Interior Women's Institute Convenes

Regulation Creston Valley weather, a record-breaking turnout of delegates from all tho institutes interested, a distinguished lot of special speakers for the occasion, along with an able presentation of many timely papers which have evoked an equally lively discussion, have featured the annual conference of the Kootenay and Boundary Districts Women's Institutes which has been in session at Creston since Tuesday evening, and which will conclude its official labors this (Thursday) afternoon. The finish-up to the gathering will take the shape of a banquet at the Parish Hall to-night, while on Friday morning members of Creston Board of Trade and others are supplying automobiles to give the visitors an auto trip over the Valley.

The conference has been ably presided over by Mrs. Chalmers of Thrums, the Kootenay-Boundary representative on the provincial advisory board, and amongst the other notables present are D. Warnock, deputy minister of agriculture, who officially opened the proceedings, and Hon. John Keen, M.P.P., of Kaslo, who favored with a decidedly interesting address on Wednesday night on "The Laws of Inheritance as they Affect Women and Children in B.C." Nelson has supplied its full quota of speakers in Dr. Isobel Arthur, whose health talk on Wednesday was a feature of the morning session, dividing the honors with Mrs. Garland Foster whose paper on "Weaving" was equally well received at the Wednesday night session.

All told there are in the neighborhood of forty visitors here for the affair who, with few exceptions have been hospitably entertained in homes in town and nearby. The Methodist Ladies Aid have rendered valuable assistance by serving noon-day meals each day for the convenience of those billeted too far from town. All the sessions have been well attended by townspeople as well as the delegates the turnout at the Wednesday sessions averaging about 100.

The secretarial work is being looked after by the provincial secretary, Mrs. MacLachlan, who is heartily welcomed on a return visit after just recently speaking here on public health nursing matters.

Owing to a shortage of space we are compelled to omit even the full list of delegates, as well as the proceedings of Thursday, but these will appear next week, while in later issues we hope to publish some of the papers which were given.

Delegates arriving on the noon train on Tuesday were received by the local Institute ladies and taken to lunch at the Methodist church. The delegates from Crows Nest points met those from the west at a tea in Speers' Hall on the arrival of the afternoon train, a pleasant feature of which were a piano selection by Mrs. Ebbutt of Creston, and recitations by Mrs. McGregor of Penticton, and Mrs. Ashby of Bonnington.

Opening Session, Tuesday

The opening session of the conference was on Tuesday evening, Mrs. Chalmers of Thrums presiding. The delegates were fittingly welcomed in a brief address by Mrs. H. Lyne, president of Creston Institute. The response was by Mrs. McLean of Nakusp who referred in complimentary terms to Creston hospitality, and the great good and uplift to humanity to be obtained from the convention.

Mrs. Chalmers referred feelingly to the death of Mrs. Blackwood-Wilemar and various other members. She also indicated the line of work to be taken up at the sessions to follow. She suggested women's institutes should take up the matter of dress for women.

Dr. Warnock, deputy minister of agriculture, was then introduced, and in opening referred in pleasing manner to his position as superintendent of institutes, and looked forward to having federal aid to assist in federation of institutes, which was the hope of the institute of the future.

He urged co-operation in all matters especially public health, which is largely a matter for the institutes, with the department ready to give every aid. There are now 73 institutes in B.C. with nearly 3000 members. In two years there will be 100, due to the opening up of an enormous area in central B.C., where it will be necessary to greet the stranger within the gates. There will be a greater immigration next year of ex-service men and also of ex-service women. He stated that the report on conditions in Canada made by Miss Pott and Miss Girdler, who visited the district last year, was somewhat discouraging as they considered the work was too much of a pioneer character for their women. Later investigators had reported more favorably regarding farming in poultry, small fruits, beekeeping, etc. These settlers coming out will have co-operative assistance of the provincial government. He hoped some time soon to be able to arrange for all members of institutes having a conference twice a year. It would be expensive, but would have a benrficial effect.

Mrs. Fadden, the Vancouver member of the advisory board, was called upon to speak on "Home and Civic Life," and referred to the practical service women had rendered in civic affairs. She particularly urged all women to avail themselves of the privileges of the franchise, and mentioned the advantages of improving the material side of life and by so doing stimulate development of mind and soul.

On the chairman calling upon members to discuss matters arising out of Mrs. Fadden's address. Mrs. MacLachlin spoke of health inspection of public schools as being a matter of the very first importance. Mrs. Mohr of Willow Point spoke of the desirability of women trustees on rural school boards. Mrs. Thurston gave a comic recitation which was received with much applause.

Mrs. Howe of Nelson, as oldest member, was called upon to say a few words. spoke in a humorous strain of the generous treatment by Creston paople, and referred with gratitude to the institute for their kindly consideration of herself when she was a stranger within the gates.

Wednesday Morning

Wednesday morning's session opened with devotional exercises by Rev. G. Knox, followed by the national anthem, after which the chairman announced the selection of the following committees :

Resolutions—Mrs. Mohr, Willow Point; Mrs. Fenton, Cranbrook; Mrs. Thorburn, Rock Creek; Mrs. McLean, Nakusp; Mrs. Lyne, Creston.

Library—Mrs. Pitts, Nelson; Mrs. Scott, New Denver; Mrs. Porter, Burton; Mrs. Sprack, Tarrys.

School—Mrs. Quance, Robson; Mrs. Lytle, Crawford Bay; Mrs. McConnell, Harrop; Mrs. Humphrey, South Slocan; Mrs. Hepburn, Fruitvale.

Dr. Isobel Arthur of Nelson then gave a paper on "Housing and Care of Tuberculosis." Dr. Arthur referred to work of the institutes during wartime and indicated that there was still plenty of opportunity for self-effacement and service, as there were now other enemies in our midst that menaced our homes. Education is vitally essential; people who have T.B. are not to be used as lepers.

