Soil removal gets a flat no

By IAN CAMERON

MURRAYVILLE - Municipal council has passed a bylaw which will prohibit the removal of soil within the township.

Five council members gave three readings to the new bylaw Monday night. The members present were unanimous.

Bylaw is designed to stop the proliferation of gravel pits in the municipality. Excluded from the new regulations are properties that hold current municipal soil removal permits. These operations will be allowed to continue until the permits expire.

The bylaw threatens heavy fines and imprisonment to violators.

However, one alderman thinks there are still legal loopholes in the new ordinance. When Ald. Muriel Arnason later in the evening tried to introduce a motion of her own to deal with the explosive gravel pit situation, she was told that her proposal was similar in scope to the bylaw already passed. "No it's not," claimed Arnason.

The outspoken council woman argued that the so-called "land enhancement" projects, which have been used by property owners to develop new pits, were not covered by the new permanent moratorium bylaw.

A long row of public delegations have told council that the land enhancement clause of the former bylaw has been used as a guise by developers to reap the financial rewards of creating new gravel pits. In the end, there has been no "enhancement" to agricultural land, as the properties in question have ended up as great big gaping holes in the ground.

Arnason says the clause could still be used under the new bylaw.

Big-ticket referendum "weighted"

By RUDY LANGMANN

MURRAYVILLE - Sometime within the next two months, taxpayers in Langley will be dealt a blow between the eyes when a quick and no doubt slick campaign emanating from municipal hall here will try to convince them that they ought to say a resounding 'yes' to the spending of somewhere between ten and twenty million dollars.

We are moving toward the end of August, and as yet very little is being said about the upcoming money referendum. Saturday, November 19 is the big day when voters will have their say.

It is not known at this time just what will be on the ticket.

The only thing known is that it will be just one big item, consisting of a giant package of a multi-million dollar cultural arts centre, an expensive third ice rink, a large community centre in northwest Langley, and ..... the relatively minor issue of furnishings for the new Aldergrove library.

Ald. Muriel Arnason is most critical of the covert way in which the referendum is being prepared.

And neither does she like the fact that it will be just a question of voter yes or no to the entire package.

"The items should be on separate ballots," she says. "Not lumped together in one big pile."

Arnason argues that the campaign is being planned deliberately in such a way that the referendum will have a good chance of passing.

Not only is it being held in November of a non-election year, but it brings together the various demand groups of the community.

The arts and crafts people will of course vote in favor of the cultural centre, and in the process also support the skating rink and the community centre.

Likewise, the hockey fans will support the arts centre, and the people in Walnut Grove the arts centre and the rink.

There is also very little in the referendum for Aldergrove, Arnason says.

Apart from the furnishings for the library, nothing. "And what do they expect?" Arnason asks. "We are building a new library (in the Kinsmen community centre), and do they expect them to sit on the floor?"

Arnasons's sentiments are being shared by many people in the Aldergrove area. A spokesman for the local chamber of commerce has already stated that a campaign will be launched here to defeat the referendum, and that, if Aldergrove again should lose out to the power groups in the west, a movement will be started to separate Aldergrove from Langley township.

This is not by any means a new concept, but the interesting part is that this 'separatist' movement now seems to be embraced by the business community.

It was all smiles for Langley's Sherri and Christina at the 27th annual Abbotsford Air-show. Holding on to prized Blue Angels t-shirts, they said it was an "excellent" show, particularly the Snowbirds and Harrier jets.

Development dilemma

By MARK JOHNSON

CLEARBROOK - Matsqui council will need the "Wisdom of Solomon" to figure out what to do about latecomer charges, says Ald. Henry Teichrob.

Often, when there are no existing pipelines to a development site, the developer will have to pay to have the line extended to his site, often up to a mile away.

Once the pipeline is installed, -people in between the beginning and end of the pipeline can tap into it at no charge to them.

Teichrob says this is "unfair". The developer pays for the whole shot, and then people come along and ride on his coat tails.

So it has been proposed that people using the pipeline within ten years of its installment, should pay a latecomer charge. The difficult thing, however, is that once the developer has sold out or moved away, how will h e be tracked down?

"To try to find out a way to do this is impossible," said Teichrob. "You need the wisdom of Solomon to figure out a system for this."

To muddle the situation even further, once the pipeline is running at full capacity, due to those tapping in, the developer may need to expand the system for his growing needs. This means installing a new pipeline, which can also be used by latecomers.

"Now he (developer) wants to expand his plant, but he can't," said Teichrob.

"There seems to be no easy way to figure this out."

Motorsport proposal finds few supporters

MURRAYVILLE - Councilors here are treading lightly through the tulips on a recurring issue that involves the possibility of a new motor race track opening in or near the township.

"We could be setting off a firestorm (by commenting)," says Ald. Terry Thorne.

Many residents of south Aldergrove are again concerned that they will get a race track for a neighbor. People in Pioneer Park near Zero Avenue have presented a massive petition to council protesting the idea and expressing the belief that council "will not assist in any way with this ridiculous and devastating proposal."

A concerted effort to revive the motor sports complex proposal is under way, they say.

The 390-name petition has been backed up by individual letters.

Recently, Matsqui council again considered the idea, and various other groups in the lower mainland have come out in favor of the proposal. Some are drivers or fans, others see a track as a good money-making proposition. The provincial government would like to see a racetrack somewhere in the lower mainland and preferably not too far removed from Vancouver. Chilliwack has already been ruled out, as being too far from both the city and the U.S. border.

But Gwen and Jack Millington of Zero Avenue point to a letter they received from local MLAs Carol Gran and Dan Peterson in 1986.

The two local politicians then wrote the Millingtons as follows: "Because of your efforts and genuine concern about your community, Matsqui council has turned down the study needed to clarify the suitability (for a track) in the area. We are confident that Langley district council has the same respect for your concerns.

"The provincial government has publicly stated that the complex would not go in any community except by invitation. As your representatives we pledge to assist you with all of your concerns, including the motor sports complex.

"Committed to you and Langley, Carol and Dan."

That was in October of 1986, Thorne points out.

But when Langley's councilors this week came to an item on the agenda according to which the local economic development commission recommended that the township "investigate the potential for a motorsport complex further to see if it would be desirable for Langley," councilors kept silent.

Ald. John Campbell moved that this investigation proceed, but there was no seconder.

Petting zoo area to be cleared

MURRAYVILLE - The township of Langley will spend $200 on clearing brush off a 60 by 60 foot area near the Aldergrove ice arena.

This will be done to provide space for a petting zoo outside the Aldergrove fall fair on September 10-11.

However, the township will not clear the entire lot behind the arena, although requested to do so by the agricultural fair board. "The condition of the soil and the water table would not provide a proper parking situation if it rains," says a report from facilities manager Kerry Bysouth.

More than a quarter-million people attended the 27th annual Abbotsford Airshow, and were entertained with dozens of aerobatic feats and ground displays.

"One of the best ever"

By MARK JOHNSON

Thousands of aircraft fans lined the tarmac of the Abbotsford Airport, gazing into the sky at the spectacular stunts of aerobatic pilots, last weekend.

The 27th annual Abbotsford Airshow drew 254,000 people this year and spokesman Gary Switlo said he was pleased with the response.

The weather hurt the airshow somewhat, said Switlo, but the attendance figures demonstrated the world class rating of the airshow, despite the cloudy skies.

"It's taken 27 years to build this," said Switlo, adding that it is rated among the best airshows in the world.

Both first time visitors and airshow veterans agreed that it was one of the best shows ever, with favorites being the Blue Angels, the Snowbirds and the ever-popular Hawker Harrier.

"It was great because of the jets," said 29-year-old Abbotsford resident Will Loewen, "It's top-notch stuff. It's comparable world-wide."

The lack of the wild blue yonder didn't dampen the enthusiasm of the show and next year promises to be even better with an all-new aerospace trade show linked to the airshow.

Truckstop is deluxe service

OLYMPIA, Wash. - A new era in cross-border commercial vehicle traffic began when the new WSP Bow Hill facility opened July 18.

Located on a twenty-eight acre site off Interstate 5 at Bow, Washington, the 6,080-square-foot facility will offer 24-hour-a-day, "one-stop shopping" for all necessary trucking and hauling permits required of commercial rigs south-bound out of Canada or the northern United States.

Education commission moves in right direction

By MARK JOHNSON

Emery Dosdall says the Royal Commission's Report on Education is a firm step in the right direction.

The superintendent of schools for the Langley School District says he is enthusiastic about the findings of the report and hopes they can be implemented to the benefit of Langley students.

"As an optimist, I think there are a number of good points within the report," Dosdall said.

