THE CRESTON REVIEW

Vol. XII. CRESTON, B. C., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1920 No. 36

Lister

The haying crew got back the fore part of the week from Kootenay Flats, and Foreman Jas. Erampton has a busy few weeks ahead of him building chimneys on the several new houses that have gone up here this summer.

Lister Conservatives are hard at it at organization work at this end of the Valley. Messrs. Phillips, Webb and Vernon of the local executive were at Canyon on Tuesday night getting things in shape for the campaign at that point.

Premier Oliver, Hon. Dr. King and John Keen, M.P.P., were visitors at Lister on Saturday morning, looking the camp over and also having a conference with the community committee.

Col. Lister left on Tuesday accompanied by Jos. W. Bell, for Kaslo, to be present at the nomination proceedings on the 10th. He motored as far as Sirdar, where he held an organization meeting of the Conservative forces at that point.

Ploughing operations have been halted, and most likely for the season. We had it ten above zero on Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Bagg and family left a few days ago for the coast and, we understand, they will not be returning here again.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Davis are other absentees from camp. They have secured winter leave and he will be employed at the Continental mine near Porthill until spring.

There was a fine turnout of members at the special meeting of the G.W.V.A. on Saturday night, when the local political situation was fully discussed and a plan of action decided upon.

Mrs. Ben Long was a visitor with Moyie friends a few days last week.

Lister will have the pleasure of hearing Evangelist Roper, who is holding forth at Creston, and who will preach at the Methodist service on Sunday morning at 11.30.

In addition to the fortnightly dances, which have so largely featured the social life at Lister in the past, we are now to have more than an occasional musical, literary and dramatic entertainment. This was decided at a meeting convened by Principal Lewis on Thursday night and at which an organization of 31 members were formed for the purpose. The officers chosen for the term were: President, Harry Brown. Vice-pres., Mrs. H. Christenson; Secretary, Miss Clara Austed; Treasurer, John Bird. Executive—Principal Lewis, J. McGee, E. Thompson, V. Liddicoatt, J. Johnston, Mrs. A. W. Brown. Special committees were also struck as follows: Dramatic—H. Lewis, J. McGee, V. Malthouse, Miss Bessie Frampton, E. Stephens. Music—E. Thompson, Miss Flossie Evans, T. Yewberry, Mrs. J. Johnston, Miss Jennie Chalmers. Literary—Mrs. A. W. Brian, Mrs, E. V. Webb, Mrs. V. Liddicoatt, Mrs. N. Stones, Mrs. Gus. Charleson.

Those fortunate enough in having something likely looking for sale in the line of horses, rigs, cows, chickens, etc., are doing quite a trade in camp just at present. P. Nelson, the Pat Burns of Canyon City, makes regular trips here and disposes of considerable meat and vegetable products every time he calls.

Sirdar

Provincial police Vachon of Creston was here on Sunday on his usual semi-monthly official visit.

Mrs. Dennes and Mrs. Touhey and son, Will, were Creston visitors one day last week.

C. M. Loasby was at the metropolis on Friday, accompanied by Mrs. Loasby. C. M. was Sirdar's delegate to the Tory nominating convention in Creston that afternoon.

Miss Marion Swanson of Creston was a week-end visitor here, the guest of Mrs. Rodgers.

Miss Florence Bathie of Wynndel was a guest of Mrs. Touhey for the Social Club dance on Saturday night.

Hans Hage is out in the hills at present in quest of game, but until the arrival of snow he is likely to be out of luck for deer, which are not very numerous. Duck hunters still complain that birds are scarce.

Official announcement is made that Agent Goodmurphy has been awarded the C.P.R. prize for the best new station garden on the Cranbrook division.

Rev. J. S. Mahood had a fairly good turnout for the Church of England service in the schoolhouse on Sunday evening.

So successful are the fortnightly dances of the Social Club becoming that it has been decided to purchase a piano for club use, and a splendid instrument belonging to Jack Cameron has been secured.

In addition to the usual good crowd from here visitors were also on hand from Creston and Wynndel for the dance on Saturday night. Mrs. Edmondson, the well-known Cranbrook orchestra pianist, supplied the music.

