HEADS OFF A PANIC

Roosevelt's Timely Appeal at Opening of Jamestown Exposition.

Vast Crowds Gathei to Hear Him Speak Pressed Toward Grand Stand, Threatening Lives of Those in Front.

Norfolk, Va., April 26.—President Roosevelt, the diplomats, naval and military representatives of 37 of the nations of the world, and the governors of a score of states, participated today in the opening exercises of the Jamestown ter-centennial exposition. While the exposition, which is to be open until November 30 next, is still far from complete, the unfinished condition of buildings and grounds was not allowed to interfere in any way with today's celebration of the three hundredth anniversary of the first English settlement in America. From the firing of a sunrise salute of three hundred guns by United States artillerymen, throughout, the picturesque review of the international fleet of war vessels anchored in Hampton roads and the ceremonies of dedication, at which the president spoke, until late tonight, when the chief executive repaired on board the naval yacht Sylph to spend the night in the lower bay, the day was crowded with notable incidents. Not the least impressive of these was the president's quickly assuming command of the situation in front of the crowded grand stand from which he spoke when a panic seized the surging throng of spectators. Thousands of eager persons in the rear of the gathering who were forcing their way forward, endangered the lives and limbs of those who had the more favored position by the guard ropes.

President Roosevelt had just been introduced by Harry St. George Tucker, the head of the Jamestown exposition company, when the disorder and unrest in the crowd reached its height and the civil guards in front of the grand stand seemed to be swept from their posts. With the agility of a school boy, the president jumped upon the table which had been placed in the speaker's balcony and waving his arms cried out to the men of Virginia to live up to their traditions of gallantry and cease the pushing and crowding which was threatening the lives of the women and children in the assemblage, a throng which all but blocked the big grass covered plaza, known as Lee's parade. The crowded heeded the president's warning at first, but when he had settled down to his speech, the words were fairly blown from his mouth by the southeasterly gale which was sweeping the great parade.

The immense audience then became uneasy again and those on the outskirts began to press forward once more in their anxiety to catch his words. The president was interrupted by this disorder and officers and men of the United States cavalry were called up. They rode up and down along the front of the crowd and gradually opened it up and relieved the strain which at one time threatened to sweep thousands against the president's stand and the boxes occupied by the members of the diplomatic corps.

A detachment of artillerymen was also called into service and the throng who came to see and hear the president settled down to an ordinary assemblage. Apparently oblivious to the position he occupied on top of a somewhat shaky table not more than two feet wide and not more than twice that in length, president Roosevelt delivered his speech from this impromptu and unsteady platform. It did not interfere in the slightest degree with the characteristic vigor of his delivery. Some of his statements, noticeably when he touched on the representatives of the many nations of the world, others were being directed to the soldiers and sailors who took such a conspicuous part on the day's program and yet others were directed to the general public life. There were constant outbursts of applause and cheering. This approval was most marked when reference was made by the president to the gallantry of the men who fought in the civil war.

A fairer day has never been seen than that which attended the opening of probably the most remarkable exposition ever held in the south. The heat at times during the afternoon was somewhat oppressive but it was tempered by a strong breeze. The military encamped about the exposition grounds began the day's ceremonies with the firing of the three century salute. Soon after from across the waters of Hampton roads came the boom of the warship's guns signalling the beginning of the review by the president of the most formidable fleet of international battleships and cruisers the world has witnessed in many years. On board the tidy cruiser yacht Mayflower, the president, with a few specially invited guests, was greeted first by a roar of 21 guns from each of the vessels, foreign and American. Then as he steamed along the line of the visiting men-of-war he was saluted individually and in turn by every battleship and cruiser at anchor in the roads. The marine picture viewed from shore by thousands and from the decks of excursion and pleasure craft by almost as many more, was at once imposing and impressive. When his yacht had anchored in among the naval vessels the president received on board the flagship the commanding officers of the foreign fleets and the flag officers of the home squadron. For each of the visitors the president had a cordial word of greeting expressing his pleasure in meeting them in home waters. The hospitality of the nation was extended by the president, who in turn received from his brilliantly uniformed visitors expressions of the esteem in which he personally and the American people as a whole, are held by the sovereigns whose representatives it was their pleasure to be.

The officers vied with one another in the heartiness of these amenities.

The president landed at the exposition grounds shortly after 11 a.m. The immense government piers undergoing construction are still many weeks from completion and it was with some difficulty that a way was cleared for even the light launches in which he and the naval officers of the various squadrons made the journey to shore. The president was saluted again as he stepped upon the temporary structure which is eventually to be known as Discovery Landing.

President Tucker, of the exposition, personally welcomed Mr. Roosevelt and the cheers of the crowds along the water front accompanied the simple words of Mr. Tucker: "Mr. President, old Virginia salutes you, sir."

The president returned the salutation, and with Mrs. Roosevelt was driven to the grand stand on the parade, between two lines of soldiers from the 23rd United States infantry.

EXECUTIVE IN SESSION

E. K. BEESTON PRESENTS AUDIT OF 20,000 CLUB ACCOUNTS

ESTIMATES FOR COMING YEAR ARE DISCUSSED

At a meeting of the executive of the 20,000 club last night at the board of trade rooms there were present: T. G. Procter, in the chair, F. M. Chadbourn, secretary, E. F. Beeston, vice-president, and chief Deasy, R. Webb, W. H. Jones, A. W. Dyer and D. C. McMorris. The business transacted was the presentation of the audit by Mr. Beeston, the report of the committee on collections, the discussion of the new 20,000 club building and the decision to elect a secretary at the next meeting of the executive, which was fixed for 8:30 on Wednesday evening, May 1.

Mr. Beeston's audit was based upon the accounts of the treasurer, which he found correct. The audit was adotped without a dissenting vote.

The question of the new folder was then taken up and it transpired that the cost for 10,000 copies would be $750 and of 20,000 copies $1130. It was decided that these should be sold at $1 per dozen in quantities less than 100, and at cost price over that number, but those already contracted for should be sold at the contract price. This, the secretary stated was 3 1-2 cents each and from 6000 to 8000 had already been subscribed for. To pay this amount there had been promised $935, which included the folders sold in advance as stated, about $300. Of this amount $255 had been collected and spent on current expenses. To pay for the folder therefore a sum of less than $100 would have to be raised. In this regard it was tacitly admitted that in future money appropriated for any one purpose should not be used for another.

Going into the question of ways and means, Mr. Beeston estimated the running expenses at about $1000 for the year and advertising at about as much more. This was thought inadequate with a secretary at a salary of $100 a month, plus office rent and expenses and that thus the total expenditure would probably run over $2500, without counting the cost of the new building, which the meeting authorized the committee appointed to proceed with, adding to its number mayor Gillett.

It was estimated that the revenue would be as follows: membership fees, on last year's basis, $350; sale of buttons, $300; special subscriptions from 153 business men at an average of $5 each, $765, and the remainder—from $800 to $1300, variously estimated—to be derived from the ingenuity of the secretary and committee. It was however, shown that last year's sale of buttons was only $50 and special business men's subscription $388, together $500 less than now estimated. To these could be added the sales from about 2000 copies of the folder, mostly at cost price.

The president and Reg. Webb for the collecting committee then reported, the first stating that he had received some encouragement from some of the leading business men and the latter saying that he thought there would be a disposition to give after the arrival of the folder.

The meeting then decided to leave everything else until after the appointment of a secretary, to be done by themselves next Wednesday week to which date the executive then adjourned.

MORE SNOW FOR MONTREAL

Montreal, April 26.—The weather man continues to hand out a queer line of goods to this community. Montrealers came down to their breakfast today to find another belated snowstorm in progress. The beautiful commenced to come down about 7 o'clock and continued up to near noon, by that time the ground had quite a nice white blanket. In the down-town streets the snow melted as it fell and in a good many places made slush enough to create a hurry call for rubbers.

HEINZE PLANS BIG MERGER

Gigantic Mining, Milling and Smelting Combination Underway.

One of Biggest Undertakings Ever Attempted in Mining World, Save the Guggenheim Venture.