1. Everyone having T.B. is not a menace to society. Where there is no sputum and no open sores there is little menace. 2. A patient who knows how to take care is no danger to an adult. 3. Protection of children in infancy and early life does a great deal as it is now held that infection really occurs at this period and may render a patient immune if not too great, or may be inactive and develop later. 4. Tuberculosis is not hereditary but acquired. A child is free from disease at birth, even should one or both parents have the disease.

Prevention depends upon fresh air; food in which there is a large supply of vitamines, and living under sanitary conditions with rest and sleep.

Dr. Arthur discussed adequate hospital accommodation and health inspection and favored treating patients in proximity to their own homes where possible.

The discussion was opened by Mrs. McGregor of Penticton who quoted several authorities as to their ideas of treatment of these cases, and what has been done in B.C., Manitoba and Ontario in connection with soldiers re-establishment clinics.

Discussion was then halted to allow Dr. Henderson of Creston to give a demonstration of the method of conducting examination of pupils to public schools. He gave an eyesight test which showed case of defective vision. The discussion then took place as to advantages of consulting opticians without first having the advice of an oculist.

The remainder of the hour was occupied with discussion on pediculosis that at times proved ludicrous and at times pathetic. A vote of thanks was moved by Mrs. MacLachlan, seconded by Mrs. Fadden, to Dr. Henderson for his intererting and instructive demonstration. Further discussion of Dr. Arthur's paper was adjourned until the afternoon session. The meeting was favored with a piano solo by Mrs. Crompton before closing.

Wednesday Afternoon

Wednesday afternoon's session opened with a discussion of Dr. Arthur's paper and several resolutions to be considered regarding health inspection. The chairman also read greetings from Mrs. Watt, who wrote of the great success of Women's Institutes in Great Britain.

The roll call on prohibition was then taken, after Mrs. Hugh Ross of Nelson had explained the difference between the Prohibition Act as it is to be amended and government control. It developed that while the majority seemed to favor prohibition it was not controlled prohibition but the bone dry law. Very little seemed to be known about what government control would involve.

Mrs. Lytle of Crawford Bay gave a paper on Schools, in which she advocated the co-operation of parents both with the teacher and the government. There was considerable discussion of this subject in which Mrs. Keen, Mrs. MacLachlan and Mrs. Porter were prominent.

A vocal solo by Miss Muriel Knott and a recitation by Mrs. Ashby came next, and then Mr. Kidman of Crawford Bay gave a comprehensive paper on Agriculture. Many questions were asked about his method of propagating potatoes, though interest seemed chiefly to centre around his recommended plan of using elderberry juice instead of sugar in preserving fall fruits such as plums.

Wednesday Evening's Public Meeting

The Wednesday evening session took the shape of an open meeting, which attracted an audience that filled Speers' Hall to capacity. Proceedings opened with the singing of the Maple Leaf Forever, and throughout the session literary numbers were contributed by Mrs. McGregor of Penticton, and Mrs. Thurston of Creston, while two vocal solos were contributed by Mrs. D. C. MacKenzie of Creston.

The first speaker was Hon. John Keen, M.P.P., of Kaslo, whose talk was on the "Laws of Inheritance as they Affect Women and children in B.C." Quite briefly but with remarkable clearness Mr. Keen sketched the inheritence laws of the province since its inception pointing out that at the beginning no provision at all was made for the widow and children. Later it was amended so that the widow was looked after provided there was no will to the contrary, while at present the statutes provide she shall have half of the estate of an intestate if there are no children, and one third of it in any case.

There was a very lively discussion of the subject in which various suggested amendments were brought forward. Mr. Keen's advice to the ladies was to see to it that they and their husbands avoided all trouble of this sort by making wills, and that if progress was to be made in improving the inheritance law those interested should get together and unitedly prepare such amendments and submit them to the legislature for consideration.

The second paper was on "Public Health Nursing," the speaker being Miss Kelly, who is now engaged in that line of work in the Waldo and Baynes district. She spoke enthusiastically of the beneficial results that are already in evidence after but a few months effort, especially emphasizing the good work that can be done amongst the school pupils by teaching them healthful habits in connection with their schoolroom life and by paying attention to them where they are absent from school due to illness—in the latter case also meeting their parents under most favorable circumstances. In rural schools particularly she urged provision for serving hot lunches or drinks at the noon hour.

The evening session concluded with a paper on "Weaving" by Mrs. Garland Foster of Nelson, which was rendered doubly interesting by the exhibiting of samples of hand woven products, some of which she had done herself while overseas on hospital work during the great war, while other samples of linens, yarns, etc., were the product of the Doukhobors at Brilliant.

Mrs. Foster said it was a matter for regret that the old spinning and weaving industries of pioneer days had been allowed to disappear. At one time both linen and woollen articles had been manufactured in the home. The object of the paper was to revive, if possible, a useful and beautiful occupation. The present high cost of woollen goods opens a real field for hand loom industries. There is a very ready market for rugs, carpets, tweed and serges. The cost of installing a loom is not great. The woodwork can be made locally and the parts can be procured from the British mills. Probably $300 would cover the entire cost of equipping a local industry and the teacher's salary might be covered soon by the sale of goods manufactured. Doubtless an industry of this sort is worth considering as a Women's Institute enterprise for it carries with it great good to all communities undertaking it and is essentially woman's work.

Canyon City

School re-opens on Tuesday with Misses Corbett and Knott again in charge. Thus far nothing definite has emanated from the department as to a new building, and at present it looks as if last year's teaching facilities will have to suffice for another year.

Mrs. G. Strong was taken to Cranbrook the latter part of the week, where she is undergoing treatment at St. Eugene hospital.

The Canyon City section was favored with a rainfall of almost half an inch the latter part of the week, which at least has laid the dust and cleared the air of smoke.

Residents of the Valley will await with interest the experiment at the C. O. Rodgers farm where about five acres of sunflowers are about to be harvested and will be fed as ensilage. Despite a quite dry season some of the sunflowers are about ten feet high.

