LAWYERS, JUDGES, COURTS BLAMED

Council fears definite answers

MURRAYVILLE - A local alderwoman here does not like lawyers, judges, and courts of law.

They "hamper democracy," says Ald. Carol Gran.

She explained why to a baffled audience in council chambers Monday afternoon.

It is the fear of being sued that is worrying Gran.

"I don't know of anything we can do any more without that constant threat," she told the six other councilors present.

She called it "an incredible catch-22 situation."

So councilors once again opted for giving a Langley land developer a positive - maybe answer.

Speaking for the Southgate housing development proposal, planner Ken Stinson again asked council to show good faith by giving the initial readings to the company's plans. Before a public hearing, Southgate would then provide the civic planners with details showing that the famous gravel pit in southwest Langley, once slated for a regional mega-dump, would support the development of a 1,664-unit retirement village.

To give even initial approval to the plans would "put council at a psychological disadvantage," meant Ald. Pat Boyle. And other councilors felt that in order for council to even consider the matter they should first of all know if the project is feasible. Otherwise a lawsuit might ensue, Gran thought.

The only councilor showing some understanding for the developers' dilemma seemed to be Ald. Muriel Arnason.

"We are not giving them half a chance," she said. "We are not offering any suitable alternatives."

For the past few years the developers have submitted a number of different

BALLOTS NOT ACCEPTED

Sewers are out

MURRAYVILLE - Other B.C. municipalities are being given "money by the bucketful" from Victoria, says an angry alderwoman here.

Ald. Muriel Arnason said Monday afternoon that she was "absolutely astonished and shocked" when she learned that the provincial government had rejected a community petition for sewers from Murrayville residents.

The inspector of municipalities turned down the petition because it was carried only by a slim majority of Murrayville ratepayers. The deciding factor, as far as the local government was concerned was the fact that the township corporation and the local school board as property owners themselves voted in favor.

The provincial department would not accept this, and without the local government's 'yes' votes, more people were opposed than were in favor.

When the petition was sent to Victoria a few months ago, local officials thought that they had a sure thing going.

It was clearly a disappointment to all council members this week, but Ald. Carol Gran took it more stoically. "If it has failed, it has failed," she said. "And there is nothing we can do about it."

Arnason suggested that council should take money set aside in a contingency fund for the new Langley recreation center and apply this toward the Murrayville sewers instead, but mayor Elford Nundal would hear no talk of this.

"Sewers are definitely more important than recreation," argued Arnason.

She proposed that council take $1.7-million of excess funds and start the Murrayville sewers without Victoria's help. But there was no seconder to her motion.

Reagan, son of the U.S. president, was in Abbotsford with an entourage on opening night of the Ferndale Theatre Club production. Pion, who writes for The Star, played lead role in the live theatre performance.

Driver on track

ALDERGROVE - 77 year old Arend Sikma of north Delta walked away from this Ford after dropping onto the train tracks last Thursday shortly after 2 p.m.

Sikma was headed north on 264 Street when he ran off the roadway just before the bridge at 64 Avenue. The car rolled about 50 feet down the embankment, glanced off the utility pole and flipped over on its roof next to the B.C. Hydro tracks.

The train was held up for about half an hour while Aldergrove firefighters sprayed foam over the leaking gasoline and a tow truck manoeuvred in to clear the vehicle.

Sikma was taken by ambulance to Surrey Memorial hospital for treatment of minor head abrasions. He was alone in the vehicle and RCMP have not laid charges.

CUPE apology delights Gran

MURRAYVILLE - An apology received from the Canadian Union of Public Employees seemed to please Ald. Carol Gran immensely Monday night.

Councilors had threatened CUPE local 403 with a lawsuit after a full-page advertisement appeared in a Langley paper earlier this year.

In January 16 advertisement in the Langley Times the local union intimated that council and administrator Jim Godfrey had been neglectful and careless in laying off snow removal crews and thereby indirectly causing the death of one motorist and injuries to two others.

In a double registered letter dated July 2, union president Don Robertson and CUPE national representative Doris Hanson admit that

Union apologizes

"the advertisement contained statements which were false and without foundation.

"CUPE apologizes to the township and its administrator, Mr. J. Godfrey, for any and all adverse inferences that may have been taken from the advertisement. CUPE says that neither the township nor Mr. J. Godfrey neglected their public duty or acted in a careless manner with respect to the layoffs of outside workers which occurred on January 7, 1985."

Gran called the total retraction "a victory" that would carry "a lot of consequences."

"A very apt apology," she gloated.

The Langley Times printed a retraction shortly after the publication of the ad, in order to mitigate their legal involvement.

proposals for the use of the former gravel pit near the Canada - U.S. border. So far they have been unable to get to first base. Councilors have shown interest but then coyly held back; at times encouraging the owners, the La Pierre family, and then after more plans were submitted once again asking them to go off in a totally different direction.

Summing up this mood Monday afternoon, Arnason said that "once again we go round and around in circles."

Cat burglar on the loose

LANGLEY - RCMP warn the public that a cat burglar is active in this area. Thus far, a total of 58 complaints have been received about burglaries since the end of March.

The perpetrator enters residences between 1 and 4 a.m., while homeowners are asleep. Entry is usually made through windows and patio doors, and the burglar is primarily interested in cash money. Police have no suspects, as yet.

RCMP recommend that homeowners ensure windows and doors are securely locked, and report any suspicious occurences during late night hours to Langley RCMP, 534-4184. Public is reminded that any information on the identity of the burglar can be given to Crime Stoppers, 669-8477. Informants will be eligible for a reward of up to $2,000 and their identity will be kept confidential.

Knife wielder robs store

MATSQUI - At approximately 11:30 a.m., July 6, the Budget Rent-A-Car on South Fraser Way was robbed at knife point of $1,800 in cash.

Suspect described as male, 5'10", dark shoulder length hair, wearing green and red mackinaw jacket and blue jeans.

Suspect fled on foot.

Artists patronized, flags to be flown

MURRAYVILLE - Councilors here have decided to become patrons of the arts.

They will spend up to $1,000 a year of public money on the purchase of local works of art. No guidelines have so far been established.

Aldermen Carol Gran, Patrick Boyle and Muriel Arnason have beeen appointed by mayor Elford Nundal to a committee that will be selecting the purchases.

There is also a possibility that the township soon will be flying its own flag. There is a certain reluctance, however, on the part of officials to order the bunting from an official flag maker, as this would cost $2,000 for 20 flags. Martha Washington, where are you when needed?

Record numbers leaving province

Richard Allen, chief economist of the B.C. Central Credit Union, says as near as he can tell, recent statistics from the federal government show British Columbia is losing population to other provinces at the highest rate since the Second World War.

Statistics Canada calculates interprovincial migration using a formula based primarily on transfers of family allowance cheques.

According to Health and Welfare Canada 3,913 cheques transferred out of British Columbia so far this year, while 3,077 were transferred in- a net loss of 836 cheques.

The StatsCan figures show this to be the greatest net loss since such data was first recorded in 1952.

StatsCan records show a net loss of population for the province only three times since 1952 - in 1975, 1976 and 1982.

"The end result is looking like we're going to be having a net loss of population that is higher than in 1975," says McRae. "There's definitely an outflow going on that is higher than what is normally the case."

Alberta was the most popular destination in the first quarter, receiving 5,163 former B.C. residents. Ontario was the second most popular choice, with 3,294 migrants.

Graham Nobbs, an economist with Employment and Immigration Canada, says British Columbia is experiencing the large population drain because the unemployed are giving up hope that economic woes will end soon.

"Who you gonna call?"

ALDERGROVE - "Dust Busters" are now ready, willing and able to look after your housecleaning for you, for the right price. Cindy, Chris, Brenda, Donna and Sandra are available throughout the Valley, from Chilliwack to Burnaby, for homeowners who lack the time to do their clean-up because of work schedules, illness or who just simply need a break. Special rates are also available for clean-up after or before moving.

