Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

A Connecticut woman is suing her neighbor for damages for putting up fly screens. She claims that the flies which cannot get into the neighbor's house on this account will come to hers, and she will thereby have double the usual number.

In a lawsuit in Kentucky the other day it was proved that a horse which had kicked three men to death and had run away five times was warranted "perfectly gentle and safe for any lady to drive." Now and then there is a horse trader who is absent-minded in his statements. —Ex.

On one occasion a lady called and presented a cheqne which she wished cashed. As she was a perfect stranger to the paying teller, he said, very politely: "Madam, you will have to bring some one to introduce you before we can cash this cheque." Drawing herself up quite haughtily, she said, freezingly: "But I do not wish to know you, sir."

Georrge Edwards sent a poem to a San Francisco paper, enclosing a two cent stamp for return. Not receiving a reply in a day or two he called on the editor for satisfaction. His poem was handed to him without the stamp. Considering himself imposed upon he proceeded to thrash the editor. Total cost: $10 fine, the postage stamp and a black eye.

An accomplished clergyman—Mrs. Frontpew—"I think it is shocking—the interest our minister is taking in baseball. Why, I saw him out playing yesterday afternoon with a lot of boys from the college." Mr. Frontpew—"Oh I don't know that there is anything wrong about baseball." Mrs. Frontpew—"I don't say that it is really immoral, but by and by he'll get a curve pitch, as they call it, and either leave the pulpit or want $10,000 a year.

Says an exchange: A new departure in social shams is to be made this summer. A certain claim agent says he has the contract to place the names of a New York woman and her daughters on all fashionable hotel registers at the most famous resorts in Europe, care being taken to register at only one place at a time. The names will be cabled to a New York paper as among the latest arrivales at London, Paris, Rome, or Venice, as the case may be, while the owners of the names will be in hiding at some cheap country boarding-house. Queer mortals who can find a satisfactory recompense in this sort of thing.

Presents of money are still being received for Murphy, the Dublin leper, who this week has been removed to an isolated ward in the hospital and made more comfortable. Sir Charles Cameron has received several applications from people wishing to become his nurse; all they ask in return is payment of railway fare and their food. A Mr. Scanlon, of Mount Vernon road, Liverpool, has written requesting the privilege of attending the leper, and guarentees to cure him by the application of linseed oil. He says if he does not succeed it is certain death for himself—death the most tedious and loathsome—yet all this risk he is willing to undertake.—Ex.

The Buffalo Courier says:—The ever delighted "Traverner" in the Boston Post opens a contest in bad English by citing as a masterpiece a remark made by a well-dressed, pleasant-looking man to an older acquaintance in a public place, which ran exactly as follows:—"You ain't so fleshy as you was, be you?" After remarking that the only words rightly employed in the whole sentence are "you," "so," and "as," "Traverner" says he thinks of offering a reward for a verbal gem equal to this one. Well, there is the old one said to have been uttered by some children who were told that their mother was calling them: "Her ain't a-calling we; us don't belong to she." However the Courier does not vouch for the actual occurrence of the incident. Beside these, the historic remark of the secretary of agriculture in regard to the Milwaukee riot, "I seen my duty, and I done it," pales its ineffectual fires.

Frank Sheldon while riding his bicycle on Calumet avenue, Chicago, just as the children were coming from school, discovered that his dog had gone mad. He sprang to the ground, seized the snapping, gnashing beast between the shoulders and was on his wheel before the people, watching in terrified helplessness, knew what he was doing. Once on he fairly flew up the avenue, past the children, holding the dog at arm's length, while it howled in agony, making every effort to bite him. He turned from the avenue into Ray street, hoping to escape the children, but ran into another group of them; Mrs. N. G. Bartlett saw him and comprehended the situation; she opened her door and screamed to Sheldon to bring the dog into her front hall. He did so, still keeping his grip till Mrs. Bartlett brought a cloth saturated with chloroform and held it over the dog's mouth till he died. Such an instance—two such instances—of heroism and presence of mind in the face of awful danger, are seldom witnessed and deserve lasting memorials.—Chicago Union Signal.

MANY KILLED.

A Great Railway Accident Occurs in Virginia.---Between 30 and 40 Killed.

The Coming Fight Still the Talk. Kilrain is the Favorite so Far.

GREAT ACCIDENT.

LYNCHBURG, Va., July 2.—The east bound express on the Norfolk & Western Railroad, ran into a washout, this morning, 30 miles from here, and was completely wrecked. It is reported that between thirty and forty passengers were killed.

THE COMOX MINES.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.—Col. C. F. Crocker, vice-president of the Southern Pacific Co., who has just returned from Vancouver, B. C., announced that henceforth all coal used here by the railroad will be mined at Comox by the company and brought here in their steam colliers. Dunsmuir is interested with the Southern Pacific in the mines, and he will put the surplus on the local market for steam and domestic use.

FATAL DOMESTIC ROW.

TACOMA, W. T., July 2.—During a domestic row in old Tacoma last night a kanaka, named Rampado, shot and killed an Indian woman with whom he was living, and during the melee bit off a portion of the ear of a rival for his mistress' affections. He fled and has not yet been captured.

DOUBLE SUICIDE.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 2.—As was surmised in these despatches last night, Wm. H. Wilson, whose name has been associated with the suicide of Mrs. Hollis on Saturday last, by poison, also suicided, and with the same means. His body was found hidden in the underbrush of one of the public parks yesterday afternoon.

DAMAGING RAIN.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.—Advices just received by the steamer Rio de Janeiro, from Hongkong, report a severe rain storm there in the latter part of May, damaging all the roads and streets of the colony, and drowning seventeen people. The damage to public property alone amounted to about $300,000.

RYAN'S OPINION.

SAN FRACISCO, July 2.—Paddy Ryan, in an interview this morning, said that if Sullivan is in the condition the newspaper reports say he is, Kilrain will certainly receive a sound drubbing when they meet for the battle next Monday.

MITCHELL'S COACHING.

BALTIMORE, July 2.—A friend of Kilrain says Mitchell told him yesterday that the battle would be a long one, and that Sullivan would try his old time rushes and terrorizing style in the first few rounds, but Kilrain's gameness and agility would prevent the big fellow from doing him any harm, and Jake would make Sullivan work so lively that he would become winded and then would come Jake's turn. Mitchell said in his fight with Sullivan, he had studied every trick of the big fellow, and that Kilrain will enter the ring as well acquainted with his antagonist's fighting as though they had fought before.

FINE AS A FIDDLE.

CLEVELAND, O., July 2.—Sullivan and party in a special train of 3 cars ran into the Nickel Plate depot here early this morning. Very few people were there to meet the train. When the train switched to the bee line tracks, Charly Johnson, Jim Wakeley and Billy Muldoon came out during the wait. Muldoon said Sullivan was asleep, and had not been awake since the party left Dunkirk. He said Sullivan would enter the ring next Monday as fine as a fiddle, and better able to fight than he ever was in his life. The party left over the bee line at 3 o'clock.

