REBELS CHARGED WITH MASSACRE OF CHINESE

WELL KNOWN RUPERT MAN HURT ON LAUNCH

Robert Kitson Dragged into Engine in Skidegate Channel—Seriously Burned and Arm Fractured—Urgent Need for Resident Doctor

Serious injury has been inflicted on Robert Kitson who is well known in Prince Rupert, by an accident on board his gasoline launch in Skidegate Channel the other day. He was attending the engine when the sleeve of his jacket got caught, and his left arm was drawn in by the fly-wheel and fractured.

Badly Burned

Unable to free himself Kitson was held so close to the exhaust valve that the burning gas poured all across his arms, shoulder and face. W. J. Leary, and Reginald Husband who were with him did all they could to help him. They had to slash away his clothes, and the agony he suffered from the burns made him faint. As soon as he was extricated the others ran the launch top-speed for the Queen Charlotte Hospital.

Nurse Set Arm

No doctor was available, but the nurse in attendance did her utmost for the patient. She set his arm and tended the burns which are more serious than the fracture. Kitson who was recently with Messrs. Anderson & McKinnon, is still in the hospital, and so far no doctor has arrived at the island to see to him. The need for a doctor over there is most urgent, and Mr. Leary who is a merchant and J. P. of Skidegate is making an effort to have a resident surgeon there as soon as possible. The Lillooet is stationed at Skidegate now but she has no doctor aboard.

Is It War?

Alderman Clayton asked the direct question at last night's council, "Did Alderman Hilditch ever instruct the Engineering Department to bury any petitions or reports?" Alderman Hilditch promptly replied "Never."

TROUBLE IN COUNCIL ALDERMEN ARE SPLIT

Members of Streets, Works and Property Committee Rebel Against Chairman Hilditch---Ald. Douglas Will Not Stand for Any One-Man Show---Ald. Newton Urges the Combatants Not to Divide the Council

For the first time in the history of the present city council there appears evidence of something rather like a split. The trouble is with the streets committee and the bone of contention is the Engineering Department. The salary raises proposed in that department as recommended by the City Engineer, and approved by Alderman Hilditch do not please Alderman Morrsisey who last night brought in a minority report, and said things about the engineering department which stirred up Alderman Hilditch.

Garbled Reports

When the reports of the streets committee had been presented, and before the Mayor had put them before the council formally, Alderman Morrissey who had evidently had all his ammunition ready before the meeting began, got on his feet.

"I am very displeased," he said, "with these reports. They are all garbled. Alterations have been made in them this very night. I see no mention of the employment of an extra City Engineer which I considered necessary. I am told by many citizens that petitions are being kept buried in the engineering department. I feel that if there is any undue influence being used by any man over the engineering department to have matters shelved like this something should be done about it. Is this to be a one man council? If not, what sort of council are we that we do not fire this engineering department for burying petitions and unsatisfactory work. It seems to me," he concluded, "that increases of pay are proposed for those on the engineering staff who are most responsible for blunders made, while men who have worked faithfully are being offered senior posts at salaries below those of the men leaving."

Hilditch Puts on the Cap

At this Alderman Hilditch rose saying that he saw clearly that Alderman Morrissey's remarks were directed against himself. He put all the blame for the garbled streets committee reports on Alderman Douglas who had taken the minutes at the committee meeting, and showed the notes from which he had compiled the reports declaring it was a wonder the result was even as clear as it was. Then he valiantly defended the engineering department, declared that the staff worked nobly, and that nobody on the council was toiling harder to get the work out of them than Alderman Hilditch himself.

Douglas on Defensive

Like an artist aggrieved, Alderman Douglas assumed his glasses and regarded his notes admiringly. He passed them round for the inspection of the council and the Mayor. "The trouble is," he declared, "that the chairman of the streets committee wants to run the whole show. For my own part," he continued, "I was elected by the people and will serve their interests first."

The Dep't. Again

"What has the engineering department been doing?" demanded Alderman Morrissey. "Had the whole field staff not five weeks' idleness inside during the strike?"

