District S. S. Convention Held At Hatzic on Friday March 31

The Fraser Valley District S. S. Association held their annual convention in the hall at Hatzic on March 31st. Both the afternoon and evening sessions were well attended.

This organization was inaugurated last year and the first meeting was held in Mission City. The organization was promoted by the B. C. Sunday S. Association and comprises the denominational S. Schools of the territory from Pitt Meadows to Agassiz and includes Abbotsford and Clayburn. The aim of the Association is to stimulate greater interest in Sunday S. work and to promote more efficiency in all branches connected with the teaching of the pupil.

The principal speaker at the Hatzic meeting was the Rev I. W. Williamson, secretary of the B. C. S. S. A., through whose efforts the re-organization of S. Schools has become possible. Mr. Williamson has severed his connection with the B. C. S. S. A. and will leave for Nova Scotia to enter a larger field and better pastures. The vacancy thus left will be hard to fill and although Mr. Williamson's decision is much regretted by B. C S. S. workers, all wish him Godspeed and good luck, and our loss will be the Easterner's gain

The following is the program of the meeting at Hatzic:

President's Address, J. A. Barr; "Can a Rural School Use Modern Methods" I. W Williamson; Elementary Work by Mrs. Wm. Manson; "How to Make the Programme Interesting" by E. S. Learn, Vancouver; "The Bible Class in Relation to the Sunday School" by Rev. W. R. Hughes; "Canadian Standard Efficiency Tests for Teen Age Pupils" by I. W. Williamson; Supper was then provided by the Hatzic People; Business Session, reports and election of Officers; Opening Exercises by the New President; "Discipline in the School" by D. M. Moore Mission City; Special Music and Offering; Conference by I. W. Williamson.

The Rev. Welsh, principal of the Hatzic school, also, gave a short address that was much appreciated. Mr. J. A. Barr the president of the Association occupied the chair in his usual able manner.

The following officers were elected for the present year:

Hon. President—T. J. Cox.
President—J. A. Barr.
Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Wells.
Sec.-Treas.—G. Gibbard.

The Ladies of the Hatzic S. S. provided an excellent supper at 6 p.m . Special music was also rendered by the school

There may not be much money or excitement on the old home farm, but there are three meals a day.

If you want to be gloomy, there's gloom enough to keep you glum. If you want to be glad, there's glee enough to keep you glad.

MUNITIONS MAKING IN ENGLAND

This is part of a letter from a woman who has given up her studio, and is now working at munitions.

"——— Did anyone tell you I have got a job as overseer in ——— Arsenal? I have been here since the middle of January, making cartridges to kill Germans. We have to work pretty hard, at present it is run with two shifts, day and night and we take it week about. Each shift is twelve hours. This last week I have been on the night shift, going in at 7 p. m. and coming home in the morning along with the land lady's cat. I can only hope I don't look as dissipated as he does when we meet on the doorstep. At present I am in charge of seven girls and their machines, for which we have also four fitters. I am supposed to keep the girls in order, gauge the cartridges and keep the scores. The gauging is the most tiresome part, it has to be constantly done; there are four things to be gauged, and the manager says each machine should be done at least once in five minutes. That, however, is a slight exaggeration. The fitters complicate life a good deal, but so far I have found them all pretty decent. They change from one shift to another every fortnight so we don't always get the same men.

Everyone has been very friendly and kind, and it makes a great difference, when twelve hours each day must be spent there. We get an hour's interval for dinner and half an hour for tea. When I went first, the arsenal provided nothing but boiling water, and all the provisions for the day had to be carried—a fearful nuisance. But now there is a very good canteen run bc the Y. M. C. A.

You will guess there is not much time for other things. My landlady does my shopping for me. I was lucky in getting a room near the arsenal so have no difficulty about trains. Some of the other people have two hours' journeey to get there.

