Mindful of this, one may better understand his position in regard to the four lovely girls who at this time inhabited his haremlik and whom he had taken as his adopted daughters. The kindly old Ottoman had chosen them with care, and had destined them for better things than the semi-slavery of the orthodox Turkish woman. He had occupied himself with their education, and denied them nothing which it was good for them to have. Also, he had watched and guarded them with the care of a fond parent, and although they were free to come and go, whether on the Bosphorus, in their lacquered caique or Hamid Pasha's small steam-yacht, driving in the landau behind the high-mettled horses which were a cross of Arab and al'achian, shopping in Peru at the Bon Marche—no matter where, they were invariably chaperoned by governess or duenna. They repaid him in affection and the pleasure which he took in their beauty and accomplishments.

Inconceivable as it may seem to the Occidental mind, Hamid Pasha's attitude and relations toward these four charming inmates of his haremlik had never been other than that of a kindly and indulgent parent. All were musical, whether vocally or instrumenta'ly. All were trained dancers, and one, a ruddy nymph from Tiflis in Trans-Caucasia, had been trained in the Circassian sesture dance. Hamid Pasha had secured her at a high price from a Crimean merchant of such wares, be it understood with the full approval and consent of her family.

There were also in this coterie a Turkish girl, plump, pretty, and mischievous as a kitten, a girl from eastern Roumelia, who resembled one of the damask roses of which the culture is the principal industry of this region, and a downy-lipped damsel from Crete, whose reigning passion appeared to be rahat lahkoum (fig paste), usually to be found somewhere about the person of Hamid Pasha when he went in to play with his pets.

Before the war he had been wont to spend an hour every evening in the haremlik, precisely as a man might go to a theatre or cafe chantant, listening to the girls' music, watching their dances, often bestowing little presents. This was his pleasure and repose.

Ruggles read on while Hamid Pasha listened, his eyes resting on the opposite European shore or wandering wearily from one to the other of the brilliant notes of the broad panorama spread before him. Off Galata and the mouth of the Golden Horn was anchored a small fleet of foreign men-of-war and the mellow sunlight flashed from their bright work and played creamily on their multi-colored ensigns. A stream of traffic disturbed the cobalt waters; beyond the sun lay in yellow highlights and mauve shadows on the drab walls against the hill of Pera, while in the farther distance rose the ramparts of the great Yildiz Kiosk, the home of Sultans; at this moment occupied by perhaps the last Padisha to defend the Faith of Islam on its throne in the city of Constantine.

The terrace on which the two men sat was a charming retreat. Masses of wistaria rioted over the ancient walls, and to the right one glimpsed through a vista in the plane trees a flower garden which Hamid Pasha had surrendered to nature, an encroacher on his lordly domain for whom he had great tolerance. This garden was his favorite retreat when in need of an hour of contemplation, and beyond keeping the path to the central peristyle surrounding an ancient fountain clean and freshly sanded, his gardeners did nothing there. Roses and jasmine, dwelling in sweet accord, hid the Parian marble of the columns and gloried in their wild disorder. At the far end was the fragment of a loggia belonging to a former palace which Hamid Pasha had preserved because of the Byzantine entablature through which the little path led, and where one might part the ivy and discover a beautiful tracery of such mosaic work as may be seen today in the celebrated mosque erected over the body of the very sacred Abu Eyub Khalid Ensari, at Eyub Sultan, near the head of the Golden Horn.

Hamid Pasha loved his wild, happy little garden. He reserved it to himself, and the nightingales which sang the night through from the great Polonia tree, now heavy with blossoms, which overspread the Persian fountain.

Ruggles finished his reading of "Super Flumina Babylonis," and then, as Hamid Pasha made no sign, he turned to "A Watch in the Night," the preceding poem in the edition. At the last verse Hamid Pasha stirred amongst his cushions.

"Liberty, what of the night?—
I feel not the red rains fall,
Hear not the tempest at all,
Nor thunder in heaven any more.
All the distance is white
With the soundless feet of the sun.
Night, with the woes that it wore,
Night is over and done."

"Yes," said Hamid Pasha, "'night is over and done.' Day is often night—just as death is life." He raised his eyes to a great, billowy, cumulus cloud which was drawing itself slowly across the face of the sun. "It is going to be darker in a moment, and then my nightingales will begin to sing. Let us wait for them, my son."

Ruggles laid aside his book. Hamid Pasha reached an emaciated hand to the inlaid tabouret between them and touched a silver bell. A servant, awaiting the summons, appeared with a tray which held some tiny golden cups, a spirit lamp, and coffee ground to an impalpable flour. Silent as a ghost, he prepared the decoction, served it, and withdrew.

They sipped their coffee without speaking. Then Hamid Pasha, student, scholar, and colonel in the Ottoman imperial army, and Ruggles, late salesman in the Paris branch of the Walkeasy Shoe Company of America, leaned back in their reclining chairs and watched the vivid life of the Bosphorus. Ruggles was the first to break the silence. He had sighted a small power boat with a Red Cross flag at her bow, bobbing about in the eddies close under the shore.

"Here comes Dr. Pembroke, sir," said he.

"Indeed? Ah, yes, quite so. I see the Red Cross." He touched his bell.

"Lord Pembroke is coming," said he in English, without looking to see that the servant was at his elbow.