Canyon City

Peter Burns and W. Searle have both had to knock off work a few days this month, due to attacks of lumbago, from which they are now recovering nicely.

T. R. Mawson was at Creston on Friday for the Conservative convention, being the official delegate of the Canyon Association. Canyon was largely represented at Premier Oliver's meeting in town the same night.

Phonse Huygens last week had to have the first finger of his right hand amputated. The digit was jammed about a month ago, but at that time the doctor hoped to be able to save the finger.

C. Blair shipped another car of his fat cattle from the Reclamation Farm. The buyer was Joe Walkley of Cranbrook.

The Company had the bad luck to lose one of their heavy work horses at Camp 3 the latter part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Browell were week-end visitors at Spokane, making the round trip by motor.

Jas. Turner is hard at it these days slashing the back portion of his ranch so as to have it ready for spring planting.

Otto Johnson arrived back the early part of the month from Blairmore, Alta., where he has been working the past six months.

Elder Reed is expected here on Sunday night for the usual Latter Day Saints service in the schoolhouse.

Evangelist Roper, who is conducting special meetings at Creston, will be the preacher at the Methodist service here on Sunday, at 3 p.m.

The sawmill will most likely resume operations early next month. In the meantime logging operations are brisk at Camp 3.

At Cranbrook the police court records show an average of at least one case of drunkeness per day at present.

Most of the imported apple pickers have already left the Okanagan—at least two weeks earlier than usual, due to the light crop.

Wynndel

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Mason of Alice Siding have arrived here to take up their permanent residence, and are now busy erecting their new house on the Walter Cooper ranch.

Mrs. D. Male and Mrs. Teddy Cooper returned on Friday to their homes at Balfour.

At a meeting of the Conservatives held here last Thursday to select a Conservative delegate to the nominating convention at Creston on the 5th inst., W. J. Cooper was duly selected.

C. Ogilvie's brother and sister and a friend have been duck hunting here for the past few days, and have taken full toll of the feathered tribe. They returned to Harrop on Wednesday.

We are pleased to see that Sirdar has awakened to the fact that a dance now and again livens things up. We also hope some of the Sirdar people will favor us with their company at our next dance.

John Bathie and the two H. A. Bathie's have just returned from a few days' hunting trip bringing with them a deer—the spoil of the former's gun.

Mrs. Jack Johnson returned this week from a visit with Calgary friends.

J. J. Grady has gone into Creston for a time, where he has business interests that need attention.

H. A. Bathie, jr., and family has moved into the R. Eakin house opposite the Elsie Homes mine.

Preparations are on foot for a short school concert and Christmas tree for the children of the community.

We are glad to see Ken Dewar able to step around as lively as ever again, following a rather severe injury in his knee.

M. Wigen, not finding much to do either at the mill or the strawberry patch, is working off his superfluous energy clearing land, and the noise he creates in the doing of it is by no means small.

Dan Alton of Fernie is rather proud of the fact that he was this year able to raise some spuds that weighed over two pounds each.

Conservative Committee Room

Creston Conservative Association committee room is in the Mallandaine Building. Open 2 to 5 p.m. daily. The public, including the ladies, cordially invited to call.

Haight stood up. "Rot," he fumed—"all danged rot. Whoever heard of such a law? Bosh! I tell you this world is full of smooth sharks who steal and do all sorts of shady things—even murder—and get away with it."

"No, they don't." Timberley's tones were crisp. "They pay—some time. Any day you care to—providing you know how—you may see that story I have just cited enacted here in this forest, Haight. Everything pays, some time, I tell you; everythin."

Haight rose and turned towards the tent. "Of course I know that you owe Dorkin a grudge, and that you're Injun enough to pay in full," he said quietly; "but," he added scathingly, "I never knew before that you had a streak of yellow that would go between you and your purpose and make you grope for a motive."

Timberley reached out and gripped Haight's thin arm in fingers of steel. "Haight," he said sombrely, "you're sick, fanciful; otherwise, I would put you across my knee and spank you good."

Haight turned fiercely upon his friend; then gradually the anger melted from his eyes; the long face became transfigured by a smile. Timberley caught a suspicion of moisture in the blue eyes now appealing to him.

"Haight," he said gently, "there's nothing I can tell you. Come, Musko has dinner ready, and I'm hungry as a hunter."