Again Alderman Hilditch defended the department. He apologised for doing so. It was not usual for him to defend the engineering department. But they had been starting the street construction work since the beginning of the year, and half the staff had been on the waterworks."

"Don't Divide Council"

Alderman Morrissey declared that it was an insult to Mr. Lucas to expect him to take up the work of Mr. Clements at a reduced salary. Alderman Clayton had a general slap at everybody connected with the committee and the much abused department in the endeavor to improve the position. And then into the fray solemnly stalked Alderman Newton with the uplifted hands of the peace-maker, pleading with the combatants and the Mayor to defer the battle until a set day when the whole matter could be taken up in committee of the whole, which is Alderman Newton's panacea for all the ills to which a city council can fall heir.

"Don't divide the council," he implored, and Mayor Manson, nothing loth promptly fixed this evening as the time of meeting.

The Troubled Question

The raises of salary upon which the two factions of the streets committee are at loggerheads are as follows: Alderman Hilditch favors the City Engineer's recommendation thus: A. S. Lucas to be Assistant Engineer at $175 a month. H. Simpson to be Chief Draftsman at $108.33 per month. C. T. Heward to be Water-works and Sewer Engineer at $125 per month. A. E. Oakley to be Construction Engineer at $125 per month. J. A. Miller to be Draftsman at $125 per month, and C. H. Newton to have a raise of $8.33 while a new assistant should also be employed at $100 per month.

Alderman Morrissey whould' have it this way: Mr. Lucas to be Chief Assistant at $200 per month, Mr. Simpson to have $150, Mr. Heward $125 per month, and the new assistant to be employed at $100 per month. No other raises on the present scale are contemplated by Alderman Morrissey.

To Make Known the City

Arrangements have been made with the newspapers of the city to extend the publicity of Prince Rupert by having copies forwarded to the principal libraries through out the American Continent.

After the dinner, a reception was held, at which the elite of London society met at the Imperial representatives.

Quebec, May 23.—Killed by a bullet, fired from his own rifle, in the hands of his own daughter, was the tragic fate of Solomon Theberg of St. Raphael this morning. No suspicion of foul play is entertained, for the girl is only fourteen years old. She was pointing the weapon at him in a spirit of playfulness, not knowing that it was loaded.

HE WAS LED AWAY BY HIS KINDNESS OF HEART

Ald. Kirkpatrick Made a Bold Confession as to How the Little Fruit Stand on McBride St. is Being Built in Defiance of Council's Edict

As he came along McBride street the other night Alderman Clayton was appalled by the apparition there at the corner of Fifth avenue of a structure rising from the ground in appearance suspiciously like a fruit stand. Very well did Alderman Clayton know that the council had expressly refused permission to erect a fruit stand here to a certain crippled workman who has been with the city since the clearing of the site at which work he was injured permanently.

A Bold Confession

"Whence the fruit stand and why?" demanded Alderman Clayton at the council board last night. The council answered him never a word, but the memories of various aldermen went back to the time when the permit to build there was refused the disabled workman. How then did he dare to begin building was the question. Not until the babel of opinions and enquiries had died down a little was the voice of Alderman Kirkpartick heard saying simply, "Oh well, the poor old chap is crippled and has no means of support but this, and I just told him to go ahead and build, and ask for permission afterwards."

For one instant there was consternation at the bold confession of kind hearted Kirkpatrick. Then the touch of nature that makes the whole world kin, came to the rescue and Mayor and council approved the action. But there must be no more of it they all think, and if the fruit stand can be put on wheels so that it may be moved if need be, so much the better. A friend of the cripple's is constructing it for him in spare time as a helpful gift.

A Case of Charity

Through Ensign Johnstone a case of urgent charity was brought under the notice of the city council last night. A sum of $75 was voted to meet it. In the same two minutes it was also agreed to devote $50 to the Empire Day Fund.

BUSINESS MEN REQUEST FOR MORE SIDEWALKS

Deputations and Petitions to City Council Have Effect of Making That Body Plan Speedy Action to Help Second and Third Ave. Merchants

Quite a number of business districts of Prince Rupert are getting to need sidewalks pretty badly, and in response to several different requests the city council intends to take up the whole question of sidewalks, attending to as many of the most urgently needful cases as early as possible.