You have no idea how thrilling it is the first time you get the order to "stand by" (for Zepps). You stop the machines and are led to a place of comparative safety, with a "poison helmet" thrust upon your reluctant fingers as the lights go out. I own I was much more alarmed at the prespect of donning the helmet than at the prospect of Zeppelins! It was a strange smelling object and even in the dark no one seemed inclined to put one on. The girls on the whole behaved well, though of course there was a certain amount of hysterics. The second time it happened the lady superintendent was there (a singularly capable woman). and she slapped one girl who was beginning to fuss; the effect on the rest was excellent. They kept us an hour and a half in the dark one evening, very tiresome. Of course I swear to the family that if there is one safe spot from the Zepps it is the arsenal. The pay is pretty good, but food costs a lot.

THE NEED OF PRODUCTION

It must be plain to the most obtuse and unreasoning mind that twenty-four or twenty-five million of men cannot be withdrawn even from the swarming population of Europe without effecting a huge reduction in the produce of labour and of the soil. Women may in a measure supply the places of men, but it must be remembered that women have also their sphere in the economics of life. Therefore in taking them to the land they are being taken, in the main, from other employment. Consequently, if for every man who goes to fight there was a woman to take his place in agriculture or other industry there would still be a deficiency not only in labor but in production. At the present time 400,000 women are being called for to take the place of 250,000 British soldiers recruited from farm work

Hence it is clear that no matter what steps may be taken either during the war or after the war, there must be an enormous shortage of the requirements across the Atlantic for many years to come. And that shortage for a period subsequent to the declaration of peace will be as keenly as any time during the gigantic struggle. With the normal scramble for existence resumed there will be less immediate government control—in other words there will be less systematic regulation of supplies. To meet the demands that must succeed extra consumption, tremendously less production and immensely greater wastage, there will be abundant use, not for one year's bountiful crops, but for similar blessings during a score of successive years. Where and how can this assured demand be met There is but one answer to the dual question—by the undevasted countries and by redoubled efforts at production in those countries.

That Canada is not the only country that has net had its resources in large part exhausted or destroyed, is true; but there is plenty of reason to believe that the nations of Europe not engaged in the war, have been drawn upon to the utmost by those so engaged; hence when the time comes all eyes will be turned from east to west for succour. Canada, being the nearest to the great centre of de- from sentimental reasons, be mand, will, of necessity, apart the first looked to and will have the greatest opportunity. The bogey of released Russian harvests have been on parade since the war commenced, but Russia, with twelve or fifteen million men called to arms, largely of the peasant class, has suffered and is suffering, like the rest. She, too, will need reo rganizing, rejuvenating and regenerating. Hence, for a few months after the outbreak of hostilities, there may have been something to be expected from the release of stores of wheat and other grain from Odessa and other Black Sea ports there is nothing available now and there may be little in the next decade. Hence, Canada's role is plain—to go on producing, to go on garnering and storing, if necessary, in the sure and certain hope of ultimate profit and prosperity. There never was a time, and probably never will be another time, when we were more urgently called upon to produce, in increased quantities, not alone all articles of food, but every articles that enters into the industrial life of peoples.

Mt. Lehman Notes

Rev. Mr. Reid has gone to Victoria to attend a meeting of the Synod and made definite arrangements for the supply of the Presbyterian church here. The field extends from Gifford to Warwhoop on the B. C. E. R east and west, and from the Fraser river to the Yale road north and south. There was a good attendance at the Communion service in the church here on Sabbath 2nd inst., when the Rev. Alexander Dunn, D. D. from New Westminster preached a stirring sermon on "The Constraining Love of Christ," 2 Cor. 5, 14.

Mr. John Ball and family have moved to Chilliwack. Mr. Christie has moved to Mr. Ball's place.

Mrs. Farber and the children are to spend the summer with, Mrs. Farber's parents at Wisconsin, U. S. A., Messrs Farber and Lappe of the Fir Tree Lumber Co., are logging on the Cogalan and White bush. It is expected this will finish the work at this saw mill which has given employment to quite a number of men in this district. Messrs Farber and Lappe employ white labor and take an interest in the welfare of their employees who greatly appreciate this.