They ate dinner in silence. Even the Indian, who usually had some plan for canoe trip or sojourn to some noted trout streams to lay before his patrons, was quiet throughout the meal. Fragrant bacon and crisp trout, their vermilion spots still showing dully along their sides, disappeared quickly. Dinner over, Timberley, without so much as a word, caught up his hat, picked up rod and fly-book and turned towards the trail. Haight watched him from the corners of his eyes. "It's sure hell to be turned down by the one girl," he thought. "It's sort-inly working ructions with [illegible]

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

ALL KIDNEY DISEASES RHEUMATISM BRIGHT'S DISEASE BACKACHE DIABETES

You're going to do something you'll regret all your life."

"No, I've already done that. What I'm going to do, I don't just know, definitely. But you can discard that notion of my going back to the city, because I'm not going. I'm going to stick with the big show."

"Hell." Haight breathed the oath fervently, but in his eyes was the glow of admiration he had always felt for Timberley as a fighter and a rough-shod rider over all conflicting obstacles to his ambitions.

With a shrug, he turned back toward the trail; then he paused and said hesitatingly: "I'm leaving tomorrow for a point way up North, Tom. I can't tell you why I'm going, not yet; but you'll know some day, soon—if I have luck. Oh," as Timberley looked up concernedly—"it'll be safe going. I've got that half-breed, Darbo, for guide, and he knows the woods like a book. He knows also what I'm after, and where to get it. I can't say just how long I'll be gone, but you can stay right here with Musko, providing you won't go back to the city, and you'll be all right."

He paused, waiting for Timberley to storm an objection to his going off and leaving him alone with an Indian for company. But Timberley had resumed his former position, elbows on knees, chin in hands.

All he said was: "All right, Haight. See you to-night," and Haight sought the trail, grumbling.

For a long time Timberley sat in deep thought. Then he signed and, picking up rod and creel, made his way to the stream. He stood, watching the sunlight paint the tumbling water, slanting through the trees like a gleaming hand which seemed clutching at the swirling current with golden fingers. He smiled, as he watched it. That current was Destiny, those clutching fingers were mere atoms, who, like himself, were striving to sway it. Well, they couldn't do it. They might as well go with the current.

A narrow trail ran parallel with the stream. Aimlessly Timberley started to follow it. Perhaps it would lead to a larger stream, deeper water which would offer bigger trout.

For nearly an hour he followed the trail which gradually dipped deeper into the heavy forest. Here the lights rested on moss and fern, mellow and golden tinted. Dim and subdued, day groped through the far-reaching aisles of this, the silent sanctuary of the forest, an alien seeking freedom, yet lingering as though loath to creep beyond the wonders here disclosed.

And all the glad, sweet scents of the world seemed lingering in those darkened corridors; rose, jasmine, heliotrope, odors of myrrh and rare sweet scents of orchid. Subtle, illusive, like the Spirit of the Solitude to which they belonged, they formed the incense of God's great cathedral.

Deeper grew the shadows, as the forest became denser; and now, far ahead, grew up the rumble of deep, "strong water."

A little later Timberley heard the gnash and snarl of the rapid, distinctly. The forest lightened and all about welled up the murmur of the wold things; the chatter of squirrels, the notes of nesting wood-birds.

A glade, broad and verdant green, spread out before him, as he emerged from the trees. At its foot a wide stream flashed and shouted, as it dashed between jagged rocks and threw showers of spray upon the wild flowers lifting from its mossy shore.

Timberley caught his breath, as he gazed. Here was a picture his soul could grasp and understand; something strong, vivid, pulsating; something gloriously unfettered, that touched a chord deep within him and made his pulses leap.

His eyes wandered beyond the stream to a sloping tableland gemmed with tiny groves of fir and cedar; beyond these to a blue lake sleeping beneath a sky of swimming topaz. The white cabins in the clearing, he knew, must be those of Lookup Settlement; those lifting hills, beyond, must be Old Creation Hills.

A finger of forest ran out for perhaps fifty yards into the valley. Timberley wanted to view from its other side. There he could secure the full sweep of the wonderful panorama. He cut through the slender neck of trees and stepped out on the farther side.

