Vol. 1. No. 40. Chase, B. C., Friday, January 24, 1913 $2.00 Per Year

CHURCH ANNUAL VESTRY MEETING

Parish Will Be Divided And Reorganized and New Parish Formed.

The Annual Vestry meeting of the Church of England at Chase was held on Sunday evening last 19th inst, and was presided over by the Vicar, the Rev. Geo. Stewart.

In his report the Vicar referred to (1) the losses sustained during the year 1912 by death and removal, (2) to the changes that will be taking place during the present year, and (3) to the generous help given to the Church by the Chase Ladies Aid.

The Financial report showed that a debt of $100 still remained on the church property.

Mr. C. Matthewson was appointed Vicar's warden for the present year. Mr. F. Burling was elected people's warden. Mr. H. J. Haylock and Mr. H. A. Thompson were elected sidesmen. The following ladies were elected to act with the wardens and sidesmen as a Church Committee,—Mrs. Scatchard, Mrs. Haylock, Mrs. Talbot, Mrs. P. Meggitt, Mrs. C. Smith and Miss Smith.

Mr. W. J. Keyt was elected Lay Delegate to the Diocesan Synod.

A vote of thanks to, and confidence in the Vicar, which was shown by all standing brought the meeting to a close.

Early in the spring a new parish is to be formed for the Shuswap Lake district with Sorrento as a centre. The clergyman who will be placed in charge will be provided with a motor launch.

Mr. Stewart's parish will, after this division has taken place, still extend from the boundary of the Diocese about three miles west of Ducks to and including Chase on the east, and from the Back Valley on the north to about twelve miles beyond Grande Prairie on the South.

In the Autumn the Synod of the Diocese will, in all probability, be called together to elect its first Bishop. The Diocese of Kootenay was formed in the year 1900, but the Endowment Fund is only now being completed, thus putting the Diocese in a position to elect its own Bishop. The Bishop of New Westminster who visited Chase in November 1911 is at present Administrator of the Diocese. The new Bishop will be elected by the Clergy and Lay Delegates of the Diocese. Chase will, we hope, be represented at that gathering, by the Vicar amongst the Clergy and by Mr. Keyt amongst the Lay Delegates.

The Boys Give a Party.

According to the young ladies who reported it to the Tribune it was a swell party that the Abear boys had on Monday night. "Just as good as girls could give! You wouldn't have believed it. George made the coffee, swell coffee, and two kinds of cake, besides a white cake with cocoanut on the top." That's the way the dear young thing with golden curls and a long blue coat told it to us and made us sorry the press had not been represented at the affair.

"Frank made the dropcakes, and we played games and danced till about one o'clock. We had a dandy time. There were eighteen of us there."

Who says bachelors don't know how to entertain?

Will Reside Here.

The attractions of Chase as a residence town are once more attested by the decision of Mr. Kinney, traveller for McLennan & McFeely of Vancouver to bring his family here. He finds that he can be at home oftener by living in Chase, which is nearer the centre of the territory he covers. Mr. Kinney has bought the house formerly owned and occupied by T. Leadston.

Conservatives Meet.

The annual meeting of the Chase District Conservative Association to be held on Monday night as advertised in this issue. The important business of the election of officers should ensure a large attendance. It is further announced that Mayor Robinson of Kamloops has been requested to be present and has signified his pleasure in accepting the invitation.

KAMLOOPS HAS BEST AGENCY

Dominion Land Office Work is Increasing by Leaps and Bounds.

The financial year for the Dominion Lands and Crown Timber Agency does not close until the 31st March, but the following figures relating to the work of the Agency for the calendar year of 1912 will no doubt be of interest to our readers:

Homesteads	306
Improvements	470
Land Sales	44
Townsite sales	102
Searches	185
Total revenue	$14,874.09
Tim. and Graz. Branch	$51,368.04
Mining Lands	$1,288.50
Total	$67,530.65
Letters received	13,344
Letters written	11,671

The above figures are considerably in advance of the year of 1911.

Each year the work of the Agency is increasing by leaps and bounds, in spite of the fact that the major portion of the Kamloops Agency, which extends from the Alberta boundary to North Bend, has been reserved from settlement pending an agreement being arrived at between the Dominion government and large lumber companies who hold big timber limits comprising valuable agricultural lands. This question has been gone into fully during the past six months and it is hoped that in the very near future the reservation will be withdrawn and the lands available thrown open to bona-fide settlement. It is anticipated that new regulations dealing with the disposal of lands within the railway belts will be brought into force. The climatic and other conditions vary so much in the "Belt" that the most careful thought has to be given to this question.

The increase in the work and as a consequence, the returns, is most encouraging to the Agent W. C. Cowell and his staff, who are ever willing to give to the interested public, the best possible and reliable information, and the agency has the reputation of being the best conducted and progressive of any under the Dominion Government. Kamloops Standard.

The Syndicate Dance.

The Chase Amusement Syndicate that has leased the Chase opera house is to be congratulated on the success of its first dance, held on Friday evening. The floor was good and the music was better and the dancing was of varied quality according to the skill of the dancers. There is a large number of learners this season.

Frank White was floor manager and the music was made by Miss Stewart and W. T. Gordon. The attendance was about as large as could be well accommodated, a strong contingent from Shuswap filled up a pair of bobs from the stables of the Shuswap Hotel.

In spite of the fact that it was only a fifty cent dance and therefore no refreshments could be expected the fun kept up till three o'clock.

Want Bearberry Bark.

Philadelphia druggists are seeking to connect with shipments of the bearberry tree's bark from Vancouver Island, where there are many of these trees. The Philadelphia people stated their willingness to purchase about 800 tons of the bark per annum. This tree grows wild along the coasts of Vancouver Island, but is not found in very large numbers in any one place and is usually destroyed by pre-emptors during clearing operations. It is from the bark of this tree that the well-known medicine, Cascara Segrada, is manufactured.

Aunty—So you took your first dancing lessons to-day. Did you find it difficult?

Wee Nephew—No'm, it's easy 'nough. All you have to do is to keep turning round wiping your feet.

Customer: I want a ton of coal.

Dealer: Yes, sir. What size?

Customer: Well, if it's not asking too much, I'd like to have a 2,000-pound ton.

ANNUAL MEETING OF FIRE ASSOCIATION

President Cameron and Whole Staff of Officers and Board of Directors Re-elected For Another Year.

The Chase Fire Association Company, Limited, held their annual meeting in the K. P. hall on Wednesday evening, President Cameron occupying the chair. In the absence of the secretary, E. R. Bradley, Louis Cumming acted in that capacity. The attendance was not large owing, doubtless, to the confidence felt by the shareholders in the business capacity of those who have been directing the affairs of the Association during the past year.

The following is astatement of receipts and expenditures for year ending Jan. 22, 1913.

Receipts

Cach Balance from year	$46.97
Received form Social	88.25
Received from Celebration	223.55
Received from Social	187.95
Received from Subscribers	120.00
Total	671.72

Expenditure

Adams River Lumber Co.	$329.09
Sundries	104.59
Cash in Bank	196.73
Total	671.72

Statement of assets and liabilities.

Assets

Hydrants, Hose and Nozzles	$810.00
Hose Reel	125.00
Building and Equipment	213.00
Cash in Bank	196.72
Total	1344.72

Liabilities

Surplus	$1344.

The auditors report showed that the work of the year has changed a debt of more than $300 to a surplus in the bank of nearly $200. The shareholders were so well satisfied with this result that they re-elected the officers for another year as well as all of the directors except those who had left the town.

The board of officers and directors now stands as follows:

President, C. W. Cameron.

1st Vice-President, Louis Cumming.

2nd Vice-President, W. T. Gordon.

Secretary, E. R. Bradley.

Treasurer, J. W. Clifford.

Directors.

G. Grant, A. Bond, R. J. Miner, Frank White.

Auditor, T. J. Kinley.

A vote of thanks, moved by A. McConnell, was tendered the officers and directors for the able manner in which they had managed the business of the company during the past year.

It is the aim of the Association during the coming year to acquire a lot of its own and erect a more suitable fire hall than the one in use. After that much is accomplished it will be time to think about geting a chemical engine.

J. J. B. Sutton of Annis was registered at the Underwood yesterday.

WESTERN CANADA WEEK BY WEEK

PROGRESS IN THE NORTH

Athabasca Landing is putting in gasworks and waterworks and is already talking to Edmonton over the long-distance telephone. No more can we speak of the Great Lone Land.