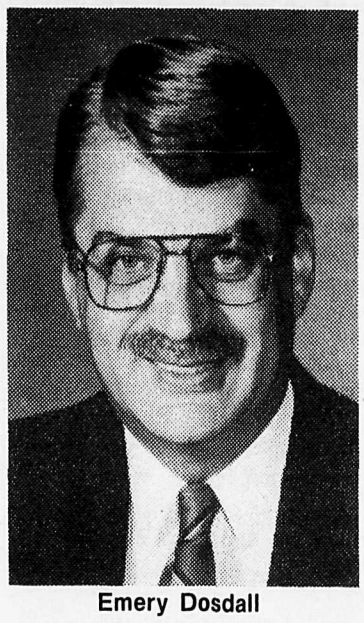
He pointed out the plans for teacher shortages, teacher certification, the improved kindergarten to Grade 10 core and the revision of the school act as being both positive and necessary.

The current version of the school act needs an overhaul and Dosdall says it's about time that changes were recommended.

He also mentioned that the K-10 core does not provide enough variety for different students as it, and that the Commission's results could provide "more options" for students in those grades.

"I am pleased with the report," says Dosdall. "The minister has a plan to consult with the (advisory committee) to discuss these results."

Discussion and input from various groups will begin on August 24 and will continue until December, when the committee will report to cabinet with their proposals.



Emery Dosdall

There are three steps to be taken before the implementation in legislature on December 1.

Organized groups must make recommendations to the Minister, the ministry must prepare possible implementation strategies and finally, the initial drafting of any legislative changes to bring in the Commission's recommendations.

Dosdall was disappointed that there was not any detail on the funding process for the education system, which is in need of upgrading.

No changes are expected for the upcoming, 1988-89 school year, but many are expected for the following year.

THE CORPORATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF LANGLEY

20th century cowboy likes view

By MARK JOHNSON

The only transportation Jack Nelson has is his two horses - he wishes more people would ride this way.

Nelson, who lives in the Aldergrove area, rides 'Sheriff' and 'Mascot' into town every day, switching horses during the journey.

The trip into town takes about three hours with both horses, and while it may be slow, he says he wouldn't trade it for anything. He loves it because it's slow - nice 'n' easy.

"Everybody's in such a rush nowadays," says Nelson, "But I ain't in a rush and I love it. It's a lot better than a car. You see things from a different point-of-view on a horse."

"To me, the car is the lazy man's way of getting around, says Nelson.

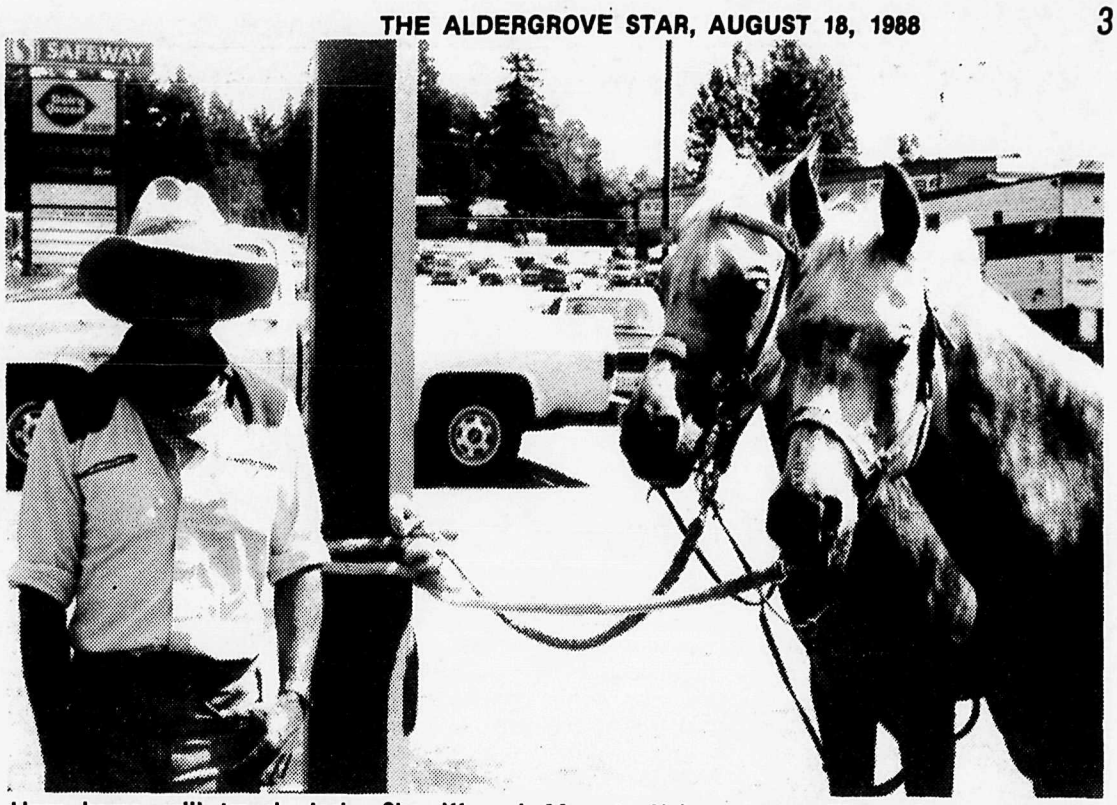
He is trying to get "a hitchin' post" installed at his favorite watering hole, the Alder-Inn. Without a doubt, it's a cowboy bar, decorated western-style.

Nelson, who frames houses for a living, says he's "a cowboy at heart". People usually take well to his horses, he says, but there have been a few instances in the past where angry storeowners have complained about the 'mess' his horses leave behind.

"If they want to charge me with something, then that's their problem," says the 20th Century cowboy.

For now, Nelson is content with hitching his equestrian buddies to a tree and having a few cold ones. Nelson says there's only one question on his mind while he's in the bar.

"I wonder if there's a law against drinkin' and riding'?"



Have horse, will travel: Jack Nelson stands outside the Royal Bank with his mounts, Sherriff and Mascot. Nelson says the automobile is "the lazy man's way of getting around" and he is campaigning for the return of hitching posts in the town core.

Triple E senate support is strong

CALGARY - Canadians, by a margin of more than three to one, support a "Triple-E" Senate, a recent national Gallup Poll shows.

In the poll, commissioned by The National Citizens' Coalition, 1,038 Canadian voters were asked during the July 6-9 period to approve or disapprove of the following statement:

"The Canadian Senate should be directly elected with equal representation from all provinces and have a veto over House of Commons legislation."

Nationally, 55 percent approved, only 16 percent disapproved and 29 percent neither approved nor disapproved or didn't know.

There were substantial differences of opinion, however, among regions and between Canada's two major language groups.

Among respondents with English as a mother tongue, the approve-disapprove rating was 62 percent-13 percent, a more than 4 to 1 margin. However, among mother tongue French respondents, the approve-disapprove rating was only 39 percent-24 percent; 38 percent neither approved nor disapproved or didn't know (rounding may make figures total more than 100 percent).

The highest approval ratings for the Triple-E Senate were in the provinces outside central Canada. In B.C., the approve-disapprove rating was 71 percent-7 percent: in the Atlantic provinces it was 62 percent-14 percent and in the Prairies it was 61 percent-13 percent.

In Ontario, while there was still a clear majority in favour of the Triple-E Senate, the rating dropped to 55 percent-16 percent.

In Quebec, however, the rating dropped below a majority to 41 percent who approved and 22 percent who disapproved; 37 percent neither approved nor disapproved or didn't know.

'Hydra' needs head removed

ALDERGROVE - "Cause is unknown, but we are doing a thorough examination of the area."

Very reassuring.

Comment was made last week by a nameless and faceless bureaucrat within the great B.C. Hydra complex.

"Why all the power outages in Aldergrove?" she was asked.

She would not put a reporter from this newspaper through to anybody who just might know, and defended the pitiful situation of hydro service (or the lack of same) to the Aldergrove area by saying that this was all she was allowed to say.

Well, bully!

People in Aldergrove are quickly becoming accustomed to the fact that power is off more often than it is on.

How about privatizing B.C. Hydro, Premier VanderZalm?

Most fail geography test

WASHINGTON - Three out of four Americans who took a geographic literacy test couldn't locate the Persian Gulf, most had no idea of the U.S. population and the majority were lost when it came to finding Britain, France or Japan.

Canadians did only slightly better.

The test, conducted this spring by the Gallup Organization, ranked Americans in the bottom third in geographic literacy compared with their counterparts in eight other countries. And of young adults in all nine countries, Americans scored last.