Proprietor Sandra Learmonth says the Dust Busters staff work in teams of two, and a general clean of a 900-1200 square foot home costs $50. This includes vacuum, dust and wax furniture, shine counters, cupboards, appliances, sinks and floors and sanitize bathrooms. Additional cleaning needs can also be negotiated, and weekly discounts of 15 percent are available. Pensioners receive a 25 percent discount.

Learmonth says market research has shown great interest in the service. As an example, she says, "All the realtors I've talked to thought it was a great idea, and that it should have come a long time ago. There are many couples who both have jobs and need some more spare time together. If things go well we'd like to expand the business into yard work and gardening, too."

Learmonth aims for professionalism, and in addition to developing the designs of the uniforms and company logo, has applied for bonding of the business. So, to paraphrase Ray Parker Jr., when you've got a problem, "Who you gonna call?" Dust Busters, at 856-7739.

Biting the hand that feeds them

Admittedly it's a crazy world, but we would never have imagined the strange news that came out of Ethiopia last month.

It appears that the Marxist government is making a big profit off the famine that is killing so many of its citizens, by charging the relief agencies hefty fees for unloading their donated food.

Port fees charged on grain are reported to have cost the United States $5 million to unload the 400,000 tons of grain it has given Ethiopia since December.

A Christian relief agency, WorldVision International, had to pay $750,000 in port fees before officials would allow unloading of 40,000 tons of grain. An Irish organization paid $282,000 to offload 2,000 tons and transport it to the famine region.

"International relief experts are quoted as saying that there is nothing unusual about a government charging donor nations fees for bringing in emergency supplies, and they have apparently been favorably impressed by lack of any evidence that Ethiopian officials are siphoning off funds for their personal use.

On the other hand, the Ethiopian government did recently spend $1.5 billion of scarce foreign exchange to buy arms from the Soviet Union.

We wouldn't advocate that aid for the starving should be withheld because of such activities, but we can't help reflecting that they constitute a form of extortion, with the government holding its own people to ransom, prepared to let them die by thousands if there is no payoff.

And as this type of information spreads it will take a lot of steam out of the relief efforts. Nothing may be openly refused, but the total amount of food that is contributed is bound to be significantly reduced.

Compared to the death toll that can be expected to result, the recent taking of U.S. hostages is an insignificant incident, and even the Air India disaster is only a minor tragedy.

Sex addiction hard to break

Sexual addiction can destroy lives, but withdrawal requires a tremendous amount of will power, a meeting of sexual therapists was told recently.

Patrick Carnes, a sex therapist in Eden Prairie, Minn., told a convention of the Society for Sex Therapy and Research that the affliction is similar to alcoholism, compulsive gambling or overeating.

"This is a group (sex addicts) who are literally powerless to stop their behavior," said Carnes. "They put themselves in dangerous situations which affect their health and their family life."

Another panelist, Michael Quadland of the human sexuality program at Mount Sinai Medical School in New York, told the delegates "sexual addiction is the hottest new area in sex therapy." But he added there has been a reluctance among health professionals to deal with the problem.

One reason for the reluctance, he said, is that many therapists discount the theory of sexual addiction as propaganda by the conservative social movement in the United States.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

But don't forget our parks

Editor, The Star, Sir,

I wish to congratulate the councils of the Langleys, both the city and the district, in their effort to bring a year-round swimming pool to this area. It will be a facility that all of us will be very pleased with.

I am, however, concerned that in their enthusiasm the much needed maintenance and improvement of our parks is neglected. As past president of the Aldergrove soccer club, I can attest to the need for good playing fields. These grounds are used by many people for many different activities and their well-being is paramount for our well-being.

Bliss?

Editor, The Star, Sir,

Sometime ago in your paper you made mention of the fact that many students entering college and university could not read or retain what they had read.

It is my honest belief that this is hereditary. Their parents live in the Aldergrove area. My reason for stating this is because outside of Super Valu there is a parking spot for those who are handicapped. It is surprising the number of people who park there who have arms and legs that seem to work rather well.

Another example is that sometime ago the municipal hall sent out notices about water shortages and asked home owners to water at a specified time. On odd and even days referring to house number and calendar dates. It is possible to drive around this area and see sprinklers going at any time.

Maybe the saying "Ignorance is bliss" fits this occasion. There must be many people in this area who are very happy.

Keeping our brother

Editor, The Star, Sir,

Life has taught me that you and I might be responsible for the plight our seniors found themselves in regarding the cutbacks in their pensions because "we are the government."

The Good Book says we are to be "our brother's keeper" not "robber." After all true Christianity is to "visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction," and hospitality is mentioned more often than "the great commission."

Before I retired I used to bypass and ignore seniors and handicapped. I was allergic to them. After volunteering five years right here at the cottage hospital, it sure changed my priorities and lifestyle. I learned that we use every gimmick and excuse under the sun to ignore and close our hearts to their special needs. We travel, we educate, we golf, we bingo, we TV, we attend every imaginable sport and church under the sun. We use that "let George do it" syndrome. A good example was in last week's news: In Moncton, N.B. they couldn't sell 4,000 five-dollar tickets to hear and help Mother Theresa, but in a few hours they sold over 10,000 tickets at about $20 to hear rock singer Tina Turner.

Is it possible we're not only robbing them of their daily bread but robbing them of their greatest need of all --- our concern, compassion and support; a greeting, a smile, a handshake, our friendship, and most of all helping them to die with dignity.

They have so much to offer if we would only let them. They can sure help us live that "abundant life" that everyone is searching for.

I can honestly say they have been the best five years of my life. Of course joining the Happy Gang singers and trying to live the Christian life and having a good wife helps too.

This is the lesson I've learned from life and the "Good Book" and still learning the hard way.

Arts improve our lives

Editor, The Star, Sir,

The Ferndale Theatre Club would like to thank you very much for the excellent coverage you gave us on our recent production of "Footlight Frenzy".

We realize a newspaper is a business and wish that our budget would allow us to buy more than a classified ad. It is most gratifying to have your help with the coverage you gave us.

We believe that theatre specifically and the arts in general, contribute to the quality of life we all enjoy. Theatre also has a very positive therapeutic value for prisoners and is an excellent way for us to integrate back into society.

You have helped us all more than you know.

Thank you.

Macleods open new store in mall

ALDERGROVE - Macleods, the hardware chain established in Western Canada 68 years ago, will officially open their newest store at Aldergrove Centre mall, Thursday, July 18 at 9:30 a.m. Alderman Carol Gran has been invited.

There are more than 250 Macleods stores in the chain. Local manager, Alan Wiley says the store features expansive departments in hardware, plumbing and heating, automotive, housewares and farm supplies. The store will employ one full-time and five part-time personnel.

A large store-wide sale has been planned to coincide with the opening and will run Thursday through Saturday, July 18-20.

In addition to Super Specials each day, Macleods plans to offer some give-aways as well.

Wiley says he would like everyone to drop by during the opening, and is looking forward to continuing to serve the needs of Aldergrove and surrounding area.

Getting ready for Milner Downs summer family show are show organizer Pam Arthur [standing], Cynthia Shaw from the Pacific Riding for the Disabled association, and friend Woody.

Disabled to show

LANGLEY - The district's most spectacular new equestrian facility and the Pacific Riding for the Disabled association are teaming up this month to produce a horse show with a difference.

Milner Downs, located at 21795 - 64 Avenue, is sponsoring a family weekend for ponies, children and amateurs July 20 and 21. There will be a full range of English hunter, jumper and equitation classes offered during the two-day show. Events will be staged at various locations on the 45-acre facility, and all are open to spectators.

Young riders from the association will be competing in the lead line class on Sunday, and will also exhibit their riding skills that day during set demonstrations at approximately 10 a.m., 1 p.m. and 5 p.m.

Officer was a cad

VANCOUVER - The officer was no gentleman - and everybody heard about it.

A Vancouver motorcycle cop spent an hour telling a buddy about his hot night with a woman he met on Sunday. Unfortunately, he didn't know his radio microphone had jammed open and he was broadcasting every steamy word.

As the dispatcher tried to alert him, he told his buddy, among other more unprintable things, the woman "was panting for it" and the escapade was "great for the ego."

The channel was jammed to all other calls while the hot cop unwittingly spilled the beans to everybody tuned in to Channel 3.

