THE BIG BANG

What will it do to Langley?

By IAN CAMERON

MURRAYVILLE - An Aldergrove resident says he would like to find out what would happen to Langley if the Big One should be dropped on Bangor, Washington.

Dave Allison would like for a council committee to find out, but aldermen and women say that is outside their jurisdiction and that the regional district should find out. Central Fraser Valley region is co-ordinating civil defence.

"It is a very timely request," agrees Mayor Bill Blair, when Allison makes reference to the recent airing of the controversial television movie, 'The Day After'.

Neither Allison nor Blair, however, make any suggestions as to how a group of Fraser Valley citizens would come to a conclusion in such a matter without bringing it to an actual test.

"It is too horrifying to even think about," shudders Blair.

But because of the movie (which was watched by millions of television viewers throughout North America and Europe), Allison actually wins a sort of victory. It is the third time this year he has come before council to speak on nuclear disarmament, and where he previously has been rebuffed, councilors this time decided to refer his request to civil defence. "They should take some action," says Blair.

Allison would have liked for Langley township to hold a referendum on the nuclear issue but councilors refused to listen to that.

The Aldergrove member of the Langley Association for Nuclear Disarmament says that he does not believe that mankind is any closer to a nuclear holocaust than it was few months ago, but at the same time "to prevent a nuclear war would be a miracle of mankind, since we have been in a pattern of fighting wars for centuries and our entire civilization has war entrenched in it."

In order to avoid armageddon, people will have to become involved politically, says Allison. "The first step is a referendum at the municipal level." He admits that "such a referendum will have little meaning, but it would be like sticking your toe in the water for peace, and maybe if people do get involved mankind can do something the human race has never done and take a final plunge that will prevent war this time and for all time."

Councilors, who are known to have widely diversified political leanings, all agree. It is referred to civil defence.

And what should be the scope of the commission as suggested by Allison?

"Its mandate would be that it simply and honestly explain to everyone in Langley what it (a nuclear explosion over Bangor) would do to this community."

Bangor is the U.S. naval base on the eastern shores of the Olympic peninsula. Some people believe it to be a prime target in a major confrontation between the super-powers, since it is the home base for the Trident nuclear submarines. In practicality it would probably mean little to an enemy to destroy this base since the subs and their nuclear weaponry are seldom there but rather deployed on the ocean bottoms of the world for months on end. The base is located 95 miles from Murrayville as the crow - or the missile - flies.

Sirens will sound

ALDERGROVE - Tomorrow afternoon, Thursday, December 1, the sirens will sound throughout the community.

Residents, however, are not to be alarmed, says a spokesman for the local RCMP.

It is only a test.

Sirens will be activated at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Accounting would scare banker

VANCOUVER - Although government expenditures make up roughly half of Canada's gross national product, Canadian taxpayers are in the dark about how government at both the federal and provincial levels spend their money, according to Bev Harrison.

Harrison, president of the 4,500-member Institute of Chartered Accountants says that if a large corporation accounted for its money using the same methods as the government of Canada, "the securities commission would not permit it to sell securities to the public and financial institutions would be wary of lending it any money."

Noting that taxpayers are a government's shareholders, Harrison is pressing for "an understandable and complete accounting of government spending. Because of the way governments report their expenditures, the public can't tell whether their money is going toward capital items or whether it's spending money on operating expenses.

"Doing it the right way allows people to see whether the government is running a deficit to buy something or simply to keep its head above water," he says.

Harrison says the interest Canadians pay on government borrowings amounts to more than $15-billion. "That $15-billion could be going to universities, health care, defense and other programs if we had a balanced budget," he says.

"Since government expenditures are roughly half of Canada's gross national product, an individual can assume that every time a dollar is spent at the retail level, fifty cents is taxes in one form or another. We are among the most over-governed, over-taxed people on earth."

LIGHTWEIGHTS UNDER ROOF

Indigenous sport explained

By WILLIAM BARTLETT

VANCOUVER - Slowly they came, at first. Then, as does a rain-swollen river, this tide of humanity some 5,000 strong overflowed the mezzanine and, like a human waterfall, cascaded down the bleachers to half fill the once empty reservoir of seats around the field. The heavens went black, an eerie mist drifted across the field, and like the twinkling of a thousand stars, the spotlights reflected off the giant silver moon. A Star Wars theme ruptured the silence and from deep within this man-made environment came the voice. 'Ladies and gentlemen, boys and girls, soccer fans, welcome to the Pacific Coliseum and the Vancouver Whitecaps' first exhibition indoor soccer game and fan appreciation night.' Thus was the stage set for what was to be an exciting, entertaining, fun-filled and memorable night for a special contingent of soccer fans from the wee hamlet of Aldergrove. 'Tonight', the voice continued, 'the Vancouver Whitecaps are proud to present for your enjoyment, from the south shore area - The Sur-Del Firebirds, and representing the Central Fraser Valley - the Aldergrove Lightweights.' As if cued by the electrical atmosphere of the fans, the light increased to highlight the teams as they paraded onto the field. A bright array of green and gold Firebirds and the blue and white Lightweights began their warm-ups.

A moment, if I may, to explain this indigenous North American sport. Indoor or five-a-side soccer is played in four fifteen minute quarters on an ice rink covered with plywood and astro turf. Two teams of five players and a goalkeeper engage in extremely quick and exhausting sport. There are virtually no rules or stoppages of play, and what few stoppages might occur (ball out of bounds or three line passes) are re-started by free kicks. All penalties that pertain to regular soccer apply here except that instead of penalty kicks being taken, the offending player must sit out for two minutes as in hockey. This hybrid offspring of the marriage of hockey and soccer is fast, frantic, frustrating, and fun and is a most exciting and emotion charged spectator sport. This was the game that our own Lightweights were introduced to that eventful night.

It is extremely difficult for a team to learn the techniques required to play indoor soccer in the short span of one game, but the Lightweights were not long in picking up some of the finer points of play and proved to be worthy adversaries to a team that had been playing this sport for a number of years now.

Afforded the opportunity to sit on the Lightweights' bench I became so engrossed in the play that, and here I make my apologies, I completely forgot to record the goal scorers and play descriptions. This is of little consequence, for the calibre of play and artistry of the girls was most impressive. The fact that the Lightweights suffered their first loss of the year was overshadowed by the enthusiasm and support of the many Aldergrove fans in attendance. The 7 - 2 loss was comparable to their heroes, the Whitecaps' 8 - 4 loss to Tulsa a few days previous. All in all, the girls did very well indeed. On behalf of the Lightweights, coach and players, a special thanks to the Aldergrove Soccer association executive, players, and their parents who travelled to Vancouver - their support was most appreciated.

The final whistle signalled the end of a game, but the beginning of a new experience for the Lightweights. The Sur-Del Firebirds extended an invitation for our ladies to play a return match,

Downsizing needs help

VICTORIA - The provincial government is planning to hire more high-priced help so it "can cope with the down-sizing of government," Premier Bill Bennett said last week.

In a year of belt-tightening the Social Credit government has left numerous vacancies unfilled in senior levels of administration. Bennett said some of those "key vacancies" will be filled soon.

"We've made changes and we will be making significant changes to personnel and people very soon," he said.

There are at least four deputy minister jobs open - in the intergovernment relations, labor, highways and attorney general's minstries - at a salary of about $65,000 a year.

In addition, there are openings in some senior management spots, including press secretary to Bennett.

Last week, Bob Plecas who played a major role in the government's contract negotiations with the B.C. Government Employees' Union, was promoted to deputy minister in the provincial secretary's ministry from secretary of federal-provincial relations.

Industrial land needed

VANCOUVER - The demand for industrial land in Greater Vancouver is expected to be strong during the period from 1986 to 1996, according to a study released by the Greater Vancouver regional district's planning department.

The study found that over the next 17 years virtually all of the 11,000 acres of land that is available for industrial development may be used up. Much of this land is located in Surrey Richmond and Delta and most of it is vacant.

States the report: 'given that some land in the industrial designation is currently considered difficult to develop, there could be a land supply problem towards the end of the century...'

It recommends that "due to the difficulty of gaining approval for new industrial areas and the need for industrial land beyond the end of the century, future additions to the amount of land in the industrial designation...should continue to be encouraged."

The study was undertaken as a part of a joint project involving the GVRD, the three other regional districts in the lower mainland and the provincial ministry of industry and small business development. It considered the demand for industrial land throughout the lower mainland. A follow-up study to recommend methods of meeting future industrial land demands is underway.

Most of the demand study's findings are based on results of investigations carried out by consultants Currie, Coopers and Lybrand.

Over 84 percent of the 28,310 acres of land currently in industrial use in the lower mainland is within the GVRD.

The current demand for industrial land in the GVRD is well below the 450 acres per year average in the period 1976-1981, a result of the difficult economic times. But based on historical consumption rates and interviews with the heads of major industrial operations, the demand should rise sharply to about 1,000 acres per year between 1986 and 1991 and close to double that rate from 1991 to 1996.

The biggest demand will come from the wholesale trade sector, miscellaneous manufacturing and metal fabricating.

Farmers and taxes

ALDERGROVE - An opportunity for part time farmers in the area to discuss recent Revenue Canada audits will present itself on Wednesday, Dec. 7 when Roger Patillo will hold a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. at Country Feeds, 25236 Fraser Highway.

Patillo urges part time farmers to "come and discuss what can be done about arbitrary and preconceived audits and re-assessments."

Lesson learned

VANCOUVER - An Ottawa-based business lobby group says it's optimistic that business and labor have learned the lessons of the recession and will accept voluntary wage and price restraint once the federal government's six-and-five program ends.

If the two sectors haven't learned their lesson, the Canadian economy will be seriously damaged and our ability to compete internationally will be hurt, says Thomas d'Aquino, president of the Business Council of National Issues.

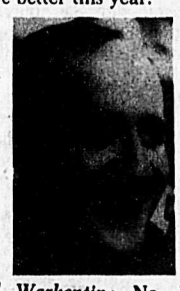
Town Talk

By LYNDA FRANZ

Today there is only a little more than three weeks until Christmas. Have you done your shopping yet? Part of your shopping? Or are you waiting until the last minute buying your gifts and foodstuffs for the festive season? Will you be spending more, or less, than you did in 1982?

Nels Borglund: I've done some of my Christmas shopping. I'm spending the same amount of money.

Lorraine Durkie: I've pretty well completed my shopping. I'm spending more because my finances are better this year.



El Warkentin: No. I've been too busy to buy my Christmas gifts. I'll probably be spending more.

Trudy Campen: No. I'm going to Mexico and doing my Christmas shopping there. I'll be spending way more. This year I won't have to cook Christmas dinner.

Lorraine Martin: I haven't done my shopping yet. No time - no money. I will be spending less.

Aldergrove Lightweights and Aldergrove Centre's "Cheeky" at the Pacific Coliseum.

Game was fun for all

same being enthusiastically accepted. The girls so impressed various coaches in the audience that invitations for friendly games were extended by teams from Surrey and New Westminster. The Lightweights have been introduced to a new aspect of soccer and are on the way to making many new friends in the sport.

One might assume the excitement of playing before the Whitecaps' fans in the Pacific Coliseum would totally drain the Lightweights, but such was not the case. The girls, so emotionally charged, refused to quit and after the game continued to provide entertainment for the many younger fans. By way of showing support for the Lightweights, the Aldergrove Centre Mall sent their pet chipmunk 'Cheeky' to act as team mascot. Cheeky proved to be such a success with the young fans that throughout the Whitecaps game this 'mall muppet' continually signed autographs for an unending trail of smiling mini-soccer players. It is just such fun-oriented ideas like Cheeky that provide the sport of soccer with that little something extra for both players and fans. A special thank you to the manageress, Fiona Brett, and the many merchants and their staff of the Aldergrove Centre Mall for their support. It is most appreciated and will long be remembered.

As if this were not enough, the girls stayed after the big game to meet many of the Whitecaps players and obtain their autographs. How starry-eyed our young ladies were when Tammy's charm melted the heart of Carl Valentine, Lisa received a big hug from Steve L., Tino ensured that he had a minute for each and every girl present, and Ade Coker showered one and all with the warmth that endears him to his new fans. It was a tired but happy group of Lightweights that finally closed the Coliseum at 10:30 and prepared for the long ride home; heads filled with still more memories of their involvement in the sport of soccer.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

Aldergrove wins Keg classic

ALDERGROVE-This past weekend saw the Aldergrove senior girls basketball team off to a great start in defeating Queen Elizabeth 80-28 and Richmond 64-30 to win their home opening tournament.

The Aldergrove girls unleashed their patented man-to-man defense and easily handled the Queen Elizabeth crew from Surrey. Leading the way for Aldergrove were Kim Sauder with 17, Yvonne Coletta with 12 and Jane Huff with 11. Replaying for Queen Elizabeth was Sandra Howard with six points.

