THE CRESTON REVIEW

Vol. XI. CRESTON, B. C., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 3, 1919 No. 34

Local and Personal

Dr. Lillie will make his next visit to Creston on Tuesday, Oct. 7th, practising all branches of dentistry. He will arrive on the afternoon train.

R. J. McLeod of Trail arrived on Saturday, and succeeds M. J. Boyd, as chief clerk at the S. A. Speers store. He is accompanied by Mrs. McLeod.

Henry Johnson, Fernie's postmaster accompanied by his wife and family, were a party of motorists who visited Creston the latter part of the week. The former was looking after some property interests he has in the Valley.

The management of the Peekin Theatre wish to thank the people for making Saturday night's show such a great success, and will endeavor to keep up the same high standard. Thanking one and all we invite you to call again.

C. S. Cleveland, the provincial comptroller of water rights, Victoria, with W. J. E. Biker, the Kootenay water rights engineer, of Nelson, were here Tuesday and Wednesday looking over the irrigation surveys at Arrow Creek and Canyon City.

Miss Marion Swanson is one of the Creston delegation at the Creston delegation at the Cranbrook fair this week. The unsettled state of the weather on Wednesday prevented the usual number of auto parties making the trip this year.

The dance in Mercantile Hall on Saturday night attracted the biggest crowd that Creston has ever seen at an event of this sort. The music was by the G.W.V.A. orchestra of Nelson. In spite of the host of dancers everywhere had a good time.

Imperial Service Men—You are advised to get into communication with W. H. Roberts, 214 Bower Bldg., Vancouver, B.C., who is able to place you in touch with latest developments regarding Imperial men. Latest news re gratuity. Write at once.

E. Mallandaine got away on Saturday to Vancouver, where he attended the B.C. Conservative convention on Monday and Tuesday, and at which W. J. Bowser was unanimously chosen leader of the party. The Valley had four delegates at the gathering.

C. S. Maharg, C.P.R. superintendent, Cranbrook, was a visitor here for the fair, and also paying an official visit to the local employees. If the present rush keeps up in business here it is likely the company will put in an operator to help out the station staff.

The October meeting of the G.W.V.A. is called for Saturday night. One of the items of business will be the election of a new secretary to succeed R. Sinclair-Smith, who has resigned, due to his land settlement valuation work taking him out of town so much.

Dr. Rutledge and about half a dozen other citizens made up the Cranbrook delegation to the Creston fair. Had sleeping accommodation been available there would have been a crowd of at least half a hundred here. The doctor was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Rodgers.

G. J. Spreull, president of Cranbrook of trade, and W. E. Howard, manager of the Imperial Bank in the same city, were here on Saturday for the fall fair, coming along with Supt. Maharg in his private car. During their stay they were motored over the Valley by R. B. Staples.

Cranbrook Cleaners and Dyers, Cranbrook, B.C., for French dry cleaning, dyeing, pressing, repairing and alterations on all garments worn by man, woman or child. New clothes are expensive. Send your worn garments to us by parcel post. We will make them look like new. Pre-war prices.

But few Crestonites were favored with a glimpse of even the special train that took the Prince of Wales through Creston. He passed as a ship in the night, going through here without the usual stop for water about 1.15 a.m. Thursday morning. He was expected at 10 p. m, and at that hour and even up till 11 the station platform was decorated with a large crowd of citizens.

The Peekin moving picture theatre opened under most auspicious circumstances on Saturday night, the house being jammed to the doors for both shows. The pictures were high class and very clearly shown, although some improvements are this week being made to the curtain that will improve them still more. The Monday and Wednesday night crowds this week were also good.

Friday and Saturdays gale wrought considerable havoc to the lines of the Creston telephone system, and the fore part of the week saw the service somewhat disorganized. The repair crew now has things pretty well straightened out. The most serious mishap was on the stretch of line between the Imperial Bank and the Gateway residence where a couple of poles carrying a heavy load of wires were snapped off near the ground and have been replaced.

The Women's Institute meets in October session on Friday next. The ladies had a very successful day of it serving meals on fair day, and were also on the job for Sunday dinner. Without their dining hall the exhibition crowd would have gone hungry in goodly numbers as the hotel and restaurant accommodation was totally inadequate to handle the big crowd wanting eats. The Institute also catered for the banquet Saturday night. On their whole undertakings they expect to clean up $125.

The worst fall windstorm the Valley has known in half a dozen years prevailed the greater part of Friday last, as well as in a lesser degree on Saturday, with the result that orchardists have suffered a considerable shrinkage in the size of their marketable apple crop. In the Alice Siding section the blow was felt the worst, some ranchers having as many as four boxes per tree blown off. Out in the Erickson section the gale was not so severe. The quantity of windfalls is variously placed up to as high as 10,000 boxes, much of which will be readily marketable as orchard run.

The Why? of Another Victory Loan

WHEN, on the morning of November 11th, 1918, the guns were hushed and glad tidings flashed across the world, there followed with the Nation's Prayer of Thanksgiving, one yearning query, which found echo in the faster beating hearts of wives, mothers, fathers, brothers, sisters and sweethearts. That query was, "How soon will our boy be home?" And, from France and Flanders, from Italy and Egypt, from Palestine and from far-off Siberia, there came an answering echo, "How soon, how soon, may we go home?"

CANADA caught the spirit of these longings, and at once resolved to satisfy them. It was an appalling task. Shipping was tragically scarce. The composition of the Army of Occupation had not then been settled. And other parts of the Empire as well as Canada were looking for the speedy return of their men.

THE problem was this. The half-million men that Canada had overseas had taken more than four years to transport to the field of battle. To bring them home in a few months was a gigantic undertaking—one to tax all Canada's ingenuity and resources. Canada solved the problem, but it meant crowding into a few short months, an expense for demobilization which it was impossible to foresee.

THEN, too, besides the sentimental aspect of the necessity for bringing the men home quickly the economic side could not be overlooked. That was, to transform efficiently and speedily the nation's army of fighters into a national army of workers.

Need Divides Itself in Two Parts The answer to the question "Why does Canada need another Victory Loan?" divides itself into two parts. (a) To finish paying the expenses of demobilization, and the obligations we still owe to our soldiers. (b) To provide national working capital.

Obligations to Soldiers The obligations to soldiers include:

That already incurred cost of bringing home troops from overseas.

The payment of all soldiers still undemobilized. This includes more than 20,000 sick and wounded who are still in hospital, and who of course remain on the Army payroll till discharged.

The upkeep of hospitals, and their medical and nursing staffs, until the need for them is ended

These three items alone will use up at least $200,000,000 of the Victory Loan 1919.

Gratuities There is also the gratuity which has been authorized, and has been and is being paid to assist soldiers to tide over the period between discharge and their re-adjustment to civil life. For this purpose alone, $61,000,000 must be provided out of the Victory Loan 1919, in addition to the $59,000,000 already paid out of the proceeds of the Victory Loan 1918.

Land Settlement Furthermore, soldiers who desire to become farmers may, under the Soldiers' Land Settlement Act, be loaned money by Canada with which to purchase land, stock and implements. The money so advanced will be paid back; meantime each loan is secured by a first mortgage Up to August 15th, 29,495 soldiers had applied for land under the terms of this Act; and 22,281 applications had been investigated, and the qualifications of the applicant approved. For this purpose Canada this year requires $24,000,000.

