HAVE A GOOD TIME

'Old-fashioned' festival days back

ALDERGROVE - Festival Days are here again.

This coming Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Miss Aldergrove 1991, Kerry Brown, will reign supreme over the festivities at Aldergrove's 'old fashioned days'.

Extravaganza of events and good family entertainment will begin on Friday, June 7 at the two local malls, Parkside school and the Kinsmen community centre, with a casino at the local Legion hall between 8 o'clock in the evening and 1 o'clock, Saturday morning. Friday's program includes Castle Amusement rides and a Pepsi challenge 'taste patrol', bingo on the hour at the Centre mall, old-fashioned movie between 2 and 4 p.m., kids' creation market from 4 to 5:30, again followed by an old fashioned movie at 5 o'clock. Bike and trike decorating at Countryside at 6 p.m., and a performance by students of the Magic Movement dance group at 7 p.m. in the Centre mall. Music in the park at Parkside from 7 to 9 p.m., a teen dance starting at 8 p.m. at the community centre, and finally official opening ceremonies to the weekend of joy at Parkside at 9 o'clock, followed by fireworks at 15 minutes after dusk has set in.

Saturday's program is even more varied. Between 7 and 9 o'clock in the morning we have a pre-parade serving of coffee and donuts at Safeway in Countryside mall. Parade starts to assemble at 8 a.m. and leaves two hours later along the parade route to the Legion hall. Also at 8 a.m. begins a slo-pitch tournament in the Parside athletic park, and

Rape suspects now in custody

LANGLEY - Two Fraser Valley men have been charged with the brutal team-rape and attempted murder of an 18-year-old Langley woman last month.

Two Abbotsford auto mechanics were arrested by a team of RCMP officers, Sunday.

Four individual charges including attempted murder, abduction and aggravated sexual assault were laid against Timothy Edward Bennett, 30, of Abbotsford, and David Lloyd Lee, 25, of Matsqui.

The victim of the assault was walking home with two teenage male companions just after midnight on May 15 when she was grabbed and thrown into a pickup truck. She was taken to the River Road area in Matsqui where she was raped by the two men before being stabbed and dumped over a river embankment.

She managed to drag herself across the road to a farm home where the police and an ambulance were called.

Descriptions of the pickup and the two assailants were distributed to all lower mainland newspapers.

Langley RCMP Sgt. Dennis Osse says police are continuing their investigation of a series of similar incidents in other lower mainland jurisdictions. In February, a Bellingham woman visiting in Vancouver was abducted and driven to Langley, where she was raped. She managed to escape from the kidnappers.

All candidates meeting looks at leadership of B.C. Socred party

ALDERGROVE - The Fort Langley - Aldergrove constituency association of the B.C. Social Credit party is sponsoring an All Candidates Meeting, 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, June 12 at the Aldergrove Kinsmen Centre, 26770 - 29 Avenue.

The candidates for the provincial party leadership will give an opening address followed by an opportunity for the public to question the candidates.

Meeting will be the only one to be held in Region 5. Dan Peterson, MLA Langley, will be the moderator for the evening.

For more information call Ida Fallowfield, 856-9200 or Lynn Roberts, 888-7111.

Teachers win exemption

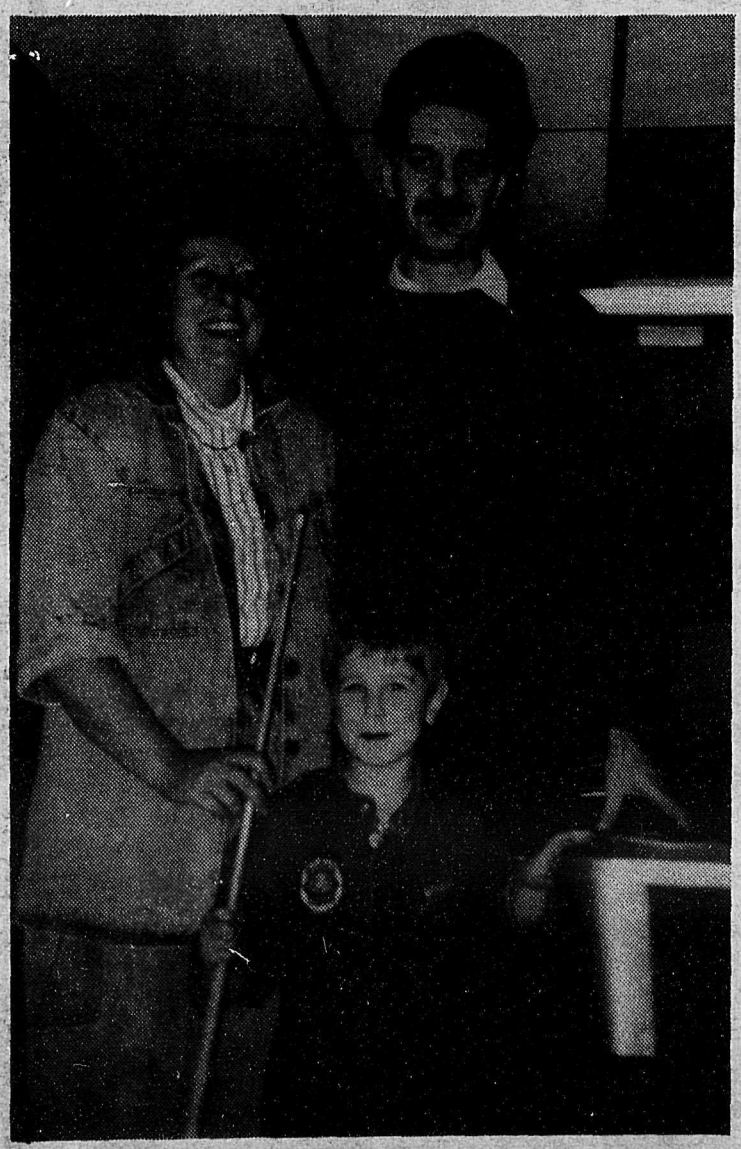
ABBOTSFORD - Teachers Nancy and Justin Wasilifsky won exemption from their local teachers' union and the BCTF, Tuesday.

They had originally won exemption in 1989, granted by the Industrial Relations Council, but the union and BCTF had appealed the decision.

The couple had financed their $50,000 legal battle.

The IRC has ordered further hearings, June 13-14, to hear from 70 teachers in three school districts who wish disassociation.

In other news, Abbotsford school district will lock out its teachers and other employees, Thursday, if agreement on a new contract is not reached sooner. The district has said it will not consider making further offers to its teachers.



Randy Tingskou of Clearbrook is now back home from John Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore. His parents are happy to say that the operation was a success, and they are extremely grateful to the local Elks for their assistance.

Welcome back, randy, and we all hope you will be able to carry on in life with no more operations. - Marie Jensen Photo

Double (or triple) taxation not fair

BELLINGHAM, Wash. - Mayor Tim Douglas has joined the war of words over the B.C. plan to squeeze more taxes from Canadian cross-border shoppers.

"That kind of policy would be a step backward in light of every effort in the free marketplace to reduce these kind of protectionist practices," he says.

The B.C. government has announced it will attempt to start collecting provincial sales tax on goods bought by Canadian shoppers in the U.S.

"I think it is a shame for the citizens of Canada for these kind of taxing approaches," Douglas says.

He says the move by the federal and provincial governments will leave B.C. shoppers "captives of their government's policies."

The proposed tax grab may be legal but is also unfair to B.C. shoppers, says University of B.C. economics professor Ken White. Shoppers in the U.S. already pay Washington state tax on their purchases, White points out. For a number of years there has been an agreement between British Columbian and Washington officials that the taxes paid in one jurisdiction would not have to be duplicated in the other.

"I think there might be an issue raised about whether it's fair to be taxed in both jurisdictions," says White. "But this is not a legal issue, it's a fairness issue."

White says Americans can now get the goods and services tax taken off at the border for items bought in B.C.

"If we go down to Washington we can't get the Washington state sales tax taken off. So there is this inequity going on."

Premier Rita Johnston says the provincial government will decide in the next few weeks whether or not to go ahead with the program. The federal government has promised its assistance to Victoria by forwarding names and information on items bought south of the border, and the individuals will then get a bill for the provincial sales tax in the mail.

Federal Trades Minister Otto Jelinek says Ottawa will try to appeal to the patriotism and loyalty of Canadian shoppers by introducing a public 'shop-in-Canada' awareness program. It is highly unlikely that such a move will have any effects over and above the spending of more Canadian tax dollars, says Langley township Mayor John Beales.

Enjoy the weekend

From front

Remax hot air balloon lifts off at 9 (weather permitting). Again there will be amusement rides and the 'taste patrol'. Concession stands open at 8 in the morning and a beer garden at 11 at Parkside will stay open all afternoon.

Awards will be presented to parade winners at 12 noon at the Legion.

Following this will be a horseshoe throwing tournament, dogs on parade and McDonald's children's races. at 1 o'clock an antique tractor pull at Jackman Road (272 Street) and 32 Avenue near the Star building, while a ventriloquist, a face painter and the 32nd Avenue band will entertain across the street at the Centre mall.

At 1:30, a seniors' talent contest, and at 2 p.m. an old fashioned movie will be shown. At 3 o'clock, a juniors' talent contest, and at 5 p.m. once more an old fashioned movie.

From 7 o'clock in the evening till 1 o'clock in the morning there will be a public chicken barbeque and dance at the Aldergrove ice arena, with music provided by Peter York and the Continentals.

On the last day of the festival, Sunday, June 9, the amusement rides continue. A swap meet will take place at the Centre mall, and at Countryside there will be a number of entertaining events, such as artists and woodcarvers' displays, fire truck display, music and Western line dance demonstrations, and a coupon and cash drop from the Workwear World truck. The Remax balloon will lift off again, and the slo-pitch tournament continues at Parkside. At the same time, starting at 8 in the morning, a fast ball tournament will be held at the Aldergrove park.

Pancake breakfast at the Lions Grove estate from 9 a.m. till noon. Old fashioned movie at 10, and antique farm engines on display at 11 o'clock. At 11:30, dog show, square dancing and other entertainment at the Centre mall. Outhouse races at 12 noon at Countryside (pre-registration required). Horseshoe tournament at 12:30 at the Legion, with 'Silk' country recording artists at Countryside at 1 o'clock. More old-fashioned movies between 1 and 3 in the afternoon at the Centre mall.

Also during the lazy Sunday afternoon, the face painter will be back along with Kids Creation market at the Centre and karaoke with Ron Williams at Countryside. A pie-eating contest, always a favorite, will take place at the Centre mall at 2 in the afternoon, followed by a tug-of-war at Countryside at 3. Spaghetti-eating contest for youngsters between 8 and 15 at 3:30 at Countryside, and a watermelon eating contest for children over four years of age at 4 p.m. at the same location.

Music '91 Roadshow's StreetStuff entertainers will also be in Aldergrove for the 'old fashioned days'. StreetStuff consists of three different entertainment groups, TenString, J.J.Crashbang and Paul Serret, the first being a brother-and-sister musical duo, the second a unicycling clown, and the third a player of the East Indian instrument, the santoor.

Beer garden at Parkside will fold up the tables at 8 o'clock Sunday evening and a long and enjoyable festival will have come to an end. For 1991, that is.