The championship game pitted the girls against a much taller squad from Richmond who boast 6'2" Nicole Koevoets, a provincial under 17 player who represented B.C. in a tournament in Arizona this past summer. However, Koevoets was held in check by Aldergrove's Jane Huff who scored 16 points while only allowing Koevoets 10 points. Following Huff in the scoring for Aldergrove was Tracy Waterfield with 14 and Kim Sauder with 10.

Richmond advanced to the championship with a win over a strong Mountain squad 46-42 with Koevoets scoring 17 points and Caralyne Goos scoring 14 for Mountain.

Mountain took third place with a 87-40 win over Queen Elizabeth Leading the way for Mountain were Loretta Isaak with 29 and Caralyne Goose with 21 points. Sandra Howard replied with 15 points for Queen Elizabeth.

On the boys' side of the tournament the opening day saw Aldergrove pitted against Mouat from Abbotsford. In the most exciting game of the tournament Aldergrove played perhaps their best game of the year to date and won in a barn burner 79-18 with Jim Modjeski hitting Rod DeGianni for a lay-up with three seconds left.

In the next game Mission beat up on Sardis 85-39 to advance to the final against Aldergrove.

The tough defensive-minded Mission squad defeated Aldergrove 85-46 with D. Holm hitting for 22 points and Doug Kitsul hitting for 12 for the Totems.

The consolation game saw Sardis defeat Mouat 74-54 with T. Knopp scoring 18 while all star Rick Hiebert scoring 16 for Mouat.

The tournament added a new fixture to all Totem home games with a $100 shot from centre contest. All ticket holders have an opportunity to have their ticket drawn at half time. The winning ticket holder then comes to centre and shoots the ball at the basket - if successful wins $100.

The tournament committee wish to thank Jim Stewart and the Keg in the country for their continual support in making this tournament and early season a success.

Tween ringette ahead

ALDERGROVE - While thousands of people were watching the Lions lose by one lousy point a small handful of parents travelled to Port Coquitlam and watched the Aldergrove Tween B ringette team win by one victorious goal.

Nicole Thompson, first time ever in goal, repeatedly kept PoCo from scoring. Amanda Premack scored twice with one assist, with singles by Lisa Shalley, Lori Charlton, and Kim Glover. Assists went to Lori Charlton and Denise Machell.

The Lions couldn't do it, but the Aldergrove Tween B's sure could. Final score was 5 - 4.

Next game is Saturday at 9:30 a.m. against North Vancouver in the Aldergrove arena.

Tennis bubble opens

By ROY FRANCIS

ABBOTSFORD - Tennis players celebrated the Abbotsford area's first air supported structure Saturday as Fraser Valley Racquets opened its tennis bubble covering four courts.

The open house and ribbon cutting ceremony with Mayor George Ferguson highlighted an exciting day and over two months of concerted work by club members. The new facility along with two squash courts adds that extra dimension, all season tennis, to the club which it hopes will attract many players from the surrounding areas. A pro tennis match along with tours of the new complex added to the days activity.

The ribbon cutting ceremony officially opening the bubble attracted nearly 300 people. Exhibitions of squash were given throughout the day to round out the event.

The club will be hosting a club squash tourney this weekend starting Dec. 1 with finals Saturday, Dec. 3. A full schedule of social activities including tennis and squash has also been lined up for the month of December.

New pro-managers Leslie and Larry Scott will officially take over their positions Dec. 1. The club will be emphasizing a junior tennis program as well as a full schedule of adult activities in both tennis and squash. Membership and information can be obtained by calling 854-3284. The public is invited to tour the facility at any time.

Municipal winners to meet Monday

MURRAYVILLE - Inaugural meeting of the new Langley township council will be held in the municipality's committee room here at 3 p.m. on Monday, December 5.

Matsqui's inaugural meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. the same evening in the Clearbrook government centre on South Fraser Way.

There will be no meeting of Langley council on Monday, Dec. 26, being Boxing Day. Regular council meetings will otherwise be conducted during the month of December.

House prices up 7.6 percent

VANCOUVER - Average resale prices of homes across Canada have risen 7.6 percent in the last year, says a survey of October purchases in 67 areas by the Canadian Real Estate Association.

The average price was $78,249, but prices varied across the country with three provinces having averages of less than $50,000.

The average price of the standard three-bedroom bungalow the most popular housing form was $62,546. Purchases used in the survey were those processed through the realtors' multiple listing service.

Lightweights take eleventh straight win

ALDERGROVE - La Companie du Ballet d'Aldergrove, or as you may better know them, the Aldergrove Lightweights, took to the gravelled stage of Buckley Field to perform La Morte de la Notion. What audacity; compare soccer to ballet. Aha - I quote this description of ballet, 'the ballet offers a heady display of talents, the ability to blend natural gesture into choreographed gesture, so that the whole spectrum of its movement becomes expressive and eloquent and the instinctive feeling for the nuances of timing and placing give visual rhythm'. Couple this with the intense and subtle relationships between the performers and you aptly describe a game by the Aldergrove Lightweights.

Playing the role of Devil's Advocate in soccer, the Guildford Devils came with the notion that this would be their game; but La Forza del Destino could not be changed.

If you are strong on emotion, admire courage and dogged endurance, and delight in physical action, you should have been a spectator at the Guildford - Aldergrove match last Sunday. Both teams were magnificent. Teamwork, control, passing, and tackling were at an all time high throughout the game. So close was the play that the first half went right down to the wire before the bubble was burst. On a play built on common effort and enthusiasm, a cross from right wing located one of the principal forwards, Shannon Douglas. Shannon quickly 'pirouetted' to pass the ball back to the eighteen-yard box. Mid-fielder, Tammy Henderson executed a beautiful 'attitude devant' connected with the ball to send it sailing into the Guildford net. Moments later the whistle ended the half and the Lightweights took a one-goal lead to the bench.

The exuberance of both teams, the versatility of play, and the eventual closeness of the final score combined to make the second forty even more exciting than the first. A real heart stopper! Play was even until well into the half; at which time the Lightweights took the upper hand. Winning the ball in midfield, young Shannon Tracy beat a Guildford player and passed outside to a running Christi Merrell. The bright left winger coaxed the ball along the touch line, then, from twenty yards out, she lofted the sphere to a point just inside the far post to put the Lightweights out in front by two points.

Was it not Shakespeare who wrote "Shall you pace forth; your praise shall still find room". And so it came to pass, for Guildford did indeed press forth and found room to move, down Aldergrove's right wing. A beautiful 'pas de deux' from Anita inside to Twyla Warnick resulted in Guildford burying the ball in Aldergrove's net.

From this point on the game became truly allegro in pace. Guildford could well tie or possibly win the game, and the Lightweights seemed to sense this. Extra effort on their part was in order; that effort came in the person of Kim Green. Battling her way into the penalty area, Kim fired off a shot that rebounded off the Guildford keeper back to Kim and back into the net. With a comfortable two goal lead, the Lightweights seemed assured of another win, but alas, the game was not over yet.

Guildford, being a strong-hearted team, one in which hope springs eternal, came back to score once again. It was a stupendous effort by Twyla Warnock. Winning a tackle just outside the penalty area, Twyla moved ahead about twenty feet, then drove a hard low shot. Despite a good dive, Aldergrove's keeper was unable to prevent the ball from squeaking into the lower right hand corner. With the score now 3 - 2 the Lightweights had to really fight hard to maintain their slim lead. it must have seemed an eternity before referee Alex Friesen sounded the final whistle and awarded the Aldergrove Lightweights their eleventh straight victory.

I would be remiss at this point were I not to pay special tribute to two young Lightweights defenders who seldom wear the laurel crown; for this was truly their best game of the season. Quiet, self-assured, consistent, these adjectives describe Lianne Scanks, a young lady whose brilliance in the backfield often goes unpraised. Lianne's support for and of newcomer Lisa Barlett, enabled this young lady to turn in a remarkable performance. At one point Lisa stole the ball from the Guildford winger and maneuvered three quarters of the way down the field, culminating this extraordinary effort with an accurate pass to Teresa Ramsay in Guildford's area. To both these young and promising players, our congratulations for a game well played.

I fear that MacBeth's three witches have turned into the eleven devils of Guildford, for as they left the pitch I'm certain I heard them chant -

"When shall we meet again
In thunder, lightning or rain?
When the hurly-burly's done,
When the battle's lost and won,
That will be ere the set of sun."

Ere the set of this season these two teams battle once more. Given the vast improvement of the Guildford squad and the style of the Lightweights, this is one game I highly recommend to any and all soccer fans in the area. You will not be disappointed.

More than 600 friends and colleagues paid tribute to renowned B.C. physicist Dr. Gordon Shrum in Vancouver recently and were treated in return to a novel science demonstration. Shrum, 87, is shown here gargling with liquid nitrogen [minus 196 degrees Celsius] and emerging none the worse for wear. The gala $200-per-plate celebration raised money for a $1 million endowment -- Simon Fraser University's Gordon M. Shrum chair in science -- which will be used, in perpetuity, to fund a position at SFU for international-calibre scientists and teachers. Shrum, teacher, scientist and administrator extraordinaire, was SFU's first chancellor and the man charged in 1963 with building the university. Opened in 1965, SFU now serves almost 13,000 students.

Santa's coming!!!

ALDERGROVE - That jolly old gent from the north is planning a special visit to Aldergrove Centre Mall, and will be making his grand arrival on Saturday, December 3.

Because of how hard Rudolph and the rest of the guys have to work at this special time of the year, Santa is giving them a break and he will be arriving by means of a mule team and carriage, and will be driving down Fraser Highway from the Aldergrove Legion rather than flying through the skies as is usual.

The parade will start at the Legion at 10:30 a.m. and will arrive at the mall about half an hour later.

Parents should bring down the kids to say "Hi". There will be all sorts of goodies, and photographs will be available upon request.

Santa will be appearing regularly at the mall during the Christmas season and his hours will be posted in next week's Aldergrove Star.

Ho! Ho! Ho!

No 'blanket' exemption

MURRAYVILLE - During his last meeting on council this week, Ald. Dan Williamson said he failed to understand how a Langley curling club and a north Langley riding club could qualify for tax exemption.

Councilors were whipping two bylaws through their first three readings. Bylaws made community halls, curling club, Elks club and Boy Scouts tax exempt.

Ald. Carol Gran defended the move, saying that the clubs were non-profit organizations and therefore qualified for the special status.

Williamson, who lost the mayor's race to Bill Blair one week before, said that it would open the door for other non-profit groups to apply for similar status.

Gran said they already were tax exempt.

Williamson said that they were not.

"Name some (who are not)," said Gran.

Williamson said council would find out in short order, or at least within the next 12 months.

Ald. Muriel Arnason was also in opposition to the new bylaws. She said that she would prefer the retention of the old system under which councilors considered individual cases for grants in lieu of property taxes, rather than blanket tax exempt status.

The old system worked very well, she said.

Valley dog training grads

LANGLEY - Graduation for the fall classes of the Valley Dog Training club were held Thursday, November 17. The exercises were judged by Jacquie Oldham. In the beginner class, first place went to Mark Robinson with his Rhodesian ridgeback, Pansy, and third place to Terry Gardiner with her standard poodle, Taffy. A most improved handler award was given to Charlene O'Byrne with her Labrador-terrier cross, Lady. First place in the novice 'A' class went to Tom Jones, with his German shepherd, Sheena. In the novice 'B' class, Debbie Stewart with her border collie, Sparker was awarded first place. First place in the graduate novice class was Mandy Heiman with her doberman, Bud. Classes will resume again in January. Watch for the ad in this newspaper.

Aldergrove Ag meeting

ALDERGROVE - The regular meeting of the Aldergrove Agriculture Association will be held on Thursday, December 1, at 7:30 p.m. Meetings are held in the Aldergrove's Elk's hall on Fraser Highway.

At tomorrow's meeting plans will be discussed for the annual meeting and other programs for next year. Members are asked to be present and all other interested persons are welcome to attend.

Volunteer naturalists

VICTORIA - Langley Field Naturalists will add a thousand hours of volunteer labor to a $4,700 provincial grant for the development of the Forslund-Watson gift propery, a 24 hectare parcel of land donated to the people of British Columbia to be kept in perpetuity as a wildlife reserve. The property will be enhanced for wildlife and birds through the improvement of existing water sources and planting of trees and shrubs.

Birdman's friends to go

MURRAYVILLE - It looks like the 'birdman of Aldergrove' won't be allowed to keep his feathered friends after all.

Joran Erickson tried his best (even getting television coverage on the Vancouver channels) but to no avail. His racing pigeons will have to go.

This week Erickson again pleaded with aldermen to let him keep his birds at least until he could make another presentation to council. They decided, urged by Ald. Carol Gran, to re-affirm their earlier decision to ban the birds from the North Otter property.

