, called by some the seven percent solution, is doing to the people of B.C. today, something very similar to what Premier Tolmie did some 50 years ago.

B.C. at that time was in the midst of a deep economic depression. Premier Tolmie headed a Conservative government elected in 1928 during the boom that preceded the economic crisis of 1929-1939. His method of dealing with the Depression was to raise taxes, impose a one percent tax on wages, shift the cost of mothers pensions and hospitalization to the municipalities, cut municipal grants, cut hospital grants and lay off civil servants.

But big business interests, then as now, weren't satisfied. They sent a deputation to Premier Tolmie headed by the lumber pirate H.R. MacMillan and including representatives of the Canadian Manufacturers Association, chamber of commerce and board of trade, demanding further drastic cuts in government expenditures (on social services, of course).

Premier Tolmie responded by a "non-partisan and representative commission of citizens" to investigate the state of government finances and make recommendations for changes. The citizens appointed, headed by George Kidd, a chartered accountant, were anything but representative; they represented only big business in the province.

The report submitted by the Kidd commission recommended:

1. Reduction in the size of the legislature from 48 to 28 members;
2. Reduction in the size of the civil service and cut in their salaries;
3. A limit on free education to children under 14 years of age. Parents would have to pay 50 percent of cost of education for those from 14 to 16 and pay the entire cost of those over 16;
4. Cuts in university grants;
5. Abolition of school boards;
6. A 25 percent cut in teacher's salaries;
7. Abolition of all conservation measures;
8. Repeal of all minimum wage laws;
9. Sterilization of the mentally unfit.

The report was immediately endorsed by the chamber of commerce, Canadian Manufacturers Association and the board of trade. But it was vehemently and angrily rejected by all other segments of the population.

In fact the protest against the report was so strong that Premier Tolmie was compelled to drop it.

I see a lot of similarities between the attitudes of Premier Bennett and his hatchet-man William Vander Zalm, and the Tolmie government. They are following basically the same policies. I don't think they will advocate the sterilization of the mentally unfit, however--that would include too many cabinet members.

Premier Bennett hasn't waited for any commission to recommend cuts in services to people. He's just gone ahead and cut them. In doing so he has alienated almost every section of the population except the rednecks in his own party and the corporate owners of industry who back him 100 percent.

If Bennett and Vander Zalm were capable of learning anything from history, which I doubt, they would know that Premier Tolmie went down to an ignominious and well deserved defeat in the 1933 provincial election. The man who defeated him, Premier Duff Pattullo, was elected on an election platform of "work and wages" which was what the people wanted.

Premier Pattullo never delivered on his promise of "work and wages". We'll have to make sure that any government we elect to replace the Socreds is prepared and able to provide work and wages.

Yours truly,
TED HANSEN

We're all to blame, so . . .

Editor, The Star, Sir,

I have read with dismay, in the last three or four editions of The Star, the story concerning the controversy surrounding the obnoxious odors that permeate the air surrounding the sewer treatment plant. Personally, the offensive smell is intolerable and should not be welcome in any residential neighborhood. Several people have been forced to move from the neighborhood because breathing the fetid air compromises a healthy existence.

Who is to blame? The government? For authorizing a facility that was obsolete some years after it was completed (not able to handle quantity of sewerage), or for permitting too many residences to be constructed and come "on-line"? However, residences mean property taxes.

Is it industry? Some suspicious glances were cast at Koehler's for emptying more than their "allotted" quantity of "refuse" into the system. However, the problem of odor existed before Koehler came on to the system (and was) over-loaded before then, too, I understand.

Who, then, is to blame? It is each of us who are "on-line". How? Forty percent of all pollution in the world is caused by households. Less than one percent use biodegradable soaps (personal cleansing, laundry and dish variety). Biodegradable products are returned to Nature in seven days. The phosphate, borates and nitrates of leading laundry soaps (e.g. Tide, Cheer, etc.) are biodegraded in 40-50 years! The laundromats and car washes use concentrated versions. In fact, most laundry soaps are less than 30 percent soap-the remainder being fillers such as ground feathers, cardboard, powdered glass. There is no value in purchasing these products-they pollute twice over. This pollution is the start of the inexorable climb to the present "problem".

It's very easy to take a part in cleaning up and less expensive using biodegradable products (they should use no fillers). Granted, the entire problem will not be eliminated easily. Industry must take a part, too. But, hurling invective at the government solves nothing. Each of us plays a part in the solution. The key is to take the initiative to be a responsible part of the solution rather than the problem.

Sincerely,
A.V. HATCHWELL, D.C.

Editor, The Star, Sir,

After seven years of co-ordinating the Langley Community Services Christmas Bureau, Muriel Arnason has decided to pass along the task to others.