PARDONED.

CHICAGO, July 2.—Joseph Mackin, of this city, sentenced to five years in the penitentiary in the spring of 1885, for perjury in connection with the election frauds in 1884, was pardoned to-day by Gov. Fifer.

THE SENATORIAL JAUNT.

CHICAGO, July 2.—Senators Dawes, of Mass., Stockbridge, of Mich., Manderson, of Neb., Jones, of Arkansas, and Wolcott, of Colorada, composing the senate committee to investigate the condition and requirements of the present and proposed Indian schools in Alaska, left here to day. The committee go from this city directly to Port Townsend, via Omaha and Tacoma, where the government steamer Albatross will be at their disposal until July 25th, by which time they expect to return to Port Townsend, and after a few days in Washington territory return east about Aug 1st. The trip will be an extensive one, and after visiting most of the northern schools and islands just off the main coast the committee, if it has time, may cross to the island of Kodiak, 633 miles west of the mainland.

OTTAWA NOTES.

OTTAWA, June 29.—Senator John McDonald has left Toronto for Vancouver. The recent sensational speech of Col. Amyot at Quebec, is creating no little excitement here. He warned the French Canadians that the day was not far distant when they would probable be obliged to defend their liberties and institutions. This is a hit at the anti-Jesuit agitation. Sir Adolphe Caron, minister of militia, says he will enquire into the affair.

Despite the denials from Washington, Canada has made, through the English foreign office, an offer for reciprocity in lumber.

Port Haney School.

The public examination of this school took place on the 27th ult. Notwithstanding the threatening aspect of the weather, the parents and guardians of the children were well represented by the large number of visitors present. This is a newly organized school district. The school was opened in August of last year under rather unfavorable auspices, the attendance at opening being only five; but through the energetic and painstaking zeal of the teacher for the advancement of the school the attendance rapidly increased, the number enrolled at the close of the school being 44.

The examination was conducted by the teacher of the school, Mr. Hugh McKay, and Mr. Murray and Rev. Mr. Bryant, of Maple Ridge. The work done by the school during the year, as was shown by the pupils' ready and intelligent answers, reflects much credit not only on the teacher but alsoon the scholars. The esteem with which Mr. McKay is regarded by his pupils may be judged from the following address which was read after the closing exercises of the examination:

TO MR. HUGH MCKAY.—DEAR TEACHER,—We the pupils of the Haney public school take this opportunity of expressing to you our gratitude for your kindness to us during the past term. In offering you this present we beg that you will accept it as a slight token of the esteem of your affectionate pupils.

This address was accompanied by a valuable photograph album.

After this pleasing incident nearly an hour was occupied in speaking. The eulogiums and congratulations extended Mr. McKay by the different speakers speak highly of his tact and ability as a public school teacher.

VISITOR.

Maple Ridge School.

The semi-annual examination of this school took place on Friday the 28th ult. In spite of the drenching rain which fell with but little intermission during the whole day, the attendance of visitors was large. The teacher was ably assisted by Mr. McKay of the Haney school and Mr. J. W. Sinclair of Port Hammond. The different exercises of the examination were pleasingly interspersed by musical selections by the pupils. Miss Jennie Trembath, a former pupil of the school, creditably conducted this part of the programme, and was at the close of the exercises accorded a hearty vote of thanks. A most pleasing and happy sequel to the day's exercises was the presentation to the teacher of valuable opera glasses and the following address:

DEAR SIR,—We avail ourselves of the occasion of the midsummer examination, to convey to you an expression of the unqualified regard in which your services as public school teacher, are regarded by those most interested in the instruction of our youth.

The duties of your office are at all times responsible and arduous, involving not only intellectual ability and tact of no common order, but likewise the possession of moral qualities which are not only an indispensable requisite, but also an ornament to the character of a public institution.

We take this opportunity, therefore, of publicly recognizing the possession of these admirable and essential qualifications in your character as our school teacher during the comparatively lengthy period you have filled that position amongst us.

There are but few instances indeed wherein it falls to the lot of a public school teacher to occupy his official position with such conspicuous ability and success, and for so long a time as you have done at Maple Ridge.

Besides, the disinterested manner with which you have applied yourself to every moral enterprise for the good of the community, adds a lustre to your reputation, as one whose office it is to mould the character and nurture the intellect of the rising generation, and moreover, deserves from all lovers of social and moral progress the most generous appreciation and acknowledgement.

Will you, therefore, be pleased to accept this with the small token of regard which accompanies it, as a testimonial of our gratitude and esteem and of our heartfelt wish and prayer, that you may be blessed with health and strength necessary to the performance of your duties, and that you may long hold your present position amongst us.

On behalf of the parents and guardians of the children under your care, we subscribe ourselves with respect.

JOHN MCKENNEY,
JAMES W. SINCLAIR, } Trustees.
ADAM IRVING,

FROM VICTORIA.

Special to the Columbian.

VICTORIA, July 2nd.—Yesterday was very quiet in this city, the place being almost deserted. Besides the large number who went to Vancouver, some twenty-five hundred went to Colwood Plains on the Island railway. St. George's and other picnics were held there and a very pleasant day was spent.

The str. Barbara Boscowitz arrived from the north this afternoon.

News was received from Germany to-day of the death of John Kriemler, a former prominent Victoria pioneer.

John McKinnon, a Scotchman, aged 81 years, died yesterday.

John McDonald and Sidney Turpin, two deck hands on the Islander, fought last night. McDonald struck Turpin on the head with a blunt instrument. Both were arrested.

Fourth of July Sports.

The people of East Wellington are sparing neither expense or labor to make the 4th, 5th and 6th of July, three gala days in the shape of athletic sports, horse racing, foot ball, base ball and cricket matches. It is expected that the excursion trains and steamers will bring a large number to participate in the sports. The "C" battery band has been engaged to play for the three days, and dancing will take place in the mammoth pavillion on the three evenings. The committee are energetic, and will certainly make the celebration a marked success.—Nanaimo Free Press. When was East Wellington annexed, we would like to know.

Catcher Watson, of Minneapolis, and a few other baseballists arrived in Winnipeg Friday en route to Kamloops.

Job printing of all kinds neatly done at the COLUMBIAN office. Prices will be found as low as at any other office in the province.—Adv.

DAVITT'S EVIDENCE

The Usual Monthly Crisis of the French Ministry Threatens a Disruption.

Her Majesty's Visit to Scotland and the Return Trip Prove Very Trying.

PLUCKY DAVITT.

LONDON, July 2.—At to-day's session of the Parnell commission, Michael Davitt was placed on the witness stand. Davitt denied the account given by Lecaron, the Times witness, that John Devoy's proposals were submitted to Parnell was true. Parnell, he said, had nothing to do with his (Davitt's) visit to America in 1878. It was the witness' intention to revisit America to lecture and raise money for the agrarian movement in Ireland.