BECOMING CITIZENS

The number of naturalization papers issued to foreigners settled in Alberta is showing steady increase. During the year 1912 no less than 1298 naturalization papers were taken out in the supreme court of Edmonton.

NEW COMPANY FORMED

It is expected that before many weeks pass a company with a capital of $1,000,000 will be established in Edmonton, and extending operations throughout Alberta and eastern B. C.

The directorate is composed of men who have attained prominence in their various lines of business, and are well known in the western provinces, organizing chiefly to advance money to the public for the purpose of home building. It is their intention also of erecting various plants used in building construction, such as a brick works and what is new industry in this city, a glass works, and a full contracting plant, which will be the means of finding employment for a large number of men.

RAILROAD BUILDING DIFFICULTIES

Edmonton, Jan. 23.—Eleven miles beyond Tete Juane Cache, a track-laying squad of over 100 men are busy connecting the two western sections of the transcontinental. F. G. George is in charge of the work and is making the best of the difficulties that confront him with this section of the G.T.P.

The Fraser river between Tete Juane Cache and mile 80 is not yet frozen over, being filled with slush ice, and this necessitates a great amount of extra freighting where the work is now the heaviest. From mile 80 on the ice is in condition for travel, and is hard enough to hold a 30-ton Packard truck used by Bates and Rogers, American contractors who are working on a subcontract of the right-of-way.

DEFIES THE COLD

Medicine Hat, Jan. 22.—Zero weather does not deter the dogged perseverance of the homestead seeker. Last night there were four men outside the Dominion land office on Twenty-first street waiting to stake their claims to land.

RAILWAY BUILDING IN ALBERTA

During the twelve months ending December 30th last, 1934 miles of new railroads were built and put in operation in Alberta, according to official figures given out by Premier Sifton, who stated that on December 30th there were 3020 miles of railroad in Alberta.

C. P. R. HOTEL AT CALGARY

The progress of the new C. P. R. hotel has been so rapid that the people of Calgary have almost seen it grow under their eyes. The steel work was only begun in 1912 and was finished within five months. Ground was broken on September 23, 1911 and the building would have been completed on January 1st, 1913, if it had not been for the recent cold weather. As it is, there is only a week's work left to finish the walls and put on the roof.

PLANS FOR HOTELS

Winnipeg, Jan. 21.—Mr. Hayter Reed, the C. P. R: hotel manager, to-day proceeded to sketch the work his department would undertake during the present year over the entire Dominion. It is the intention to increase the size of the hotels at Banff, Glacier Lake, Montreal and other places. The roof is just about on the Calgary hotel and it is expected that the structure will be ready for occupation this year.

Victoria will have a C. P. R. hotel with 335 rooms before fall and Vancouver will have another with 600 or 700 rooms.

Mr. Reed gave an interesting description of the effect a good hotel would have on drawing trade. The high-class C. P. R. hotels in the coast cities had had the effect, he thought, to a very considerable degree, of drawing a lot of desirable business to those cities.

A YEAR OF GOOD WORK

Ladies' Aid Completes Fourth Year With Record of Helpfulness To Deserving Causes.

For sturdy vitality and the will to live and work there is nothing in Chase that can beat the Ladies' Aid society. It is almost as old as the town, having been organized on May 13th, 1909. The year just closed has been a most successful one as extracts from the reports of the secretary and the financial committee which follow will show.

From the report of secretary, Mrs. W. F. Lammers:

"An apron sale and supper combined was given on April 11th. Five teas have been given, and during the summer months three socials and three food sales, which added considerable to our bank account. On October 25th we held a bazar and rummage sale, which also was most profitable.

"We have given two dollars a month each to Mr. Hyde's and Mr. Stewart's salaries and Easter gifts of fifteen dollars to each church, as well as the proceeds of the supper sale and rummage sale. During the year we have lost twelve and gained thirteen members, making a net gain of one. The total membership is now 25.

"We ourselves have had two very enjoyable afternoons, a valentine party, and a luncheon given by Mrs. Brooks on Feb. 22nd.

"On the whole the year has been most beneficial, socially, financially and otherwise.

The following is the report of the Finance Committee:

Receipts:

Dues	$38.30
Teas	22.50
Socials	76.50
Cooking sales	18.90
Aprons	38.95
Supper	36.10
Rummage Sale	105.35
Donation	1.00
Interest	.75
Total	462.51

Expenditure:

To Presbyterian Church	$154.15
To Anglican Church	151.30
Total	305.45

An $800 Hen.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 7.—Blood will tell. Lady Show You proves it. Just question the value of heredity and the science of eugenics, and the little lady, true to her name, will "show you."

She has been demonstrating at the Missouri agricultural experiment station and has laid 82 successive days, and 281 eggs in a year!

When she emitted her 281st cackle she was celebrating a performance that came within one egg of equalling the highest record ever made by a hen upon this continent. She completed with 655 other hens of all ages, breeds and sizes.

Lady Show You first came into the limelight in May report, when Director Quisenberry said of her:

"There is a White Plymouth Rock pullet from Illinois, No. 717, that has laid 64 eggs in 64 consecutive days. She appears healthy and vigorous, and we hope she can continue her good record for at leasta few more days."

His hopes were realized for the little lady went right on and laid an egg every day for nearly three months.

After laying 82 eggs she missed one day and then got busy on the job again, laying as regularly as the sun rose.

"This hen is conclusive proof," says the director, "that it is possible to have both utility qualities and fancy or standard bred points combined in the same flock and in the same hen. This hen is bred from a male and female which were both winners in good shows.

"This hen herself shows her good breeding. It is all tommy-rot to say that scrubs and cross-breeds can outlay standard bred poultry. We are in hopes the farmers and poultry breeders of this country will endeavor to combine both qualities in the same flock as we find them in this hen."

Lady Show You weighs six pounds and has laid several times her own weight in eggs during the period of one year.

During the first 10 months of the trial she consumed 48 pounds of dry mash, 32 pounds of grain, and two pounds of grit, bone and shell. During these 10 months she was not broody, nor did she moult.

The record of 282 eggs in one year was made by a barred rock hen at Guelph, Canada. However, it is asserted that the Canadian hen laid a small egg with a poor shell, while Lady Show You's eggs weighed on an average a little more than two ounces, with a good strong shell on each egg.

Her record won a cash prize of $25 from the Missouri state poultry board, an incubator valued at $32 and the Fishel cup. Furthermore, it made it possible for her owner, J. A. Bickerdike of Millersville, Ill., to sell her to James A. Bell, of Chicago, for $800. She is the highest priced hen in the world.

BOARD OF TRADE

Takes Up Question of Train Service Once More. Wants No. 1 To Stop At Chase.

The first meeting of the Board of Trade under its new officers took place on Monday evening with the president, G. G. Chase, in the chair.

The secretary reported that Superintendent Mackay of the C. P. R. had not so far acceded to the request of the board to make Chase a flag stop for the westbound Imperial Limited. It was decided to have the secretary write to the General Passenger Agent at Vancouver and forward to him copies of all the correspondence with reference to the matter.

Through Mr. Underwood there came before the board a request from the deputy game warden, W. Wentworth Wood of Kamloops, asking for photographs of fish and other information concerning hotel rates, boat hire, and other matters that could be used in a write-up of the district. It is the aim of Mr. Wood to get for the district the recognition it merits, both from the public and from the Government and from sportsman. The request was referred to the advertising committee.

A committee of two was appointed to meet the owners of boats and endeavor to have them draw up a schedule of rates of boat hire for the guidance of tourists and others.

—Two new members, E. C. Willson and Geo. L. Gollen were proposed for membership, balloted on and elected.

Bible Class Entertains.

The Bible Class of the Presbyterian Church entertained itself and friends in the church on Wednesday evening with a literary and musical programme that was enjoyed by all present, as was also the cake, sandwiches and coffee that came afterwards.

The programme was as follows:

Reading	Miss McLean
Solo	Miss Stewart
Solo	Mr. Anderson
Duet	Harold McAlpin and Laughlin Farris
Quartette	Mr. and Mrs. Munger, Miss Stewart and Mr. Anderson
Solo	Lila Graham
Solo	Mr. Hyde

A Lake Mutiny.

Seymour Arm, Jan. 20.—Captain Freeman of the S. S. Anavana had a most interesting and thrilling experience on Saturday last while en voyage from Sicamous to Seymour Arm. He numbered among his passengers a young man who was apparently subject to fits of some kind.