Pepsi prizes

ALDERGROVE - Pepsi Taste Patrol will be at the Aldergrove Centre Mall again this year. There is a terrific line-up of prizes for the participants. Everyone wins something. You could win a Toshiba lap top computer; "Bose" speaker system; Bower Inline skates; Nintendo game board; A & A records, Livi 501 Jeans; Taste Patrol Tee Shirts; Foster Grant sun glasses; sun glasses, cassette tapes, Burger King coupon for Pepsi, 500 ml Pepsi; Dairy Queen Dilly bar coupon, Dentine gum or last but not least a Crunchy Bar.

Aldergrove Kinsmen and Life Cycles had a special present for a special boy named Brad Geddes of Aldergrove Park Place.

Two killed in auto crash

SURREY - Two Langley men were identified by police as victims of a two-car crash here early Saturday morning.

Tracer Mortimer, 23, and Brian Keam, 26, died when their car collided with a pickup truck carrying six people at the intersection of 192 Street, 64 Avenue and Fraser Highway.

76 year old Gordon "Red" Gosling is still one of the giants in the Abbotsford business community.

Gosling's marks 70 years of business success

ABBOTSFORD - Gosling's has become a heritage department store where treasures of all sorts for the home can be found. It is the home of the largest independently owned furniture and appliance store in the Fraser Valley.

In 1920 Alfred Randall Gosling from England started trading furniture, farm equipment, hardware, harness trappings, cattle and coal from an old barn on the present site. Abbotsford was a one stop whistle stop pioneer village with boardwalks and dusty gravel roads.

The company prospered on good will and a reputation for honesty with bargains for the customers.

At that same time A.R. Gosling also started a trucking company, that expanded from one truck to twenty, hauling cattle, cement, hay and other commodities.

Gordon (Red) Gosling stepped into his father's shoes as an astute businessman and is the present owner/manager and continues the fine tradition of good service, good products and good prices and is assisted by his son, Bob and daughter, Debbie.

Gosling's has 20 to 25 employees maintaining the housewares, hardwares, furniture, appliances, televisons, stereos, videos, satellite systems and lawn mowers. One room is devoted to maple furniture, including the Roxton line.

Four trucks leave the yard daily making deliveries to Hope, Agassiz, Mission, Aldergrove, Langley and Chilliwack.

Some of Gosling's customers are second and third generations of people who will not shop anywhere else.

Gosling's has a little bit of everything including small parts for all kitchen appliances.

Gosling's sound centre has some of the most sophisticated audio/visual equipment available.

Red Gosling was inducted into the B.C. Furniture Hall of Fame in 1985. In 1984, the staff of Gosling's was recognized for outstanding sales and service of Inglis appliances and has received plaques naming Gosling's as the largest independent Speed Queen dealer in Canada.

Gosling's of Abbotsford is celebrating their 70th anniversary in June and the store specials and diverse products will keep us all continuing to patronize Gosling's and wish Gordon (Red) Gosling the best of health.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Politicians on the hill can't do their math

Editor, The Star, Sir,

By this time we have all gotten the bad news. I think we should also know why the bureaucrats on the hill are always reaching deeper into our pockets. They are damn poor in math.

All year they have been reporting to the press that we would be faced with an increase of 6.5 percent but as we all know now, that was a big lie. My total tax increased a few points over 11 percent. The saying goes 'figures don't lie but liars figure', and we have our share of liars. Now if my pension would increase by those kind of 6.5 percentages I would have no trouble paying them. They seem to think we should join the geese on the golf courses.

There is not a paper that I can read without seeing complaints from chamber of commere about shoppers going south. That does not surprise me too much as they are not able to finance their organization unless they also reach into the taxpayers' pocket. They voted for the government that negotiated the free trade so why the crying? Did they ever think the best way to stop across the border shopping is to lower prices? You can buy Canadian made goods across the border cheaper than in Canada. I am sure they are all strong believers in free enterprise.

The Social Credit government and the big big guys in Ottawa are all worried about Ontario's deficit but based on per-population, B.C. has a larger deficit. If they would tell the truth, (that is too much to ask from that bunch) they would stop blaming Trudeau for the $400-billion federal deficit. How can it be Trudeau? The Conservatives more than tripled the debt. The Conservatives promised to cut the deficit if elected, and balance their budget, but they more than tripled the debt. The debt has never worried the government. They want us to think it does. If it did they would not be so eager to reach into the Canadians' pocket and hand out billions of dollars to foreign governments to keep them from being thrown out by the people.

No deficits are OK as long as it is handed out to their people and it is paid by the poor.

TED HANSEN,
Aldergrove

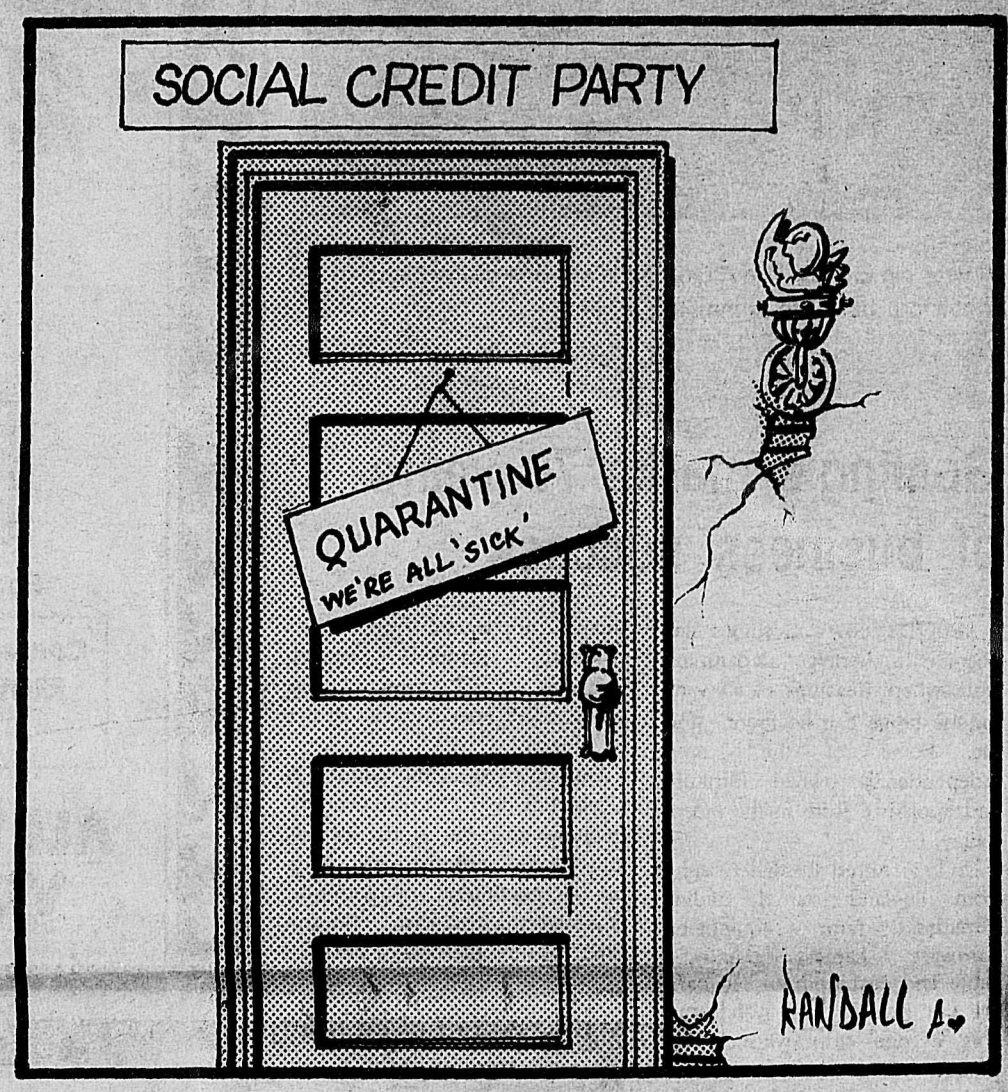
We need a fair constitution

Editor, The Star, Sir,

The Liberal Party platform perpetrates the disintegration of Canada for political expediency. They recognize "distinct societies" for some - "self government" for others - "rights and freedoms" for all, but with a notwithstanding clause that makes the protection meaningless - "vetoes" - "realignments" - "restrictions" - "reform". These are not the elements of a constitution, they are the concessions of a weak political party desperately trying to buy votes.

Let's get a constitution that is fair for all - equally. Politicians can't do it because it would upset their pork barrels. When will Joe Clark involve the Canadian people in this process?

KEN BERG, Aldergrove



Golf course denial bemoaned by residents

Editor, The Star, Sir,

It is with great concern that I write concerning the absolute turndown of a golf course in the south east section of Aldergrove.

The proposal meets the requirements or guidelines. The entrance wil be 1/4 mile from a major provincial highway, 264th Street or Hwy. 13 directly to the United States. It cannot possibly enter off the provincial highway, no more than Poppy Course, could exit or enter onto Fraser Hwy. A 1/4 of a mile is an excellent entry and exit, giving drivers enough leeway without obstructing traffic.

It is also an excellent buffer for Aldergrove Lake Park and the proposed recreational usage of Jackman landfill.

Let us have something positive in this neighbourhood. We have, at present, a transfer station, and, always hovering, an international race track. These all are detrimental to our lifestyle in the Fraser Valley.

We now have a prominent and well liked south Aldergrove family ready to do whatever it takes to make a first class golf course, and our aldermen and women say no because of guidelines.

Where are the visionaries? The decision makers? Here we have a chance to offer something positive to our U.S. neighbours. We Canadians travel the north-west Washington state because they have wonderful attractions and theme cities - examples - Leavenworth, Winthrop, Lynden, La Conner. We golf at Bellingham Raspberry Ridge (Lynden). Why not make our easy to access area a desirable destination for U.S. visitors. Aldergrove could be a theme town. A golf course is very attractive. The "snow birds" know how wonderful it is to vacation near or on a golf course in California, Arizona or Florida.

Golf courses are beautiful, peaceful, and they do not scar the landscape.

Let's start something positive here in south Aldergrove.

I am happy to have guidelines, but let's use some enthusiasm and have positive growth.

HAROLD TAYLOR,
7-27111 - 0 Avenue

CrimeStoppers cancels claims

Editor, The Star, Sir,

Increasing insurance rates are a concern to all of us. Car theftss, thefts from vehicles and vandalism, cost the Insurance Corporation of B.C. over $61-million annually.

The Greater Vancouver Crime Stoppers program can help. During the month of May, 10 calls to Crime Stoppers resulted in the recovery of 11 stolen vehicles, the arrest of 10 individuals, and the denial of two fraudulent claims. These 10 calls saved us all an estimated $97,000.

Crime Stoppers works. Call 665-3533 if you have anything to report.

Gender bias needs changes

Editor, The Star, Sir,

By appointing gender bias committees, both federal and provincial governments recognize that female bias does exist in the Canadian courts. It is apparent that we have to not only provide support for the victims, but we also must lobby the people in positions of power; one way is to participate in a letter-writing campaign.