"Yes, excellency," replied a hushed voice. "Mustapha is waiting at the landing."

CHAPTER XII.

Pembroke did not leave the palace that night.

All that was mortal of Hamid Pasha left it at sunrise, when he requested to be carried to a balcony, and there, after having quietly enjoyed the colors and odors of the dawn and listened to the song of the nightingale, that was busily encouraging its mate in the ivy, from the heights of the Polonia tree, Hamid Pasha remarked for the benefit of his soul,—and that of others who might care to listen—that there was no God but God; then went to meet this Deity, or one of his representatives.

Ruggles mourned sincerely for his kindly patron, although Pembroke had prepared him for the event. Hamid Pasha had received a penetrating gunshot wound of the liver. The ball had been extracted and the wound skillfully treated. In a younger man recovery would have been undoubtedly complete, but Hamid Pasha had passed his seventieth year, and despite a rugged constitution the wound refused to heal, daily sapping his strength until the worn-out physical machinery lacked the force to continue its revolutions.

"The Ottoman Empire and I are in a similar state," the old man had said to Ruggles, "and I am glad that I shall be spared the pain of witnessing the death agonies of my beloved country. It is God's will. It is Kismet. Turkey has for many years been the Sick Man of Europe. Amputation after amputation has been performed, but the cancer, the gangrene, was too deeply seated for any hope of recovery. When the Padisha Abdul Hamid II. came upon the throne we had lost Bosnia, Bulgaria, and Montenegro. Servia and Rumania were independent. Russia had regained the portion of Bessarabia which she lost in 1856 and held in an iron grip her Asiatic conquests, Kars, Ardahan, and Batoum. We ceded the Island of Cyprus to England and Thessaly gave itself to Greece. But worst of all, we have been these later years a house divided against itself. The children have raised profane hands against the mother. On her sick-bed they quarreled for the division of her jewels. God, in his wisdom, has seen fit to chasten us, but why continue to struggle at the cost of such human suffering as we have both witnessed? Many of us older children were prepared to aid the Padisha with out fortunes and our health, but it was not the Padisha or his empire that would have benefited. Kismet."

Keeping Fit

BY DR. SAMUEL HAMILTON.

It is because of the war that the perfect physical man has all at once become the idol of the world. You can make of yourself, even rather late in life, almost anything you like. You are not going to get fit in one day, one month, or, perhaps, a year, unless you take enough outdoor exercise to keep the circulation going and practise the athlete's first principle—to keep the system clean. He does not give his body a chance to absorb poisons. He not only takes his cold shower, after exercise, but he knows a cleansing of the intestines is important, and he takes occasionally a good regulator and liver cleanser, such as a dose of castor oil, or, what is much better, a tiny pill made up of May-apple, aloin and jalap, and sold by almost all druggists in the land as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

Keep the kidneys in good order also. Avoid too much meat, alcohol or tea. Drink plenty of pure water, preferably hot water, before meals, and drive the uric acid out of the system by taking "Anuric" (anti-uric acid). This can be obtained at almost any drug store.

Send a bottle of water to the chemist at Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., and you will receive free medical advice as to whether the kidneys are affected. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog, you suffer from backache, sick-headaches, dizzy spells, or twinges and pains of lumbago, rheumatism or gout; or sleep is disturbed two or three times a night. Take heed, before too late! Get Anuric (anti-uric-acid), for it will put new life into your kidneys and your entire system. Ask your nearest druggist for it or send Dr. Pierce ten cents for trial package of "Anuric"

TONIC TREATMENT FOR THE NERVES

Neuralgia and Other Severe Nervous Disorders Cured Through the Blood

In many severe nervous disorders the best remedy is often a tonic. The most active tonic treatment is recommended by the highest medical authority to arrest the progress of such disease. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a tonic that acts on the nerves through the blood, which carries to the nerves the elements needed to build them up and restore them to a normal condition.

Neuralgia, sciatica, nervous headaches and a number of more severe nervous troubles are properly treated by building up the blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and are often entirely cured in this way. If you are nervous you can help yourself by refusing to worry, by taking proper rest and sleep, by avoiding excesses and by taking out-of-door exercise. For medicine take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and you will soon notice the beneficial effect of this tonic in every part of the system. Miss Annie L. Johnston, R.R. No. 1, Listowel, Ont., is one of the numerous sufferers from nervous troubles who has found a cure through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Miss Johnston says: "For a long time I was a severe sufferer from nervous troubles, with the result that I grew very pale and weak. Medical treatment did not help me, and various medicines had no beneficial effect, until finally a friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I began their use and took the pills regularly for several months, with the result that I not only gained weight, but have recovered my full health and strength. I cannot praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills too highly for what they have done for me."

To build up the blood there is one remedy that has been a household word for a generation, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. They tone up the entire system, make the blood rich and red, strengthen the nerves, increase the appetite, put color in the cheeks and lips and drive away that unnatural, tired feeling. Plenty of sunlight, good wholesome food and fresh air will do the rest. You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Bank of England has the right to sell beer without a license. This privilege was granted to the bank in its charter of incorporation under date of July 27, 1694. And so the bank, if it liked, could open a bar on Threadneedle street, or could send wagons round and deliver beer from door to door. Needless to say, however, it has never attempted to exercise the privilege.