"What was most alarming was not only that young Americans did worse than all other 18- to 24-year-olds, but that they were the only ones in that age group, among nine countries, who did worse than the oldest group tested," National Geographic Society president Gilbert Grosvenor said.

The international survey, commissioned by the geographic society, tested 10,820 adults in Canada, France, Italy, Japan, Mexico, Sweden, the United Kingdom, the United States and West Germany.

Those surveyed were asked to locate 13 selected countries, Central America, the Pacific Ocean and the Persian Gulf on an unmarked world map.

Out of a possible score of 16, the Canadians ranked fifth with 9.2, while the Americans ranked sixth with an average of 8.6, on par with the British (8.5) but better than only the Italians (7.6) and Mexicans (7.4).

Top honors went to the Swedes (11.6) and West Germans (11.2), followed by the Japanese (9.7) and the French (9.3).

A separate Gallup survey of a larger sample of Americans found comparable ignorance of geography, but high awareness of environmental issues. Almost all were aware of the global ozone problem and more than two-thirds knew of the acid rain problem in North America.

In addition to the international quiz, a more comprehensive battery of 81 questions, including a world map test, was given to 1,611 Americans.

The results, which Gallup senior study director Jeffrey Friedman says can be projected to the U.S. population at large, include:

-- Not more than half of adult Americans know the Sandinistas and Contras are fighting in Nicaragua. Some put the warring groups in Iran, Lebanon or Afghanistan.

-- About one-third could name four of the 16 NATO member countries, another third failed to name any and 16 percent of those questioned conferred membership on the Soviet Union.

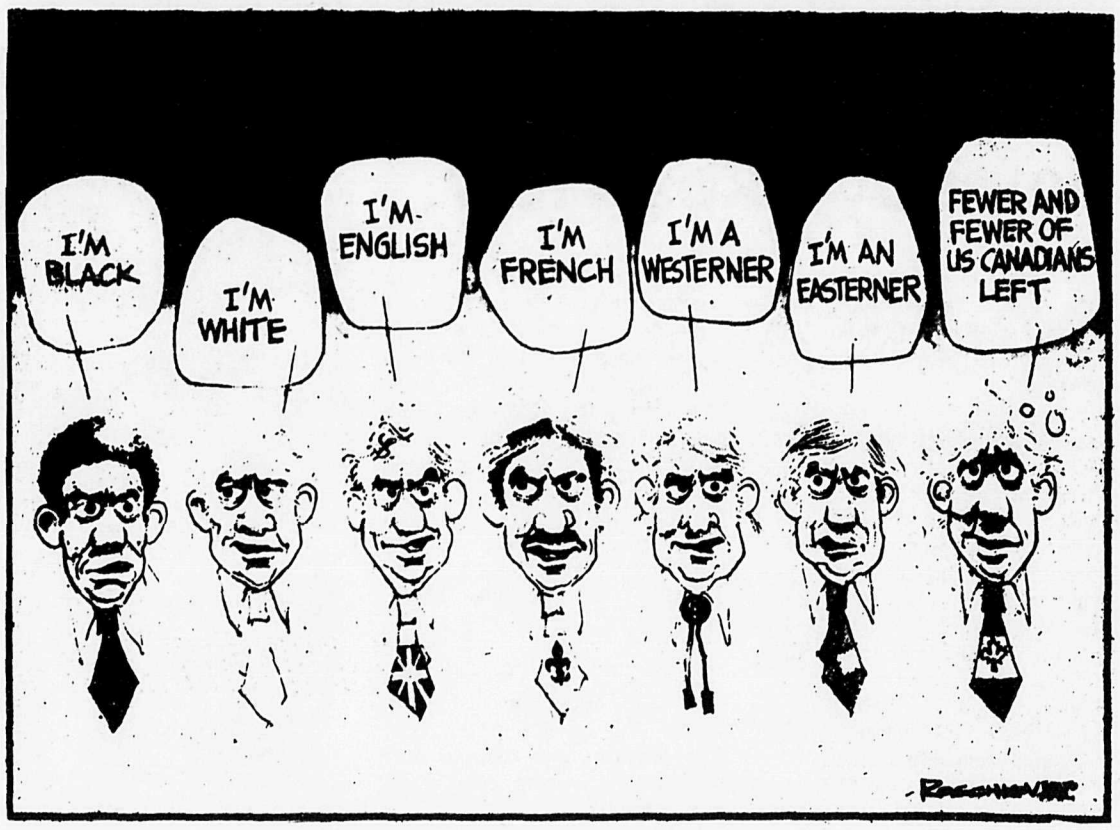
-- Fifty percent failed to name any members of the Warsaw Pact, 20 percent could name four and more than one in 10 made the U.S. a member.

-- Fifty-five percent identified South Africa as the country where apartheid is an official policy.

While nearly 70 percent of Americans tested agreed the ability to read a map was a necessity in today's world, more than one third couldn't pick out the westernmost city on a simple map, the survey indicated.

Comparing results with those from U.S. adults 41 years ago, today's Americans scored about the same or lower than their post-Second World War counterparts.

Survey results cited the level of education as one indicator of geographic literacy, noting people with some college scored considerably higher. Travel experience, geography courses and exposure to maps and globes were also related to geographic knowledge, the poll results indicated.



'Mariapolis' bring hundreds together

By RHODY LAKE

FORT LANGLEY- It's 'Mariapolis' this week at Trinity Western Univesity's summer conference centre.

Mariapolis means 'City of Mary'. It's the name given to an annual gathering of a worldwide Christian group called 'Focolare', an Italian word that refers to the family fireside, or hearth.

More than 200 participants are involved here in a week-long program that demonstrates the example of a life of obedience given by Mary, the mother of Jesus.

The Focolare purpose and message is to live out the gospel of Christian love in the home, workplace and community, and every year Focolare has large 'family' gatherings in centers all over the world, explaining how love can be a daily guideline.

Carlos and Gail Freire, coordinators of the West Coast Mariapolis, describe Focolare as a way of introducing the gospel into modern life.

"The prayer of Jesus was that 'all may be one', Carlos Freire says. "We want to be the presence of Christ in the community.

"Love always shows us what to do, in any situation."

Focolare began 45 years ago in a small Italian town during the Second World War. With bombs falling all around, a young school teacher named Chiara Lubich was impressed with the fact that everything could be destroyed in a moment; the only reality that endures forever is God.

Along with a small group of other young people, she decided to make her life an example of the commandment of Jesus to "love one another as I have loved you". The group grew and was nicknamed 'focolare', which described the warmth of the love they demonstrated.

Today Focolare followers try to live the Gospel of Jesus Christ, and see in Mary the example of the perfect Christian.

According to Mariapolis participants, to "relive Mary" is to be a mediator, and a unifying force in all situations.

"Like a mother with her children, we never give up on anyone," Gail Freire says.

Focolare was approved as a movement in the Roman Catholic Church in 1962 and now has wider ecumenical involvement. It's estimated there are over one million people all over the world who are connected with the movement, trying to live the life of love in their own environment. Some take part in regular Focolare meetings, some only get together once a year at Mariapolis.

"Mariapolis began in 1949," Gail Friere says. "It started because Chiara Lubich needed a rest, so she went on a vacation."

The next year others went too, till by 1959 there were over 10,000 people from all over the world spending time with her in northern Italy.

The next year the gatherings broke up into regional groups.

Now over 100 Mariapolis gatherings take place worldwide, all following the same program. The founder now lives in Rome. She's 68 years old.

Anyone wishing to know more about Focolare can phone Carlos and Gail Freire at (604) 936-8706.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Bill C72 protested

Editor, The Star, Sir,

This is directed to concerned English speaking citizens of Canada who wish to prevent any further steps toward official bilingualism -- to those who are aware of the subtle manipulations in this respect of a minority group in our current government -- to those who want our children to have the advantages of a good English language education because English is the most universally known -- to those who want to promote harmony and prevent future confusion and violence as job opportunities and promotions disappear to the favored French -- to those who feel that our elected representatives should stand up, speak out and save our country from a social disaster.

We need the voice of the majority on petitions now. If bill C-72 is legislated as irresponsibly as the Ontario provincial bill 8 (The French Services Act) was, we, as English speaking citizens will suffer terribly. Contact us for information and petitions to circulate. Write box 727, Barrie, Ontario, L4M 4Y5.

More money urged for B.C. research

VANCOUVER - The British Columbia government must spend as much on research within the next 12 years as Sweden or Japan if the province is to preserve its standard of living, says a report on the impact of science and technology on the economy.

"We're trying to get the provincial government research and development expenditures up to the level of Sweden or Japan," Denis Connor, the president of the Science Council of B.C., said.

His comments echoed statements in the council's June report that has been sent to Technology Minister Stan Hagen. It is currently being reviewed by the premier's advisory council for science and technology.