Salt Lake City, Utah, April 26.—The mighty mining, milling, smelting combination that is being gradually rounded into form by F. Augustus Heinze, James Breen, his close business associate, the Silver King crowd, and other interests, is taking on more definite shape every day. It should not be many weeks, and it is possible that it will not be many days till some announcement of a formal character comes from the east. There is no longer a shadow of doubt that the Heinze crowd is going to control the mines of Park City. Plans of the Amalgamated Silver King Mines company have been formulated here, and president David Keith and general manager Thomas Kearns have gone east to join with the Heinze-Breen crowd in the promulgation of the new company.

Other significant news comes in an indirect way from Boston through one of the publications there. It is to the effect that J. E. Bamberger is going to come west about the first of the coming month and that upon his return east he will be ready to say what has been done with respect to the consolidation or merger of the Daly-West, Ontario, Daly and other propositions. Reference is made to the fact that the properties named hold a strong position on one side of the mineral zone while the Silver King combine covers the other side. It then intimates that closer relations between the two may be established. From what can be learned of what is really doing, this vague statement is not without foundation in fact. In reality, it need surprise no one to hear that the Heinze-King crowd has the situation so well in hand that it can bottle up the whole camp, so to speak, without difficulty.

Nothing has yet developed to show what part the Daly-Judge and the string of properties flanking this company's possessions and those of the Daly-West, Daly and Ontario on the south are to play in the game, if any; but there is a well grounded suspicion that the Daly-Judge is wanted and that it will be taken if it can be secured on what may be considered a right basis. Whether Mr. Bamberger will be in a position to talk when he comes home is doubtful. If he is, the deal will have been fixed before he reaches here. But the probabilities are that it will require a longer time than that to put all of the machinery in motion.

Tremendous as such a combination would be, its rounding out is only a small portion of the scheme that is believed to be maturing and which is expected to fully develop during the present season, if not during the next three months. Many mining districts are to be drawn upon for the support of the monster parent company that will likely be formed on similar lines to the Amalgamated Copper company, to control the whole thing. Bingham will be a contributor, so will Tintic, Stockton and, possibly, Alta and other Utah camps, while Nevada will be hit up for a few properties, while other contributions will come from Idaho and Montana. But if the proposition goes through, as it seems to have been planned, it may be even bigger than these outlines suggest.

What is to follow the gathering together of so many mining properties? Many things. Great milling plants will be erected to dress and finish ores that will go to the mammoth smelting and refining works that will be erected, owned and controlled by the combination that is now believed to be forming to swing the entire proposition. The smelting and refining will be done within a short distance of this city, possibly not in this valley, but close by—close to where all the railroads now operating in this state and close to where any others that may come later will have to run. These works will be the peer, if they do not completely outshine any that are now in operation, and the expectation is that they will be made to lead all plants in this western country or the whole United States for that matter.

Millions of money are going to be required to swing this mammoth enterprise, and the men behind it know to a nicety just what is going to be accomplished when the undertaking is finally accomplished. Auxiliary smelting and matting plants may have to be established to save freight on crude ores and concentrates, but the main business, it is believed, will be done within easy striking distance of this city. There is no doubt that Mr. Heinze and his associates have been working on this scheme for more than a year; it is just as certain they are working night and day on it now, and it is fair to presume that the day is not far off when it will be impossible for them to longer prevent the full disclosure of their plans. No such gigantic undertaking was ever before attempted in the mining world, unless the attempt of the Guggenheims to control the lead and copper output of the world might be considered greater.

LE ROI LONDON CABLERGAM

March shipments amount to 12,310 tons, containing 2330 oz. gold, 5200 oz. silver and 230,000 lbs. copper. Estimated profit on this ore aftre deducting cost of mining, smelting, realization and depreciation $20 0. Expenditure on development work during the month, $16,500. Office note: Coal and coke supplies are now available and two furnaces are being operated at the Northport smelter. An option has been taken by this company on the Spitzee and certain other mineral claims adjoining the Le Roi mine.

ACCIDENTALLY DROWNED

Vienna, April 26—Prof. Albert Ritter von Mosethigh Mooerhoeff, the famous surgeon, and introducer of iodoform, while walking on the bank of the Danube river today fell into the river and was drowned. It was at first thought he committed suicide, but enquiries tend to prove that his death was accidental. The professor was subject to sudden fainting fits, due to calcification of the arteries and it is supposed that an attack of this sort caused him to fall into the river. His body has not been recovered.

CHOICE OF DR. FALCONER

FOR PRESIDENT OF TORONTO UNIVERSITY.

IS PRINCIPAL OF PINE HILL COLLEGE, HALIFAX, N. S.

Toronto, April 26.—Dr. Falconer, principal of Pine Hill college, who has been chosen by the board of governors as president of Toronto university, was cabled today at Naples, where he is this week, on his way to Greece. It is expected that he will at once return to Halifax in order to meet the board of trustees of Pine Hill college, of which he is principal, after which he will formally announce his decision in the matter of the Toronto appointment. It is believed that he will accept the appointment at an early date. The board of governors and its sub-committee on the presidency gave long and careful consideration to the question of the selection of a president. Upwards of eighty names, including Canadian, American and British scholars and educationalists were considered by the committees of the board. The name of Mr. Michael Hadley, of Manchester, England, was promiently in the minds of the governors but it was ascertained that he would not be available for at least three years. An early appointment to the presidency was considered to be of the utmost importance.

TO TAKE OVER OWEN SOUND AND MEAFORD RAILWAY.

THEREBY GAINING ACCESS TO POINTS CONTROLLED BY G. T.

Toronto, April 26.—It is probable that the Canadian Pacific will take over the charter of the Owen Sound and Meaford railway, which had planned to build from Owen Sound to Meaford this summer. The line was recently subsidized to the extent of $86,000 by the dominion government. A conference was held a few days ago between several prominent C. P. R. officials and James MacGuigan, the agent of the Owen Sound and Meaford company, and it is believed that an understanding was arrived at as to the condition of the road. The C. P. R. plan is to build from Owen Sound to Meaford and Collingwood, and to a junction of the proposed Victoria harbor line near Peterboro. The C. P. R. would thus secure two new ports on the Georgian Bay and the line would be brought into the field for considerable business which the Grand Trunk now handles exclusively.

BRANDON GROWING RAPIDLY

Brandon, April 26—According to the city assessor the population of Brandon will show a large increase by the new census, which is now almost completed, over that of last year. The work is completed in Ward 1 and shows an increase of 700. It is said that all five wards will show substantial gains and it is firmly believed that Brandon's population is over 12,000. The assessment returns are estimated to show an increase of one million dollars over 1906.

SCHOONER CAPTAIN DROWNED

St. John, April 26—The schooner Lucy A. of Metaghan, which arrived here today from Whitehaven, N.S., reports that John T. Terryau, captain and owner of the schooner, was drowned on a passage across the bay of Fundy. Captain Terryau went out on the jibboom to try and gather up the dragging sail, when a big wave washed him overboard. He was 32 years old and leaves a wife and four children at his home in Metaghan.

ENGLISH RIFLE TEAM COMING

Ottawa, April 26.—It is definitely settled than the English rifle team will visit Canada this summer. They will contest for the Palma trophy and then go by the Canadian route to Australia. It is hoped that friendly matches will be arranged in Manitoba and British Columbia.

FATAL MINE EXPLOSION

Seattle, April 26.—In an explosion today in the Morgon Slope mine at Black Diamond, four men were killed and five were fatally injured. Fourteen others were severely injured.

RECIPROCITY WITH CANADA

Massachusetts' Welfare Depends Upon Increased Trade With Canada.

Particularly Desires That Coal Should Be Reciprocally Free Between Canada and the United States.

Pittsburg, April 26.—Three hundred or more railroad presidents, vice-presidents, freight agents, traffic managers and other officials, besides manufacturers and all classes of shippers of freight were guests of the Traffic club of Pittsburg tonight at the Hotel Schenley. The speakers at the banquet included Charles W. Hamlin, corporation counsel of Boston.

Before taking up his assigned topic, that of the "Public duties of the citizen," Mr. Hamlin spoke briefly on the question of reciprocity with Canada.

The state of Massachusetts, he said, deemed it imperative for its future welfare to increase its trade with Canada. Among other things Massachusetts desired that coal should be made reciprocally free of duty between Canada and the United States.

CANADIAN TRADE REVIEW

GENERAL COMPLAINT OF SLOW DELIVERIES.

INCREASED AREA IN WHEAT, IN MANITOBA.