TROUBLE IN CORK.

CORK, July 2.—The proclamation prohibiting the holding of a nationalist meeting yesterday was disregarded. The result was that Wm. O'Brien and other speakers were arrested. After the arrest of O'Brien, the crowd stoned the police, who in turned charged. Several people were injured, including Patrick O'Brien, M. P.

ANOTHER CRISIS.

PARIS, July 2.—It is believed here a ministerial crisis will result from the recent seizure of certain letters in N. Meyer's house by M. Thevnet, minister of justice. It is expected Thevnet, and Rouvier, minister of finance will resign. Davitt said that while in America he attended some of the meetings of the Clan-na-Gael. The latter society included some of the best Irishmen in America, and was no more a club that sanctioned murder than the Carlton club. There is no alliance, the witness said, between the Clan-na-Gael and the league in Ireland. The league movement won the whole of the Irish there to the side advocated by Parnell. Davitt testified he had never met a better man as regards philanthropy and Christianity, than Patrick Ford. He said he regretted that a few months after the league was established Ford openly, in his paper, the Irish World, advocated the use of dynamite. The witness wrote him expostulating with him for the expression of such sentiments, and "ultimately," said Davitt, "Ford returned to our side and now honestly advocates constitutional agitation. The witness said he was opposed to the use of dynamite because its use was immoral and unmanly. He was not opposed, however, to physical force if there was reasonable chance of success from its employment. The league, he said, did not circulate copies of the Irish World in Ireland. Ford, though, sent some copies over by the means of "spread the light" found, and witness paid postage on them. The league did not circulate the letter of John Devoy on the "new departure" which was quoted by Sir Richard Webster, attorney-general. Davitt said he had been acquainted with Alex Sullivan since 1878, and had the greatest opinion of Sullivan's ability as a lawyer. Of his character as a citizen, and of his honor as a man, he declared that he thought him incapable of anything dishonorable. After the return of the witness to Ireland, he delivered speeches denouncing outrages. He declared he disliked the agitation and would willingly abandon its use tomorrow if he saw some justice done to Ireland, but otherwise he would not abandon it.

THE QUEEN.

LONDON, July 2.—The queen caught a slight chill coming up from Scotland. Each journey now tries her more than the last, and it was for a time doubtful whether she would be able to attend the show on Thursday. It is said she was determined to be present at all hazards. When she did come, it was evident her weakness occasioned much pain to those who witnessed it. Her majesty was not only compelled constantly to use a stick, but was obliged to have resource to the assistance of her servants on entering and leaving her carriage. She managed to distribute thirty gold medals, nevertheless, and to say something gracious to most of the recipients. On Friday she looked considerably better and showed keen interest in all the novelties, and especially in the machine for projecting disinfectants over trees, which she hopes may save her dear chestnuts in Windsor park from the ravages of caterpillars.

ANOTHER BIG ROW.

PARIS, June 29.—In the chamber of deputies to-day M. Pichon asked whether the journalist Wolstyne wrote to Meyer suggesting the forging of the documents implicating the government in the Meyer frauds, was written solely for the purpose of discrediting republicans. M. Thevenet, minister of justice, said ten letters were seized at Meyer's house which testified to the shamelessness of the Boulangists. M. de Cassagnac said the letters were police forgeries. M. Thevenet said Meyers had admitted that the letters were genuine and mentioned the name of an anti-republican who had visited M. de Cassagnac, who here sprang to his feet and accused M. Thevenet of being an accomplice of Meyer. A tremendous uproar ensued, ending with the censure and expulsion of M. de Cassagnac, who left the chamber, followed by many members of the right. M. Thevenet then announced the intention of the government to prosecute all offenders, and the chamber without a dissenting vote asked the government to draft a policy of repression.

The alarm of fire on Sunday demonstrated, as former occasions have done more or less clearly, that everything is not just as it should be with regard to the city's fire protection facilities, in the event of any sudden or serious conflagration. Even for a fire developing at an ordinary rate of speed, and getting beyond the stage when buckets could be successfully used, we are ill-prepared without some improvements in our fire protection service. It is the judgment of those who have good opportunities for noting the weak points in the present service that, since the old hand engine has been removed to the fire hall on Royal avenue, it is almost impossible to get water on a fire, except from buckets, in its incipient stages, which, it is trite to remark, is the critical time. Owing to the limited supply of water contained in the tanks, the steam fire engine is invariably taken to the river on an alarm being given, and, consequently, some little time would have to elapse before hose could be laid and water thrown on some parts of the business portion of the city. The obvious remedy proposed, until the completion of our much-needed water works at least, is that, the old hand-engine having been removed to Royal avenue, another light hand engine should be procured without delay and placed in the central hall on Columbia street. A certain number of the fire brigade could then be charged with the running of this light engine to one of the tanks—or, in case of the fire being somewhere adjacent to the hall, connecting with the tank at the rear—and water could thus be thrown in a very short time upon any fire in the business precinct. In this way many conflagrations might be nipped in the bud and others kept in check until the steam engine got to work. The fire on Sunday, although it turned out to be trifling, and was extinguished by buckets, might have proved very serious, and it could hardly help being remarked that, if the fire had not been otherwise extinguished, the steam fire engine would most probably have been a little too late to have saved the building, and perhaps the adjacent buildings. Another apparent argument in favor of having a light hand engine on the business [illegible] where the most serious fires would naturally occur—is that such an engine can be managed and worked by almost anyone without the aid of the engineer, who might chance, as on Sunday, to be a little behind time, and thus the most serious consequences, which delay where fire is concerned is almost sure to mean, would be obviated. We are sure that the civic and fire authorities, and the citizens generally, will see the advisability, the necessity, of immediate action in the direction outlined above and will act accordingly. It is true that in the course of a year, when our water works are completed, we shall, by taking advantage of these, occupy a most unexceptionable position with regard to fire protection; but, in the interim, the addition we have mentioned is urgently needed to our fire protective service, and it will be the part of wisdom to provide it at once.

In the lively and "coming" town of Whatcom they appreciate the need of the enforcement of Sunday closing regulations. As a matter of fact, any city or town, whose people possess that very essential quality of self-respect, and the desire for true advancement in all that makes a community worth living in, looks as closely to the condition of its morals as it does to its streets, and recognizes that the claims of one are as binding as those of the other. The Whatcom Bulletin laments the lax state of things in its community, and suggests the obvious remedy, as follows: "On Sunday night it would not have been difficult to corral half a dozen intoxicated men, while yesterday morning a number of semi-drunks staggered along the streets as if looking for a place to sleep off the effects of a debauch of the night before. Such is the result of open saloons on Sunday, in direct defiance of the laws of the city and territory. Though no direct action has been taken toward the closing of the saloons on Sunday, the subject has received considerable discussion of late, and even a number of the best saloon men are in favor of closing their places of business on Sunday. They just follow the custom of keeping open on that day, and would gladly shut up shop if the law were generally enforced. The custom is a bad one. It don't look well, has a very evil effect and is a direct violation of the law, and should not be allowed any more than the open violation of any other law. It lies with the authorities to insist upon the law being observed, and those concerned to obey. A hint is as good as a kick, and a word to the wise is sufficient." The foregoing remarks have the true ring, and if the Whatcom authorities act accordingly they will be doing themselves and their town honor.