Mrs. T. Hickey got back a few days ago from her trip to Nanton, Alta., and the family are now occupying the house on the Fraser ranch.

Thanks to the generosity of the trustees Canyon school pupils will have opportunity to figure in the school district's competition at the Creston fair next month. Two $5 prizes are hung up for the best map of Kootenay and best half bushel of potatoes.

C. Blair's advance haymaking crew will commence preliminary operations at the Reclamation Farm the latter part of the week. This year's cut of hay will depend on the outside demand for this class of feed.

During the visit here last week of Messrs. Barrow and Davies of the Land Settlement Board, Manager Rodgers of the Canyon City Lumber Co. sold the firm's caterpillar engine to the Lister Settlement. At stump-pulling work the caterpillar has done excellent work on the Lister area, and will be kept steadily on the job.

Erickson

Erickson Union Sunday School will re-open this Sunday, Sept. 5th, at 10.30 a.m. In order to arrange matters for the winter's work and the coming annual picnic a large turnout of both parents and pupils is asked for.

A Rev. D. Robertson of Strathcona, Alta., has signified his willingness to become rector of the English Church at Rossland, and has been notified that the congregaeion will try him out.

The skating rink at Phoenix has been sold and is being torn down. The proceeds will likely be used to erect a suitable memorial to the Phoenix men that fell in the great war.

An idea of how the town of Penticton has been developing may be gleaned from the fact chat in the past twelve months over 100 additions have been made to the list of city water users.

Rossland's war memorial, a brass tablet purchased with the commissions earned on the sale of 1919 Victory Bonds, is about ready to be placed. It will show the names of 29 Rossland recruits killed in the great war.

Stand Up For the Law

Recent events in Canada, both east and west, point to the necessity of great care being exercised, not so much by the authorities, perhaps, as by the people in general to safeguard one of the Dominion's finest traditions and at the same time protect the liberties of the citizen.

Canada has long been recognized throughout the world, and especially in the great republic to the south, as a country where law was respected and obeyed, where even-handed justice was administered to high and low, rich and poor alike, and where sooner or later the long arm of the law would get the guilty. In the United States, where so many murderers escape just punishment for their crimes, where the law's delays are almost interminable, and where, as a result of a lack of public confidence in the machinery of justice, lynchings are not infrequent, the reputation borne by Canada was an invaluable asset. It is an asset Canada cannot afford to lose, nor allow to be lessened.

A few weeks ago, however, a group of men in southern Saskatchewan took the law into their own hands and drove a labor agitator out of the country, threatening him with tar and feathers if he returned. On August 16, at Thorold, Ont., a mob stormed the town jail and finally set fire to it in an effort to take a prisoner from the officers of the law in order that they might execute him themselves, although he had not yet been found guilty of the crime of which he was accused. Fortunately, common sense and an appeal to British fair play was effective in restraining the passions of the mob before it took the irretrievable step.

People, however, must be on their guard against such exhibitions and acts, if Canada is not to suffer in the eyes of the world, and the rights and liberties of its own people placed in jeopardy. Even in the earlier days when the west was "wild and woolly," and at the time of the great stampede to the Yukon, law was maintained and respected so effectively as to call forth the admiration of all countries. It is as necessary as ever that it should continue to be maintained. The world has passed through a great war when human life seemed to be the cheapest commodity in the world, and as a result many people do not look upon the take of human life as seriously as of old. But the old conception of the sacredness of human life must be fully re-established, and it is the duty of all citizens to assist by precept and practice to such restoration, and to oppose by all legitimate means in their power anything that tends to weaken and destroy confidence in the law.

The maintenance of law and order is the foundation of any organized state. Without respect for law, and [illegible] order, society could not exist, all property would soon cease to have [illegible] value, family ties would be dissolved, and human life ultimately be the plaything of the murderer and assassin.

[illegible] law, and respect for [illegible] would follow the [illegible] of law—and disorder [illegible] supreme. All man[illegible] to only one law—[illegible] jungle, the law that might [illegible] and will prevail.

[illegible] realizes in their [illegible] beings that this is true, and that the whole organism on which human society rests has been evolved and erected because of general acceptance of the absolute necessity of a state of law and order. Mob rule is evil and vicious in the highest degree.

The maintenance of order rests absolutely in respect for and the upholding of the law. And the upholding of the law—which, after all, is but the concrete expression of the will of the majority of the people—is dependent upon respect for and unqualified support of those who are appointed to administer the laws which the people through their elected representatives have enacted for the common good and protection of all.

There can be only one outcome resulting from a loss of public confidence in the administration of justice in this country, and through the acts of the people taking the law into their own hands—law will be superceded by license; anarchy will replace order. Life and property will become playthings of the passions of men, and all those precious liberties and that freedom, to defend and maintain which our heroic soldiers died and suffered in their hundreds of thousands, and which alone can be maintained under a system of law and order, will be destroyed, and a state of disorder and chaos prevail.

Every person who joins in or cheers on a mob is undermining the very foundations of that law which is his own safeguard and the protection of his family and his property.

SUMMER HEAT HARD ON BABY

No season of the year is so dangerous to the life of little ones as is the summer. The excessive heats throws the little stomach out of order so quickly that unless prompt aid is at hand the baby may be beyond all human help before the mother realizes he is ill. Summer is the season when diarrhoea, cholera infantum, dysentry and colic are most prevalent. Any of these troubles may prove deadly if not promptly treated. During the summer mother's best friend is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach and keep baby healthy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

To Make a Pound of Honey

It is Clear That the 'Busy Bee' is Well Named

The Manchester Guardian quotes experts as saying that this is to be a good season for honey, and it adds that many people will welcome the news, though few realize the enormous effort a single pound of honey necessitates on the part of the bees. "In a pound jar," The Guardian explains, "there is the concentrated essence of over 60,000 flowers. It is calculated that to make a pound of clover honey the bees must take nectar from 62,000 blooms and make 2,750,000 visits in the process. Often the journey from the hive to the flowers and back runs to two miles, so that the making of a pound of honey entails journeys aggregating over 5,000,000 miles. When it is remembered that a single colony of bees will produce from sixty to eighty pounds of honey in a season it is clear that the 'busy bee' is well named."