Erickson's neighbors started complaining after the pigeons began to use their rooftops for landings and takeoffs.

Not to any city slicker, either

MURRAYVILLE - Norman McLellan built a small house on his two-acre property in Glen Valley. He did not bother to take out a building permit. This week he came to council asking what they could do for him.

"I want permission to live in the house," the independent-minded fisherman told councilors.

The one-bedroom cabin is built on the Fraser flood plain, meaning that if the dikes should erode during a spring freshet - like they did in 1949 - McLellan's small home might sail away.

"Will you hold us free from any responsibility?" asked Ald. Elford Nundal.

McLellan said he would.

And he would not sell the house to some unsuspecting city slicker, either.

"Will you document that?" asked Nundal.

McLellan replied in the affirmative.

Councilors referred the request to their planning committee for a full report.

Free pavement

MURRAYVILLE - "It would be a good thing for us to do if we can extract some dollars from this man to help our taxpayers and then we, in turn, can help him," commented Ald. Carol Gran.

She was referring to a presentation made by development manager M.F. Wilcox on behalf of the Horse and Rider pub in Brookswood. Wilcox has asked council to allow overflow parking from the 125-seat pub on nearby municipal property. Pub owners would be willing to pave the property, at no expense to the public, said Wilcox.

Deegan honored

VICTORIA - The University of Victoria held its fall convocation last Saturday.

More than 400 graduates received their degrees, including William Patrick Deegan (B Sc.) of Aldergrove.

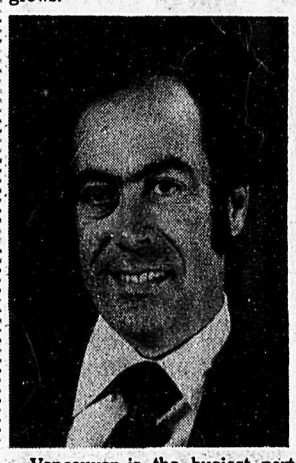
BC will benefit from program

By BOB McCLELLAND, MLA

All British Columbians will reap immeasurable benefits from the recent negotiated acceptance of the government's restraint program.

It is now generally accepted that restraint measures are essential to the economic recovery of this province. And, with the threat of massive labor unrest now resolved, the government is in a position to intensify its efforts to encourage the creation of new jobs for British Columbians. With government, business and organized labor all working towards the same goals, a climate is being created which will reinforce the province's reputation as a prime location for economic development. That work is underway.

The accident of geography has given British Columbia natural trading links to expanding and developing nations of the Pacific Rim. Many of those nations are already valued trading partners. Customers for our products will multiply as economic recovery grows.



Vancouver is the busiest port on the North American west coast. It is recognized internationally as a leading city and prime business centre. And the entire province will benefit from Expo 86, which will further enhance our growing reputation around the world.

B.C. Place is well on the way to becoming the most exciting downtown development anywhere in the world. Vancouver's new Automated Light Rapid Transit system will bring new technology to this province, while servicing our hustling lower mainland.

From the North East, special unit trains are already carrying coal to the new terminal at Prince Rupert. The massive project is ahead of schedule and under budget. The first Japanese vessel will be docking in Prince Rupert mid-December, to pick up north east coal and signal the climax of this dramatic mining project.

Despite these success stories the B.C. government won't rest on its laurels. The government is accelerating its trade efforts. It is working closely with businesses, both large and small, to develop new markets for our products.

In recent months, the government trade missions have gone to such countries as China, Japan, India, Korea, and the United Kingdom and Europe. We are building a solid reputation, as a province which can tackle such seemingly-impossible projects as North East Coal and Expo. Government and the private sector are working together to bring new buyers to this province.

In short, British Columbia is telling the world that it not only has the will and resolve to contain the cost and size of government. We are telling the world our province represents an investment environment that's second to none. In that kind of climate, with co-operation and clear thinking, British Columbia can only grow and prosper through the exciting years ahead.

Blessed types

Blessed are they who do not expect the editor to know everything - who tell him whenever an interesting event occurs - for they shall have a better newspaper for it.

Blessed are they who get their reports in early, for they shall occupy a warm spot in the editor's heart.

Blessed are the merchants who advertise regularly, for they have faith in their businesses, and their prosperity in their businesses, and their prosperity shall increase manyfold.

Blessed are those readers who pay their subscriptions promptly when they expire, so that the publishers can pay their bills when they are due.

Blessed are they who do not think they could run a newspaper better than the editor does, - yes, thrice blessed are they, because there are so few of them in the community.

Productivity declines sharply

If you were to ask your neighbors what they consider the worst economic news they have heard during the last couple of decades, it's a safe bet most would say the crippling recession of 1981-82.

They'd have a lot of logic on their side.

After all, it produced the toughest times seen since the Depression of the 1930s. Even now, a year after recovery appears to have begun, improvement still has to prove it's for real.

And there still are more than 1.2 million unemployed.

There's a group of experts, however, who will point to another culprit, especially given the longer time frame.

It's something called productivity - or, more accurately, its decline in Canada, especially in relation to the performances of other industrialized countries.

What exactly is productivity? It can be defined in a score of ways, but the most commonly accepted is the real value of output by a worker during a specified time period.

Suppose, for example, a worker for Widgets Co. Ltd. turns out 100 widgets during a 40-hour week.

The following week, he manages only 90 widgets. So productivity, measured by this worker's output, is down 10 percent.

The other side of the coin is that if he makes 110 widgets in a week, productivity is up 10 percent.

Using this definition - and many economists argue that the definition is unfair becaue it puts undue emphasis on the role of the worker - how has Canada done?

The question isn't academic, and it involves a lot more than being able to boast. "Hey, we're No. 1."

In today's increasingly competitive world of international trade, the country that can produce quality goods and services at the lowest costs is going to smother its competitors.

And the sad fact is that, since at least 1966, Canada's efficiency in production has consistently lagged behind the average of seven industrial countries checked by the Paris-based Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development.

The countries are the United States, Japan, Germany, France, Britain, Italy and Canada.

From 1966 to 1973, for example, productivity growth for these seven averaged 3.9 percent a year. Canada's was 2.5 percent.

From 1974 to 1978, the Big Seven's average growth was 1.5 percent; Canada's was 0.6 percent.

For 1979 to 1982? The Big Seven averaged a gain of only 0.9 percent, but Canada's productivity growth actually fell by 1.1 percent.

It's worth noting that, since 1966 when the OECD started its study, productivity in all the major industrialized countries has declined.

But Canada's record has declined more sharply. Some studies suggest that Canada is at the bottom of 21 countries eagerly engaged in international trade.

And, in terms of hope for future economic growth, everything comes back to being able to sell Canadian goods and services to other countries because - face it - Canada's domestic market is too small to support major industries by itself.

Why, then, has this decline happened and, more importantly, what can be done?

It isn't enough simply to ask Canadians to work harder. There's a lot more to being efficient than just working your butt off.

If you have to work with outdated equipment, for example, you're going to fall behind output from Japan or the US.

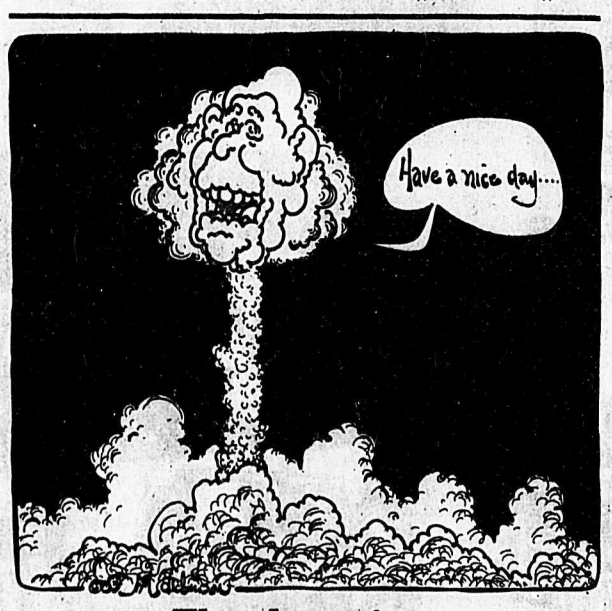
If management makes the wrong decisions, workers' efforts are going to be lost in the wind.

If governments don't see proper rules for allowing capital investment in the latest plants and equipment and supporting trade, encouraging workers to spend 18 hours a day at their assembly lines isn't going to achieve much.

Here's how the Economic Council of Canada put it in its recent annual review:

"Economic growth as a means to increased personal income rests fundamentally on the achievement of increased personal output."

The council had more to say, but its basic message is clear. Governments, business and labor had better get their act together.



The day after

By BRUCE KIRWIN

Our government has constructed an atomic shelter near Ottawa where the cabinet and other select officials will be safe from attack and able to direct and aid "the people" after the bombs have fallen.

This governmental concern for our future happily assumes that some Canadians will survive the day of disaster and that we will continue long after the devastation with the identical government we have now.

There is a silver lining even in the mushroom cloud.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Incentive taxes, not development charges are key to recovery

Editor, The Star, Sir,

Beneath your caption; You Stick It, in the Nov. 16 issue, you quote Ald. Carol Gran's comments re levies on land developers. This is a problem that recurs with increasing frequency as public development intensifies, and one that often has been addressed with bungling methods that have compounded the problem, resulting in a slowdown of development and an increase in unemployment.

The problem results from people being able to change land-use (by rezoning, etc.) to a more intensive application, and thereby reap an unearned income. For example, farm land at $5,000 an acre when rezoned for dwellings can be sold at $200,000 an acre. If we look at what puts value on a site we see that it is public activity by municipal authorities and private people too, that is the cause. If the public did not guarantee exclusive enjoyment of a site by means of a law of trespass, the title would be worthless. Roads, power, drainage, water, schools, parks, etc., all contribute to the total value. It seems only fair that titleholders should restore to the public what really belongs to all. In short, the rent of the bare site should be paid into public coffers. A development charge is no way to recapture it.

In many places this already has been recognised and acted upon. Australia, S. Africa, and recently the Pennsylvanian cities of McKeesport, Scranton, and Pittsburgh, are areas where much of this site-rent is being recaptured via the "property tax". The part that falls on improvements is greatly reduced or removed, and the portion that is levied against the value of the site is multiplied greatly. The virtues of this system have recently been publicized by the New York Times (May 13, 1983) and the magazine Fortune (Aug. 1983).

This tax-shift drastically reduces the price of land-titles, and so promotes construction of homes, stores and factories. It exerts pressure on downtown landowners to revitalise the decayed core of cities without subsidies and their public spirit is not penalised by taxes on their structures. We end up with an "incentive tax" that is easily assessed and collected, and cannot be "stuck to the consumer".

The element of this incentive tax, as it is known in Pennsylvania, - that should recommend it to those interested in municipal finance is its ability to collect for the public, the publicly-created site-income year by year. Development charges exact a big levy that is merely a one-shot payment for the privilege of continuing to short-change the public exchequer ad infinitum. This one-shot is "stuck to the consumer".

The philosophy that welcomes development charges is at the root of the present depression. The sooner people seek sanity in municipal finance rather than "windfall profits" for some, the sooner shall we approach the up-grade to prosperity.

Yours sincerely,
ERNIE BRYAN

Grenada is a bitter lesson

Editor, The Star, Sir,

Grenada is a lesson for every Canadian.

Where are the words to describe Reagan and his administration. obsessed with a psychotic vision, armed with a formidable killing machine, backed by a sophisticated, dedicated media which twists truths into lies?

What degree of disgust is sufficient when watching and listening to Reagan as he speaks to millions of Americans on national television to describe Grenada as a "Cuban terrorist outpost." And how can one understand that, after his speech, polls showed he succeeded in convincing the majority of Americans that the brutal invasion was justified?

It was a shocking week. It was a jolting reminder that the people with Reagan are less than sane, that they're belligerant and have lost all sense of propertion in international affairs.

The military has become king. It's become bloated by a $1.6-trillion military budget, by new weapons' systems, extreme right-wing ideologues to day make policy -- they mean to use whatever force necessary to roll back history and to prevent human social advance anywhere.

They've tasted blood in Grenada. White House spokesmen are calling it a clear message to Nicaragua, Cuba and the Soviet Union. (It's also a clear message to Canada.)

Labor MPs in Britain's parliament asked a fundamental question last week. If Reagan can't be trusted to act rationally, how can we trust his finger on the button of cruise missiles in Britain?

Ottawa should be asking the same thing. It should know what the cruise tests mean to Reagan. It should listen as that arrogant U.S. ambassador in Ottawa orders this country around -- he speaks for Reagan.

Grenada should give every member of Parliament pause for thought. Canada is not immune from the U.S. marines. If Grenada is "vital to U.S. security", imagine what category Canada would be placed in?