At Own Expense

Most of the residents petitioning for sidewalks are willing to put them in at their own expense if the city will lend them the lumber until the grading is finished in the neighborhood. Businesses along Second avenue on the north side between Sixth and Eighth streets have been suffering. For a long time they have put up with the hindrance but last night Mr. Hoffman of the Mechanics' Store asked if something could be done soon.

Ald. Smith Would Act

Alderman Smith was very decided about it. He said that if he had his way he would grant permission for that sidewalk to go ahead today. Planks belonging to the Theatre Co. are lying idly at hand and Alderman Smith said the business people needing them might have the use of these planks for this sidewalk.

Third Avenue Needs One

Another important sidewalk question brought up last night was that of Third avenue around the Sixth Street district. A deputation of owners waited on the council last night. They also want a sewer connection, and permission to use some spare pipe of the city's. The matter is to be looked into by the streets committee with a view to granting the sidewalks and sewer speedily.

DAILY EDITION. TUESDAY, MAY 23

MORALS AND THE RE-FORMER

Toronto is not the only place that is trying by restrictive measures to conserve the morals of its young people. From Ketchikan, Alaska, comes a notice to the effect that Mayor Thomas Torry of that burg, will prosecute any person under the age of sixteen found on the streets of Ketchikan after 10 o'clock at night, after Saturday, May 13th. We have a similar by-law on our own city record, though little attempt is made to enforce it. The intention is good, the main effect of the by-law if enforced would probably make for good. But at best it is a clumsy way of cultivating young morals.

Why, for instance, staying up late o'nights should be an offence one night, and a permissable thing the following night is hard to understand. All arbitrary measures are clumsy, and must fail in many individual cases, no matter how well they may work in the mass.

The trouble is that in morals more than in most other things we confuse causes and effects. There is a reason. Morals are a comparatively recent development in the race. The mass of people has not yet had time to analyse and codify moral phenomena. Conscience which is the flowering of morals, has not yet been even defined satisfactorily.

Take the question of divorce, which is now agitating the people of Great Britain and the United States, and bids fair to agitate the people of Canada before many years are past. Many persons, anxious for the moral welfare of their land are concerned about it. They think it is wrong even for newspapers to chronicle the proceedings of the court.

True there are newspapers which are to be censured for their manner of treating these cases, for the method they employ of culling the garbage from the court records, and presenting these, with highly spiced seasonings as a literary dish for their readers.

But the mere fact that a number of persons unhappily mated have been able to free themselves from an unhallowed bond is not an evidence of an immoral state of society. It is an evidence of a moral state of society. There is no worse form of immorality, than the compulsory mating of two persons who have neither love nor respect for each other. The horror of it is not less revolting because it is enforced by the pitiless compulsion of respectable social opinion, instead of at the point of the bayonet, or at the butt of a club. The cruelty—the immorality—is greater for it is a more refined mode of torture. The doctrine of eternal punishment for one's mistakes is bad enough, but to begin it in this life—?—?

The changed feeling which has come over many thoughtful minds in contemplating the problem in morals which the divorce court brings, is well expressed by Philip Rappaport, the eminent counsel who is defending the men at Los Angeles from the sensational charge of dynamiting the Times building. In one of his books "Looking Forward," we think it is, he indulges in a reminiscence, somewhat as follows: "When I was a young man at the Bar, I made it a practice always, when a divorce case came to me, to do everything I could to bring about a reconciliation. Usually I was successful, for with the pleadings of friends, and the fear of publicity before them, a couple contemplating divorce, are very amenable to pleas for reconciliation. But my well-meant efforts always ended in ruin. The patched up reunion never lasted, and I soon learned that when a man and woman reach that point in their married life that they are willing to face the frown of friends and the publicity of the divorce court to get away from one another, that the kindest and most moral thing to do, is to hasten the process. Now, when I get a divorce case, I feel I am doing a good work."

In the realm of moral reform, salvation is not to be accomplished by the ostrich-like trick of hiding one's head in the sand, and concluding that because unpleasant facts are not seen, that therefore they do not exist.