Vocational Training For this work which, with the Vocational Training and Soldiers' Service Departments, embraces the major activities of the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment, an appropriation of $57,000,000 is necessary.

These national expenditures are war expenses. They will be accepted readily by every citizen who gives thought to the task which Canada faced following the Armistice, and to the success with which she has met it.

National Working Capital Canada needs national working capital, so that she may be able to sell on credit to Great Britain and our Allies the products of our farms, forests, fisheries, mines and factories.

You may ask "Why sell to them if they can't pay cash?" The answer is, "Their orders are absolutely essential to the continuance of our agricultural and industrial prosperity."

The magnitude of these orders and the amount of employment thus created, will depend upon the success of the Victory Loan 1919.

The "Why" of Credit Loans Farmers and manufacturers (and that includes the workers on these orders) must be paid cash for their products. Therefore, Canada must borrow money from her citizens to give credit, temporarily, to Great Britain and our Allies. Actually, no money will pass out of Canada. If Canada does not give credit, other countries will; and they will get the trade, and have the employment that should be ours, to distribute amongst their workers. And remember, we absolutely need these orders to maintain employment. If we don't finance them business will feel the depression, employment will not be as plentiful, and conditions everywhere will be adversely affected.

For Transportation Money must also be available to carry on the nation's shipbuilding programme, and other transportation development work.

For loans to Provincial Housing Commissions who are building moderate priced houses.

These, then, are some of the things for which Canada needs national working capital. She is in the position of a great trading company, and her citizens who buy Victory Bonds are the shareholders.

Those who give thought to our outstanding obligations to soldiers, and to our need for national working capital, cannot fail to be impressed with the absolute necessity for the

Old Folks Need Mild Bowel Tonic

And Should Avoid the Use of Harsh Pills and Drastic Purgatives

Old people, no matter how sound and healthy, should avoid cathartic pills, purgative water, salts and all such temporary relief measures. They ease conditions today, but bind you up worse than ever tomorrow.

It is better to get the bowels into the habit of performing their needful function at a certain time each day, and this can be done by strengthening the muscles of the stomach and bowels by the tonic action of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, a mild laxative that acts as close to nature's way as possible.

Thousands of people, old and young, prevent and cure habitual constipation by using Dr. Hamilton's Pills, a mild yet active medicine that is noted for its promptness in curing headaches, belching gas, sourness in the stomach, fulness after meals, liver soreness and muddy complexion. You'll have the best of health, feel good, eat well, digest and sleep well if you regulate the system by Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut, 25c per box at all dealers.

Thank her he did, and at once, for her gracious reception, taking his chair again when she had seated herself. Then he hesitated for an instant, not awkwardly, but as though trying to decide just how to begin. He was an easy talker, but much attention on a hurried world had taught him to be brief and concise, wasting no time in circumlocution; so that when he spoke, it was directly to the point.

"I was just coming up the Champs Elysees," said he, "and I saw you go into the hotel. It was sort of funny, because there's something that's bothering me a good deal, and I was wishing that I knew of somebody who might be willing to put me right. When I saw you, I remembered how nice you were to me that day you came into the ship, and I thought that, maybe, as I worked for the company—which is sort of like working for your family—you might be willing to give me a little advice." His eyes rest[illegible] on hers with a look of frank, boyish appeal.

"I'm sure I should be very glad to help you in any way I can, Mr. [illegible]," said Ruth. "Has it something [illegible] what I said to you last [illegible]?"

[illegible] Ruggles. "But before [illegible] to thank you [illegible] I've put in my [illegible] membership of [illegible] Wrote it that [illegible] the next day [illegible] Mr. Du[illegible]

[illegible] Ruth softly. She was [illegible] to understand the deeper [illegible] for Ruggles's call. "Tell me about her. But first tell me this: [illegible] didn't you let her know what your work was?"

"She never asked me," said Ruggles. "[illegible] her aunt, Miss Challand. [illegible] only got acquainted with her the [illegible] before you came into the store. By the time I got to know her pretty [illegible] I was waiting to hear that I'd [illegible] the name-ship of the Vienna [illegible] I thought I wouldn't tell [illegible] until I was sure, and [illegible] surprise."

"[illegible]," said Ruth. She had drop[illegible] hand and wa[illegible] through narrowed [illegible]

"[illegible] the Marne," said [illegible] "I [illegible] go out to [illegible] Lagny [illegible] the [illegible] a couple of enough to know. It was merely to—well—to fire your ambition."

"Oh, I wasn't thinking of that," said Ruggles. "You couldn't say anything to hurt anybody's feelings if you tried. Then you believe that a man who tries on shoes is just as good as anybody else?" He gave her a keen look.

Ruth knit her broad brows and reflected for an instant.

"I do and I don't," she answered. "It's like this: If the man whose work it is to try on shoes was as good as lots of other men in brains and body and general strong efficiency, he would not be very long contented at trying on shoes for a living, and he would soon be making a better living at a much less menial occupation. After all, it's rather like a servant's work—fitting clothes of any sort to another person's body. Don't you think so, yourself?"

Ruggles's face clouded as he pondered this point of view for a moment. Then it cleared.

"I guess you're right," said he. "I never looked at it that way before. You see, I never thought much about the people who bought 'em. I was always thinking about the shoes."

"That's the reason," said Ruth triumphantly, "and a very good reason, too."

She was liking Ruggles more and more every moment, and this naive explanation of his pleased her tremendously. Also, it suggested to her mind a quite new idea, which was that while the people who patronize furnishers of various sorts might disregard them, just so might these furnishers disregard their customers except as a means of gaining a livelihood and fitting their handicraft to the objects for which it had been designed. Ruggles's next words crystallized this thought.

"It's like this," said he. "I know how to make shoes and I know how to fit 'em and sell 'em, too. I'm sort of like a blacksmith, as I look at it. But most people have got a good deal of respect for a blacksmith and don't think any the less of him because he fits a shoe to a horse or an ox or a donkey. They don't look at him like as if he was the donkey's servant." He gave her his flashing smile. "In my business, I've shod lots of donkeys—the two-legged sort."

Ruth burst into a laugh, in which Ruggles joined.

"Well," said she, "I think a good deal as you do—but most people don't. Now, there's Dick. He was perfectly happy to work in the factory to learn how shoes were made. But he'd no more try on a pair of shoes for a customer than he would shave him. And if he ever did try, and the customer happened to be disagreeable, the chances are that the company would have to pay for a damage suit and a new plate-glass window for the store."

Ruggles laughed and his eyes kindled. He had often felt that way himself.

"Yes," said he, more to himself than to Ruth. "I'm beginning to catch on. I guess Darthea was right."

Ruth pricked up her ears. "Who is Darthea?" she demanded.

"Darthea? Oh, she's an English girl I know. She came into the store to buy some shoes the other day, when I was at work. I didn't see her, but she saw me. And now she won't have anything more to do with me because I sell shoes for a living. You see, her folks are all swells in England. Her great-uncle was a lord."

"Oh," said Ruth softly. She was beginning to understand the deeper reason for Ruggles's call. "Tell me about her. But first tell me this: Why didn't you let her know what your work was?"