When about twelve miles from Sicamous the passenger, who was quietly sitting near the stern of the boat, suddenly discovered that the boat was proceeding on the wrong course and somewhat hastily and insistently demanded of the skipper, who is well known as a skillful and experienced mariner, that the direction taken be reversed.

So insistent was his demand and so violent he became, that the captain was forced to secure him to the deck with ropes to prevent any further disturbance. On reaching the Arm he was released.—Kamloops Standard.

The progress of the new C. P. R. hotel has been so rapid that the people of Calgary have almost seen it grow under their eyes. The steel work was only begun in 1912 and was finished within five months. Ground was broken on September 23, 1911 and the building would have been completed on January 1st, 1913, if it had not been for the recent cold weather. As it is, there is only a week's work left to finish the walls and put on the roof.

PLANS FOR HOTELS

Winnipeg, Jan. 21.—Mr. Hayter Reed, the C. P. R: hotel manager, to-day proceeded to sketch the work his department would undertake during the present year over the entire Dominion. It is the intention to increase the size of the hotels at Banff, Glacier Lake, Montreal and other places. The roof is just about on the Calgary hotel and it is expected that the structure will be ready for occupation this year.

Victoria will have a C. P. R. hotel with 335 rooms before fall and Vancouver will have another with 600 or 700 rooms.

Mr. Reed gave an interesting description of the effect a good hotel would have on drawing trade. The high-class C. P. R. hotels in the coast cities had had the effect, he thought, to a very considerable degree, of drawing a lot of desirable business to those cities.

A YEAR OF GOOD WORK

Ladies' Aid Completes Fourth Year With Record of Helpfulness To Deserving Causes.

For sturdy vitality and the will to live and work there is nothing in Chase that can beat the Ladies' Aid society. It is almost as old as the town, having been organized on May 13th, 1909. The year just closed has been a most successful one as extracts from the reports of the secretary and the financial committee which follow will show.

From the report of secretary, Mrs. W. F. Lammers:

"An apron sale and supper combined was given on April 11th. Five teas have been given, and during the summer months three socials and three food sales, which added considerable to our bank account. On October 25th we held a bazar and rummage sale, which also was most profitable.

"We have given two dollars a month each to Mr. Hyde's and Mr. Stewart's salaries and Easter gifts of fifteen dollars to each church, as well as the proceeds of the supper sale and rummage sale. During the year we have lost twelve and gained thirteen members, making a net gain of one. The total membership is now 25.

"We ourselves have had two very enjoyable afternoons, a valentine party, and a luncheon given by Mrs. Brooks on Feb. 22nd.

"On the whole the year has been most beneficial, socially, financially and otherwise.

The following is the report of the Finance Committee:

Receipts:
Dues	$38.30
Teas	22.50
Socials	76.50
Cooking sales	18.90
Aprons	38.95
Supper	36.10
Rummage Sale	105.35
Donation	1.00
Interest	.75
Total	462.51
Expenditure:
To Presbyterian Church	$154.15
To Anglican Church	151.30
Total	305.45

An $800 Hen.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 7.—Blood will tell. Lady Show You proves it. Just question the value of heredity and the science of eugenics, and the little lady, true to her name, will "show you."

She has been demonstrating at the Missouri agricultural experiment station and has laid 82 successive days, and 281 eggs in a year!

When she emitted her 281st cackle she was celebrating a performance that came within one egg of equalling the highest record ever made by a hen upon this continent. She completed with 655 other hens of all ages, breeds and sizes.

Lady Show You first came into the limelight in May report, when Director Quisenberry said of her:

"There is a White Plymouth Rock pullet from Illinois, No. 717, that has laid 64 eggs in 64 consecutive days. She appears healthy and vigorous, and we hope she can continue her good record for at least a few more days."

His hopes were realized for the little lady went right on and laid an egg every day for nearly three months.

After laying 82 eggs she missed one day and then got busy on the job again, laying as regularly as the sun rose.

"This hen is conclusive proof," says the director, "that it is possible to have both utility qualities and fancy or standard bred points combined in the same flock and in the same hen. This hen is bred from a male and female which were both winners in good shows.

"This hen herself shows her good breeding. It is all tommy-rot to say that scrubs and cross-breeds can outlay standard bred poultry. We are in hopes the farmers and poultry breeders of this country will endeavor to combine both qualities in the same flock as we find them in this hen."

Lady Show You weighs six pounds and has laid several times her own weight in eggs during the period of one year.

During the first 10 months of the trial she consumed 48 pounds of dry mash, 32 pounds of grain, and two pounds of grit, bone and shell. During these 10 months she was not broody, nor did she moult.

The record of 282 eggs in one year was made by a barred rock hen at Guelph, Canada. However, it is asserted that the Canadian hen laid a small egg with a poor shell, while Lady Show You's eggs weighed on an average a little more than two ounces, with a good strong shell on each egg.

Her record won a cash prize of $25 from the Missouri state poultry board, an incubator valued at $32 and the Fishel cup. Furthermore, it made it possible for her owner, J. A. Bickerdike of Millersville, Ill., to sell her to James A. Bell, of Chicago, for $800. She is the highest priced hen in the world.

BOARD OF TRADE

Takes Up Question of Train Service Once More. Wants No. 1 To Stop At Chase.

The first meeting of the Board of Trade under its new officers took place on Monday evening with the president, G. G. Chase, in the chair.

The secretary reported that Superintendent Mackay of the C. P. R. had not so far acceded to the request of the board to make Chase a flag stop for the westbound Imperial Limited. It was decided to have the secretary write to the General Passenger Agent at Vancouver and forward to him copies of all the correspondence with reference to the matter.

Through Mr. Underwood there came before the board a request from the deputy game warden, W. Wentworth Wood of Kamloops, asking for photographs of fish and other information concerning hotel rates, boat hire, and other matters that could be used in a write-up of the district. It is the aim of Mr. Wood to get for the district the recognition it merits, both from the public and from the Government and from sportsman. The request was referred to the advertising committee.

A committee of two was appointed to meet the owners of boats and endeavor to have them draw up a schedule of rates of boat hire for the guidance of tourists and others.

—Two new members, E. C. Willson and Geo. L. Golien were proposed for membership, balloted on and elected.

Bible Class Entertains.

The Bible Class of the Presbyterian Church entertained itself and friends in the church on Wednesday evening with a literary and musical programme that was enjoyed by all present, as was also the cake, sandwiches and coffee that came afterwards.

The programme was as follows:

A Lake Mutiny.

Seymour Arm, Jan. 20.—Captain Freeman of the S. S. Anavana had a most interesting and thrilling experience on Saturday last while en voyage from Sicamous to Seymour Arm. He numbered among his passengers a young man who was apparently subject to fits of some kind.

When about twelve miles from Sicamous the passenger, who was quietly sitting near the stern of the boat, suddenly discovered that the boat was proceeding on the wrong course and somewhat hastily and insistently demanded of the skipper, who is well known as a skillful and experienced mariner, that the direction taken be reversed.

So insistent was his demand and so violent he became, that the captain was forced to secure him to the deck with ropes to prevent any further disturbance. On reaching the Arm he was released.—Kamloops Standard.

Woman's Column

"You have come to visit me," said my sick friend, raising herself on her elbow and thumping the pillows with an energy that left her breathless. "Yes, I am glad to see you, only please remember that though I am obliged to stay in bed for a few days I am neither a child nor a lunatic."

There was a glitter in her eye that was not altogether the result of fever. I sat down cautiously, casting about for a safe remark. "Have you had many visitors?" I ventured.

"To-day I have had just as many as Mary Magdelene entertained and they have had a similar effect on my disposition. I have repeated the same experience with variations two or three times a year for longer than I care to remember. No, I am not complaining about my frequent attacks of illness. They are just penalties for my own follies and those of my fathers. But when, just because I am in bed, I must submit to the pity, the petting, the consolations, the advice and the jokes of the people who when I am about meet me on equal terms my punishment is greater than I can bear."

"Perhaps they mean well," I said, lamely.

"Of course they mean well, and in everyday life they are splendid women to know. Why should they be such idiots in a sick room? One tiptoes to the bedside and says, 'My, how dreadfully you look!' As though I were not keenly sensible of the fact! Don't I know that half my hair is over in the bureau drawer and the little on my head is scraggly and out of curl? Does she need to remind me that my skin is as yellow as parchment? Don't I sufficiently realize that in this condition I look as old as Methuselah? Why need these facts be rubbed in?"