Urgent pleas for him to call in immediately were broadcast on all other channels and the dispatcher told other cops to "have him call me" - by telephone.

Don't rush to sign on the dotted line

By MUN HOPE

ALDERGROVE - More and more people are being advised to see a lawyer.

This is especially true when buying a house.

Before signing on the dotted line, it could save the home buyer thousands of dollars just to let a conveyancing lawyer check over the document for ten or fifteen minutes.

"A notary public who works with conveyancing all the time in some cases may be more familiar with the conveyancing of real property than a lawyer who doesn't find that a major part of his practice," said an expert, offering an alternative.

Now, in the case of an automobile accident, involving personal injury such as whiplash, there are lawyers specializing in this field.

Some may do it on a contingency basis, if you were rear-ended. Perhaps some driver ran a red light or did not stop at a stop sign, causing you bodily injury.

"There may be hidden injury which may surface a few years afterwards," said a medical report.

"Don't be in a hurry to sign on the dotted line, even if an attempt is being made to rush you into an early settlement," he continued.

Any early attempt to close the medical file by arbitrarily and prematurely cutting off payment of medical bills is seen as a form of intimidation to effect a quick settlement of the claim.

Sometimes a "generous" offer is made; but a careful examination of the document may reveal an attempt to minimize the physical and other damages, not entirely for the benefit of the accident victim.

It is surprising and it is a rude awakening if the almighty dollar is to take precedence over the physical well-being of the victim of an accident for which he is not responsible.

"How long are we going to tolerate the violation of our human rights by excessive power-control?" exclaimed an indignant citizen.

"Arrogance and deceit have made our charter of rights in this connection, into a worthless piece of paper," he continued.

Human value must not be made subservient to monetary values.

Many accident victims hate having to take legal action to protect their rights; but they are being forced to do so, in order to secure a fair settlement for their claims.

Actually, this was never the intent of the voters who supported a different system when legal costs may be eliminated.

Much against their will, more and more accident victims are being forced to take legal action.

Shewans reinstated, compensated in ruling

ABBOTSFORD - A special board of review has failed to support the school district's suspension of teachers John and Ilze Shewan.

The three-man board found "an appalling lack of judgment" on the part of the Shewans, but not misconduct, and has ordered the six-week suspension set aside, and the couple compensated for all wages and benefits lost during the suspension (about $10,000).

The couple were suspended in January after a nude photo of Ilze, submitted by John, appeared in Gallery magazine.

One of the board members, lawyer Phil Rankin cautioned that the ruling should not be seen as a vindication of the teachers' behavior.

Heavy penalties

Recent cases of pesticide poisoning from B.C. cucumbers and Californian watermelons have caused a crackdown by federal health officials, who will tighten surveillance procedures on imported produce and are planning an education program to ensure growers know which pesticides are allowed on produce.

Every watermelon has been ordered off the shelves because some (less than ten percent) had been treated with Aldicarb.

Symptoms of Aldicarb poisoning include nausea, vomiting, muscle spasms and focussing difficulties.

Canadian growers who spray produce with incorrect chemicals face fines up to $5,000 and up to three years in jail.

4-H councils plan baseball games

By SHARON THOMPSON

MILNER - The Langley 4H Junior Council had their meeting on Wednesday, July 3. A baseball game between the Langley and Abbotsford Junior Councils has been planned for Tuesday, August 6 at 7 p.m. All 4H members from both districts are invited to attend.

On August 14 and 15 a group of Senior 4H members will be going on a hike and overnight camp out. Anyone interested in going along can contact Jeff Morfitt.

Langley 4H was well represented at the Miss Langley pageant by Cindy Mortimer. Although she didn't win, she did very well.

The regional dance was a success. Another dance has been scheduled for Friday, July 26 for the Langley district 4H only.

The next meeting will be held on Wednesday, September 4, at 7:30 p.m. at the BCAI center.

ALDERGROVE - Kohlers mixed slo-pitch team made a profit at their Aldergrove Days tournament, and felt that the best thing was to turn the proceeds over to a recognized charity.

Marnie Hall [centre] accepted the $300 cheque, Saturday for the B.C. Games for the Physically Disabled, from team reps [from left] Darlene Hall, Gary Zuest, Bob Klyne and Piero Vitali.

The Games give Marnie and hundreds of other handicapped children an opportunity to compete at their own level in events such as track & field, basketball and riding. Marnie, who has cerebral palsy, will be competing in swim events for the first time.

She was the Variety Club's Telethon Child in 1981, has resided in Aldergrove since her birth fourteen years ago and is currently attending Aldergrove secondary school.

Kohlers slo-pitch team have made a standing commitment to the C.P. Sports Assoc. The Games will take place in Richmond next weekend.

Softball tourney coming

BRADNER - Softball fans are invited to come out for the midget girls provincial championships next weekend. The Ritchie-Smith team will be hosting five other top teams of 16-17 year old girls from the lower mainland and Vancouver Island, at Bradner community park.

Following opening ceremonies, Friday, July 19 at 1:30, the playoffs start at 2 p.m. and wrap up at 8 p.m. Games are scheduled Saturday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., and Sunday from 9 a.m. The final deciding game starts Sunday at 1:30, followed by awards presentation.

There is no admission fee to the park, at Bradner and Haverman Rd., north of Fraser Hwy., but a freewill silver collection will be made to offset expenses. Everyone is welcome.

Clip along

VEDDER CROSSING - The fifth annual Clipper Classic event will take place on the weekend of July 20 and 21. Participants have in the past travelled from as far away as Manitoba and Montana to take part. There will be cash prizes for the pro class, and prizes or tropies for the amateur divisions.

If you are planning to take part in the Vedder River raft race on July 28 this is your chance to give those paddling muscles some exercise.

The pros start at 10 a.m. at Hwy. no. 1 at the Vedder Canal crossing, first paddling upstream and turning to paddle down to the Fraser River, finishing at the Mission bridge.

By BALL PEN

ALDERGROVE - This whole town was pleased to see the Bantam Girls live there dream of going to the B.C. finals in Kamloops.

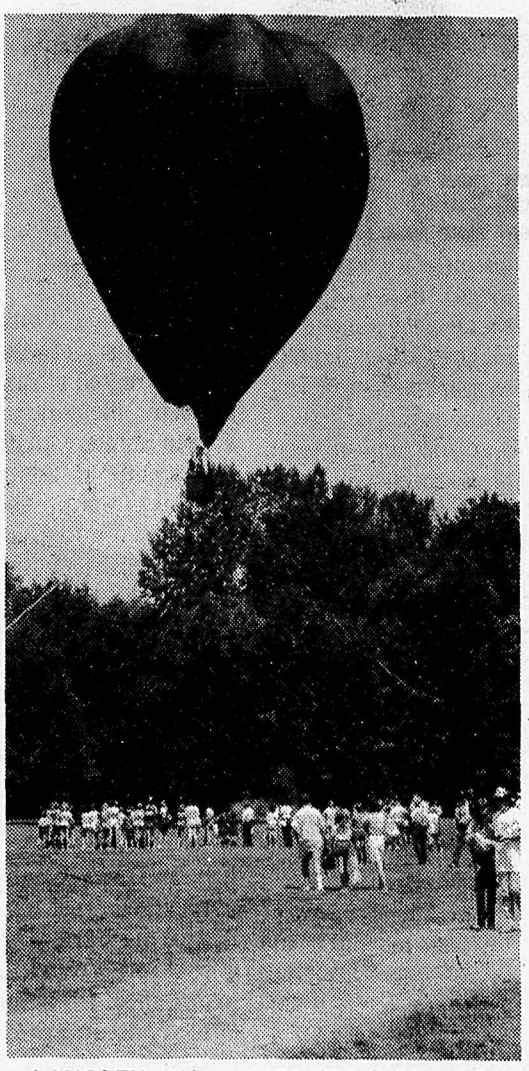
The girls came up big and packed home the gold.

In the first day of action L&M of Aldergrove defeated Kamloops 11 to 3, North Delta 11-3 and Terrace 11 to 2 before tumbling to their only defeat of the tourney to Fort St. John, 14 to 1.

