MINING ENGINEER SEES BIG CHANGE

Representative of London Capital Who Was Here In Early Days Is Now a Booster

W.H.Trewatha-James, a member of the well known London mining engineering firm of Messrs James Bros., for many years actively associated with the mining industry in this province, has been greatly impressed with the healthy condition of the mining industry in the camp, having spent the past two weeks in the district, during which time he has visited nine of the leading properties.

When interviewed Mr James, to use his own words, said: "The camp which I saw in 1910, I now return to, to find solidly established. I am particularly pleased with the results being obtained, and the high character of the men composing the managements of the various properties. Find extensive development being efficiently carried out, and feel that the time has arrived when the district must be taken seriously by the mining interests of the world. The camp has undoubtedly a very promising future, and with sufficient capital for development, more mines will be produced."

His interests, operating in all the more prominent mining fields of the world, Mr James is competent to speak of mining costs in a comparative sense, and in so doing, expressed the opinion that while wages in this camp are higher than in tropical countries, the high class of labor available produces greater results and gives a correspondingly higher return.

His visit this year is purely one of observation, but his firm will consider placing a representative permanently in this field next season.

Mr James leaves for the south tomorrow, returning to London about two months.

New Store Building

Stewart is to have a new business block. The firm of McLean & Hooton, associated with Jack, will commence construction of a two-story, 30x40 building on 5th street, adjoining Crawford Transfer office on Friday. Material for the building is being accumulated and construction will be rushed in order that it may be occupied by the First of November. The second floor will consist of store rooms for the accommodation of Newman & Hooton's store, with living quarters upstairs.

SERVICE CLUB HAS FINE SHOW

Proclaimed by all present the cleverest and most amusing amateur theatrical performance ever put on in Stewart, the Revue staged by the concert committee of the International Service Club in the Hotel Stewart last Monday evening was in every regard a complete success. The hall was packed to capacity, there being not even standing room left, and from first to last was kept in continuous laughter by the many and varied comic characters and original and local jokes, all of which were clever without exception. One of the most amusing was a skit on a show recently staged in Stewart by a visiting troupe.

The various turns were too numerous to mention in detail, a feature being that each one was as good as the other, there not being a mediocre item on the evening's program.

The first half consisted of three choruses, with W. H. Watson, G. C. Andrew, Jack Ellis, J. W. Wilson and H.E.Wake as chorus girls in the coolest of ballett dresses; G. C. Lawrence in an original solo turn, and W. S. Orr with some very clever Scotch stunts.

The second half consisted of choruses by the chorus girls, and a sketch featuring the arrival of the S.S. Cardena on time 24 hours late, among the arrivals being M. Slater as "One Lung," a Chinese laundry man, to open business in Stewart; also consignments of freight for many of the local business people, the Portland Canal News receiving a consignment of ladies' underwear, and Harry Zeffertt, the clothing man, a shipment of pork. Such were the many jokes that kept the audience in continuous uproar. Orientals not being allowed in Stewart, and Mr Slater taking his Chinese part to perfection, the situation may be imagined.

Many clever and original hits were scored—in fact the entire performance was a mixture of good songs, parodized to suit local conditions, and original stunts far too numerous to even remember. Unfortunately Frank Bowler, who has a very fine voice, was unable to sing, owing to a bad cold.

It is evident that Stewart contains some excellent talent, with which the Club's committee will entertain Stewart audiences throughout the winter, further performances now being arranged for the near future.

Harry Hooton, assisted by E. A. Lewis, acted as stage manager, while Dr. R. T. Butler attended to the door.

After the show, dancing was indulged in for the rest of what had proven a most entertaining evening.

The funds raised from these entertainments will be allocated to the construction of a home for the Club, which is to be built this fall on the property recently purchased for this purpose on 6th St. East.

INDEPENDENCE

The mining sensation of the week is the Independence. No. 4 vein is producing "peacock" galena, comparable only to the highest grade ores of Hudson Bay and Nine-mile mountains in the Bulkley. Everyone coming from the Independence says: "Boys, she's a mine."

J. Fred Ritchie, president of the Indian Mines, arrived from Rupert Saturday.

Mrs Wm. Saunders left on the Chilliwack Wednesday evening for a visit in Rupert.