From Oxford comes the interesting note that Viscount Rothermere has offered to Oxford University through the chancellor, on certain specified conditions, a sum of $100,000 for the establishment and endowment of a professorship of the history of the United States of America, to be styled the Harold Vyvyan Harmsworth Professorship of American History in memory of his son, Capt. the Hon. 150 Year Old Grape Vine

At Hampton Court, London, in one of the greenhouses is the famous vine planted in 1768 by "Capability" Brown, a famous landscape gardener of the eighteenth century. The vine is the Black Hamburg variety. The fruit in recent years has been good, but this season the number and quality of the bunches is rather above the average. The girth of the stem is five feet at the base. Several years ago twelve bunches of fruit from the wonderful vine were shown at a Royal Horticultural Society exhibition and the combined weight was 42 pounds.

SHORT OF BREATH

Could Hardly Walk Without Resting.

When you go to a physician to be examined for any heart trouble one of the first questions he asks is: "Are you short of breath?"

Now, when the heart becomes affected there ensues a feeling of a choking sensation, a shortness of breath, palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating, smothering sensation, dizziness and a weak, sinking, all-gone feeling of oppression and anxiety.

On the first sign of the heart becoming weakened or the nerves unstrung Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are just the remedy you require. They regulate and stimulate the heart, and strengthen and restore the whole nerve system.

Mr. Stephen Crouse, East Clifford, N.S., writes:—"I suffered for five years with heart trouble. I could hardly walk from the house to the barn without resting as I used to get so short of breath. Doctors could not help me. My wife told me to get a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and I felt better after taking them; three boxes made me quite well. I am now helping my son to work the farm, and can truthfully say I feel like a different man."

POLISH TROOPS ARE IMPROVING THEIR POSITION

RED ARMY IS DRIVEN BACK

Bolsheviki Forced to Retire Along A Wide Section of Front

Paris.—Warsaw now seems to be saved from the Bolsheviki. President Pilsudski's armies no longer are obliged to fight a defence battle and are now on the offensive, was the news reaching here from the Polish sources, and the Reds are pausing before attempting to develop their successes. The offensive on the left wing is being personally led by the French generals, Henury and Bilyotte, and already has yielded several hundred prisoners. Once more this will put the Poles in possession of the fork between the Narew and Bug Rivers, while the forces advancing towards Mlawa, which have reached Tsiechanoff, 12 miles to the south of Mlawa, will force Bolsheviki marching towards Plock and Thorn to beat a hasty retreat and consequently reopen the road-line to Danzig.

But the manoeuvre on the right wing, along the line of Garvolin and Paratchoff, between the Vistula and the Bug, is the more interesting of the two from the strategic standpoint, because it threatens communications with Red forces.

These troops have just arrived from the Brody region, and have made rapid headway and have driven the Reds back all along the line toward Brest-Litovsk for distances varying from 25 to 50 miles.

Moscow.—Soviet Russia's position on both the Polish and South Russian fronts was pronounced "generally satisfactory" by Leon Trotzky, Bolshevik war minister in an address here. The speech was delivered at a meeting of the Moscow soviet.

Discussing the military situation, Trotzky declared that on the front against White Poland, our Red troops have fulfilled the fundamental part of their task. The hodling up of our advanced troops before Warsaw in no way alters the situation, as the Polish front is now divided into parts—military and diplomatic— and posseses two centres, one in Warsaw and the other in Minsk.

"The peace negotiations at Minsk are of exceptional importance," continued the war minister, "because they are developing on the unstable foundations of a stormy movement among the workers. Great Britain, also, is passing through an unheard of display of excitement among her workers in connection with the peace negotiations between Russia and Poland.

"On General Wrangel's front," he added, "We are opening the gate wide to our enemies, but we shall assault them in the flank and rear. The fate of the revolution will be decided on the Polish front. This is why we have continued our forces in the west and are only leaving posts on the southern front in connection with the campaign, just to keep Wrangel busy."

Shipping Lines Want Increase

Involving Approximately Sixty U. S. Steamship Lines

Washington.—Great Lakes, Coastwise and gulf carriers, urged the United States shipping board to grant applications involving approximately sixty steamship lines for rate increases in connection with the advances already allowed the railroads by the inter-state board of commerce. A majority of the lines are now operating at deficits which threaten their existence, it is said H. E. Manghum was told by witnesses. Representatives of shippers are now being heard. Owing to the short time until increased railway rates become effective, efforts are being made to expedite the hearings.

Munitions Are Barred

Says Trainmen Not Exploiting Public

Explain That Five- Hour Day Is Not Equivalent to Eight-hour Day of Industry

Toronto.— Declaring that certain evidence regarding the "five-hour day," as given before the Dominion railway commission in connection with the application for increases in freight rates has been misunderstood, and used to make it appear that the strongly organized trainmen, by their demands, have been exploiting the public, and are reported for the further rate increase, a statement has been issued by the executive of the unions.

The principal contradictions are as follows:

1. The basic five-hour day for passenger engineers is not equivalent in any way to the eight-hour day in industry. It is a minimum guaranteed day measurement, for special occasions, very seldom used. The general rule is that engineers in the passenger service are paid on a mileage basis. Their hours of work are most irregular, often extending from twelve to eighteen hours on a single trip.

2. There is not a great deal of overtime in the wages of trainmen, engineers operating passenger trains do not get time and a half for overtime. The only men who receive this are the trainmen and engineers on the slow freight service, which is not the general rule.

3. It is true that time as well as mileage is one of the factors that determine pay, and that delay is sometimes paid for, but this is only on special occasions, and it is untrue to say that there is any inducement for engineers to run slowly or to strive for delays. The inducement is all for operating on time.