The report says British Columbia "is at the bottom end of the national scale of research and development as a percentage of gross provincial product (the province's total output of goods and services during the year). Canada spends 1.4 percent of its gross national product on research and development whereas B.C. spends 0.7 percent.

"Competing countries such as Sweden, Japan, West Germany, the U.K. and the U.S. spend 2.5 percent to 3.0 percent.

"The over-all picture is one of minimal resources being applied to science and technology," it says.

Connor said the report suggests "the provincial government should take the lead on this."

Hagen is on holiday and could not be reached for comment.

Ministry spokesman Dick Melville said the report "has never been done in B.C. before."

A review and further study is required before Hagen will respond to specific recommendations, Melville said.

The report is the result of a long-range planning process started in January 1987. It followed a number of forums and includes the views and recommendations of 500 scientists and engineers from industry, government and research organizations.

The report, which has not yet officially been released, says by the year 2000 the wealth generators in British Columbia could be, in equal parts: commodity resources products, value-added resource products, high technology systems and products, international consulting and tourism.

Aquaculture, biotechnology and health care products could all emerge as major industries and major employers within 12 years given the right support, the report says.

Terry Fox runners prepare for run

The Eighth Annual Terry Fox Run is now being organized by volunteers for 366 locations in British Columbia and the Yukon. On Sunday, September 18, 1988, Terry Fox Run Day, over 100,000 Run Organizers and volunteers across Canada will be hard at work to continue Terry's dream of raising money to find a cure for cancer.

Kathy Staley, provincial coordinator for the Terry Fox Run in B.C. and the Yukon, explained the importance of the volunteer to the Run: "The Terry Fox Run is a grassroots organization. All the information on how to organize a Terry Fox Run is provided. It's very easy to get involved. Terry Fox raised the level of awareness among Canadians on the need for cancer research and so many people come forward every year to organize a Terry Fox Run for their community. These volunteers work very hard to organize a successful Terry Fox Run event. Many communities do hold Runs and they also arrange short courses for people of all ages to walk or push strollers."

The Terry Fox Run is really an event to raise money for cancer research. As Staley says, "People who sail, golf, swim and play bingo are asking to organize events throughout B.C. There are fewer special events in B.C. compared to other provinces across Canada, however, the idea is catching on quickly."

Staley announced that, "For the first time in the history of the Terry Fox Run in B.C., volunteers from around the province have come together to share their ideas". "The response to the volunteer Run Organizer conference has been great." she says.

Air B.C. donated 20 flights and this really made the conference a reality. The second conference, to be held at the Terry Fox Laboratory on August 12th will bring together over 30 volunteers from Prince George, Dawson Creek, Kelowna, Burnaby and several communities on Vancouver Island to name a few.

The volunteer Run Organizers will discuss plans and meet Betty Fox, Terry's mother and Honorary Chairperson for the Terry Fox Foundation. The staff at the Terry Fox Laboratory will take the volunteers on a tour of the research facility.

Dr. Allen Eaves, director of the Terry Fox Laboratory and himself a recipient of Terry Fox Run Funds in the past is delighted, as he says, "The volunteers are working so hard to raise money for scientists to do their research. It is a wonderful opportunity to show them how cancer patients can and will benefit from the work we are doing with Terry Fox Run money." In the past year over $500,000 worth of Terry Fox awards have been given to researchers in B.C.

Interested groups and volunteers can get involved with the Eighth Annual Terry Fox Run by calling the Provincial Terry Fox Run office today at 688-4611.

DESPITE SUMMER DOLDRUMS

Dances still draw many to OAP Hall

The Air Show may be a big attraction for this area but our O.A.P. Saturday dances are also at the top of the entertainment. There were over a hundred turned out.

Our orchestra was in great spirits and kept everyone on their feet. Visitors from Surrey were Dorothy & Len Hickenbottom and Cora Dyck. We had a pleasant surprise with a visit from Mr. & Mrs. Prosser from Duncan, they used to live in this area. They also remarked how they enjoyed the music, no need to wear ear protectors like some dances.

The prize winners were Bunny Hamilton and Olga Thiessen. Jay's from the Aldergrove Mall were very generous, donating a door prize which was won by Jack Farmer. The flower arrangements were won by Mable Parker and Bob Coutts. Spot prize to Herb and partner, and Dick Lockhart & Rose Johnson.

A thank you to all the volunteers who make these eveings so enjoyable. The dance committee, the kitchen help, the people who supply prizes and all the dancers who come for a pleasant evening.

We would like to extend a special invitation to all those who may be sitting at home alone, whether you have a partner or not come and be welcomed and enjoy an evening.

The bridge club is also continuing through the summer.

Thank you to Roy Lockhart for keeping the grass cut around the hall.

The Thrift Shop has been able to stay open every day, thanks to volunteers who have come in to let others take holidays. It is very much appreciated even though it may be only four hours now and then.

Our donations went to Dogwood Home for the retarded $500 and $1,000 to the Brandy Reich Fund. She is the lady who needs a lung and heart transplant. The $2.50 bag sale continues till the end of August. Happy holidays.

SPORT FISHING IS BIG BUSINESS

Freshwater sport fishing is a $300-million industry in B.C., according to an economic report released by Bruce Strachan, Minister of Environment.

That's the amount spent by resident and non-resident anglers on their sport during 1985, based on analysis of British Columbia data from the most recent National Survey of Sport Fishing in Canada.

"Because fishing is such an important pastime for so many of us, it's easy to overlook its importance to the provincial economy," Strachan said.

"This report clearly demonstrates that the freshwater sport fishery has far-reaching impacts that rival or exdeed those of many industries -- it's a big business for B.C., and a mainstay of many small businesses throughout our province," the minister said.

Other figures highlighted in the report:

- Freshwater angling expenditures during 1985 supported 5,238 person years of employment and over $110 million of household income.
- About half the money was spent directly on angling, and half on related major equipment purchases, such as boats or motor vehicles used for fishing trips.
- Of the $300 million total, 85 percent was spent by B.C. residents and 14 percent by visitors.
- An estimated $32-million in provincial tax revenue was generated.

Copies of the report, titled "Economic Values and Impacts of Freshwater Sport Fishing in British Columbia", are available through regional office libraries of the Ministry of Environment.

Students allowed daycare exemption

VICTORIA - Claude Richmond, Minister of Social Services and Housing, has announced a change in the regulations related to the assessment of financial eligibility for day care subsidies. The change extends the $100 monthly income exemption that is currently available to employed parents to parents who are students attending a post-secondary training or educational institution. The maximum allowable exemption is $100 per family, effective Sept. 1.

A Tim Horton's player beats the ball to second with a slide during the final game of the Aldergrove Men's Fastball season. The Merchants took the game 5-1 to finish in first place.

Fastball season closes with some controversy

By MARK JOHNSON

The Aldergrove Men's Fastball League closed their season with the Langley Merchants on top in A division and the West Country Classics taking first in B division.

The deciding game between Tim Hortons and the Merchants for first in A division ended in controversy when two runners were called out because of an interference ruling.

The decision sparked an argument, with Tim Hortons players vehemently appealing the ruling. The game was finished there, and the Merchants took it, 5-1 with runs scored in the third and fourth innings.

The B division's final game was a battle for second, not first. The "kids" from Alpha Agencies played a strong offensive game, converting 14 hits into seven runs.

The Classics lagged behind with weak bats, bringing home their only two runs in the seventh inning.

The final standings indicate Walters Carpets in last place in the A division, which means they will drop down to B division for the next season.

West Country Classics, finishing first in B division, will advance to A division next season, trading places with Walters Carpets.

LANGLEY FOOTBALL LEAGUE NEWS

Pintos coaches learn from their mistakes

After losing 28-0 to the Kats in N. Delta last Monday night the Langley Pintos made coaching changes. While head coach Dick Howse had been away on holidays his assistant coaches inserted new and complex offensive plays.

"These are 8 and 9 year olds and there was no way they could all remember the confusing patterns. Lord knows I couldn't" admitted manager Ian Craig.

Returning to their basic game plans, the Pintos showed their earlier winning ways last Wednesday night with an 18-12 victory over the Surrey Lions at City Park.

This Monday night at City Park the Pintos found themselves trailing the N. Delta Chargers 12-0 at half-time. "This was the first time we had played in the rain all season and the boys couldn't cope with it until we settled them down at half-time," said Howse. The Pintos exploded in the second half with three unanswered touchdowns as they downed the Chargers 22-12.