GIRLS! DRAW A MOIST CLOTH THROUGH HAIR.
Let "Danderine" save your hair and double its beauty

Oh, girls, such an abundance of thick, heavy, invigorated hair; a perfect mass of wavy, silky hair, gloriously fluffy, bright and so easy to manage.

Just moisten a cloth with a little "Danderine" and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; this magically removes all dirt, excess oil and grease, but your hair is not left brittle, dry, stringy or faded, but charmingly soft, with glossy, golden gleams and tender lights. The youthful glints, tints and color are again in your hair.

"Danderine" is a tonic-beautifier. Besides doubling the beauty of the hair at once, it checks dandruff and stops falling hair. Get delightful Danderine for a few cents at any drug or toilet counter and use it as a dressing and invigorator as told on bottle.

Heart Disease and Nerve Troubles Sweep the Country

Probably at no period in the world's history have heart and nerve troubles been so prevalent as they are today.

The heart can't stand the stress and strain of this busy, bustling age, and the care and worry, the anxiety and activity of business life, constitute a serious drain on the nervous system.

The business of this work-a-day world goes with such a rush that the stoutest hearts and strongest nerves break down under the strain.

On the first approach of any breakdown of the system, Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills should be taken. The reconstructive power of these pills on the heart and nerve system is simply marvellous.

Mr. W. A. Wright, Hopewell Ave., Ottawa, Ont., writes: "After suffering for some time with my heart, I consulted a number of doctors, but got no relief. However, I read what Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills had done for others, who had the same symptoms and thought I would give them a trial. Believe me, six boxes cured me completely. I am feeling fine now, and can attend to my work every day. I can recommend your pills to anyone suffering as I did."

Clean the Chimney

Cooler weather demands the lighting of heaters and furnaces. Before this is done, however, chimneys, flues and stove-pipes should be thoroughly cleaned out and made safe. This is not a difficult matter, and is much preferable to being turned out of the house on a cold night by a fire caused by dirty pipes or chimneys.

Some surprise might be caused to the owner of a building damaged by fire from such a cause if the insurance company declined to pay the loss. This the company has a perfect right to do, as it is distinctly stated on all fire insurance policies that the company is not responsible for fires caused by negligence on the part of the assured.

The "Act to Amend the Crimnal Code Respecting Prevention of Fire" passed at the last session of Parliament, distinctly states:

"Every one is guilty of an indictable offence and liable to two years' imprisonment who by negligence causes any fire which occasions loss of life or loss of property."

With the possible loss of insurance and two years imprisonment as a penalty, it is not wise for the householder to neglect his stove-pipes and chimneys.

In the Old Country

Canadians who contemplate going to England, with the possible intention of visiting friends, had better reconsider their decision. The British Ministry of Food has recently issued an edict to the effect that no household in the United Kingdom shall entertain a guest for a period of over four weeks, this being made necessary owing to the food shortage. The order is, as a matter of fact, a polite invitation for visitors from other lands to stay out of the British Isles, until, at least, such time as there is sufficient food.

The privations which the people of Britain are still suffering on account of the war are little appreciated in this country which is a veritable land of plenty in comparison. An ounce of butter per week, and difficult to obtain even in such meagre quantities; milk on short rations to all children and invalids, and coal selling by the pound with the quantity limited to but a fraction of what one would burn in this country even in the mildest autumn weather, are among the numerous items which restrict one's diet and lends to one's discomforts.

Take the matter of taxation as another instance of how heavily the hand of war is being laid upon the British people. War taxation in Britain has hit tens of thousands of retired, pensioned, and independent people, who prior to 1914 considered themselves financially well off for life. Take the case of a business man who retired at 60 years of age on an annual income of $500, or nearly $2,500. Before the war that income would be subject to an income tax of 1s. 2d., about 28 cents in the pound, which would leave him £470 to live upon very comfortably when the sovereign was worth 20s. What is that man's position to-day? The tax upon that £500 is termed unearned income, would reduce it to about £350, which would have a spending value of only half this amount, or £175.

B.C. Politics

The overthrow of the Hearst Government in Ontario and the success of the United Farmers' and Labor candidates in the recent general elections have given impetus to a movement toward a third party in British Columbia. What was merely tentative for months is fast reaching definite shape. The plan is to include the war veterans, organized labor, farmers and independents of all descriptions under one banner and to go after every public office in sight, inclucing municipal, provincial and federal seats. The movement was first started in Vancouver when representatives of several small organizations got together and launched the United Public Service Council. Then overtures were made to organized labor and to the war veterans with some success, but as stated there was not a great deal of enthusiasm until Ontario showed the possibility for a great independent movement. Branches are being formed all over the coast province and friendly pourparlors have been opened with the Farmers' Associations. Rumor has already selected a leader for the movement in the person of Lieut. Colonel J. W. McIntosh, M.D., M.P.P. Dr. McIntosh was elected as a Liberal at the last generat elections, but since his return from the front he has been a very luckwarm party man. In fact during the last session he was leader of what practically amounted to a soldiers' party of five. The present adminstration is not popular with the war veterans and the Conservatives are only now pulling themselves together after the disastrous defeat of 1916, so that the prospect of a third party succrss at the next general elections does not look at all remote. It all depends on how far the soldiers, farmers and labor can coalesce their views. The Farmers alone cannot do a great deal because there are not enough of them in British Columbia. At the outside there are not over ten agricultural ridings. Labor might be counted on for three or four more seats. It is the forty thousand war veterans in the province who will be the decisive factor when Primer Oliver goes to the people.—Toronto Saturday Night.