"Visitor Number Two is a sensible women on ordinary occasions. After a hard day a talk with her always rests me. But when I am ill she strokes my head and coos as if I were a baby or an idiot. Yes, I know I am weak but I'm not delirious, and I am still capable of understanding ordinary conversation. Her sympathy is sound but it's on the wrong track. If she would bring her strong common sense to bear upon the situation she would be a help and not an irritation.

"Number Three is one whose cousins, aunts and grandmothers had my symptoms exactly and were cured by two doses of a miraculous medicine. If she doesn't present me with a bottle of this elixer she presses me for a promise to buy one without delay and takes my refusal as a personal offence.

"Number four is the cheerful idiot who treats the whole matter as a joke. She bangs the door when she comes into the room, and plumps herself down on the edge of the bed. Her first question invariably is, 'Are you making believe sick again? She fires a volley of jocose remarks which she punctuates with arch smiles and lively antics. When she leaves all I can think of is is the response in the Litany, 'Good Lord, deliver us.'

When Number Five comes in it is painfully evident that she has been reading 'Sick Room Hints' in the newspaper. Though I am the unlucky victim I can't but admire the way she practises them. 'Do not talk about the patient's illness is written large all over her. From that very obvious fact she scurries away like a rabbit. In her efforts to avoid loud talking or whispering she strikes a nerve-racking monotone. She sits a carefully measured distance from the bed and punctually on the ten minute dot she departs, serene in the consciousness that she has been a model sick-room visitor.

"Number Six brings the consolations of religion. She emphasizes pious resignation to the Divine will and talks about the affliction Providence has laid upon me. Now I recognize Divine will in the laws of health and know that when I break them I must pay the penalty. When I tell her so and add that it isn't fair to blame Providence for what we bring upon ourselves, she accuses me of irreverence.

Deliver me from Number Seven. She is the strong-minded person who believes sick people exaggerate their ills, and has a special mission to see that they are not humored. She never saw me looking better, pooh-poohs my aches and pains, and with these and other bracing remarks conveys the impression that she thinks me a fraud. During the long illness I had a nurse of Number Seven's type. Through those wretched, helpless weeks she made me feel myself an object of contempt to every one. Her next patient was a mother of five who had worn herself into nervous prostration by overwork. The bracing methods were vigorously applied, and the sick woman escaped them by slipping away in the night and drowning herself in the river.

"So ends the catalogue for to-day. This morning I was so happy to know that I might receive callers. What a nice day it would have been if they had left their sick-room theories at home and had been just themselves."

She sank back exhausted and I slipped quietly away. I knew those same visitors to be women of warm hearts and large sympathies. Their sick friend accepts her precarious health as one of the odds against her in the big game of life, where she intends to be a winner. Could they give her a cheerful backing it would mean much to her. If instead of treating her to a gabble an intelligent child would resent, they would when she is ill meet her in her own character they would bring her the help that she needs and that they really want to give.

The Boy's At Bear Creek

In the last great west a logging camp
Nestles amongst the hills,
On the banks of a stream that ever ramps
And into the Shuswap spills.

As a logging camp it's rank is high,
It holds good men and true,
They are ready with joke, laugh, jest or sigh,
No matter the place or time or who.

They come from near, they come from afar,
Norwegians, Russians, the Swede boys too.
The English, the Dutch, the U. S. very much,
Canucks and the French but a few.

A motley crowd you will say, but when
You have roamed this world as me,
You will pass up the glitter and gleam and then
Conventionalities be.

The men of the camp may be rough but yet
Neath the shell their hearts beat true
To the poor and weak and trampled set,
Whose look-out on life is blue.

Up in the morning at five forty-five
In the chill of a laggard dawn,
The silence is shattered, the woods are alive
Each one to his labor has gone.

They're a reckless crew, they're a restless bunch,
They work with a vim all day,
Like you and I, each one has a hunch
More work, why therefore more pay.

For wisdom in wood-craft, the boy's are rare,
And this I shall prove to thee;
August Hegg is one, Charlie Kroon makes a pair,
And Stillwater Nels makes three.

There's Otto and August, Nels Benson and Gus,
Billy Patrick, O'Brien, Jim Roy,
Hans, Thompson, Green, Bowling, Bill, Tiff and a Russ,
Whose name is to long for this lay.

The rest of the boys take a hand in the game,
The same as the others you know,
Each one is a master, don't push him no faster,
Or he'll roll up his turkey and go.

The night that Grandpa told her he could never love another,
They sat upon the sofa, Grandma's lovely eyes a-shine;

'Twas as close as they could sit because of Grandma's crinoline.

Last night I went a-wooing when the picture show was over,
And I whispered Grandpa's story, with my sweetheart's hand in mine,
And as I clasped her closer she whispered low, "My lover,
Don't you think a hobble's nicer than that horrid crinoline?

Duke's Short Term.

When the Duke of Connaught accepted the governor-generalship of Canada it was understood that his tenure of office would be for two years at the least, with the probability that it might be further extended. Everyone in Canada will regret to learn that his royal highness is not likely to remain in office beyond the fall of this year, and that regret is painfully emphasized by the fact that the impaired health of the duchess has rendered necessary the termination of a residence in Canada that has been associated with nothing but pleasing characteristics to the entire Dominion. The duke, his consort, and his daughter have made themselves one with the people in a manner quite unexpected, except by those who knew them; and, when the unfortunate time arrives for loosening the ties that now bind them to Canada are loosened they will leave behind them nothing but the most pleasant recollections on the part of all concerning them, and not less so in regard to this Dominion on their part. The duke has not spared himself in the least in the performance of all his duties, both official and social; and Calgary will always have a warm place in its heart for the duke, the duchess, and the charming Princess Patricia.—Calgary Albertan.

Pittsburg Post—"I might have married a millionaire," declared Every-woman. "One of my old school mates is now the wife of one."

"And several of your schoolmates are working right in this town for $10 a week," retorted Every-man, "while one of them is in jail. I guess in marrying a chap getting $1,500 a year your average is fairly good."

And then Every-baby set up a howl, and they had to stop quarrelling to attend to him.

ADVENTURE

SYNOPSIS

Sheldon, owner of Berande plantation, though desperately ill, overawes and controls 150 head hunting Solomon islanders by force of will and weapons. Chief Moloi calls with forty men.

He returns Arunga, a runaway laborer. Sheldon has Arunga and Billy whipped to quell a mutiny. His sickness increases. His partner, Hughie, and many laborers die.

Joan Lackland, a pretty girl, arrives with her crew of Tahitians, Sheldon becomes unconscious, and she takes charge of things.

She is a self reliant American girl, a lover of adventure, a native of Hawaii and an orphan. Her ship has been wrecked. She proves to Sheldon that she can shoot.

She resents his friendly suggestions, and they quarrel. She makes it plain that she is not matrimonially inclined. She and Sheldon save two black women from death.

The savage laborers demand the women, Sheldon attempts to discipline them, and Joan shoots a native and saves his life. She scolds him for making her shoot.

Satan, a savage dog, arrives. Despite Sheldon's warnings Joan goes to explore an island she contemplates buying. Financial difficulties threaten Sheldon.

Joan roots them with a fake dynamite cartridge, and Satan drives them into trees. Their chief is punished. Morgan and Raff have Sheldon in their power.

Joan offers to become his partner. His mention of conventionalities angers her. She needs no chaperon, she says. Sheldon finally accepts her as his partner.

Tudor and Von Blix, gold seekers, arrive on the Martha. Joan and Tudor seem to interest each other. Sheldon becomes jealous.

CHAPTER XIX.

A MESSAGE FROM THE BUSH.

ONCE they were well into the thick bush, the horses had to be abandoned. Papehara was left in charge, while Joan and Sheldon and the remaining Tahitians pushed ahead on foot. An hour later, following along a wild pig trail, Sheldon suddenly halted. The bloody tracks had ceased. The Tahitians cast out in the bush on either side, and a cry from Utami apprised them of a find. Joan waited till Sheldon came back.

"It's Mauko," he said. "Kwaque did for him, and he crawled in there and died. That's two accounted for. There are ten more."

Crossing one of the quiet jungle spaces, where naught moved but a velvety twelve inch butterfly, they heard the sound of shots.

"Eight," Joan counted. "It was only one gun. It must be Papehara."

They hurried on, but when they reached the spot they were in doubt. The two horses stood quietly tethered, and Papehara, squatted on his hams, was having a peaceful smoke. Advancing toward him, Sheldon tripped on a body that lay in the grass, and as he saved himself from falling his eyes lighted on a second. Joan recognized this one. It was Cosse, one of Gogoomy's tribesmen, the one who had promised to catch at sunset the pig that was to have baited the hook for Satan.