SOME FINE TENNIS

The finest exhibition of tennis ever witnessed in Stewart was the occasion of the visit of representatives of the Alice Arm and Anyox clubs during the past week-end, in a two-day tournament at the local club court.

The teams of the three clubs, without exception, staged exceptionally good tennis, and while the total of events was very satisfactory, standing Anyox 8, Stewart 6, Alice Arm 5, the cold figures in no way express the high character of play, one of the features of which was the men's singles between Dave Cole of Anyox and A. H. McCallum of Stewart, the score being 10—5 in favor of Cole.

Those representing the Anyox club were Mr and Mrs McTaggert, Mrs and Miss Champion, Mrs Eves, and Messrs Cole and Townsend.

The Alice Arm club was represented by Mr and Mrs Falkner Mrs Kergin, Mr and Mrs McInnes and Messrs Grey, Bruggy and Falkner.

Arriving Saturday evening on the launch Awake, the united party returned on the same boat early Tuesday morning after the concert and dance.

TOM CARPENTER HAS CASHED IN

Thomas Carpenter, one of the best known residents and a general favorite throughout the towns and settlements of the northwest, died at 10 p.m., September 3, in the Stewart hospital, of euremia.

This news will come as a shock to his hosts of friends, not only in the Portland Canal district, but especially in towns of the Bulkley valley, such as Telkwa, Smithers and Hazelton, where he resided prior to coming here.

Saturday "Tommy," as he was always known, appeared to be in the best of health. He had been working for two years for the Premier, and went on shift as usual that night and Sunday at No. 1 angle station. Monday he did not feel well and laid off. Tuesday night he retired early in Hyder, B. C., and Wednesday noon could not be awakened. Dr. Whillans of Stewart was summoned and ordered his removal to the hospital, where he died that night without regaining consciousness.

The funeral will be held Saturday, Sept. 6, from Pioneer Hall, Hyder, Alaska, under the auspices of the Pioneers of Alaska, of which order he was a member.

Tommy was born in Barry Ont. 62 years ago. He left home at an early age and nothing is known here as to his relatives, though some residents have been acquainted with him for thirty years or more. He had been a railroader in his youth, also learned the printing trade, and afterwards took part in the mining game on the frontiers, having participated in both the Dawson and Nome stampedes. He came to this district in 1919.

No more likeable nor genial soul ever lived than Tommy. He had a faculty for making enduring friends in whatever community he cast his lot, and his name will be remembered while an acquaintence of the past two-score years remains.

Big Mining Business

Thos. Cole, from the Provincial Treasury Department, arrived from the south Saturday and spent several days auditing the books of the local Mining Recorder. Some idea of the increased business of this office can be gained when it is remembered that heretofore a few hours sufficed to complete this audit, whereas this year it required two days.

The mining scribe and printer of the News caved in this week. That's why the paper is late and a little different.

ASSOCIATION HAS MEETING

Governing Body of Stewart Takes Action on Cemetery Protection—Other Things Considered

At a meeting of the Executive of the Citizens Association held last evening it was decided to improve conditions in the cemetery as soon as possible in preparation for the winter. In this regard an appeal is hereby made to the citizens as a whole, to turn out on Sunday, Sept. 14th, with tools for the purpose of doing some necessary clearing and marking the present graves so that they can be located when the snow is on the ground. The Association has for some time been trying to obtain title to the property at a minimum of expense to the community, and while some progress has been made, in spite of certain difficult conditions, there are still a number of obstacles to be overcome.

P. S. Jack, delegated by the Board of Trade, waited upon the Executive for an expression of opinion as to the necessity of building a community hall. The subject having not been considered for many months by the Association as a whole, nothing but individual opinions could be expressed, the concensus of which was, that the community is in need of a hall, but that in order that a full expression of opinion may be obtained a special general meeting of the Association is called for Wednesday evening, Sept. 10, at 7:30.

Godfrey Smith was delegated from the Executive to wait on the Board of Trade and request their support and joint action with a view to securing adequate protection against the danger to traffic from snowslides on the Stewart-Hyder road this winter; to also take up the matter of recording Stewart's claim as the natural coast outlet for the Peace River country before the Commission appointed by the Government that is to meet this fall for the purpose of examining the various railway routes from Peace River to the coast, it being the opinion of the Executive that united action on these two questions will secure more satisfactory results.