Lister

Saturday night, Nov. 23nd, a concert and dance was held to celebrate the completion of the school building at the Settlement—one of the first notable strides forward that has been made in keeping Lister up to date. A very large crowd filled the building to overflowing, friends from Crestor, Canyon City, Huscroft's and Porthill coming to join in the rejoicing of a new neighbor long before J. McGee, the chairman of the school board, opened proceedings. His remarks, which were closely followed, dealt with the remarkable progress made since the inception of the Settlement in this area to the present date. Col. Fred Lister, the popular superintendent, gave a short address, emphasizing the splendid way all had co-operated to make the Settlement second to none in the Dominion, and he felt that the same excellent spirit would continue. Miss Nellie Chalmers opened the concert with a recitation, displaying considerable elocutionary ability. Mrs. Fred Lister delighted with a violin solo, and was obliged to respond with an encore. Mrs. Stones' recitation was given in good style and received with prolonged applause which continued until another equally-popular number was given. The piece de resistance—if a choice is permissible out of such an excellent psogramme—was the pianoforte solo by Mrs. Crandall, her sympathetic touch holding the audience spellbound, and she had to favor with a well-merited encore. Mr. Simonson, Mr. Charleson, Mr. Soane and Prof. Harry Brown shared with the ladies the honors of a splendid entertainment. Mr. McGee, the chairman, was in great humor, delighting the audience with his running commentary on the capabilities of the various performers. Mrs. Bagshaw, wife of Trustee Bagshaw, was super-superintendent of refreshments, and to her hard work is largely due the success of this feature of the evening. A word of praise is due the ladies who under rather trying circumstances catered so satisfactorily to the wants of the inner man. After supper dancing was indulged in to music furnished by Creston orchestra, which kept excellent time, and added much to the pleasure of all. Dancing continued well into the wee sma' 'oors.

In anticipation of an early exodus to their own homes some of the men have been busy digging wells. These are under excavation on the lots of Messrs. Fox, Butler, Filmer, McLeod, Stevens, Stones and Mitchell.

MAKE CO-OPERATION CO-OP.

Co-operation, like democracy and other fine words and phrases, needs to be practised to be appreciated.

As a term it has no value. As a principle it is valueless until applied. We have suffered from a democracy that would not democ. It is to be hoped that we will not have a co-operation that will not co op.

Co operation is the philosophy of the farmers' movement. At its lowest form it represents a method by which the weak may become the strong. Convinced of weakness the individual gives support and seeks support from his fellows. If sufficiently strong to combat every obstacle the individual would never seek co-operation. Self-preservation is the first urge toward united action. This impulse underlies all group organization in history. It is the very basis of the nations.

But co-operation involves u moral principle in that it must have regard for the good of others. It implies the truth that toe best for the individual can only be secured when the whole group secures the best.

This gradually leads us away from self in that we must first seek the good of all before the individual good is possible.

Some day we may be able to seek the highest good for all without the contemplation of self. We are not there yet, but such are the possibilities of co-operation. Groups that today are trying to co operate within themselves will some day co-operate with each other. Then we will have a new system; a new world.

Meanwhile we are in the A B C class. Co-operation, like charity, begins at home. If a man cannot co-operate with his wife in his home, or his neighbor in the field, he is a long way from taking his place in a co operative world. It is a bad policy to attempt to do by ourselves that which two or more of us cannot do better than one of us.

Equal partners in the home, and neighborly co-operation in the field and in the community will lead to the higher co-operation which we are all thinking about. We must begin where we are and go step by step to the higher plane of social life. This, we believe, is the only way to make co-operation co-op. COM.

Synopsis of Land Act Amendments

Minimum price of first-class land reduced to $5 an acre; second-class to $2.50 an acre.

Pre-emption now confined to surveyed lands only.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes and which is non-timber land.

Partnership pre-emptions abolished, but parties of not more than four may arrange for adjacent pre-emptions with joint residence, but each making necessary improvements on respective claims.

Pre-emptors must occupy claims for five years and make improvements to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivation of at least 5 acres, before receiving Crown Grant.

Where pre-emptor in occupation not less than 3 years, and has made proportionate improvements, he may, because of ill-health, or other cause, be granted intermediate certificate of improvement and transfer his claim.

Records without permanent residence may be issued, provided applicant makes improvements to extent of $300 per annum and records same each year. Failure to make improvements or record same will operate as forfeiture. Title cannot be obtained in less than 5 years, and improvements of $10.00 per acre, including 5 acres cleared and cultivated, and residence of at least 2 years are required.

Pre-emptor holding Crown grant may record another pre-emption, if he requires land in conjunction with his farm, without actual occupation, provided statutory improvements made and residence maintained on Crown granted land.

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites; title to be obtained after fulfilling residential and improvement conditions.

For grazing and industrial purposes areas exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or company.

Mill, factory or industrial sites on timber land not exceeding 40 acres may be purchased; conditions include payment of stumpage.