"She never asked me," said Ruggles. "[illegible] her aunt, Miss Challand. [illegible] only got acquainted with her the [illegible] before you came into the store. By the time I got to know her pretty [illegible] I was waiting to hear that I'd [illegible] the name-ship of the Vienna [illegible] I thought I wouldn't tell [illegible] until I was sure, and [illegible] surprise."

"[illegible]," said Ruth. She had drop[illegible] hand and wa[illegible] through narrowed [illegible]

"[illegible] the Marne," said [illegible] "I [illegible] go out to [illegible] Lagny [illegible] the [illegible] a couple of tramps bothering a girl who was painting, all by herself. She'd given 'em a couple of francs, but they had seen some more money in her purse and were trying to scare her into giving it up. I shoved 'em into the river and we both beat it—"

"You shoved them into the river?" Ruth's violet eyes began to glow.

"Yes," admitted Ruggles. "There wasn't anything else to do. They were big, husky fellows and had clubs. I took 'em unawares and pushed 'em over the edge of the bank. Then she jumped on my wheel, and I grabbed up her paint-box and ran after her. I waited, though, long enough to see that they weren't going to drown."

"Oh, you did?" said Ruth. "And what if they'd been drowning?"

"Oh, I suppose I'd've had to try to fish 'em out," said Ruggles. "But there was no danger. One of 'em started to crawl out and come for me, and I whaled him over the head with her easel, then beat it."

He laughed contagiously, and Ruth joined him, although her mirth had a rather peculiar note.

"And what happened then? Was she all alone?"

"Oh, no," said Ruggles. "Her aunt, Miss Challand, was with her, but Darthea had gone out alone to make a sketch of the river. We met Miss Challand coming down the tow-path. That's the way we got acquainted."

"And afterwards?" Ruth asked.

Warming under her sympathy, Ruggles told the rest of his story—of how he had become intimate with the two, walking with them in his free moments, sometimes accompany them on little excursions and to church, or for tea in some modest restaurant. He told also of how Darthea had come into the shop and had seen him trying on shoes, and he showed Ruth the note that he had received that morning from Darthea. Ruth perused it and bit her lip.

"Nasty little prig!" she muttered under her breath.

"What?" Ruggles asked.

"Oh, nothing. And then what?"

Ruggles described his interview of the early afternoon. There came a deep flush into Ruth's soft cheeks as she listened; her dark-blue eyes grew almost black, and she bit her full under lip. His simple narrative finished, Ruggles looked questioningly at her.

"Do you think it was all my fault, Miss Downing?" he asked.

Ruth shook her head. "No," she answered. "I don't think you were in any way to blame."

"Then what do you think I ought to do?" he asked.

"That depends," Ruth answered. "Are you very fond of her?"

"Yes," Ruggles answered frankly. "I think a lot of her. You see, I've got to know her pretty well, and I'm satisfied that she don't understand. She's a mighty nice girl and hasn't got a mean streak in her."

"You're in love with her, I suppose," said Ruth, not as one who asks a question, but as if merely stating a foregone conclusion.

Ruggles sat bolt upright and his eyes grew very round.

"In love with her!" he gasped. "Why—no—nothing of the sort. I've never for a second thought that way about Darthea. Why—it's ridiculous! I guess I've given you a wrong idea about the business, Miss Downing. I just liked her an awful lot and admired her looks and her talent. She's painting a picture for the Salon right now; a dandy picture of an old mill on the Marne. But I never thought about being in love with her—Gee!"

"Did you ever think about her being in love with you?" asked Ruth.

Ruggles stared. "Her in love with me! Say, you're trying to kid me, Miss Downing." His voice held a note of reproof.

"I'm doing nothing of the sort!" said Ruth, crisply. "I'm not that sort. What I'm trying to find out, in order to help you as much as I can, is why you should both be so cut about this thing unles you're in love with each other."

"Oh, I beg your pardon, Miss Downing. I see what you mean." Ruggles leaned forward in his chair, regarding her intently. "Well, it's sort of like this. You see, I'm all alone in the world, and sometimes I kind of miss what most other people have got—somebody besides myself to think about. If I had a mother or a sister it would be different, I su'pose. Well, Darthea seemed to me to be just what I needed that way. She and her aunt are pretty poor, I guess, and they thought that I was well fixed and didn't mind letting me do little things to help us all to have a good time—like going to tea at the Pre Catelan or having a picnic on the river or something of that sort. It never amounted to anything so far as the cost went, and we had a lot of fun. But that was one reason why I never told 'em that I was a clerk in a shoe-store. I was afraid they might think I was spending more than I could afford, and not want to go any more. But, let me tell you, I was never so happy in my life, and why? Just because it seemed like I had somebody beside myself to think about. But there was never any love business about it one way or the other. We've always been just good friends."

"I understand," said Ruth. "And you feel now as if some of your family had gone back on you through no fault of yours. Well, do you know what I would do in your place?"

"No," said Ruggles. "That's just what I want to find out."

The Source of the Discontent

Much of the discontent of wage-workers has come of the apprehension they felt lest prices should outstrip pay. If they can be convinced that prices have halted they will feel positive relief in many cases in spite of having their pay remain what it is.—New York Sun.

LISTEN TO THIS! SAYS CORNS LIFT RIGHT OUT NOW

You reckless men and women who are pestered with corns and who have at least once a week invited an awful death from lockjaw or blood poison are now told by a Cincinnati authority to use a drug called freezone, which the moment a few drops are applied to any corn, the soreness is relieved and soon the entire corn, root and all, lifts out with the fingers.

It is a sticky ether compound which dries the moment it is applied and simply shrivels the corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. It is claimed that a quarter of an ounce of freezone will cost very little at any of the drug stores, but is sufficient to rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or callus.

You are further warned that cutting at a corn is a suicidal habit.

Hundred Bushels To Acre

Eighteen Acres Yields 1,800 Bushels of Oats on Portage Farm

Portage la Prairie, Man.—Eighteen acres of oats yielded one hundred bushels per acre on the Fulton farm at Oakland. The land had received careful attention, but the total of 1,800 bushels was a surprise even to the producer. The oats were of the ordinary Banner variety. The land on this farm has been cropped for 40 years, and a return of this quantity indicates the marvellous soil quality of Portage Plains. The oats sold at Oakland on car at 82 cents per bushel.

London.—A royal warrant has been issued substantially increasing army pay. Second lieutenants are to receive £394 and £448 sterling annually if married and £320 to £375 if unmarried; lieutenants, £448 to £503 if married, and £375 to £429 if unmarried. Captains and majors receive equivalent increases. A colonel is to receive £1,242 if married, and £1,184 if unmarried. The increases given to men are unchanged from those already announced.

Care should be taken to strain the lemon juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan and is the ideal skin softener, whitener and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any drug store and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quarter pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands.

TEETHING TROUBLES

Baby's teething time is a time of worry for most mothers. Baby's little gums become swollen and tender; his bowels get out of order and constipation, colic or even diarrhoea sets in. To make the teething period easy Baby's Own Tablets should be given the little one. They sweeten the stomach; regulate the bowels and keep baby good natured. Concerning them Mrs. Marcel D. LeBlanc, Memramcook, West, N.B., writes: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for the past six years, and have found them indispensable. To my mind, nothing can equal them in allaying the fever accompanying teething. I would not be without them and can strongly recommend them to other mothers." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Brazilian Property In Germany Is Safe

London, England. — A German wireless message states that it has only now become known in Germany that in Brazil the view is generally held that Brazilian property in Germany was confiscated during the war. In contradiction of this it can be stated that such property has been neither liquidated nor subjected to compulsory control.