A cotemporary who has been there, voices the groans of his brother martyrs in the following, which will hurt no one to read, and may fall upon good ground: Many who write for newspapers little think of the printer, who spends hours of toil over their false grammar, bad orthography and poor punctuation. How often are the arguments of lawyers, in high repute as scholars, given to printers in their own handwriting, many words, and especially technical and foreign terms, abbreviated, words mispelled, and few or no points, and those few, if there are any, entirely out of place. The sermons of eminent divines are frequently sent to the press without points or capitals to designate the division of sentences — sermons which, if published with the imperfections of the manuscript, would disgrace the printer's devil if he were the author. Suppose they had been so printed? The printer would have been treated with contempt as an illiterate blockhead—as a fellow better suited to be a wood sawyer than a printer. Nobody would have believed that such gross and palpable faults were owing to the carelessness of the author. And no one but the practical printer knows how many hours a compositor, and, after him a proof-reader, is compelled to spend in reducing to a readable condition manuscript that the writers themselves would be puzzled to read.

The following well put thoughts, from an exchange, are worth pondering, by the rising generation especially, who are generally prone to over-estimate themselves in any capacity. Every thinker knows that the man who would succeed must do more work than he gets paid for, in every profession and trade. We take it for granted that the man who will do only $20 worth of work a week because his salary is but $20 will never get more than $20 a week for the simple reason that he has never shown his employer that he is worth more. We figure it that an employee who means to succeed has to do from 10 to 20 per cent. more work than he gets actual pay for. This he has to do until he reaches a certain point, and having reached that point he will find that by as much as his income has increased, by so much has the demand for amount and intensity of his labor diminished. To put this theory into figures, we will say that a boy receiving $3 a week should do $4 worth of work, the boy receiving $5 a week should do $7 worth of work; but when he gets to be a man and receives $20 a week, he should do $30 work of work; a man receiving $30 should do $40 worth of work, and so on until, say, the salary reaches $75, and the laborer can give himself somewhat of a rest; that is to say, about $50 worth of work will satisfy his employer. Labor brings its market value, and is seldom over-paid, oftener under-paid. It is the experience—the know-how—that brings the money.

STORY OF A TOY BANK.

It Tells of a Man's Love for His Benefactor.

Sitting in the office of one of Boston's prosperous lumber merchants the other afternoon, enjoying a friendly chat, I noticed on the desk a small toy bank. My curiosity being excited, I remarked to the merchant:

"Keeping that little bank in the office to drop pennies in for the son and heir, I suppose?"

"Oh, no," was the reply. "That toy has quite a history; and although it may be used in future for the purpose you speak of, it never has up to the present time, for it only came into my possession yesterday."

Still curious, I inquired as to the nature of the "history" alluded to, and finding the merchant rather unwilling to tell it, I politely pressed him for particulars.

"Well, you seem to be determined to get it out of me, anyway, so I'll tell you the whole story of how the little bank came into my possession, for it is so refreshing to be able to speak of a genuinely honorable man in this age of shams and impostors.

"It was in 1881, and I was in the employ of a large firm over the way as book-keeper, occasionally transacting lumber sales in this city. I had been on a visit to East Boston one afternoon, making a sale of lumber, when, on returning to the ferry, I reached the landing just as the boat had departed. I walked around the wharf, and noticed, seated on one of the benches, a young fellow, apparently in great pain, for he was moaning and holding his head between his hands.

"A number of persons kept passing and repassing him while waiting for the next boat, but no one seemed to notice him. I, however, thought there must be something the matter, and when I reached the spot again where he was seated I asked him the cause of his apparent pain.

"He told me that he had a short time before met with what he had thought to be a trifling accident up in the railroad freight yard. He was a brakeman, and during the shifting of some cars had been slightly squeezed between them, but had not taken much notice of it for a while. Soon after, however, he felt very bad, and was now on his way to his lodging, being unable to keep on with his work. He said he was a stranger in Boston, and had no home further than a room in a lodging-house, and not a friend who could do any thing for him.

"Feeling sure the poor fellow was hurt much more than he thought himself to be, I offered my help when the boat came into the slip, and walked with him to the cabin. On arriving at the city side I found he had grown much worse, but with my help he managed to walk to Hanover street.

"I now began to feel quite alarmed for him, but by cheerful persuasion he managed to walk as far as the police station, where we entered, and I spoke to the Captain explaining under what circumstances I had found him, and suggested the ambulance to convey him to the hospital.

"The Captain, however, thought that as he had been able to get so far, he could get on a horse car, and by that means reach the hospital. I felt that I ought not to leave him, and finding that he had not a cent about him, I placed him in a horse car and accompanied him to the hospital, where he was admitted in a very weak condition.

"When I parted from him I gave him some money, and he promised to write or call upon me as soon as he was able, which he hoped would be before long, and as he thanked me for my kindness, with tears in his eyes, I was indeed a proud man and felt well repaid for my trouble in looking after him.

"Some three weeks after when the little incident had gone from my mind, I received a letter from him stating that he should be able to leave the hospital in a few days, and that he would call upon me at my home; and one evening shortly after he did so.

"After thanking me for my kindness again, he told me that he had been injured much more than he thought, his skull being somewhat crushed; besides injury to other portions of his body, and during our conversation I found that he was penniless. In as quiet a manner as possible I pressed upon him a few dollars to help him along. He reluctantly accepted my offer, and on parting told me that I should hear from him again when he would repay what he insisted should be a loan and not a gift.

"This occurred, as I said, in 1881, and I had never seen or heard of him since that time until yesterday.

"It appears from the story he has told me that after visiting me he secured employment to take charge of a car-load of cattle to the West, where he remained at work for some time. He afterward came to New York, remaining there a year or two. While in that city business called him on two occasions to Boston, and each time while here he had tried hard to find me. He had gone to my residence, but found I had left the city, as I had moved out into the country after my marriage, and I had not given him the address of the firm in whose employ I had been at the time. So he had to return to New York without seeing me.

"During the present year he removed from New York to Boston, and still kept up the search for me, all his endeavors proving fruitless until the other day, while passing along this street, he was attracted by the name of the company with which I was formerly associated. There, that is the sign, straight across the street.

"The name of the firm came to his mind as that of the one I had told him I worked for, and he at once entered the counting-room, made inquiries, giving such a description of me as he could best remember, but was again unsuccessful, for no one of the clerks could give him any information, I having left there several years ago to enter the firm of which I am now a partner.