We at Langley Community Services wish to acknowledge Muriels' contribution and to thank her for her services over the years. This is a volunteer position and it requires a great deal of hard work and an immense time commitment. The bureau starts operation in October of every year and carries through until early January. This job entails co-ordination, fund raising, volunteer recruiting and total co-operation with other groups to prevent duplication and also involves the actual distribution of the hampers.

Muriel's contribution to the community in this endeavor is immeasurable. Her dedication and commitment is to be commended.

Yours truly,
LOUISE TOMKULAK

Dominion appointed managers of mall

ALDERGROVE - Walter Berukoff, president of Red Lion Management Ltd., announced last week that, after researching available property management companies, Dominion Management Company has been appointed to manage Aldergrove Centre Mall, a Red Lion Management Ltd. property holder.

Berukoff stated that he has the utmost confidence in the well-tested capabilities of Dominion Management Company, a member of the Bentall Group.

"We have considered the recent growth of the Aldergrove community and recognize the potential for Aldergrove Centre Mall," said Stephen A. Sell, director of shopping centres for Dominion Management Company.

Dominion Management Company was established in 1960 to offer property management and leasing services, principally for buildings owned by the Bentall Group of companies. In the same year, Dominion began developing shopping centres beginning with Hillside in Victoria. Since then, the company has built and managed major shopping centres in Kamloops, Vernon, Langley (Willowbrook Mall in 1979) as well as other cities in British Columbia and Alberta. The Bentall Group of companies presently owns and operates seven shopping centres in British Columbia.

Whitecaps sign promising pair

The Whitecaps announced Wednesday that two big and promising rookies have signed their first professional contracts - to play at either ends of the field.

Goalkeeper Sven Habermann and striker Terry Felix both agreed to one-year deals after spending last season with the Whitecaps Reserves.

Habermann, at 6-3 and 204 pounds, is a 20-year-old native of West Germany who emigrated to Canada at the age of four. He played his youth soccer in the Wesburn organization and has actually played for both the Caps Youth Team in the Pacific Coast Soccer League and for the Reserve Team in the Pacific Nortwest Soccer League for the last year and a half.

Former Caps President Tony Waiters and Director of Youth Development Les Wilson have been working closely with Habermann for the past six months and they're extremely optimistic about his chances of becoming a first-rate pro. "He's got all the physical tools," says Wilson, "and now he just needs some work and experience."

Meanwhile, 21-year-old Felix is the first native B.C. Indian to ever sign a pro contract with the Whitecaps - and judging by his goalscoring prowess in the reserves - he could soon become the first native Indian to ever start for the Caps.

"Terry has probably scored some of the best goas I've ever seen in any league," says Wislon. "He's got great skill on the ball and an excellent shot. He's simply a natural goalscorer."$

A member of the Chehalis Tribe in Chilliwack, Felix is a very solid 5-10, 170-pounder, and he signed amatgeur forms with the Caps just prior to the indoor season last winter.

Whitecaps Coach John Giles is very high on both Habermann and Felix. "I was impressed with the way both lads progressed last year," says Giles. "They have good basic skills and I'm looking forward to them emerging next year."

Stimulating players in concert this week

By NOZ PARKER

A highly stimulating concert with innovative jazz musician Paul Horn and accompanists will take place Friday, October 22 at St. Andrews Wesley Church.

Horn is a highly respected flutist, also known for his work on a variety of woodwind instruments. He will feature music from his recent album, "China." Performing with him will be vocalist David Sereda, keyboardist Robbie King and bassist Tom Hazlitt.

The concerts, at 8:30 p.m. and 11:30 p.m. are a benefit for the Vancouver United Nations Association Disarmament Program, and tickets are $9.50 at the Bay, Spy Records and Black Swan Records, and $10 at the door. St. Andrews Wesley Church is at the corner of Burrard and Nelson, Vancouver.

There will be wheelchair access as well as hard of hearing facilities available to the public.

Simple Minds

Simple Minds, a young five-man band from Scotland, return to the Commodore next Monday evening, October 25 hot on the heels of their new Virgin - PolyGram album, "New Gold Dream (81-82-83-84)."

Their last appearance less than a year ago was a highly-charged and dynamic performance, despite their problems with a rented sound system. The band intends to rectify this problem by bringing their own sound and lighting system, on the current tour.

The band is a major act in the U.K., and has made some inroads into North America with last year's hit single, "Love Song" and two singles from the new album, "Promised You A Miracle" and "Glittering Prize."

The new album captured the band at a new creative peak with a solid album of their unique musical style. Simple Minds (who take their name from a line in David Bowie's "Jean Genie") avoid simple categorization - suffice to say that their music lends itself to joyous dancing or private listening. Jim Kerr, the vocalist, says of the band's sound and lyrics, "I'd really like to think that it goes through black to white and ends up extremely positive."

The show promises to be one of this year's finest. Tickets are available at VTC-Eaton's and CBO-Woodward's.