Ottawa should put the biggest distance possible between Reagan, his generals, and Canadian foreign policy.

Events in Grenada and the threats against Nicaragua and Cuba clearly show what the U.S. administration is capable of, and what they mean to drag their "allies" into.

Comparing the U.S. to Hitler's Third Reich, an Anglican cleric noted that churches readily endorsed the war against Nazi terror. Moral laws take precedence over man-made laws, "and when a state becomes a tyranny, people are no longer morally bound to obey that state," he reasoned.

Wood is expensive

Editor, The Star, Sir,

A recent story in your very good paper indicated that one cord of wood weighs four tons. I assume you are referring to green wood. If the wood is dry maybe it would still weigh two tons to the cord. I am wondering how these people who advertise wood sales by the cord can arrive at our home with a half ton pick-up with the wood thrown in loose and call it a cord. I recently ordered a cord of wood from a storekeeper on 264 Street. She had a quantity of wood piled near the store. I measured a pile and found it to contain 128 cubic feet or one cord. I offered to come and help her to load it on the day that she would be able to make delivery. On a Sunday night, however, she phoned and said she had the wood loaded and would be at our place at 7 a.m. the next day. She arrived on time with her half ton pickup carrying a small canopy.

When the deal was first made she indicated that she would be making two trips. However, when she arrived she said she had the full cord on. She unloaded. I paid her and she left. After piling the wood it measured up to 90 cubic feet. Very expensive wood. I wonder who the consumer services minister is and what he is doing? We are pensioners and have been ripped off every time that we have purchased wood during the last two years.

By the way, what is a metric cord?

Poppy support was generous

Editor, The Star, Sir,

On behalf of the executive and members of branch 265 of the Royal Canadian Legion, may we express our appreciation to the citizens of Aldergrove for their generous support given to our annual Poppy fund campaign. Returns this year exceeded last year's total. As the monies are earmarked to assist veterans who are 'down and out' and require emergency assistance, it is very greatly appreciated, particularly in these difficult economic times.

Aldergrove Legion continues to provide meaningful support to worthy local youth groups and other charitable organizations through the funds raised in their bingo and lottery sales operations (over $50,000 in 1982). It is refreshing to realize that "one good turn deserves another."

Thank you again, Aldergrove.

The veterans' years

Editor, The Star, Sir,

I am presently researching for my next oral history book, titled 'The Veterans' Years' dealing with what happened to about 800,000 Canadian men and women who served in the armed forces during the Second World War and who were discharged to 'Civvy Street' in 1945 or later.

About 340 books, fact and fiction, have been published on our participation in Canada or overseas during the war but I can find none dealing with the vets after the war, for the first five years or so when they entered a 'new and strange' civilian environment. It is a book that deserves to be written, told by the vets themselves, especially as the average age of a WWII vet is 66. Time is running out.

The Canada we know today and are proud of was built by us and every facet of Canadian life was eventually dominated by us.

I would appreciate it if interested veterans would contact me, giving a brief outline of their service career plus place of discharge and at greater length, their hopes, dreams, aspirations, successes, failures and the laughter and tears of those first so important years. Letters may be long or short. Every one will be acknowledged and many, many will be contacted later to arrange personal interviews with a tape recorder, no matter where they live, during the coming months. If anonymity is desired, it will be respected.

I feel I am qualified to write this long-needed book as I am the author of five best-selling oral histories of Canadian life, including 'Ten Lost Years,' 'The Pioneer Years' and 'Six War Years.'

So much to do, and so little time!

Please write: Barry Broadfoot, 3996 Morningside Road, Nanaimo, B.C. V9T 1N5.

I know every veteran will recognize the value of such a history, and only you can help me make it a worthwhile part of our history.

You don't have to be a senior

Editor, The Star, Sir,

It has been recommended to the provincial government, by the United Elders Association of British Columbia, that they establish "an act to constitute a senior citizens advisory assembly" to assist the government in developing policies and providing services for their group. I would like to add, for all groups. All of us will one day be retirees. The current economic climate, among other things, makes the aforesaid representation imperative.

Ernie Cluett, president of the Aldergrove OAP group informed me that there is no minimum age for members. A mere three dollars a year will add an individual's name to the group. The more members listed, the stronger can be the impression in our legislature. However, should time permit, members should join in the meetings and socializing activities, and lend a helping hand and also tap the skills and experience of our wonderful Aldergrove OAP. I am told that we will be heartily welcomed. These good people are in essence working for us, too. Let us support them as well. Advise your friends in all areas to swell the membership of their local seniors organizations.

Life of 'Ma Murray'

The life of legendary newspaper editor Margaret "Ma" Murray will be featured in a CBC TV movie airing Sunday, Dec. 4.

For more than 40 years, Miss Murray edited the Bridge River-Lillooet News in British Columbia. Her fiery editorials and stinging accusations sent politicians scurrying for cover.

Joy Coghill stars in the title role. The production is based on Eric Nicol's stage play.

Chase needs a better vehicle

By J.T. YURKO

Chevy Chase is a man in search of a good movie. After winning star status as a writer/performer on TV's "Saturday Night Live," Chase moved into movies and co-starred with Goldie Hawn in "Foul Play." The film was a hit, and Chase appeared on his way to being a big-screen success. But he hasn't duplicated that success in his subsequent films.

Casting Chase in "Deal of the Century" indicated that this was a project that could use his wry, sardonic humor. The story concerns the peddling of high-technology weapons that fuel the arms race. Chase's wit might have combined with director William Friedkin's ("The Exorcist," "French Connection") forceful filmmaking to create a potent political satire.

But what should have been a sarcastic look at the arms race falls like a dud missile. Humor that should have been wry has simply gone awry. The entire project needs a homing device.

Chase tries his best as an arms salesman trying to unload his weapons of destruction on anyone who can come up with the money. Gregory Hines plays Chase's Bible-toting sidekick, and Sigourney Weaver is a former arms salesman's widow. Each of these characters is likable, and the film seems at odds with itself as we almost root for the arms dealers we are supposed to be despising.

Vince Edwards, as the head of an arms company, has one of the film's best lines when he says, "Our enemy is not Moscow, it's Rockwell, Northrup, Lockheed..." The missile he's trying to sell is called the Peacemaker; President Reagan recently dubbed the new MX missile with the same name. The material for a satire with clout is certainly there, but "Deal of the Century" just fizzles out.

THE YELLOW ROSE — David Soul (l.) and Edward Albert (center) play Roy and Quisto Champion, sons of the late Wade Champion, founder of the sprawling ranch on which they live, and Sam Elliott (r.) is Chance, the mysterious ranch hand on NBC's "The Yellow Rose," airing Saturday, Dec. 10.

Albert finds his 'Bonanza'

By Andy Noble

When he was growing up, one of Edward Albert's favorite TV shows was "Bonanza," the popular Western about the tightly knit Cartwright family.

So there's a bit of irony that he chose as his first TV series, "The Yellow Rose," one of the few new Western series since "Bonanza" left the air 10 years ago. Like "Bonanza," "The Yellow Rose" concerns a large ranch and three brothers — each of whom has the same father, but different mothers — who help try to keep it going in the face of adversity.

Albert plays Quisto Champion, an attorney who handles the ranch's legal affairs. He's the result of a liaison between his late father and a Mexican woman.

"The 'Rose' is not dissimilar to 'Bonanza,' " Albert says, "but here, we are the patriarchs. There's no Lorne Greene character to make the decisions for us. As relatively young adults, we have to deal with the problems. On 'Bonanza,' the brothers were kids — even though they were big, able men, they would fall back on Old Ben."

The actor, son of Eddie ("Green Acres") Albert, had appeared in such films as "40 Carats" and "Butterflies are Free," but a TV series was a new experience.

"Basically during the past five-to-seven years, I've had the luxury of doing what I wanted to do. I did a lot of film work in Europe for a decade learning what I can do. Now I decided to come home to do work my peers would see. Timing was principal. Around 30 you can't play young male leads anymore, and anyway, I'm not enamored of the ingenue role," said Albert, 32.

He believes he made the right choice — even though the ratings have taken some of the bloom off "The Yellow Rose."

"We have a really creative team of people," he says. "For a kid who grew up around TV, I've never seen in my experience more pride taken in a show by everybody connected with it. Some of the film sequences, especially the horseback and cattle drives — which are being done in the San Joaquin Valley near Bakersfield — are as fine as any film I've ever been in."

JOIN TOAD THIS CHRISTMAS

ABBOTSFORD - Laurel Street Arts Centre's Christmas production of "Toad of Toad Hall" is now in full swing. Story is an adaptation by Milnes' of Kenneth A. Milnes of Kenneth Graham's children's story "Wind in the Willow", which is becoming more and more synonomous with Christmas.

Still needed are people to help back stage before and during the production with set construction, props and costumes.

There are also still a few openings for parts in the play, children as well as adults in the ages from 6 to 106.

Anyone interested in participating in theatre and particularly this Christmas production are urged to call 859-2861 or 852-2787 and leave name and telephone number and the capacity in wich you they are interested in participating. They call back immediately.

Astronaut Charles "Pete" Conrad holds a sample of lunar soil at the Apollo 12 landing site on the moon in 1969.

'25 Years in Space'

In the past quarter century, the technology for exploring space has developed astronomically. As NASA celebrates its 25th anniversary this year, "Nova" chronicles the effects of the space age on earth in "Twenty Five Years in Space," airing Tuesday, Dec. 6 on PBS.

Since the Russians launched Sputnik in 1957, mankind has watched science fiction come true as each increasing daring space probe has defied the last. The Russians sent the first satellite, the only dog and the first human beings — male and female — into orbit. But the Americans were first to walk on the moon.

With historic footage of major milestones in the space race, "Nova" turns a telescopic eye on the past, capturing the emotions of presidents, astronauts and newscasters. It resurrects the memories and issues of three decades.

Other films have been made celebrating man's Promethean exploits in space. But "Twenty Five Years in Space" sets these exploits in the context of the times, juxtaposing the lyrics of Elvis Presley, Bob Dylan and John Lennon with the headlines and television commentary of the period.

Walter Cronkite, Werner Von Braun, the Rev. Ralph Abernathy and Carl Sagan are just a few of the voices in this symphony of picture and sound.

Travis dies

Merle Travis, one oi the most influential country guitarists, recently died of cardiopulmonary arrest.

Travis' finger-picking style made him one of country music's most imitated — but never copied — pickers. He was a major influence on Chet Atkins and Doc Watson.

Travis was inducted in the Songwriters Hall of Fame in 1970, the Gibson Guitar Hall of Fame in 1979 and the Country Music Hall of Fame in 1977.

One of country music's most respected songwriters, he is best-known for penning Tennessee Ernie Ford's biggest record, "Sixteen Tons."

Our nominee for Song Title of the Week goes to the newest Permian Records single by Katy Moffatt. The song, "Underloved and Over Lonely," was written by Max D. Barnes and Kent Westberry.

Victorian Christmas at Knight house

BELLINGHAM, Wash. - On December 9, from 7 to 9 p.m. and December 10 and 11 from 2 to 5 p.m., the Eldridge Society for History and Preservation of Bellingham will be presenting its fourth annual Victorian Christmas house. The Knight home, built in 1891, at 2324 Lynn Street, Bellingham, will feature a true old fashioned Christmas with hand-made decorations, live traditional music, antique toys, Victorian Christmas trees, and mulled cider - to warm more than just your heart.

Renew the spirit of the season with a view of Christmas past. Tickets will be available at the door. They will be $2 for adults, $1 for seniors and children under 12, and $5 per family.

REVIEWS

By Ethlie Ann Vare

Trio — "Trio and Error" (Mercury) — The German threesome (Stephen Remler, Peter Behrens and Kralle Krawinkle) scored a dance club hit last year with "Da Da Da." All of these spunky tunes are danceable but, more than that, they are fun. Trio takes an askance view of rock 'n' roll — possibly due to the international perspective — and comes up with a cockeyed gem.

Paul Simon — "Hearts and Bones" (Warner Brothers) — This was going to be a Simon and Garfunkel album, but the duo had a falling out at the last moment and Garfunkel's vocals were stripped off the tape.

Parts of the LP cry out for Art's pure voice. The title cut, an achingly beautiful melody, would be so enhanced by that sweetness. But most of the record stands up — and stands up proudly — on its own. Simon is still one of our most personal, intimate songwriters; his lyrics touch the soul and his melodies haunt the mind. If "The Late Great Johnny Ace" doesn't move you, you're a rock.

John Cougar Mellencamp — "Uh-Huh" (Riva/PolyGram) — Here's an album that's better than it had to be. After the unexpected platinum success of "American Fool," with the chart-toppers "Hurts So Good" and "Jack and Diane," John Cougar (now using his given name) could have put out just about anything and sold it. But "Uh-Huh" is well-crafted, energetic rock 'n' roll. Sure, it wins the Rolling Stones sound-a-like of the year award, but there are worse groups to sound like. And there is something so intrinsically American about Cougar that even Stones shtick becomes his own.