Natural hay meadows inaccessible by existing roads may be purchased conditional upon construction of a road to them. Rebate of one-half of cost of road, not exceeding half of purchase price, is made.

PRE-EMPTORS' FREE GRANTS ACT.

The scope of this Act is enlarged to include all persons joining and serving with His Majesty's Forces. The time within which the heirs or devisees of a deceased pre-emptor may apply for title under this Act is extended from for one year from the death of such person, as formerly, until one year after the conclusion of the present war. This privilege is also made retroactive.

No fees relating to pre-emptions are due or payable by soldiers on pre-emptions recorded after June 26, 1918. Taxes are remitted for five years.

Provision for return of moneys accrued, due and been paid since August 4, 1914, on account of payments, fees or taxes on soldiers' pre-emptions.

Interest on agreements to purchase town lots held by members of Allied Forces, or dependents, acquired direct or indirect, remitted from enlistment to March 31, 1920.

Controlling the Liquor Traffic

The most efficient method of controlling the liquor traffic with the object of eliminating the abuses and excesses which seem to be inseparable from it has long been the subject of agitation and legislation. Possibly no one question has resulted in the passage of a greater volume of legislative, the enactment of more restrictive laws, or the taking of more votes, than that of public control of the traffic in intoxicants. And notwithstanding it all, we are still far from having solved the problem in a satisfactory manner.

The outbreak of the Great War, and the imperative necessity imposed upon all nations of conserving their resources in man-power, productive capacity, and food supplies, led to the enactment as war measures of stronger restrictive measures than had ever before been generally acceptable to the masses of the people. Many ardent temperance reformers believed that these restrictive laws would be continued after the war, and that in a generation or two the blight of the liquor traffic would be an evil of the past.

It is now quite apparent that many of these restrictive laws will cease to function with the declaration of Peace,—which may be proclaimed for the British Empire before this article appears in print, and in any event cannot now be long delayed. One reform brought about by the war will, however, prove lasting; that is, the open bar with all its evils and open temptations, and its pernicious treating habit, has gone never to return.

Actual experience during the war has demonstrated that existing prohibitory legislation is not as conclusively prohibitive as the authors of such laws anticipated they would be. On the contrary, violations of the law are so numerous, and are so little regarded by the average person, that a condition of things has been brought about in all these Western Provinces which is little short of a scandal, and which is certainly detrimental to a proper respect for law and observance of good morals.

In the United States the people have declared for the total prohibition of the sale, manufacture, importation and exportation of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes. In Canada, on the other hand, we have no prohibition law, or at present does there [illegible] of such a law being passed. For one thing, the Canadian Senate has shown very clearly that it will not give approval to such legislation, and the House of Commons has ever before it the attitude of Quebec, which is antagonistic to an absolutely prohibitory law.

Control and restriction of the liquor traffic in Canada continues, therefore, to be a subject for provincial action, supplemented by such Federal action to assist the provinces as the provinces by vote of their people may demand.

According to legislation passed at the recent special session of Parliament, the manufacture of liquor is prohibited, except for purposes of export, in those provinces which prohibit the sale. Furthermore, the importation of liquor into individual provinces can be made illegal if the legislature of a province asks by resolution that a plebiscite vote be taken by the Federal authorities within such province on the subject of importation, and a majority of the voters declare in favor of prohibiting such importation. But after peace is proclaimed, and until such a plebiscite is asked for and held and a verdict favorable to prohibition rendered, importation of liquor for personal use, but not for sale, will be perfectly legal in all Canadian provinces. Thus the prohibitions which have been in force under orders in council will cease with the proclamation of peace.

So long as importation into a province is legal, it is manifestly impossible for any provincial legislature or government to enforce prohibition of the liquor traffic. It can prohibit the sale of liquor, but that is all. And so long as importation is legally permitted existing abuses against which a large section of the people are complaining will continue. And at the best it will not be impossible to stop such importation for from six months to a year.

When such a plebiscite vote is eventually held in any province, and if the popular verdict should be to permit importation, then the provincial authorities will have to seriously consider whether it would not be better to provide for some form of regulated and controlled sale within the province, rather than have the door left wide open to indiscriminate individual importation of liquor in unlimited quantities. Should the people of a province declare in favor of permitting importation, most thoughtful temperance advocates believe that some form of government dispensaries based on the mail order system, and patterned somewhat after the system which at one time was in vogue in Saskatchewan, should be established.

On the other hand, if the people declare against importation, then the utmost care must be exercised in the drafting of the most drastic kind of provincial laws to prevent a repetition of abuses which are now unfortunately so general.

Whatever the nature of the laws enacted, they must have back of them the force of a strong public opinion in order to prove effective and beneficial. In the last analysis it is the people who make the laws, and unless a law has the support of the people it will not be observed and cannot be enforced.

A keen blade for every shave

If there's any pleasure to shaving, you get it in an AutoStrop Razor. First, because there's always a sharp blade ready for use—a few turns on the strop brings it back to its professional keenness. Secondly, because there's no fussing with parts after shaving. And thirdly, because a simple adjustment makes it possible for you to shave as closely or as lightly as you wish.

From first to last, sharpening, shaving and cleaning, you never need to remove the blade from the razor.