"No luck, missie," was Papehara's greeting, accompanied by a disconsolate shake of the head. "Catch only two boy. I have good shot at Gogoomy, only I miss."

"But you killed them," Joan chided. "You must catch them alive."

The Tahitian smiled.

"How?" he queried. "I am have a smoke. I think about Tahiti, and breadfruit, and jolly good time at Bora-Bora. Quick, just like that, ten boy he run out of bush for me. Each boy have long knife. Gogoomy have long knife one hand and Kwaque's head in other hand. I no stop to catch 'em alive. I shoot like h—. How you catch 'em alive, ten boy, ten long knife and Kwaque's head?"

The scattered paths of the different boys, where they broke back after the disastrous attempt to rush the Tahitian, soon led together. They traced it to the Berande, which the runaways had crossed with the clear intention of burying themselves in the huge mangrove swamp that lay beyond.

"There is no use our going any farther," Sheldon said. "Seelee will turn out his village and hunt them out of that."

Never had runaways from Berande been more zealously hunted. The deeds of Gogoomy and his fellows had been a bad example for the 150 new recruits. One by one the boys were captured. Gogoomy alone remained at large, and, as the pursuit closed in on him, he conquered his fear of the bushmen and headed straight in for the mountainous backbone of the island. Sheldon, with four Tahitians, and Seelee, with thirty of his hunters, followed Gogoomy's trail a dozen miles into the open grass lands, and then Seelee and his people lost heart. He confessed that neither he nor any of his tribe had ever ventured so far inland before, and he narrated for Sheldon's benefit most horrible tales of the bushmen.

"Gogoomy he finish along them fella bushmen," he assured Sheldon. "My word, he finish close up, kai-kai altogether."

So the expedition turned back. Nothing could persuade the coast natives to venture farther, and Sheldon, with his four Tahitians, knew that it was madness to go on alone.

That night, after dinner, Sheldon and Joan were playing billiards when Satan barked in the compound and Lalaperu, sent to see, brought back a tired and travel stained native who wanted to talk with the "big fella white marster." Sheldon went out on the veranda to see him.

"What name you come along house belong me sun he go down?"

"Me Charley," the man muttered apologetically and wearily. "Me stop along Binu."

"Ah, Binu Charley, eh? Well, what name you talk along me? What place big fella marster along white man he stop?"

Joan and Sheldon together listened to the tale Binu Charley had brought. He described Tudor's expedition up the Balesuna, the dragging of the boats up the rapids, the passage up the river where it threaded the grass lands, the innumerable washings of gravel by the white men in search of gold, the first rolling foothills, the man traps of spear staked pits in the jungle trails, the first meeting with the bushmen who had never seen tobacco and knew not the virtues of smoking, their friendliness, the deeper penetration of the interior around the flanks of the Lion's Head, the bush sores and the fevers of the white men, and their madness in trusting the bushmen. One morning Binu Charley noticed that the women and children had disappeared. Tudor, at the time, was lying in a stupor with fever in a late camp five miles away, the main camp having moved on those five miles in order to prospect an outcrop of likely quartz. Binu Charley was midway between the two camps when the absence of the women and children struck him as suspicious.

"My word," he said, "me savvee too much trouble close up. Me run. My word, me run."

Tudor, quite unconscious, was slung across his shoulder and carried a mile down the trail. Here, hiding new trail, Binu Charley had carried him for a quarter of a mile into the heart of the deepest jungle and hidden him in a big banyan tree. Here, and from the direction of the main camp, he had heard two rifle shots. And that was all. He had never seen the white men again.

"There is only one thing to do," Sheldon said to Joan. "I'll start the first thing in the morning."

"We'll start," she corrected. "I can get twice as much out of my Tahitians as you can, and, besides, one white should never be alone under such circumstances."

Sheldon sent for a gang boss and told him to bring ten of the best and strongest Poonga-Poonga men.

"Not salt water boys," Sheldon cautioned, "but bush boys—leg belong him strong fella leg. Boy no savvee musket, no good. You bring 'm shoot musket strong fella."

They were ten picked men that filed up on the veranda and stood in the glare of the lanterns. Their heavy muscular legs advertised that they were bushmen. Killing was their natural vocation, not weed cutting; and, while they would not have ventured the Guadalcanar bush alone, with a white man like Sheldon behind them, and a white Mary such as they knew Joan to be, they could expect a safe and delightful time. Besides, the great master had told them that the eight gigantic Tahitians were going along.

"Plenty strong fella fight," Sheldon warned them in conclusion.

They grinned and shifted delightedly.

"S'pose bushmen kai-kai along you?" he queried.

"No fear," answered their spokesman, one Koogoo, a strapping, thick-lipped Ethiopian looking man. "S'pose Poonga-Poonga boy kai-kai bush boy?"

Sheldon shook his head, laughing, and dismissed them and went to overhaul the dunnage room for a small shelter tent for Joan's use.

It was quite a formidable expedition that departed from Berande at break of day next morning in a fleet of canoes and dingeys. There were Joan and Sheldon, with Binu Charley and Lalaperu, the eight Tahitians and the ten Poonga-Poonga men, each proud in the possession of a bright and shining modern rifle.

Binu Charley led the way onward into the rolling foothills, following the trail made by Tudor and his men weeks before. That night they camped well into the hills and deep in the tropic jungle. The third day found them on the runways of the bushmen—narrow paths that compelled single file and that turned and twisted with endless convolutions through the dense undergrowth.

Here, in the midmorning, the first casualty occurred. Binu Charley had dropped behind for a time and Koogoo, the Poonga-Poonga man who had boasted that he would eat the bushmen, was in the lead. Joan and Sheldon heard the twanging thrum and saw Koogoo throw out his arms, at the same time dropping his rifle, stumble forward and sink down on his hands and knees. Between his naked shoulders, low down and to the left, appeared the bone barbed head of an arrow. He had been shot through and through. Cocked rifles swept the bush with nervous apprehension, but there was no rustle, no movement; nothing but the humid, oppressive silence.

"Bushmen he no stop," Binu Charley called out, the sound of his voice startling more than one of them.

"My word! Look 'm that fella," he

OIL ON THE WATERS.

Gradually we are becoming more and more familiar with the fact that in almost every condition where fuel is required oil is gradually replacing coal. Oil has long been used as an accessory in driving the leviathans of the British navy and recently it was announced that the new battleships to be laid down this year would use oil for their motive power.

And, while it is a far cry from New Westminster to Portsmouth or the Tyne, the shipping of the Fraser river has already become affected by the new order of things. No longer does the Indian fisherman and his better half struggle at the oars. The family sits down comfortably while their gasoline engine chugs away upstream. The salmon fishing fleet has been revolutionized as by a magician's wand, obliterating at one fell sweep the charm of sails and spars—the yearly labor of getting ready for "the run."

But if the least of our craft take this forward step it was only to be looked for that the largest boats should follow suit, and so in the stokehold of the Transfer there are no black diamonds today, while over in Esquimalt the big trawler Roman is now being converted into an oil burner.

In hospitals, schools, offices hotels, the advantages of oil are being appreciated, while the householder himself, has visions of the day when the coal man shall be a caller no more. Westminster enjoys an ideal location for the handling of oil and all that it is associated therewith, and there is little doubt that much advantage will accrue to the city from this new development.

But lest we be carried away with undue enthusiasm for oil, it is well to reflect that behind the little fishing craft and the greyhound cruiser there lurks the shadow of the trusts. The power of the great oil king of America is now threatened by a British competitor, but whether one interest or two will lower or raise prices appreciably yet remains to be seen. Local conditions will always settle whether oil or coal is the more economical.

Again, and perhaps second only to her agricultural resources, the wealth of British Columbia will be found to lie in her coal fields. A famous Welsh coal owner states that anything that tends to check coal mining deals a blow at industry generally. He points out how the prosperity of England, of Germany, of the United States has marched side by side with the development of the coal areas of those countries. This may be an interested view, but is deserving of consideration especially to us in this province.

But, just as gas has flourished despite the introduction of electric light, so we believe it will be found that oil and coal will together serve the needs of mankind. Bickerings will result here and there, but the greatest good to the majority will be assured.—Westminster Daily News

Some years ago the citrous fruit industry in the United States was faced with the same conditions as the fruit industry in British Columbia, when a 2000 carload output glutted the markets at that time supplied and left the growers face to face with ruin for the time being. Some were ruined and got out, but the rest, pulling themselves together, remodelled their selling organizations, sought new markets and today, with a 59,000 carload output, are finding they cannot supply the demands of the whole of the North American continent fast enough. So much for the fears expressed of over-production. The world markets are big enough for all that will ever be grown if they are attacked intelligently. — . E. Scott.

