LEGISLATION

The Public Service Superannuation Act was amended at the 1973 Fall Session of the Legislative Assembly as follows:

(1) Authorizing investment in short-term paper of a credit union.

(2) Allowing election by a person whose plan of allowance includes a temporary annuity to age 70 to have the plan changed to include instead a temporary annuity to age 65.

(3) Allowing resumption of payment of widows' allowances which had terminated by reason of remarriage.

The Act was further amended at the 1974 Spring Session of the Legislative Assembly. Among the more important changes are the following:

(4) Providing for payment, effective July 1, 1974, to persons in receipt of an allowance prior to January 1, 1974, of a supplementary allowance calculated by applying to the basic lifetime portion of the allowance the following percentages:

Allowances Granted	Percentage Increase
1972 and before	12
1973	4

(5) Introducing, effective April 1, 1975, quarterly adjustment of eligible allowances based on the quarterly change in the consumer price index.

(6) Financing the quarterly adjustment by raising the employee and employer contributions to the Fund by one-half per cent of contributory salaries when the total amount of the supplementary allowances reaches 1 per cent of the annual amount of contributory salaries, with a further raise in such contributions of one-half per cent when required.

(7) Permitting a superannuant, upon repayment of all amounts received by way of allowance, to be reinstated as a contributor to the Fund.

(8) In the case of an allowance payable to the spouse of a contributor who died in service prior to age 60, removing the $100-per-month temporary annuity to age 65 and providing instead for the full allowance on the joint life and survivor plan.

(9) Extending the period for payment of interest on unclaimed amounts at the credit of former contributors from three years to ten years.

(10) Providing for adjustment based on changes in the consumer price index of the amount of salary used in calculations with respect to deferred allowances, disability allowances, and allowances during re-employment.

(11) Authorizing the entry into an agreement making the British Columbia Railway Company an employer under the Act.