I urge you to join with us in expressing your concerns provincially to: The Honorable Rita Johnson, Premier of the Province of B.C. and The Honorable Carol Gran, Minister Responsible for Women's Issues, at: Parliament Buildings, Victoria, B.C. V8V 1X4; Mr. Ted Hughes, Gender Bias Committee, c/o The Law Society of B.C., 1148 Hornby Street, Vancouver, B.C. V6Z 2C3; and your MLA.

As well as, federally to: The Judicial Review Committee, solicitor General of Canada, 340 Laurier Avenue West, Ottawa, ON, K1A 0P8; The Honorable Kim Campbell, Minister of Justice & Attorney General of Canada, Ottawa, ON, K1A 0A6; and your MP. (Further address available on request; send SASE.)

Great support for Red Shield is appreciated

Editor, The Star, Sir,

Warm thanks are in order to the people of Matsqui, Abbotsford, Mission and Aldergrove for their great support of the Salvation Army's National Red Shield Appeal.

Approximately $30,000 has been raised and applied to the running of Red Shield facilities and services. The Army remains hopeful that the original goal of $42,500 will still be reached.

Special thanks are due to general campaign chairperson, Abbotsford Mayor George Ferguson and business chairperson Hank Kroeker, president of the Abbotsford-Matsqui Chamber of Commerce.

The individuals who volunteered in other areas of this campaign, especially the canvassing, also deserve special recognition for their dedication of time and hard work.

The media has also supported us well throughout this campaign and we are sincerely grateful for the opportunity of informing the public of our Appeal in such an effective way.

We thank those who reach out to support us reaching out to others.

SUZANNE ABERCROMBIE,
Vancouver

Letters welcome

The Aldergrove Star invites letters to the editor on topics of interest to the community. The letters-to-the-editor column is a chance for comment on what has been written in the paper. It is our readers' opportunity to respond to what newsmakers of the area have been saying. We especially encourage readers to write on topics of local interest, although letters which enlighten or stimulate thought are welcome. We ask that letters be free of libel and bear the name and address of the author. Submissions must include a written signature. We perfer letters to be typed and double spaced, and present the comment as clearly and briefly as possible. The editor reserves the right to condense, edit or reject letters.

Amateur sport antes up

VANCOUVER - In a radical move, BC's 88 provincial sport organizations voted last week to contribute their own scarce resources towards Sport BC's efforts to increase funding to amateur sport. This marks the first time in Canada that member groups have donated funds to a sport federation.

Government legitimized its entry into the lottery business by stating its intention to fund sport with the revenues. But, while lottery profits are skyrocketing, funding to the provincial sport groups is steadily eroding. The government had $194 million at its disposal in 1979 from lottery profits, but provincial sport groups saw only less than $8 million to develop hundreds of thousands of athletes in 88 sports. Over a four year period alone, (1988-1991 fiscal years) funding to sports was slashed by $900,000.

In a packed Vancouver conference room, Saturday, provincial sport organizations, large and small, Games sports and non-Games sports, united at the Sport BC annual general meetintg to fight for the future of sport in B.C. Sports feel so strongly about the danger of being snuffed out that they have put their money where their mouth is. In a clean majority vote, it was resolved that members voluntarily invest half a percent of each of their gross revenues up to a maximum of $2,500 to help Sport BC fight on their behalf.

"We are sending an extremely powerful message to the powers that be that we are prepared to dig ourselves out of the hole," said newly elected Sport BC chairman, Bruce Carlson. "We are certain that this negative trend in sport funding will continue unless we act now."

With the financial assistance of its members, Sport BC is empowered to aggressively pursue a change in government priority for funding sport from lottery revenues.

Until now, sport has been an easy target for funding cuts because of its poverty consciousness and fragmentation. Nobody dared speak up for fear of losing everything.

"Each sport is normally too busy with running its own show to see the big picture, but what happened in this room Saturday was amazing - the highlight of my term as chairman," said retiring Sport BC chairman Roy McIntosh. "Sport has lined up and together we will take a giant step forward."

Burtenshaw put in the effort

ALDERGROVE - The Minor Baseball Association said goodbye to one of its executive members and coaches this week. Trevor Burtenshaw will be missed in the community and all wish to thank him for the tremendous amount of time and effort he has put into baseball for local kids.

We wish him the best of luck in his new home in Horsefly, B.C. (Maybe he will be able to put in his own baseball diamond and we can take our local teams up to the Cariboo to play).

Ride for Andrea looks for help

By MARILYN GREGORY

LANGLEY - The 1991 Ride for Andrea will be held June 23 at the Maple Ridge Equi-sport Centre in Maple Ridge.

The success of this annual ride is very important to the young disabled riders of the lower mainland as the proceeds go toward the improvement and expansion of the therapeutic riding program of the Valley Therapeutic Equestrian Association. The VTEA will now be able to help more of the brave young folks on their waiting list.

Our loyal supporters from the RCMP, Vancouver Greater Police, the American Saddlebred Association of B.C, Bordertown and many others will be with us again this year.

The VTEA depends solely on donations from corporations and individuals to fund this wonderful program for the disabled.

Please help us help more of these special young riders and sponsor a Ride. Your support can make all the diffemece in the world to them!!

In addition to the sponsored rides, there will be a kid's tent, bus tours into the "Bordertown" set, live entertainment, a gourmet lunch, demonstrations, and much more.

Businesses support computer contest

LANGLEY - Racing against time, 19 students from five secondary schools in the Langley School District worked at their computer stations to answer mathematical problems in a district computer science competition at Mountain Secondary.

"The intensity was just incredible," said D.W. Poppy computer science teacher, Ernie MacLaughlin. "You could feel the electricity in the air when this began and the students worked for 1-1/2 hours straight," he said.

Ten grade 12 students entered the senior divison and nine grade 8-11 students competed in the junior division. Students competed for $200 worth of gift certificates donated by local computer companies, Micro Corp Computers and Computer Solutions.

One of the questions on the junior division test asked students to calculate the cost of a taxi ride where the costs varied with the mileage and the waiting time. Students were given four sets of variables to input. The question read, "If the cost to ride in a taxi is $.50 for the first 1/5 mile and $.22 for each additional 1/5 mile or part thereof. In addition, the taxi will wait for you while you conduct your business. The cost is $.20 per 60 second period of any part thereof."

Students were selected by their teachers to represent their school.

Former Aldergrovians finding new home far away from home

By LARA BRODIE

ALDERGROVE - Imagine what it would be like to have Canadian parents but to be born and raised in Pakistan. To experience a culture so totally different from how your ancestors were brought up, from the moment God gives you life. Try to imagine being the "object of attention" to so many strangers because you're one of very few white faces in a sea of brown ones.

For Stephen, six, Cameron, four and Emma, who is almost two, this isn't something they imagine, because this is their lives. They were all born in Pakistan because their mom and dad have devoted their lives to passing on the word of God to the people of Pakistan.

Fresh out of college and after spending one year in Aldergrove, Rod and Donna Black became missionaries. It was September of 1983 that the Blacks took their first steps on so very foreign soil.

"It's really busy because the streets are just alive," Donna spoke, thinking of the land where they now make their home. "Life is lived out of doors ... streets are full of people and full of donkey carts and full of everything. When we came back to Canada this time (this is the second time they've been back to Canada since '83 to visit family) it just seemed like everybody was in their private cubicle in their houses and we never saw any life on the street ... you're really struck by how everything is out of doors ... and seemingly nothing is private (in Pakistan)."

Thinking of their first morning in a completely new environment, Donna talked about feelings and sounds, "I remember an impression I had, I got up in the morning, there's fans overhead because it's hot, it was still, but you could hear all the birds and insects, it was more alive, there was more bird life, more noise, even in the stillness of the morning. I went out and I heard the prayer call, the first prayer call I'd ever heard, and I just thought, I am in an Eastern land, I am in Asia, it was just a very overwhelming impression."

The driving situation alone must have been quite an experience in itself as Rod's memories seemed all too vivid. "You begin to wonder in that traffic, well, we worked all this hard to get out here, we're going to die in traffic! These drivers are crazy!" he laughs, "but amazingly nothing happened, no fender benders."

Donna interjected with, "He drives like that now." When in Rome...

Yes, with the aid of God and the Mission, they did what they had to do to survive, which meant fancy new Pakistani clothing for Donna, consisting of a shalwar gameez and eventually adapting to the Sindhi dialect.

About the people they came across, "It is a culture that is a very hospitable culture, much more so than Canada. People would see us and come for dinner, come to our home...we just felt really welcome"

And on speaking to the people about God and Christianity, "When I go into the villages in Sind, first of all they wonder what's a white person doing in their village? When I explain that I am a missionary and I'm telling people about Jesus and the Good News they're usually very curious in a pleasant way. I've had very few times that somebody has been upset. Most of the time it's just a matter of: 'We know nothing about Christianity so will you please tell us, we've heard about it.' Over there the men talk about religion like men here talk about sports."

Doing a little culture comparing, "We've really enjoyed living in this neighborhood, (in Aldergrove) it's easy to get to know your neighborhood but once you get out of your neighborhood everyone's in their own private little world ... but in Pakistan hospitality is a very, very highly treasured thing."

"It's a matter of honor," Donna comments.

This honor, the Blacks soon found, could create quite uncomfortable situations. "Whenever you go into somebody's home you could ask for absolutely anything, we found this out to our dismay. You say, 'Oh, what a nice picture on the wall,' and they take it and give it to you, they're duty bound to give it to you." Rod and Donna are sure now not to comment on anyone's belongings. And when someone else comments on their things? "We have trouble," Rod laughs, "It's like, what do we do now?"

Is it possible to successfully blend into a different culture just by wearing the clothes and speaking the language? "We stick out always."

Obviously not. "They know I'm English because I'm white and little children will run ahead of you down the road and yell it out so everyone notices. You're never anonymous. When I come back to Canada I walk into a store and I wonder, why isn't everyone stopping to stare at me?"

In Canada, "Nobody offers us tea in the store or gives us discounts because we're foreign." Well, they may not blend in, but there are advantages to that fact.

In a little while the Black family will be going back to their little home in a Muslim neighborhood in Shikapur, a city consisting of about 110,000 people located in West Pakistan. There they will continue to do what they dedicated their existence to, teaching about God, giving the curious people of Pakistan the benefit of knowledge about the Bible and letting them find out just exactly what Christianity is all about.

In a world so money and power hungry, Rod and Donna Black, and all people who dedicate their lives to helping others, are the definition of truly selfless individuals.

Donna and Rod Black with almost-two year old Emma, one of their three children, are back in Aldergrove on a brief stay before going back to Shikapur, Pakistan. - Lara Brodie photo

Rural Dignity fights back with art

QUEBEC - If Harvie Andre, the federal minister in charge of Canada Post Corporation had his way, all the remaining federal post offices across Canada would be closed right now. The actual timetable for this sad eventuality is 1996, but the outcome will be the same: the systematic erosion of any federal presence in most urban and rural communities. What an irony from a government which has hired a separate commission to study ways of keeping the country together!

Rural Dignity of Canada, the non-partisan cross-Canada citizens' group well known for its efforts to stop postal privatization, is determined to prevent these plans from being executed. The next five years are critical. For example, in the three month period ending June 30, 1991, another 276 rural post offices are slated to disappear.