The round robin system placed Nanaimo in first, Fort St. John second and L&M of Aldergrove third. In the second day of play Aldergrove and Fort St. John played a semi-final, which Aldergrove narrowly won 4-3. In the final game of the day with the gold medal up for grabs, Aldergrove defeated Nanaimo 12 to 2.

Gold medals and certificates were handed to Cheryl Waines, Tara Mutter, Lori Glover, Tami Henderson, Kim Fletcher, Shannon Car, Sherri Aitken, Colleen Ingram, Tanya Jensen, Lisa Monk, Jackie Groeneveld, Danna Heppner, LeeAnn Burger and coach Mike Renney. This is now B.C.'s number one team in the bantam girls intermediate division.

The players and coach expressed appreciation to the host association of North Kamloops for the tourney they put on, and thanked the support of their many friends who supported them all year. Well done, girls.



LANGLEY - Almost 900 Girl Guides, plus leaders and supervisors have congregated at Campbell Valley Park for the Rainbow Camp this past week, marking the 75th anniversary of the movement.

Saturday, the Guides hosted an "open house" at the park for families and guests. There were games, foods, hot air balloon rides, square dancing, canoe rides and much more for participants. It culminated with a 3 p.m. parade at the race track.

The campers returned home today.

ASK ANNABELLE

Dear Annabelle,

My husband is trying to sell our 10-year-old car. Everyone who comes to see it gets such a snow job and sales pitch and seem really interested - until they drive it! Annabelle, it is such a wreck and needs a great deal of work; it is not worth what he is asking for it. I know that someone is going to buy it one day and they will sue him for false representation. It worries me sick. Should I have it fixed up on my own or just butt out?

Signed: Loves the lemon.

Dear Loves,

I'm sure you have heard the expression "Caveat emptor" - it means "let the buyer beware" and is the theme song for almost every store or business we deal with these days. Don't waste your time and money getting the old wreck fixed up. Let your husband sell it and just hope a very good mechanic buys it. If not, buy him a bullet-proof vest with the money you've saved. I firmly believe, however, in not cheating people out of the money, so maybe you could be on hand for the buyer and drop a few meaningful hints about the car - if you know what I mean.

Star readers are invited to mail in their questions or problems to ASK ANNABELLE. Use a nom de plume if you wish. The address is ASK ANNABELLE, c-o The Aldergrove Star, Box 220, Aldergrove, B.C., V0X 1A0.

Construction started on $48-million garbage incinerator

BURNABY - Construction has started on the region's first garbage incinerator, a $48-million plant being built in South Burnaby by the Greater Vancouver regional district.

The cost includes $5-million for state-of-the-art pollution control equipment.

The plant is being constructed for the GVRD by GKN Birwelco Limited, a British firm which submitted the lowest tender for the work. The official sod-turning to mark the start of construction took place on June 27.

Plans call for the plant to be in operation within three years. It will handle 140,000 tonnes per year.

Clowns will liven up Fall Fair

By Flora Greenough

ALDERGROVE - No minute will be dull at this year's fall fair, put on by the agricultural association. With all the new entertainment this year the organizers have just added the Cameo Clowns team from Abbotsford. This lively pair have proven themselves to be very entertaining. Children of all ages can get their faces painted with their favorite characters.

Other new faces at the fair will be the Booth of Candles. A fun array of candles in every conceivable shape and form that will amaze and delight.

There will be a booth of beauty and feathers, in the form of hand made corsages. These come in a rainbow of colors.

A popular booth from last year is the Langley detachment of the RCMP. Many children then got their first "inside" look at a police car. Arrangements are being made for another unit to be at the fair this year. For an "in depth" look, or just a friendly chat with the member, look for the open door at the east end of the arena.

Kung-fu and kick-boxing demonstrations proved very popular and entertaining last year, and will be back again to show off their skills.

For those of you who spend the weekend at the fair or for the casual visitor, an important addition this year is the food outlet that will be at the west end of the arena. There will be an enlarged menu for all the hungry. The arena staff will run this outlet.

For the young people who are entered in the junior garden competition; keep those weeds down. If the garden I've seen is any indication of the average youngster, the competition will be great this year.

The Aldergrove library is now featuring a miniature display in their window. A show of "how to" books and the examples of the finished products will not only interest "miniaturists," but is hoped to inspire new people to the "small" world. The library has a very good selection of books on all crafts. If they have not a book that you'd like, the friendly staff will do their utmost to get it for you.

Powerful drama with rich humor

WHITE ROCK - Gwendoline is the haunting tale of a charming eccentric whose choice of love turns a quiet turn-of-the-century Ontario village into a seething cauldron of intolerance. Rich, earthy elements of humor combine with tragedy in this evocative play, the second on the seasonal play bill at the White Rock Summer Theatre.

Artistic director Terence Kelly has done a good job at directing Anna Hagan in the title role of the attractive village spinster. Jon Bryden is the salesman who succumbs to Gwendoline's charms and Drew Borland is 'Jud', one of the village locals who stirs up trouble. Sid Jenner plays 'Pork Easton' and Keith Provost his son, neighbors of Gwendoline who both have to come to terms with their attraction to her free and unusual spirit. Flynn is 'May Jacobs', the eternal embittered and nagging spinster-housekeeper whose wagging tongue creates the trouble that leads the play toward its final climax.

A rich earthy humor adds charm to a powerful drama that ends in both sorrow and triumph.

Like most other shows put on by the White Rock players, it is a thoroughly enjoyable experience right through to the final curtain.

Original music by composer Bruce Ruddell underscores the production. Set designs for the turn-of-the-century piece are by Doug Welsh, with costumes by Jean Driscoll-Bell and Leslie White, and lighting by Gerald King.

Tickets for Gwendoline and the theatre's two other performances are available at White Rock Playhouse, 1532 Johnston Road, or by calling 536-7535. Gwendoline plays in repertory with Bedroom Farce. Blithe Spirit opens July 19, after which all three plays are rotated back to back until September 14.

Tim Reid has thoughts on a serious subject

By Constance Pace

Tim Reid started his career as a comedian, in the comic team of Tim and Tom (Dreesan), achieved fame as DJ Venus Flytrap on the sitcom "WKRP in Cincinnati," and now plays the serio-comic role of detective Downtown Brown on "Simon and Simon." In real life, however, Reid is a serious man who is passionately devoted to an extremely serious cause — de-glamorizing the use of drugs in film and on TV.

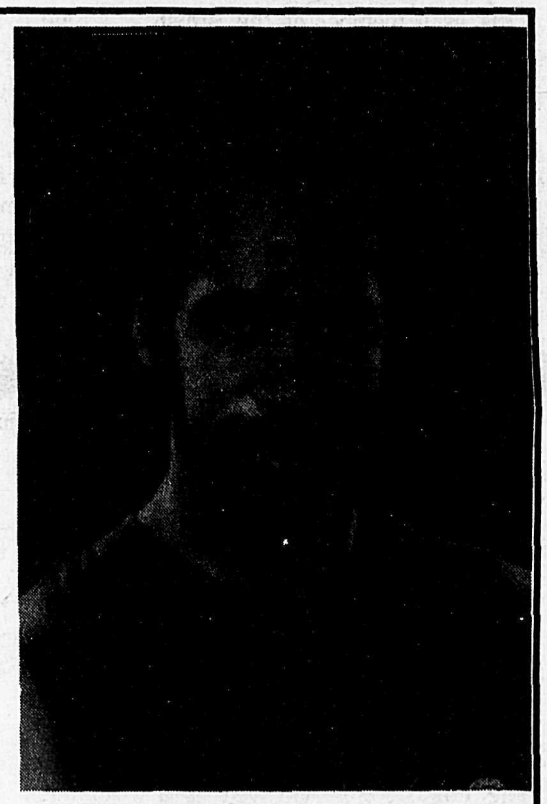
"I believe in standing up for what you believe in," says Reid, who is on the board of directors of the Entertainment Industries Council for a Drug-Free Society, along with his "Simon and Simon" co-star Gerald McRaney.