Tom Keenlyside, the talented saxophonist in Vancouver's Wildroot Orchestra, has just completed the recording sessions in Los Angeles for a soon to be released jazz album with his "Tom Keenlyside Quintet."

As well as tenor and baritone saxophone, Keenlyside also plays flute on the album, titled "Returning." The band consists of keyboardist Dave Pickell (also of Wildroot), guitarist Ted Quinlan, bassist Rene Worst and drummer Graham Boyle.

The band will make its premiere Vancouver appearance at the Sheraton Landmark Jazz Bar, Monday through Wednesday, October 25-27 at 9:30 p.m. and will feature selections from the upcoming album.

Wildroot fans should note that this is a side project for Keenlyside and Pickell, and does not mean that they've left the band. With these talented players, the show should be of particular interest.

Benefit concert to feature LCMS faculty members

The faculty of the Langley Community Music School will present their annual benefit concert on October 30 at 8:00 p.m. Proceeds from the concert, which will take place in Preston's Showroom on the Langley By-pass, will go to the Langley Community Music School Scholarship-Bursary fund.

The programme will present pianists Marilyn Lamont, Yvette Liem, Claude McLean, Susan Magnusson, Barbara Zielinski, Susan Elek, Leslie Janos, Ulo Valdma and Audra Phillips in works for solo piano, piano duet and two pianos - eight hands as well as in performances of chamber music with other instruments.

Other faculty members performing during the evening are Ian Hampton and Sue Round - celli, Wendy Hamper - violin, Bruce Dunn - French Horn (with a little historical demonstration), Alan Rinehart - guitar, and Caroline Janos - flute.

Feature works will be the Beethoven's C minor trio (last movement), the Military Polonaisse by Chopin and the Adagio from the Rodrigo guitar concerto.

A two piano version of Beethoven's Symphony No.5 should be a major event and worth the price of admission, which is $5.00 Adult, $3.00 O.A.P. and children.

A special guest, soprano Mary Lage accompanied by pianist Ulo Valdma, will be featured on the program.

Album review: Musical voyage girdles the globe

Music and Rhythm
Various Artists
(Passport - A&M)

This double album is a benefit for the "World of Music Arts and Dance" festival held last July in Somerset, England. The festival was a financial disaster, with the director Peter Gabriel losing upwards of half a million dollars alone.

It's difficult to understand why as this is quite an entertaining cross-section of musical and cultural styles from all round the globe, on record at least. There are the familiar western names like Gabriel, Pete Townshend, XTC, the Beat and David Byrne but the other sixteen tracks are from rather more obscure artists. There's Canadian trumpeter Jon Hassell playing his "fourth world music" with a live version of "Ba Benzele" as well as Jamaican calypso star, Mighty Sparrow showing his irresistable drive and vocal wit on, "Music And Rhythm." Alhaji Bai Konte, who performed at the Vancouver Folk Fest some years back, sings and plays the West African harp, the Kora.

Indian violinist Shankar (formerly with guitarist John McLaughlin) bridges western pop with his ethnic roots on "Himalaya" with guitarist Bill Lovelady. Rico, the former Specials trombonist offers the delectable rock-steady gem, "What you talkin' 'bout?" German electronics whiz, Holger Czukay blends a Persian prayer (taped from a short-wave radio) with a pretty instrumental solo and rhythm on "Persian Love."

This is only a brief listing of the round the world cruise you'll experience and savor listening to this highly recommended album. To help introduce you to the sounds I have five "sampler" copies that I will send to the first five people to write in and request a copy, free of charge. These specially compiled single-album copies feature only seven of the twenty-one tracks (Townshend, Gabriel, XTC, Byrne, the Beat, Rico, Shankar and Bill Lovelady) and come to you compliments of A&M Records Canada. Address your request to: Noz Parker, P.O. Box 220, Aldergrove, B.C. VOX 1AO.

Security
Peter Gabriel
(Geffen)

A perfect complement to last year's album. His experiments with dense rhythmic structures and layers of sound are much more interesting than the recent work of his former band, Genesis. Gabriel demands far more from his listeners.

The Album - Da Da Da
Trio
(Mercury)

A curious little project from Klaus Voormann, whose previous credits include the Beatles' "Revolver" album artwork and numerous stints as bassist for John Lennon.

The title track, "Da Da Da (I don't love you, you don't love me, aha aha aha)" is a novelty item - a take off on current electro-pop dance music. Like many of the songs it is half-English, half-German, and has enjoyed hit status in Europe. "Broken Hearts" and "Sabine" are very funny tracks also.

Trio rocks out the oldie "Ya Ya" with flair and ends the album with "Banana Boat Song." Different.

So...What!
Soft Cell
(Vertigo)

This 12 45-rpm record holds the two best tracks to come from this minimalist duo, instrumentalist Dave Ball and singer Marc Almond.