To counter these actions, Rural Dignity has mounted an unique nation-wide membership and fundriaising campaign. Individuals across the country are making a difference now by purchasing 18" x 24" fine art reproductions of "Heart of the Country," a painting by popular Saskatchewan-born artist Richard Widdifield, especially commissioned by the organization. Each $30 purchase includes an optional free membership in Rural dignity of Canada, and directly benefits the ongoing work of this dedicated organization.

Those interested in obtaining a print from this time-limited edition may do so until June 30, 1991, by sending a cheque for $30 (includes all taxes, postage and handling) to: Cynthia Patterson, Co-ordinator, Rural Dignity of Canada, Dept. N., Box 70, Barachois de Malbaie, Quebec, G0C 1A0. Expect delivery in early September, 1991.

Lynn Williams new director of Sport BC

VANCOUVER - Veteran Olympic athlete Lynn Williams strides into her latest challenge after being elected to Sport BC's board of directors at the Sport BC annual general meeting at the Coast Plaza at Stanley Park. As a still active high-performance athlete, Williams will offer valuable perspective to the umbrella organization.

Sport BC's new chairman is Bruce Carlson, a marathon and triathlon competitor, who works in Vancouver as a management consultant. He has served three years as vice-chairman, finance at Sport BC and chaired the SportForum meetings. Roy McIntosh, a former national team rower, is now past chairman after countless hours volunteered to the improvement of sport. Other new executive members are Vancouver Courier publisher Peter Ballard, who takes over the position of vice-chairman after serving on the board for two years; and former president of BC Volleyball Boris Tyzuk, who moves to the position of vice-chairman, finance after serving on the board for five years.

Newly elected director are former Rowing BC president Bob Falconer of Vancouver, Softball Canada president Dale McMann of Prince George, and Burnaby's Eric Stepura, supervisor of Sports and Outdoor Recration with Burnaby Parks and Recreation.

Other directors are Bobby Lenarduzzi, general manger and coach of the Vancouver 86'ers; Diane Clement, former Olympic sprinter and manager of the 1988 Olympic track team; marketing and promotions consultant Terry Burns; former president of B.C. Soccer Leeta Sokalski; and Bill Mackie, BC Gymnastics president and former Olympic athlete.

Retiring directors are Mike Horsey, Mike O'Connor, and Herb Challer. These individuals all gave many years to B.C.'s sport community.

Sport BC is celebrating its 25th year of operation. It is a non-profit society whose members are B.C.'s 90 provincial sport governing bodies. Sport BC's mission is to maximize participation and excellence in British Columbia.

Crime on the rise

OTTAWA - There were over 2.6 million Criminal Code non-traffic offences in Canada in 1990, according to Statistics Canada.

That puts Canada's crime rate at 9,903 offences per 100,000 people, a seven percent increase over 1989.

Youths aged 12 to 17 accounted for almost one-quarter of all persons charged with criminal offences in 1990.

Two-thirds of these youths were charged with property crime offences. Some 20,000 more violent crimes were committed in 1990 than in 1989, putting the violent crime rate up by seven percent. However, the homicide rate decreased slightly in 1990. The violent crime rate has increased every year since 1977.

Violent crimes continued to account for only 10 percent of all Criminal Code offences.

The property crime rate also increased seven percent last year to 5,869 per 100,000 population in 1990. This was still less than the peak rate of 5,967 in 1982.

Songwriters invited to compete for PNE's $5,000 song award

VANCOUVER - The Pacific National Exhibition has announced a provincial competition to find the province's "All-Time, Good-Time Song." The winner will receive a $5,000 cash prize and have their music and lyrics used in the promotion of the 1991 Fair which runs from August 16 to September 2.

"This is a musical year in British Columbia. We're hoping songwriters will have some fun and we're also expecting some high quality entries in the competition," said Morgan Thomas, PNE president. "The winning entry will be arranged and recorded by professional musicians in-studio and used in this year's PNE promotions."

Entries can be submitted in any style from country to rock and roll. Music must be original and lyrics must use the theme phrase "Your All-Time, Good-Time Fair". Songs must be more than 30 seconds and less than two minutes long with simple lyrics. The winner will be chosen by a panel of judges from the music and advertising industry in B.C.

Participants must submit an audio recording on cassette or reel-to-reel tape with lyrics and/or melody. The contest is open to B.C. residents, 19 years or older and entries must be received by June 12. The winner will be announced July 17.

Contest entry forms are availale from leading B.C. radio stations or the PNE by calling 253-2311 or writing Box 69020, Vancouver, B.C. V5K 4W3. All entries become the property of the PNE.

Festival of Arts back in July

HARRISON - Festival of the Arts celebrates the most colorful beats under the sun, July 6-14 in Harrison Hot Springs. Framed by the unspoiled beauty of Harrison Lake, the nine-day festival will focus on the cultural and contemporary heritage of Africa and the Caribbean.

Visitors can readily enjoy the sights and sounds by walking to a variety of venues centered in and around the resort village. Over 300 international, national and local performers and artists particpate in outdoor entertainment, concerts, theatre, workshops and much more. Performers include Mzwakhe Mbuli and The Equals, Fatala, Ocheami, Anzanga Marimba, Kalimba Soundz, Back Porch Blues and the Washington State Mass Choir.

Special events planned are Children's Day, July 10, Issues Symposium, July 13 and 14 and a Juried Art Market, July 6 and 7 and July 13 and 14. For tickets and accommodation information contact the Harrison Festival of the Arts, Box 399, Harrison Hot Springs, B.C. V0M 1K0. Phone 796-3664.

MOVIE REVIEW

Friends till the end

By DOUG GILMORE

Thelma and Louise is an emotional comedy-drama starring Geena Davis and Susan Sarandon. This movie, I believe, would appeal to the middle aged crowds more than teenagers.

Thelma (Davis) and Louise (Sarandon) leave their partners and lives behind for a surprise vacation. However, when the two stop at the Silver Bullet tavern for a couple of drinks, the unexpected happens. Thelma is raped and Louise, enraged by the crime, shoots and kills the man responsible. The two flee the scene and soon find themselves running from the law. Events unfold further to deepen the trouble they are in; yet despite the problems they remain friends and enjoy the time they have left to share with each other.

The two think up a plan to drive to Mexico and live there and forget the past. Their adventure is the series of events and characters they meet during their flight to freedom, from the pervert truck driver to the young stud Robber.

The movie appealed to the women who viewed it more than to my male friend, but I thought it was a good show. All in all, if you like buddie movies and a good comedy-drama, I recommend Thelma and Louise. It'll appeal to you, I'm sure.

It is certainly a fresh new movie, cut away from the pack of action shows released or soon to be released this summer.

Gang violence calls for response

MATSQUI - "Gang activity is a growing social problem," says corporal Steve Hess of the Police Academy at the Justice Institute.

"It isn't enough to say the police will deal with it. We need to present alternatives, and to look to why kids get involved with gangs in the first place."

To address the issue of gangs and gang violence the Justice Institute and the Matsqui Police department will bring educators, counsellors, police officers and community members together at two day-long workshops sponsored by the Police Academy and Extension Programs at the J.I.

People who work with children at risk of becoming gang members and other interested members of the community are urged to attend. There is no registration fee.

The workshops will provide participants with an overview of the history of gang violence and explore program and intervention strategies currently available to combat the problem.

Resource people for the workshops include social planners, youth services workers, corrections staff and policy advisors from the solicitor general's department, gang crime unit police officers, social workers and others.

The first workshop will be held June 4 in Abbotsford at Fraser Valley College from 7 to 9 p.m. The second workshop is scheduled for June 10 at the Justice Institute.

Anyone wishing to attend should call 222-7251 and ask for Debbie Latimer.

Alderman likes his view

MURRAYVILLE - Ald. John Scholtens lives on the Murrayville Hill and likes the view.

This week, he asked the architect planning a new housing development on the hillside to "preserve the vista" for local property owners.

On a clear day, you can see forever. Or at least out over the Strait of Georgia, Scholtens said.

He is worried that this might disappear from sight.

Carson Noftle of Group Two Architecture said it would be difficult to change the plans in the way suggested by Scholtens.

Langley Hill Housing Society has plans for a 68-unit townhouse development on the site. Earlier, they were turned down when they proposed to build the townhouses on the flat land below, near the municipal airport.

About 127 people will be living in the low-rent housing development and enjoying the view, according to Noftle.

Singing for Mothers' Day

By PAT PROZESKY

ALDERGROVE - The Choral Group concluded the 1990-91 season participating in the 9th Annual Seniors' Choral Festival, Monday, May 27, held in the Canadian Reformed Church, Langley. The event was hosted by the Brookswood Singing Seniors and also participating was the Rainbow Choir from Langley.

A large and appreciative audience was in attendance, and the festival was deemed a great success.

Each of the three groups performed individually, and to close off the program, formed a mass choir, singing three selections, The Sound of Music, A Song of Peace, and Thank You Very Much.

Highlight of the evening, of course, was the solo performance of Joan Danby, who sang When I Grow Too Old to Dream and the Italian Street Song. Wonderful!

The Aldergrove Choral Group will resume activities in September. New members will be welcome, both male and female. For information call 856-6610. It is a most enjoyable and rewarding form of volunteer work.

Many changes for airport but its future still in doubt

MURRAYVILLE - Piece by piece, councilors worked their way this week through a number of policy changes dealing with the Langley municipal airport.

With Ald. John Scholtens chairing this portion of the weekly council meeting, a few of the policy changes were challenged by councilors Aubrey Searle and Muriel Amason.

Searle said councilors still hadn't decided on the future of the airport. They have recently issued 15-year leases to industrial users, and have talked about the continued use of the airport until at least the year 2015, but nothing concrete has been decided, Searle said.

Statement was challenged by Ald. Steve Ferguson. "We have spent a monumental amount of time on these discussions," he said, adding that it was understood by council that the 2015 date had been agreed upon.

Searle also once more challenged a policy dealing with the rental revenue derived from hangar rentals and tie-downs. He said these charges are inadequate and not in line with other (non-aviation) industrial uses.

The following policy changes were adopted: policies number 200, 201, 204, 205, 206, 207, 208, 209, 210, 211, 212, 213 (with Searle/Arnason voting contrary), 214, 215, 216, 217, 218, 219, 220, 221, 222, and 223.

Policy change number 203 was deferred to a later sitting of council because aldermen Searle and Trudi Campen brought forward differently worded amendments to this paragraph and lawyer-alderman John Campbell refused to deal with it until he had had the time to study the wordings.

Searle also called for a policy to deal with ultralight planes at the airport. Ald. John Scholtens agreed with this. "It fits in better with my vision of the airport," he said, adding that he would like to see the Langley airport used more for slow-moving aircraft such as ultralights and balloons. Ultralights are not presently allowed at the airport.

Mayor John Beales, who operates a flight business there, had left the room during the discussions.

Federal government puts up $100-million to clean up Fraser

VANCOUVER - A $100-million Green Plan program to clean up British Columbia's Fraser River, return salmon populations to historical levels of abundance, and restore the river to environmental health was announced June 1, by Environment Minister Jean Charest and Fisheries and Oceans Minister John Crosbie.