New York, April 26.—Bradstreet's Canadian trade review says: In Canada warmer weather has helped trade, and good reports as to fall business come from travellers on the road. General complaint of slow deliveries of manufactures come from all the leading markets.

Montreal reports retail trade helped by warm weather, fall business in dry goods turning out well, and some improvement in collections. Large shipments of butter have been made to New York. Toronto complains of slow deliveries of goods; building is active, and Ontario collections are better. An increased area in wheat is expected in Manitoba and the northwest, despite fears that cold weather may delay seeding. Collections are still slow in Winnipeg.

Failures for the week number 23 as against 18 last year.

The following are the weekly bank clearings as compiled by Bradstreet's for the week ending April 25, showing percentages of increase and decrease as compared with the corresponding week of last year.

SUICIDE OF E. G. RUSSELL

FORMER CHIEF EXECUTIVE AGENT FOR THE G. T. P.

SHOT HIMSELF ON WHARF AT PRINCE RUPERT.

(Special to The Daily News)

Vancouver, April 26.—E. G. Russell, of Victoria, until three weeks ago executive agent for the Grand Trunk Pacific on the coast, committed suicide at Prince Rupert yesterday. Russell had resigned his former office to give all his time to a private concern interested in the development of Prince Rupert and had gone north on the Priness May to attend to business. As the steamer was pulling out for more northern points the passengers were horrified to see him shoot himself on the wharf. The steamer put back but the man was dead when it reached the wharf.

He leaves a wife and several children. No cause can be assigned for the tragedy.

GRAND FORKS GOSSIP

Grand orFsk, April 26—First vice-president McGuigan, of the Great Northern, arrived in the city this morning on a special train. Accompanying Mr. McGuigan were general manager Ward, chief engineer Hoghtan, general superintendent Forrest, superintendent Morgan of the S. F. and N. and J. H. Kennedy, construction engineer, and a number of officials connected with the operating department. The party visited the Granby smelter this morning and left for Rossland at 9:30.

A C.P.R. special arrived here last night bringing assistant general manager G. J. Bury of the western lines and Mrs. Bury; F. Busteed, general superintendent of the Pacific division and superintendent Lawrence of Nelson. They were met at the station by mayor Hammar and a number of the leading citizens, and an informal meeting was held at the Yale hotel at which numerous matters connected with railway affairs of this district were discussed. Mr. Bury, who is making his first visit to the Boundary, is delighted yith the valley. The party visited the Granby smelter early this morning and later left for the coast via Rossland.

A Hindu named Dulip Singh died in a shack outside the city limits yesterday morning. By arrangements with provincial constable Dinsmore and Dr. Kingston, medical health officer, permission was given to cremate the body during the afternoon. About 20 Hindus and some 60 people of the city witnessed the cremation. Four stalwart Sikhs bore the body to the funeral pyre which consisted of logs. The deceased was smeared over with butter and grease and wrapped in a white sheet. A can of coal oil was poured on the pile and a fierce fire soon made ashes of everything.

AFFECTS ALL PROVINCES

QUESTION OF POWERS OF PROVINCIAL COMPANIES

TO BE ARGUED BEFORE SUPREME COURT AT OTTAWA.

Toronto, April 26.—Another big question of provincial rights has turned up; this time it is the incorporation of three companies. The question s whether the companies incooporated by the province of Ontario can do business outside of this province. In volved in this question are the rights of thousands of companies all over the province, representing capital of up to nearly $1,000,000. Involved is also another matter of $150,000 or more of revenue each year to the province. But is affects every other province in Canada as well as Ontario. The question will be argued before the supreme court at Ottawa on May 7th, when T. Ritchie, K.C., and Thomas Milver, K.C., assistant provincial secretary, will represent Ontario. The case will probably go to the privy council. This important point comes up in the case of the C. P. R. vs. the Ottawa Fire Insurance company. The C. P. R. carried insurance in the Ottawa company against fires that might be caused by sparks from engines passing along its line through the forests of the state of Maine. There was a loss and litigation followed. There was some mistake in the policy and the question arose as to the power of the company to insure standing timber. The C. P. R. then said to the company: "If you are not bound by the policy you should repay the premiums."

NELSON'S NEWS OF THE DAY

Chas. Brett left for Atlanta, Ga., yesterday, as a delegate from Kootenay lodge No. 558 B. of R. T., to attend the 8th annual convention of the brotherhood.

Nelson Odd Fellows will commemorate the 88th anniversary of their order by attending divine service at the Salvation army barracks on Sunday morning next.

Wm. Irvine of Nelson, grand chancellor of the K. of P. of British Columbia, paid an official visit to Crescent lodge No. 33, of Cranbrook this week. There were over 40 members present to meet Mr. Irvine and a most instructive evening was enjoyed by all. Short addresses were made by the grand chancellor, J. Fleishman, J. A. Arnold, G. H. Thompson, W. O. Taylor and others. After the routine work had been completed a social session followed and refreshments were served. Mr. Irvine also visited the lodge at Fernie. He returned home last night.

Many citizens have been trying the new salt and oxalic acid method with ashes, some succeeding and some failing. One experimenter who succeeded, says he emptied a scuttle three parts full of freshly burned ashes, weighing 21 pounds net, on a board, scattered a heaping teaspoon full of common salt, slaked it with water while mixing and then addde seven pounds of Fernie slack coal, mixing again, the aggregate about filling the big scuttle. This was put by the shovelful into a heater already burning and was found to last 24 hours, the only attention needed being to see that the draught was good, shaking out the bottom of the heater to clear the draught once or twice during the day and taking care never to poke the fire from the top. The ashes burned slowly and well, giving out a good heat.

James Johnstone, the president of the B. C. Fruit Growers' association, returned last night from Sicamous, where, in company with T. Morley, who was appointed delegate from the local fruit growers' association, he had gone to attend the convention of all fruit growers of the province, which has been in session this week. On his return Mr. Johnson reported a very harmonious meeting and a general agreement with the plans that were outlined for the future policy of the newly formed association. These were that the fruit growers of B. C. should unite in the marketing and in the distribution of their fruit. While the delegates generally agreed to the idea of a general exchange, yet it was found necessary that they should report back to their local bodies on this and upon other points and a ratification meeting will be held on May 22 at Revelstoke.

COPPER SITUATION

Boston, April 26—The copper situation during the past week has shown a decided change for the better, both in London and America.

MICHEL MEN NOT IN LINE

Unwilling to Return to Work Before Finding of Conciliation Board.

Sherman, However, Anticipates That Other Camps Will Vote to Resume Work and Majority Will Rule.

Fernie, April 26.—(9.30 p.m.)—Another setback to the proposed agreement that the miners go back to work on Monday was received this evening, when word arrived that after a long discussion the referendum vote was taken at Michel as to whether the men of the Michel union return to work, which resulted in a vote of 101 for staying out and 66 for working; it was also learned that the vote taken at Gladstone local union (Fernie) last night was not unanimous, as given out. The Michel vote is very small indicating that many men did not attend the meeting to listen to the propostion.

The operators here say if Michel voted against the proposition, Coleman would do likewise.

President Sherman left for Coleman tonight, where he will be joined by international vice-president Lewis who addressed the men at Michel this afternoon.

Mackenzie King, deputy minister of labor, was down at the train to see Sherman, who stated that the district vote would govern the resumption of work or not, and that, in his opinion, there would be no difficulty in getting the men back by Monday or Tuesday at the latest, as though Michel and Coleman may go against it, it is practically certain the others will vote for.

The miners still congregate at the street corners, but remain quiet. They show no great enthusiasm to go back to the mines again. At Coal Creek mines, five miles out, the men are hanging round the mines and streets seemingly contented. Several mine operators and representatives left for their homes tonight. The rest leave tomorrow.

Sir William Mulock, chairman of the conciliation board, apointed by the government is expected to arrive Monday or Tuesday and the board will sit immediately on his arrival. L. P. Eckstein and J. L. Parker, miners and operators' representatives on the board, respectively, are already here. The board is expected to work night and day to expedite matters.

Traces of the last week's struggle are strongly evident on all concerned, especially the leaders of each party, president Sherman of the mine workers organizations, and president Lindsey, of the Western Operators' association.