Soft Cell has a flair for digging up "moldie oldies" and dressing them in stylish garments, and the vocal track, "What" is another example of that formula. It has a wider appeal than anything they've done previously as does the flip side, Ball's solo instrumental "...So".

With their increasing sophistication, will Ball and Almond turn into the "Bacharach-Warwick of the '80's?" Only time will tell, but meanwhile enjoy "one nice pop song - from two nice people."

A distinguished cast of acting greats are assembled for LITTLE GLORIA... HAPPY AT LAST, a four-hour mini-series to run on NBC Sunday, Oct. 24 and Monday, Oct. 25. Jennifer Dundas (c.) makes her debut portraying 10-year old Gloria Vanderbilt, who was the center of a bitter, headline-making custody trial in 1934. Also starring in the factual drama are: (clockwise from bottom left) John "Magnum, P.I." Hillerman, Maureen Stapleton, Lucy Gutteridge, Bette Davis, Christopher Plummer, Angela Lansbury, Martin Balsam, Glynis Johns and Barnard Hughes.

Bette Davis stars in "Little Gloria"

Quite possibly the greatest living actress of her time, 74-year old Bette Davis will be featured as Alice Claypoole Vanderbilt in the NBC four-hour mini-series, "Little Gloria... Happy at Last," to air on Sunday, Oct. 24 and Monday, Oct. 25.

Besides being recently serenaded by Kim Carnes for her celebrated eyes, Miss Davis is a two-time Academy Award winner (for "Dangerous" in 1935 and "Jezebel" in 1938) and has starred in more than 83 movies, including such classics as "Of Human Bondage," "Dark Victory," "Now Voyager," "Little Foxes" and "Whatever Happened to Baby Jane?" She also won an Emmy for her performance in "Strangers — The Story of a Mother and Daughter."

Born Ruth Elizabeth Davis on April 5, in Lowell, Mass., she was the daughter of a lawyer. Most of her childhood was spent in boarding schools following her parents' divorce. However, her mother still supervised her early acting efforts and supported her through acting school. Many people forget that she appeared in a string of 23 less-than-memorable films before finally hitting the big time with "Of Human Bondage" in 1934.

The articulate, outspoken actress now lives in Westoh, Conn., where she spends her free time reading, gardening and cooking. She has been married four times, the last to actor Gary Merill, ended in a 1961 divorce. She has two children.

Recently on television, Miss Davis has starred on NBC in "The Dark Secret of Harvest Home," "Family Reunion" and "Skyward."

Maureen Stapleton, winner of an Emmy, Oscar and a Tony Award, is featured as Nurse Emma Kleslich in the mini-series LITTLE GLORIA... HAPPY AT LAST, to air on the "NBC Sunday Night at the Movies" on Oct. 24 and concluding on the "NBC Monday Night at the Movies" Oct. 25.

BUT DO YOU KNOW THESE SIGNS?

Life is full of signs. Signs that advise. Signs that warn. Signs that protect us. When it comes to cancer there are important signs you should also know.

- Thickening or lump in breast or elsewhere.
- Obvious change in wart or mole.
- Unusual bleeding or discharge.
- Nagging cough or hoarseness.

Be aware of the possible signs of cancer. The odds are in your favour and improve if you act on what you know. Contact your local Canadian Cancer Society Education volunteer today.

There's a reverse generation gap going on at the Keaton household on NBC's new comedy series FAMILY TIES. Parents Michael and Elyse (Michael Gross and Meredith Baxter Birney), are former 1960s radicals who have settled down and are now busy raising three very conservative children, played by (l. to r.) Justine Bateman, Tina Yothers and Michael J. Fox. In the "Summer of '82" episode, son Alex has his first serious relationship and it happens to be with a college student, who he later sees with another man. Amy Steel guest stars.

Catherine Hicks, who won an Emmy nomination for her portrayal of Marilyn Monroe in "Marilyn: The Untold Story" stars as Amanda Tucker in the new CBS Wednesday night series TUCKER'S WITCH. Miss Hicks and Tim Matheson are featured as a husband and wife detective team, with a twist — she's also a witch. Barbara Barrie is also featured.

'To Hear' features earful of facts

Oscar- and Tony-winning actor Joel Grey hosts "To Hear," a special hour-long documentary on PBS Wednesday, Oct. 27.

Hearing conservation and the pleasures and hazards of sound will be the topics of discussion. The program will also deal with the subjects of deafness and hearing impairment. Hearing impairment has reached epidemic levels in our nation and "To Hear" strides to make the public aware of the potential dangers of sound.

Here are a few of the facts: One out of every 100 persons has extreme difficulty understanding speech. One in every 1,200 babies is born with a hearing defect. Fifty percent of adults over the age of 65 have a hearing handicap. However, close to 2 million hearing impaired people can be helped by surgery and medication.

The special was filmed on location in San Francisco, Monterey, Calif., New York and Washington, D.C. Film footage utilizing state-of-the-art computer animation takes the viewer inside the human ear to see how it receives and reacts to sounds encountered in everyday life.