In the early morning of Sept. 1 the mail boat Carmen from Ketchikan ran onto the tide flats at Hyder and stuck high and dry for several days. The mill was mistaken in the early morning mist for the wharf.

THE ARCTIC COPPER MINES

THE PAPER by George M. Douglas in a recent issue of Engineering and Mining Journal-Press describes one of the most fascinating mineral occurrences in North America—the copper deposits of the Coppermine River region, near the shores of Coronation Gulf, a bay of the Arctic Ocean. Known by hearsay from the time of Hearne's journey in 1771, they are still only dimly recognized or defined. A serious attempt to explore the region was the notable expedition of Mr. Douglas and his three or four white companions in 1911. The greater part of two seasons was spent in the region investigated. Mr. Douglas found a copper-bearing belt 16 miles wide and of unknown length, the copper occurring as disseminated flakes in basalt, as amygdaloidal copper, and as fissure veins. The Douglas expedition was followed in 1915 to 1917 by the Canadian Arctic expedition under Dr. J. J. O'Neill. Dr. O'Neill determined the Bathurst Inlet mineralized area as 50 miles long, with a maximum width of 25 miles; this area is considered distinct from the Coppermine River region explored by Mr. Douglas, and the country between has not been explored.

In these two districts the content of copper varies, as would be expected. The amygdaloidal basalt flows found in the Copper Mine Mountains by the Douglas expedition had a copper content of as high as 7 per cent, while sulphides in smaller quantities carrying as much as 40 per cent of copper were found. It is likely, moreover, that the most promising part of the region has not been explored. Taken altogether, the indications are favorable for the existence of high-grade mines, as well as larger low-grade deposits in this region. We have, therefore, it is probable, a region comparable, let us say, to the Lake Superior copper region, on the Arctic shores, unprospected and unowned. Conditions for prospecting and mining are not unfavorable, remoteness and the consequent difficulty of transportation being the chief obstacle to further progress.

It may seem strange that a region which offers such substantial promise should be treated with silence by mining capital—that another Lake Superior copper region should fail to arouse interest, even with the drawbacks stated. The real reason lies in the character which the copper-mining industry has assumed. The consumption of copper by the world is ever on the increase, and the development of large-scale copper mining at many points has put the industry on a sharply competetive basis. Copper mining has become largely a manufacturing business, much like iron mining. Costs are the factor which determines the successful and profitable copper fields. The reason that the Arctic regions are untouched is similar to that which accounts for the neglect of the rich and abundant iron ores of Brazil. They are remote from transportation, from coal, and from the centers of consumption. They constitute one of the world's copper reserves, of which there are probably more than we realize; they will be attacked when we run out of nearer and cheaper copper, and not before. Of what use to develop a distant field, however rich, when the costs of operation would be ruinously high compared with the existing great mines which are in operation? If the ores were gold ores or silver, instead of being copper, it would be a different story. We should then see no delay in the initiation of a rush like that which flooded the Klondike and Alaska in 1898.

GRANBY SHIPS CONCENTRATES

A report from Anyox says:—When the new concentrator mill was completed last spring, the results of smelting the concentrates immediately afterwards justified the belief that there would be no difficulties in the economic treatment at the Anyox smelter of all the concentrates produced. Since that time, however, smelting problems have arisn, and it has been found necessary to make entirely different arrangements for the recovery of all concentrate values, smelting costs in addition having increased two cents a pound more than was the case before the treatment of concentrates began, which, owing to the low selling price of copper during the past eight months, meant a big loss to the Granby Company and consequently had to be dealt with in the only manner whereby the company would get the best results. It has been decided to ship the product of the concentrator mill direct to Tacoma and shipments will go forward until such time as experiments, being continuously carried on, will justify the smelting of the concentrates entirely at Anyox.

Between fourteen and fifteen hundred tons of Hidden Creek ore were being concentrated daily at the mill and the concentrate result smelted prior to the decision to ship the mill product south, and apart from the increase in smelting costs the recovery of values was considerably below what the management was justified in expecting, a fair percentage of values undoubtedly disappearing up the stacK with the flue smoke.

It is now hoped that the problems responsible for this loss will be solved within the next few months and that the entire output of the mill will be smelted locally.