The operators have been meeting all day discussing preparations for the investigation, which Mr. Lindsey says they have wanted all along.

Asked as to the chances of a settlement without investigation, he replied there were none.

The operators also met the boards of trade delegates at noon and explained the stand they took and their reasons. The boards of trade delegates leave for home tomorrow.

Hon. W. H. Cushing left on a trip of inspection of the mines in the afternoon and then went on to Calgary.

Fernie, April 26.—Vice-president Lewis, president Sherman and other officials of the Miners' union will take a referendum vote of the local unions at Canmore, Bankhead, Michel, Coleman and the other mines, as to whether the men will go back to work or not.

Mackenzie King, deputy minister of labor, this morning emphatically denied the statement that the government was bringing mounted police, military arms and ammunition into this and other mining districts. This report originated in Regina, Sask., where the mounted police headquarters are.

NEW BRUNSWICK POLITICS

St. John, N. B., April 26.—Hon. Mr. Pugsley's place as leader of the New Brunswick government will be taken by Hon. Clifford W. Remson, of Westmoreland, who was sworn in only a few days ago as provincial secretary. There is much speculation as to who will be the next attorney general. There will likely be a provincial general election this summer. A. P. Barnhill, St. John, is the man wanted for attorney general, but he may not agree to enter politics.

MIDALE FIRE SWEPT

Large Departmental Store, Postoffice and Northern Bank Destroyed

Midale, Sask., April 26—Fire, the cause unknown, thought probably due to gasoline lamps, destroyed the large departmental store of Seaton and Macoun. The loss over insurance is close to $10,000. Postmaster Rollins lost his books, while much mail was destroyed. The Northern bank was also destroyed.

SEEDING UNDERWAY

Balcarres, Sask., April 26.—Seeding is in full swing here. William Harrop has 160 acres of wheat in, and several others in this vicinity have close to 100 acres under crop.

THE COAL SITUATION.

The latest news from the coal fields is not altogether satisfactory. The Michel men are not anxious to return to work pending the investigation and it is suggested that the Coleman men will take a similar stand. However, district president Sherman is hopeful that the men at the other camps will vote for the resumption of work and the question will be settled by the total vote of the district. He thinks that by Monday next or Tuesday at the latest, that all the men will be back at work again. It is to be devoutly hoped that he is not over-sanguine.

Under the most favorable circumstances it would be several days before the conciliation board could complete its labors, so that failing a vote in favor of immediate resumption of work, probably two weeks would elapse before another ton of coal would be raised at the collieries affected, a condition of affairs that would paralyze trade and industry throughout southern British Columbia.

Deputy minister of labor, Mackenzie King, has accomplished good work by his mission in getting Gladstone union into line for resumption of work and it is unfortunate that he was not in a position to meet the miners at the other camps, for he would certainly have exercised a good influence on the vote to be taken. The men have confidence in him and accept his statements in good faith.

The public will be interested in learning the exact attitude of the operators in this crisis. So far nothing has been divulged to indicate that they took any special pains to bring about a settlement. Our despatches from Fernie tonight state that the operators explained to the board of trade delegates yesterday afternoon their attitude and upon their return we may expect to get particulars that will be of very great interest.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Toronto Telegram utters a word of warning regarding the utilization of ashes in place of coal. Says the Toronto paper: "Smoke may yet make better fuel than ashes. Science is reconstructing the ash heaps into sources of fuel. And science has yet to utilize the heat-giving properties of smoke. Ashes are not yet a fuel of proved value but human genius may soon proclaim the truth that every ash box is a coal bin. One objection to the ashes cure for cold weather is that there are not more than several million tons of ashes in sight. Ashes are obtained from coal. Coal is obtained from the dealer. The latter is still king. Coal magnates will put up their prices if science convinces them that ashes carry fuel values. These values, it will be argued, have not been covered by the price of coal. Mine operators have merely charged for the coal. The ashes have been thrown in—or thrown out. If coal ashes really possess burning qualities the price of coal will be increased accordingly. Purchasers of coal will have to pay for the fuel value in ashes, the values that have been given away in the past."

RAMBLER IN RICH ORE

WISDOM OF BIG TUNNEL NOW AMPLY JUSTIFIED

ORE IN SIGHT TO PAY ALL COSTS AND PROVIDE DIVIDENDS

The best of news comes from the Rambler, says the Kaslo Kootenaian. In the new working, between 7 and 9 levels, a vein of rich ore over nine feet wide is being developed, and as work progresses the ore body continues to improve. This is not a "new strike, but simply one of several bodies of ore cut into while the recently completed and successful plan of extensive development was under way. The work now going on is the beginning of a series of stopes commencing on both sides of the 1350 foot shaft, each stope to be about 100 feet below each other. Work at present is going on below the former old workings, known as No. 8 shaft. The small force employed is driving away on virgin ground in the new No. 8 stope. Ore was in the face at the start and development has proven it to be an extensive vein of great richness, assaying 180 ounces silver and 70 per cent lead. Stoping and sacking are going on preparatory to commencing shipments as soon as the wagon road is in shape for hauling.

The recent extensive development of the Rambler has proven the mine to be a veritable bonanza. Rich ore galore has been uncovered, especially during the driving of the 550 foot upraise to connect with the 800 foot shaft. Although sure of the final outcome, nevertheless the tedious undertaking caused the energetic manager many anxious moments. Now, however, he can point with pride to his work. There is enough ore in sight between 7 and 9 levels to pay all the expense of the costly undertaking and a few substantial dividends besides.

Work at the Rmbler mine can only be done in a small way, as far as employing men is concerned, for several months to come. New bunkhouses, near the portal of the long tunnel are to be erected, and hoisting machinery and other equipment installed at the mine. When these improvements are complete the work of opening up the mine upon an extensive plan will be commenced, and the Rambler again become a heavy shipper. Later on the concentrator will be moved down also, but not before mining is in active operation.

LEMIEUX'S GOOD WORK

INTELLECTUAL PREFERENCE WILL STRENGTHEN EMPIRE BONDS

BRITISH PERIODICALS NOW MORE ACCESSIBLE T OCANADIANS

Mr. Lemieux has concluded with Great Britain a postal arrangement which is wholly admirable, says the Toronto News. It is doubtful if the colonial conference with all its fuss and feathers will reach any conclusion or endorse any proposal which can more effectively strengthen the bonds of empire. Whereas it now costs eight cents a pound to mail British newspapers and periodicals to Canada, the rate after May 7th will be only two cents a pound. In making announcement of the change, Mr. Buxton, the British postmaster-general, said it was the result of an arrangement with Canada and was not to be considered as a precedent by other portions of the empire. The geological position of this country, and the consequent supplanting of nearly all publications from Britain by those from the United States, gave Mr. Lemieux and his predecessors in the fight an admirable reason for the special consideration the British government has afforded us. The British postoffice will lose revenue at first by this concession, but it is altogether probable that in the course of a few years the increased volume of traffic will change this condition. It is understood that to procure the new rate Canada pays what is known as the "steamer charge" from Liverpool.

Even the rate of two cents a pound is twice as high as the present rate on American publications mailed to this country. But Canada and the United States have abrogated the old convention of 1875, when this reciprocal rate was established, and after May 1st the rate will be four cents a pound. This gives a preference of two cents a pound to British periodicals—the Intellectual Preference, and at the same time puts an end to an arrangement which caused a great annual loss to this country. It is estimated that from ten to fifty tons of newspapers and periodicals were mailed in the United States to Canada, for every ton going the other way. Of course on the whole trade the American government secured nine-tenths or more of the postage, while Canada did nine-tenths or more of the work of distribution. It is easy to see the unfairness of the old agreement. Sir William Mulock began the agitation for the Intellectual Preference and was assisted by the Canadian Press Association, Mr. John A. Cooper, Mr. Hamar Greenwood, Mr. Gilbert Parker and many others. That Mr. Lemieux has been able to effect a rearrangement of the contract with the United States and a contemporaneous lowering of the British rate speaks volumes, not only for his energy and tact, but for hard work of all those who have carried on the fight during the past seven years.