Paul Simon

UPDATE

Frank Zappa is working on a play based upon his musical characters. He hopes to put it on Broadway.

Film rights have been sold to Michael Jackson's "Billy Jean." Will she do as well as "Ode to Billy Joe?" Or are they the same person?

Annabella Lwin has left Bow Wow Wow; Peter Wolf is leaving J. Geils; and Mick Jones has been fired from the Clash.

Julian Lennon, John's son, has been signed to a Charisma recording contract. His debut LP is due in the spring. In another family, Simon Townshend has just released his first album on PolyGram. Brother Pete produced.

ASK ANNABELLE

Dear Annabelle,

I don't know how to tell anyone this but for my peace of mind and because no one will know, I will tell you. Please change it if you think it won't suit. Every time my wife and I go to a party she gets very jealous. We have been married for two months, and she wasn't like this before we were married. She gets so nasty with anyone who talks to me. I pay her a lot of attention, drinks, dancing, etc., but nothing seems to help. Is it going to get worse? I love her and only her.

Signed: Heading for an ulcer.

Dear Heading,

Obviously your young wife needs a lot more attention than she is getting from you. If this problem persists she may have to see a psychiatrist or a marriage counsellor. As the marriage gets older, however, she will probably recover on her own, so don't make yourself miserable about it.

Dear Annabelle,

Very often I go to a party and everyone leaves before I do. My hosts always seem to be a little annoyed with me, but I just don't care as long as I am having a good time. What do you think?

Signed: Thick-headed.

Dear Thick,

I think you just answered your own question when you signed your letter. I think when all the guests have gone you can safely assume that the party is over and in consideration for your tired host and hostess you should leave too. You must indeed be thick-headed if you can have a good time when no one else is. Go home and enjoy yourself.

Star readers are invited to mail in their questions to ASK ANNABELLE. Use a nom de plume if you wish. The address is ASK ANNABELLE, c/o The Aldergrove Star, Box 220, Aldergrove, B.C.

Arts, crafts and cheer delight club members

By MARTA SMYLIE

ALDERGROVE - Arts, crafts, good cheer and a sumptuous tea blended to produce a happy afternoon on November 20. Aldergrove Art Club members were delighted with the attendance and atmosphere at the OAP hall.

Guest crafts people, who helped make the day so successful, included Joy and Joanne Adams who demonstrated and displayed beautiful dried flower arrangements, Chester Hall who brought along his crafted wood personality figures and carved for the onlookers. Katie Banman, who weaves baskets and trays, was enjoyed very much and Molly Reid's table introduced visitors to dainty crocheted snow flakes and needlepoint decorations for the Xmas tree or windows. The lovely African violets Opal Thomas contributed to the sale, and Edith Proletsky's plump, yellow knitted ducks soon found their way into the arms of those with wee tots to remember giftwise. Very nicely knitted and sewn garments by Doreen Folkard were also admired.

The three lucky winners of the raffle were Jean Coffin, who won Mary Sanderson's scenic painting, Marta Smylie, who received the tapestry cushion crafted by Josephine Johansen, and Nell Fast who took the hand-painted china dish of May Geddes.

The club has welcomed to more new members, Virginia Moeller and Angela Moore.

First meeting of the new year will be January 11 at 1 o'clock in the OAP hall. Guests and prospective members are always welcome at the Wednesday afternoon gatherings.

Something for everyone at Aldergrove this week

ALDERGROVE - This week at Aldergrove secondary school saw enough activities to keep all types of students and teachers wondering where the time went.

The grads were busily raising money by selling tickets on a grad raffle. The main prizes are gingerbread houses being made by students and their mothers, with the draw on December 16. The grads also were busy looking beautiful for their graduation pictures. Many had double exposures taken, while everyone had poses with and without graduation gowns. Pictures will be used by the yearbook, the hall composite, and for personal orders. The grads also had a chance to vote on the arrangements to be made for the ceremony. The date is June 26, with ceremonies in the afternoon and a dinner/dance in the evening.

Money-raising projects continued with the final sales of magazines this week. Poinsettias are now being sold by students for $5 for a five-inch poinsettia. Orders should be picked up on December 7 or December 14, contact a student or telephone the school at 856-2521.

Noon hours were certainly not dull during the past week. The senior girls' basketball team hosted the SFU girls' team for an entertaining game last Tuesday, with a contest between Bev Bland and Pat Lee for the most points scored in a two-minute period.

The senior girls basketball team got off to a good start with a win over Semiahmoo last Thursday and a win in the annual Keg Classic last weekend.

The music department entertained nearly 100 parents and students in their annual coffee house last Wednesday. All the students who take guitar 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12 could participate in the evening's entertainment in the drama room. Mr. Allingham also organized an Air Band contest this week, with the finals to take place during the coming days. "Air bands" are groups who dress and appear to play like a popular musical, group, but the sound track is the original record with the students mimicking the actions and voices. Great entertainment for several noon hours.

The student council is holding its Christmas dance this Friday, December 2, in the school gym from 7:30 to 11:00 p.m. The band "Invasion" is providing the entertainment with the price being $5 per person at the door.

In the world of school work, students are beginning to "buckle down" to their studies., With the first report already home and the first parents interview night held last Thursday, it's book time at Aldergrove. Only six weeks of school until the big January exams!

The times, they have a-changed

By ERNEST CLUETT

ALDERGROVE-The choral group visited the extended care unit of the Abbotsford hospital last week. The group under emcee Pat Prozesky performed in great style and was appreciated by the residents. Due to a heart attack of fiddler Al Duncan, the orchestra was reduced to two musicians, who performed to the best of their ability.

The teachers are threatening to go on strike again. I read it has to do with 10-million dollars or so that wasn't paid them during the strike. Perhaps the task of keeping a class in order by words alone and gentle persuasion is too exacting and exhausting for many teachers, and a strike now and again renews the adrenalin. Education has changed drastically since I was a boy. In 1917 Britain had reached the bottom of the barrel as far as teachers were concerned and was activating retired teachers to fill the void caused by enlistments in the forces. We got a very old retiree of 70 or so, named Mr. Disney or "Dizzy" as he was speedily called. One of the pupils was the son of a baker in the town who had made a lot of money during the war. This pupil, a real stinker, soon started anarchy in the class and as "Dizzy" was a believer in the peaceful persuasion so popular today, he could not deal with this kid and his growing group of admirers. In desperation poor old "Dizzy" sent us out for recess several times a day until the principal became aware of the problem and gently eased Mr. Disney back into retirement. His replacement, Mr. Hunt, had been medically discharged out of the army and his hob-nailed boots marched up the pavement to the school for many years, always assisted by his stout walking stick. However, our stinker had to show his admirers that he was the equal of Mr. Hunt and threw a handful of bread dough, smuggled in for the purpose, hitting Mr. Hunt on the side of the head. The eruption was volcanic; young Mr. Springer was upended over his deck and the old walking stick beat a tattoo on the brat's rear end. On being released, Springer rushed home to tell dear old dad, who arrived breathing fire and brimstone. However, Mr. Hunt grabbed dear old dad and marched him out of the class room, telling him to complain to the principal or King George or even Kaiser Bill if he so desired. The principal showed no sympathy at all, calling two prefects to show Mr. Springer the front door, and stated his son would be formally expelled at the end of the month. However, before the period was up, Springer Jr. was back in class very subdued and well behaved. Rumor had it that Mr. Springer upon investigating his son's behavior, became so incensed he seized his wife's drapery yard stick and tanned his offspring's pants himself. So one prospective juvenile delinquent was staightened out and in due course took over dear old dad's business.

For a minor misdemeanor the punishment was 100 - 200 lines to be copied from some book. Next step up called for one to four strokes of the cane on the palms of the hands. Serious misdemeanors were a tanning on the backside. No tears or sniffles were allowed by the culprit's class or the offender was classified as a sissy, or a girl, or even worse should he show signs of pain. How times alter!

The Red Cross clinic held in the pensioners hall resulted in over 200 pints being donated. Thanks and congratulations for a job well done to Art Cross and all the ladies who so generously donated their time and efforts in looking after the donors.

Adaline is putting on a bus trip to a dinner at the Capilano Heights restaurant and the evening viewing the carol ships in Vancouver harbor, and the lights on private homes. Due to the increased cost of the bus and the sharp increase in the price of the full dinner, the inclusive fare has to be $14 per person. Leaving the hall at 4:30 p.m. and returning ? If not enough interest is shown on or before the December general meeting on Friday, December 2, the trip may be cancelled. Phone 859-8408 for bookings or particulars.

The Sadie Hawkins dance had Bob Gubbe taking the place of Maurice Gatin, who is vacationing in Quebec. Door prize went to May Hallam and the spot prize to Ken and Frieda Cowan.

Classic comes to Gospel Chapel

ALDERGROVE - The classic motion picture Ben Hur will be shown at 7 p.m. Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 2, 3 and 4 at the Aldergrove Gospel Chapel.

Lew Wallace's immortal story of the young nobleman, who became a Christian, after becoming a galley slave, has inspired over ten million readers and viewers.

The chapel is located just one third of a mile west of the Aldergrove secondary school; and there is no admission charge.

For additional information, phone 856-5629.

Tonight at 7:30 p.m. (Wednesday, Nov. 30) the final showing of Corrie Teh Boom's "Jesus is Victor" will be presented at the chapel.

Fraser flood control agreement extended

VICTORIA - Environment minister Tony Brummet has announced the extension of the federal-provincial Fraser River flood control agreement from March 31, 1984 to December 31, 1986. The agreement, originally signed in 1968, would have terminated on March 31, 1984.

Brummet said the additional time is needed to complete current projects with presently approved funding of $120-million.

"While this extension will complete flood protection for the highly developed areas of the lower Fraser River floodplain, further flood protection is required for other regions, particularly agricultural areas," Brummet said, adding that proposals for additional funding and further extension of the program are being considered by the senior government.

GARDENING IN THE VALLEY

Timely odds and sods

By DON ANSON

Evergreens should be pruned as little as possible. New growth is rarely produced from mature wood so if you cut this back there will just be a gaping hole that may never be filled.

If vigorous young cedars, pines and spruces tend to become unbalanced in shape, cut back the tips only of those branches making excessive growth. This should be done in the spring.

If spreading evergreens such as junipers are sending branches in the wrong direction, such as across pathways or obstructing windows, cut those branches back to strong side shoots pointing in the right direction.

As for the spring flowering evergreens such as aucuba, berberis, cotoneaster, ivy, viburnums and rhododendrons, these should be pruned immediately after flowering while those evergreens that bloom in summer, such as holly, pyracantha, and cistus should be pruned in the late fall.

Late pruning of most hedges tend to stimulate growth that may not ripen before winter sets in and this may cause dieback. Best time to prune the established hedge are after growth has become well started in the spring and again in mid-summer.

Nearly everything that grows in the vegetable garden can be put into soups. All parts of green vegetables can be used, except of course those from potatoes, tomatoes and rhubarb.

Chopped parsly, leek tops, green onion tops, chard, chives, beet tops and leaves from radish, turnip and parsnip plants can all go into the pot along with the root crops. Many of the important vitamins that we should eat are lost when we discard the green parts of vegetables that are grown for their roots.

Now is the time to start feeding birds. They do such an enormous amount of good in the garden and so very little harm that they should be encouraged at all times. Remember that different birds have different appetites. Apart from bird seed, try coconut halves or a lump of suet and don't forget a shallow dish of water. Many birds die of thirst during winter so do remember them on icy days.

Bird seed is expensive but chicken scratch is an alternate. If you decide to put out some peanuts, don't use the salted variety. Onion net makes an ideal container for peanuts and suet.

If cats are a problem, hang the bird foods from a wire stretched between two trees and make sure you can see them from your living room window. Antics of some of the birds provide more entertainment than many of the television shows but this, of course, is not too difficult.

Cherry trees require very little pruning and this is done during the dormant season. With young trees, the leader is usually headed at about five or six feet from the ground and side branches are developed at about three feet from the ground. These side branches should be about six inches apart and the best ones to retain are those with wide angles to the trunk. Branches with narrow angles are subject to winter injury and break easily.

When your framework is established, little or no pruning is needed, except to remove weak branches in the centre of the tree and all dead wood.

Pruning is probably the most misunderstood item in gardening and many amateurs make the mistake of cutting out branches and shortening them back indiscriminately. No cut should ever be made without good reason and without an understanding of what the results are likely to be.

One type of pruning that can and should be done at any time of the year is the removal of dead and diseased wood. This should be done as soon as it is noticed because, apart from being unsightly, dead branches harbor destructive pests and diseases.