"Singularly enough the gentleman who up to about a year ago had filled the position I formerly occupied is now holding the same post for our firm, and his resemblance to myself is a striking one, we being, in fact, cousins. The senior of the clerks over the way saw from a description given a likeness of my book-keeper, and although he did not think he had been with the firm in the year mentioned, he advised the young man to step over to our office and inquire for him.

He came over, and the resemblance was so strong that he could hardly be convinced that he had not found the friend he said he had been searching for during the last six years.

"In the course of their conversation my cousin asked him if he remembered where the house was situated when he paid a visit to me, and on his mentioning the street, and knowing that I had formerly resided there, saw at once that I was the man he was looking for, and told him to come in yesterday, when I should be in the office.

"Yesterday he came, and had I not been acquainted of the case by my book-keeper the recognition would still have been mutual. He was delighted to find me, and with tears in his eyes thanked me again and again for the little act of kindness I had performed years before, and to which he said he attributed his success since that time.

"He had been working in New York, and the first dollar he had ever managed to save he placed in that little toy, he having bought it for the purpose, and had added to his store until he had the amount I had given him, with interest.

"From that time he had been searching for me, but up to the day he had seen the name of the firm when accidentally passing along this street, he had not been able to get the slightest clew to my whereabouts.

"Two or three years ago he married, was now at work in Boston, and the little bank he produced from his pocket contained the sum I had loaned him, which he had sacredly preserved for the sole purpose of repaying me. Many a time his wife had asked him why he kept the little toy so carefully, and what the contents were for, but he had kept the secret even from her, and now that he had found me he hoped that I would not refuse to accept it.

"Seeing my reluctance, he said he was in constant work, had a good home and a loving wife, and he should not feel the payment; and he could not be satisfied without returning to me what he claimed had been the means of giving him his start in life, and could not feel happy unless I allowed him to complete the work he had for the past six years tried hard to accomplish.

"As you see, I have accepted the little toy, and I feel as proud as if I had been presented with some testimonial of respect by my employes.

"That is the story of the little toy bank."

GORGEOUS COSTUMES.

The Cost of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt's Exquisite Wardrobe.

"At the beginning of last season I ordered a round dozen of ball dresses from Worth, and not one is fit to wear again," said Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt to a friend the other day, according to the New York Journal.

When one thinks of the flimsy tulles and gauzes, the delicate laces and satins which form the present materials for evening dresses, and then counts the rough treatment such cobweb goods receive in a crowded ball-room, this is not to be wondered at. The chief beauty of a ball dress is its freshness, and at a second wearing this will be entirely lost. The most simple gown of white tulle garlanded with lilies or hyacinths costs at the least $300 when made by Worth. The same gown could be made at home for $30, but where would be the bliss in wearing it?

Mrs. Vanderbilt's most expensive ball dress cost $600, and yet it was a very simple dress to the masculine eye, at least. She wore it on the evening of her own ball, and without a single jewel. It was a delicate lilac satin, made with a court train and cut low in the neck; the skirt was hand-embroidered with clusters of lilacs, touched with tiny gold beads, and the entire dress was draped in lilac tulle run with threads of gold.

One of the most inexpensive ball dresses was made in town, and was of silver satin brocade and white faille silk, the brocade forming the court train. This gown cost but $300, and was made by a modiste uptown.

Her dinner and opera dresses are always very handsome—rich brocades and velvets, satins and laces being used. Most of them are made in town. One little gem is a pearly satin, looking like silver, the entire front of the gown and the corsage being a mass of steel beads. Panels of dove-gray velvet are introduced at the sides, and the bodice is entirely of the velvet. Another is of pansy-velvet brocaded in the flower and combined with plain satin of the same shade.

As for tea gowns, she seldom wears them, not caring to change her dress more than three times a day, but she has four or five which she wears at her "at homes."

The sum of $10,000 was spent for imported dresses and wraps last fall, and the summer wardrobe for wear at Newport has just been ordered at a similar cost. Five wraps, all exceptionally handsome, have been worn this winter by Mrs. Vanderbilt. A sealskin dolman, costing $2,500; an opera cloak of white silk, lined with ermine, which was imported for $2,000; a small jet wrap, a plush wrap and a short, braided jacket were the other three.

"It keeps three women constantly employed making Mrs. Vanderbilt's underwear," said a young woman at the Woman's Exchange the other day. "She always has every article made by hand, and as the sheerest cambrics and finest linens are used the work is slow. She prefers Torchon or Valenciennes lace trimmings to embroidery, and a great many sets are of drawn work.

"Besides the garments made by these three women, I believe she has silken underwear imported, and a set of three pieces costs over $150. I should think she spends about $1,000 a year on underwear and as much more on lingerie and handkerchiefs. The latter are always hemstitched by hand, and she uses as many as six dozen a year. You know society women never have pockets and are always losing their handkerchiefs."

As for bonnets, gloves, stockings and shoes, Mrs. Vanderbilt has all of these articles imported to match her dresses, and at a yearly expense of $500 for bonnets and the same amount for the other three articles. She only orders two pairs of walking shoes each year, and these have been made for years by a Russian, in St. Petersburg, who fits her to perfection. With $15,000 for dresses—twelve for balls, ten for dinners and receptions, fifteen for summer wear—another $5,000 for wraps, $500 for bonnets, $1,000 for underwear, $500 for gloves and shoes, $1,000 for lingerie and handkerchiefs, and $2,000 for parasols, combs, hairpins and the thousand little articles that women wear, and it is not difficult to see how easily $25,000 is spent.

GEORGIA'S WILD BOY.

The mysterious appearance of a lost child in the cliffs around Mount Alto, about six miles down the Coosa river, near the Rixey farm, says the Rome (Ga.) Tribune, is creating considerable excitement in that neighborhood.

One day recently Crew Price took a hunt over the mountain ranges adjacent to the farm on which he resides. After he had been hunting some time he heard his dog barking at a lively rate on the opposite side of the mountain on which he was walking. As he got nearer the dog, he thought he had bayed some large animal and was afraid to attack it. But the astonishment of the hunter can be better imagined than described when he discovered that the dog had at bay a small boy on a cliff of a rock just above. The boy was apparently about ten years old, and rather small for his age. His clothes were ragged and torn, and the bottom part of his breeches were frayed into shreds around his ankles. He wore no hat nor coat, and his once white shirt was dirty and split in the back and front. His sleeves were almost torn into ribbons, leaving his arms exposed. When Mr. Price began talking to him the little fellow began crying, and would not answer the question asked as to whom he was or where he lived. The child soon began climbing up the rocks, and disappeared in the direction of Cedar Cliffs. As soon as possible, Mr. Price tried to ascend the precipitous side of the mountain to follow the boy. The hound tracked the lost child for some distance, but could not follow the trail after reaching Cedar Cliffs. The search was continued for some time but never a vestige of a trace could be found, from which it seems that the boy was well acquainted with his haunts. Mr. Price lives on the Rixey farm, but neither himself nor any other man in the neighborhood, who are accustomed to hunt squirrels and turkeys on the range of mountains, have ever seen or known of the child. Nothing more has been heard or seen of the lost boy since Mr. Price's discovery. There is talk of organizing a party of those living in the neigborhood to look for the boy, and find out who he is and how he was lost.