Mrs. Salt Entertains

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Salt last Wednesday evening in honor of her brother Pte. Jack Parton of 131st. Everyone played cards, then partook of the dainty lunch prepared by the hostess. Games and dancing were then enjoyed.

Among those present were:

Mrs. W. W. Green, Miss Dorothy and Forence Parton, Miss Jean Alanson, Miss Jeannie Anderson, Miss Florence and Christina McPhee, and Messrs E Weir, Walker Wallace, Manlius Zeigler, Jack Parton, Lorn McPhee and Frank Parton.

FRIDAY, APRIL 14, 1916

Our nice little write up of a prominent citizen who was leading the way in the matter of cleaning up and making beautiful the town has had its real good effect already but there is lots of room for improvement yet in many quarters. Don't forget that old tin cans, etc., look the worst of all.

Time changes even the political leaders, and some would elevate Premier Bowser to the bench and bring Martin Burrell into provincial politics. Now it does not seem that Mr. Bowser after striving to climb the ladder of fame in provincial politics will give up the leadership so easily. There is too much of the fight in him, and he is sure to want a chance to make good. No premier of B. C. for many years has had such a hard time of it to start out with and he acts as though there was a little fight in him yet.

Martin Burrell might be the right man in the right place as far as leading the Conservatives to victory and then he might not.

The Liberal party is not very large in number but they are having a big time with the party that is big in numbers—just depends which side of politics a fellow happens to be on and believes in.

Some people take politics up more seriously than their business.

In Britain some people have to pay income taxes of twenty-five dollars in the hundred. The fact that they have to have ten thousand dollars a year income saves us from feeling unduly sorry for them.

It kind of looks as though the Hollanders were getting in Dutch.

There may be lots of jars in public life for some of our B. C. politicians but they will still contain the sweets of office.

And "Sammy" Hughes may win out after all as is there a man in Canada capable of taking his place.

Motto for the Allies: Hold out and hold togther.

The Germans have been finding substitutes for pretty nearly everything; but shall we find that soon they will have a substitute for war.

Some Can'ts

You can lead a horse to water,
But you can't make him drink,
You can send a boy to college,
But you can't make him think;
You can warn a girl frim marriage,
But you cannot make her shrink
You can sell a cat for trimming
But you cannot make it mink!

The best aid to peace is a blockade.

The end of the war will be a draw. Quite right, my friend, quite right. We are going to draw Germany's teeth.

Agricultural Training

"It is sound economic policy to educate these young men at the expense of the taxpayers of Okalhoma and then allow them to go to Minnestota, Wisconsin Iowa, Illinois or other states that know the value of their kind of education, for the purpose of teaching to their boys and girls the value of diversification?" asks the Oklahoma Farmer, in an excellent article that can be read everywhere with profit. It continues:

"Well, you say, how can we keep them at home? The answer comes back—agitate until our people are willing to pay the price that will keep these young men here. The people will never be willing to do this until we as school men can show the value and need of such.

"We as school men must be willing to admit that many of the things we have been teaching have not been practical and useful. Then we must decide that some other subjects such as crops, soils and animal study are not only useful, but just as intellectual as the so-called cultural subjects."

"Is it not just as useful to a boy to know the possibilities of a handful of soil as to know all about partial payments? Is it not as practical for a boy or a girl to know of the difference in the growth of corn and alfalfa roots as to know all about cube root? Schools with some gard are found in all portions of the state.

"About 65 years ago Denmark was suffering from a lack of the necessaries of life. Most of her lands were in the hands of a few; her people were ignorant and restless and were of sheer necessity clamoring for a change. They made the change they taught the boys and girls in terms of their life's work; they taught the practical things of life.

"Today Denmark is prosperous. Her people are satisfied and ambitious; they are advancing as no other people are. No other nation had such a small percentage of illiteracy. A large per cent of her land is in the hands of the people. A great number of her people take advantage of her higher institutions of learning."

The pen is mightier than the sword but the Germans never thought of that before the war started, we suppose.

Why do men look longer asked the young lady?

Because women's skirts are shorter.

One of the surest ways to fail is to care too much about success. It is not winning that counts, but how you play the game.