Too much pruning will always delay fruiting and too much fertilizer will mean excessive growth at the expense of fruit.

Poinsettias love bright sunlight but they should never be placed on window ledges or near sources of hot air. Drafts and sudden changes of temperature will often cause the lower leaves to turn yellow and sometimes drop off. Ideal room temperature is 18 degrees Celsius and never below 15 degrees. It is very easy to overwater these.

The author will endeavor to answer any questions on the subject of outdoor gardening. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: "Gardens", care of The Star, Box 220, Aldergrove, B.C., V0X 1A0. All letters will be answered personally, but some may be answered in this column.

Children's musical at Abby Arts

ABBOTSFORD - Saluting the Abbotsford area on December 2, 3 and 9, 10 in the new Abby Arts Center is the musical fantasy, "Jack and the Beanstalk."

This play is derived from an old English pantomime. It differs from other shows as the leading male is always played by an attractive female and the dames are played by men.

Old and new faces from the Valley Musical Guild brighten the stage with their talents. Corinne Franz, who plays Jack; Barry Hammond, Hocus Pocus; and Chris Lystad, Jill are all new faces to the guild. Ken Mead as Miss Prim 'n Proper, Bill Robinson as widow Jennifer Albon-Bratilda; Iris Todd is the Good Fairy, and Chris Lewis the Major are all old members of the guild. Nine children also enhance the stage. Eight dancers are provided by Barry's School of Dance.

Directing, producing, and designing sets is the most important part in putting on a show.

"The director, Frank Robinson and stage manager Lynne Laidley have done a lot of work to put on the show. They deserve all of the credit," said Franz.

The producer, Iris Todd, has also done a lot of work.

The Unicorn Theatre is building the sets.

"Everybody is working hard and the show is going to be a success!" said Laidley.

ALDERGROVE - In conjunction with Douglas Day at Fort Langley, grade five pupils at Wix-Brown elementary turned their classroom into a fort. Pupils brought furs and artifacts to school and dressed in pioneer costumes.

Brandt-Jobke wed in candlelight

ALDERGROVE - Immanuel Lutheran Church was the setting for a lovely candle light wedding performed by Pastor Paul Schmidt for Arnell Daneen Brandt, daughter of Fred and Elizabeth Brandt of Aldergrove, and Michael Eberhard Jobke, son of Eberhard and Erna Jobke of Penticton, on Saturday, Sept. 24.

The bride was beautiful in an old fashioned ivory satin gown with lace bodice - made by her mother and on which the bride had sewn hundreds of tiny seed pearls.

The headdress of tiny hand made roses of satin and chiffon with lace and pearls was made by her sister, the maid of honor, Melanie.

The something old was a 60-year-old pettitcoat belonging to her paternal grandmother - the something blue and borrowed was a 33-year-old crinoline belonging to her mother.

Melanie and sister Denise, bridesmaid, wore lace tops with periwinkle silk skirts and cummerbunds.

The groom was attended by his brother Martin and brother-in-law Rick Terry. Ushers were Raymond and Dean Brandt.

The mother of the groom was attractively attired in a pale blue chiffon dress, the mother of the bride wore an aqua silk two-piece dress.

During the official signing of the register, Terry Logan, organist and soloist, sang the hymn "God will take care of you."

The reception followed at the Elks hall with a smorgasbord supper. Col. Jack Aird, a very good friend of the family, was the emcee. The toast to the bride was made by Arnell's godparents, Charles Thomas, who with his wife Nancy came from Tacoma.

Melanie presented the groom with a picture of Arnell at age five months - wearing a smile - on a fur rug.

The mother of the bride also advised them that although every good marriage needs three things - faith, love and trust - theirs needed three more, and so presented the groom with a pair of well worn jeans Arnell lived in for four years, the grey oversize sweater which always accompanied those jeans, and a small pot and bag of popcorn for her favorite evening snack.

Arnell's grandfather also had a short story he'd made up in the way of a lesson. It seemed in the old country there was a young couple who had also just been married. The parents left the pair alone for two months before deciding it was time to see how they were doing. So they hitched up the old horse and slowly trundelled off. When they finally arrived it was late in the evening and they were surprised to find the young couple outside planting a peach tree. Sheepishly they admitted they'd just had their first quarrel and as a symbol they were planting a tree. "Ah hah" said the mother. "I told you that young people were smarter nowadays - just think had we done that 30 years ago - we would own a big orchard now."

The 94 guests enjoyed an evening of dancing to the Country Bumpkins till 2 a.m. and after that for two more hours to taped music.

There were many guests from Penticton, Vancouver and Richmond. Among them were Arnell's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Seibert of Oliver, her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Karabez of Penticton.

The guests were invited back to the hall for dinner and the opening of gifts on Sunday, the day after the wedding; after which the bride and groom took a week's holiday on Vancouver Island before returning to Penticton where they will live.

United Way is still short

VANCOUVER - The United Way campaign has reached $8,270,000 and its agencies will be in serious crisis unless businesses and residents come up with an additional $1.5-million.

Fund drive chairman David Catton said this week that his campaign cabinet met last Thursday and could estimate only another $100,000 forthcoming in the next five days, which would mean failure for the campaign.

"We know from previous years' giving that there's at least another $1-million out there, from businesses, foundations and individuals who have given in previous years but who have not yet given to this year's campaign," said Catton.

"It is imperative that those groups make their pledges now."

He said two foundations, 67 businesses, and 322 employee campaigns in the lower mainland, who collectively gave $1-million last year, are still to be heard from.

"These groups must answer the call now," he said. "In addition, we need an additional $400,000 from individuals who have never given to United Way. Now is the time for them to write a generous cheque to United Way."

"All of these things must happen in the next week or so if we are to make our goal of $9.7-million," said Catton.

"If we don't receive this money," he said, "the 84 agencies and the Red Cross will not be able to serve the increased numbers of people who are asking for help this year and next."

Catton said that United Way agencies are experiencing a serious increase in demand for service caused by two factors: the general economic situation in the province; and the added demands on agencies caused by recently-announced cutbacks in provincial government services.

He said that persons wishing to give directly to United Way should mail their cheque to 1625 West 8 Avenue, Vancouver, B.C. V6J 1T9.

For information, call United Way 731-7781.

Christmas concert set Wednesday

By ROLAND MORRIS

ALDERGROVE - The Christmas concert at Aldergrove High is on December 7 at 7:30 p.m. All instrumental groups and choirs will be performing at the night of music. There will also be a ham raffled off at the concert, courtesy of Aldergrove Freezer Meats. The evening promises to put everyone who attends in a Christmas mood.

The annual roll-a-thon has come and gone. Music department students roller skated for six hours on November 19 at the Whalley Stardust roller rink. The students raised $2,500.00.

Gentlemen's night successful

ALDERGROVE - Thanks to the generosity of those who attended our recent 'Gentleman's Nite", the Kinsmen club of Aldergrove realized a profit of $1,500.00. Of this sum, $1,000.00 will be used in December to supply Christmas hampers to families who are in need in the Aldergrove area.

Approximately $200.00 is used to help run the Kinsmen club, while the $300.00 left will be set aside for "serving the community's greatest needs" in the future.

Anyone with questions or concerns about Kinsmen, should contact Jack Boyde at 856-4941.

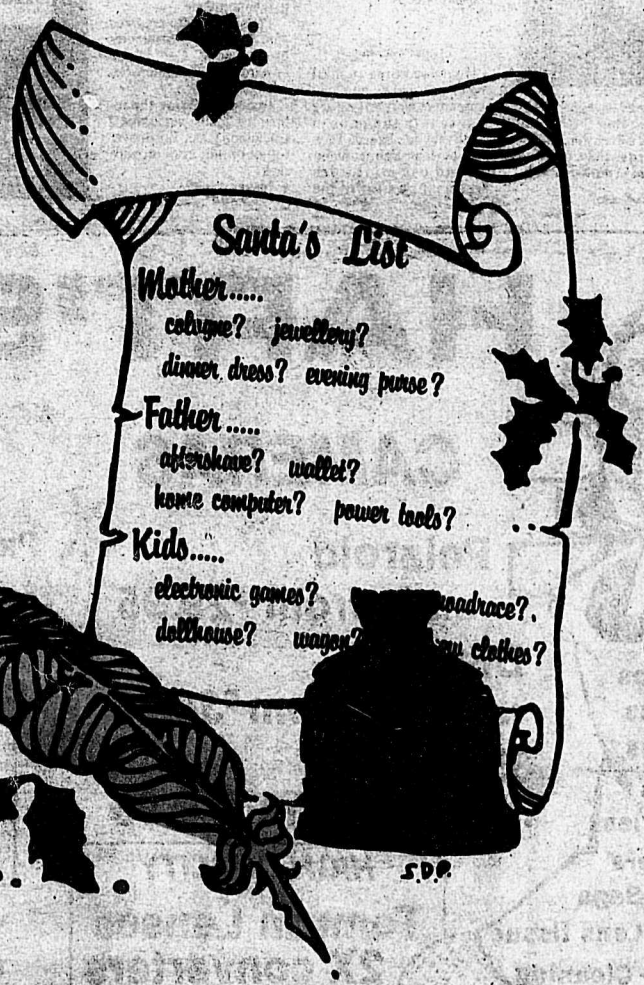
CHRISTMAS '83



gift guide

Baker's delight...

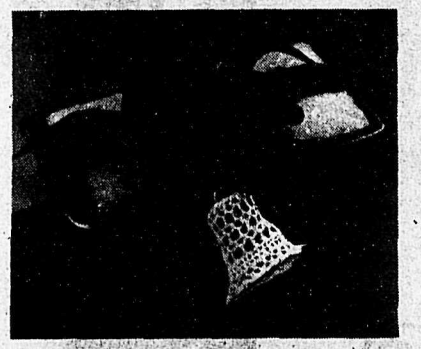
Christmas gifts come straight from the heart...and the oven

There's scarcely a gift that speaks more eloquently of love and affection than one you make with your own hands. Do you have a friend who loves homemade bread? Are you famous for your brownies?

Cookies, cakes and muffins, wrapped with style and panache, make welcome Christmas gifts. And they're more fun to bake in loaf, cake and muffin pans and on cookie sheets with a Du Pont "SilverStone" premium nonstick surface for easy cleanup.

Bake ahead

You can bake cookies and breads weeks ahead. Freeze the breads in plastic wrap or foil and the cookies in a box lined with plastic wrap or foil. Separate the layers with additional plastic wrap. Thaw bread at room temperature before you rewrap as a gift. Ditto for cookies; stand them on wire racks for 10 minutes before packing in tins or boxes.



EASY-TO-MAKE Lemon Sunshine Bread makes a great Christmas gift for family and friends. Pop the bread, wrapped in plastic, into a loaf pan with "SilverStone" premium nonstick surface. Attach the recipe and tie with a bright ribbon for a gift that will provide good tastes and easy cleanup for many holidays to come.

Helpful hints

Here are some other gift-giving tips from Du Pont "SilverStone":

- Pop your bread, wrapped in foil or plastic, in a loaf pan. Attach the recipe and wrap in a bright ribbon. Or add a jar of jam and a tin of tea to foil wrapped Lemon Sunshine Bread, nestle the trio in a basket and present to your favorite tea-lover.
- Pile chocolate chews in a flat oval basket. Wrap with plastic wrap or cellophane, place on a cookie sheet and tie together with yarn or ribbon. Add a plastic or nylon spatula and the recipe.
- You can make that special small person happy by placing individually wrapped Snowy Day Brownies in the back of a toy pickup truck or a small pail (with shovel).
- Put toasty warm muffins in a napkin-lined basket, add miniature jars of unusual honeys.

Proper packing

If you're going to mail any of your baked goodies, remember that cakes are best sent in the pans in which they are baked. Pack cookies in air-tight containers and use miniature marshmallows to fill the spaces. This keeps them from breaking.

LEMON SUNSHINE BREAD

1½ c. all-purpose flour
1½ tsp. baking powder
¼ tsp. salt
1 Tbs. grated lemon rind
½ c. softened butter
1 c. plus 2 Tbs. sugar
2 eggs
½ c. milk
5 tsp. lemon juice

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Very lightly grease an 8x5-Inch loaf pan with "SilverStone."

In small bowl, combine flour, baking powder, salt and lemon rind; set aside.

In medium bowl, cream butter and 1 c. sugar together until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. And flour mixture alternately with milk, stirring just until blended. Stir in 3 tsp. lemon juice.

Pour batter into prepared pan. Bake 1 hour 10 minutes or until done. Cool in pan on wire rack 10 minutes. Remove from pan.

In cup, combine the remaining 2 Tbs. sugar and 2 tsp. lemon juice. Brush over top of bread; cool on wire rack.

Makes 1 loaf.