Louisa Was Excused.

A teacher in one of the New York public schools has been much annoyed by truancy, and has recently inforced the rule that her scholars, on their return to school after any absence, must bring her a note stating in full the cause of such absence, and the exact length of its duration, said note to be in the handwriting of parent or guardian. The following is a note brought by one of her pupils after two week's absence:

"Louisa was absent monday, please excuse her.

Louisa was absent toosday, she had a sore throte.

Louisa was absent wedsday, she had a sore throte.

Louisa was absent thursday, she had a sore throte.

Louisa was absent friday, she had a sore throte.

Read this over again for next week."

How to Detect Sewer Gas.

The presence of sewer gas in a room may be detected by the following method: Unglazed paper is saturated with a solution of acetate of lead in rain water, one ounce of lead salt being dissolved in eight ounces of the liquid. Allow the paper to partially dry and then expose it in the room which is suspected of containing the deleterious gas. Any considerable quantity of the gas turns the paper black.

It Makes You Hungry

"I have used Paine's Celery Compound and it has had a salutary effect. It invigorated the system and I feel like a new man. It improves the appetite and facilitates digestion." J. T. COPELAND, Primus, S. C.

Spring medicine means more now-a-days than it did ten years ago. The winter of 1888-89 has left the nerves all fagged out. The nerves must be strengthened, the blood purified, liver and bowels regulated. Paine's Celery Compound—the Spring medicine of to-day—does all this, as nothing else can. Prescribed by Physicians, Recommended by Druggists, Endorsed by Ministers, Guaranteed by the Manufacturers to be The Best Spring Medicine.

"In the spring of 1887 I was all run down. I would get up in the morning with so tired a feeling, and was so weak that I could hardly get around. I bought a bottle of Paine's Celery Compound, and before I had taken it a week I felt very much better. I can cheerfully recommend it to all who need a building up and strengthening medicine." Mrs. B. A. Dow, Burlington, Vt.

Paine's Celery Compound

is a unique tonic and appetizer. Pleasant to the taste, quick in its action, and without any injurious effect, it gives that rugged health which makes everything taste good. It cures dyspepsia and kindred disorders. Physicians prescribe it. $1.00. Six for $5.00. Druggists.

12 Miles Above Westminster,

Has just been Surveyed, and the Lots are for sale by

WOODS, TURNER & GAMBLE

—AND—

ALBERT J. HILL & COMPANY

OF NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C.

The advantages and prospects of this Plot for a future thriving Town are many.

The Land in the vicinity is good.

There are inexhaustible IRON ORE DEPOSITS, of a superior quality, immediately adjacent, as well as vast strata of the finest BUILDING SAND and POTTERY CLAY.

On the Townsite are a number of valuable MINERAL SPRINGS.

Communication by land and water is unequalled, by reason of the location of the Townsite on the Fraser River and the Southern Railway, while the natural elevation and lay of the land can not be excelled as a situation for a fine town.

The ground is open and clear of heavy timber.

The site has been selected as one of the most important stations on the Southern Railway, and with the completion of the road, in the near future, must, with all its other advantages, spring into prominence at once.

Those who apply early will have the pick of the Lots.

A clear title given with every purchase.

Mr. B. Douglas, who returned from Whatcom on Saturday, speaks in the highest terms of the progress being made by that city. He says the number of men employed on public and private improvements is surprisingly large, and that everything in and about the city denotes enterprise and rapid development.

A Siwash who boarded the Vancouver train this morning, and afterwards discovered he was a day late for the celebration, concluded to remain at Westminster and jumped from the rear platform as the train passed the foot of Mary street. After striking the ground the Siwash took several violent plunges, enveloped himself in mud and finally brought up on his feet, rather shaky, but not much the worse of his adventure.

Thomas Skinner of London, one of the directors of the C. P. R., passed through Winnipeg Saturday on his way to England. He is pleased with the prospects of the Northwest. The work on the Thompson river section of the C. P. R. was severely criticised by him. He considers it a disgrace. The rock excavations are carelessly done. Large boulders and ledges of rock are allowed to remain overhanging the track, and there is a possibility of a catastrophe unless remedied. It is his opinion that there must have been much plunder out of this section, and says the government should put it in proper order.

Rich Diggings Discovered.

A despatch to the Kamloops Sentinel says: It is reported by Capt. Cummings and others that there is great excitement at Vernon over the discovery of rich placer diggings on the Indian reserve, near that place. The average find per man equals $30 per day. The ranchers are unable to hire help, as all the laborers are leaving for the diggings. The Indians are protesting against the white men working on the reserve, and great excitement prevails in consequence.

Badly Damaged.

A young Indian was taken to St. Mary's hospital to-day almost lifeless from the result of a fall of only 10 feet. He was amusing himself on some sort of a building near the Indian camp, below the woolen mills, and by accident fell off and struck the ground in such a manner as to terribly cut and bruise his head, face and shoulders, and break his knee cap. He was quickly removed to the Indian department of St. Mary's hospital, where Dr. Fagan did all that was possible to allay his sufferings.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

The MacDuff Sails.

The ship MacDuff, 1200 tons register, which has been loading lumber at the Royal City Planing Mills, was towed to sea on Sunday afternoon by the tug Pilot. She carried away 800,000ft. of lumber, and her destination is Liverpool, England. The str. Adelaide, with a party of gentlemen on board, accompanied the MacDuff to the sand heads, which were crossed three hours after leaving port. The MacDuff was drawing 21 feet of water. She is a very fast vessel and has made some remarkable voyages, and it is expected her present trip to England will be made in less than the usual time.

St. Paul's Church Improvements.

St. Paul's Reformed Episcopal church, which was occupied on Sunday for the first time since the extensive alterations were commenced, would scarcely be recognized by those who have only viewed it in its original form. The edifice has been enlarged by the addition of two wings to the body of the church, extending from either side of the chancel. These additions increase the seating capacity from 150 to 300 seats. The church has been repainted both inside and out, and, on the whole, it presents a greatly improved appearance. The additions and improvements cost about $1,000.

Very Serious Accident.

Mr. John Buie met with a very painful and serious accident on Sunday evening, and one that will have the effect of keeping him indoors for some months to come. He was going up stairs in the Holbrook house with a friend, and in a playful mood the two commenced to scuffle. Mr. Buie, accidentally, was thrown off his balance and fell backward, bringing up against a post and breaking his right leg into the hip joint. Dr. Fagan and Dr. I. M. McLean were summoned and everything possible done for Mr. Buie's comfort. He is still at the Holbrook house, but will be removed to St. Mary's hospital as soon as his condition will admit.

INCENDIARY FIRE.

Deliberate Attempt to Fire Wintemute's Factory on Sunday Afternoon.