Reid got involved in the cause in 1969, when he and his partner, Dreesan, would go to schools and lecture against drug abuse. "Back then (the cause) didn't get any publicity. Everyone thought drugs were relegated to the ghetto. But that was a myth. It was something middle-class kids were into. It runs rampant through every sector of the world."

He stays involved today "because I've got (three) teenage kids and I want them to see what I'm out there fighting for and hopefully they'll think twice." He also says he's never personally used any hard drugs.

Reid believes that "drug use is the same among all groups — whether it be actors, or lawyers, or dentists — but the high visibility of people in the entertainment industry glamorizes drugs and contributes to the problem." Reid feels that TV has cleaned up its act somewhat in the last few years, doing strong TV movies on the subject and producing anti-drug series-episodes. "But we've got a long way to go in films. Youth films today are deplorable — they're all motivated by producers' greed."

In the last two years, Reid has testified twice before the Senate Subcommittee on Special Investigations about the way in which celebrities serve as role models for youth. "Very few people know Macky (MacRaney) and I testified. When stars get arrested for drugs, that's when they get publicity," he says bitterly.



Reid desperately wants Hollywood to hear and heed the anti-drug message now and to move toward self-regulation. "There's always the possibility that some ultraconservative group will come out here and try censorship. We should pull back. We should not let greed ruin this industry."

Brigadoon's skirling tunes in the park

Replete with whirling plaids and skirling music, the enchanting musical comedy "Brigadoon" will be produced by Theatre Under The Stars at Malkin Bowl Vancouver beginning July 18 and playing in rep. with 'Damn Yankees' through August 17. Guy Ethier (Tommy) and Christine Anton (Fiona) are the featured romantic leads in this captivating Scottish fantasy written by Alan Jay Lerner and Frederick Loewe. The original Broadway production of "Brigadoon" ran for almost two years, won the N.Y. Drama Critics' Award in 1947, made a record-breaking tour of the United States and Canada and has continued ever since to be one of the most popular musical shows in American stage history.

Blending words, music and dance, "Brigadoon" tells of the adventures of two vacationing Yanks in the Scottish highlands who stumble into the picturesque and fantastic village of Brigadoon on the one day it comes to life every hundred years. Here the people live from century to century in an aura of enchanting and peaceful delight while the rest of the world wears itself out. The Yanks, one romantic and the other sarcastic are given the choice of remaining in Brigadoon or going back to the hurly-burly of the modern world. This choice comes in the form of two lovely Scottish maidens, one sweet and the other impudent.

Set to the background of authentic Scotch burrs, tartans, plaids and bagpipes the action moves through an inventive blending of romance, comedy, drama and excitement with such song hits as "Almost Like Being in Love", "The Heather on the Hill", "Come to Me, Bend to Me" and "From This Day On".

The breathless suspenseful Sword Dance, the gay Wedding Dance, the dramatic Chase, and the moving Funeral Dance are all based on the Highland Flings and other Scottish folk dances. They contribute some of the most pleasurable scenes to the show.

The production has been staged and choreographed by Grace Macdonald and the musical director is David Fryer. The settings are by Jean Claude Oliver with costumes from Malibar Ltd. in Toronto.

Tickets are available at all VTC-CBO outlets. Tickets are also available at Malkin Bowl during the day and at the door. For Season Tickets and further information please call 687-0174. All curtain times are 8:30 p.m.

RECORD REVIEW: STING WINS

By KURT LANGMANN

The Dream of Blue Turtles
Sting
(A&M Records)

Sting has proven himself as a potent singer and songwriter with the Police and as an arresting personality in his thus-far brief acting career. He's enjoyed astonishing success considering his humble beginnings in the late '70s as a member of the British bleached-hair trio.

All this wealth and fame might well be expected to expand an ego, and it likely has, but this doesn't mean that Sting's first solo album effort is a bloated exercise in conceit. Sting has never on the Police recordings been as direct and honest in his lyrics and the music is limpid, with textures not found on Police recordings.

I managed to get a few moments with Sting at a crowded press reception at Puccini's, just after the release of the third Police album, Zenyatta Mondatta. I told him that I was surprised that his band did not show influences from his previous experience as a double bass player with jazz bands. He replied that it had, "only been mere dixieland bands - nothing too serious." The Police were conceived as a pop expansion on reggae, which had been growing in popularity, especially in England.

Sting's choice of backup players on Dream of Blue Turtles shows he does know and appreciate jazz, however modest he may have been about his own skills. Branford Marsalis, Kenny Kirkland, Omar Hakim and Darryl Jones are not only among the most esteemed black jazz players working today, they are also expensive. Sting's given them some hefty, meaty music to sink their chops into, and in the process may give jazz the same commercial credibility that the Police gave reggae.

The songs are good, with something to say and are a welcome alternative on the airwaves and the home stereo. It deserves to sell well and it will.

Incidentally, Sting has taken this music and band on tour, although there are no local dates confirmed as yet.

Brothers In Arms
Dire Straits
(Vertigo Records)

Straits' front-man Mark Knopfler offers a varied selection of music and themes on the new album, but like Sting, his major attention is directed at the political. Fear of nuclear holocaust is a current priority, particularly at the European "front line."

Side two is serious stuff but it can be tedious. Still, Knopfler's guitar playing is always a pleasure and he keeps busy on the fretboard, with his one-of-a-kind style and fluidity.

Side one is a real treat, especially the three lead-off tracks, So Far Away, Money For Nothing and the catchy (oh, so catchy) Walk Of Life. Money For Nothing is uncharacteristically heavy-handed but the sarcastic lyrics about music videos as seen through eyes of a blue collar worker hit the mark. It has a bite and keen humor. It's just a pity Knopfler couldn't have balanced the album with more of the same flash and power.

Knopfler and crew play Vancouver, Sept. 21-22, in a long overdue return visit. Their performance will be a show you won't forget in a lifetime; they are fabulous. Recordings and videos could never fully do justice to their excitement and skill in a concert setting.

Time-Spirit of Love
The Other Life
(RMR 45 single)

This new single is the result of a collaboration of three Aldergrove secondary students, Shane Smith, Mike Spencer and Roland Morris.

Smith is songwriter, singer and guitarist. Spirit of Love is a competent, if not spectacular soft ballad, with Smith's hesitant vocals and 12-string. His metaphor is a mite depressing, however.

Side two, Time is much more interesting. Co-written by Smith and Mike Spencer, the tune has an ambience that's highly attractive; trendy but original. Spencer's layers of keyboards - synthesizers and piano-weave in and out of the tune, complementing Smith's vocals quite nicely. The song is an expansion of a poem dedicated to Aldergrove's '85 grads, but with some boosts in production could conceivably find its way to radio. Still, for a first effort, producer Roland Morris did a good job.

It's also a mid-tempo tune, but drummer Mark Gruft gave it the right touch and flourish. The record is currently being sold independently, but copies are available at Neighborhood Video, beside Smitty's.

Books to stop

ALDERGROVE - The Fraser Valley library bookmobile will stop at 248 Street and 54 Avenue on July 2, 16 and 30 between 2:30 and 3:15 p.m.

Take me out to the ball game

There's a special treat in store for baseball fans at the July 12 game between the Vancouver Canadians and the Tacoma Tigers at Nat Bailey Stadium. During the pre-game show (6:45 - 7:15) members of the cast from Theatre Under the Stars production of "Damn Yankees" will be performing a medley of tunes from the pennant-award-winning musical.

Preparations are now underway for Theatre Under the Stars to return to Malkin Bowl in Stanley Park for its 17th season of summer family entertainment. The season opens July 18 with the mystical musical of the Highlands, "Brigadoon" and plays in repertory until August 17 with "Damn Yankees" which opens on July 19 and plays until August 16.

Tickets are available at all VTC-CBO outlets. Tickets are also available at Malkin Bowl during the day and at the door. For Season tickets or further information please call 687-0174. All curtain times are 8:30 p.m.

Naturalists visit Alouette

By MARY PASTRICK

LANGLEY - Under overcast sky, and cool weather, the Langley Field Naturalists walked at a brisk pace on a field trip to Alouette park, led by Ray Gurr.