The Fraser River Basin action plan builds on the knowledge and experience gained through co-operative action on the Fraser River Estuary Management Program. It includes: working in partnership with the province to identify and control contaminants entering the river from industrial and domestic point and non-point sources; identification and clean-up of waste sites through the application of the "polluter pays" principle and the National Contaminated Sites Remediation Program; enforcement of environmental protection laws; restoration, enhancement and conservation of fish and wildlife habitats, including doubling of sockeye salmon stocks within the next 20 years and increasing other salmon stocks; a complementary Environmental Action Plan for the Burrard Inlet; renewal of the FREMP agreement which was originally launched in 1985.

BCTF pleased with dropping of dual entry

VANCOUVER - "We are pleased that a Minister of Education has finally listened to the concerns of teachers and others about 'dual entry' to school," BCTF president Ken Novakowski said in reaction to an announcement by education minister Stan Hagen.

Hagen said ealier that he intends to amend the School Act to remove 'dual entry', effective in the next school year.

"The plan was created by a previous minister who brought it into effect without first consulting the people who had to make it work," Novakowski said.

No to thermal

MURRAYVILLE - Councilors here support a request from the city of Port Moody to the two senior levels of government that B.C.Hydro not be permitted to expand operations at the thermal electric plant located at the bottom of Burrard Inlet.

Port Moody Mayor David Driscoll says export of power to the United States from the lower mainland plant is of local "environmental, citizen health and crop damage concerns" and should be evaluated before any permits or certificates are renewed.

Langley township's aldermen voted unanimously this week to back up Port Moody's demands.

Parking limits?

MURRAYVILLE - Parking limits of 15-minute duration have been urged for downtown Aldergrove streets by Ald. Trudi Campen.

She says people have trouble finding a place to park in front of the Aldergrove post office, especially during the morning hours.

Campen would like to see the downtown streets posted to this effect.

Municipal staff has been instructed to deal with the matter.

1991 Real Estate garden contest underway

SURREY - The 14th Annual Fraser Valley Real Estate Board Residential Garden Contest is now officially under way! Entry forms are available at board member real estate offices throughout the Fraser Valley or at the board offices at 15463 - 104 Ave., Surrey, 588-6555.

Amateur gardeners from all over the valley have been recognized annually in this very popular contest for their contributions to the beautification of their neighbourhoods, whether as a result of a huge project, or a small patio arrangement, or something in between.

As board president, Jim Beesley has said, "The colour, arrangements and overall attractiveness of residential gardens add immeasurably to any neighbourhood. We have been amazed at the originality and creativity of past entries and anticipate a similar quality this year."

Winners will be chosen from Surrey, White Rock/South Surrey, North Delta, Langley/Aldergrove, Abbotsford/Clearbrook and Mission, in each of five categories: small space (patio/container gardens only) - large space (larger than 1/4 acre) - city-lot size garden (1/4 acre or less) - new garden (under two years) - past winners - best property overall, small space (1/4 acre or less) & large space (larger than 1/4 acre).

The back of the entry form indicates the exact boundaries. Judging will take place in later July and early August. All past winners must enter in the "Past Winners" category. The contest is open to all non-professionally landscaped gardens. An entry may be placed in a more suitable category by the judges. The judges'' decisions are final. All entries must be received at the board offices by July 15. Please see details on the entry form.

Entrants will be notified in advance of the judging day(s). Winners will be invited to an evening reception and slide show to be held at the board in later August where they will receive their awards. Each winner will also receive a small stake sign for the garden as testimony to this achievement.

Pub okayed

MURRAYVILLE - A new neighborhood pub in the Brookswood area has received the blessings of council.

Pub, to be located at 22067 - 48 Avenue, was favored by the majority of neighborhood residents at a public hearing and when an official referendum was held in December 1990.

Rezoning has now been granted.

DISSECTING THE MATTER

Getting involved in your child's learning can be fun ... and interesting. Shortreed student Mike Nielsen discusses what to do next with mother Jeanne Nielsen, at "Squid Night."

Squid for the squeamish

LANGLEY - More than 35 families participated in "Dissect a Squid Night" at Shortreed Elementary. The event was hosted by grade six students as the conclusion of their integrated science unit on "The Squid."

Parents were invited to view the poetry, research, story writing and art work produced by the students as they worked through the unit.

But the big treat for parents was a step-by-step lesson led by their child, on the dissection and parts of the squid.

Although many parents were hesitant to participate at first, they quickly became involved. Some families asked to take the extra squid home to show to other members of the family.

"The students were still enthusiastic the next day," said science teacher, Mrs. Janz-Graham. "It was a wonderful way to finish the unit and involve parents in their child's learning."

Valley real estate market holding steady

SURREY - "Market conditions have remained very active in May, following two record months this spring," said Fraser Valley Real Estate Board president, Jim Beesley this week. "The number of new MLS listings and sales is down somewhat, but both are still being recorded at a brisk pace. Market conditions remain excellent for both buyers and sellers. Totals are more in line with an average market at present, with only minor price adjustments in all areas."

According to recent statistics, MLS activity remains quite steady, with both new listings and sales levels indicating continued strength.

Total new listings for the month of May were recorded at 3,027, down 13% from last month's total of 3,477 recorded units. This figure is up 12% from May 1990 monthly number of listed units total of 2,702.

The number of recorded sales marked a decrease over last month. Units sold in May were recorded at 2,064, an 18% drop from last month's near record total of 2,513 units, and a significant 195% increase from May 1990 extremely low total sales of 699 units.

"As we approach the summer school holidays, we expect more activity in the marketplace while families strive to be settled in time for September," added Beesley.

"First-time buyers who are interested in attending our free public seminar should call the board receptionist at 588-6555. It will be held June 13 at 7 p.m. in the board auditorium at 15463-104 Avenue, Surrey. Everyone is welcome but pre-registration is required as seating is limited."

Average residential sales prices rose in all areas of the Fraser Valley in May with Surrey prices leading the trend with a 6.6% increase. Beesley noted, "The anticipated continuation of falling mortgage interest rates will contribute greatly to increased activity throughout the summer months."

In all areas of the Fraser Valley, homes in the $150,000-$249,999 range continued to be the most popular with 912 units selling in May; in the $120,000-$149,999 range, 433 units were sold in the same period, with 149 units selling in the $100,000-$119,999 range.

Average prices indicate market trends only. They do not reflect actual prices which may vary from house to house and from area to area.

Lions and Lionesses offer their warm thanks

ALDERGROVE - The Lions and Lioness Clubs wish to thank the citizens of Aldergrove, Langley, Abbotsford, Clearbrook and as far as Mission for their support during the first annual Lions/Lioness flea market held May 24 to 26 at Aldergrove Mall.

They would also wish to publicly thank these following merchants who assisted by reducing their rental rates, or providing other services or donations and hope membership and the community at large will support their businsses in return. They are: Langley - Mills Paints; Budget Rent a Truck; Dam's Party Rentals; Sure Printing and Custom Games & Packaging. Aldergrove - Countryside Cleaners; Dave's T.V. Sales; Waste Mangement; O.A.P. Thrift Store and The Aldergrove Star. Clearbrook - On Guard Mini Storage; Fraser Valley Flyer and Irlybird Lumber. Thanks also to all those who donated goods to sell.

The event could not have taken place without the donation of space by the Aldergrove Centre Mall and special thanks are extended to Karen Keller and Glenda Onstad for their help and guidance. Thanks also to the the retailers and maintenance staff in the mall for their cooperation.

The television raffle was won by an Aldergrove resident, Kathy Good, who indicated her TV had just quit working.

All proceeds of the sale will go to local charities. Other Lions/Lioness fund raisers are the concession at Aldergrove Park nightly during the baseball season and during the day during July and August. Several casinos are also held each year at Langley's Great Canadian Casino next to the Langley Hotel.

Brookswood residents split

MURRAYVILLE - Residents in the Brookswood area are split about fifty-fifty on a development proposal for the south Langley community.

A rezoning application to allow for a massive housing development in the area is about to go to public hearing. It was brought forward and promoted by a large number of property owners in Brookswood who would like to profit from subdivision of their land parcels. A few days ago, however, a new group of Brookswood property owners has formed. The Brookswood Neighborhood Association is totally opposed to the ideas of the South Brookswood Ratepayers Association, and the fight is on.

Georg Tylor of the new association told councilors here Monday night that the proposed development would be "a headache for politicians, bureaucrats and police (alike) for years to come," and that "crime will increase."

Tylor also put in a plug for new mega-recreational facilities in Brookswood, including "indoor and outdoor pools, arena and community centre." At the same time, he wanted to "preserve the rural character and wildlife" of the area.

If the development were to go through, it would include the rezoning of large tracts of land for townhouses and apartment buildings. Land is owned by a loose-knit group of individual property owners.

Contract awarded

MURRAYVILLE - Councilors here have awarded a contract to TAG Construction Ltd. for the building of sanitary sewers and a pumping station on 62 Avenue east of 205 Street.

Contract is worth $151,720, two-thirds of which will be funded from development cost charges.

Volunteers expect no holidays

LANGLEY - Volunteer vacations are nothing like a holiday. Stimulating, worthwhile, but no holiday. The word 'holiday' implies relaxation but volunteers are expected to work a full day and part of the night.

The Langley Memorial Hospital Auxiliaries sent six delegates to Vancouver for the B.C. Hospital Auxiliaries 47th Convention, Claire Schmidt, Lenore Pratt, Esther Blackmon, Kathleen Smith, Cora Zurcon, Olive Hainstock to learn new ways of raising money for equipment for Langley Hospital, how to conduct meetings, managing women, to become well organized with on going programs with proper infrastructure in place for handling the needs and training of steadily coming and going workers.

Langley Hospital Auxiliary and Foundation member, Claire Schmidt was elected second vice-president to the B.C. Auxiliary of Health Care and will serve an eight year term of office on the Board.

Kathleen M. Smith was chosen to go to the Canadian Association of Health Care Auxiliaries annual meeting and convention in Toronto in June.

The doctor game: careless habits dim future

William Shakespeare wrote in the play Hamlet, "We know what we are, but we don't know what we may be."

I'd agree that no one can accurately predict the future. But the longer I practise medicine, the more I am convinced that the immortal bard was only partly right. Every week I see patients whose medical future is far from bright due to careless lifestyle habits. Few have to be reminded that smoking, alcoholism or failure to wear a seatbelt in an automobile can decrease longevity. But what about children watching television? Might this also be a predictor of future health problems? And can you protect children from "eating amnesia"?

Doctor Kurt Gold and his colleagues at the University of California report that the more your children turn on the TV, the higher their blood cholesterol levels will be. He cautions families that children who spend hours aimlessly gazing at television may have an increased risk of cardiovascular disease later in life.

Gold conducted a survey of 1,077 children at a family practice clinic in Southern California. Parents were asked to answer questions about their family's medical history, the child's dietary, exercise and TV habits and blood cholesterol levels were measured.

Researchers found that children who watched television at least two hours a day were twice as likely to have cholesterol levels over 200 milligrams than those who reported turning on the tube for less than two hours each day.

Findings were worse for children who watched television four or more hours a day. They were four times more likely to end up with blood cholesterol levels above 200. This is worrying news. The American academy of Pediatrics claims that in a child over two years of age even a cholesterol level of 175 is sufficiently high to warrant treatment.

These findings should make parents take notice. It is estimated that the average North American child views at least three hours of television each day. We also know that as we age cholesterol levels rise. Gold estimates this means that 50 percent of these children will have high cholesterol levels later in life.