In morals, as in philosophy, art, medicine, religion, education, politics, and indeed in every department of intellectual effort, there are two schools of thought—one which aims to conserve the old systems, and one which aims to re-form and create new systems. The radical method of the reformer is the more difficult policy to carry out. But it is only in a re-adjustment, a re-forming of society to avoid the evils which the old social systems produce, that the real hope for an ideal society persists.

Wainwright

Wainwright is one of the Divisional Points on the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, and had its first boom last year when the steel of the main line of the Transcontinental reached there. It is grown and is still growing not only because it is a town in which the railway is directly interested, but also for the reason that, like Ellison on the Skeena, it is a point where navigation meets steel rails. There are still chances of getting in on Wainwright or on one of its additions, at a very low figures, and easy terms of payment.

WATROUS, which is the Terminus of the branch line of the Grand Trunk Pacific and the next place of importance to Saskatoon, in the centre of a rich prairie country and is also growing in fame as a health resort. Little Manitou Lake is at Watrous, and the healing power of this water is the wonder of modern medical science. As it is the only great medicinal mineral lake in the Dominion, the railway is bound to make it famous. There is still a chance of planting a few dollars in this townsite, and their rapid growth and crop is bound to be interesting.

Melville

MELVILLE resembles Chicago in "sitting at the gates of trade." The junction point of railways so important as the Grand Trunk Pacific and Hudson Bay railways must, in the natural course of events, become an important city. Now is the time to buy. The prices for choice lots are extremely low and the possibilities for profit practically unlimited. The purpose of the Grand Trunk Pacific in offering these lots so low is to encourage the upbuilding of Melville, and thus create a market for its superb transportation facilities.

Rivers

RIVERS is a divisional point between Melville and Winnipeg, and it also has hopes of having branch connections, one to join the Great Northern at Brandon, and the other to Regina. The Grand Trunk Pacific purchased a large townsite here with the prophetic belief that from its geographical position as the centre of a great wheat growing district, a large city would naturally grow up at this point. And to encourage this growth the railway company is offering lots at low prices and very liberal terms of payment. Better call and see us about Rivers.

Biggar

BIGGAR is one of the divisional points on the Grand Trunk Pacific, and in the company's yards there already seven miles of trackage has been laid and is in use. The site is between Watrous and Wainwright, and the town is named after W. H. Biggar, general solicitor of the Grand Trunk Pacific. It is not only on the main line of the great transcontinental railway, but it also is the junction of the branch lines of that railway to Battleford and to Calgary and the Winnipeg-Edmonton branch of the Canadian Pacific runs through the townsite. Within the last few days we have made several remittances on account of lots purchased in Biggar.

Ellison

ELLISON needs little to be said of it to Prince Rupert people for the reason that since navigation on the Skeena opened a number of people have gone there by boat from Prince Rupert to first look into the whole situation before investing. What they say of this river port and probabilities of its becoming a great railway city is the best kind of advertising for local readers. Those who desire to invest can do so through the Land Commissioner of the Railway direct, through A. W. Bridgman, the company's agent for Ellison in Victoria, or through J. H. Kugler of this city.