Funding for "To Hear" was supplied by the Grace Foundation. It is their initial venture into underwriting a public television show. Additional support has been provided by the Corporation for Public Broadcasting.

Despite cold weather and heavy rains, Aldergrove Legionaires managed to outscore the strong S.U. squad Saturday.

Hunters beat weather against Bullets

Under atrocious weather conditions, the Alpha Hunters and the LYSA Bullets gave their all in a hard fought game. The finer points of the game were lost in these conditions and the team that made fewer errors would be the victor. A fine solo goal by Nathan Jenzen gave the Hunters an early lead and a goalmouth scramble shortly after saw Murray Pybus centre from the left, David Morgan helping it on and James Mailer putting it into the net. Half-time 2-0 for the Hunters.

After the break with the wind and rain at their backs, the Bullets pressed forward and it was a fine shot that gave them their first goal. The Hunters, at this stage, were looking rather disjointed but on a break down the left, the ball was played to Mike Petrie and from 20 yards he scored a "peach" of a goal, chipping over the goalkeeper to make it 3-1.

The game, at this point, was playing second fiddle to the weather and it was the Bullets who took advantage of some scrappy play and made the final score 3-2. It was a pleasure, for everyone particularly the spectators, when the referee blew for full-time leaving the Hunters still unbeaten after 5 games. Man of the match, for his 100 percent effort whenever he was asked to play was Peter Dyck.

Next week the Aldergrove Alpha Hunters travel to Tacoma in what should be a fun weekend for both players and parents alike.

Skyhawks show character

On Saturday Oct. 9 at Parkside the "Energensis Control System" Skyhawks showed their coaches and parents that character plays a big role in the game of soccer. Against the best competition so far this year, the Skyhawks played to a tie, 1 to 1. langley scored first but thanks to great goal-tending by Danny Broughton, that was their only goal. Our defence of Grant Kramer, Paul Gillanders and Christopher Daley played smart soccer with Richaard Moore playing "Safety full back" to help stop any more Langley goals.

Skyhawk's half-backs, Thomas Castonguay and Hayes Beckett controlled the middle of the pitch with special mention to Jesse Percival playing some of his best soccer as his checking abilities shone bright. Up front, Lance Delves with Danny Parkinson played well on the left wing with some good spurts of speed. Ryan Leibel, playing center, scored the Skyhawks goal by displaying some good footwork and slipping the ball in the goal, just beating Langley's goal keeper.

The forward line is to be congratulated on some fine effort during the game as they applied tremendous pressure on Langley's goal tender. Darcy Wakelyn made some fantastic crosses. Special notice goes to Mickey Reid who, playing with a very painful sore on his thigh, played his best game as a Skyhawk. Mickey made some great individual plays as he was twice robbed of a goal by just inches, as his booming shots just failed to cross the goal line.

The coaches are very pleased with the "heart" shown during this game.

Legionaires keep their win

Prior to the game which was played Saturday, October 16, at Parkside, the S.U. Scorpions and the Legionaires were tied for first place. And for the first half, it was no contest, as Chris Bell made a pass to Andy Brown who put the ball on the foot of Dwayne Kraus, and the score was 1 to 0 for the Legion team at the three-minute mark. Brian Brady stole the ball at midfield and passed to Paul Liebel, who in turn passed to Dwayne Kraus, and it was 2 - 0 for the Legionaires at the five-minute mark. Both teams settled down as the rains came, but again Brian Brady got the ball and passed to Andy Brown, and on to Dwayne Kraus for his hat trick, and the score was 3 - 0 for the Legionaires.

During the second-half, the cold weather took hold, and Greg Zembik refused to play any more, so went off the field. That left ten players, as Danny Wakelyn and Clint Kramer didn't come to the game. It started to rain harder, and with only ten men it soon became the advantage for the Scorpions who scored two quick goals, and it was 3 - 2 for the Legionaires. With the defence of John Bencinger and Adrian Reglen, and spear-headed by Ray Maday, the ball was kept out of our end, and Chris Bleau in goal made three stops from the twelve yard penalty mark to retain the win.

Due to the Seattle Soccer Exchange, there will be no practice this week. Instead, all players and those parents who are planning to go, are to meet Saturday morning at 10:30 a.m. at the Legion parking lot, from where they will then set out for their trip to the United States, for their game on Sunday.

Lightweights come strong

This being the first sports article on the girls performance this year, I would like to highlight their efforts to this date in time. The team started out slow this year by tying the first two games, but have since come on strong by winning the last three games including this past Sunday's encounter with the Guilford Devils. This game was played at Creekside field in Aldergrove. The girls showed great hussle and aggressive play. It started out fast with the Lightweights scoring almost immediately by Kim Green. Shortly following this Teresa Ramsey was in fine position to score again. The Devils however got into the game by scoring a penalty kick from just outside the eighteen yeard line. This first half ended in a score of 2 to 1 for Aldergrove. The second half started with the Lightweights going to the attack quickly. With the hard work of the forwards it resulted in a beautiful goal by Laurie Williams. This was followed shortly by our new left wing Sofie Priebe scoring a perfectly set up goal. The Devils did manage to get one more goal before the final whistle. However the Lightweights won with the score being 4 to 2.