Long Standing Asthma. — Many have suffered so long from asthma and have tried so many so-called remedies they think that there is no real help for them. They should read the letters received by the manufacturers of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy from hundreds of cases once as desperate as their own. Even in long-neglected cases this famous preparation brings prompt help.

No Deviation From Evacuation Policy

When Porrs Become Closed British Troops Will Have Left

London, England. — When interviewed at the War Office regarding certain allegations made by Col. Sherwood Kelly to a British newspaper in respect of the North Russian operations, a high official denied that there was or had ever been the slightest intention of deviating from the settled policy of British evacuation from North Russia, and gave the assurance that when the ports became closed it would be found that the British troops would have left. The generals on the spot have their orders, which apply to North Russia generally, and there is no intention of holding on to Murmansk.

CRESTON, B.C., FRIDAY, OCT. 3

Sirdar

Mrs. Loasby is a Cranbrook visitor this week, where she is officiating as judge of the cooking at the big East Kootenay fall fair in that city. This is her second year on the work, she and Mrs. Ross having acted as judges in 1918. A ntmber of others from here are also in Cranbrook for the show.

About forty of our citizens made the trip to Creston on Saturday night in the one-car special which was running early in the evening to accomodate those who wished to see the fair, and take in the first performance at the moving picture show.

Horace Wright passed through here a few days ago from Nelson going to Lister, where he will take up land in the soldier settlement area.

Messrs. Mannerino and Jansen, two of our down Kuskannook way citizens were at Creston on Saturday settling up some dispute in the police court in that town, the information having been laid by Mr. Jansen. Peace and harmony is like to reign now as we hear both parties were bound to keep the peace for six months.

After almost eighteen years continous residence in one house, Mr. and Mrs. Loasby are forced to vacate the premises due to the extension to the roundhouse necessitating the use of the property. They have moved into the Pascuzzo house, recently occupied by Bert Ross.

Considerable headway is being made on the erection of the new roundhouse which is in shape of extension to the old one 100 x 40 feet. The turn table is also being enlarged a matter of ten feet in width as compared with the one previously used. Between these improvements and others at the landing it is stated the C. P. R. will spend half a million dollars here this year.

Canyon City

D. Rodgers, who has been visiting with friends at Sackatchewan points the past two months, returned to Canyon last week.

Considering the dirty weather Canyon was well represented at the Creston fair, the mill employees utilizing the Kelly truck for transportation purpose for part of their crowd, which stayed in force for the dance. The Knott apiary scored a decided success. The judge of honey offered to buy all their surplus supply of the sweet stuff at a very attractive price.

The Con. Hall ranch is reported sold under the soldier loan scheme to a Mr. Davey and family, who will take possession at once. Mr. and Mrs. Hall will likely go east for an extended and well-deserved holiday.

Bert Whimster of Fernie came in a few days ago and is busy at clearing operations on about 90 acres of land the Whimsters own the hill above the siding. It is likely they will put a number of cattle on it when available.

Land clearing operations at Lister will be expedited by the use of the Company's caterpillar engine, which will start work at stump pulling in a few days.

Friday's windstorm brought down a considerable quantity of apples in the local orchards. Matt. Clayton will be the heaviest loser. He has the D. Rogers orchard leased, and out of a prospective crop of 1000 boxes about 200 of them are now windfalls.

A dance and entertainment is announced for tonight at the schoolhouse at 8 prompt, the proceeds to be used for the erection of a suitable memorial to the two Canyon men, John Wood and Bobby Smith, who were killed in the great war. Everybody welcome. Gents $1, and ladies free.

Auto Runs Off Ferry

S. A. Speers and his party of Nelson business men who were seeing the flats on Sunday morning had a very lively experience when the McLaughlin car they were in ran off the Kootenay River ferry, the car going head down into about two feet of water. The ferry was insecurely moored and just as the car was running off the ferry started to swing into the stream. Fortunately the back end of the machine stayed on the ferry and in that way prevented the scow from swinging any further out into the stream. Frank Tompkins, with one of the Reclamation Farm teams, was summoned to the rescue, and after a couple of hours work getting chains and tackle around the machine it was hauled out, and to the surprise of all the engine ran as well as ever.

Erickson

Messrs. Person and Willson started work last week on the new residence C. Kelsey is erecting on the ten acre ranch property he purchased last year from Alex. Duperry. The house will be occupied about the end of October.

The Dominion Express Co. have closed up their office at the station here, which haa been open for three months, and now shippers have to await the train's arrival as of yore. Miss Swanson, who was in charge for the most part of the time gave splendid sftisfaction all round.

Mrs. J. S. Peek and family, who have been guests of Mrs. G. Cartwright for about ten days, left on Monday on the return to Edmonton. Miss Melva Cartwright, who was here for the fair, returned to Cranbrook on Sunday.

Mrs. H. B. Downs is spending a few days with Cranbrook friends this week, while taking in the fall fair.

Mrs. Maxwell got back from a two weeks' visit at Nanton and Calgary, Alta., on Tuesday.

W. V. Jackson is at Cranbrook the fore part of the week, where he is in charge of the big fruit display the Creston Board of Trade is making at the fair there. Practically all the fruit shown at Creston went down.

The windstorm, which played havoc with the apple crop on Friday and Saturday was not as severly felt here as at other points in the Valley. Down Alice Siding way it is reputed to have blown four and five boxes off most of the trees. Through here the showing would be little over a box to each tree.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Long and Walter Hall got away on Saturday to Vancouver, where they are delegates to the B. C. provincial Conservative convention.

Alf. Palmer was a business visitor at Nelson a couple of days early this week.

PYREX

Transparent Oven Dishes

Save Fuel, Food and Labor

Pyrex saves about one-half the fuel usually required, because it absorbs nearly all the oven heat and bakes food quickly.

It saves food in many ways. Meats, vegetables, etc., when cooked in Pyrex, retain their natural flavor to such a degree that economy may be practised in buying the less expensive kinds and yet have delicious foods.

Pyrex saves labor—it is always free from grease and odors, for nothing can penetrate the hard, smooth surface. You can wash it as easily as your china and silver.

Every practical shape and size for baking is made in Pyrex.

We invite your inspection of a complete line of PYREX now on display.

Minimum price of first-class land reduced to $5 an acre; second-class to $2.50 an acre.

Pre-emption now confined to surveyed lands only.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes and which is non-timber land.

Partnership pre-emptions abolished, but parties of not more than four may arrange for adjacent pre-emptions with joint residence, but each making necessary improvements on respective claims.

Pre-emptors must occupy claims for five years and make improvements to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivation of at least 5 acres before receiving Crown Grant.

Where pre-emptor in occupation not less than 3 years, and has made proportionate improvements, he may, because of ill-health, or other cause, be granted intermediate certificate of improvement and transfer his claim.