Western Canada's 1919 Crop

While exact figures are not yet obtainable, wheat authorities now seem to be conforming to the general opinion that Canada's total yield of wheat this year will be 248,000,000 bushels, as compared with 189,000,000 bushels last year. Of this crop, the share of the Western Provinces is 166,000,000 bushels, or over two-thirds of the total yield.

In addition, one of the most reliable sources in Canada has estimated that the West will produce 227,000,000 bushels of oats, 37,000,000 bushels of barley, 6,000,000 bushels of flax, and over 2,000,000 bushels of rye.

A Remarkable Record

In the five and a half years that elapsed since the Saskatchewan Agricultural Co-operative Association Act came into operation, 465 co-operative associations have been registered. This is a remarkable record. On October 29, Saskatchewan Co-operative Creameries Limited will begin to operate poultry killing stations at Regina and Saskatoon, where chickens, turkeys, ducks and geese may be marketed. This system of co-operative marketing has achieved much success in former years.

HEALTH FOR THE BABY

The baby of today is the man or woman of tomorrow. Thus the success of the future man or woman depends upon the baby's present welfare. If the baby is sickly and ill-nourished, it is not to be expected that he will grow into a strong, active man who will hold his own in the business world a few years hence. Mothers, it is a duty you owe the future to keep your little ones well now. This can be easily done if Baby's Own Tablets are kept in the house. The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach, and thus make baby healthy and strong. Concerning them Mrs. W. Orser, Elginburg, Ont., writes: "I have a fine healthy boy three years, and have used Baby's Own Tablets for him ever since he was a small baby. I certainly think them a splendid medicine." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers, or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

How strange the old-time pictures of sport would look today—baseball teams boasting at least half-a-dozen sets of whiskers—full-bearded cricketers—champions of the scull with their chins concealed.

Today the athlete knows the importance of the well-shaven chin. He is conscious that he is most keen when he is well-groomed—just as is the business man and the soldier.

For men who love outdoor life and sports, men of virile minds and active bodies, we have designed a Gillette Safety Razor with an extra stocky handle—the "Bulldog" Gillette, shown to the left.

Not that the Gillette needs a sturdy grasp. A light touch, with the angle stroke, removes the most stubborn beard with surprising comfort.

But there is a certain appeal in the thicker handle of the "Bulldog". Ask to see this special set and appreciate the point for yourself.

The case, you will notice, is almost as compact as the famous Pocket Edition Gillettes, and the price is the same, $5.00.

Sold by all dealers catering to men's needs.

U. S. Government Gathering in Reds

Centralia.—Cities of western Washington joined Centralia in arresting members of the Industrial Workers of the World and raiding their headquarters, following the firing on an Armistice Day parade here. Four former United States soldiers are dead and a fifth is reported dying as a result of the shooting, and one alleged I.W.W. has been lynched.

Twenty-two men and one woman, reported to have radical beliefs, were placed in jail here, and later four of the prisoners, including the woman, were removed to the Lewis county jail at Chehalis by national guardsmen, who patrolled Centralia. Raids were conducted at Seattle, Tacoma and Aberdeen in the I.W.W. headquarters.

In Seattle, fourteen men and tons of literature, according to the police, were taken to police headquarters. The Tacoma police arrested thirty-four members of the I.W.W. and seized a quantity of radical literature.

At Aberdeen, large quantities of literature and the records of the Aberdeen local of the organization were taken.

Lost at Sea

Two of the Crew of H.M.S. Renown Swept Overboard

New York.—William Franklin and John Laight, able-bodied seamen of the crew of the British battle cruiser Renown, were lost at sea when the Renown, plowing through a gale, was coming here from Trinidad to take the Prince of Wales home.

Midshipman Richard Knight was taken from the big battle cruiser to the Presbyterian hospital with both legs broken as the result of tempestuous weather.

Shortly after running into the gale, Midshipman Knight, with a crew of four, hastened to make fast some of the movable gear of the ship. While they were working, a heavy sea swept over the bows and jammed them against the breakwater, fracturing the midshipman's legs and carrying Laight overboard.

A lifeboat was lowered, manned by a crew of fourteen. As this boat reached the water it was capsized by another huge wave and its occupants were thrown into the sea. General quarters were sounded and a portside lifeboat was lowered. All of the crew of the first lifeboat except Franklin were rescued.

Referendum Probable In Manitoba

Liquor Action Will Not Be Taken Up at Same Time as Elections

Winnipeg. — As soon as peace is officially signed, the importation of liquor into Manitoba will be legal, J. N. MacLean, administrator of the Manitoba Temperance Act, announced.

He stated he found a clause in the Act which can be invoked to prevent export of liquor from this province. With regard to the attitude of the provincial government, Hon. Mr. Brown stated that it is their desire to have the people express their wishes in regard to referendum, but it is unlikely that such referendum would be submitted at the time of the elections next summer as the issue might becloud party platforms.

Cabinet and Irish Question

British Government Is Much Embarrassed by Publication of Plan for Settlement

London.—The cabinet is about to take up consideration of the proposals of the cabinet committee on the subject of Ireland.

It was learned from authoritative sources that the government is much embarrassed by the publication of what is purported to be the government plan for the settlement of the Irish problem. The Associated Press is officially informed that all stories hitherto printed are necessarily speculation and incorrect, because the government has not yet formulated its proposals and cannot until the committee's report is considered.