Because of the decision to ship the concentrates south, it has been found necessary to confine the smelting unit of the plant to three furnaces, with an approximate monthly smelting output of 60,000 tons, local and foreign ores combined. This will affect the smelting and mechanical departments to a certain extent and necessitate a reduction in the number of men employed in these departments.

Happily the concentrator has proved to be all it was designed for and more. Originally intended as a 1000-ton per day unit, Granby men have brought its tonnage treatment to 1500 tons every 24 hours, and it is confidently expected that within the next few months 2000 tons of ore will be handled at the Anyox mill. Everything at present favorably indicates that this will be an accomplishment before the year ends.

In addition to the ores handled by the new mill, the old pilot mill is to be rehabilitated for the treatment of certain ores, and the output of the mine speeded up.

The work contemplated for Granby Point Quartz earlier in the year will not be proceeded with at present, sufficient tonnage of silicous ores coming from Maple Bay and the north end of Larcom Island to supply the flux necessary for smelting the ores treated.

If interested in mining, you cannot afford to miss the News.

The substantial progress of the Mining Industry in this Province is strikingly exhibited in the following figures, which show the value of production for successive five-year periods: For all years to 1895, inclusive, $94,547,241; for five years, 1896-1900, $57,607,967; for five years, 1901-1905, $96,507,968; for five years, 1906-1910, $125,534,474; for five years, 1911-1915, $142,072,603; for five years, 1916-1920, $189,922,725; 1921, $28,066,641; for the year 1922, $35,158,843; and for 1923, $41,304,320.

PRODUCTION DURING LAST TEN YEARS, $350,288,862

Lode mining has only been in progress for about 33 years, and not 20 per cent. of the Province has been even prospected; 300,000 square miles of unexplored mineral-bearing land are open for prospecting.

The mining laws of this Province are more liberal and the fees lower than those of any other Province in the Dominion, or any Colony in the British Empire.

Mineral locations are granted to discoverers for nominal fees.

Absolute Titles are obtained by developing such properties, security of which is guaranteed by Crown Grants.

BOXING BOUT WEIRD REPORT

Considerable amusement has been caused locally by a report published in the Prince Rupert News purporting to describe the recent boxing bout between Geo. Dando of Stewart and Harold Blanton of Hyder, held in the Hotel Stewart Hall. (Notice, the report says the contest was held in the Opera House.) The report was evidently sent in to the paper from here, as it carries a Stewart date line, and published in good faith, but it arouses the merry ha-ha among those who were at the ringside. For the benefit of those who did not see the copy of the Prince Rupert News, the story is here re-published:

"On August 16 in the Opera House here, an eight round bout was staged between Young Dando and Harold Blanton of Hyder, the latter being given the judges' decision by a narrow margin.

"The boys were evenly matched and the contest went the full distance. In the third round Dando had his opponent in distress, and had he followed up the advantage he had at that time his opponent would likely have hit the boards. From this round on both boxers mixed things with Dando going strong and Blanton apparently tiring. Dando scored several times with clean, straight lefts to the face, while Blanton was content to swing wild with many clinches resulting. Dando was pushed to the ropes and forced to cover several times.

"Blanton was given the decision though this was not approved by a majority of the spectators, who would have favored a draw."

CHARLIE BAKER BRANCHES OUT

The following from the Greenwood Ledge will be of local interest:

"Charles S. Baker, Mining Engineer, and generally called 'Colonel Baker,' for several years a resident of Beaverdell and lately at the Indian and other mines, near the Premier mine at Stewart, has returned to Beaverdell and has obtained an option on the well known Rambler claim on Wallace mountain, from W. H. Rambo and his associates.

Mr Baker may acquire other claims on the mountain.

He will commence development work on the Rambler at once.

A number of years ago Colonel Baker ran an assay office in Greenwood, the building having been razed when the post office was built."

Peck Will Ketchum

The scientific sharps have it figured out now that ores are made by a magma. Peck MacSwain says he is going to set a trap this winter and if he catches a magma he will show some of the operators around here something about shipping ore. (Note, for the edification of certain readers, we will explain that this is a joke.—Ed.)

Notice—Dogs coming into the printing office are in danger of being hit by ore samples.