The Toronto News does not subscribe to the condemnation which certain Canadians, individuals and societies, pronounce upon all the newspapers and periodicals of the United States. It may be unorthodox, but we are grateful readers of many of these publications. It is not, therefore, because it may be a trifle more difficult to get such periodicals, that we welcome the Intellectual Preference. Our satisfaction rests in the additional ease with which British publications of high grade may reach our news stands and our homes. It is certain that greater freedom of circulation in Canada for British papers will do much to stimulate interest and sympathy among Canadians in the men and the problems of Great and Greater Britain. Interest and sympathy make the tie which binds us to the Motherland. It is well that this tie should be strengthened.

Of course there is no desire that Canadian readers of United States publications shall be denied the magazines they enjoy. Nor is there any wish to turn the publishers neck and crop out of this country. All that the publishers need to do is to ship their papers or magazines across the border by express or freight and then to mail them at a Canadian postoffice, when they will go at the domestic rate. By this means Canada will get the revenue as well as attend to the distribution. Of course the magazines may cost a little more to the individual subscriber, but it is highly improbable that the prices at the news stands will be raised. Now there are thousands of Canadians who scarcely ever see a British paper. The new special rate will give these people an opportunity to secure the great periodicals of the British Isles at a rate no higher than the British publication price, and thus will eradicate an unfortunate but wide-spread impression that all the literary and typographical excellence of earth dwells in New York and Boston. At the same time purely Canadian periodicals will be in a better position to compete against both British and American magazines. No matter from what point the new postal arrangements are viewed they appear admirable and reflect credit on the postmaster general.

The Natural Cure For Rheumatism

"Fruit-a-tives" remove from the blood the poison which causes Rheumatism.

Rheumatism means poisoned blood. The kidneys, bowels and skin should rid the system of waste matter. If either of these vital organs become weakened or diseased, the body cannot throw off this waste fast enough.

One of these body poisons is UREA, which is eliminated both by the kidneys and skin. If the skin action is poor—if the kidneys are inflammed—urea stays in the system—is changed into uric acid—carried by the blood to the nerves and joints—and causes Rheumatism.

"Fruit-a-tives" cure Rheumatism because they eliminate urea, by increasing the action of bowels, kidneys and skin.

This is the only possible way in which Rheumatism can be cured to stay cured. And "Fruit-a-tives" is the only remedy in the world that completely eradicates the disease from the system.

"Fruit-a-tives" will cure almost any case of Rheumatism, Sciatica, Neuralgia.

"Fruit-a-tives" are fruit juices in which the natural medicinal action of fruit is many time increased by the process of combining them.

Then tonics and antiseptics are added and the whole made into tablets. 50c. a box—6 for $2.50. At all dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa. 111

STAR vs. WHITE APPEAL

(Special Correspondence)

Victoria, April 23.—The hearing of the appeal to the full court in Star vs. White after breaking into the third week, closed this morning when Mr. Davis concluded his reply for the plaintiffs. Judgment was, of course, reserved and it will be some considerable time before a decision is reached.

It is quite impossible to say what the probable finding of the full court will be. The court, each and all the members of it, have for the most part listened silently to the witnesses and counsel throughout the hearing and there has been no such indication of leaning one way or the other as characterized the hearing before chief justice Hunter when his lordship pretty plainly indicated what his conclusion would be. From a layman's standpoint the plaintiffs' before the full court, have been very and the reverse may be said of the defendants without in the slightest way affecting the presentation of the case by counsel. Indeed the standing of counsel engaged makes it possible to express an onlooker's opinion as to results without offense. During the trial the defendants appeared to have all the luck, and their position one that has been the reverse. How Mr. Davis' argument that Mr. Elmendorf succeeded in hypnotizing the learned chief justice by misrepresenting the geological facts seen in the workings, and so inducing the trial judge to turn against Mr. Sizer and dismiss it him all through the case, will stand in view of the facts disclosed by the court work, remains to be seen.

Mr. Davis has measurably succeeded when it would seem to follow that he has succeeded in reinstating Mr. Sizer as a geological expert and in discrediting nearly all of Mr. Elmendorf's testimony. If the full court are unable to discriminate where the experts differ, then according to the plaintiffs' contention, the plaintiffs must win, as the burden of satisfying the court lies upon the defendants in order to justify their admited trespass in Rabbit Paw and Heber Fraction ground.

Mr. Bodwell's forceful contention that the plaintiffs must show the chief justice in error, and that until they do the judgment pronounced must stand, was not upheld by the full court and Mr. Davis' contention was.

Considering the enormous amount of evidence taken and the numerous intricate points involved it can readily be seen that the full court's decision may come either way, may support the finding of the chief justice and hold again in favor of the defendants, though upon different grounds than those given by the trial judge in view of what is shown by the new work, or particularly in view of this new work, may find that the black fissure is no longer "a myth", a theory put forward through "ingenuity born of despair," as the chief justice thought and said, but is an independent fault fissure ending the course westward of the Slocan Star vein, and deciding the case in favor of the plaintiffs' contention, reversing the finding of the chief justice. If the full court does so find it will not suprise at least one onlooker at the recent hearing, who has so far followed pretty closely the trial of the case from the start before chief justice Hunter to its close before the full court this morning.

J. M. Harris, Byron N. White and Oscar White who have watched the hearing all through, were the only ones left today of the interested onlookers, all the others having, one by one, slipped away at various stages of the hearing. Mr. Byron White goes north almost immediately to look after his interests there, and Mr. Harris goes back to Spokane.

Taking up some of the points made by Mr. Bodwell in his address, Mr. Davis touched on some of the alleged admissions of expert Sizer with respect to the commencement and continuation of the Silversmith vein from the line of the black fissure going on west. Counsel read extracts from Sizer's story which denied the existence of the vein at the points claimed for it by the defendants, this particularly referring to the breaking of the vein around the nose of the porphyry. The chief justice misunderstood the expert when they were in the mine together. Mr. Sizer made this clear in court as was shown by his reiterated statement that he did not find the vein around the north turn to the west. When challenged, the expert had exclaimed, "This is the most absurd of the many things charged against me. It is impossible." Yet, notwithstanding his pronouncement, he is still charged with assenting to the proposition that the vein is found at the northern point turning around and continuing on west.

Turning to other disputed facts, Mr. Davis sought to show by reading the context, what was being discussed and its particular application to the facts as put by Mr. Bodwell. Counsel said he would not argue the question of whether the black fissure extends up and down as shown on the plan from north to south, and extended in both both directions as shown by the new work. Mr. Bodwell interrupting that it had not been shown, Mr. Davis grew impatient and declared it was so plain that he would not argue the point; Mr. Zwicky had made this all clear. Mr. Zwicky was not the plaintiffs' witness. He (Davis) was going to take the existence of the fault fissure, the black fissure, to be unquestionably proved, and he then discussed Mr. Bodwell's argument. If the black fissure's existence were admitted, the defendants still have the continuous apex line. The black fissure apex with its characteristic showing could be as easily traced on the surface as the fissure could in No. 5 level. To make a continuous apex line, the defendants could only do so by taking the apex line of the black fissure, cutting off the Slocan Star vein at right angles. It was a fault vein clearly and the throw had been to the north, and the Silversmith vein was very probably the other end of the Star vein; it was not proved so, but it probably was, and it might even be admitted to be, for if it were it would not defeat the contention of the plaintiffs. As to the contradiction of the experts on the subject of drag ore, Mr. Davis said one set of men could be relied upon about as much as the other, and no more. How was the court to decide? One set declares ore in place, the other for drag ore. The surrounding evidence was about as conclusive one way as the other. Turning to Mr. Bodwell's challenge to say where the faulted end of the Star vein had gone: "As if," said Mr. Davis, "the finding of the faulted end of a vein was an easy every day matter, whereas my learned friend knows very well millions of dollars have been expended by mining men trying to ascertain where veins have gone. We don't care of the Silversmith vein is the thrown Star vein or not; we think it is and will let it alone at that."

"All the defendants' witnesses swore to the turn in the walls of the Slocan Star vein at the point where we say the fissure cuts off the vein. The defendants' experts told the chief justice that the walls could be readily seen. They took the judge to the point and showed him the walls turning. Then the new work is done showing a 28 foot fissure and showing that a turning wall, or a vein wall never existed, never could have existed as sworn to, as pointed out by the defendants. This being now the undisputed fact, I ask your lordships to note it well in considering what weight, if any, you will attach to Mr. Elmendorf's testimony all through.