Records without permanent residence may be issued, provided applicant makes improvements to extent of $300 per annum and records same each year. Failure to make improvements or record same will operate as forfeiture. Title cannot be obtained in less than 5 years, and improvements of $10.00 per acre, including 5 acres cleared and cultivated, and residence of at least 2 years are required.

Pre-emptor holding Crown grant may record another pre-emption, if he requires land in conjunction with his farm, without actual occupation, provided statutory improvements made and residence maintained on Crown granted land.

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites; title to be obtained after fulfilling residential and improvement conditions.

For grazing and industrial purposes areas exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or company.

Mill, factory or industrial sites on timber land not exceeding 40 acres may be purchased; conditions include payment of stumpage.

Natural hay meadows inaccessible by existing roads may be purchased conditional upon construction of a road to them. Rebate of one-half of cost of road, not exceeding half of purchase price, is made.

PRE-EMPTORS' FREE GRANTS ACT.

The scope of this Act is enlarged to include all persons joining and serving with His Majesty's Forces. The time within which the heirs or devisees of a deceased pre-emptor may apply for title under this Act is extended from for one year from the death of such person, as formerly, until one year after the conclusion of the present war. This privilege is also made retroactive.

No fees relating to pre-emptions are due or payable by soldiers on pre-emptions recorded after June 26, 1918. Taxes are remitted for five years.

Provision for return of moneys accrued, due and been paid since August 4, 1914, on account of payments, fees or taxes on soldiers' pre-emptions.

Interest on agreements to purchase town or city lots held by members of Allied Forces, or dependents, acquired direct or indirect, remitted from enlistment to March 31, 1920.

SUB-PURCHASERS OF CROWN LANDS.

Provision made for issuance of Crown grants to sub-purchasers of Crown Lands, acquiring rights from purchasers who failed to complete purchase, involving forfeiture, on fulfillment of conditions of purchase, interest and taxes. Where sub-purchasers do not claim whole of original parcel, purchase price due and taxes may be distributed proportionately over whole area. Applications must be made by May 1, 1920.

GRAZING.

Grazing Act, 1919, for systematic development of livestock industry provides for grazing districts and range administration under Commissioner. Annual grazing permits issued based on numbers ranged; priority for established owners. Stock-owners may form Associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits for settlers, campers or travellers, up to ten head.

Good Roads In The West

The article appearing in this column last week dealing with the influence and effect of good all-the-year roads upon school attendance, better schools and the development of rural high schools, concluded with a reference to what the Province of Quebec is doing in good roads building and the markedly beneficial effect it is having on agriculture, industry and education in that Province, and how enthusiastically the people there are in support of a continuance of a policy which is creating such an improvement in the life and prosperity of the Province.

What is being accomplished in Quebec is not only of direct benefit to that Province, but indirectly it benefits Canada as a whole, although, it must be admitted, the effect will not be very noticeable in these Western Provinces except that, insofar as Quebec advances, the whole Dominion is advanced and benefitted by what has been regarded as our most backward Province coming in line with the other Provinces. The good roads program of Quebec is a sign of an awakened Province, and those roads will prove a most influential factor in making the Province still more progressive.

The question is: Are the other Provinces of Canada, and more particularly these Western Provinces, going to emulate Quebec's example in respect to good roads construction? It can hardly be doubted but that they will, and the question then arises, how soon are they going to begin to create a system of hard-surfaced main highways? The further question presents itself: Is the [illegible] an opportune time for the inauguration of such a policy?

[illegible] Is the accept- [illegible] to give a few [illegible] The Do- [illegible] recently pro- [illegible] to be paid [illegible] on a population [illegible] period of five years, [illegible] construc- [illegible] the grant the [illegible] spend an [illegible] to become [illegible] ent. That [illegible] supplied [illegible] Provinces must [illegible] Dominion [illegible] within the policy for the construction of per- [illegible] the Pro- manent hard-surfaced main roads.

vinces will have to furnish $30,000,000, thus providing a grand total of $50,000,000, or $10,000,000 a year to be spent on highway construction in Canada. Surely, therefore, now is the time above all others to embark on a program of construction of permanent roads, and not merely makeshift dirt roads.

Of this $20,000,000 of Dominion money, the three Prairie Provinces will receive the following amounts: Alberta, $1,478,000; Manitoba, $1,602,000; Saskatchewan, $1,806,000, a total for the three Provinces of $4,886,000—say, in round figures, $5,000,000. The Provinces will be required to furnish an additional $7,500,000, thus providing an annual sum of $2,500,000 for the next five years. If this money is wisely expended on permanent roads, Western Canada at the end of the five-year period will have something to show in good roads, and we venture to predict that the advantages resulting from such highways will lead the people to insist that the good work be continued.

The next question that will present itself is: Can these Western Provinces finance their proportion of this program, and at the same time continue to spend the large sums necessary in these new Provinces on what are pioneer roads and which must be built to enable farmers in remote districts to get to market, Let us take Saskatchewan as an example, and what is true of it is proportionately true of Manitoba and Alberta.

In this present year of 1919 Saskatchewan will derive a revenue from automobile licenses of upwards of $800,000. Saskatchewan's annual grant from the Dominion under the proposed new highways scheme will be $361,200 a year, which will call for a further provincial expenditure of $541,800. Saskatchewan can find this from its automobile license revenue and still have a quarter of a million dollars left over. And surely automobile license moneys should be spent on roads, and good hard-surfaced permanent roads at that.

Furthermore, if our Western Provincial Governments take over full responsibility for the building and maintenance of certain main roads in municipalities, and thus relieve the municipalities of all expenses in connection therewith, the municipalities benefically affected thereby could, in turn, well afford to forego the small grants of a few hundred dollars they may now receive from the Province. For every dollar they thus relinquished they would receive several dollars back in the form of permanently constructed and maintained main roads.

The largest number of automobile owners in these Western Provinces are farmers. Hard-surfaced roads will extend the period of time in the year that motor cars can be used, and will reduce the wear and tear on the same, thus increasing their value to the farmer. Their greater value and utility will lead to a further increase in the number of cars used, and, consequently, provide a still larger license revenue from which a consistent and ever larger program of good roads construction can be carried on.

The moral of the situation would seem to be that every Western farmer should become a good booster, and should bring all possible legitimate pressure to bear upon his Provincial Government to embark upon a well-planned, progressive policy for the construction of permanent hard-surfaced main roads.

Prohibition Helps Boston To Save

Save About $100,000 This Year In Cost of House of Correction

Boston.—Boston will save about $100,000 this year in the cost of the House of Correction on Deer Island, as a result of prohibition, it is announced. Already $25,000 of the appropriation granted for the institution this year has been turned back.

Since July 1 the population of the institution has declined rapidly. In 1915, the number of inmates was about 1,100. There are now only 300. One of the prison buildings will be abandoned this winter, and this step will mean a large saving in coal. Although employees have generally received increases in pay since 1915, it is estimated that the cost of Deer Island this year will be only $202,403.36, as against $305,679.78 in 1915.