Brendan Foster, an Olympic medalist once remarked that, "The great increase in heart disease among the middle-aged in recent years is perhaps a sign that there is such a thing as too much comfort." In this case, too much comfort in front of the TV screen.

Obviously Gold doesn't claim that television of itself is the cause of elevated blood cholesterol. Rather, television watching sets the stage for other lifestyle habits. For instance, Gold discovered that children who watched TV two or more hours a day also exercised less and consumed more fatty foods. Television watching, unlike basketball and other sports, does not burn up calories. The result is obesity, and all its long-term consequences. One of which appears to be high cholesterol.

Another reason for the TV-cholesterol link is that children who watch television for long periods witness one advertising commercial after another selling high calories, high fat foods. One never sees a multinational food processing company praising the merits of fresh fruits, vegetables and green salads on television. Consumer research indicates that children who are bombarded with these ads accept the message and consume more calorie-and-fat-laden snacks.

The majority of people who gain weight do so because they honestly don't realize how much they eat. Children and their parents rarely count the calories of bags of potato chips or peanuts consumed while watching Star Trek or a James Bond movie.

Both children and parents fall into another trap. It may seem efficient to eat and watch television at the same time. But it's not. Weight loss specialists say this habit leads to "eating amnesia". Too much attention is paid to what's happening on the screen and none to how many calories are being consumed. Their advice? Eat at the table with the television off.

Gold's research indicates that some children face a dismal future. He found that where there was also a family history of high cholesterol levels and heart attack, nine out of 10 children who watched television for two hours a day had levels of cholesterol above 200 milligrams.

The Aldergrove and District Chamber of Commerce

UPDATE

27030 FRASER HWY. PH. (604) 856-8383

Chamber in Crisis

In late April all present and potential members of the Aldergrove Chamber of Commerce received, by mail, a memorandum and questionnaire on the future of this chamber. These were sent to 550 business, professional and individual addresses. As of May 24, twenty-three responses have been received, seventeen from present members and six from potential members.

Do we need or want a Chamber of Commerce in and for this community or, should our objective be ONE CHAMBER FOR THE LANGLEYS? This subject has arisen periodically since at least 1964 when a committee of the three Chambers resolved to achieve the object of "ONE STRONG CHAMBER for Langley", within one year.

Obviously, the objective was not achieved but, the subject continues to arise with increasing regularity and, I believe, must be seriously considered at this time or put to rest with renewed support for and commitment to our own Chamber in and for Aldergrove.

I look forward to seeing you at 7 p.m. on June 12 and to hearing your views and ideas for renewal of our Chamber!

L. Gary Kenwood

A woman and her teenage daughter were watching a typical romantic movie of the "Dirty Thirties" on TV. After it had ended with the usual clinch and fadeout, as most movies of those days did, the daughter turned to her mother and said, "Gee, Mom, your movies ended where ours begin."

Matsqui-Abbotsford embarks on a "Healthy Community" program

MATSQUI-ABBOTSFORD - These communities have taken the first steps to becoming a "Healthy Community" through the formation of a steering committee to guide an ambitious and innovative program, endorsed by the mayors of both municipalities.

The internationally known "Healthy Communities" program is aimed at communities that want to establish grass-roots responses and mechanisms to deal with local issues and concerns, whether these address the needs of the environment, the local economy, the community social network, or the spiritual well-being of individuals. The primary goal is to create a "Healthy Community" which can not only effectively deal with its own problems but can also take preventative measures to avoid future ones.

A recently formed steering committee comprised of representatives from Community Services, the Chamber of Commerce, multi-cultural groups, as well as from education, police, health, and local government is seeking the public's views on the state of our community and on what could be done to improve it. This information will be used in planning for a local "Symposium" which will take place later this year and will attempt to build community consensus on both the priority issues and their potential solutions.

In additon, it is anticipated that various resource persons will also be in attendance at the symposium to offer their experiences in dealing with similar problems in other communities.

Because the "Healthy Community" program is an ongoing process as opposed to a one-time only event, it is expected that a co-operative network of organizations, groups and individuals will be firmly established to ensure its continuation and its ability to keep the community "healthy".

Mark of a drinker

Scientists will one day be able to spot an individual who is susceptible to alcoholism before he or she even tastes the first glass of beer or wine.

They have moved a step closer to developing a blood test capable of revealing an individual's susceptibility to one form of alcoholism.

Experiments by Dr. Eric Devor at the Washington University School of Medicine in St.Louis have replicated the results of an earlier study that showed a consistently lower level of activity for a particular enzyme in alcoholics than in non-alcoholics.

It may be inherited, says Devor.

Fun whist night

By PAT PROZESKY

ALDERGROVE - Ten tables were filled Thursday evening at the Aldergrove Choral Group's Whist Party in the O.A.P. Hall. It was, as usual, a fun night.

Jean Coffin was the winner of first prize for ladies, Reta Ford coming second, while Joe Szasz finished first among the men, Steve Galigan second. Doris Lockhart won the hidden score prize.

This was the last whist party for the season. No more now until the last Thursday in September. The Aldergrove Choral Group says "thanks' to those who have attended and look forward to seeing everyone back in the fall.

A View from Hospital Hill

By the Langley Memorial Hospital Board of Directors & Staff

Langley Memorial Hospital is supportive of health concerns in the community. We are pleased to collaborate with CHEC to promote health education by providing access to this column on a regular basis. This is the first of these columns.

The Community Health Education Committee (CHEC) is the gathering of local services, health representatives, and educators to discuss and share information for the improvement of health and well-being of our community.

In 1980 Langley Memorial Hospital Board shared with a number of community agencies their concern for teenage health and the promotion of health in the Langleys. It was evident that there was a general frustration in endeavoring to provide preventive health. A community-wide committee was established (CHEC) to meet in consultation exchanging information on different programs and services to assist in preparing a health education program for our citizens.

Some of the members are: the Cancer Society, I.C.B.C., the Association for the Handicapped,, Langley Family Services, Langley Memorial Hospital, Hospice, Planned Parenthood, Pro-Life, the School District, the Municipality, Pregnancy Problem Service, Public Health, and the R.C.M.P.

CHEC meets the first Wednesday of every month at Langley Memorial Hospital at noon for one hour. The meetings consist of a presentation from an agency, the working toward CHEC objectives, and the general sharing of up-coming events of member organizations. Any group in the community or concerned citizens are welcome to attend.

The hospital provides the secretarial serving and meeting space but CHEC focuses on health in the communtiy.

Does the thought of going to church still give you a pain in the neck?

You may be surprised to see how much the church has changed. The way of dressing for services is more comfortable and so is the style of worship. So come prepared to relax, free from life's restrictions, and let the most important part of you breathe again.

Did you lose $600?

VANCOUVER - Census Day was on June 4th. Just before Census Day a bright yellow envelope containing a census questionnaire was delivered to every household in the region. For everyone who completed and mailed back their questionnaire the federal government transfers $600 per person per year to the provincial government for health care and educational services. For anyone who didn't get counted this money is lost!

It's not too late to count yourself into the benefits. Just a few minutes of your time today to complete and return your Census questionnaire will benefit the local community for at least five years. Census representatives will be following up to ensure that they have received a questionnaire from your household. If you didn't get a questionnaire or need assistance in completing it call the telephone assistance line at 666-1991 in Vancouver, or 1-800-267-1991 for all other calling areas. Operators can respond in over 30 different languages.

Personal information provided on census questionnaires is kept completely confidential, by law. No other government agency has access to your completed questionnaire. Not even the Supreme Court can subpoena a census form. All census employees are sworm to secrecy and subject to fines and imprisonment for any breach of confidentiality. Under the Statistics Act the government of Canada is required to take a census every five years. It is required by law that every household complete and return a census questionnaire.

Data gathered in the census is the only complete source of information about the quality of life for all Canadians. Community organizations, businesses and governments all use census data to decide what services are required in your area. The amount of grants from the provincial government to municipalities are based on census population counts. Since so many important decisions that affect our daily lives are based on census data, it is vital that this information be complete and accurate. This means everyone must be included. It's not too late to count yourself in!

Wilderness of adventures

VANCOUVER - A wilderness of adventures for British Columbia's youth, YMCA Camp Deka will provide summer camp experiences on Deka Lake for its second summer.

Participants work together to create an exciting atmosphere which encourages personal challenge and a deeper understanding of themselves and their environment.

Thirty-two particpants supervised by twelve qulified staff enjoy a simple lifestyle surrounded by a wide variety of wildlife and untamed forest.

Activities include horse back riding, mountain biking, canoeing, five to seven day expeditions, high and low ropes courses, challenge activities and environmental awareness programs.

Four sessions of ten days each will be ran continuously throughout the summer of 1991 from July 15 to August 26.

Any further questions or more detailed information contact the YMCA Outdoor and Camping Unit, 251-1116.

Count Yourself In June 4th

Put Canada's Census of Agriculture to Work for You.

Everyone involved in agriculture, who completes and mails their Census forms June 4th, performs a vital service for themselves — and for their community.

The Census of Agriculture helps ensure the following:

- All operators, including women, in agriculture will be recognized for their role as decision makers.
- Information will be used to defend farm interests in international trade negotiations and disputes.
- Farm organizations often use this information to present their cases to government.
- Many government stabilization and price support payments are directly or indirectly based on analysis of the information.

Together, the confidential information gathered in the Census of Agriculture and the Census of Population will ensure that you and your farming community get your fair share of agricultural services, as well as funding for schools, hospitals, roads, vital social services, and rural development. With you, the Census makes good sense.

If you haven't received your Census of Agriculture form, please call toll free, 1-800-465-1991. Call for HELP from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Thursday, May 30th through Friday, June 7th (excluding Sunday).

Fort Langley Junior Secondary School played host to several different dance groups from Langley, Victoria, Abbotsford, and Vancouver on June 2, to celebrate the centennial of Ukrainian settlement in Canada. Colorful costumes lit up the stage as the lively dancers stomped, kicked, smiled and shouted to the music. Young Tarara Pitts, nine, who is part of the Langley Vesna and the Cameron Dance Academy was on hand for both a solo and group performances. She has travelled all over the Lower Mainland and, as the M.C. declared, she had "two of the fastest little feet," and was also "the pride and joy of the Vesna dancers."

The entire program was completely delightful. - Lara Brodie photo.

Volunteers needed by victim services

SURREY - Do you work well with people? Are you compassionate, understanding and an effective listener? Do you have excellent communication skills? If so, you could provide victims' services in the prosecutor's office in Surrey, Langley or Matsqui.

This program serves principally to assist Crown Counsel in meeting the information needs of those victims demanding a high degree of contact and attention from the Crown Counsel office. This program would provide direct service to victims/witnesses in cases involving major physical or emotional trauma. This would include all death cases and all cases involving serious bodily harm.

A background in criminal justice, clerical work, or crisis intervention is an asset. A commitment of four hours per week is required. Basic and advanced training provided.

Applications are available at: Crown Counsel Victim Services, 14340 - 57 Ave., Surrey, B.C. V3X 1B2.

For further information please call 572-2395.

Police state not his favorite

MURRAYVILLE - A Langley man says it is about time Canadians "start policing for the people instead of policing the people."

Says Al Tecklenborg in a letter to township council with copy to RCMP Inspector Dave Mortimer, "The eastern bloc countries have made the change after 45 years; let's not wait that long."