Standings for the Atom division as of Monday, August 15th:

TEAM	GP	W	L	T	F	A	PTS
N. Delta Bombers	7	7	0	0	234	26	14
Langley Pintos	8	5	3	0	109	156	10
N. Delta Kats	6	3	3	0	118	80	6
N. Delta Chargers	7	2	5	0	112	161	4
Surrey Lions	6	0	6	0	51	201	0

The jr. bantam Langley Broncos hosted the Surrey Falcons following the Pinto game at City Park in an exhibition game. The Broncos dominated the entire contest as they amassed 195 yards on offence while the defence held the Falcons to minus 11 yards in the Broncos 12-0 triumph.

The peewee division Langley Colts fell on hard times in the Cloverdale tournament this Saturday. Colts coach Mike Vinoly summed it up easily. "We had beaten Cloverdale 12-0 two nights earlier in an exhibition game but with holidays and two of our top players side-lined by injuries suffered at home, we fielded only 16 players on Saturday."

Four boys had just registered and saw action for the first time. The Coquitlam team didn't even show up and the Colts were forced to play the Surrey Cardinals with no rest. The Cardinals knew they were tired and they pounced immediately. The 21-0 loss was nothing to be ashamed about. The kids will be ready for the regular season opener.

The Mustangs (14 & 15 years) came away with runner-up awards at the Cloverdale tourney. Two of the five MVP awards were won by Langley's bantam players. William Suelzle and Torin Knapp each were selected for their outstanding performances during the tournament.

Grid notes: The Mustangs, Broncos and Colts will compete this week-end in the Tsawwassen Invitational Tournament. The Broncos play Saturday versus the Cloverdale Cougars, Richmond Bombers, Coquitlam Vikings, Richmond Rebels and Delta Rams. The Colts play Sunday against the Renfrew Trojans, Richmond Broncos, Sechelt Sealions and Coquitlam Wolverines. The Mustangs also take to the field Sunday with their opposition being the Cloverdale Leopards, Richmond Roughriders and Tsawwassen Rams.

Langley will be represented by the Pintos in the Surrey Bronze Boot tourney this Saturday at Bear Creek Park. The Surrey Lions and Pintos meet at noon in the Atom final. The Pintos won the Bronze Boot trophy last year with victories over Cloverdale and Surrey.

CORRECTION

The Star wishes to correct the date of the Ironman Canada Triathlon Race, as published in last week's edition.

Valley Concert Society needs support

By KURT LANGMANN

ABBOTSFORD - The Valley Concert Society have made some changes this year to meet the demand of their patrons. The non-profit group also hopes to attract new members with their new concert line-up and marketing strategy.

The VCS is, by any measure, a proven success since its inception in 1983, but current president Phyllis Lavelle feels there's no such thing as too much success.

"We had 577 members for last year's season, and there's no reason to doubt that most will renew. However, some don't for whatever reason - people move to other towns and so on - and we can't afford to become complacent, believing that renewals will be automatic," said Lavelle.

Concerts are held in the acoustically-designed 701-seat Abby Arts Centre. The price for this season's six-concert series is $45 ($40 for students and seniors), which is a remarkable bargain, especially considering the calibre of the performers.

In response to public request, the concerts have been scheduled for the end of the week as much as possible. The VCS has also contracted a "light music" performance to start the series, and added a Sunday afternoon performance which should also appeal to a younger audience.

"We have been watching the consumer surveys which have been conducted in North America and have tried to apply some of these results to our planning," said Lavelle, in explanation of the new season schedule. They have also actively sought corporate sponsorships to help keep the series ticket prices down.

The Sidestreet Strutters, an American dixieland group open the season, Wed., Oct. 19, 8 p.m. The show is sponsored by Pemberton Securities and Moon & Pauls Insurance.

The Australian String Quartet will make their North American debut here on Fri., Nov. 11 8 p.m., sponsored by Dr. Lavelle. Their program will feature Mozart, Borodin and Beethoven for this concert, because Lavelle said surveys show that these composers are the most popular among concert-goers.

Renowned Canadian pianist Jane Coop will perform Thurs., Jan. 26, 8 p.m. Her husband is the conductor of the CBC Vancouver Orchestra, which kindly filled in for the scheduled VSO concert here in March, after the VSO's sudden (and thankfully, brief) demise.

"The CBC orchestra does not normally do this - it was above and beyond the call of duty - but they told us they were honored to help fulfill our season," noted Lavelle.

A world-class, 16-member chamber orchestra, I Musici de Montreal, will play Fri., Feb. 24, 8 p.m., with the help of sponsors, Pete Wall Financial Corp. Their concerts and recordings have received lavish praise from classical music fans around the world.

A Touch of Brass will provide a Sunday matinee performance, Mar. 19, 2 p.m., with a program especially designed for younger audiences.

"We must do our best to appeal to new audiences, or the audience for classical music will grey and die out," observed Lavelle.

In what promises to be the most spectacular concert in the Fraser Valley's history, the Salt Lake Symphonic Choir will close the series, Thurs., Apr. 20, 8 p.m. With 75 members, Lavelle humorously speculated that the audience may have to be seated on the stage while the choir performs in the seating area.

Their program will be a blend of sacred and classical, like their fellow Utah-based counterparts, The Mormon Tabernacle Choir.

"This is a bonus concert, thanks to the generosity of sponsors Fraser Valley Steel & Wire and Group 2 Architects," said Lavelle. The series has usually been limited to five concerts for the $45 price.

Concerts are usually two to two-and-a-half hours in length, so local patrons can be home before 11 p.m. However, they are welcome to stay after the show to socialize with the performers and fellow patrons.

"Performers are very 'up' after a show - it takes a while to settle back down to earth. They have often told us that they appreciate the opportunity to share light, friendly talk with us afterwards. They find it much more personal than the big-city concert scene," said Lavelle.

Members are allowed to "loan" their membership cards to a friend or relative, for any concert, should they wish. If seats are available, members are also allowed to bring two guests at a price of $15 each (at the door, only) for the last three concerts of the series.

If seats are available to the individual concerts, they will be advertised as available at the door only.

Their brochures will be sent out shortly. Those who wish to get on the mailing list should write to the Valley Concert Society, P.O. Box 8000-456, Abbotsford, B.C. V2S 6H1.

Dixons wed in Otter 50 years ago

Alfred and Dorothy Dixon of Murrayville celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Monday, July 25th, with family and friends at the couple's summer home in Loon Lake, B.C.

The Dixons were married in St. Alban's Church in Langley's Otter area on July 25th, 1938, with Arthur Dixon and Bertha (Greer) Farquhar serving as attendants.

Alfred, now retired, worked for many years at McDougall's Hardware Store in Langley before becoming co-owner of the Aldergrove Hardware Store.

Dorothy is active in the St. Alban's Otter A.C.W. as well as the Arthritis Society.

The couple have four children and 12 grandchildren.

Family and friends from Smithers, Cranbrook, Kamloops, Summerland, Westwold, Clearbrook, Aldergrove, and Langley came to Loon Lake to help the Dixons commemorate their anniversary.

Congratulations on 50 years of marriage were received from Langley Township Mayor John Beales as well as from the Premier and Lt. Governor of B.C. and the Prime Minister of Canada.

ASK ANNABELLE

Dear Annabelle,

A few months ago we had our first child. My husband seemed delighted and helped me a lot with the housework and shopping because I was so tired all the time. A few weeks ago the lady next door, who is divorced and has no children, invited us out for a drink. Because I didn't want to leave the baby with a stranger I told my husband to go with her and have a bit of a rest from the house. Since then he has gone out with our neighbor a couple of times a week to the pub for drinks. I seem to see a change in his attitude towards me and I am wondering if he is interested in the lady next door. Should I confront him with my suspicions and look dumb or just leave it alone and hope it goes away?

Signed: Tired wife and mother.

Dear Tired,

This could be an innocent arrangement between your husband and your neighbor. However, I definitely would not allow it to continue. Your husband's place is with you and your child and not dallying with another woman. Confront him with it now and don't feel foolish; you are making a martyr of yourself. Tell him you are very hurt by his actions and let him take it from there. While you are working on that, see your doctor about your tiredness. Maybe some vitamins are all you really need. Then find yourself a good, reliable babysitter and accompany your husband to the pub.

Dear Annabelle,

I am crazy about a lovely young woman I work with, but she won't give me the time of day. I have bought her little presents, taken her to lunch and let her know I am absolutely mad about her, but still she insists she won't see me outside of the office. What can I do to take her mind off her husband?

Signed: Lovestruck.

Dear Lovestruck,

Perhaps you should tell her husband that she has accepted small gifts and gone for lunches with someone at her office. But I wouldn't advise you to tell him face-to-face unless you are a body builder or a real jerk. Somehow I think the latter is true in your case. Give up, you boob.