4. The present salaries for engineers run from $200 to $250 a month. Their hours are usually very long and irregular, and they are the poorest paid of the highly skilled mechanics, according to the men engaged in that kind of work.

Manifesto to Workers

Says Danger of War With Russia is Not Over

London.—The "council of action" of the British labor party, after a long discussion, issued a new manifesto to the workers of Great Britain declaring that the danger of war was not over.

"This," the manifesto says, "is not the time to be deceived by seeming fair words. Why does not the Premier announce the terms on which England will make peace with Russia? Why is the position with regard to the adventures of General Wrangel submerged?" The manifesto demands a full peace, together with a resumption of trading with Russia and exhorts the workers not to relax their efforts in this direction.

The council has not yet received any word from William Adamson and Harry Gosling, representatives of the council of action," who went to Paris to confer with the labor federation and the executives of the Unified Socialist party.

Deputation Headed by F. J. Dixon Plead Cause of Prisoners At Ottawa

Ottawa. — Pleading the cause of the imprisoned Winnipeg strike leaders, a deputation, headed by F. J. Dixon, leader of the Laborites in the Manitoba Legislature, waited upon two members of the government. It is understood their plea was to the effect that the recent election in Winnipeg demonstrated the people's confidence in the imprisoned men, and served to show that the bulk of public opinion is behind the attitude of the men in forcing a general strike, also that few people believe the imprisoned men had any seditious intentions.

Friends of the imprisoned men here believe that there is every prospect of an early release for the men.

CLAIM RAILWAY IS FACING A HEAVY DEFICIT

AN INTERESTING DISCUSSION

Counsel Suggests There is Less Need For Increased Rates In the West

Ottawa.— An interesting development in the hearing before the railcommission of the application of the Canadian railways for increased freight rates and passenger rates occurred when H. J. Symington, counsel for the government of Manitoba, threw out the suggestion that, in view of the fact that operating expenses are lower and earnings higher on western C.P.R. lines, the same necessity does not exist for an increase of rates in the west.

Mr. Symington had been examining W. J. Moule, assistant comptroller of the C.P.R. at length on the cost of operating in the east and west it being shown that during the past four years net operating expenses in the west are lower than in the east, and the net earnings per train mile are higher, those for 1919 being approximaely eighty percent higher.

"Would you say in view of the figures," asked Mr. Symington, "that freight rates increases should be the same in the west as in the east, if the increase is to be upon the basis of paying money for services rendered?"

Mr. Moule, in reply, said that the operating expenses in the east are largely incurred for the benefit of the west. These include large expenses for port terminals, etc. For this reason, he said, operating ratios are not a proper indication of the earnings on eastern and western lines. Expenses in the east of this kind were not, he said, spread over the entire system.

"Is not more traffic originated in the west for the long haul?" asked Mr. Symington.

Mr. Moule: "I supose it is."

"Even so," interposed Chief Commissioner Carvell, "does it not have to be transported over one thousand miles of waste country?"

Mr. Symington remarked that it was strange that the Lake Superior C.P.R. division was one of the best paying divisions of the C.P.R.

Commissioner McLean compared the Superior division to a bridge which must be maintained, and Mr. Carvell said that without it, production in the west would not amount to much.

Mr. Symington remarked that the west originates most of the traffic and to this Chairman Carvell agreed, "If it were not for the west," he observed, "that section of the railway would not be there at all." He added that it would take a powerful argument to convince him that it was a paying piece of railway.

Earlier in Mr. Symington's examination of Mr. Moule, he emphasized the movement of wheat from the west, contrasting the ratio with other commodities.

Mr. Moule said that while it was not necessarily so, the cost would come down as the density of traffic increased till the point was reached where the line would become choked.

"It costs less to move grain on the prairies than any other traffic?" asked Mr. Symington.

"Yes, but we have a very low rate on it," Mr. Moule replied.

The fight throughout the entire sitting was centred on the statement submitted last week by the C.P.R. and designed to show the need of that company for higher rates if it is to be prevented from having a deficit during the year which will end June, 1921. In that statement it was shown that the C.P.R. faces a possible deficit of over thirty-seven millions of dollars if the existing scale of rates is continued in force.

Finishes Trip to Dawson

Dawson.— H. Kindersley, son of Sir Robert Kindersley, governor of the Hudson's Bay company, has arrived here accompanied by T. P. O'Kelly. They left Edmonton early in the summer, travelled the full length of the Mackenzie river to Fort McPherson and by way of the Porcupine river to this city. They are leaving by steamer for Vancouver by way of White Horse and Skagway.

Gruesome Discovery In Hudson River

Headless and Limbless Body of A Woman Is Found By Longshoreman

New York.—The torso of an unidentified woman with head, arms and legs chopped off has been found in the Hudson River.

Clinging to the skin were shreds of clothing of fine material and minute pieces of wrapping paper. This indicated, according to the police, that before being cast into the river the torso had been wrapped in heavy underwear or a blanket and this in turn covered with heavy wrapping paper and bound with strong cord. The police explained the operation that the package probably had been weighted down, but that water had rotted the wrappings and the torso allowed to come to the surface.

Medical officers claimed that it had been in the water about two weeks.

The police believe that the woman was about 25 or 30 and weighed about 130 pounds.

Vancouver Airman Killed

Loses Life in An Accident Over English Bay

Vancouver, B. C.—In the sight of his wife and many hundreds of people on the beach, Bert Brenton, purchasing agent for the Union Steamship company of British Columbia, either jumped or fell to his death in the water of English Bay when the seaplane he was piloting became unmanagable and crashed into the sea.

Before the actual fall an explosion was heard and smoke was noticed near the engine and the seaplane turned over seven times in its descent. The machine was brought to shore by a tug and a search is being made for the pilot's body.

Brenton was about a mile out at sea when the accident occurred. He had made a flight over the city previously. He was an experienced aviator, having seen active service overseas, being a captain in the Royal Air Force. He is the last of three brothers, the other two having been killed overseas.