ELLISON -- ROGERS' ADDITION -- SEALEY

Every Railway Town is a Money Maker. Think of the unearned increment attaching to present dots on the route of the Great Transcontinental Railway that you know are bound to become, in the next few years and under ordinary rules of Commercial Development, populous, bustling cities. The railway does it. TRANSPORTATION FACILITIES RAPIDLY INCREASE POPULATION. POPULATION RAPIDLY INCREASES VALUES OF REALTY. Before the railway trunk highways and navigable waterways decided the sites and were the builders of the great centres of commerce and industry. The latter is still a mighty factor, and wherever navigable waters meet the steel highway THERE IS BOUND TO BE AN IMPORTANT CITY. This established fact is what makes ELLISON AND SEALEY TOWNSITES so important from the investment standpoint. It must be remembered that Ellison is the railway townsite in British Columbia in which the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company is directly interested and is a joint owner. Sealey is situated on the Skeena River and is a townsite within a townsite. On its three sides the lots of Ellison are divided from those of Sealey simply by the width of the streets; its fourth side is the waterfront. Sealey has already the nucleus of a business centre. The shops and supply warehouses of the great railway contractors, Messrs. Foley, Welch & Stewart are situated at this point, and it is the river port of the company's steamers. A lusty payroll is a mighty factor in the building of a city. In a direct line from Sealey through the heart of Ellison, and only seven blocks from the site of the railway station and the great freight yards, is ROGERS' ADDITION TO ELLISON. Its slight and gently sloping elevation makes it ideal for the residential section of the City and Port of Ellison. Investors have, therefore, a choice. Lots in Ellison are $250 for inside, and $350 for corners. Sealey lots run from $200 to $375 according to location. Rogers' Addition lots are $150 for inside, and $250 for corners, with liberal terms of payment. A lot in any Grand Trunk City cannot fail to be a safe speculation or a profitable permanent investment.

FIND ASPHALT AND PETROLEUM

Development of Rich Resources of Graham Island Beginning

(Special Correspondence)

Machinery for use in developing the petroleum and asphaltum areas on the west coast of Graham Island is lying on the wharf at Queen Charlotte City, and today there arrived in Prince Rupert a scow and tug by means of which the heavy gear will be transferred to the scene of operations. The work of developing these valuable resources is to be carried on rapidly by the company interested in them during this season.

THE SKIDEGATE INDIAN BAND

Arrives Today in Prince Rupert for the Contest

The C. P. R. S.S. Amur arrived today from Moresby Island bringing a cargo of 15,000 feet of lumber for the city works department. The Amur also brought a number of passengers, and the members of the Skidegate Indian Band with their instruments all ready for the great Empire Day contest.

DEVOTED PRINCIPALLY TO THE INTERESTS OF WOMEN

This is a little section of the paper, which from day to day will be devoted to subjects of special interest to women. Any and all of the ladies of Prince Rupert are invited to contribute to its columns, and to take part in its discussions. Suggestions and criticisms are invited by the editor. The hope is expressed that "The Cosy Corner" will fill a social need.

GOOD-LOOKING SUIT

Dark blue serge makes ideal spring coat suits for young girls, and an effective model in this material is trimmed with bands of black silk soutache, as shown above. The design is simple, but exceedingly smart, the lines of coat being especially good.

NOVEL BLOUSES

Latest Departures in the Shape of Yokes

A blouse of dark etamine over white has an oddly shaped yoke and sleeves of embroidered batiste, and there are various models in silk with shallow yokes of lingerie stuff continued down the outside of the sleeve in a band and sometimes, as in some charming models seen, running down the front of the blouse as well. Deep cape collars, sailor collars, Dutch collars, or embroidered batiste or linen appear upon many of the colored blouses in silk or sheer materials, and some exceedingly good-looking models of silk, chiffon, silk mousseline, or etamine combines with white or cream batiste embroidered in color matching the silk.

WIFELY WISDOM

Sayings of Solomon's Wisest Wife Dug up for Rupert Girls

Lo, all men are as one man, but of women there be as many kinds as there be varieties of weather; and each woman hath more lightning changes than a day in April.

Verily, verily, who hath found a reliable recipe for managing a woman? Even he, that expecteth naught but the unexpected.

Even he that playeth all the lovetunes by ear, and mixeth his ways, as a good cook mixeth her salad, by instinct.

Even he that hath been born with the knack! For in the love-game theories are as naught, and brains are as nothing. But a little practice goeth a long way.

Verily, verily, the journey of matrimony is not a spin in an automobile upon upholstered cushions, over a graded road, but a

WILL CHALLENGE THE VICTORS

Longshoremen Confident They Can Beat at Tug of War

The brawny-armed men who compose the Longshoremen's Union are quite sure they can pull any team round town that dares to get on the other end of a rope with them.

As they will be busy working tomorrow they are unable to enter a team in the tug of war contest, but it is on the carpet that they will challenge the winning team to meet them on Dominion Day. Then there'll be some fun.