At 3 o'clock on Sunday afternoon the city was startled by an alarm of fire, and the general feeling of anxiety was rather heightened when it was learned that Wintemute's factory on Columbia street was on fire. The engine was promptly run down to the river bank and a line of hose laid, but by the time this was accomplished the flames had been subdued by volunteers who were able to do good work with buckets thanks to the plentiful supply of water close at hand. The fire was of incendiary origin, and was started in a heap of rubbish gathered together in rear of the main building by a man who was seen loitering near the spot a short time before the fire started. This individual is well known and has only lately been released from jail; he has also served a time in the penitentiary for arson.

Luckily the blaze was discovered before it had obtained headway, but had this not been the case a serious conflagration would have resulted, as the building is filled with inflammable material and a high wind was blowing at the time. The adjoining buildings are all wood, and it is doubtful if any of them could have been saved.

DOMINION DAY.

The People of the Royal City go Abroad to Spend the Day. Vancouver the Chief Point of Attraction and Immense Numbers go There.

Dominion Day at the Royal City was only celebrated by the raising of a few flags. The numerous attractions elsewhere and the absence of any attempt to celebrate at home, induced every person who could afford the time to take a jaunt in some direction. Although Vancouver was the chief point of attraction and the greater number of people went there, still other excursions were all largely patronized, especially by those who were anxious to escape the discomforts of large crowds and insufficient elbow room. The str. Adelaide left for Harrison Hot Springs at 7 o'clock with 100 of the Y. P. S. C. E. of the Baptist church on board, and a most delightful trip was enjoyed. The str. Fairy Queen was chartered by a number of gentlemen, who with a large party of friends, went up to Pitt Lake and spent the day enjoying the beautiful scenery which surrounds that lovely sheet of water on every side. Coquitlam river and other adjacent localities were also liberally patronized by small parties of picnickers.

AT VANCOUVER.

The early morning train for Vancouver consisted of 14 coaches, all of which were crowded with people. It is estimated that fully 700 people were on board. About 300 went over on Sunday afternoon, and the later trains yesterday took fully 300 more, making at least 1,300 Westminsterites who were present at the terminal city celebration. The artillery, 35 strong, under Lieut. Mowat, and accompanied by the rifles' fife and drum band went over on the early train. The number of visitors in Vancouver yesterday is variously estimated at from 3,000 to 5,000. The decorations were very fine in every respect, but the fleet and shipping in the harbor carried off the palm. The grand procession was the first feature of interest on the programme, and it was a complete success. Mayor Hendry and a number of the Royal City aldermen occupied carriages in the procession. The military portion of the parade, and No 1 battery B. G. A. in particular, was cheered repeatedly along the route. The Hyack fire company, 35 strong, also made a splendid showing. The yacht race was next in order and was won by Capt. Moffat's "Hebe," with Capt. Insley's "Laura" a good second. The other races in the regatta were well contested. The hose reel race, wet test, was won by Vancouver No. 1 in 34 seconds. Vancouver No. 2 second in the same time. The Westminster Hyacks met with an accident which threw them out of the race. The hose coupling contest was won by Biggar, of Vancouver. The rifle match for the Mayor's cup and challenge cup resulted in some excellent shooting. Victoria was first with 635 points, Vancouver second with 630 points and Westminster third with 619 points. The baseball match between the Kamloops team and the Amities, of Victoria, was won by the former by a score of 14 to 1. The cricket match, Victoria vs. Vancouver, was easily won by Victoria, with 9 wickets to spare in the second innings. The score stood Vancouver 157, all out, Victoria 160, with 9 wickets to fall. The lacrosse match, Vancouver vs. Victoria, was taken by the latter after a splendid exhibition. Victoria played a rattling game throughout, and had the good fortune to whitewash the Vancouvers.

A sacred concert took place at the Homer street Methodist church in the evening which was a most successful event. The larger part of the programme was taken by Westminster ladies. The citizens' ball was largely patronized, and thoroughly enjoyed by all who attended it.

The grand illumination and torch-light procession on the inlet takes place this evening, and it promises to be one of the most interesting features of the celebration. The grand ball at Hotel Vancouver to-night will bring the festivities to a close.

THE CHURCHES.

Summaries of Some of the City Sermons Spoken Sunday.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

On Sunday St. Paul's church (Reformed Episcopal) was re-opened without pomp or ceremony. After the simple and impressive service had been conducted by the pastor, Rev. Thos. Hadden, his lordship Bishop Cridge preached from James 1st. 2nd and following verses—"My brethren, count it all joy when ye fall into divers temptations; knowing this, that the trying of your faith worketh patience. But let patience have her perfect work, that ye may be perfect and entire, wanting nothing." He spoke substantially as follows: We speak wisdom, said another apostle, among the perfect. Then who are the perfect? We must distinguish between perfection and maturity at the outset; for, to speak with precision, we may have perfection and yet not be matured. For, instance, a child born may be perfect as in the form of man, and yet he needs care and protection in all the long years ere he will come to the fullness of manhood; so that maturity is rendered possible from perfection. So it is with the child of God, he gets a perfect salvation at the start, but he matures into the likeness of Christ as he goes on and up. What is more perfect than a seed? Yet it needs to be placed in the earth before it will develop. So it is with the child of God in the church, the seed planted in his heart develops year by year until he becomes a mature Christian. To attain to this maturity there must be constant watching and support; for, as in our natural life, we must have food to sustain the body in the constant struggle of life. So in the spiritual life we must be always nourishing the soul with the food God has provided to assist us in the struggle as we strive to grow up in the image of Him. We should labor for this food, and as we come in contact with the adversary fortify ourselves with the living principle that God gives us to start with. A great deal of the want of faithfulness in religion is caused by not beginning aright. They start with error, and the farther they go on those lines, the farther they get away from the truth; and here we see the need of patience, for the opposing forces of error have a tendency of making us weary in well doing. Mark how patiently the great men of art and science and mechanicism plod along; they know that their conception is true and right, and although they may fail again and again by not carrying out the details, still they struggle on, overriding all obstacles, and eventually mature their undertaking on the line of their first conception, and if they work with such great persistence, remedying a fault or giving an extra touch here and there, to gain name, fame and wealth, should we not rather, having in view a heavenly crown, struggle with patience, working for God and not for ourselves, overcoming the little obstacles that God allows to be in our way, so that overcoming them, we may be strengthened with patience. Such an one who indomitably perseveres will not weary in bringing his copy near to the original, and let the one who finds his little failings remember that God will not cast him off because of these, but with fresh heart try by God's help to overcome. Then there is inspiration needed in all work, it may be good or evil, but inspiration is there; and in the great work of Christianity the inspiration, coming from God Himself, stamps it as being right, a religion that commands faith in its issues. And seeing that God has sown the seed of life in your hearts, and weaned you from the traditions of men, which have drawn so many away, keep your hearts fixed upon Christ, so that you may grow up in Him in all things. Go on in the perfection of the salvation he has provided, for to faithfully love and follow Christ is more to the Christian than following sacrifices and ceremonies. The silent progress that is manifested in the enlargement of this church is more evidence to my mind than aught else that you are holding fast the truths you have been taught. Build on the foundation Christ Jesus, and you cannot err, build on gospel lines and you will never go astray.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.