Mr. Harris had always contended for the existence of the black fissure long before the commencement of litigation and the maps put in at the very start showed No. 2 vein having a separate existence, both the Star vein and No. 2 vein ending up against the black fissure.

Elmendorf's large photograph of the new work to the south was claimed by counsel as demonstrating beyond question the incorrectness of Elmendorf's description of the hanging wall around the curve and the absolute correctness of the plaintiffs' contention of the existence as a separate independent fault fissure of the black fissure.

In conclusion Mr. Davis ran over very briefly some of the remaining points referred to by Mr. Bodwell and Mr. Lennie, explaining the plaintiffs' view of the evidence, his argument distinctly showing that the court would be driven to a question of the credibility of the expert witnesses on many points not clearly made out, and held out in closing, the same view presented in the opening argument, that Elmendorf had clearly misled the chief justice, and having done so was discredited either on account of deliberately misleading or doing so through ignorance.

Having lasted nearly three weeks the hearing before the full court then ended and the court adjourned to meet tomorrow at Vancouver. Judgment in the case is reserved and it may be some months, is reasonably certain to be many weeks, before a decision will be reached. A special storeroom was assigned in the court house where all the plans, maps, models and specimens produced, will remain on view for the benefit of the members of the full court in preparing their judgment.

CASE OF DESTITUTION

WOMAN WITH SIX CHILDREN LEFT WITHOUT MEANS

APPEAL FOR HELP TO THE CITIZENS OF NELSON

An unusually sad case of destitution has stirred the employes of a large local industrial concern and prompted them to start a relief fund which should appeal to the heart of every generous citizen of Nelson. A woman, whose name is withheld for obvious reasons, has been left to support six small children, the husband and father having been recently sent to the penitentiary for abusing his wife. The family has practically nothing to live on; and, burdened with the care of her children, the poor woman is not in a position to work for wages. Several of those who have been acquainted with the details of the case have clubbed together and raised $30, which they have brought to The Daily News to be used as a nucleus for a special relief fund. They make their gift anonymously, accompanying it with a letter appealing to the general public to join them in helping a woman "who is deserving of all the assistance that can be given in a white man's community."

The Daily News has made investigation and found that the facts are as stated. The family needs help and needs it immediately. Subscriptions and donations will be received by The Daily News and duly acknowledged, and the money so raised will be placed in the hands of responsible parties to be expended to the best advantage.

To the residents of Nelson no extended appeal is needed under such circumstances. It is sufficient to state the case. The response will doubtless be prompt and generous.

CURED OF RHEUMATISM

Mr. Wm. Henry of Chattanooga, Tenn., had rheumatism in his left arm. "The strength seemed to have gone out of the muscles so that it was useless for work," he says. "I applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm and warpped the arm in fannel at night, and to my relief I found that the pain gradually left me and the strength returned. In three weeks the rheumatism disappeared and has not since returned." If troubled with rheumatism try a few applications of Pain Balm. You are certain to be pleased with the relief which it affords. JAMESTOWN EXPOSITION

OPENED BY PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT WITH FITTING CEREMONIES

REMARKABLE NAVAL DISPLAY IN THE HAMPTON ROADS

Jamestown, April 26—The great exposition opened its doors and welcomed the public to its celebration of the ter-centennial of the landing at Jamestown, with everything in a state of unpreparedness. They have come in thousands, officially and individually from every state in the union and from nearly every nation on the globe.

The president of the United States arrived in ample time on the Mayflower, which he established as his headquarters. The governors of the several states are on hand and have personally inspected the buildings that have been erected for their respective states. The crowds were early at work inspecting the buildings, with special interest in those from their own state and in wandering through the buildings erected by the fair authorities.

Salutes from admiral Evans' fleet of warships to the foreign fleets which presented a grand spectacle in the broad waters of Hampton Roads, awoke the echos at an early hour. The fleet consisted of the battleships Connecticut and Texas, and the cruisers Washington, Tennessee and Brooklyn, with the Maine, Indiana, Ohio, New Jersey, Louisiana, Missouri, Georgia, Rhode Island, Kersarge, Kentucky Illinois, Alabama and Iowa. The salutes of the American vessels were to the fleets of 11 nations: British, French, Italian, Sweedish, German, Austrian, Japanese, Argentine, Brazil, Chili and Portugal.

Never before has Hampton Roads, so admirably fitted to accommdoate the navies of the world, had such a grand and imposing display, the fine vessels being all in holiday attire, and presenting a very handsome and attractive appearance. The public was greatly interested and impressed by the spectacle of so many and so fine a lot of war vessels. England's fleet was the largest and was under the command of rear admiral Neville. Admiral Dewey was one of the distinguished naval men present and took great pride in the looks of the American vessels.

President Roosevelt reached the exposition grounds about 11:30, the Mayflower passing through the columns of saluting foreign and American warships in Hampton Roads. He was escorted to the reviewing stand on Leo's parade in the rear of the auditorium building. The speech making feature of the program began at once. An invocation was made by the right Rev. Alfred Magill Randolph, bishop of the diocese of Southern Virginia and a brief address by Harry St. G. Tucker, president of the exposition company, preceding the president's address. President Roosevelt delivered a lengthy address, at its close pressing an electric but on, and immediately the machinery of the great show was in motion, a thousand flags were unfurled on the exposition buildings and a salute to the nation was fired by the combined American and foreign fleets in the roads and by the garrison at fortress Monroe. At the conclusion of the salute the exposition bands played the "Star Spangled Banner," the troops presented arms and the great concourse stood with uncovered heads. The parade of the soldiers and sailors of the United States, under major general Fred Grant was the next feature. The president reviewed the marching defenders of the country from a grand stand, where were gathered the honored guests of the occasion, including the diplomatic corps, the official committees of the senate and house of representatives and the governors of states. The day closed with a reception to president Roosevelt, between 5 and 6 o'clock.

In the course of his address president Roosevelt made special reference to the foreign visitors:

"They have come to assist us in celebrating what was in very truth the birthday of this nation, for it was here that the colonists first settled whose incoming, whose growth from their own loins and by the addition of new comers from abroad was to make the people which 169 years later assumed the solemn responsibilities and weighty duties of colonial independence.. In welcoming you, I must say a special word first to the representatives of the people of Great Britain and Ireland. The fact that so many of our people of whom, as it happens, I myself am one, have but a very small portion of English blood in our veins, in no way alters the other fact that this nation was founded by Englishmen. To the Canadian and the Portuguese, their language, their literature, customs, their common thought, made an an inheritance which all of us share, and marked deep lines which we have developed. It was the men of English stock who did most in casting the mold into which our national character was run.

"Let me furthermore greet all of you, the representatives of the people of continental Europe. From almost every nation of Europe we have drawn some part of our blood, some part of our trials. The mixture of blood has gone on from the beginning, and with it has gone on a kind of development unexampled among peoples of the stocks from which we sprung and hence today we differ sharply from you, and yet, in some was are fundamentally akin to all of the nations of Europe.

"Again, let me bid you welcome representatives of our sister republics of this onctinent. In the larger aspect your interests and ours are identical. Your problems and ours are in a large part the same, and, as we seek to settle them, I pledge herewith, on the part of this nation, the heartiest friendship and good will.

"Finally let me say a special word of greeting to those representatives of the Asiatic nations who make up the newest east, which is yet the most ancient east, the east of time immemorial. In particular, let me express a word of hearty welcome to the representatives of the mighty island empire of Japan, that empire, which in learning the ways of the west has shown that it has so much to teach the west in return.

"To all here gathered, I express my sincere thanks for your coming and I extend to you my earnest wishes for the welfare of your several nations. The world has moved so far that it is no longer necessary to believe that one nation can rise only by thrusting down another. All far seeing statesmen, all true patriots, all earnestly wish that the leading nations of mankind, as in their several ways they struggle constantly toward a higher civilization, a higher humanity, may advance hand in hand, united only in generous rivalry to see to which can be allotted work ing the world. I believe there is a rising tide in human thought which tends for righteous international councils and sane conclusions. All of us here present can well afford to take St. Paul's counsel: "If it be possible as much as lieth in you, live peaceably with all men."

TO WORKINGMEN NOTICE

Whereas, at the Last Chance and Surprise mines, Chinese kitchen help is at present employed, to the exclusion of White labor.