E. H. Beasley, general manager of the same company, was killed in an airplane accident at Minoru park a few months ago.

FRANCE AND U.S. AGREE ON RUSSIAN POLICY

CASE OF GENERAL WRANGEL

Both Countries Agree in Condemnation of the Bolsheviki

Washington. — The United States and French governments are in entire agreement in regard to the future of both Poland and Russia, secretary of state Colby said, in interpreting France's recent construction on the Wrangel case.

France's declaration "of its opposition to the dismemberment of Russia is most gratifying," Mr. Colby said, and added, that "the response is a notable declaration from every viewpoint and brings to the position taken by the United States a striking emphasis and powerful support."

The secretary of state also said that regarding recognition of Gen. Wrangel, "there was a divergence between the two governments, but the United States was disposed to regard the declared agreement of France with the principles of the United States as of more significance than any divergence of policy involved in the specific action of France in this single respect." He declares that France is of the same opinion as the United States "concerning the present rulers of Russia, and points to condemnation of the Bolsheviki in language almost identical with that employed in the United States note to Italy."

Rumors or Insurrections in Korea

Tokio. — Advices from Seoul say there are rumors that Koreans are planning insurrectionary demonstrations upon the occasion of the visit of the United States congressional party to that city. The United States congressmen are at present in China, returning from an inspection of affairs in the Philippine Islands.

CRESTON, B.C., FRIDAY, SEPT. 3

Pheasants

It would be a wonderful and instructive instance of good arising out of evil, if the grasshopper plague in the West caused the introduction in large numbers of that princely grave bird, the English pheasant.

As is well known in the mother country the pheasant has an enormous appetite for the larvae of obnoxions insects, and also consumes most of the insect pests inimical to the farmers interests.

Prominent among the pests ravenously destroyed by the pheasants are the wire worm or potato grub the potato bug, the squash bug, the cucumber and bean leaf beetle, the tomato and cut worms, cabbage worms, the millers which deposit the eggs of the wire worm, as well as many other bad smelling bugs.

The Chinese ringneck pheasant is also fond of grasshoppers' eggs and is especially a destroyer of the locust, which deposits its eggs on the earth in dry places, as well as the larvae of any insect which may be found there.

The pheasant chooses the dandelion and the bulbs of the buttercup as two of its vegetable delicacies. Of grass he has a liking for white and yellow clover, alfalfa and red and yellow sorred, but when there are plenty of dandelions and buttercups he will make those his principal vegetable diet.

The birds are very fond of many of the wild seeds, such as legumes and thistle, wild carrots, sunflower, wild lettuce, mayweed, marsh elder, mustard seed and many other seeds.

Many of the insects that are injurious to the corn and wheat crops are destroyed by pheasants. These birds will not attack the grain or ear of the corn until late in the season, after insecet food is scarce.

In North Dakota an experiment on a fairly large scale is being made with the rarity known as the Chinese ringneck pheasants.

The state Game and Fish Board of North Dakota has learned from good authority that this particular pheasant is a very hardy bird and will thrive in any climate. The pheasant, especially the Chinese ringneck and English varieties, are the most valuable of the insect eating birds as well as the most attractive and early sought game birds, of all the five species that can be raised in captivity or in a semi-domestic way, and are easily kept in the district in which they are propagated.

That the western grain-growers may be aided by their governments to fight successfully against the hoppers, is the desire of every Canadian interested in this country's progress.

All sportsmen will be delighted if it should be established that the pheasant is a bird necessary as an auxiliary to the agriculturists. Perhaps some of the western legislators will look into this matter, or at least follow the North Dakota experiments intelligently.—Com.

REVIEW $2.50 A YEAR

Commencing Monday, Sept. 6, the subscription price of THE REVIEW will be $2.50 a year in advance to Canadian postoffice addresses, and $3 a year to subscribers in the U.S.

While it hardly seems necessary to offer any excuse for this modest raise in rates, it may be of interest to note that six years ago the plain white paper used in THE REVIEW cost 5 cents a pound; now it is just over 12 cents. Ink is at least 100 per cent. higher, and all the other materials used show at least an equal advance—including labor. Besides, THE REVIEW we believe, is a rather better paper than when we took it over about half a dozen years ago.

The label will tell you when your subscription runs out. If it reads "Aug. 20" your subscription has expired. If it shows any month prior to August you are in arrears. If any month beyond August is indicated you are in good standing.

While, naturally, we are not urging those whose subscriptions will not expire until September or thereafter to pay up at once and save four bits, still we have no objection to those so disposed making payment this month and saving the discount.

But we wish to make it quite clear that all who have been billed for subscriptions at the old rate will have to liquidate at the higher price if they fail to make payment before Sept. 6th.

The Virgin of Stamboul

Sari, a beggar girl on the streets of Constantinople, enters the Aya Sophia Mosque, where women are forbidden to clean their soul. She has attracted the attention of Captain Pemberton, an American soldier of fortune commanding the Black Horse Troops, who has been warned to beware of her because her soul is as the filth in the street.

The mosque also is the secret trysting place of a young American and the favorite wife of Achmet Hamid, a powerful sheik. Hamid suspects his wife and waits for her at the mosque, and seeing Sari enter, disguised by a veil and followed by the American, the sheik plunges a dagger in his back.

Sari is unable to denounce the murderer, because she had committed a crime in entering the mosque; but fearing her possible revelation the sheik sends an emissary to Sari's mother offering marriage to the begger girl.

In the meanwhile Captain Pemberton has gone to the desert to quell a local uprising and on his return learns that Sari is to marry a wealthy sheik that night. Bribing the emissary, who is to act as proxy in the evil ceremony, Pemberton has his name substituted for that of Hamid and marries her himself.

The sheik discovers the trick, kidnaps both Sari and Pemberton and takes them to his desert stronghold. Sari escapes, rides through the sands to the camp of the Black Horse Troops and summons the dusky warriors to the rescue of their commander.