The year 1913 will not be without the usual quota of freak legislation. A Missouri legislator has introduced a law to compel every bachelor over 21 years of age to support one orphan child, the only escape being by the honeymoon route. An Illinois statesman wants to tax all bachelors over 32 years of age for the benefit of orphan asylums. The glaring injustice of this perversion of the single tax lies in the fact that the victims of class legislation are such by circumstances over which they have no control and not by choice.—Grand Forks Gazette.

Turkey may have deteriorated as a nation of fighters. But her diplomatists seem to be still on to their job. With Roumania threatening to fight Bulgaria, and with the old game of calling in the great powers likley to be resumed, things seem to be looking up a trifle for the Porte. However, there is the consolation that men like Mr. F. W. Hirst of the London Economist say that neither the allies nor the Turks can raise the money to go on with the fighting, despite all their talk about doing so.—Ex

THE SECRET OF THE MACHINES.

We were taken from the ore-bed and the mine,
We were smelted in the furnace and the pit—
We were cast and wrought and hammered to design'
We were cut and filed and tooled and gauged to fit.
Some water, coal and oil is all we ask,
And a thousandth of an inch to give us play,
And now if you will set us to our task,
We will serve you four and twenty hours a day!
We can pull and haul and push and lift and drive;
We can run and jump and swim and fly and dive;
We can see and hear and count and read and write!

Would you call a friend from half across the world?
If you'll let us have his name and town and state,
You shall see and hear your crackling question hurled
Across the arch of heaven while you wait.
Has he answered? Does he need you at his side?
You can start this very evening if you choose,
And take the Western Ocean in the stride
Of thirty thousand horses and some screws!

Do you wish to make the mountains bare their head
And lay their new-cut forests at your feet?
Do you want to turn a river in its bed,
And plant a barren wilderness with wheat?
Shall we pipe aloft and bring you water down
From the never-failing cisterns of the snows,
To work the mills and tramways in your town,
And irrigate your orchards as it flows?
It is easy! Give us dynamite and drills!
Watch the iron-shouldered rocks lie down and quake
As the thirsty desert-level floods and fills
And the valley we have dammed becomes a lake!

But remember, please, the law by which we live,
We are not built to comprehend a lie,
We can neither love nor pity nor forgive
If you make a slip in handling us you die!
We are greater than the Peoples or the Kings—
Be humble, as you crawl beneath our rods!—
Our touch can alter all created things,
We are everything on earth—except The Gods!
Though our smoke may hide the Heavens from your eyes,
It will vanish and the stars will shine again,
Because for all our power and weight and size,
We are nothing more than children of your brain!

Miss Louie Coventry was in Revelstoke Sunday paying her respects to a dentist.

Mrs. Gordon Grant and little son Alex have gone to Victoria to visit Mrs. Grant's sister, Mrs. Risk, and to consult a specialist with regard to the little boy's health.

The Ladies' Aid will hold a ten cent tea at the Hospital on Thursday afternoon the 23rd. inst.

It is a question whether it was the circle around the moon for three nights previous or the boys cleaning off a skating rink on the lake on Wednesday afternoon that caused the snowstorm Wednesday night.

After being closed since December 21st the second division of the public school opened again on Monday. The new teacher is Miss Fredea, who comes from Chester, Nova Scotia. She is a specialist in domestic science, but as openings for that class of teacher are few in this province she is doing general work until a position in her specialty offers.

Experimental Farms.

The Dominion Minister of Agriculture has just issued a guide to the Dominion experimental farms throughout the continent. It gives a brief history of the growth of these since the present system was initiated in 1886, outlines the purposes for which they are kept up, and furnishes a short review of the work being carried on at each—with plans of buildings and plots. In this Province the original farm was established at Agassiz in 1889, but now fifty-two acres have also been obtained at Invermere, which will be devoted to fruit growing and a third station at Thomas Crossing, on the Saanich Peninsula. In addition the problems of a semi-arid district are being studied at Kamloops, and on his farm at Salmon Arm, Mr. T. A. Sharpe is testing varieties of fruit for the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

Good Old Summer Time

How dear to our hearts are those warm days of summer,
When fond recollection presents them to view,
As icicles hang from our half frozen nostrils
And we breathe in the air that is thicker than dew.

Oh! how we long for those days that are warmer,
When ice cream is purchased at ten cents a throw,
When we don't have to shiverin heavy wool clothing
Or carry our carcass through three foot of snow.

Those are the days that we long for in winter
When the earth is all covered with blankets of snow,
When we sit by the fire and know as we shiver
That the mercury's hanging at forty below.

When talking of weather all men they are growlers,
This one little fact they seem never to know,
In the coldest of weather they're praying for summer,
In the heat of the summer for forty below.

NOTICE is hereby given that meetings of the Proviucial Labor Commission will be held at the following places:—

Victoria—Tuesday and Wednesday, January 14th and 15th, in the Maple Committee-room of the Parliament Buildings, 10 a.m.

Kamloops—Wednesday, January 22nd, Court-house, 10 a.m.

Salmon Arm — Thursday, January 23rd.

Revelstoke—Friday, January 24th, Court-house, 10 a.m.

Other meetings will be announced later.

The Commission will hear evidence on all matters affecting labor conditions in the Province. All persons interested are invited to be present.

Ernie Bradley and Ned Kyle, worn out with the excitement of life in town, have gone to work in the Adams River Lumber Company's camps.

Mrs. Clark has gone to Kamloops to stay with her husband on his farm, her three sons having gone out of town, one to Vancouver and the other two to the A. R. L. Co's camps.

It sheds a favorable sidelight on the orderliness of our town that the entire local police force has been suffering this week from indigestion. Can't some lawless and sympathetic tough lead the cop a chase once in a while just to keep him in condition?

A sad event that happened on Saturday night about nine o'clock was the death at the Uuderwood Hotel of Harold Conway of 260 Seventeenth avenue east, Vancouver. He had come here for his health but too late to be benefited. The remains were taken to Vanconver and on Tuesday were interred in Mountain View cemetery.

The Knights of Pythias will devote next Tuesday's session to a social evening for the members and their wives and families. Any member who has neither wife nor family may bring a lady friend and if any is so impoverished as to lack even that he will be admitted on giving the semi-annual pass word. Arrangements are in charge of Louis Cumming and Andy Bond. As these gentlemen are experts in the planning of all kinds of social functions everyone may bank on having a good time.

Worth Getting.

The Tribune is in receipt of a booklet entitled "Landscape Gardening and What to Plant" that is well worth a reading by anyone who has grounds to lay out. The typographical appearance of the booklet delights the eye of a printer and the excellent halftone cuts tell more to the amateur than he could glean from many pages of reading matter.

Ten cents mailed to the Fraser Valley Nurseries. Ltd. Aldergrove, B. C., will bring the booklet and may be the beginning for you of more beautiful home surroundings.

CANCELLATION OF RESERVE.

NOTICE is hereby given that the reserve existing by reason of the notice published in the British Columbia Gazette of December 27th, 1907, is cancelled in so far as the same relates to the following described lands, so as to permit of the sale of the timber standing thereon:—

ADVENTURE.

continued, brushing aside the leafy wall of the runway, and exposing a bow so massive that no one bushman could have bent it.

The Binu man traced out the mechanics of the trap and exposed the hidden fiber in the tangled undergrowth that at contact with Koogoo's foot had released the taut bow.

They were deep in the primeval forest. Binu Charley took the lead as they pushed on, and trap after trap yielded its secret lurking place to his keen scrutiny. The way was beset with a thousand annoyances, chiefest among which were thorns, cunningly concealed, that penetrated the bare feet of the invaders. Once, during the afternoon, Binu Charley barely missed being impaled in a staked pit that undermined the trail. There were times when all stood still and waited for half an hour or more, while Binu Charley prospected suspicious parts of the trail.

Where a slight runway entered the main one Sheldon paused and asked Binu Charley if he knew where it led.

"Plenty bush fella garden he stop along there short way little bit," was the answer. "All right you like 'm go look 'm along. Walk 'm easy," he cautioned a few minutes later. "Close up, that fella garden. S'pose some bush fella he stop, we catch 'm."