At this time I would like to commend all the girls on a great game.

Legionettes vindicate themselves in games versus Spitfires

This game was to be a test for the nets as the last time these teams met it was rather one-sided with the Legion sponsored Aldergrove team on the short end of a 4-1 score.

At kick-off time the weather was not the best with dull overhead skies. The home team nets were anything but dull with the play going from end to end with the Spitfires having some good chances were held at bay by a stubborn home-side defense. Ricklands the goalie being ably helped by Olaffson and Aitken, fullbacks. The half line of Hatchwell, Beckett and Raymer turned aside their attempt. It was not long before the Nets found the net with Stacey Markle scoring a well taken goal finishing some hard work by the forward line. Stacey had a hand in the second goal squaring the ball across the goal. Two or three Aldergrove forwards tried to finish the move. Allison Mailer got the tally with a well taken, if somewhat lucky goal. The Spitfires, although down, were by no means out and showed why they won this division last year came right back and scored a nice goal. Stacey Markle, who at this time was showing a lot of her old form, was quick to place the ball behind the opposing goal keeper only to have it brought back for offside.

Halftime Legionettes 2, Spitfires 1.

By this time the rain was relentless and the spectators who braved it were treated to a real gutsy performance by both teams. The Spitfires reved their engine and found the Legionettes standing around, tied the game at two apiece. About 8 minues to go the Spitfires got the go ahead goal in spite of an excellent diving attempt by Chelley Rickards. She got her hands to the ball but couldn't stop its progress.

The final score Aldergrove 2, Spitfires 3.

As a comparison to the previous game the Legionettes, although not victorious in the game, came out winners in prestige in this writer's mind.

WARNING

A cozy fireplace can be dangerous.

Protect your family from carbon monoxide poisoning!

Carbon monoxide poisoning is a very real hazard in many homes throughout British Columbia. This odourless, invisible killer is produced when combustion takes place without a proper supply of air. With the recent drive to conserve heat and energy, many homes have been made much more air-tight, and with the combination of a burning fireplace, a gas-burning furnace and the normal complement of appliances and exhaust fans in operation, a potentially lethal situation can occur. Although gas furnaces normally have their own air supply, it is often not sufficient to provide the additional air demands of fireplaces and exhaust fans. A fireplace should have its own air supply duct, or a window should be opened in the room where a fireplace is being used. Don't take chances — learn about the hazards of carbon monoxide. Have a qualified heating expert check your home for its air supply need.

If further information is required, contact your local Gas Safety inspector.

Ross McKim returns to Canada for dance

The Burnaby Arts Centre is pleased to feature internationally renowned dancer - choreographer Ross McKim in two performances Saturday, October 23. On stage at the James Cowan Theatre (6450 Gilpin Street in Burnaby), Ross will perform at a children's matinee at 1:00 p.m. and a full-length evening show at 8:00 p.m.

Ross McKim has just returned to his home in Canada. Trained in Vancouver, B.C. and then at the Royal Ballet School in London, Ross joined the Royal Danish Ballet when he was 17. He also danced with the National Ballet of Canada and London Contemporary Dance Theatre before forming his own company "English Dance Theatre". Ross McKim has danced and choreographed his way to rave reviews on several continents and has been heralded by some critics as England's most accomplished and beautiful dancer.

Don't miss these two very special performances on Saturday, October 23. The afternoon performance entitled 'Dances From Dracula' is geared towards children. The evening performance is a full-length show consisting of original choreography to music by artists such as B.B. King, Joan Armatrading, Mozart, Brahms, Beethoven and Pink Floyd.

Reservations for both shows are available by calling 291-6864. Be sure to catch one or both of these two very special performances and welcome Ross in his return to Canada.

Sponsored by Burnaby Recreation and Cultural Services.

Art appreciation and awareness seminar in Fort museum

Artists, collectors, connoisseurs or investors will benefit greatly if they take advantage of a fine opportunity being presented on October 23 and 30, in the art appreciation seminar at the Langley Centennial Museum and National Exhibition Centre, corner of Mavis and King Streets in Fort Langley.

Each session will commence at 10 a.m. and following a lunch break at noon, resume until about 3:00 p.m. Studies will include awareness of how to look at art, improving your quality of judgement and understanding, and a question period will follow each category. Slides and films with actual art works will enable comparisons of examples from Canadian, European and native arts and crafts.