Tecklenborg has noticed that with the return of the good weather, long daylight hours and safe driving conditions, radar trap-carrying RCMP officers have sprung up like mushrooms all over the municipality.

What for? he asks. "To make the safest driving group under the safest conditions just a little bit safer?"

It amounts to harassment of the public, Tecklenborg says.

"Our officers deserve the dignity and respect of being assigned to some real and meaningful police work. We are definitely not short of manpower to address our notorious crime rate; all that is required is to re-assign the police to more important concerns."

Councilors mused about the letter Monday night. Said Ald. John Scholtens, "Either (Tecklenborg) got a ticket or his business was broken into twice last week."

IT'S TILLER TIME

Have your garden "Rototilled" or have that spot where you would like a garden tilled for as little as $25.00 (300 sq Ft. Max)
This includes one application offF 8-8-8 all purpose fertilizer.
My tiller will fit through most common doorways & gates, and is strong enough to turn sod to soil in minutes. A garden is great for kids, good therapy for Mom or Dad after a stressful day at work and a healthy thing to do. Have something you've grown on your table this summer it's a great feeling.

Summer camp in forest

SURREY - During July and August, boys and girls are invited to attend a residential Summer Camp program at the Evans Lake Forestry Centre, located near Squamish, B.C. The duration of the camp sessions are six days for eight to 11 year olds and eight days for 10 to 14 year olds.

Summer Camp at Evans Lake offers exciting activities, the chance to meet and make new friends, and an opportunity to learn about the forest environment. Experienced camp leaders supervise an action-packed program on the value and use of our forests, outdoor living skills, and recreational activities. Children will also have an opportunity to try their hand at hiking, swimming, canoeing and fishing. The evenings are spent by the campfire singing songs and exchanging stories.

Evans Lake Forestry Centre has operated since 1960 and is accredited by the B.C. Camping Association for maintaining required standards for health, safety and qualified leadership. All sessions are co-educational and the comfortable and modern camp facilities ensure a safe and happy experience for the campers. Programs are dedicated to building a better understanding of our forests and renewable resources.

In addition to summer programs, the centre is used throughout the year by many schools and community organizations. Each year about 5,000 children and leaders participate in programs at Evans Lake.

For further information contact the British Columbia Forestry Association by phoning 582-0040.

HELP FOR DEPENDENCY

LANGLEY - Family Services will be offering another alcohol and drug education series starting June 10. Various topics will be discussed on Monday evenings from 7 - 9 p.m. for 7 weeks. You may attend one or all of the series. No fee. No registration necessary.

1991 Miss Aldergrove Pageant fills school gym with well-wishers

A NIGHT TO REMEMBER

Aldergrove Secondary's gymnasium was filled to capacity for the 1991 Miss Aldergrove Pageant, Friday night. Photos (clockwise from top left) include Princesses Kim Hildebrand and Elisicia Armitstead, 1990 Miss Aldergrove Tara Craig passes her crown to 1991 Miss Aldergrove Kerry Brown, and local Lions Club representative Ken Pruden stunned Kerry Brown with the club's gift of a six-week stay in Japan -- how fitting, as Miss Brown said just last week that her ambitions included some more travelling!

Request denied for Bedford Channel

MURRAYVILLE - A letter from a Fisheries Canada official "is not funny at all" but on the other hand "says absolutely nothing," Mayor John Beales commented Monday night.

Letter from the regional director of the ministry's Vancouver small craft harbors branch says a request for dredging of the Bedford Channel of the Fraser River at Fort Langley has "been placed on the department's 'request for projects' list (and) projects on this list are subject to program priorities and the availability of funding."

"I sincerely regret that all monies for programs remain fully committed at this time," concludes director J.W.C. McNally.

Beales is not amused.

Dredging of the river channel would enhance the tourist potential for Fort Langley, councilors say.

Pipeline okay by Langley

MURRAYVILLE - A proposal by B.C. Gas to double capacity by twinning the present transmission line from the north does not seem to worry most councilmen here.

They received an information package from B.C. Gas this week.

Only Ald. Muriel Arnason called for an environmental study on the project. It was of no concern to the other six council members.

Is B.C. Brazil of the North?

VANCOUVER - Does British Columbia deserve the reputation of "the Brazil of the North"? That question will be explored in a B.C.Forest Alliance-sponsored program on BCTV which will be aired Sunday, June 9 at 5:30 p.m.

The half-hour program, called "The Forest and the People" is the second in a series which examines B.C. forest practices. In this program, host Fanny Kiefer will compare B.C. practices to those in the Amazon rainforest of Brazil, and will analyze the Bowron Lake clearcut, one of only three man-made things astronauts say is visible from space.

Recent German headlines have accused B.C. of being "A paradise destroyed" and home of "The forgotten rainforest." The program will also explore B.C. logging practices and whether a European boycott of Canadian forest products would be detrimental or postive for the forest industry and the global environment.

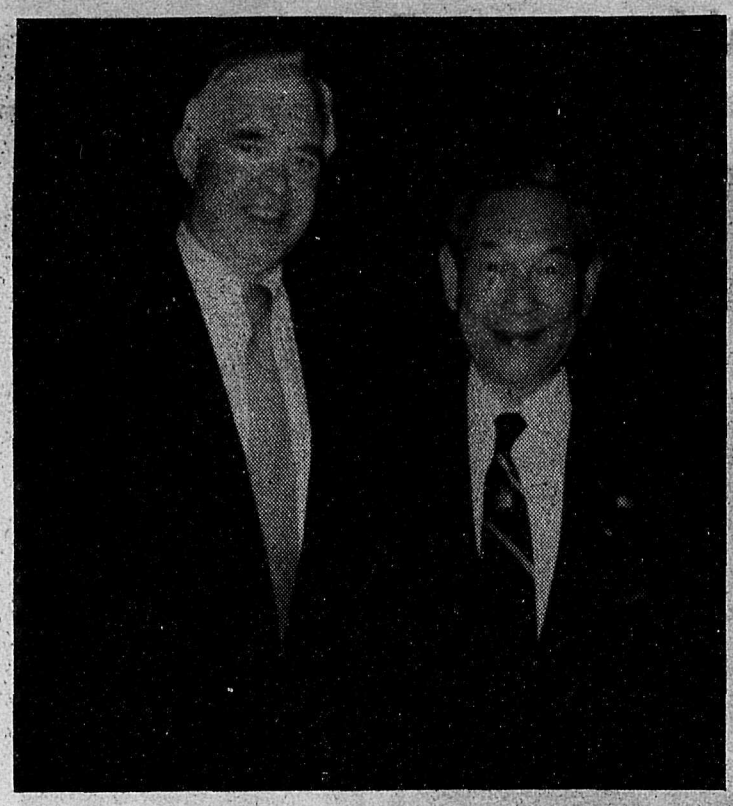
Guests include Mark Wareing, staff forester with the Western Canadian Wilderness Committee, Bernadette Vallely, of the Women's Environmental Network, interviewed in London, England, environmentalist Wade Davis and Patrick Moore, a founding member of Greenpeace and a member of the B.C. Forest Alliance. Kiefer also speaks with Bill Stanbury, Faculty of Commerce at U.B.C. and Jack Munro, chairman of the B.C. Forest Alliance and president of IWA - Canada.

Soviets can now travel

MOSCOW - People of the Soviet Union have finally been given the right to travel abroad, after almost 75 years of virtual imprisonment.

The Supreme Soviet has passed an historic law on exit and entry by 320 votes to 37, with 32 abstentions - but only after some hysterical objections from Communist hardliners who succeeded in blocking the move three times.

In a concession to conservatives, deputies agreed that the law will not go into effect untril January 1, 1993, six months later than originally planned by the reformers.



VICTORIA - Federal cabinet minister Tom Siddon conversed with Aldergrove evangelist Mun Hope at the May reception held at the Victoria Royal British Columbia Museum. Workshops were conducted in the conference center concerning Canadian unity, the economy and environmental concerns.

Job preparation not up to par

VICTORIA - Only 43 percent of employers think the schools prepare graduates well for the workplace, according to the Education Ministry's annual report, with writing and mental arithmetic skills being the areas where bosses were least impressed.

The results-oriented report is based almost totally on either opinion surveys or average test scores. The two clash in a "intriguing" way according to the report: British Columbians score below the national average in their confidence in the education system, though "on many comparative measures, B.C. students rank either first or second in Canada."

Report cites a Statistic Canada survey done in 1989 which showed B.C. students leading those in all other provinces in both "literacy and numeracy skills" - reading, writing and arithmetic.

Nonetheless, only 40 percent of employers were satisfied with their newly graduated employees' writing skills, while a bare 30 percent approved their ability to do math in their heads.

Citing another survey, which showed that 75 percent of parents of school-aged children felt underinformed about education, the report suggested that ignorance may account for B.C.'s low confidence rating.

Start talking to neighbors, motocrossers told

MURRAYVILLE - An official of the Lower Mainland Motocross Club was advised Monday night to "facilitate a dialogue" with members of the South Aldergrove Ratepayers Association.

Tony Dyrsmid presented a petition to council signed by 472 area residents asking for a longer-term lease than the one year granted by council for municipal land in the Jackman park. Motocrossers have been using the land for a track for almost 20 years.

Dyrsmid also brought forward support in the form of a letter from Langley RCMP Inspector Dave Mortimer.

Several aldermen showed sympathy for the proposal of creating a better racetrack facility protected for sight and sound by berms and planting of trees around the perimeter

"We always try to resolve matters," assured Ald. John Scholtens. Ald.John Campbell suggested Dyrsmid 'sell' the club's plans to the surrounding neighborhood, which has shown open hostility in the past to a further renewal of the lease. Ald. Muriel Amason was the only council member to insist on the one-year lease with no renewal clause remaining in effect.

Dyrsmid said the club has 244 members and is prepared to spend up to $150,000 on site improvements to make the facility more palatable to the community. Already, he said, many improvements have been initiated and sound readings (obtained four times during each racing day) are "well within legal limits."

There have been no complaints from neighbors during this spring season's races, he said.

Mayor John Beales said he agreed wholeheartedly with Mortimer. "There has to be something (in recreation) for everyone to do," he said.

Seniors' News

The past remembered is a future treasure

By MAUDIE MacPHERSON

ALDERGROVE - Nice to read in the Aldergrove Star of the interest being taken in preserving our heritage sights. Credit goes to the people who are so actively involved in making it possible for those who come after us to have a better understanding of the way things were back then.

Don't forget the general meeting of the OAP, Friday, June 7 at 1:30 p.m. in the OAP hall.

Carpet bowling Thursday, May 30, was fun as usual. We will resume bowling in September, so until then happy holidaying.

The OAP hall was filled to capacity Saturday afternoon. They came to pay tribute to a long time resident, Emily Elmore. Emily's niece did an excellent job in carrying on the service. Many others contributed, another niece gave the eulogy and a daughter-in-law read the scriptures. Two ministers assisted in bringing messages of hope and love. The fiddlers' group to which Emily belonged remembered her with two of her favorite selections. The choral group sang two numbers and three of the group formed a trio and sang Beautiful Isle of Somewhere.