Therefore, be it resolved that this organization, Sandon Miners' union No. 81, of the W. F. of M. reaffirming its opposition to the employment of Orientals within its jurisdiction, strongly condemns the position taken by the management of the properties in question, and counsels workingmen everywhere and those favorably disposed toward organized labor to be governed by this action.

Synopsis of Canadian Homestead Regulations

ANY available Dominion Lands within the Railway belt in British Columbia, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry must be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

The homesteader is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased), of the homesteader resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for, the requirements as to residence may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

Coal lands may be purchased at $10 an acre for soft coal and $20 for anthracite. Not more than 320 acres can be acquired by one individual or company. Royalty at the rate of 10 cents per ton of 2,000 pounds shall be collected on the gross output.

Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

HOW TO MAKE A HOT-BED

DOMINION HORTICULTURIST GIVES DIRECTIONS.

SOME VALUABLE HINTS FOR KOOTENAY RANCHERS.

To the family with a small plot of garden land in city or town or the farmer tilling a piece of land for a supply of table vegetables nothing can be put to better use or be made to yield better returns than the hot-bed. Already some who realize its value have commenced the tender seeds sprouting that will ultimately grow into tasty, tender vegetables. But there is yet time to make a hotbed before the season of growth begins, and if properly built it can be made to do service nearly all spring and summer. W. T. Macoun, horticulturist of the Central Experimental farm, tells how to make a hot bed in the following directions:

"In making a hot bed the first step is to choose a good situation on the south side of a building, wall or close board fence, where the cold winds from the north will be broken and all the sunshine possible will be obtained. After deciding on the site the frame should be made of two-inch planks.

"It should be so constructed that it may be raised, as this may be necessary if the plants get too close to the glass. The frame should be at least six inches higher at the back than at the front in order that the rain will run off readily and that the plants will get more sunshine. Eighteen inches at the back and twelve at the front is about the right height. The sashes generally used are 3 by 6 feet. A hot bed may be made either above or below ground. If above ground, it may be made in any situation where the water is not likely to lie. The one below ground is usually preferable if it can be made where the land is high and well drained. To make the later, the soil should be taken out to the depth of about 18 inches and about three feet wider than the frame so that there will be room for banking. The banking is a very important part of the construction of a hot bed as the conservation of heat in the bed depends very much upon it. It will be readily seen that much labor will be saved by doing the necessary excavation for the frame in the autumn when there is no frost in the ground. Horse manure is the best to use in making the hot bed and it should be quite fresh, not cold and rotten and not already heated. It should be piled near where the hot bed is to be and when it begins to heat it should be turned, to make it of more uniform consistency. Five or six days after turning it should be quite hot, and is now ready for use. The bed is started from one end and the manure shaken in from a fork so that the long and short manure will be well mixed. When one layer is made it should be tramped well and then another layer started, and so on, tramping each layer well until the manure is the depth required. The depth will depend on when the bed is made. If made early, the manure should be from two to two and a half feet in depth, but if made during the latter part of March when the weather is not very cold a foot of manure will suffice. The soil should be five or six inches deep over the manure. It should be rich and of such a character that it will not bake. One should not be in too great a hurry to sow the seeds, as if the temperature is too high the results will not be satisfactory. The seed is usually sown in rows about four inches apart and about the same depth as outside. When the young plants come up the frame should be kept sufficiently aired by raising the back of the sash to prevent their being chilled or frozen. The soil must be watered when necessary care being taken not to overdo this as the plants would be likely to damp off."

AN END TO CORRUPTION

WILL BE AIM OF ELECTION ACT AMENDMENTS

PROMISED LEGISLATION POSTPONED FOR A YEAR

Ottawa, April 26—The opposition flits from one point to another in a vain endeavor to discredit the government. Last week an onslaught was made on the findings of the royal insurance commission, whose report revealed certain questionable transactions in insurance funds with which prominent members of the conservative party both in adn out of the house, had been concerned. After a long debate in which Mr. Foster, the chief offender, made an earnest plea to his fo lowers and the house, upon vote he was condemend, by about 17 to 70. This reflects the view his own friends entertained of his connection with trust funds which the commissioners' report says he employed wrongfully to his own advantage.

The liberal program for the session contained so much suggested legislation in the interests of all the people, that it is no surprise that the expressed intention of submitting amendments to the electoral laws has not been put into practical effect. Parliament has passed a large number of bills of great importance this session, placed itself on record by resolution as in favor of other reforms for the future, and has revised the entire tariff of the country, the last a work of immense detail and endless labor.

This being the case it was rather a surprise to the house when Mr. Borden found fault with the government for not redeeming this particular promise. The government will do so, the party is pledged to it, and want of time alone has interfered with the due performance of this particular pledge. The occasion was seized, however, to bring the attention of the house to a number of irregularities in recent elections, and it was very significant that allusion only was made to incidents which affected the liberal party, fraud and corrupt methods on the part of conservativse were not quoted as a reason for amending the election act.

A very noticeable fact was that most comprehensive references were made to the election of Hon. W. S. Fielding, finance minister, and the alleged corruption which occurred. The fact, however, that Mr. Fielding practically ignored and swept away everything that happened in the election in question and submitted himself again for re-election, and was returned by an overwhelming majority was too indifferent a circumstance to demand a reference. At the conclusion of his address Mr. Borden submitted a resolution which was calculated to condemn corrupt practices in so far as they related to liberal elections, and it also was cunningly worded, so as to constitute a confession of certain undefined acts of corruption in the election of certain prominent members of the government.

Hon. Mr. Fielding, minister of finance, who seems to have enjoyed the particular enmity of the opposition, probably in con*sequence of his notable victory in Queen's* Shelbourne, N.S., followed Mr. Borden, and quickly placed himself on record as being in favor of purity in elections and sympathizing warmly with any well considered measure designed to accomplish that result. He, however, deprecated the spirit in which the resolution had been constructed and presented to the house. The finance minister reminded the house that the validity of the resignation of Mr. Hyman was questioned by the opposition, and it was at their instance that the matter was referred to the committee on privileges and elections and from this fact may be traced all the delay which has occurred. Mr. Fielding informed the house that he had received a notification from Mr. Hyman that he had sent another resignation to Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Fielding gave expression to a vigorous protest against the view advanced by the leader of the opposition that the election laws required amendment in consequence of illegal and corrupt methods employed by the liberals alone. In no sense did he attempt to justify wrong doing, but he did strenuously protest against the view that all the virtues remained with the opposition and all the evil deeds were done by the Liberals. He thought the record of liberals would compare favorably with that of the conservatives and history showed that the records were crowded with cases of corruption.

In no way must he be understood as condoning wrong doing, but he repudiated the suggestion that all of it was confined to the liberals. Among great applause the finance minister alluded to the historic fact that sir John A. Macdonald, the great head of the conservative party, was unseated twice, and once narrowly missed disqualification—the judge declaring that corruption was widespread on that occasion. He referred also to the unseating of sir J. G. Abbott, another conservative premier, for corruption, and amid great laughter the finance minister reminded the house that Hon. Mr. Foster was unseated in New Brunswick and also the predecessor of Mr. Borden, as member for Halifax, Thomas E. Kinney, was unseated.

Mr. Fielding said he could give many more examples of the wrong doing of conservatives in elections, but he had quoted enough to sustain his contention. Mr. Fielding made a strong point very near to the subject at issue when he informed the house that Dr. Weldon, his late conservative opponent at Queen's publicly stated that he had been offered a constituency at the last general election, and consented to run, provided the conservatives would conduct an honest election. The conservatives declined to do so and he would not run.

At this point A. K. McLean of Lunenburg, N.S., rose and said: "I can testify to those words; I heard them used by Dr. Weldon."

Mr. Sinclair of Guysboro, N.S., also rose and said: "I confronted him with those words at a public meeting at Lockport and he did not deny them."

Mr. Fielding continued that he had never heard them denied, and now we have, said he, the leader of the opposition coming into the house with the profession that his party is holier than the liberal party and undertaking to lecture us on our political morality, when one of the most eminent conservatives declares that he would not be a candidate because his own party deliberately refused to accept an honest election. The finance minister concluded a convincing argument in these words: "I realize there is need of electoral reform, but we know from experience there are great difficulties in accomplishing such reform. The resolution of the leader of the opposition is couched in terms I cannot approve of, and while I dissent from much that he said, still the safeguarding of the electoral vote in this country has the hearty approval of the government and there shall be no failure on the part of the liberal party to bring about such reform."