The wild ride across the desert, the battle at the city's gates and the final triumph of justice and love, are told in a series of the most stirring scenes in "The Virgin of Stamboul," starring Priscilla Dean to be shown at the Peekin Theatre on Labor Day, Monday September 6th.

Pre-emption now confined to surveyed lands only.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes and which is non-timber land.

Partnership pre-emptions abolished, but parties of not more than four may arrange for adjacent pre-emptions with joint residence, but each making necessary improvements on respective claims.

Pre-emptors must occupy claims for five years and make improvements to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivation of at least 5 acres, before receiving Crown Grant.

Where pre-emptor in occupation not less than 3 years, and has made proportionate improvements, he may, because of ill-health, or other cause, be granted intermediate certificate of improvement and transfer his claim.

Failure to make improvements or record same will operate as forfeiture. Title cannot be obtained in less than 5 years, and improvements of $10.00 per acre, including 5 acres cleared and cultivated, and residence of at least 2 years are required.

Pre-emptor holding Crown grant may record another pre-emption, if he requires land in conjunction with his farm, without actual occupation, provided statutory improvements made and residence maintained on Crown granted land.

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites; title to be obtained after fulfilling residential and improvement conditions.

For grazing and industrial purposes areas exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or company.

Mill, factory or industrial sites on timber land not exceeding 40 acres may be purchased; conditions include payment of stumpage.

Natural hay meadows inaccessible by existing roads may be purchased conditional upon construction of a road to them. Rebate of one-half of cost of road, not exceeding half of purchase price, is made.

The time within which the heirs or devisees of a deceased pre-emptor may apply for title under this Act is extended from for one year from the death of such person, as formerly, until one year after the conclusion of the present war. This privilege is also made retroactive.

No fees relating to pre-emptions are due or payable by soldiers on pre-emptions recorded after June 26, 1918. Taxes are remitted for five years.

The girl sat with eyes wide, lips a little apart. Something of the native zealot's flame had caught her own spirit. Her uncle was leaning a little farther across the table, the fork in his slender fingures motionless.

"You mean—?" he asked, looking up slowly.

"I mean that what Gawd had intended to be a big man was spoiled in your city. He came here a very wreck of a bein,' the skin hangin' to his big frame, his arms shot full of blue punctures made by a dope-needle and his nerves completely shattered an' his soul dead as a grass root on a winter hill. An' he told me his story. Gawd, it was an awful story, an' if I cried like a baby, I'm not ashamed to own it."

Mr. Washburn turned towards the doorway again and his wife rose hastily, murmuring something about "havin' to see to things in the cellar."

The girl saw that her eyes were full of tears and oddly, a strange choking lump came into her own throat so that she found it difficult to make the request: "Please tell us about him, Mr. Washburn."

"There ain't much to tell," said the man, coming back to his seat, "cept'in' that he come here broken in body and spirit, a victim to opium er morphine er some like drug. He told me all about it, how the habit first started, how it grew on him, an' how it downed him. He was fittin' himself fer law er some sech profession. Took good marks at all his examinations an' all that, but with the cravin' fer the drug growin' stronger an' stronger. An' then he went down with a crash. Two nights afore the final examination — that was what Dorkin called it—some one of them professor chaps found that some student had broke into his desk an' stole a copy of the examination papers.

"'Course you know without me tellin' ye that them papers was found in Dorkin's room. It was useless fer him to deny his guilt; everythin' pointed to it, so he had to leave the college in disgrace. Everybody turned ag'in him, even them who had been his closest pals. He didn't have no spirit left to fight the drug—simply gave himself up to it, he did. Then, jest afore the end, he come up here."

The parson [illegible] his fingers thro[illegible] [illegible] and sobbed.

"'What's your name?' he asked me, an' I told him.

"'Mr. Washburn,' says he, 'I like your looks an' I'm goin' to tell you somethin' jest on that account. I'm a fugitive,' says he, slow and impressive, 'an' I want to go in hidin' up here in this woods.'

"I reckon I must have started at that, fer he put his hands on my shoulders an' says with a queer little smile that had pain behind it:—

"'Not a fugitive from the law, but from myself. Did you ever hear of a drug-fiend?' he says.

"I nodded.

"'Wall, I'm one,' he says, 'an'—I'm jest about under.'

"He took his hands from my shoulders an' fumbled in an inside pocket of his coat. I remember it was a spring night, an' the sun had left a tiny string of tracks in the sky above Old Creation Hills, an' he stood facin' the lights so that his white face showed up powerful pitiful. I felt my heart warmin' to that big, broken youngster, an 'when he put a pocketbook in my hands I stood thar swallerin' hard an 'tryin' to say somethin'.

"'There's money in that,' he says, 'quite a tidy sum of it. I don't want it. It's yours, if you'll take me back with you an' stay by me till I cave in.'

"'You mean take you back with me to Lookup?' I asks.

"'Yes,' says he, drawin' himself up an 'tossin' his head, 'Lookup.' Then he said it again, jest like he said it afore, slow an' soft like, 'Lookup.'

"I handed him back his wallet an' picked up his bag. 'You're welcome to come along,' says I, 'but not that way. We don't need a whole lot of money up here. All you kin do is pay us your board, same's other people, an' we'll help you fight back,' says I.

"'All you?' he says, sniffin' like, 'will ye?'

"'I said we would,' I answers, 'me an' the doc, an' ther's Mell an' Ross, best plugs in the settlement, an' there's a nice clean bed to home, an' a nice supper, an' a [illegible] a woman who'll make you forget a lot of the things you've [illegible]

"I took out the little leather book an' stood fumblin' with it.

"'Open it,' he says, an' I opened it. There, inside it, lay three tiny bottles an' a leetle shiny instrument which I learned later was called a hyperdermic syringe.

"'What's these?' I asked.

"'He looked at me an' then his eyes dropped to the leather book.

"'They're hell, damnation, death,' he shivers. 'Throw 'em away! Tramp on 'em!' he screams, an' almost afore the words was out of his mouth I'd dashed 'em on the rocks and ground my heel on 'em.