War Board On The Car Shortage

Railway War Board Issues Statement Dealing With Handling of Coal and Feed

Winnipeg.—Owing to unusual conditions through the West prevailing, the western branch of the Railway War Board issued this statement:

"The demands made upon the railways equipment and facilities in Western Canada during the past two or three weeks have rarely been exceeded. This is due to a variety of causes. In the first place, owing to the three months' strike in the Western Canadian mines, many points in the prairie provinces were caught by the early coming in of winter, practically without any coal whatever, and the sudden severe weather which has extended all over the West has created an unprecedented demand for coal. The tonnage of western coal being handled to Manitoba and Saskatchewan is tremendously greater than has been handled in previous years, and this means a heavy coal movement in the same direction with grain and stock, and the handling of thousands of empty cars west of the mines. This coal to a large extent formerly came in the grain empties returning from the lake head, but the shortage of American anthracite this year and the greater favor in which western coal is now held for domestic purposes has caused an enormous increase in the movement from the western mines, and has placed upon the railways a correspondingly increased burden.

"The dry season in Southern Alberta and Southern Saskatchewan, resulting, as it has, in large sections of stock-raising territory being denuded of feed, has caused an extraordinary heavy movement of stock from these sections to the markets, as well as a large movement from these sections to portions of northern Alberta and Saskatchewan where feed is plentiful, or can be produced, and the railways are also being called upon to handle thousands of cars of feed into the drought areas, which are not handled in ordinary years. The heavy snowfalls made it necessary that this stock be moved out and feed handled at once, to prevent suffering, and the railways are exerting every effort to accomplish this.

"The severe weather, resulting as it has in stoppage of fall-plowing and other farm work, has been followed by heavy increases in grain marketing, and this, together with the demand for increased exportation of wheat, has added to the burdens of the railways.

"A very acute shortage of cars in the United States has made it exceedingly difficult to secure return of Canadian cars going into the States loaded, and this has been particularly the case in connection with stock cars. In order to expedite the stock movement, the railways have been forced to furnish box cars for local stock movement, on the basis of two box cars to handle the number of animals ordinarily handled in one stock car, which has depleted the supply of box cars for other purposes.

"In addition to all this the severe weather and heavy snowstorms have necessarily slowed up the movement of traffic to some extent and has interfered with the distribution of empties through the necessity for using engines to operate snowplows instead of hauling trains of empties.

"Preference in car supply and movement is being given to fuel, feed and stock, and every possible effort is being put forth by the railways to relieve the situation as speedily as possible. It is right, however, that the public should be informed as to the conditions under which the railways are operating."

Quebec's Premier May Resign

Sir Lomer Gouin Is Leaving for Europe After Session, and May Retire First

Quebec. — With the announcement by the Quebec government that the next session of the government will open on December 10 came the renewal of rumors that Sir Lomer Gouin had announced his resignation. It is generally conceded here, even by the Liberals, that Sir Lomer Gouin will shortly retire from leadership in the province of Quebec, but whether or not he told his cabinet when he would withdraw was not divulged by any of the members.

When spoken to by newspapermen and asked directly if there was any truth in the story of his resignation, the premier is said to have replied: "No, the session has been called."

It is known that Sir Lomer is leaving for Europe after the session, and he may resign before he leaves. Rumors also announce that he would be succeeded by Hon. J. E. Caron, minister of finance.

LISTEN TO THIS! SAYS CORNS LIFT RIGHT OUT NOW

You reckless men and women who are pestered with corns and who have at least once a week invited an awful death from lockjaw or blood poison are now told by a Cincinnati authority to use a drug called freezone, which the moment a few drops are applied to any corn, the soreness is relieved and soon the entire corn, root and all, lifts out with the fingers.

It is a sticky ether compound which dries the moment it is applied and simply shrivels the corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. It is claimed that a quarter of an ounce of freezone will cost very little at any of the drug stores, but is sufficient to rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or callus.

You are further warned that cutting at a corn is a suicidal habit.

Premier Drury Has Announced His Government

W. F. Nickle, K.C., Has Been Offered the Portfolio of Attorney-General

Toronto.—Premier Drury announced that E. H. Grant, member-elect for Carleton, had accepted the portfolio of education in the Ontario cabinet now being formed. Mr. Drury also stated that he had wired W. F. Nickle, K.C., of Kingston, offering him the portfolio of attorney-general.

The Farmers' Sun, which is regarded as the official mouthpiece of the premier, gives the following list of the new cabinet:

Premier, E. C. Drury; minister of agriculture, Manning Doherty; education, R. H. Grant; lands and forests, Benish Dowman; public works, F. C. Biggs; labor and health, W. R. Rollo; mines, H. Mills; provincial secretary, C. Nixon; provincial treasurer, Peter Smith; attorney-general, W. F. Nickle.

Without portfolio, Lieut.-Col. D. Carmichael, D.S.O.

Rumania's Reply Unsatisfactory

The note, which was taken up for consideration by the supreme council, was characterized as extremely evasive.

Manitoba Good Roads

Winnipeg.—During the past week applications from eight Manitoba municipalities for road work under the Good Roads Act have been approved, to the amount of more than $1,000,000.

Indianapolis.—The United Mine Workers of America, contrary to previous announcement, has decided to withhold the appeal to the ruling of the federal court in injunction proceedings, which resulted in the calling off of the strike of miners.