Following some remarks from Mr. Lennox, who took much satisfaction to himself by reading disconnected pieces of evidence from various liberal election trials, Alex. Johnston of Cape Breton, delivered a telling speech and one that covered the ground so admirably that the government supporters added nothing to it.

Mr. Johnston severely criticized Mr. Borden for presenting a garbled account of the election proceedings and omitting to read a very important paragraph which had a vital bearing on the case. He spoke also of the verdict since given by the people of Nova Scotia, which was a complete vindication of the minister of finance.

Mr. Johnston made an extended reference to the reason which impelled Dr. Weldon to decline the candidacy at the general election, which he showed conclusively was because conservative leaders who put him forward would not consent to run a clean election. At this point Mr. Johnston read a letter sent by Dr. Weldon to the leader of the opposition in which Dr. Weldon practically admitted that he declined to be a candidate for the only reason that his conservative friends would not agree to run a clean election. This proposition he proved beyond the power of contradiction and notwithstanding many interjections and interruptions from members of the opposition. Mr. Johnston emerged from the debate with his point unshaken and his case proved to the hilt.

Mr. Johnston remarked upon the fact that the debate had centered around the election of Mr. Fielding and addressed some caustic utterances as to the reasons which induced the leader of the opposition to absent himself from that election, and he deduced therefrom that the statements made by Dr. Weldon, in which the name of Mr. Borden was mentioned, probably had something to do with his decision. Mr. Johnston then proceeded to expose the unworthy tactics resorted to by the opposition in their desire to defeat Mr. Fielding. He gave voluminous quotations from the Halifax papers, quotations which he said were inspired and not denied by Mr. Borden, to the effect that a well known business man had arrived in the country with a corruption fund. Not one word of truth was in it but such deception was regarded by the conservatives as clean politics. Mr. Johnston in vigorous language demonstrated that the tory press knew that the incidents they published were imaginary. Dr. Weldon knew the allegations were false and the man who supplied the leader of the opposition with the information, knew it was false and yet the gentleman had based two speeches upon it. Further than this Dr. Weldon was told that affidavits denying these things had been made and although an opportunity was given him to make some amends, this pure conservative, who would only run elections upon an absolutely clean basis, declined to say a word, but took what advantage he could from the published scandals.

Mr Johnston completely turned the tables on the opposition by the following allusion to an election fund which the conservatives say would be sufficient to regain the constituency of Halifax. This is the circular:

"The organizers feel that unless the financial difficulty referred to can be grappled with and settled, no permanently effective organization can be built up. There should be a definite, sure and constant fund which could be drawn upon at the right moment for party purposes—

It would be curious, said Mr. Johnston, to know what is the right moment, whether it is two or three years before an election or whether it is on the eve of an election. The circular continues: "—and this fund should be allowed to accumulate between elections, if not necessarily expended, so that it will be there when needed.

"Not a great deal of money is required and if the burden of providing it is well distributed as to time of payment and number of contributors, that burden need hardly be felt. Five thousand per annum judiciously, and above all, legitimately used, would be ample, so the organizers feel to place Halifax within the conservative ranks as of yore."

Five thousand a year for five years, $25,000—that is what my hon. friend's friends think is required to bring the constituency of the city and county of Halifax within the ranks of the conservative party once more. I wonder, said Mr. Johnston, if my hon. friend, who was so alarmed at the expenditure of $600 in the county of Queen's and Shelburne, would have been alarmed had he seen this circular. I am sure that if the hon. members for South Simcoe, Mr. Lennox, had been aware of this circular, he would have shrunk from the task imposed on him this afternoon and have refused to take up a brief against the finance minister. I am sure he would have shrunk from the proposition set out in this circular, to spend $25,000 in the county of Halifax in order to bring back the conservative party into the fold. He could not have been aware of this circular or he would have condemned it as roundly as he did this expenditure of $6000."

Mr. Johnston quoted the Toronto News as saying that the conservatives had a greater campaign fund in Queen's and Shelburne in 1904 than the liberals. To this Mr. Borden expressed his entire ignorance, and Mr. Johnston advised him to read the paper and see for himself. Mr. Johnston stated that corruption existed in the conservative party on a gigantic scale.

After giving instances of conservative corruption in various parts of the domin*ion, instances which he said must be well* within the knowledge of the leader of the opposition, Mr. Johnston concluded his lucid and convincing speech in these terms:

"When the time comes the leader of the opposition will find that the liberal members in the house will not be lacking in their efforts to see that the most perfect election laws shall be placed on the statute books, and their observance enforced. I repeat, Mr. Speaker, speaking for myself and I am quite sure for those who sit around me, that we are sincerely anxious to have the franchise of this country exercised as becomes the high character of our people."

A WOMAN TELLS HOW TO RELIEVE RHEUMATIC PAINS

I have been a sufferer from the dreadful disease, rheumatism, for a number of years. I have tried many medicines but never got much relief from any of them until two years ago, when I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I found relief before I had used all of one bottle, but kept on applying it and soon felt like a different woman. Through my advice many of my friends have tried it and can tell you how wonderfuly it has worked.—Mrs. Sarah A. Cole, 140 S. New St., Dover, Del. Chamberlain's Pain Balm is a liniment. The relief from pain which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. It makes sleep possible. For sale by all druggists and dealers.

Everybody Agrees

that COD LIVER OIL and IRON are beyond question the greatest medicines known. Then why does not everybody take Cod Liver Oil and Iron? Simply because most people cannot take the Oil and few can digest the Iron in any ordinary form. These difficulties have been entirely removed by the introduction of FERROL, in which the Iron is scientifically combined with the Oil, rendering the Oil palatable and the Iron digestible. While is manufactured from the best quality of Cod Liver Oil (the whole of the Oil) and is richer in oil than any other emulsion, and while it contains just the right quantity of the best form of Iron and Phosphorus, it is so scientifically prepared that not one person in a thousand finds any trouble in taking it, and infants digest it without difficulty. Moreover the well-established value of the Oil and Iron is immensely enhanced by the process of manufacture, and as the formula is freely exposed it is not to be wondered at that physicians everywhere have fully endorsed FERROL and used it largely in their practice. FERROL is invaluable for the treatment of any kind of Lung or Bronchial troubles, while for wasting diseases it has no equal, and

The temperature yesterday ranged between 29 and 49 degrees.

A new crossing is being put in opposite the court house at its new site.

A branch of the Imperial bank of Canada has been opened at Fort William.

One turn over of land by a stranger in town yesterday netted him exactly $800.

Charles Longhurst has been making several new additions to his business premises.

The latest settler in Nelson is D. Mackenzie of Winnipeg, who has just bought a ranch on the lake.

The funeral of the late Henry Heywood took place yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock from St. Saviour's church.

Good reports have come in from the Vancouver mine. Last month, despite the weather, the new mill ran 25 days and is now working a shift and a quarter each day.

Shackleton and Simpson of the Canadian Marble and Granite company, have secured the contract for the cut stone work of the Fernie postoffice, all of which will be shipped from this city.

O. L. Macklen, manager of the Y. S. Sheppard Realty company of Lethbridge, was in the city yesterday. He came to have a look at Nelson and size up its business possibilities.

In view of the reports of zero weather from the prairie, it is interesting to note that the strawberries are already in bloom on the ranch of J. Laing Stocks, across the lake and that next door the cherry trees of James Johnstone are flowering.

There were again two drunks up before the police magistrate yesterday morning, the one being fined the usual $5 and costs and the other let go with a reprimand, it being his first offence. The police are, however, saddled just now with the care of a man in an advanced state of delirium tremens.

R. L. Douglas, who has been with J. J. Walker, the jeweler, for some time, has made arrangements to go into business for himself. He is opening a watch repairing and optical office in the Carney block, near the bank of Montreal.

The following presents were received by the bride and groom at the wedding of John Macdonald and Miss Marion Campbell on Wednesday last: Mrs. J. Campbell, table linen; K. and D. Campbell, table knives; Bella and Fan Campbell, flower vases; Miss H. Estby and M. Campbell, silver spoons and forks; Mr. and Mrs. A.