There can be no true politeness without the practice of self-control.

Activity in Canada

An important feauture ofthe Red Cross work arethe hospital visitors who bring the wounded into personal touch with the Society, and collect information that serves considerably to alleviate the anxiety of relatives. Recently Mr. Gaspar Clarke, of East Toronto, after reading inthe casualty lists, that his brother was wounded, cabled tothe Red Cross in London, and in two days received full particulars as to the nature of the wound. This information has been gathered by a Canadian Red Cross visitor in Boulogne. This staff of visitors now numbers 400.

The Duchess of Connaught Canadian Red Cross hospital at Cliveden is constantly winning golden opinions for its efficiency and perfect organization. It is considered a model hospital and a great tribute to Canadian Red Cross effort.

Taking all departments into consideration the Canadian Red Cross is doing admirable work abroad. The only limit to the good it can accomplish is the limit of contributions from Canada. Every increase of Red Cross effort in Canada gives the Red Cross so much power to ameliorate the unhappy lot of Canada's wounded and prisoners.

Reflects Acitivity in Canada

The activity ofthe Canadian Red Cross in England and at the front is closely connected with the proseperity of the Society in Canada. Any diminution of Red Cross enterprise on this side of the water would mean inevitably an increase in the suffering ofthe wounded.

The Red Cross movement in Canada however is advancing like a great tidal wave Almost every branch each month repoorts new high records ing goods and money. The total of supplies passing throughthe shipping departments in Toronto, St. John and Halifax is constantly increasing.

In consequence of this the Canadian Red Cross abroad is able to report a steady expansion of the scope of its activity. It is now supplying comforts to Canadian wounded in 71 hospitals in the Shorncliffe area. From its Boulogne warehouse it issues supplies to four Canadian General hospitals, four Canadian Field ambulances and five Canadian Stationary hospitals in France. In addition, there is Canadian Red Cross hospital, to which five motor ambulances are attached at St. Cloud near Paris. This is supplied by a Canadian Red Cross warehouse in Paris, which has also made reciprocity arrangements with the French Military Hospitals. Further, the three Canadian Hospitals in the Mediterranean are not lost sight of, and these are supplied from Alexanrdria.

The prisoners of war department has now on its list 1400 prisoners of war in Germany. To these, fortnightly shipments of food have been sent, and they have been well supplied with blankets, overcoats, underclothes and other winter clothing, which has been very acceptable owing to the severity of the season in Germany.

The Parcels Department sends out a monthly average of over 4000 parcels of food and clothing. At Xmas 3,500 lbs. of turkey and 3000 pounds of plum pudding were distributed to the Canadian sick and wounded in England and France.

Production and Thrift

"CANADA from her abundance can help supply the Empire's needs, and this must be a comforting thought for those upon whom the heavy burden of directing the Empire's affairs has been laid. Gain or no gain the course before the farmers of Canada is as clear as it was last year—they must produce abundantly in order to meet the demands that may be made and I believe this to be especially true in regard to live stock, the world's supply of which must be particularly affected in this vast struggle. Stress and strain may yet be in store for us all before this tragic conflict is over, but not one of us doubts the issue, and Canadians will do their duty in the highest sense of that great word."—HON. MARTIN BURRELL, Minister of Agriculture.

"MODERN war is made by resources, by money, by foodstuffs, as well as by men and by munitions. While war is our first business, it is the imperative duty of every man in Canada to produce all that he can, to work doubly hard while our soldiers are in the trenches, in order that the resources of the country may not only be conserved, but increased, for the great struggle that lies before us. 'Work and Save' is a good motto for War-time."—SIR THOMAS WHITE, Minister of Finance.

Was He Really an Irishman?

The man who tells this story claims that its hero was an Irishman. At any rate, the language makes a fine bull.

A preacher had delivered his prize sermon, exhorting his hearers to embrace the religious life and scorn the attractions of wealth and late suppers.

He concluded with his centre shot: "My brethren, let not this world rob you of a peace which it can neither give nor take away."

Love comes and grows through serving, not through being served.