PAINFUL RHEUMATISM

May Be Driven Out of the System By Enriching the Blood

In the days of our fathers and grandfathers rheumatism was thought to be the unavoidable penalty of middle life and old age. Almost every elderly person had rheumatism, as well as many young people. Medical science did not understand the trouble—did not know that it was rooted in the blood. It was thought that rheumatism was the mere effect of exposure to cold and damp, and it was treated with liniments and hot applications, which sometimes gave temporary relief, but did not cure the trouble. In those days there were thousands of rheumatic cripples. Now, medical science understands that rheumatism is a disease of the blood, and that with good, rich, red blood any man or woman of any age can defy rheumatism, can be cured by killing the poison in the blood which causes it. There are many elderly people who have never felt a twinge of rheumatism, and many who have conquered it by simply keeping their blood rich and pure. The blood making, blood enriching qualities of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is becoming every year more widely known, and it is the more general use of these pills that has robbed rheumatism of its terrors. At the first sign of poor blood, which is shown by loss of appetite, palpitations, dull skin and dim eyes, protect yourself against the further ravages of disease by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They have cured thousands of people—if you give them a fair trial they will not disappoint you.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Completing Pulp Mills

In Two Months Operation Will Probably Be Inaugurated

Victoria, B.C. — The large pulp mills which are being erected at Beaver Cove, up the coast, are fast nearing completion. In two months operation will probably be inaugurated with a product of fifty tons of paper a day. A large number of returned soldiers have been given employment at the plant. A railway for hauling the timber will be constructed and work has been started on the town site. Manager White expects that the new industrial centre will have a population within three years and in time emulate such paper towns as Swanson Bay, Ocean Falls and Powell River. There is a steady market for paper on the Pacific, the United States, Australia, New Zealand and Japan being regular buyers.

Webster On "Morale"

MORALE (Mo-ral) n. (F. See Moral, a) the moral condition, or the condition in other respects, so far as it is affected by, or dependent upon, moral considerations, such as zeal, spirit, hope and confidence; mental state, as of a body of men, an army, and like.

WHAT is Dr. Webster's definition. Many of us know the word only in its war-time application.

Webster dwells firstly upon the usage of the word "morale" as applied to the common-place happenings of every-day life. His allusion to its reference to an army comes later. And Webster is correct—meticulously so.

It was their private-life morale that made such splendid soldiers of our boys when the time came for them to don the khaki. It was that, and that alone, that made them take the first step, and it was that which carried them through to victory. If their every-day morale had been neglected, the Army could have done little with them and success would not have crowned their efforts.

It is the many little incidents of your daily routine that make up your morale—the morning shave, your clean linen, polished shoes, brushed clothes. Webster speaks of zeal, spirit, hope and confidence. It is by attention to the small details of your personal appearance that these may be attained.

The Gillette Safety Razor enters as much into the morale of every-day life as it did into that of the trenches. It helped our soldiers to maintain their confidence and bearing. It will do the same for you. The Gillette Safety Razor makes the daily shave come easy—there is no pulling or scraping—no honing, or stropping—just five minutes of perfect shaving comfort. And, afterwards, a chin that tells of morale and self-respect.

Sold at most stores catering to men's needs.

London.—Premier Lloyd George, speaking before the International Brotherhood Congress, as was expected, did not touch upon many of the important questions in which the nation is deeply concerned.

The Premier was given an enthusiastic reception, and began by saying that a political platform was not involved at the meeting. "If I made a political announcement," he added, "I should feel that I was outraging the hospitality of the brotherhood."

He expressed the hope that all armaments would disappear and that the long drawn misunderstandings between Ireland and the rest of the kingdom would also pass.

"I am looking forward," he continued, "to seeing waste in all forms disappear and a new Britain springing up—a really free land, free from poverty, from the tyranny of mankind over mankind. Some people seem to think that I have accepted the position of leading counsel for the old order. Rather than that, I would throw up my brief tomorrow."

Concluding with an appeal for fair play among all classes, he exclaimed:

"It is not sufficient to say we have won the war. We want to reclaim the wildernesses of the world, and redress wrongs. That is due to the immortal dead. They died for the redemption of the world."

Thomas Howell, a Canadian delegate, in seconding the vote of thanks to the Premier, said he understood Mr. Lloyd George intended to visit the western world. In this case, Mr. Howell said, he hoped the brotherhoods of the United States and Canada would have an opportunity to greet him on their platforms.

Mr. Lloyd George, in acknowledging the vote, referred to the possibility of a visit to America.

Kingston Editor Goes to Saskatoon

Kingston, Ont.—J. Courtland Elliott has retired from the Whig editorial staff to accept the position of assistant to Prof. W. Swanson, head of the department of political science in the University of Saskatchewan, at Saskatoon. Mr. Elliott is a graduate in arts of Queen's University and is a son of J. G. Elliott, ex-president of the Canadian Press Association.

British Profiteers Scared

London.—The profiteering act, despite its defects, seems to have had a rapid frightening effect, for prices have already dropped in several districts.

Some local bodies refuse to appoint commissions to administer the act locally, but the refusal is generally followed by indignant protests from the inhabitants.

HOW MRS. BOYD AVOIDED AN OPERATION

Canton, Ohio.—"I suffered from a female trouble which caused me much suffering, and two doctors decided that I would have to go through an operation before I could get well.

"My mother, who had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, advised me to try it before submitting to an operation. It relieved me from my troubles so I can do my house work without any difficulty. I advise any woman who is afflicted with female troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and it will do as much for them."—Mrs. MARIE BOYD, 1421 5th St., N. E., Canton, Ohio.

Sometimes there are serious conditions where a hospital operation is the only alternative, but on the other hand so many women have been cured by this [illegible] Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after doctors have said that an operation was necessary—every woman who wants to avoid an operation should give it a fair trial before submitting to such a trying ordeal.

If complications exist, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for advice. The result of many years experience is at your service

Sir Oliver Lodge on Atomic Properties

Hopes We Will Not Know Their Power Yet

Birmingham, Eng. — Sir Oliver Lodge, the eminent scientist, in an address at Midland institute in connection with the memorial ceremonies held on the occasion of the one hundredth anniversary of the death of James Watt, inventor of the steam engine, again touched upon the subject of atomic properties of matter.

Sir Oliver declared that the first utilization of atomic properties of matter was in wireless telephony. He added that if the atomic energy of an ounce of matter could be utilized it would be sufficient to raise the German ships sunk in the Scapa Flow. He said, however, that he hoped the human race would not discover how to use this energy until it had brains and moral strength to use it properly, because if the discovery were made before its time, and by the wrong people, this planet would be unsafe.

German Troops For Baltic Front

All Warnings of Allies Are Disregarded in Monarchic Designs, Vorwaerts Asserts

Berlin.—The assertion is made by the Vorwaerts correspondent that the German militia in the Baltic provinces is rapidly growing and that officers and men are arriving there daily from Germany. Even the smallest places in Courland are strongly occupied.

Posters displayed in the office of Staff Captain Stoewer, at Bausk, Courland, says the correspondent, read:

"Fight for the kaiser and the empire against democracy. We had rather die than be dishonored."

"Pretense is being made of the disbandment of a few units," the correspondent adds, "but troops are being transferred to Admiral Kolchak's army."

School Lands For Soldiers

Manitoba Lays Six Million Acres of Unimproved Lands Before Men

Winnipeg.—By an order-in-council passed, Acting Premier Hon. Edward Brown and the provincial cabinet placed six millions of acres of unimproved farm lands on the market for returned soldiers. This is the greatest move made by the government up to the present time for the re-establishment of returned men.