LOGGING THE FUTURE

An emblem of good luck, the Yule log should only be half-burnt. The remainder of the log should be kept to light a new log on the next Christmas Eve. It is believed to be bad luck if a barefoot or squinty person comes into the house while the fire is burning.

How to build a home for dolls and toys

Just in time for holiday gift giving, here's a project that allows kids to keep house in two ways: Half of it is a dollhouse, perfect for pretend house-keeping; the other half is a toy box where the youngsters can store playthings so their room stays neat.

You can cut the entire dollhouse-toy box — excluding the optional trees and shrubs — out of a single sheet of ½-inch exterior plywood (good both sides). The design of the trees is up to you.

The building experts at Georgia-Pacific remind you to always wear safety goggles when using a hammer or power tools. And don't forget to follow manufacturer's instructions when using power tools.

Take care in cutting the compound angles of the roof parts. To ensure that you won't ruin a piece by mismeasuring and/or shaving off too much wood when making the bevels, make each roof piece longer than the dimensions shown on the cutting diagram.

Cut out the parts, then hold them together temporarily to figure out the direction of the bevels. As you fit the rough-cut pieces together, refer often to these illustrations, which you'll quickly realize are worth a thousand words.

Examine the drawings and the pieces you've cut, then set your table saw for 12 degrees to make the bevel cuts. Next, hold the parts together again and check the fit.

When you're certain you've got each roof piece cut correctly, trim off any extra wood from its nonbeveled end to get the final dimensions.

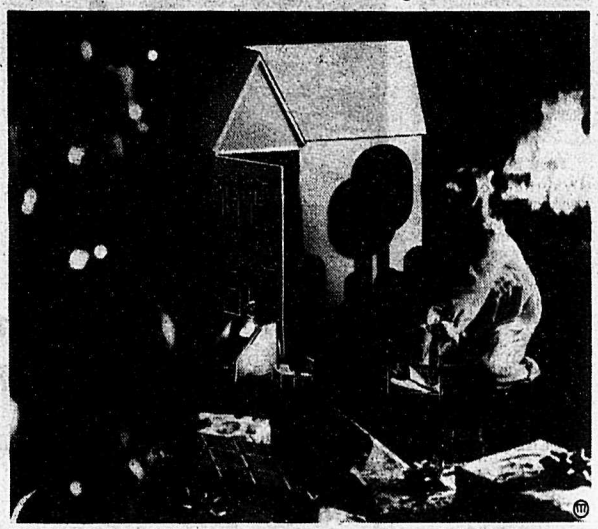
Once you have cut out, beveled, and trimmed off all the roof parts, the rest comes easy. Cut out the remaining parts and assemble all the stationary pieces with glue and nails.

Hinge the front door of the house with small butt hinges; at the peak of the roof, use a continuous hinge.

Make window trim from scraps (you can use some of the pieces you cut out in making the windows and door) or purchase ready-made trim from a hobby shop.

Assemble the steps and railings as shown. Finish the edges and fill nail holes with wood putty, sand smooth and paint.

For more do-it-yourself ideas and "how-to" booklets contact your local Georgia-Pacific Registered Dealer (call toll-free 1-800-447-2882; in Illinois call 1-800-322-4400), or send $1.00 for an issue of Great Possibilities magazine to Georgia-Pacific's GP Magazine, Dept. MNS., P.O. Box 1326, Atlanta, GA 30301.



MAKE SOMEONE'S CHRISTMAS a very special memory this year, by building her a unique dollhouse, which doubles as a toy box, from plans created by the experts at Georgia-Pacific.

Flavorably French Christmas confections are festive favorites

You don't have to be a francophile to love French desserts, particularly the holiday favorite, a Buche de Noel. Shaped and decorated to resemble the Yule Log, this eyecatching cake (recipe follows) makes a perfect centerpiece for any holiday dessert buffet.

Their "just desserts"

Whether you invite friends in after a round of carolling or follow the French tradition of Reveillon, a party on Christmas Eve following the midnight mass, nothing is more festive than an elaborate dessert buffet.

Accompany with coffee in demitasse cups, Remy Martin Cognac in elegant snifters for a truly joyeux noel.

BUCHE DE NOEL

- 5 large eggs
- 1 cup sugar
- ¼ tsp. salt
- 1 tsp. vanilla extract
- 1¼ cup sifted all purpose flour
- 2 tbl. butter, melted and cooled

1. Line a greased jelly-roll pan with wax paper. Grease and flour the paper lightly. Set aside.
2. Using an electric beater at high speed, beat the eggs one minute until light and fluffy. Gradually beat in the sugar. Add salt and vanilla extract. Continue beating until mixture has quadrupled in volume, about eight minutes. Gently fold in flour, then add the butter.
3. Spread the batter into prepared jelly-roll pan. Bake at 350°F for 20 to 25 minutes.
4. Remove from oven and let cake cool for three minutes. Turn out onto a towel, remove wax paper and roll both the cake and towel together.

Chocolate Butter Cream Frosting

- ½ stick butter, softened
- 2 to 2½ cups confectioners' sugar
- 1 tsp. vanilla extract
- 1 square (1 oz.) unsweetened chocolate (melted)
- 2 tbl. Remy Martin Cognac

1. Blend butter, one cup confectioners' sugar and vanilla extract.
2. Add chocolate and Remy Martin Cognac.
3. Add the remaining sugar until desired consistency.

Assembling the Buche de Noel

1. Unroll the cake and trim the edges all around.
2. Spread half the chocolate cream over the cake and roll up in jelly-roll fashion. Frost the roll with the remaining cream, leaving the ends uncovered.
3. Run a fork through the frosting to give it a bark-like effect. Sprinkle the log with confectioners' sugar to resemble freshly fallen snow.
4. Chill. When ready to serve decorate with holly, berries or meringue mushrooms.

Serves eight to 10.

Taste treat for family, friends

TRY OUR ZUCCHINI/APPLE DESSERT, above, for a tasty dish for company or family members. It is microwaved and served in Rubbermaid's 2-qt. frozen food dish. The covered one-quart frozen food dish is handy for an individual entree.

ZUCCHINI AND APPLE CRISP

- 6 cups coarsely chopped fresh or frozen zucchini (approx. 3 lbs)
- 2½ cups coarsely chopped green apples (approx. 3 large)
- ¾ cup granulated sugar
- 6 tablespoons lemon juice
- 3 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca
- ½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1½ cups all-purpose flour
- ⅔ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
- ½ cup quick cooking oats
- ¼ teaspoon ground coriander
- ⅛ teaspoon ground nutmeg
- ⅓ cup butter or margarine

Into 2-qt. frozen food dish combine zucchini and apples.

Stir in granulated sugar, lemon juice, tapioca and cinnamon. Set aside.

In a small bowl combine flour, brown sugar, oats, coriander and nutmeg.

Cut in butter or margarine until crumbly.

Sprinkle flour mixture over zucchini/apple mixture.

Microwave, uncovered on High (100%) for 10-12 minutes, or just until mixture begins to bubble.

Allow dish to stand uncovered for 5 minutes

GIFTS IN DISGUISE

In Holland, it is the custom to go to great lengths to disguise Christmas gifts. In fact, it is not uncommon for people to go so far as to wrap a package, and then coat it with dough. It is then baked in the oven to make it look like a loaf of bread. A surprise package indeed!

Cheers! Drink a toast to healthful gift giving

Take heed if you are a frazzled holiday shopper, losing patience in downtown traffic and elbowing your way through department store crowds.

A holiday gift of Perrier Mineral Water is a simple gift idea that is available at your nearest supermarket or gourmet shop.

There is no problem with confusing sizes or tastes, as your friends and kin will enjoy Perrier's natural sparkle and pure, salt-free refreshment.

Perrier will also be an appreciated gift for the hostess who has invited you to her Yuletide open house, so that she too can offer her guests a light, non-alcoholic choice.

Tied with a cheerful, red bow, a case of Perrier is a healthful surprise to make holiday toasts very special!

FIT FOR A KING

During biblical times, the gifts of frankincense and myrrh were as precious as gold. Once worn on the crowns of Persian kings to symbolize wealth, myrrh is an aromatic resin prized as a perfume, a spice and a medicine. Frankincense is also a resin used for embalming.

Traditions abound at Country Collection

Traditions of Christmas past and present include the fun of decorating our homes for the festive season. To add special meaning to this custom is to adorn our homes with decorations handcrafted by ourselves or others. Decorations can be hand made from materials of every medium including clay, fabric, metal, wood, plastics, paper, food items and more. Clay shaped into balls covered with a green glaze can be hung on a tree or door handle with a red ribbon. Old-fashioned wood clothers pegs can be assembled and decorated to be a reindeer. Beautiful tree skirts sewn with Christmas fabric will hide the tree bottom and brighten the home. Holly, nuts and cones can be crafted into wreaths or beautiful candle rings. Paper cut into Christmas words or shapes create inexpensive hanging mobile decorations. Hand making decorations can be a fun family project that allows the imagination to flow adding an individual touch to each item. At the Country Collection located at 20560 - 56th Ave., Langley, there is a community Christmas tree where non-profit groups are selling their hand made decorations to raise money for their causes. The four partners of this shop are craftspeople themselves creating with wood, pottery, fabric, wicker and tole painting and they welcome you to drop by and talk about your craft interests. Visit their backroom where a total Christmas environment will be an inspiration for decorating your home for the holiday season.

istmas is more home entertainment

sources this year for large single-purchase items that everyone can enjoy.

The trend towards group gifts — within extended families or groups of friends — includes hi-fi component systems, video equipment and car stereos, according to audio manufacturer Bose Corporation, whose dealers across the U.S. report increased sales of high-ticket consumer electronics products as holiday gifts.

New or upgraded stereo systems are among the most-wanted home entertainment items. While Mom, Dad and the kids don't usually agree on what kind of music to listen to, everyone appreciates his or her favorites played on a good component system.

Contributions for group purchases can be sufficient to buy an entire system, or simply to upgrade one or two components.

According to Bose, speakers are first on the list of components to be upgraded, since they control the quality of sound from the complete system.

Selecting stereo speakers is as simple as trusting your own ears. Shoppers should expect to pay at least $250 for a pair of well-engineered loudspeakers.

While pre-packaged component systems might seem the easiest to buy, they don't always offer the best value.

It is easy enough to select your own, say the research engineers at Bose, who offer the following tips:

- Bring good copies of favorite records to test on a variety of speakers. Have different kinds of music, to be sure that the Philharmonic sounds as real as the rock singer.
- Ask the salesperson to play your records on two different sets of speakers at the same volume. Select the best set and compare them to a third.
- Use this process of elimination to evaluate the speakers you are considering, but don't compare too many sets in one day. A few hours of comparison can lead to listener — and family — "burn-out."
- Stand a couple of feet directly in front of one speaker. See if you can hear both speakers, or if the nearby speaker drowns out the farther one. This will help assure that you hear true stereo.
- Set the receiver to the hissing noise between FM stations and have everyone walk around the listening room. Is the sound about the same throughout the room, or does the character of the hiss change a lot as you walk? A good pair of speakers will give you more uniform sound quality throughout the room.
- The next step is one the kids can enjoy. Close your eyes. See if you can tell where the sound is coming from. If you can pinpoint the speakers, you are not getting the concert hall effect. At a live performance, 10 percent of the sound comes directly from the source (instruments, voice), while 90 percent is reflected off room surfaces.
- Finally, since this is the family's Christmas gift to one another, when the speakers are home and set up, sit back and enjoy your favorite holiday album. And thank each other for making Christmas sound better than it ever has!

For free listening information to help you select new stereo speakers, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Bose Corporation, Box HS, The Mountain Road, Framingham, MA 01701.

It's time to trifle with holidaytime desserts

An English Trifle is a dessert which belies its name, for it is a dish that demands to be taken seriously.

Flavorable variation

So too does this wintertime variation, Chocolate and Chestnut Rum Trifle, which is extracted from The Menu-Cookbook for Entertaining (Dover Publications, Inc.) by Libby Hillman.

CHOCOLATE AND CHESTNUT RUM TRIFLE

Prepare the following ingredients:

- 2 layers spongecake or 1 sheet of sponge
- 1 recipe Chocolate and Chestnut Mousse (see below)
- 1 pint cream whipped with 4 tablespoons confectioners' sugar and 1 teaspoon vanilla
- ½ cup rum
- 6 candied marrons (or in syrup)
- 1 bar semisweet chocolate for shaved chocolate

Chocolate and Chestnut Mousse

- 4 eggs separated
- ½ cup sugar
- 4 ounces semisweet melted chocolate
- ½ cup chestnut purée
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 tablespoon strong coffee

Beat egg yolks with sugar; beat egg whites until stiff. Add melted chocolate and chestnut purée to egg yolks with vanilla and coffee. Blend egg whites into chocolate mixture (by hand). Refrigerate until ready to use for trifle.