It had been generally believed that, regardless of developments in the situation, the miners would fight their case in the courts to the last ditch, and attorneys for the coal workers announced that their appeal would be filed within two or three days. However, Henry Warrum, chief counsel for the Mine Workers' organization, stated that the outcome of the conference of the miners' representatives and coal operators with Secretary of Labor Wilson, in Washington, would determine to a large extent whether the case is carried further. The miners' council has thirty days in which to file the appeal.

The decision of the miners is taken to indicate that they have accepted the government's assurance that the suit against the miners was not an attack against the right to strike, but was solely to prevent violation of the the law: in this case, the Lever Act.

Possibility of speedy agreement at the Washington conference, according to opinion here, is marred only by the question of when a new wage scale will become effective. Miners' spokesmen have stated that if the operators go to the conference in a spirit of conciliation, agreement was only a question of hours, but it is known that the union men object to the position taken by the operators that the wage scale in effect before the strike still is in effect.

Miners' officials declined to comment on the way in which members of the organization are responding to the order calling off the strike, and would give no reports from the district headquarters. Very few of the miners in the Indiana coal fields reported for work, and it is not believed that operation in the fields can be started extensively before next week.

DRY GOODS

Your mind at this time naturally turns to warm clothing. When you think of Flannelette think of this store. Anticipating a keen demand for this we bought accordingly, and have just opened a shipment this week that we feel sure will appeal to you both on the score of quality of the goods as well as the moderate price. In fact we believe our other lines of staple dry goods that are just to hand will appeal as favorably to shrewd buyers. We specially emphasize:

—Flannelette
White, Grey, Colored

—Print
Light and Dark shades.

—Ungava Flannel
in check design.

—Cotton
Bleached and unbleached.

—Linen Toweling

—Ticking

In Flannelette we are rather overstocked, and in order to effect a speedy clearance we have priced it at figures that certainly cannot be duplicated in town.

A QUARTER OF A MILLION DOLLARS

The Union Turnover for 1919—What it Means to Creston Valley

What Others Say About Your Business

"In talking to some of our dealers in Alberta, and also to Mr. —— of Winnipeg, they stated that the Creston Fruit Growers Union Domestic Pack is absolutely the finest pack shipped out of British Columbia. The quality cannot be excelled."

"We thank you for the treatment you have given us this year. We are very well satisfied, indeed; both as to the service you have [illegible] the quality of the stuff, and consideration in every way."

"Your account has been, without exception, one of the most pleasant we have had on our books this year."

The above are extracts from letters from different firms who, together handled [illegible] per cent. of your [illegible] business, and is a good index [illegible] your business [illegible] goodwill [illegible] just as [illegible] the goodwill of every shipper and buyer in the Creston Valley. Are you doing your part in [illegible] this good will? Your business is worth the effort.

UNDER the present system of distributing Fruit products an efficient selling organization is the greatest asset a fruit district can have, and is absolutely essential to success.

That we possess such an asset is fully proven by the fact that the Creston Fruit Growers Union, Ltd., has this season found market for 14,000 crates of Small Fruits, 6000 crates of Plums, 2000 boxes of Crabapples; these marketed in spite of the sugar shortage, and in addition to 95 straight cars of Apples.

Out of this quantity not one pound of fruit was dumped because of sugar shortage, nor one box of apples frozen in the warehouse, or in transit.

These figures measure up big when we recall what has happened in other districts, and remember that two years ago our output of Small Fruits was 8000 packages; Plums 2400 crates; Crabapples 850 boxes; and the total Apples shipped only 24 cars.

Keep in mind, also, that this season your business has imported and distributed for your benefit $75,000 worth of supplies, which includes $50,000 worth of Flour and Feed.

We submit that the Creston Fruit Growers Union, Ltd., is a success, and as such deserves the support not only of every rancher but of every citizen in the Valley.

We submit, further, that the Union is a success solely because of the support it has received from the individual ranchers; and will continue successful only as long as it receives this support. What we have done in the past two years is nothing compared to what we will be called upon to do during the coming two seasons.

Whether your selling organization falls down or stands up under the load will depend upon the support it gets from the people.

Do not expect your employees to take a greater interest in your business than you do yourself. They depend upon the Union for their monthly wage, you depend upon it—whether you realize it or not—for your existence as a successful fruit rancher.

The time has come for expansion. We must prepare for increased export, and can just as easily—at the same time—prepare to take care of your increasing requirements. IT IS UP TO THE RANCHER.

CRESTON FRUIT GROWERS UNION, LTD.

Now, What About this FEED Business

We looked after your needs when turnovers were slow, prices uncertain, and our time valuable in other departments. Now that turnovers are quick, prices established, and time not particularly valuable you have the opportunity given you of supporting the other fellow and letting your own employees stand idle. Remember they are not on piece work, and you pay them full time whether you let the other fellow do their work or not. Its YOUR business.

Flour sales are the life of your feed business. Purchases of Bran and Shorts are regulated by the mills according to the flour purchased. Why kill your own feed business by buying flour from your opposition.

Others advertise and, no doubt, sell flour at the same price as the Union. Had they done this five years ago there would be no need for the Union to have a trading department. If you buy feed elsewhere in five years time the Union will have no trading department. Will there be need for it? Think it over!