Rev. Thos. Scouler, of the Presbyterian church, took for his text last Sunday evening 2nd Corinthians, 12 c., 7 v.—"And lest I should be exalted above measure, through the abundance of the revelations, there was given to me a thorn in the flesh, the messenger of Satan to buffet me. For this thing I besought the Lord thrice that it might depart from me. And he said unto me, My grace is sufficient for thee; for my strength is made perfect in weakness"—and spoke as follows: Paul had preached the gospel at Corinth, and it is evident that his preaching had been attended with considerable success. Many had been turned unto the Lord, converted to the faith of Christ. We find that Paul planted a church in Corinth, which became strong and vigorous. But we find that at Corinth, as in other places, the apostle met with opposition. This opposition did not come so much from without—from avowed enemies—as from professed friends, from those that were within the church. There arose amongst them certain which preached another gospel and tried to damage the name and character of the apostle. So we find Paul, in the previous chapter, speaking thus: "But I fear, lest by any means, as the serpent beguiled Eve through his subtilty, so your minds should be corrupted from the simplicity that is in Christ." He feared lest, through those false teachers, they should be turned away from the simplicity of the gospel. The apostle defends himself in the 22nd verse. Then he goes on to speak of the sufferings which He had endured for Christ's and the gospel's sake. In the beginning of this chapter he tells of the wonderful visions and revelations that were given unto him. Visions are sights of supernatural appearances; revelations are discoveries of things that were before concealed. Paul was called to the apostleship as one born out of due season, but he was put on a level with the rest of the apostles. Paul received visions and revelations that the rest of the apostles were not favored with. The first vision that Paul had was on his way to Damascus, where the Lord Jesus was manifested unto him. Paul had many visions and revelations after that, but the most wonderful was the one we have been reading about, where the apostle was caught up into the third heavens. As what he saw has not been revealed it is vain for us to pry into this matter. But it would seem that through the abundance of the revelation there was danger of the apostle becoming proud, and in order to keep him humble there was sent to him a thorn in the flesh. We naturally ask the question what that thorn in the flesh was. Some say that it may have been the corruption of Paul's own heart. We hardly think that that was the thorn referred to by the apostle. Others think Paul's thorn was defective eyesight; others again that it was a kind of paralysis of the tongue with which he was afflicted. We may guess at what it may have been, but we cannot for certain know what it was. Whatever it was it was sent for a good purpose, to prevent the apostle from becoming spiritually proud. It would seem that it was something very troublesome to the apostle, for we read: "For this thing I besought the Lord thrice that it might be removed." Paul did not receive the answer he expected and desired, but he received something far better. The answer was, "My grace—my strength—is sufficient for thee," and that was enough for the apostle. So, we may look to God to fulfil in our own experience the promise He was content with this promise, which He here gave to the apostle Paul. It is the privilege of believers to enjoy communion and fellowship with the father and with His Son Jesus Christ. It is sometimes their privilege to go upon the mount and have manifested unto them the glory of the King. It is sometimes their privilege, as it was with Moses, to see the land that is afar off. But they may not hope always to remain in this exalted state and condition of mind. They must go down again to the world and engage in the pursuits of this life. And there is no time when we need more earnestly to pray that God's grace and strength may be sufficient for us than when we have been so blessed of God, for it is then we are sure to be tempted. It was so with Moses, when he came down from the mount; it was so also with Christ, who, after the Holy Spirit had descended upon Him, was led out into the desert to be tempted of the devil. Then, brethren when it has been your privilege to be taken up into the mount, watch, we say, for then there is danger; more than likely a trying time will follow such an experience as that. We may not so long as we are in the flesh be free from trials and temptations, but these things are sent for our highest good. While we may pray that these things may be removed, we should remember the promise that His grace and strength shall be sufficient for us.

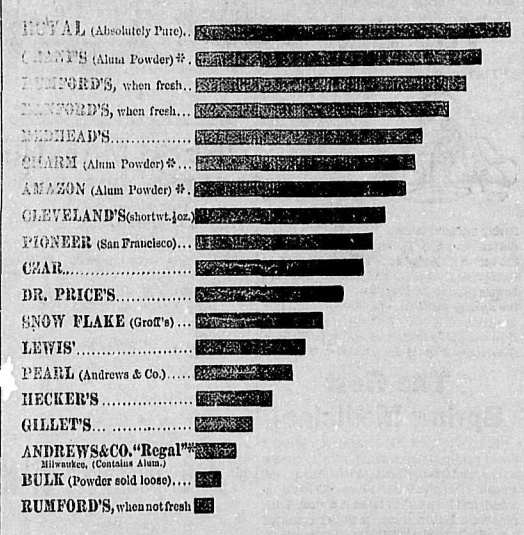
COMPARATIVE WORTH OF BAKING POWDERS.



REPORTS OF GOVERNMENT CHEMISTS

As to Purity and Wholesomeness of the Royal Baking Powder.

"I have tested a package of Royal Baking Powder, which I purchased in the open market, and find it composed of pure and wholesome ingredients. It is a cream of tartar powder of a high degree of merit, and does not contain either alum or phosphates, or other injurious substances. E. G. LOVE, Ph.D."

"I have examined a package of Royal Baking Powder, purchased by myself in the market. I find it entirely free from alum, terra alba, or any other injurious substance. HENRY MORTON, Ph.D., President of Stevens Institute of Technology."

"I have analyzed a package of Royal Baking Powder. The materials of which it is composed are pure and wholesome. S. DANA HAYES, State Assayer, Mass."

The Royal Baking Powder received the highest award over all competitors at the Vienna World's Exposition, 1873; at the Centennial, Philadelphia, 1876; at the American Institute, New York, and at State Fairs throughout the country.

No other article of human food has ever received such high, emphatic, and universal endorsement from eminent chemists, physicians, scientists, and Boards of Health all over the world.

NOTE—The above DIAGRAM illustrates the comparative worth of various Baking Powders, as shown by Chemical Analysis and experiments made by Prof. Schedler. A pound can of each powder was taken, the total leavening power or volume in each can calculated, the result being as indicated. This practical test for worth by Prof. Schedler only proves what every observant consumer of the Royal Baking Powder knows by practical experience, that, while it costs a few cents per pound more than ordinary kinds, it is far more economical, and, besides, affords the advantage of better work. A single trial of the Royal Baking Powder will convince any fair-minded person of these facts.

☞ While the diagram shows some of the alum powders to be of a higher degree of strength than other powders ranked below them, it is not to be taken as indicating that they have any value. All alum powders, no matter how high their strength, are to be avoided as dangerous.