Star readers are invited to mail in their questions or problems to ASK ANNABELLE. Use a nom de plume if you wish. The address is ASK ANNABELLE, c-o The Aldergroe Star, Box 220, Aldergrove, B.C. V0X 1A0.

The party will hold a nomination meeting Friday night, August 19, at 8 p.m. in Clearbrook.

Case of the missing tubs

COQUITLAM - It may have taken a small lift crane or a team of thieves but robbers were able to successfully carry off three hot-tub spas from a sales storage area here.

Police say each spa required approximately seven people - or a crane - to lift it and a five-ton truck would have been needed to carry the units, which were complete with accessories and cedar skirtings.

Alcohol-drug series offered

Langley Family Services Alcohol and Drug Education Series will be held with instructor David Edge. TOPICS are:

August 22 - Introduction to Addiction.
August 29 - Medical Consequences to Addiction.
September 12 - Family Patterns.
September 19 - Children of Alcoholics.
September 26 - Adult Children of Alcoholics.
October 3 - Nature of Sobriety & Twelve Steps.

Series will be held every Monday eveing at the Langley Family Services Alcohol & Drug Clinic from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Free sessions consist of videotape and lecture discussion. Open to clients and members of community. People may attend all of series or specific lectures.

Timbuk 3 are Vancouver first

Timbuk 3 make their first Vancouver appearance, Sunday. Aug. 21, 9 p.m. at the Town Pump, 66 Water Street.

Named in an obvious pun on the African city of Timbuktoo, Timbuk 3 is a midwestern couple, Barbara and husband, Pat MacDonald.

Their off-centre music, clever lyrics and unisex harmonies produced one of 1986's biggest hits, The Future's So Bright (I Gotta Wear Shades), from their debut album, Greetings From Timbuk 3. It also earned the duo a Grammy nomination and a cameo appearance in the D.O.A. movie.

Their new album, Eden Alley is receiving great reviews, and their current tour includes several opening dates for Bob Dylan on the east coast.

They don't need gimmicks or flash to ensure a sell-out. Tickets are available at VTC outlets.

Astronomy program offered at Lake Park

Who in the 1980's hasn't marvelled at the night-time sky where a canopy of planets, stars and satellites seem to chase each other across a vast and mysterious universe!

Nurture your 'star-struck' fascination at a special evening program of sky exploration, Planets, Stars and Nebulae, Friday, August 26, at Aldergrove Lake Regional Park in Langley.

Everyone is welcome to this fun, under-the-stars GVRD Parks event. Bring a blanket and folding chair, or settle in among cozy bales of hay nestled in the park's open field. Relax and enjoy the fresh air and summer evening. At 9 p.m. astronomers from the Gordon Southam Observatory will take you on a 'heavenly' tour with slides and stories, where you'll uncover stellar mythology and stars that 'went bang' millions of years ago.

Children will enjoy playing the special string game, "Unravelling the Solar System".

As the sky darkens, you'll view a passing parade of satellites, meteor showers and stars through telescopes with tremendous light-gathering capabilities. Look for Saturn with its amazing yellow rings. See the planet Mars as it makes it closest approach to Earth in 17 years. You might even catch a glimpse of the Soviet space station "Mir" floating across the sky.

Remember to dress warmly. Snacks will be available from the concession. Bring your own binoculars and telescopes if you wish.

Planets, Stars and Nebulae is a Community Astronomy Program funded by Science Culture Canada. For information call GVRD Parks at 432-6350.

Happy Anniversary! Bradner residents, Newt and Louise Webb, were given a surprise reception to honour their 46th wedding anniversary.

The joyous reception was hosted by their sons; Chuck, David, John and Matt at the home of Chuck and Mala Webb.

A madcap mystery is one of the thrills in store, when you join the crowds rushing to White Rock Summer Theatre's 1988 season in their stunning new home. For farcical fun be sure to see Inspector Sly's Second - To - Last Case running in repertory with Miss Balmoral of the Bayview and Waiting for Godot. The theatre's professional cast bring them all to vivid life at Centennial Theatre in White Rock six nights a week. For ticket information call the Box Office at 538-9422.

Biblical studies in 18 languages

Dr. Gleason Archer says he carries on a rotation of Bible study in 18 languages.

"Right now I'm studying scripture in Italian. I go in alphabetical order, so the next language will be Latin."

Archer is a scholar and linguist from Trinity Divinity Theological School (TEDS) in Deerfield, Illinois, and well-recognized in North America and around the world in the field of Evangelical Old Testament scholarship. He's on the campus of Trinity Western University this month, teaching a one-week summer course in Old Testament prophets to a group of pastors and lay people studying for a Masters of Ministry degree.

"We have a reciprocal arrangement between our institutions," he says.

"It's the desire of Trinity Western administration to have input from TEDS, Deerfield, and I was invited to come."

To explain his unusual language facility Archer says "once you get hooked on a specialty, one thing leads to another."

"I had an interest in history when I was eight. When I read about Greek and Roman heroes, I wanted to learn their language."

As early as Grade three he was called up in front of his class to recite the Greek alphabet, and by the time he got to college he'd already studied classical Greek for three years.

He served as Latin orator for Harvard's Commencement Exercises when he graduated with his BA, and went on to get two more degrees in Comparative Literature and Classics; a Theological degree from Princeton Seminary; and a law degree from Suffolk Law School in Boston.

He spent some time at the Oriental Institute in Chicago in 1955 studying Sumarian and Coptic languages.

He's also read 18th Century Egyptian hieroglyphics, and in 1963 took a three month course in modern literary Arabic in Beirut, Lebanon. Other languages are Babylonian, Syriac, Sanskrit, "a great deal of Greek and Latin", and all the German languages, which includes Anglo-Saxon and the Nordic languages.

"I enjoy reading in Icelandic very much. It's the same language today that the Vikings spoke."

Archer adds he's also "in control" of all the Romance languages, except Rumanian, and is fluent in modern Greek.

"I served as a Greek interpreter in Spain when we were transalting the New International Version of the Bible."

When Dr. Archer began language study he says he never imagined the Lord intended him for the ministry.

"I was going into the legal profession.

"My father was a lawyer and founded Suffolk Law School, the largest evening law school in America. I went there at night while attending Harvard during the day."

His father expected Gleason to succeed him as president of Suffolk, but the younger Archer's interest was beginning to move in another direction.

He describes New England as "a great spiritual wilderness" at that time, and felt the opposition to Biblical Christianity should not go unchallenged. He was already gaining scholarly credibility as a biblical apologist (defense of the Bible).

"The only explanation for phenomena of Scripture," he says, "is that it is what it purports to be."

The bibliography of Dr. Gleason Archer's scholarly contributions to written works takes up eight pages. His books include such well known titles as Survey of Old Testament Introduction for university and seminary level students, now translated into seven foreign languages; Encyclopedia of Bible Difficulties (charges that have been levelled at the Bible by skeptics); and the Theological Word Book of the Old Testament, a two-volume work presently translated into Korean and Spanish.

Dr. Archer says he served six years as a pastor at the beginning of his career, but most of his life has been spent in Old Testament studies. He's been a member of the Old Testament Department at Trinity Divinity School since 1965.

Dreams come true through Cue To Cue

The Dreams of Bessie Owen", and original play by local playwright Grace A. James, will e performed on-stage at the Surrey Arts Centre Theatre in November. This will be the first play produced by Cue To Cue Players in more than two years.

The company, a community repertory theatre group founded in Surrey by Don and Virginia Bell, suffered financial set-backs due to snow-storms in the fall of 1985 and the spring of 1986. Now, through fund-raising efforts, the losses have been recovered and the members are ready to go again. The Bells are looking for people interested in all aspects of theatre to enlarge the membership and meet the demands of a three-play (hopefully snow-free) successful season.

Experience in acting, technical and promotional work is an asset but not an absolute requirement. Cue To Cue Players is a community theatre group and looks for members who will be dedicated to producing high calibre entertainment refelecting professionalism both on and off stage.

The first two plays, the abovementioned "The Dreams of Bessie Owen" and a colourful children's fantasy, "The Land of The Dragon" by Madge Miller, will be directed by Virginia Bell, who this year received Surrey Little Theatre's award for best director for the play "Breath of Spring" and is also this year's recipient of the O.S.T.A. (Outstanding Service To The Arts) Award presented by the Arts Council of Surrey and District. Virginia is looking for a substantial growth in membership this summer to allow her to cast the plays from within the group. This means she is looking for actors and actresses ranging in age from late teens to middle-age plus.

For further information call 530-1666.

Grab a lens for chance at prize

Seeing is not only believing, it's worth a $2,000 cash prize in B.C.'s Okanagan Valley.