Choose a lovely crystal bowl (1-1½ quarts). Place a layer of spongecake at bottom. Sprinkle some rum on the sponge. Cover the sponge with a layer of mousse, then whipped cream. Repeat until sponge, rum, and mousse are used. Leave enough whipped cream to decorate the top. Garnish the top with marrons and shaved chocolate. The trifle may also be made with ladyfingers. Yield: eight servings.

Top bartenders' holiday favorites

What do America's most well known bartenders serve to liven their own Yuletide festivities?

Ted Lange, who plays 'Issac Washington' on the hit TV series, "The Love Boat" combines several of his favorite premium products — creating a frosty delight that he prefers to egg nog.

"Archie Bunker's Place" bartender, Jason Wingreen, traditionally welcomes holiday guests with an extra special hot toddy he developed.

The actor, better known as "Harry the bartender" for his role on the show, blends Bell's Scotch — a favorite among bartenders who prefer its rich, mellow flavor — with a variety of spices including a clove-studded lemon wedge.

Here, they share their holiday cheer.

TED LANGE'S THREE BELLS SPECIAL

½ pint vanilla ice cream
1 oz. Bell's Scotch "Extra Special"
1 oz. Kahlua
Ground cinnamon
Crushed ice

In a blender or food processor, combine ice cream (one with a high cream content), Scotch, Kahlua, a dash of ground cinnamon and crushed ice.

Blend for 30 seconds. Serves two.

JASON WINGREEN'S "EXTRA SPECIAL" TODDY

1 tsp. sugar
1 stick of cinnamon
1 lemon quarter studded with 4 cloves
2 oz. Scotch

Place ingredients and a spoon in an old fashioned glass and add boiling water until half full. Serves one.

Frothy holiday eggnog: A treat for kids, too!

SMALL FRY JOIN THE HOLIDAY PARTIES with their own Frosty Eggnog made with Libby's Orange Frost.

Chestnuts roasting, the pungent aroma of mince pie baking, bayberry candles, mistletoe, roast turkey, plum pudding — and a punch bowl brimming with eggnog. They're all part of the warm tradition of holiday hospitality.

But traditional eggnog — "sweetened" with brandy — is off-limits for the small fry.

So why not let them "join the party" this year with an extra-special holiday eggnog of their very own. They'll be back for "seconds" and even "thirds" of this frothy delicious drink made with Libby's Orange Frost drink mix. (And you may find the grown-ups sampling from the "kiddies' table," too).

FROSTY EGGNOG

1 cup orange juice
1 cup prepared eggnog
1 packet (2 oz.) Libby's Orange Frost
1½ cups cracked ice or 8 good-size ice cubes

Combine ingredients in blender container.

Blend at high speed for 30 seconds or until smooth and well blended.

Garnish with ground nutmeg, if desired.

Yields 4 (7 oz.) servings.

Happy Holidays!

Non-alcoholic Christmas cheer

It could be a holiday scene from Currier & Ives. You open your front door to greet neighbors and friends who are carrying small, glowing candles and singing the joyous praises of the season.

Nothing could show your appreciation of their good cheer more than a friendly invitation to decorate your tree, to exchange small thoughtful gifts and, above all, to quench their thirsts with "Carolers' Coolers."

There before their eyes is a festive array of good-tasting, creative drinks that are non-alcoholic, and can be enjoyed by everyone, including the youngest angel of the chorus.

Cups of Christmas cheer can be made by adding the natural sparkle of Perrier to punches that are richly colored by an apple or cranberry juice base or by adding Perrier to a traditional eggnog recipe.

THE NON-ALCOHOLIC Caroler's Cooler or Perrier Nog can be tailor-made for all holiday festivities — from an intimate gathering to an exciting New Year's celebration.

CAROLERS' COOLER PUNCH

12 oz. Concord grape juice
12 oz. Ocean Spray cranberry juice
One 23 oz. bottle Perrier

Combine in punch bowl with lemon twists for garnish.

Serves six.

PERRIER NOG

3 large eggs
3 tbsp. honey
1 ripe banana sliced
½ cup heavy cream
½ cup medium cream
1 tsp. rum flavoring
6½ oz. Perrier

Combine eggs with honey and sliced banana in Osterizer blender at high speed until smooth.

Blend in cream and rum flavoring.

Stir in ice cold Perrier.

Sprinkle with nutmeg.

Your carolling guests will appreciate Perrier's pure, refreshing taste, and the choice of light, non-alcoholic beverages to keep them singing until their heart's content.

For a special touch, serve fancy petit fours, hot roasted chestnuts, fruitcake squares or luscious truffles from Lindt Chocolate of Switzerland to go especially well with the non-alcoholic spirits of the season.

The French, who have staked their reputation on doing everything at the table with style, elegance and good taste, celebrate the Christmas/New Year's holiday season with a magnificent feast called Reveillon.

Annual celebration

Meaning midnight meal, the Reveillon is traditionally celebrated on Christmas Eve following the midnight mass.

Krug Grande Cuvee Champagne is the classic accompaniment to serve throughout the festive dinner. The traditional Reveillon menu begins with oysters, fois gras (goose liver pate), Boudin Blanc (chicken and veal stuffed sausages) and the piece de resistance Oie Rôtie aux Pommes — a large Christmas goose surrounded by apples and vegetables (recipe follows).

The French way

For an extra French touch, serve your guests an elaborate cheese course, following the main course, with or after salad, and before dessert.

ROAST GOOSE WITH APPLES AND VEGETABLES

7-9 lb. goose
Salt and pepper
2 lb. apples, chopped and cored
2 tbl. dried sage
1 cup beer
1 lb. brussels sprouts
1 lb. parsnips
4 tbl. melted butter
¼ to ½ cup goose fat

Preheat oven to 400°F.

1. Season the inside of the goose with salt and pepper, stuff with apples seasoned with dried sage and truss.
2. Pour the beer over the goose and place on a rack in an open roasting pan. Roast goose for 2¼ hours.
3. Meanwhile, boil the parsnips and brussels sprouts until tender.
4. When the goose is cooked, brush with melted butter and return to oven for 10 more minutes. (Raise oven to 450°F.)
5. In a large pan, saute parsnips and brussels sprouts in goose fat from pan drippings. Season lightly with salt and pepper.
6. When the goose is a shiny golden brown remove from the oven and transfer to platter. Surround the goose with the vegetables and garnish with small shiny red apples.

Serves six to eight.

CELEBRATE CHRISTMAS EVE the French way with a regal roast goose surrounded by apples and vegetables, and accompanied by a classic champagne such as Krug Grande Cuvee Champagne.

SOUTHERN POACHED PEARS WITH EGGNOG SAUCE

¾ cup sugar
½ cup Southern Comfort
2 cups water
2 long strips orange peel
4 firm pears pared

• • • • •

1 cup light cream
¼ cup sugar
3 egg yolks
1 teaspoon cornstarch
1 to 2 tablespoons Southern Comfort

Combine sugar, Southern Comfort, water and orange peel in a non-aluminum pan. Bring to a boil.

Core pear, leaving stem intact or cut in half and remove core.

Simmer covered pears in Southern Comfort mixture, turning once or twice, until tender, about 25 minutes.

Cool pears in poaching sauce.

Eggnog Sauce: Heat cream in a heavy saucepan.

Beat sugar and egg yolks until thick and fluffy. Beat in cornstarch. Slowly beat in hot cream.

Return to saucepan. Cook, over low heat stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Do not boil.

Remove from heat immediately and pour into a bowl. Cover and cool.

Stir in Southern Comfort:

To serve, spoon Eggnog Sauce onto serving plate, arrange pears in sauce — cut orange peel into long strips and drape over pear.

Makes 4 servings.

FIRE SAFETY TIPS

Holidays are high risk times for fires. Christmas parties and family get-togethers frequently mean smoking in crowded areas, and can result in careless smoking habits. And careless smoking habits, according to the experts at the Polyurethane Foam Association, are the leading cause of home fires in the U.S.

Follow these easy steps for holiday time fire safety:

- After a party, lift all furniture cushions and look for live cigarette ashes. A hidden cigarette butt can lead to a smouldering cushion that bursts into flames hours later.
- Don't empty ashtrays directly into the trash. A partially lit cigarette can ignite wrapping paper or other trash, resulting in a house fire. Wet down ashtrays before emptying.
- Be careful with candles and other decorations.
- Be sure not to overload household wiring.
- Water a live Christmas tree often, and plan to remove it from the house two weeks after buying it.

Enjoy the holidays, but remember to keep your house fire-safe.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

Give a gift which keeps on working all year 'round

Whether you or a loved one need a quiet corner for your personal computer, a space for your new home business, or a desk for catching up on correspondence, this architectural worktable is a perfect present.

An unfinished door forms the large working area, and can be bought inexpensively at most lumberyards. With the help of Carver Tripp's wood finishing products, the trestle-legged worktable can fit in with any decor, traditional or contemporary.

Just follow these few easy rules in assembling and finishing your worktable.

Collecting your materials

You'll need a 36" by 80" solid core door (A). A hollow core can be used if top supports D are extended to 36" and screws H placed at each end of 2×2. Kiln-dried pieces (A B C D E) can be pre-cut at your local lumberyard.

You'll need hardware (F G H) and an electric drill with four drill bits: ⅛" (for holes on top supports B), 7/64" (for pilot holes on tabletop A), 17/64" drill bit (for holes on top supports D, vertical supports B, bottom legs C and horizontal supports E), and 13/64" (for pilot holes on vertical support B secured to horizontal support E).

A handsaw or power saw, flathead screwdriver, adjustable crescent wrench and #90 and #120 grit sandpaper will finish the assembly job.

Building and finishing

For finishing the worktable, you'll need several lint-free cloths; a good brand of paint thinner for cleaning brushes; a good quality brush and foam applicator; several sheets of #180 and #220 sandpaper and a quart each of one of Carver Tripp's 13 natural wood stains and Super Gloss or Soft Sheen Clear Finish.

Step one: Preparation — Lightly sand each piece with the grain, prior to assembly.

Step two: Assembly of side legs — Place each side together and pre-drill all side pieces with 17/64" drill bit, applying each carriage bolt through each of the six holes drilled. Loosely secure nuts and washers on each carriage bolt.

Step three: Securing horizontal supports — After side legs are secured, place horizontal supports to locate holes to be drilled. Then disassemble side legs.

Place horizontal support (E) on each vertical support (B) and drill 17/64" hole through (E) to (B).

Remove E and drill 17/64" hole through (E) only at previously drilled holes. Before all pieces can be assembled (E) must be secured to (B).

Step four: Attaching table top – Place door (A) on dropcloth covered floor with the good side down. Turn bottom assembly upside down on top of door. Drill 7/64" hole through top support D into door (A).

Be careful not to let drill bit penetrate the tabletop surface by premeasuring the bit and placing a piece of masking tape around the bit to set the desired depth of pilot hole. Remove bottom assembly and redrill ⅛" diameter holes through top supports (D).

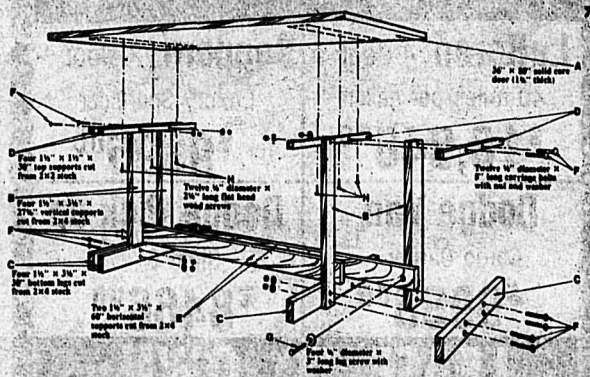
Step five: Staining your worktable. You are now ready to assemble the entire table: Remove all bolts and screws and prepare to stain each surface of each piece. Lightly sand the worktable evenly with #180 sandpaper. With clean rag or a tack cloth, brush away all the dust.

Select one of Carver Tripp's wood stains, asking the dealer to put the quart in a shaker to be sure the product is thoroughly mixed. Dip a foam brush applicator or rag in the stain and apply liberally.

Rub lightly against the grain to be sure that the stain penetrates all the pores. Rub the same cloth over the worktable one more time, going with the grain and removing all excess stain. Let dry according to the directions on the label.

Step six: Top coating and assembling your worktable — Choose a satin sheen (low gloss) or high gloss Carver Tripp Clear Finish. Apply one coat with a 2" China bristle brush and let dry according to the instructions on the label. This first coat will soak into the wood and raise the grain so that it is more visible.

Sand lightly with #220 grit sandpaper and tack off again with a clean rag. Then apply the second coat of clear finish to the worktable parts. After allowing ample drying time, clear all sawdust from working area and assemble worktable as shown in diagram.



BUILDING YOUR WORK TABLE: Standard lumber is cut to dimensions given.