LOTS OF BEER ARRIVED TODAY

Henriette Brought Eight Hundred Barrels of It in

The record cargo of beer—eight hundred barrels of it—arrived in Prince Rupert this afternoon on the Henriette. The largest shipment heretofore was a little more than half that quantity. It looks as if thirsts are developing in the north country.

A few weeks ago, the Blue Funnel liner Antilochus brought two of her immense hatches loaded to the decks with beer, spirits and wines from England to Vancouver, a record cargo of intoxicants to the Coast.

SAY THEY WERE MISLED

Men Sent from the South Could Not Find Work

There are a number of gangs of men round town, who have mushed it in from up the line. They say they were sent up by employment agencies in Vancouver, who told them there was a great scarcity of labor up the line. When they reached there, they found the contractors were all well supplied with men, so they walked in to Rupert, feeling pretty mad with the men who sent them.

Classified - - Advertisements

One of the best services the modern newspaper gives the public is in the classified advertisement columns. There buyer and seller, employer and worker, landlord and tenant, and a host of others meet on common ground. To put this modern convenience in reach of everyone the News will reduce its rate to a nominal price of a cent a word per insertion. Minimum charge of 25 cents. Here is our Classified Advertising Column for today. Watch it grow.

IN CASE OF A DRY SEASON

Steps to be Taken Quickly by the Council to Ensure Supply

Winter is over and with it the winter water problem in the city, but summer is rapidly approaching and with it comes the summer water problem which is almost as bad. Arrangements must be quickly made, and will be quickly made by the city council to have an augmented supply of water for household use and fire protection. This it is believed can be done by the completion of two dams on Morse Creek which will store up enough water to tide the city over a spell of drought.

The cost of this work would probably be only $5000, and at last night's council meeting there was a very strong opinion that the work should be put in hands right away. However, further investigation will be made.

"GEORGE" IS DEAD

Arthur Little's Favorite Spaniel Is no More

There is a spirit of melancholy brooding over Arthur Little's news stand today. "George," the brown spaniel, for long the inseparable companion of Mr. Little is dead. By some means unknown he partook of poison and died yesterday, to the great grief of Mr. and Mrs Little.

Only on Saturday, Mr. Little had the dog's photograph taken, standing on a box, peering over his owner's shoulder.

STRIKE NO PLEA FOR EXTENSION

Contractors Pleading Strike to Escape Penalty Clause

"No mercy," says Alderman Hilditch, "is to be shown to the contractors who want extension of time." Last night in a report of the streets committee adopted by the council all responsibility for the strike was entirely disclaimed, and no extension of time will be granted any contractor on that score.

Applications for extension were made by S. H. Watson and J. R. Morgan. Watson will get two weeks' extension on annount of difficulties due to minor city delays and special causes, but none on account of the strike. Morgan whose contract was delayed owing to a change of grade gets five weeks and two days extension of time.

ALD. CLAYTON IS PUZZLED

However Does the Engineering Department Do It?

There was a culvert built in this city on Third avenue, and Alderman Clayton has been greatly mystified over it. For according to Alderman Morrissey this is one of the exploits of the engineering department. Some valiant Knight of the Transit set about the building of that culvert wall upon a foundation of sand. In vain did the then Building Inspector warn, threaten and cajole. The hero of the Steel Tape and Plumb Bob bade the Building Inspector get him thence, and finished that culvert wall. But in a little while winter approached, and the winds blew and the rains fell, and the tempest beat upon that wall so that it fell, and great was the fall thereof. And Alderman Clayton brooded over the broken wall. At last week's council meeting he demanded to know the cost of the repair job. Last night it was told him that about $10 had been the total outlay. And herein lies the mystification. For to Alderman Clayton it seemed that many men had been engaged for many moons rebuilding that wall. So last night he made a noise like a great big question mark. But the little black figures on the Engineer's report said still $10 and no more.

Request from Hospital

An application from Mr. D. G. Stewart, President of the Hospital Board, for a contribution to the Hospital Funds, was referred by the council to the finance committee. Alderman Douglas declared himself in favor of a grant.