"'Down with hell, damnation and death! 'says I, thinkin' it best to humor him; but he wasn't hearin'. He sort o' swayed, and afore I knowed it he was down before them smashed bottles, gatherin' up the splinters an' weepin' an' wailin' over 'em as though they were his very life.

"I went over to the station an' got big Bill Stover, the agent, to help me put him in the rig; then I took him home here."

Pa Washburn paused and felt for his pipe.

"I ain't goin' to prolong this story none," he said. "All I'm goin' to say is this. That wreck of a man was Dorkin, an 'fer a long time it was which an' t' other would win, all that hell he'd soaked his frame with er this,"—He waved towards the spicy, cloud-flecked out of doors.

"But Look-up won at last. I never saw sech a change worked in a man afore er since. Today there ain't two men in this here Settlement can lift an' carry the load Dorkin kin. He's mighty well liked by everybody, too barrin' a few outlaw trappers sech as Dalton's gang, an' one er two others who are jealous of him on account of his ownin' a sort of private Preserve.

The League's Progress

The League, indeed, is steadily gaining strength and ability to act. It is beginning to make itself felt and it is getting right to the root of international problems. Its newly formed permanent to consider the question of national disarmament, and its decision to establish machinery "for the registration and publication of all future treaties, any not so published to be invalid," are indication of an extremely healthy influence at work in world politics.

The Russian Soviet

Moscow is the Centre of the Power Of Bolshevism

Development of the Soviet government in Russia has been such that today the vast Russian territory, from the Pacific to the Baltic, is divided into three distinct sections in the attitude of the people toward Bolshevism.

In a recent 4,000-mile trip across the entire country, all the way from Vladivostok to the Finnish border, the Associated Press correspondent observed that Soviet support diminished with increasing distance from the capital at Moscow, where the supreme fiats for iron-clad militarism are issued.

In the remote eastern section of Siberia, the Bolshevik admit failure to establish their system and are seeking to create a buffer state known as "The Far Eastern Republic." Siberia proper, from Irkutsk to the Urals, where eight months ago Bolshevism was welcomed as a relief from the Kolchak regime, is ready for another change to anything which will bring economic betterment.

Unearth Skeleton of British Soldier

While digging for a new sidewalk in front of the Stamford high school, near Lundy's Lane, Andrew Fisher found the skeleton of a British soldier buried about eighteen inches below the surface. The skeleton is that of a man well over six feet. Nearby were copper buttons, but it was not possible to identify to which company the man had belonged. A number of lead bullets were beside the remains.

Gentlemen. — Ever since coming home from the Boer war I have been bothered with running fever sores on my legs. I tried many salves and liniments; also doctored continuously for the blood, but got no permanent relief, till last winter when my mother got me to try MINARD'S LINIMENT. The effect of which was almost magical. After two bottles the sores completely disappeared and I have worked every working day since.

Lusitania May be Raised

Newspaper Protests Against Disturbing This Monument to German Outrage

They say that the Lusitania may be raised from her grave on the ocean floor—that it is practicable to hoist the gloomy hulk, with her freight of death and memories, to the surface and the sunshine, where she floated when the torpedo drove home. What purpose would be served in breaking the sleep of those who rest with the Lusitania—the great ship that suffered outrage and became a cause celebre, a symbol of retributive justice against Germany? Irrevocably she should be the property of that very sea that swallowed her, the same that was to be coursed by vengeful destroyers sinking the submarines. When the Lusitania sank she became a surety, held in trust by the ocean, that thereafter the seas should not be stained with murder. The shattered liner holds memory with a firmer grip, there on the floor of the sea, than if she cruised again. And an unimpaired memory of the Lusitania is worth the keeping.—Portland Oregonian.

PALLID CHEEKS MEAN ANAEMIA

New Health Can be Obtained by Enriching the Blood Supply

When a girl in her teens becomes peevish, listless and dull, when nothing seems to interest her and dainties do not tempt her appetite you may be certain that she needs more good blood than her system is provided with. Before long her pallid cheeks, frequent headaches and breathlessness and heart palpitation will confirm that she is anaemic. Many mothers as the result of their own girlhood experience can promptly detect the early signs of anaemia and the wise mother does not wait for the trouble to develop further, but at once gives her daughter a course with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which renew the blood supply and banish anaemia before it has obtained a hold on the system.

Out of their experience thousands of mothers know that anaemia is the sure road to worse ills. They know the difference that good red blood makes in the development of womanly health. Every headache, every gasp for breath that follows the slightest exertion by the anaemic girl, every pain she suffers in her back and limbs are reproaches if you have not taken the best steps to give your weak girl new blood, and the only sure way to do so is through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

New, rich, red blood is infused into the system by every dose of these pills. From this new rich blood springs good health, an increased appetite, new energy, high spirits and perfect womanly development. Give your daughter Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and take them yourself and note how promptly their influence is felt in better health.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail postpaid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Vegetable Stew

Use equal quantites of vegetables, onions, carrots, turnips and potatoes. Take one-quarter pound of butter and brown it slightly. Place in fireproof earthenware vessel with vegetables all sliced, and let simmer for one-half hour. Add pepper and salt to taste. Fill the vessel with water enough to cover vegetables, and let simmer in the oven or on the stove for two hours, or even less, so long as it simmers. This has the flavor of lamb stew.

How to Pop Corn

It is done in different ways, but the most approved method is to pop your corns with Putnam's Corn Extractor—corns pop out for fair, and stay out, too, when removed by "Putnam's." Try this painless remedy yourself, 25c. at all dealers.

Want to go Over Niagara Falls

Applications from nearly thirty men and women have been received by the mayors on both sides of the Niagara river asking for permits to go over the falls. They are being told that they will not be allowed. Meantime, Bobby Leach, who successfully performed the feat some years ago, advertises that he will go over August 29.

Corns cripple the feet and make walking a torture, yet sure relief in the shape of Holloway's Corn Cure is within the reach of all.