Come up with the best judged photograph of Okanagan Lake's mythical creature, Ogopogo before Dec. 31, 1988 and you will win the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce Ogopogo Photo Contest. The panel of professional judges will look for realism and the best depiction of the legend of Ogopogo.

To date, the giant serpentine "friend" has been sighted approximately 200 times by thousands of individuals and groups. The latest sighting occurred not far from Kelowna near the Fintry area on July 31, 1988 by Willis Allsup and his 18 year old daughter, Sheila of Kelowna. After he overcame his shock at seeing the "blackish green object with two large humps, about 40 feet in length, 18 inches wide, with smooth snake-like skin" he managed to capture it on film. If Allsup hadn't taken the photograph, he believes that he would never have reported the siting.

Cryptozoologists believe that Ogopogo is just one of 36 other giant, aquatic creatures existing in the world, mainly around the area of the 50th parallel and in very deep water. Okanagan Lake is approximately 145 kilometers long and 341 meters deep.

According to Okanagan Indian legend, Ogopogo was dubbed "Na'h-a-itk" and lived in a cave near Squally Point, south of Kelowna. Indians believed it was foolish to approach Na'h-a-itk's watery lair without carrying a small animal aboard their canoes as a sacrifice in case the feared serpent required appeasement. Ironically, Allsup's small black dog was aboard at the time of the sighting, and while normally rambunctious, she remained quiet and subdued.

A Kelowna resident, Arlene Gaal, considered to be an expert on Ogopogo for the past 16 years, reports that Ogopogo has been consistently spotted at specific times and places on the lake usually during very warm weather and in mirror-flat water.

Treasure hunt challenge at Derby Reach

A treasure chest overflowing with prizes awaits participants in GVRD Parks' first-ever Treasure Hunt Challenge in Langley Township August 28.

Come alone or bring your friends, then meet at 10 a.m. at historic Derby Reach Regional Park for a summer Sunday of free fun and adventure. You'll be in teams of up to four people to search for hidden treasure with map and compass by orienteering - an exciting outdoor action game which combines fun, mental challenge and good old-fashioned walking!

Find out what makes orienteering so appealing! It's an inviting and entertaining activity for all ages. Bring your children and let them discover the thrill of using a map and compass in a riverside park setting.

All equipment and instruction is provided. Just bring your good spirits and sense of adventure. You could win your own compass. Everyone wins a certificate and there's even a prize for the best team name.

Afterwards, relax along the banks of the Fraser River. Pack your tastiest barbecue fare, and GVRD will supply the coals, salad and buns.

To get to Derby Reach Regional Park from downtown Fort Langley, follow 96th Avenue west, turn right at 208th Street, travel north toward the Fraser River and look for park signs. For more information call GVRD Parks at 432-6350.

Berry scientist wins international major honor

VANCOUVER - Dr. Hugh Daubeny, a world-known small fruit breeding scientist with Agriculture Canada's Vancouver Research Station, has been named a Fellow of the American Society for Horticultural Science (ASHS).

Dr. Daubeny developed the "Totem" strawberry, now the predominant commercially grown variety (80-90 percent) throughout the Pacific Northwest.

He is one of six fellows-elect honored at the 24th annual meeting of the American Society for Horticultural Science.

Dr. Daubeny, 57 has released 11 raspberry and strawberry cultivars, Chilcotin and Skeena, have had a major impact in this area and several others have become important in other production areas such as Australia, New Zealand and eastern North America. He has authored or co-authored 77 research, and 134 miscellaneous, publications and is regarded as one of the foremost soft fruit breeders in the world.

Agriculture Canada's Vancouver Research Station, located on the campus of the University of British Columbia, focuses on horticulture and entomology (insect) research and is one of Canada's biotechnology centres. It has been in operation for 28 years and has a staff of 20 scientists.

Agriculture update

By R.J. Charles, P.Ag.,
District Agriculturist

Agricultural Weather Forecast Program

The staff at the Lower Mainland Weather Office of Environment Canada do not take credit for the recent spell of excellent drying conditions. However, they are pleased to note that so many people have been calling 666-1081 for the recorded message on weather radio.

The agricultural forecast is an adaptation of the public weather forecast and is primarily aimed at hay drying. However, it can be used to plan other activities such as irrigation scheduling or spraying. It is issued twice a day, at 6 a.m. and at 6 p.m. and it covers an area from Westham Island in Delta to Rosedale and from the B.C.-Washington border to Pitt Meadows-Haney-Mission-Agassiz.

A weather radio recorded message is available from May 1st to the end of September. The agricultural weather forecast is also carried on some commercial radio stations.

If you have any comments on the agricultural weather forecast or perhaps suggestions for improvement, the weather office would like to hear from you. The telephone number for the Lower Mainland Weather Office is 666-1084.

Tillage Field Day

From Sept. 14-16, the Agriculture Canada Research Station at Agassiz will be the site for the 35th Annual Ploughing Championships. In conjunction with the championships, there will also be a Tillage Field Day on Sept. 15 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The field day is being spearheaded by the B.C. Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries and will feature traditional and new tillage equipment. Eight major farm machinery dealers are expected to participate in the demonstrations on sod as well as in stubble. Further information about the field day can be obtained from BCMAS district offices.

World's Forage Analysis Superbowl

That's right ... the Superbowl of forage competitions!

If you are a dairy farmer, you have probably heard of the World Dairy Expo. This is an annual event held in Madison, Wisconsin. It brings together researchers, dairy farmers, equipment suppliers and of course, dairy cows from across the U.S.A. and Canada.

One of the feature events at the World Dairy Expo is the World's Forage Analysis Superbowl. In this forage competition, top forage producers in the U.S. do battle, using their best hay and haylage samples. This year's Superbowl will be held in October and invitations have been extended north of the 49th to forage producers in B.C. (The word is out ... there are some top guns in the north country.)

If you are in the business of producing forage and you think that you've got the right stuff ... go ahead! Entry forms and regulations are available through BCMAF district offices. For more information, contact Don Bates, BCMAF Forage Specialist in Chilliwack at 795-8395.

Library recommends best new biographies for children

Laura Ingalls Wilder was 65 years old when she published her first book, Little House on the Prairie, in 1932. A children's biography, Laura Ingalls Wilder: Growing Up In The Little House, by Patricia Giff, tells how Laura came to write the "Little House" books and it shows how closely these stories mirror Laura's own life. Laura lived to age 90 and saw the world change from sod houses and covered wagons to television and space exploration. This short biography for younger children in grades three to five provides an interesting background to the "Little House" books. Biographies are often a forgotten area in a children's library, with students borrowing books only for school assignments. The best in biographies for children are well written and fascinating, providing insight into different places and times. The best biographies provide much more than the basic facts by includng personal details that make characters come alive. It's particularly interesting to read books by a certain author and then read a biography of that person. Children can then see how the stories and the life experiences of the author are often connected. Both Roald Dahl and Canadian author Jean Little have written interesting autobiographies for children. These books will be especially enjoyed by children in grade 6 and older who have read some of the books written by these two authors.

In Boy: Tales of Childhood Roald Dahl tells of the boyhood adventures which made a "tremendous impression" on him. Rather than a listing of facts he tells of his vivid boyhood memories. Some are extremely funny while others are unpleasant and painful, such as when his nose is nearly ripped off during his mother's first attempt at driving an automobile. He tells of the harsh realities of boarding school and the wonderful holidays in Norway. From the age of 9, when he left home to attend boarding school, until his mother's death nearly 32 years later, Dahl wrote to his mother every week and sometimes oftener. His mother kept these letters and many are reproduced in the book. This autobiography reflects Dahl's great love of mischief and humour and also gives a feeling for the strong family love which tied his large family together.

Jean Little has written many books for children which have as their focal point a child struggling with a physical disability or an emotional trauma. Sue, in Mine for Keeps, has cerebral palsy, and Ben, in Different Dragons, with his fear of dogs, is horrified when he is given a large labrador retriever as a birthday gift. Everyone has a different dragon to fight and Jean Little shows that through love, family, and one's own strength the dragons can be tamed. Jean Little can relate directly to such dragons as in her autobiography, Little by Little, she tells of her many problems due to her poor eyesight. Nearly blind at birth, she has to struggle with every stage of learning and endure creuel treatment from both children and ignorant adults. What shines in this book is the humour and the warmth and caring of family. The autobiography covers the time from Jean's birth in Taiwan, through the family's return to Canada at the beginning of WWII, up to the publication of her first book, Mine for Keeps, when Jean is in her early twenties. The book is moving and at times very funny, as for example, when Jean is late for school and concocts the most dramatic and fantastic story for her teacher. This autobiography will also be enjoyed by adults, especially those who have read some of Jean Little's books. These books and other biographies for children are available at the Fraser Valley Regional Library. Such books can provide a fresh look at interesting times and places. They make a nice change from storybooks while still providing the same storytelling qualities of a good fiction book. The next time you visit the Fraser Valley Regional Library try a biography and learn about some real people and events.