The blue grouse, the varied thrush, stellars jay, ruffed grouse and winter-wrens were heard. A rufous hummingbird displayed his courtship flight. It is not known if this impressed his intended mate, but it did impress the naturalists.

Along the path, most spring flowers were in bloom, such as salal, salmon berry, elderberry, bleeding hearts, yellow violets, wild lily-of-the-valley, star flower, star-flowered solomon's seal and licorice fern. Sure signs of spring. Some big hailstones reminded us of an early spring.

Visitors from England and Holland joined the naturalists on the trip to Campbell Valley park. The two Englishmen travelled to many birding hot-spots to identify as many birds as possible while on vacation. They had 190 species in three weeks and were eager to photograph the black-headed grosbeaks at Campbell Valley. There were several of the grosbeaks in the marsh area, but always just out of range or flying overhead into larger trees, making photographing difficult.

A flock of bantailed pigeons flew across the marsh and willows fly-catchers were busy at catching insects in the marsh where the marsh wrens scolded from their nests in the cattails. The brown creepers and swainsons thrush chimed in from well hidden spots in the woods and little hummingbirds siphoned nectar from honeysuckle and foxglove flowers.

The little green heron lifted from the marsh and flew across the cattails landing in shallow water near the bridge. And the creel of the red-winged blackbirds could be heard in the marsh with their neighbors, the marsh wrens and yellowthroats.

Cedar waxwings flocked on the elderberry and salmon berry fruit. The newly formed hazelnuts will give the jays and squirrels a tasty meal when winter comes.

A total of twenty-five species of birdlife was seen, regardless of dogs running unleashed.

Weekend camping from July 19 to 21 at Lone Duck Lake. Register with Dan Rempel at 581-6932.

Wednesday evening walks begin at 7 p.m. sharp, from the Langley Arts Centre, 4899 - 207 Street. Walks continue from July until the end of August. The nature walks are conducted to local areas in search of nature sightings and usually last from one and a half to two hours.

Next regular meeting on September 20 in the Langley Arts Centre at 7:30 p.m.

A double shot: Clapton and Parker

A genuine living legend, Eric Clapton is one of the world's great guitarists and his contributions as a pioneering stylist and consumate musician closely parallel the development and progression of rock music. Eric Clapton will be making a rare Vancouver appearance July 27 at the Pacific Coliseum.

Clapton first came to the public's attention with "The Yardbirds" in 1964. He later left the Yardbirds for a brief stint with John Mayall's Bluesbreakers where he was a major contributor in updating the classic blues sound. In 1966 he formed "Cream", a three piece improvisational group featuring Jack Bruce on bass, and Ginger Baker on drums. With Cream, Clapton enjoyed major commercial success and established himself as rock's greatest guitarist. Cream recorded such rock standards as "Sunshine of Your Love", "White Room", "Spoonful" and "Badge". Cream disbanded giving way to "Blind Faith" in 1968, who produced a single classic album. In 1970 he formed "Derek & The Dominos" a band which also featured Duane Allman on guitar. This band produced "Layla" which showed Clapton at his best. In the '70s Clapton produced many successful solo albums, among them, 461 Ocean Blvd., featuring his version of Bob Marley's "I Shot the Sherriff", and another successful album "Slowhand" with the hit "Lay down Sally".

Most recently Clapton has released "Behind the Sun" produced by Phil Collins. The new album shows a more aggressive side of Eric Clapton and is destined to become one of the year's biggest sellers!!!!

Opening the show for Clapton is Graham Parker & The Shot. Graham Parker surfaced out of what was known as the English "Pub Rock" scene in the mid '70s. His first album, "Howlin Wind" was critically acclaimed. Subsequent releases "Heat Treatment", "Stick To Me", "Squeezing Out Sparks" caused his following to grow steadily.

Parker has always delivered as a live performer, and was according to Bruce Springsteen "The only performer I'd pay to see"!!!

Graham Parker is touring to support his new album "Steady Nerves", featuring the hit "Wake Up (Next to You)".

Tickets at all VTC-CBO outlets.

R.E.M. returns

R.E.M. return to the Commodore this Saturday evening, on the heels of their fabulous third album, "Fables of the Reconstruction". Their ringing guitars, graceful vocals and dreamlike melodies are fabulous on record, but "live" they have remarkable energy and charm. Tickets at VTC-CBO outlets.

Something for all ages at the Fort

FORT LANGLEY - Celebrate the August long weekend with the folks at Fort Langley! It's Fort Festival time and Fur Brigade weekend.

If you're younger than 10, the Mulberry Street Band is for you. If you are a teenager or youth, try the Midnight Flyers bluegrass music. If you're adult, enjoy the Vancouver Guitar Quartet, the Vancouver Wind Trio or the New World Consort. If you're any age, but young in spirit, don't miss the Wives' Tales Storytellers or the Mime Group.

Everyone will enjoy the campfire singsong, the strolling barbershop quartet, and the Lion's club barbeque.

Festival passes (which are transferable) cost $25 and guarantee entry to nine concerts. Tickets will also be available at the door before each concert. The Oliver Gannon Ensemble dance Saturday evening costs $6. The Friday night Dixieland Stomp is free - and so is the Sax City concert on the lawn in front of city hall Saturday at 3 o'clock.

Fort Langley provides a 19th century atmosphere with festivities that 20th century explorers enjoy.

AFRICAN BENEFIT

Royal pair aids live show

LONDON - Prince Charles and his wife, Diana, will launch the London end of the Live Aid transatlantic rock music spectacular on July 13 to aid famine victims in Africa.

The royal couple will team up with a host of rock stars in London's Wembley Arena to boost the concert, which is expected to raise the equivalent of $18 million Canadian for famine relief.

The Live Aid concert is being televised live from London and Philadelphia to 100 countries. Organizers say they expect 80 percent of the world's television sets to be turned on - a viewing audience of about one billion people.

BETWEEN THE COVERS

Intriguing novels

By BRENDA ROSS, Community Librarian

Aldergrove Library continues to feature new books. "Fly Away Home," by Marge Piercy is an intriguing novel. Daria Walker, a successful cookbook writer is dismayed when her husband Russ, demands a divorce. Strange phone calls and notes lead the confused Daria to discover his secret life of arson and murder, making a mockery of twenty-two years of marriage.

Mary Gordon's new novel "Men and Angels" concerns a different horror threatening a happy family life. Anne Foster, an art historian, hires a twenty-year old live-in babysitter, Laura, unaware that she is a religious fanatic determined to "save" Anne and her children. Anne treasures motherhood, and as her friend Barbara says "When you are a mother, you think with your claws." Nevertheless, when disaster strikes, Anne is unable to protect her children from the gruesome reality.

In the children's section of the library, registration for the super snooper summer reading club started on July 2. This is not a competition. The library encourages students to set their own individual reading target for summer pleasure reading. Come to the local library, situated in the Aldergrove Centre Mall, to receive a super snooper reading booklet and button.

Borrowers familiar with the large print collection of books have been pleased with a recent exchange of titles with other libraries. These books are excellent for readers having difficulty with small print. They include a wide variety of authors, with an added attraction being the color co-ordinated covers (e.g. orange for westerns, blue for romance, and black for mysteries).

PRIZZI'S HONOR (R-20th Century-Fox) Starring Jack Nicholson, Kathleen Turner, Robert Loggia. ★ ★ ★

Off-beat foul play pleases

By J.T. YURKO

The film season is only half over, but "Prizzi's Honor" has to be the offbeat movie of the year. To describe what it is like would take more room than we have here, so perhaps it's better to start off with what it's not.

Although the film is set in the world of organized crime in New York City about 10 years ago, it really isn't a gangster film. Although it begins with a gangland wedding, it isn't a spoof of Francis Coppola's "Godfather" films. Although Jack Nicholson and Kathleen Turner have a rather bizarre love affair, it isn't a love story. And although some of the action is very violent, many of the scenes are hilariously funny.