The order-in-council provides for the establishment of an arbitration board to determine the price the province shall receive for its land. Geo. A. Metcalfe, administrator of succession duties for the provincial government, will act as arbitrater for the province of Manitoba. The federal government will also name a member of the arbitration board.

The land which has been thrown open is all unimproved, much of it suitable for farming. The land is known at the present time as provincial school lands. The value placed on it in the public accounts of 1918 is $13,000,000.

Fiume Isolated By Italy

Investigation Has Shown That Plan Originated in Venice

London. Fiume has been isolated from the world by the Italian government, which is apparently taking steps to meet the situation that has arisen through the action of Captain d'Annunzio in forcibly taking possession of the city and in forcing allied and Jugo-Slav forces to leave. The [illegible] was closed, and since that time little has been learned of events in the city.

Investigation of the incident has shown, according to advices, that the plan to seize Fiume originated in Venice, the prefect of which city is said to have been involved.

Will Bring Down The High Prices

Judge Robson States That Price Probe Will Cover All Necessities

Winnipeg. — Judge H. A. Robson, chairman of the board of commerce, declares that drastic action cutting down the cost of necessaries will be taken by the board of commerce just as soon as the evidence at the different probes has been taken.

No advance on necessaries will be tolerated, he said, and the board aims to prohibit the sale of all fancy bacons. The retailer who takes a profit in excess of one cent per pound on any sale of sugar is liable to prosecution. This applies to Winnipeg dealers and is not limited to the East, Mr. Robson emphasized.

Regulations covering all packing plants and including such products as butter, eggs, cured meats and cold storage products in general will be drafted shortly. The order will be very definite, Mr. Robson said.

The board will deal with all necessaries of life, including boots and clothing, Mr. Robson said. Prosecution will be made in every case where there is violation of the set profit by dealers. The board itself may impose the fines or institute criminal proceedings against the guilty parties.

Mr. Robson was not ready to give an outline of the provisions to be made for checking up of violations of the board's orders, but declared that every complaint brought to the board would be fully investigated and dealt with immediately and to the full extent of the law.

Cost of living probes are about to be instituted in Calgary, Edmonton and Regina, Mr. Robson said. He has just wired the appointment of men to take charge of these probes. Major Duncan Stewart will conduct the hearing in Calgary, S. W. Fieldhouse in Edmonton, and James S. Rankin in Regina.

Irish Daily Newspaper Is Suppressed

Cork Examiner Accepted Announcement for Prospectus of Irish Loan

Dublin.—The determination of the authorities to repress all manifestations of republican activities is shown by the suppression of the Cork Examiner, one of Ireland's chief daily newspapers.

Although it is a constitutionalist organ and opposed to the Sinn Fein, the Examiner printed a page prospectus of the republican loan, assuming, it is declared, that the prohibition of references thereto which existed under the censorship lapsed with the withdrawal of the consorship.

The military authorities, however, retain full powers, and raided the premises and removed part of the plant.

The same advertisement was offered to the Dublin dailies, which refused the risk.

Ten Regiments To Defend Fiume

Italian Nationalists, Although Suppressed, Are Still Aiding in Movement

Rome. — D'Annunzio's force, according to the Idea Nazionale, consists of ten regiments, in addition to four battalions of Fiume volunteers. He has occupied a fortified line around Fiume as a strategic position.

The citizens are supporting d'Annunzio, the newspaper adds, and are determined to destroy the town should resistance prove impossible.

The Nationalists are organizing demonstrations throughout Italy in favor of d'Annunzio. The government, however, is energetically repressing these.

Death of W. C. Gurney

Toronto. — W. Cromwell Gurney, president and general manager of the Gurney Foundry Company, Limited, died from heart failure while in the office of his physician. He was a son of the late Edward Gurney, founder of the Gurney Foundry Company, whom he succeeded in the presidency of the company, and was in his 46th year.

French Troops Are Sent To Armenia

Paris. — Ten thousand French troops are to be sent into Armenia through Mersina and Alexandretta, according to an understanding reached by the British and French for a realignment of their forces in Asia Minor. These troops will replace the British troops for the most part, and while the number is not large enough to keep up a line of communication far north into Armenia, it is generally agreed the French will have a steadying effect on the Armenian situation, even if they do not proceed far north of Mardin (Mardin) and the line of the Bagdad railway.

The interior of Armenia is mountainous and military men are agreed that a force of 10,000 probably cannot risk an extension from the Mediterranean to Erzerum, Trebizond and other points near the Black Sea, where the Armenians are hard pressed by the Kurds, Turks and Georgians. It is not known how soon the French forces will be able to reach Alexandretta and Mersina.

Million Pounds Of Bacon In Storage

W. F. O'Connor Anxious to Know If Price Cannot Be Lowered

Toronto.—W. F. O'Connor, K.C., vice-chairman of the Board of Commerce, proposes that Canadian consumers of bacon shall have an opportunity to get in some of the bacon sides which have been exported to the old country and sold at comparatively low prices. He intimated, after E. C. Fox, general manager of the William Davies company, and J. A. Nelson, superintendent of the Davies' retails stores in Toronto, had given evidence, that a million pounds of this commodity is at present locked up in the Davies plant, awaiting a day on which the English consumer has used up the supply of Wiltshire sides he has on hand, would be coralled for home consumption.

To Mr. Fox's explanation that this was inferior bacon to that sold in Canada, and was sold at less cost in consequence, Mr. O'Connor wanted to know if it were not possible to sell the cheaper bacon in Canada. "We have come to the stage," he declared, "where the other bacon is too expensive."

Mr. Fox said the Canadians would not buy the cheaper bacon that was sent to England.

"It may be worth while to test with this million pounds to see if you have difficulty in disposing of it," retorted Mr. O'Connor.

"Certainly, we would be glad to try it," he added.

The commissioner told Mr. Fox that the Canadian consumer was not getting a square deal when his bacon cuts were regulated by European famine prices. "Personally," he said, "I think it would be a good thing in Canada for those in control to say to the producers of bacon, 'You have got to supply your Canadian trade at fair prices before we allow you to forfeit that stuff out of the country."

Mr. Fox repeatedly denied that the William Davies company was interested in any packers' combine. "Then why is it," asked Lieut.-Col. Price, counsel for the board in the enquiry, "that the prices remain about the same for one week in the stockyards?"

"I suppose because we all know about what the other fellow is doing and we all have the same selling margin," was Mr. Fox's reply.

Mr. Fox promised to produce a chart giving detailed information as to costs, selling prices and profits.

Superintendent Nelson, of the Davies company, said his efforts were directed toward keeping prices down and getting the volume of business. The higher the selling price of any commodity, the less his concern could make out of it, he said.

At the conclusion of Mr. Nelson's testimony, Commissioner O'Connor said:

"You have undertaken to say that you are not making any profit. We will find out what the profit is before we are done here."

To Allay Unrest

Less Likelihood of a Railway Strike Among Shopmen

Toronto.—There is little likelihood of labor trouble among the railroad shopmen on the Canadian railroads, according to J. Clarke, schedule representative of Canadian railroads for the International Union of Boilermakers, the headquarters of which are in Kansas City.