Libraries get cash

Rita Johnston, Minister of Municipal Affairs, Recreation and Culture, announced provincial public library grants of $6,653,749 to 83 library bodies throughout the province. The Fraser Valley Regional Library system received $843,353 of this grant money.

The final report of the New Approaches Task Force on Public Libraries, which provided the first comprehensive review of public libraries in over ten years, was taken into consideration in the calculation of the grants.

As recommended by the Task Force, all public library grants were calculated on the basis of 1986 census figures.

"Grants to libraries located in jurisdictions of declining populations will not be affected by the implementation of new census figures," Johnston said.

Recipe for Apricot/Peach Wine

Makes 1 gallon.

2½ lbs.	Apricots or Peaches
7 pts.	Water
2 lb.	Sugar
1¼ tsp.	Acid Blend
1 tsp.	Pectic Enzyme
¼ tsp.	Tannin
½ tsp.	Energizer
1	Campden, crush
1 pkg.	Wine yeast

Starting S.G. 1.085-90

METHOD:
1. Wash fruit, remove stones and any brown patches, and weigh out correct amount. 2. Mash and strain out juice into primary fermentor. Keep all pulp in nylon straining bag tie top and place in primary. 3. Stir in all other ingredients except yeast. Cover primary. 4. After 24 hrs., add yeast. Cover primary. 5. Stir daily, check S.G. and press pulp in bag lightly to help extract juice. 6. When ferment reaches S.G. 1.040 (3-5 days) strain juice lightly from bag. Syphon wine off sediment into glass jug secondary. Attach airlock. 7. When ferment is complete (S.G. has reached 1.000--about 3 weeks) syphon off sediment into clean secondary. Reattach lock. 8. Syphon again in 2 months and again if necessary until clear before bottling.

Developer earns wrath

MURRAYVILLE - Local alderman Terry Thorne is upset with a developer who cut down a treed buffer zone on his property near the Trans Canada Highway.

Thorne says Penreal Developments Ltd. should be forced to replant the buffer, and not just with "an unacceptable hedgerow."

Unless that is done, Thorne told his contemporaries Monday night, he would not support approval of the Penreal development.

Rezoning was granted by council.

Kilpin art needs a good home

MURRAYVILLE - Mayor John Beales says he went to see the Legh Kilpin art collection in Fort Langley recently and came away impressed.

Municipal cuncilors have been petitioned by Fort Langley resident Elizabeth Illsey to find a permanent home for her grandfather's paintings somewhere in the township.

Illsey would prefer to see a public gallery somewhere in the Fort as a permanent home for the collection.

Discussion invited on solid waste

VICTORIA - A full public discussion of the growing municipal garbage disposal problem in British Columbia was launched Aug. 3 by Environment Minister Bruce Strachan.

"We need a long-term strategy which will not only address immediately, local problems but take us into the next century," Strachan said in releasing a discussion paper which outlines a series of options for better approaches to solid waste disposal.

The paper follows the release in April of the results of a ministry survey of solid waste disposal practices in 129 B.C. municipalities, which clearly identified the need to act now to manage municipal solid waste before it becomes a crisis.

The new document examines the options currently available, including those carried out in other jurisdictions, and presents proposals developed by the ministry. It focues on the following areas:

- Provincial support for local recycleing programs.
- Government procurement policies which encourage the use of products made from recycled materials.
- Beverage container regulation and litter control.
- Energy and resource recovery from municipal solid wastes.
- Funding of municipal solid waste management programs.

The paper will be distributed to local governments and citizens' groups, as well as available on request from the ministry, and will provide the basis for a four-month public consultation phase under a task force headed by James Rabbitt, MLA for Yale-Lillooet.

"Meetings will be scheduled across the province to give municipal and regional governments, industry, local citizens and groups the opportunity to meet with the task force and provide their input into the new strategy," Strachan said.

"The ministry has recently made dramatic progress in the area of industrial and special wastes, not only by making waste producers more accountable but by inviting them to participate in constructive solutions.

"To an even greater extent, the municipal solid waste issue concerns all of us. We must all work together to address this growing problem, which involves every community and individual citizen in the province and has far-reaching effects on environmental quality."

Copies of the discussion paper, titled "The Provincial Role in Municipal Solid Waste Management", are available from the Information Services Branch, Ministry of Environment, Parliament Buildings, Victoria, V8V 1X5.

Application goes up in smoke

By MARK JOHNSON

Arden Rondeau is burning with anger because the Matsqui Council won't give him what he wants.

Rondeau has applied to Victoria for a licence which would allow him to burn construction waste and stumps up to four times a year at his property at King Road and Foy Road in Clearbrook.

The Ministry of Environment will make a decision based on the recommendations of the Matsqui Council. Council said no way.

"It's too close to town to do what you want to do," said Alderman Henry Teichrob. "If you're going to burn, you should be responsible for the smoke."

The Council said that the smoke from the fires and the disposal of the ash were their main concerns.

Rondeau said he plans to burn the fire at 1800 degrees to maintain a virtually smoke-free fire. He also said he would burn only on days when the wind was blowing away from Clearbrook.

Mayor Kandal pointed out that winds change and asked Rondeau if he was "going to control the wind, too."

Suggestions directed to BC Transit

MURRAYVILLE - If people want route changes to the new bus transit system, they should tell the transit authority, councilors here decided Monday night.

It will do commuters no good to complain to council.

By a vote of three to two, alderment brought down a motion by Ald. Muriel Arnason which would have requested B.C. Transit to consider a route change on Willoughby Way in west Langley.

Crash kills passenger

A Winnipeg man is dead after a three vehicle accident at 210 Street and Highway 10 on Tuesday, August 16.

Gerry Marleau was driving a 1982 Datsun pick-up northbound, when his vehicle was struck on the passenger side at 7:50 a.m., by a 1985 Chevrolet pick-up, towing a U-Haul. The collision resulted in the death of his brother, John Marleau.

A 1969 Buick was also involved as a result of a secondary accident. The remainder of the accident victims are in satisfactory condition.

Too many seniors feared

MURRAYVILLE - Concern about the increasing number of "adult-oriented' housing in Langley was expressed by Ald. John Scholtens this week.

"Are we, in the future, only going to approve of those?" asked Scholtens.

He added that Langley also will need other types of housing in order to become a homogenous community and not just a retirement haven.

But municipal administrator Jim Godfrey said the market demand is currently for housing for middle aged to older people.

"We believe it is the preference of younger families in Langley to have their own lots," Godfrey said.

Canadians support free trade despite misgivings

OTTAWA - More Canadians support the proposed Canada-US Free Trade Agreement than oppose it, despite misgivings about its effect on jobs and Canada's culture and independence, a recent national Gallup Poll shows.

When asked "how strongly do you approve or disapprove of the proposed Canada-US Free Trade Agreement", 40 percent approved and 33 percent disapproved; 27 percent didn't know or neither approved nor disapproved. However, while 12 percent strongly approved, 21 percent strongly disapproved.

In the poll, which was commissioned by the National Citizens' Coalition, 1,038 adults were questioned between July 6-9.

Among the regions, approval was highest in the Atlantic provinces (49 percent) and the Prairies (48 percent) and lowest in Ontario (34 percent).

It was higher among university educated respondents (48 percent) than public school educated (26 percent).

Approval was higher among those earning more than $40,000 (49 perent) than among those earing $20,000 to $29,999 (30 percent).

Among occupational groups, approval was highest among professionals (52 percent) and labour had the highest level of strong disapproval at 27 percent.

Among PC voters, approval reached 67 percent but only 30 percent of Liberal voters and 34 percent of NDP voters approved of it.

More respondents thought the FTA would have a bad effect on jobs (33 percent) than a good effect (28 percent). However, most respondents either said they didn't know (19 percent) or niether a good nor a bad effect (20 percent).

Only 13 percent thought the FTA would have a good effect on Canada's cultural identity but 32 percent said a bad effect; 36 percent said neither a good nor bad effect and 19 percent didn't know.

Overall, 38 percent said the FTA would have a bad effect of Canada's political independence, 10 percent said a good effect and 52 percent said neither a good nor bad effect, or didn't know.

Only 46 percent of respondents would name something they liked about the FTA; 24 percent said they didn't like anything about the FTA and 30 percent didn't know.

Overall, 61 percent could think of something they disliked about the FTA.