Creeping ahead and peering into the clearing for a moment, Binu Charley beckoned Sheldon to come on cautiously. Joan crouched beside him and together they peeped out. On one edge of the clearing was a small grass house, open sided, a mere rain shelter. In front of it, crouched on his hams before a fire, was a gaunt and bearded bushman. The fire seemed to smoke excessively, and in the thick of the smoke a round dark object hung suspended. The bushman seemed absorbed in contemplation of this object.

Warning them not to shoot unless the man was successfully escaping, Sheldon beckoned the Poonga-Poonga men forward. Before the bushman could shoot his swift enemies were upon him. He was rolled over and over and dragged to his feet, disarmed and helpless.

"Why, he's an ancient Babylonian!" Joan cried, regarding him. "He's an Assyrian, a Phoenician! Look at that straight nose, that narrow face, those high cheek bones and that slanting, oval forehead and the beard and the eyes too."

"And the snaky locks," Sheldon laughed.

"My word, bush fella kai-kai along that fella boy," Binu Charley remarked.

So stolid was his manner of utterance that Joan turned carelessly to see what had attracted his attention and found herself face to face with Gogoomy. At least it was the head of Gogoomy—the dark object they had seen hanging in the smoke.

Nor was Joan's horror lessened by the conduct of the Poonga-Poonga boys. On the instant they recognized the head, and on the instant rose their wild hearty laughter as they explained to one another in shrill falsetto voices Gogoomy's end was a joke. He had been foiled in his attempt to escape. He had played the game and lost. And what greater joke could there be than that the bushmen should have eaten him?

The Poonga-Poonga men's laughter died down, and they regarded the spectacle with glittering eyes and gluttonous expressions. The Tahitians, on the other hand, were shocked, and Adamu Adam was shaking his head slowly and grunting forth his disgust. Joan was angry. Her face was white, but in each cheek was a vivid spray of red. Disgust had been displaced by wrath, and her mood was clearly vengeful.

Sheldon laughed.

"It's nothing to be angry over," he said. "You mustn't forget that he

IN FRONT OF IT CROUCHED A BEARDED BUSHMAN

hacked off Kwaque's head and that he ate one of his own comrades that ran away with him.

"And don't forget," Sheldon added, "that he is the son of a chief and that as sure as fate his Port Adams tribesmen will take a white man's head in payment."

"It is all so ghastly ridiculous," Joan finally said.

"And—er—romantic," he suggested slyly.

She did not answer and turned away, but Sheldon knew that the shaft had gone home.

PROVINCIAL

Fraser Valley.

The new post office being built at Chilliwack will soon be completed.

New Westminster had thirty inches of snowfall in one week, a record for that district.

During the past year the fruit cannery and the milk condensing plant at Chilliwack have been crowded to their fullest capacity.

Kootenay.

The Windermere board of trade has fifty-two members.

Kaslo will borrow $17,000 to erect a school building of brick and marble similar to the government building in that town.

Fernie, Jan. 17.—The man Barsky, who has been managing the Grand Theatre for some time past, put one over on the owners of the theatre on Saturday night last. He made out a cheque for $5, writing the five at the right end of the amount line in the cheque, and took it to Thos. Uphill for his signature. Mr. Uphill signed it without suspicion. When it was presented at the bank the amount called for was $305 and it was paid without question. Barsky left on the local that night for Cranbrook and probably took the Flyer across the line on Sunday. He leaves a number of unpaid accounts around the city.

Okanagan.

The tax rate in Kelowna is 24 mills. In Summerland it is 12 mills.

Penticton will distribute 3000 illustrated booklets for advertising purposes.

The Farmers' Institute at Enderby will fight the Canada thistle to a finish.

In Kelowna hay is offered at $25.00 per ton and alfalfa at $22.

During 1912 the Penticton fire brigade answered eight calls for fires and two false alarms.

The Enderby team defeated Vernon at hockey last week in a game played on the Enderby open-air rink.

The Enderby Choral Society will appear in a comic opera (Christopher Columbus, in a-merry-key) on Jan. 30.

The contract for the erection of a new public school at Kelowna has been let to Mr Alfred Ivey, whose tender was $54,764.

A petition has been sent from Kelowna to the Provincial Government asking for votes for women. It was signed by 375 persons, of whom 249 were women and 127 male voters.

Weds Peer's Son.

London, Jan. 15.—Miss Olive May, the pretty and popular gaity girl, will be married Thursday to Lord Victor W. Paget, brother and heir presumptive of the marquis of Anglesey, one of the wealthiest men in England. So the actress has carried her point and won, not only Lord Victor's hand, but a social triumph. He has courted her devotedly for a year and while she has confessed her love for him she has broken the engagement twice. For she insisted that unless his family received her on terms of social equality she would never marry him.

She has met the Pagets and they are hers. The marquis of Anglesey, who only recently married the beautiful Lady Marjorie Manners, the Duke of Rutland's daughter, was so captivated by Miss May that he told her he will, of his own volition, make a substanial settlement on her.

Lady Alexander Paget, Lord Victor's mother, is so charmed by the actress' beauty and grace that she has not only given her full consent to her son's marriage, but declared she is anxious to introduce her future daughter-in-law in society.

Miss May was born in Chicago and received her training for the stage at a conservatory there.

Lord Victor, 23 years old, was until recently a lieutenant in the Royal Horse Guards. He has lived at No. 7, Connaught square, but has taken a little flat in Kensington. He does not intend indeed, he cannot afford, to lead an idle life after marriage. Directly after his honeymoon he will enter the stock exchange firm of Bourke, Schifl and Company.

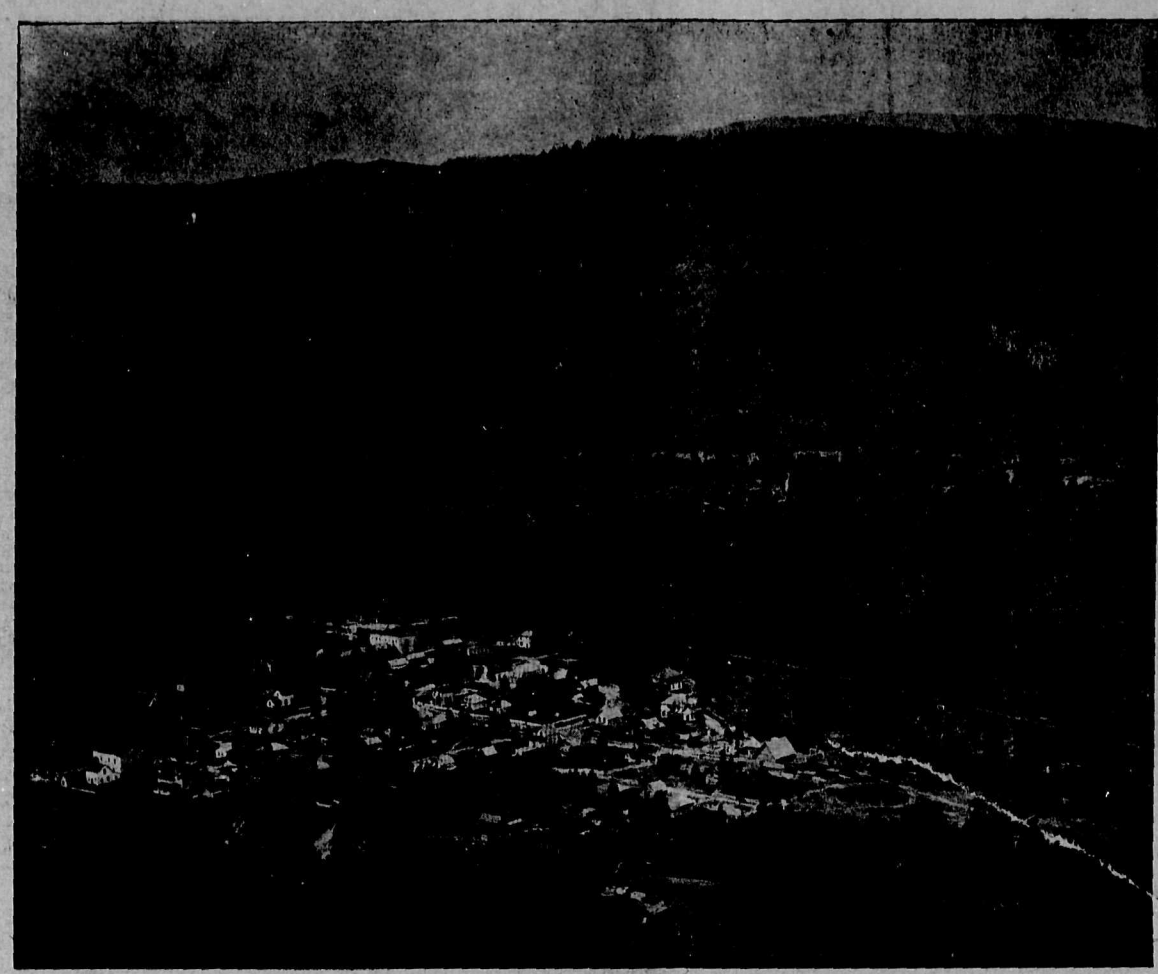
CHASE, BRITISH COLUMBIA



A RESIDENCE TOWN

In choosing a place to live in you must consider:

First: Its convenience as a location for your business. Chase is centrally located on the main line of the C. P. R. about half way between Vancouver and Banff. A man whose business is in the interior of British Columbia could not be better placed.