Susan Stewart, art consultant from Vancouver, has successfully influenced and led many such exciting seminars. Every respondent who has participated in her programmes, has recommended it to friends, and as such, the Langley Arts Council, in cooperation with the Langley Centennial Museum and N.E.C. is proud to host this seminar to interested persons in our community.

The fees are very nominal at eight dollars per session, or as a package rate of all three workshops given for twenty dollars. Coffee or tea will be provided in the museum; a bagged luncheon should be taken.

Register today by phoning the L.A.C. office at 534-0781, to avoid any dissappointments, as allowed space in the exhibition centre in the museum is limited to 25 participants.

Fashions of the past at Newlands

If you have ever wondered how fashion conscious ladies managed to squeeze themselves into the bizare dresses of the eighteenth and nineteenth century, a rare opportunity will be presented on Wednesday, October 20th, at 8:00 P.M. in the Newlands Golf Club's banquet room.

Ivan Sayer, from Vancouver, who has collected historical and Canadian West costumes dating as early as 1750 - 1960, will also commentate on the various styles and roles played by women of society in regards to evidence of how the roles have changed in the conceptions of beauty and glamour.

Wierd and wonderful undergarments such as corsets, hoops, bustles, crinolines and girdles throughout the 19th and 20th centuries - all the devices used to assist with the beautiful appearances, will be modelled before the magnificent brocades, silks, satins, and other dresses are shown. Many of the gowns in Ivan's unique collection are from Western Canada, and some also from countries in Europe, unveiling pages of historical fashions, and will undoubtedly amuse, challenge and visually delight visitors of all ages.

Fashions of the present day and season will also be included in the events of this gala evening, with creations in lingerie and fall styles shown with the compliments of Ella's Clothes Closet.

Tickets, selling for $16.00, which includes a delicious dinner, are still available at Ella's Clothes Closet, 4070 - 200 Street, Langley Home Decorating, 20593 Fraser Highway, Warkentin's Jewellery in the Aldergrove Centre mall, Langley Centennial Museum & N.E.C., corner of Mavis & King Streets in Fort Langley, or from the Langely Arts Council's Office, 5202 - 204 Street, (phone 534-0781 first).

Those wishing to enjoy the dinner and no-host bar (starting at 5:30 p.m.), are urged to get their tickets as a deadline has been set for Saturday, October 16th. Admission for only the fashion shows at 8 P.M. will be five dollars at the door.

Zaccheus

ALDERGROVE - World Wide Pictures will present the musical motion picture of Zaccheus at 7:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, October 23 and 24, in the Aldergrove Gospel Chapel.

The Billy Graham film is the perfect family experience, according to the producer, with the assistance of Ralph Carmichael's usual musical inspirational background.

"Through the use of colorful life-like puppets and imaginative scenery, you'll discover in a little different way what happened to one family when Jesus came for a visit," said film writer Jack Coleman.

There will be a ten-minute preview of the Joni motion picture at 7:15 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

Admission is free at the Aldergrove Gospel Chapel, located just west of the Aldergrove high school.

Fort Langley CN station move to be discussed

FORT LANGLEY - Proposals for moving the CN station will be one of the issues discussed at the Langley Heritage Society meeting on October 27, and the group's executive is asking the public for a good turnout.

In a September meeting with CN officials, mayor Bill Blair and local heritage groups learned that the rail company would definitely not allow any public or long-term private use of the building on its present location. They cited safety reasons. However, CN did tell local representatives that plans to demolish or remove the building would be put on hold for another year.

Two alternate sites for the station were then discussed. One spot, still on CN right-of-way, is about 50 feet back from the present foundations. Another is a triangle of land at Mavis Street and River Road.

"There are pros and cons to both places that involve cost, safety, road access and parking, and the visibility of the station as a Fort Langley landmark", says heritage society secretary Gordon Yusko. His group's executive feels that discussions about the move should keep the viability of the town's main street in mind.

Next Wednesday's heritage society meeting starts at 8:00 p.m. in the theatre at Fort Langley national historic park.

House session was short but productive

By BOB McCLELLAND, MLA

The House has adjourned after a short but busy session of the legislature. Several important pieces of legislation were passed, including the homeowners interest act which will provide interest relief of up to a maximum of six percentage points to all British Columbians who own a home or are planning to purchase one; the school services (interim) act which will assist school boards in reducing their 1982-83 budgets, without teacher layoffs or reduced classroom time; and the small business development act which will provide $200-million in low interest loans to small businesses.

The rate increase restraint act, another key piece of legislation which was passed, will limit rate increases by major public sector agencies and crown corporations. The legislation covers B.C. Hydro, B.C. Ferry Corporation, the B.C. Steamship Company, B.C. Transit, ICBC and the Workers' Compensation Board. Effective immediately, all rate increases in these areas will be held to six percent for a one year period. This action will be of benefit to all British Columbians by ensuring that their electricity rates, ferry fares and bus fares will not go up by more than six percent in the next twelve months. In today's economic situation individuals, companies and governments are accepting paycuts or decreases in revenues and it seems only fair that crown corporations should also fall into line and work to make their operations more efficient. Limiting rate increases to six percent will ease the burden on every citizen of British Columbia and on the small businesses which are the backbone of our economy and the engine of our economic recovery.