Mr. Clarke is in Toronto at present to allay unrest among railroad shopmen, who are uneasy because of the delay in dealing with their grievances, which came before the Canadian Railway Board in May and were deferred until the demands of the United States railway workers were satisfactorily settled.

Russian Front Combined

Paris. — Through the capture of Onega by the anti-Bolshevik forces, communication has been established between the allies on the Archangel and Murmansk coast fronts.

Paris. — Ten thousand French troops are to be sent into Armenia through Mersina and Alexandretta, according to an understanding reached by the British and French for a realignment of their forces in Asia Minor. These troops will replace the British troops for the most part, and while the number is not large enough to keep up a line of communication far north into Armenia, it is generally agreed the French will have a steadying effect on the Armenian situation, even if they do not proceed far north of Mardin (Mardin) and the line of the Bagdad railway.

The interior of Armenia is mountainous and military men are agreed that a force of 10,000 probably cannot risk an extension from the Mediterranean to Erzerum, Trebizond and other points near the Black Sea, where the Armenians are hard pressed by the Kurds, Turks and Georgians. It is not known how soon the French forces will be able to reach Alexandretta and Mersina.

Stamping Out Profiteers

British Government Classes Profiteers With Rats and Other Vermin

London.—Charles McCurdy, parliamentary secretary to the Food Minister, declared that the government classes profiteers with rats and other vermin, and is determined to stamp them out. Mr. McCurdy was speaking at the opening day of the administration of the new Profiteering Act and alluded to the new Canadian statute dealing with a similar evil.

Criticism against the English act is mainly on the ground that it will never touch the big profiteer, but merely render the small trader liable to espionage and persecution. Meanwhile, street markets are increasingly instituted in the crowded streets. Their establishment is frequently followed by a drop in prices at the neighboring shops.

The lack of housing accommodation is certainly as vital a problem as profiteering.

Riga Peace Meeting

Copenhagen.—An important conference has been in session at Riga regarding not only peace with the Soviet government in Russia, but the formation of a Baltic federation, according to advices from Lettish sources. There has been no actual acceptance of the Soviet government's terms, but, on the whole, it appears that the Baltic federation has materialized to the extent that an agreemen has been reached for a customs union of Letovia and Lithuania.

Soldiers Are Homeless

London. — Houseless ex-soldiers at Newport, Monmouthshire, interrupted the borough council meeting, protesting from the gallery. There were, they claimed, 600 homeless families in the town. Liverpool corporation is spending £22,000 in converting army huts into private dwellings. Other local authorities are also attracted by this temporary solution.

Marshal Foch Lost Only Son

Paris.—Marshal Foch has recently asked the Belgian government to have a search made for the body of his son who was killed in August, 1914, in the Belgian Ardennes.

Marshal Foch has religiously refrained from mentioning his lost son and few knew that the younger Foch was killed earlier in the war.

Wonderful Wireless Tests

New London, Conn.—A radio experiment made on Fort Trumbull in Long Island Sound by the experimental station, naval section, established communication, both telephone and telegraph, from a hydroplane flying nearly 2000 feet in the air and a submerged submarine several fathoms in the water.

Lone Bandit's Deed

Lewistown, Mont.—A lone bandit, unmasked, with a gun in either hand, held up the Buffalo State bank here, escaping with more than $600. Several posses are now searching for the outlaw.

Business Men's Visit

The visit of Nelson business men to Creston, as guests of the local board of trade, on Saturday and Sunday last, for the purpose of seeing the fall fair display as well as investigating the possibilities of Kootenay flats and its reclamation, was highly successful throughout. In the neighborhood of forty representative citizens, who [illegible] Veterans band and orchestra, made up the party, who arrived at noon on Saturday.

Saturday afternoon was taken up seeing the fair while at night a banquet was tendered them, spread in the Grady building, with the Women's Institute members in charge of the catering. Sunday morning a fine supply of cars were available and the [illegible] trip over the flats on out to Lister or [illegible] them, however, took the flats p and it certainly was a case of they came and they saw and were convinced of the tremendous benefit that would accure to the province were drainage accomplished.

The banquet was in charge of the board of trade, and in the neighborhood of sixty Nelson, Cranbrook and Creston citizens sat down to the spread of good things to eat, as well to enjoy the flow of oratory that followed. The feature of the banquet was the passing of a resolution endorsed by responsible citizens of both East and West Kootenay, calling upon the provincial government to turn the flats over to the Dominion for reclamation, to be followed by soldier settlement. The resolution was moved by J. R. Hunter, president of Nelson board of trade, and seconded by C. O. Rodgers, president of Creston Valley Agricultural Association.

The speechmaking at the banquet was of quite high order throughout, the whole evening being well handled by President Constable, who spoke to splendid advantage in introducing the toast to reclamation. F. A. Starkey of Nelson was heard to advantage in handling the mining feature of the toast to mining and agriculture, while Mr. Sterling and Mr. McCullough, both of Nelson, also pleased with their remarks on the toast to Highways and Irrigation respectively.

Kitchener

The disagreeable weather kept down the Kitchener attendance at the Creston fair to about twenty. Among those who were at the exhibition were Miss Rutlede, Misses Laura and Edith Geroux, Mrs. McGonegal, Mr. and Mrs. A. Cameron, and Messrs. B. Johnson and Jud Fulmer.

H. A. McKowan is about the only local resident who has knocked off for the Cranbrook fair. He went up on Tuesday.

Archie Keir, who has been haying at the Reclamation Farm, at Creston, for the past month, has returned to Kitchener. Good weather prevailed and no trouble was experienced putting up the supply.

E. McGonegal has a crew of of men at the old mill site loading poles.

Capt. and Lionel Forrester are home again from Ymir, where they have been for a couple of weeks, doing some work on mining claims in that section.

Local hunters are having considerable luck in getting deer. Already this season Ernie Driffel has taken two of them, and Messrs. Hanson and Spence one each.

Operations continue on the road diversion at Goat River Crossing. Owing to the shortage of help it will take contractor Hunt well into October to finish the job.

The biggest boost the school furnishing fund has yet had came on Sept. 20th, when the ladies put on a box social and dance at the school for that cause. The affair was a grand success in every way, the eighteen boxes that were auctioned bringing in $102—Miss Rutledde, the teacher, securing top price at $14. Good music was furnished for the dance, and everyone had the best of good times all through the evening.

The Fall Fair

An explanation is due REVIEW readers for the non-apperance of an article covering the 1919 fall fair, which was staged last Saturday. We had the story ready to put into type when the plates and instructions to commence the Victory Loan advertising came, and which deprived us of about four columns of space that was intended for reading matter, all of which will appear in our next issue. Those interested in the fair will be pleased to know that the gate receipts were at least 50 per cent. greater than a year ago, despite the miserable weather that prevailed the day before as well as fair day, and that the number of entries was just a little over a hundred below the showing of a year ago.

Cooler Weather Wear

These frosty mornings feelingly remind that the cooler weather is not far off, and that it is not a bit too early to be investigating stocks of cooler weather wear.

This season it will be particularly good business not only to investigate but also to buy early. The supply of heavy wearables is limited, and there is no certainty of some lines being replaced. This week we draw special attention to a showing of

Sweaters
Heavy Underwear
Heavy Socks
Heavy Pants
Gloves. Mitts

Buy your fall and winter needs from these lines early, making sure of quality at a moderate price.