Second: Its healthfulness. Here again Chase scores. The town is located on a dry gravel bench, which insures dry, clean streets and a warm soil that lends itself to the cultivation of beautiful gardens and grounds. The natural drainage is perfect.

The water supply is of the purest. There has not been a case of typhoid in Chase for more than two years.

The opportunities for recreation are unexcelled. Lake, river and mountain each furnish its own form of sport. For fishing and hunting there is no better district in the province. The growing fleet of boats and the annual regatta bear witness to its fine boating facilities. There is no better bathing beach in the interior than the Chase beach.

Third: Modern conveniences. Chase has an excellent gravity water system with a pressure well over a hundred pounds.

The electric light system is efficient and the rates are reasonable.

Pritchard.

Hugh Sinclair of Duck Range made a trip to Kamloops on Saturday.

Mrs. J. T. Hutchinson was a Kamloops caller one day last week.

W. P. Pritchard made a business trip to Kamloops on Friday of last week.

Charles Edward Jolliffe of Chase spent two days last week at the Haylo-Chuck Sanitorium of dietetics and rest.

Gordon Abbot of Penhentan has accepted a position with the Bell & Ross Logging Company of Watmore.

The Post Office here was changed last Friday from its old stand to Mr. Pritchard's new store.

Douglas Ross, who for the past week has been suffering from a boil, is, we are pleased to state, at present improving.

The Bell & Ross Logging Company have established a camp on the south side of the river and will begin harvesting logs on Ben Murray's place in a few days.

Mrs. J. T. Hutchinson has a new sign erected relating to the sale of general merchandise going on at her store.

M. A. Peel of Back Valley is receiving a visit of a few days from his father, Mr. Peel, sr. is one of the business men of Calgary and is stopping off a few days before completing his journey to the coast.

R. H. Brett, the member of the Farmer's Institute appointed to represent this district at the central Institute which met in Victoria on Tuesday, left for the west on Saturday evening. Mr. Brett is one of our progressive ranchers and may be depended on when at the capital city to do all in his power to benefit the institute which he represents.

A serious conflagration was narrowly averted last Thursday night when one of Mr. Pritchard's buildings, in which were two young men, caught on fire. As both the young men were sleeping at the time the fire started it gained great headway before either of the occupants of the building discovered its presence. They then were only awakened to the situation by a glowing ember tickling one of them under the chin. He came to life with a howl that awakened everyone in the vicinity and made a break for the outside in the clothes which one wears when asleep. A bucket brigade was soon formed and after a great amount of hard labor the flames were extinguished, before doing great damage. Had water been any great distance away one or more buildings would have been destroyed.

Wm. Tifft, who for some time past has been connected with the Adams River Lumber Company at Chase, returned to Pritchard Saturday night.

"Dick" Kinney, McLennan and McFeely's traveller for this part of B. C., was a business caller in Pritchard one day last week. Mr. Kinney expects in the near future to make his permanent home in Chase.

Percival Carr, who for the past several weeks has been visiting at the home of his parents here, left Monday night for Notch Hill where he will join the C. P. R. survey crew of which he has been a member for many months.

Mr. Robert Bell, sr. of Penhentan spent part of Saturday and Sunday in Pritchard. Mr. Bell, who is one of the largest stock raisers in Back Valley, reports weather conditions as normal in that part of the country.

Shuswap.

Dr. J. D. Paxton was in town this week on business.

Mr. Frank White was a visitor at Mrs J. Nelson's on Sunday.

Mr. Godfrey of Kamloops is spending a few days at the Shuswap Hotel.

Mrs. and Miss Sandahl and Mr. M. Balmer of Chase spent Sunday here with Mrs. J. Nelson.

Messrs. L. C. Byers and A. G. Talbot are busy these days, putting up their summer supplies of ice.

Scotty Niven thought the opportunity to bathe while cutting ice was too good to pass. He reports the water is fine.

A sleighing party from Shuswap attended the dance at Chase last Friday night, and they all report having an enjoyable time.

A meeting was held recently to elect a delegate to attend the Central Conservative Association at Kamloops. A. E. Sharpe was chairman and A. G. Talbot secretary. Geo. A. Coburn was chosen as delegate by a good majority.

The funeral of Miss Jessie Walker, daughter of the late Mr. Walker and sister of Mrs. Fred Coburn, took place last Sunday from the residence of Mr. Geo. A. Coburn. The Rev. Geo. Stewart of Ducks was the officiating clergyman.

They were two newsboys.

"Say, Haary," asked the younger one, "what's the best way to learn a girl how to swim?"

"Dat's a cinch. First you puts your left arm around her waist. and gently takes her left hand—"

"Come off; she's me sister."

"Aw, push her off de dock."

Sorrento

Received too late for insertion last week.

Mrs. J. Reedman of Blind Bay has gone to the hospital in Kamloops, and her two small sons, are visiting with their teacher, Miss Rhodes.

Captain Hilliam has had his sister from Lincolnshire visiting him and the shortness of the visit of such a charming personality as Miss Hilliam's, leaves regret in the minds of all who had the privilege of meeting her.

On Sunday it was eight degrees below zero in Sorrento and a wind blowing and at Notch Hill it registered 16 below yet despite the cold, the Rev. G. Stewart came on from Ducks and held a Holy Communion Service in St Mary's church that was attended by a valiant few.

Messrs Syson have nearly finished their big store on the top of the hill and though it cannot be called a thing of beauty, it will undoubtedly be "a joy forever" from its very situation in the heart of the new townsite, that will soon be a hive of industry with the advent of railway camps and workers.

The Sorrento School re-opened on Monday the 6th, but a heavy snow storm kept all pupils in their homes but three living near. And Wednesday the school was closed with the Trustees' permission on account of heavy drifts of snow impossible for children to get through.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Davidson are back at their Sorrento "Homehaven," from Montreal, their old home, where they have had a delightful visit; a great reunion of old friends and relations and have made many new ones. Their journey back to Sorrento was an enjoyable one altogether but en route to Montreal Mr. Davidson had to stay off at Winnipeg, in much pain with a poisoned finger, which is ,however, entirely better now.

Mr. and Mrs. F. St George also came back on the same train as Mr. and Mrs. Davidson and they bring back word of improved health of Mr. St George's mother whom they found dangerously ill on their arrival in Montreal. Mrs. J. Kinghorn, has, for sometime held herself ready to go to her mother's bedside and is relieved at the news brought her by her brother.

Notch Hill.

A new lot of books recently arrived for the public school here.

W. T. Smith recently received a lot of combination boxes for the post office.

Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Smith returned from the coast last week.

A C. P. R. suvey gang is here making a six week survey of the proposed railway around the lake.

Rufus Hammond and Walter Dunne recently shipped three cars of piles to Kamloops.

Salmon Arm West.

Norman Rumball returned home from the coast on Saturday.

Lester Camron left last week for Enderby.

W. J. Kew has sold the front half of his farm to Mr. Whittle of Canoe Creek.

There will be a good attendance from the valley at the masquerade on Friday evening.

T. Hope Morgan has kindly lent his house for Sunday school meetings. Had this not boen done, Miss Clark and a few other silent bodies would have held it in the new school house.

There is considerable excitement around the valley just now over a dog shooting scrape. J. Armour has accused W. C. Kellington of shooting and killing his dog. The case is not yet settled as Mr. Armour can't prove that "Kelly" did it.

The rerult of the district election came as a great surprise to all who were interested in municipal matters on this side of the district. W. J. Kew (ex-reeve) was defeated by 50 majority, Murdock Mackay being his opponent. The referendum bill for advertising purposesalso failed to go through.