The financial administration act (no. 2) provides the minister of finance with the opportunity to raise funds for our housing and mortgage program through the sale of treasury bonds. This bill will allow the government to borrow funds at affordable rates and is not intended to commit us to long-term debt.

Our government's job creation and economic recovery plans are outlined in a booklet available from my constituency office or other government offices. A central component of our recovery plan is our employment training program. Along with our programs to create new jobs, I recently announced a joint federal-provincial program which will offer simulated on-the-job training for unemployed apprentices. This new program is designed to help meet the problems created by long layoffs by creating simulated on-the-job training

Alderhaven elect officers

By IRENE ORWICK

ALDERGROVE - There was a good attendance at the October 5 general meeting at Alderhaven. Harold Ellis read the minutes of the last meeting and after all business was taken care of the election of officers for the coming year took place. Mr. Misfeldt was elected president, Helen Ulmer vice president and Cathie Richardson treasurer. They were all returned to office by acclamation. Mrs. Petty was elected secretary, Laura Johnson for hospitality and kitchen job, with Edith Sundberg her assistant. Others are to help out whenever the need for extra help arises.

Sitting at the pretty birthday table were our little sweetheart of Alderhaven, Annie Smee (103 years young), Minnie Franklin, Helen Ulmer, A Evans, C. Cech and A. H. McNeil.

Thanks to Rita Ford for the large box of cucumbers that soon disappeared.

Trickery, magic and sleight of hand

FORT LANGLEY - On Sunday, October 31 at 2:30 and 3:15 p.m., magician Glen Andrews will be performing at the Langley Centennial Museum. Broken objects will be transformed, magically, to become whole. Mysteriously, objects will be made to disappear to later reappear in very surprising places. Baffling and highly entertaining, this Halloween event will be enjoyed by the entire family.

Visitors are also reminded to visit the museum and to see the exhibition centre's current show, Woodworkers art. Hand tools used by craftsmen in the 19th century are featured.

Museum is located at the corner of Mavis and King Streets. It is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday and Saturday, and from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

ALDERGROVE O.A.P.O. NEWS

Regional reps meet

By ERNEST CLUETT

ALDERGROVE - The regional meeting, held in the OAP hall Thursday, Oct. 14, proved to be very interesting. There were eight branches represented and each one gave an account of their activities. Jack Baker, the guest speaker, was rather taken back over the United Elders mailing out a package deal without discussing the matter with the provincial board. It would seem that the mail-out was an attempt by another organization, namely the United Elders, to get into the act. Jack advised to hold off mailing in your $10 till things are clarified. The Lifecard, Survival Card, Holiday Club, etc. are almost worthless. The Elder Statesman will be coming to the hall each month as it used to do and your membership in branch 71 is to be $3 paid by each member. If you read the blurb carefully, United Elders is not the Lottery Foundation nor the pensoners provincial organization.

Trudeau's threat that cuts to the family allowances and the old age pensions may be necessary to balance the finances of the country, are not to be taken lightly. We hope to have a resolution from you, the members, against the cutting of the pension, and stating clearly your opposition to the measure if it is introduced. This resolution once passed will be sent to the provincial board. Bear in mind that while you are facing the possibility of a cut in the old age pension, 800,000-plus of your employees are parading around saying that a $1 per hour increase plus increased benefits has a nice ring to it. I wonder if we will have to sacrifice a share of our $245 per month to help pay the teachers who are in the $2,500.00 to $3,000.00 bracket. And don't forget the poor underprivileged on the wage scale, the post office. They will be most anxious to get a slice of your pension to maintain their lifestyle.

Visitors to the Saturday evening dance were Bob and Eunice Weightman and Charley and Elma Puhl, all of Abbotsford. The door prize was won by Nap Lafonds and the spot went to Walter and Ina Roberts. The birthday of Helen McKelvie was suitably celebrated.

The choral group under emcee Pat Prozesky will sing at the Cottage in Abbotsford on October 18 and at Langley Lodge on Oct. 19. In addition the band under emcee Lloyd Curson will play for dancing at the Surrey Memorial hospital on October 20 at 7:30 p.m.

The choral group sang and the band played at Alderhaven on October 13. The occasion was the coming birthday of Mrs. Smee who the following week would be 103 years old. A plentiful lunch was served by the ladies to end the festive evening.

Of interest to old time residents of the South Otter road is that Mrs. Smith, a long time resident of the Warner Road, is now in Langley Lodge. She will shortly be 101 years old.

Doris says she is a very neat girl. Not one wrinkle out of place.