Nicholson, in one of his finest performances ever, plays a Brooklyn hit-man for the mob — kind of a cross between a young Vito Corleone and a Damon Runyon character. At the wedding of the Don's granddaughter, he spots a lovely young lady (Kathleen Turner) who is also a hit-woman. From here, relationships intertwine, identities are mistaken, and the whole thing could easily play as a frothy French farce, were it not for the rather gruesome murders.

Veteran director John Huston has never been afraid to take chances with his films, and this may be his biggest gamble yet. For instance, the profession (paid assassin) of the two lead characters is hardly likely to win our sympathy. But Huston's light-but-never-silly touch, and Nicholson's superb performance actually make us sympathize with the gangland murderer.

Part of that is due to Kathleen Turner's equally fine performance as the shapely half of the murder-for-hire pair. The audience is never quite sure about her character, and part of the appeal of the film is watching how our sympathies switch back and forth between Nicholson and Miss Turner, as the two sink deeper and deeper into foul play.

And what an ending! It may leave you bewildered, grossed-out, motionless or emotionless, but then again, that's what you expect from an offbeat movie.

Aldergrove Lake trails improved

ALDERGROVE - Improvements to the trail system in Aldergrove Lake regional park, on the Langley-Matsqui border, will be carried out this year with $14,000 approved by the Greater Vancouver regional district.

Silent trains nixed

MURRAYVILLE - Councilors here would not go along with a recommendation made by their public works committee chairman, Ald. John Beales, this week.

Beales had suggested that council enact a new bylaw to eliminate train whistling at Fort Langley railroad crossings. Some residents of the small village, annoyed by the noise, have asked that this be done.

However, other councilors were concerned. Not by the possibility of motorists being struck down by train engines at the open crossings, but rather by the chance of the municipality bearing the legal responsibility of such crashes if the engineers were ordered to approach the crossings in silence.

Warm weather doesn't discourage

By DOREEN FOLKARD

ALDERGROVE - The weather was warm for a dance, but a very happy crowd turned up for the Saturday evening dance. It attracted a visitor from as far away as New Brunswick. Alex Caissie was the visitor. From nearer home came Doris Munce and Rita Gorman of Chilliwack. The door prize was won by Slim Burrel and Mike Wolchuk, spot prize by Bev Hartley and Bob Hare.

SFU playwrights recognized

BURNABY - Electric Sheep and Response are two very different plays, but each offers a strong social statement in compelling form. Electric Sheep, by David A. Joyce and Response, by Janet Brook, are products of the centre for the arts playmaking course -- and resulted in the nomination of Joyce and Brook for the first-ever Betty Lambert Memorial prize.

Professor Marc Diamond of Simon Fraser University describes Joyce's play as "very expressionistic" dealing with an obsession with television and connecting to the Keegstra trial. Brook has written a one-woman show in which the player is deciding whether or not to have an abortion. Her dialogue with the unborn child is "highly poetic and compact."

"It is a beautiful play, really," Diamond says.

TRAVEL TALK

By MICHAEL VAN DE LAAR

You no longer have to be rich to enjoy luxurious, comfortable fishing. For about the same price as an average fish camp with bunkhouse accommodation and small open boats, you can charter a 32 foot luxury yacht complete with skipper/guide. These yachts sleep 4, are completely stocked with gourmet food, 2 showers, all fishing gear, refrigerators, electricity and more ... for one economical price. The guide does all the work, and all you do is fish and relax.

The yachts operate out of base camps in some of B.C.'s best proven fishing grounds and finest scenery, with a cruising range of 250 miles of islands, sunsets, beaches and mountains ... don't forget your camera.

Yacht charters are great for corporate groups too ... a hassle-free environment to relax and get things done, meeting facilities at the base camp, and excellent standards of service make fishing charters a great incentive or reward.

Whether you charter with family, friends, or business associates, you can enjoy luxury at economy prices. The big Chinooks start running in mid-July so call Starburn Travel today for more information.

GVRD urges Hwy. 1 upgrading in lower mainland

BURNABY - Greater Vancouver regional district directors have urged the provincial government to give priority to upgrading Highway No. 1 in the lower mainland.

The directors, representing Greater Vancouver municipalities, took the action in response to a letter from the city of Langley which stated that "it seems the provincial government has no plans to upgrade and expand the traffic facilities on Highway No. 1 and, more particularly, the Port Mann bridge."

The regional board requested the province to "re-examine the lower mainland transportation plan and give top priority to substantial improvement of Highway No. 1 from the Second Narrows bridge to Abbotsford.'

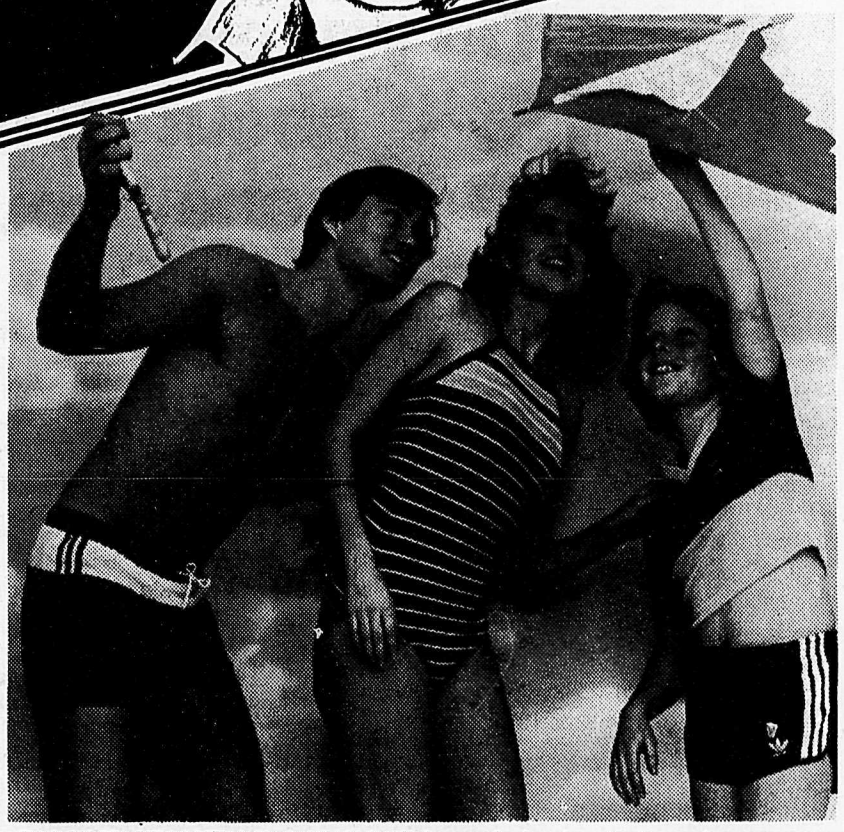
Sam wants to be unique

What makes Fantastic Sam's different from its competitors is its unique approach to business and its concept of total haircare. The principles upon which the company is based are simple but sound: quality service is guaranteed; value for the money is ensured; and a cheerful and clean atmosphere is provided, while the entire family's haircare needs are met.

The total environment of each store is a major component of its success. The outstanding feature of a Fantastic Sam's store is its clean and orderly appearance. To develop and maintain a cheerful atmosphere, the store is painted in soft, warm colours and is equipped with a Fantastic Machine that plays cartoons. To make a haircut less traumatic for children, the Fantastic Machine accepts a lock of hair in return for a toy surprise after each cut. Games, balloons, and gum are also distributed to the children, and parents receive a complimentary cup of coffee with each visit.

At Fantastic Sam's, emphasis is placed on the training of professional personnel. All of their haircutters are trained to provide every service connected with haircare. They are trained in state-of-the-art company training programs, seminars, and workshop sessions.

Fantastic Sam's aims to please the most discriminating customer.



FOR YOUR UPCOMING VACATION DAYS fun on the beach or in the pool, next to sunshine, the most important ingredient is comfortable, stylish clothing. New adidas beach and "funwear" styles offer you good reason to update your wardrobe. For in or out-of-the-water activities, the adidas poly/nylon/cotton three-color Breaker short and the ladies Trinidad Antron nylon/lycra suit present an exciting alternative in varying fashion colors. For Junior, the Brian short, a 100 percent polyester tricot short, and the Stamford Jr., a poly/cotton jersey Schimmel shirt, will add an airy note to summer fun.