The Royal Purple ladies were represented and one of their members paid their respects. Ernie Cluett spoke on behalf of the choral group, of Emily's early interest in starting the singing group. She was instrumental in bringing in others from Clearbrook to help. His memories took us back to earlier times when he and Emily and Muriel enjoyed music together and right up to the present when they entertained at Jackman Manor.

The service closed with a short address from David, a minister friend of the family. I'm sure the whole service was conducted in just the way Emily would have liked it, for Emily was a happy light-hearted person who enjoyed music above all else. We'll miss you Emily, and our sympathy goes to the Elmore family at this time.

The ninth choral festival was held in the Canadian Reformed Church on 52nd Avenue, last Monday. Three choirs, Brookswood, Aldergrove, and Rainbow took part. It was well presented and those missing Joan Danby's rendition of "When I Grow Too Old To Dream" are certainly the losers. It is a privilege to hear this lady with her beautiful voice. Next year on the tenth anniversary of the festival, Aldergrove choral group will be the host. This seems only proper since Aldergrove hosted the first one.

Everyone keep in mind the strawberry tea, Saturday, June 8 at the OAP hall. Head there after the parade and you will not be disappointed. Good sandwiches and yummy strawberry shortcake all for $3.00.

The last whist party of the season was well attended. Ten tables were in play.

There were 38 at Wednesday's dance. Dancers signed a sympathy card to be given to the Elmore family. Spot dance went to Sylvia Turpin and Cliff Souther. 50-50 won by Georgina Onstine and Emil (didn't get the surname). Corsages were given to Maxine Sodmont, Georgina Onstine and Norman Folk. These were made by Opal's granddaughter who is interested in flower arrangments.

Saturday's dance was smaller than usual, only fifty-five came out. Door prizes were won by Mike Pyseil and Dorothy Marshall. Spot dances went to Doreen Mason and Bill Kozlowski, also Charlie Milward and Evelyn Johnson. 50-50 went to Barny Goble and Ray Le Hux. Several were welcomed as first time visitors, Hildegard Mown and Helen Campbell from Chilliwack, Violet Fatt from England, Fern Martin from Burnaby and Peter Brittner from North Delta. Next week the Westernaires will provide music for the dances.

Seniors walk is over and the results will have to be tabulated. Speaking of walking, here'a a little ditty:

Why do I walk? T'aint no mystery
Wanna have a good medical history
Doctor told me walking is great
Helps them blood cells circulate.
Great for the lungs and great for the ticker
Can't nothing getcha in better shape quicker.

Since most activities are terminating for the summer, I'm taking a holiday. Opal Thomas will be giving you the dance news. A change is as good as a rest they say.

ENGLISH & WESTERN
CID is very quiet and co-operative with no vices. He loves people and attention but should have a knowledgeable rider. He's been shown in 4-H and at the local and schooling show level but he is ready to do more. Good Show Hack prospect and loves to jump. I, sadly, can no longer keep him. To a loving home only!

Illegal drugs still popular

OTTAWA - A 1989 Statistics Canada survey on illegal drug use shows that 6.5 percent of the population age 15 and up admitted using cannabis (marijuana, hashish, hashish oil) in the previous year.

While trend data on illegal drugs is sparse, the indication was that cannabis use had declined. A 1980 survey found about 12 percent of persons age 18 and over had used the substance.

Following are some other facts from the 1989 survey, conducted for Health and Welfare Canada.

British Columbians had the highest use of cannabis among all provinces, at 9.6 percent of the population age 15 and over.

Nova Scotia was in second place at 7.4 percent. The lowest provincial use of the drug was 4.5 percent in Newfoundland. Prince Edward Island and Saskatchewan were next lowest at 4.7 percent each and Manitoba was at 4.8 percent. New Brunswick stood at 5.7 percent, Ontario at 5.9 percent, and both Quebec and Alberta at 6.5 percent.

Many users of illicit drugs eventually quit, according to the survey. Almost a quarter (23.2 percent) of all persons age 15 and over reported they had used cannabis at one time, but just 6.5 percent said they were still users. Similarly, while 3.5 percent said they had taken cocaine, only 1.4 percent were current users. And although 4.1 percent said they had used LSD, speed or heroin at some time, only 0.4 percent admitted that they were current users.

Men proved more likely than women to be cannabis users. A total of 8.9 percent of the men reported using cannabis in the survey year, compared to 4.1 percent of the women.

Among males who identified themselves as current users of cannabis, 25.6 percent said they used the drug at least once a week. Among women users, this rate was 15.8 percent.

OBITUARIES

ELMORE - Emily Grace, passed away in Langley Memorial Hospital, May 25, 1991, age 80 years.

Survived by her husband Fred; 2 sons, Gordon (Garen) of Smithers, Darrel (Bonnie) of Creston; daughter Sue Spurgeon; 6 grandchildren; brother Fred Loucks of Aldergrove; niece, Marilyn (Don) Schellenburg, Surrey.

Memorial service was held Saturday, June 1 in Old Age Pensioners Hall. In lieu of flowers donations to the B.C. Heart Fund.

5 arrested and charged

LANGLEY - As a result of a co-ordinated RCMP investigation by Victoria Criminal Intelligence Units and Langley Burlgary and Fraud Units, five individuals have been arrested and charged with theft of autos, possession of stolen property, fraud, forgery, uttering, and personation.

The investigation covered the period from August, 1990 to May, 1991 and involved offences throughout the lower mainland and the southern part of Vancouver Island.

The value of stolen autos and stolen property is estimated at approximately $200,000 with the value of the frauds committed expected to have a potential to reach approximately $100,000. The vehicles stolen included a full range of makes, from Mercedes and Jaguars to Honda Civics. The investigation culminated in the search of a number of residences in Langley and Surrey in mid-May of 1991.

Arrested and charged in connection with this investigation are: Donald George Leahy, 21, of no fixed address; Clinton James Smart, 20, of 4130 - 207 St. Langley; Conrad Walter Rozenek, 20, of 22550 Old Yale Road, Langley; Randy James Rennes, 20, of 10746 - 144 St., Surrey; and Cirilio Bautista Lopez, 20 years of 970 Kings Road, Victoria.

Smart, Rozenek and Rennes are currently before the courts in Langley. Leahy and Lopez are before the courts in Victoria.

The investigation, due to its complexity, is still continuing, with the potential of additional charges forthcoming.

Chamber busy

ALDERGROVE - During the three-month period of January 1 to March 31 this year, the local chamber of commerce answered 817 inquiries from people in the area, 295 calls from tourists dropping in, and mailed out 85 packages of information to businesses seeking information about the area with the possible intention of locating here.

Canadian GST has mixed effect on cross-border shopping

BELLINGHAM - While the recently implemented Canadian goods and services tax (GST) will do little to boost Canadian purchases of groceries, appliances and furniture south of the border, sales of other goods such as clothing and footwear may show modest increases, according to a pair of economists at Western Washington University.

David Merrifield and Daniel Hagen recently presented a study on the implications of the 7-percent GST on cross-border retail trade in Northwest Washington to the Pacific Northwest Regional Economic Conference in Portland.

The major reasons for their conclusions:

• Other studies indicate the possibility of economic growth in British Columbia and Canada as a result of the replacement of the Canadian federal sales tax (FST) with the GST. This would be due to "efficiency gains" -- the most cost-effective use of capital and materials -- caused by changing incentives under the new tax structure. This expected economic growth would stimulate retail sales on both sides of the border.

• This change in the tax structure may cause some goods such as furniture and appliances to become cheaper in Canada, providing little incentive for Canadians to increase cross-border consumption.

• However, for some products such as footwear and clothing, Canadian prices are expected to rise by nearly the full amount of the GST.

• Products exempt from the GST, such as groceries, will show little change in price relative to U.S. prices.

Items such as general merchandise, clothing and footwear, which are easy to acquire in small purchases, are most likely to see increased sales in northwest Washington. The GST is a tax on consumption by Canadian citizens, and most U.S. goods imported into Canada are subject to the tax. Canadians can avoid the GST by purchasing items in the U.S. within their personal duty exemption limit, which is $20 for a 24-hour period and $100 over 48 hours.

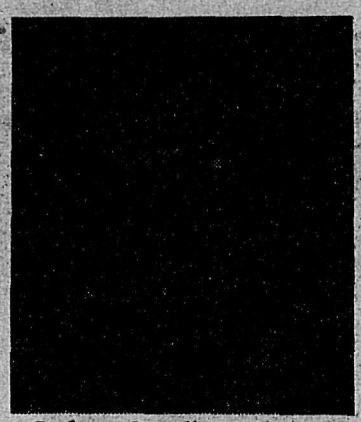
The study estimates that more than 30 percent of Whatcom County's total taxable retail goods are now exported.

Town Talk

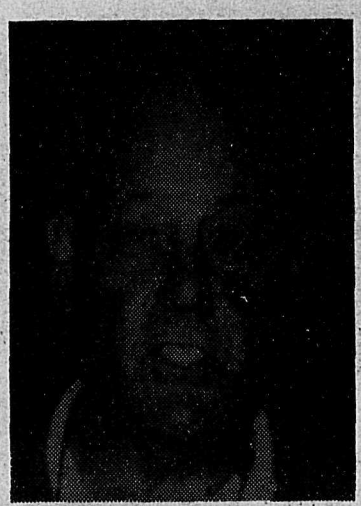
By LARA BRODIE

Imagine the nerve of our government. As if we're not taxed to the grave as it is already, our beloved BC government would really like to get their paws on a few more of our hard earned bucks by charging the provincial tax on "big ticket" items bought in the States! Let's understand that this means, on top of Washington sales tax and duty they'd really like to lop on another 6%. And your reaction is...

Darcy Pollock and son Jonathon: I don't think it's really fair because you only go down there because it's cheaper. The prices aren't fair across the border, if it's that much cheaper there it's only fair for us to be able to go down and get it for a cheaper price. The prices should be cheaper here, they've got to be inflated for them to be that much cheaper down there or people wouldn't go down there to shop.

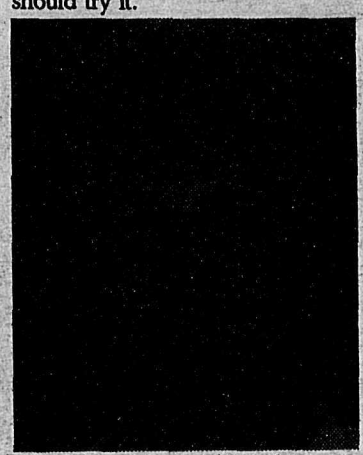


Barbara Mowll: It's crazy, but they'll do it whether we say no or not. It's a lot cheaper down there. (The gov't) should take some of the tax off here, that would help, look at cigarettes. I don't buy big stuff down there, I buy groceries, but it depends, I guess. We bought groceries the other day, we got more down there for half what we paid for groceries up here.



Ken Smith: Bloody awful, that's me, I'm English you see. I've only been here seven years but to me it is wrong somewhere, definitely.

Randy Hopkins: It's stupid. If they start taking taxes off things up here they wouldn't be getting the people going across the line anyways. (The government) is going to get a lot more money from people staying home and spending money on gas and stuff up here, so maybe they should try it.



Marion Moojelski: I think it's utterly ridiculous. They should make it cheaper over here. I go shopping there (States) but I don't buy everything there because I like to buy Canadian stuff too. But what can you do, if you've got lots of kids you've got to go where you can get it cheaper.