Total Body Care Makes For Looking Your Best.

SUN & SKIN

Now that we are well into summer it's time to really take special care of our bodies. Salty ocean breezes, chlorinated pools & the hot sun can be very hard on your skin.

The newspapers & T.V. are constantly warning people of the dangers & damages the sun can do to skin, hair & nails. Now, more than ever, night, day & eye creams are an absolute must. Night creams will feed & replace the moisture collagen & elastine to keep your skin youthful soft & supple. Day creams contain a light filter to provide a highly effective protection against aging & everyday elements. Eye care creams are formulated for the special needs of the sensitive eye area. They are of a very light consistency made to protect delicate eye zones & will visibly smooth away fine lines & eye wrinkles.

Sun worshippers should use a good protecting sun screen, plus an after-sun lotion to maintain body moisture.

Our estheticians will see to all your skin needs. We at Beautiful You carry two of Europe's finest products: Ellen Betrix and Thalgo. We also have hair care, sun beds, electrolysis, boutique, make-up artistry and many more treats for you.

Phone for an appointment for free consultation or to book your appointment.

Happy feet for smiling faces

By FAYE of Take Time Studio

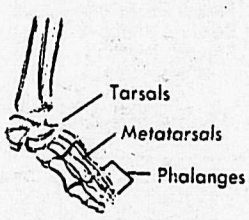
In summer your feet are showing! What story are they telling about you?

The foot and ankle are intricately made. The foot has 26 bones. There are seven tarsals (ankle bones), five metatarsals (bones at top of foot) and fourteen phalanges (bones of the toes).

The foot bones are held together in such a way as to form a springy, lengthwise arch. Arch strength depends upon bones and ligaments, not muscles.

The foot has three arches:

(a) Medical longitudinal arch - the long,



main arch. At the inner aspect, it involves the area from the calcaneus bone to the far ends of the inner three metatarsals. Since both areas are in contact with the ground it gives the foot strength.

(b) Latual longitudinal arch - the short arch at the outer aspect, it extends from the calcaneus and cuboid to the far ends of the outer metatarsal.

(c) Transverse arch - extends from the outer to the inner aspect, lying under the metatarsal.

Skin is thickest on the soles of the feet, as well as the palms of the hand. The feet and spine are the "workhorses" of your body.

To make your feet feel better, try:

(a) Elevating them when possible.

(b) Using a pumice during bathing.

(c) Creaming and powdering.

If your feet aren't "happy" make an appointment with your esthetician for a pedicure. A pedicure is similar to a manicure, but includes callous removal. You can also just have callouses removed.

Extra pampering for your feet is available. Having a mask made for them makes them feel cool and improves skin texture.

At home you can do foot exercises which will improve circulation and dexterity:

(a) Role a bottle with your soles, from toe to heel and back. Repeat ten times.

(b) Grasp a towel with your toes, hold in the air, and let go. Repeat ten times.

Then you'll be able to keep on walking, jogging, working or just standing and not only will you be happy that your feet are showing, but you'll have a smiling face.

Summer hairstyles

Summertime beauty is unique in that it strives for cool comfort. Cool cotton and crisp linen fashions are perfectly accompanied by hairstyles that suit the season.

For a sweltering summer day, nothing beats the heat better than hair that is swept up from the back of the neck and secured in a french twist or knot.

Always elegant for evening, fresh or silk flowers may be added for that special occasion. But, there need not be a reason to add flowers to your hair. Placing one behind one ear creates an exotic allure.

Colorful combs in a rainbow of summer shades give a lift to even the shortest of hair. Whether it lifts a wisp from your right eye or holds a bun in place, a decorative comb can do wonders for summer styles.

Let's not forget the classic pony tail for longer hair — casual, cool and convenient — or any number of braids.

And, for shorter hair, add a flower or barrette for a look that's cool, comfortable and beautiful.

Diet Facts & Fallacies
HOW TO WIN AT THE LOSING GAME
DIET CENTER

MONOSODIUM GLUTAMATE

Monosodium Glutamate is used as a flavor enhancer in many prepackaged foods, such as soups and gravy mixes. It can also be found in a variety of other foods, such as casseroles; vegetable, meat and poultry dishes. While it adds no flavor of its own to foods, it enhances their flavor, and only a small amount is needed to do so effectively.

MSG (Monosodium Glutamate) is a white, crystalline material; and according to federal laws, it must be listed on packaging labels when used in a product.

Even though it is believed to be safe for human consumption, there are some people who may have a reaction to it, such as chest pain or burning sensations. These symptoms are only temporary, but a consumer experiencing such reactions may want to avoid its use.

Fresh foods contain no additives or preservatives, and are sealed in natures own nutritious wrappers.

Your Diet Center Counselor can provide you with additional information regarding food additives and preservatives.

Sex, bugs and your friendly MPs

OTTAWA - Corrupt senior government officials had the House of Commons bugged to the hilt, even listening to private caucus discussions, says a former Commons Speaker.

Lloyd Francis, now ambassador to Portugal, said the officials installed electronic listening devices to protect themselves from investigations into other corrupt activities.

The officials have since been fired or demoted and the bugs have been removed, he said in an interview taped for the Public Archives.

Francis said he became aware of widespread corruption when he was appointed deputy Speaker to Jeanne Sauve in 1980.

Among his claims were:

- He and Sauve found cases of sexual exploitation, including procuring girls for entertainment.
- A woman was told by a senior personnel officer that she would have to take her clothes off to get a job.
- People who didn't work for the Commons were found on the payroll.

James Jerome, who preceded Sauve as Speaker, said yesterday he had no knowledge of any of the serious wrong doings.

Police offer reward in sex case

LADNER - Police believe a man who is wanted in connection with the sexual assault of an 11-year-old girl is also responsible for similar attacks on young girls throughout the lower mainland.

On April 7, 1984, the man stalked two 11-year-old girls who were with a group on a field trip to Ladner harbor park. The pair of girls had left the main group to explore a well-travelled path in the woods when they were approached by the man.

He wore a clear plastic bag with white let tering over his head and grabbed the two children by their coat collars, propelling them into the woods where he sexually assaulted one.

The man is described as white, in his late 20s or early 30s, five foot 10 inches in height, approximately 165 to 175 pounds, with sandy or light brown hair. He had hair on the back of his hands and knuckles.

At the time of the attack, he was wearing blue jeans, a yellow knit pull-over sweater, and white runners with a blue stripe zig-zag pattern.

Since this man targets young children as his victims, police are eager to apprehend him. If you have any information, call Crimestoppers at 669-TIPS (8477). Crimestoppers pay up to a $2,000 reward for information leading to the apprehension of individuals connected with a serious crime and callers can remain anonymous.

Patch job, says Arnason

MURRAYVILLE - An engineering report has recommended that $25,000 worth of repairs be done to the 8th Avenue bridge over Bertrand Creek.

Originally council had budgeted $136,000 for a new bridge in south Aldergrove west of Coghlan Road.

One alderman, Muriel Arnason, had some misgivings when the report was brought up in council this week. She called it "an expensive patch job."

The concrete bridge was built about 30 years ago and needs some major renovations.

More tickets sold than Expo expected

VANCOUVER - Claude Richmond, Minister of Tourism - Expo 86 announced that advance ticket sales for Expo 86 are surpassing all expectations in the first two months of sales.

"More than 100,000 British Columbians have signalled their support of Expo 86 through early ticket commitments," Richmond stated. "With almost 800 corporations involved in payroll deduction plans and the growing interest from the travel and tour industry, we feel confident that Expo will meet its attendance projections."

As of June 22, 840,797 total visits have been committed.

The ticket program has been in operation since May 2, the same day the Expo Centre was unveiled. The Expo Centre has been open only on weekends since that time and to date 175,000 visits have been recorded.

This is the first time in the history of world expositions that tickets have gone on sale a full year in advance of opening day. It is also the first time a pavilion has been open to the public a year in advance of an exposition.

Expo Centre is now open seven days a week for the summer.