Then he turned quickly as though to dive back into the forest again. But it was too late. The girl, seated before the easel, had seen him.

Gravely he lifted his hat and stood, waiting for her to speak. She had risen and the flush which had surged to her face at his intrusion had passed, leaving it deathly pale.

Without so much as a glance at him, beyond that first haughty and disdainful look, she picked up her easel and camp stool and moved quickly across the sward to the valley. Timberley, head still uncovered, watched her until the woods hid her, [illegible] a naiad [illegible]. After a time he took himself off and walked slowly down to the stream.

[illegible] at the swirling, [illegible] revolving eddy at the foot of an obstructing rock, backs and [illegible] a big trout leaped, painting [illegible] above the foam. At a time other than this Timberley's heart would have [illegible] at such sight, and quickly [illegible]

in anticipation of a fight with such a monarch of the swift water. Now he allowed the challenge to go unaccepted.

Slowly he turned to retrace his steps to the forest, then stood frowning. A man, or rather a boy almost man grown, stood directly in his path. He was dressed in doe-skin shirt and leggings, and carried a rifle. He looked straight at Timberley from dark, fearless eyes.

Ordinarily Timberley might have treated such apparent hostility, as the bush-lad's attitude displayed, with easy tolerance or contempt; but just at this particular time he was in no mood for it.

He checked the words which the other's undisguised animosity prompted, the dull red of anger dyeing his face and neck as he said, slowly, "I presume you are acting bodyguard to the young lady whom it was my misfortune to frighten away, a few minutes ago?"

"If you mean by that, was I watchin' over her like, I kin tell you that I was. Only, she didn't know it."

"Oh," Timberley's lips twisted in a sneer. "The young lady is fortunate, I am sure. Well," he flared, losing control of himself before the cold, insolent eyes searching his face, "what the devil are you dogging me for?"

"I was wantin' to bad to have a word or two with you," said the boy. "I've got somethin' here belongin' to you, Mr. Timberley. I found this tacked to one of the trees in Dorkin's Preserve. I didn't say anything to Dorkin.

He produced a white business card bearing Timberley's name and street address, and flung it at the man's feet.

Manitoba's Wheat Yield

Average Yield Per Acre For 1920 Given As Fifteen Bushels.

The average yield of wheat per acre in Manitoba for 1920 was 15 bushels, according to the final report of the department of agriculture for the year. Threshing is completed with the exception of a few fields of flax, according to the report. Much fall plowing has been completed and the land is in fine shape for next spring's work. The supply of winter feed will meet all requirements.

Following is a summary of conditions, as issued by George C. Batho, of the Manitoba Department of Agriculture:

"Threshing is practically all finished in Manitoba, although a few scattered lots of flax are yet unthreshed. Now that threshing is done, reports of correspondents as to yields should be fairly accurate. The averages of all reports submitted are as follows: Wheat just below 15 bushels; oats, 33 5-6; barley, 22 1-10; flax, 8 2-5; rye, 16 1-5; potatoes just over 100. The potato crop is all dug.

"October has been a very fine month, and, on the whole, the conditions for plowing have been excellent, and a larger area—in some places a much larger area—than usual is plowed. Several correspondents report that summerfallows are particularly satisfactory.

When The Day Is Over

When the household cares and the worries of everyday life have dragged you down, made you unhappy, and there is nothing in life but headache, backache and worry, turn to the right prescription, one gotten up by Dr. Pierce fifty years ago.

Everything growing out of the ground seems intended for some use in establishing natural conditions. Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., long since found out what is naturally best for women's diseases. He learned it all through treating thousands of cases. The result of his studies was a medicine called Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This medicine is made of vegetable growths that nature surely intended for backache, headache, weakening pains, irregularities, and for the many disorders common to women in all ages of life.

Orillia, Ont.:—"I suffered from a bad case of woman's trouble with backache, nervousness, disordered digestion, irregularity and I had great pain all the time, sometimes I would faint at my work. I had one physician after another but they did me no good. I then took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it fixed me up all right, I look much better and feel fine. I will recommend the 'Prescription' to all suffering as I did."—MRS. MAYBELLE B. GRATRIX, 115 Albert St.

Write Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for confidential advice and you will receive the medical attention of a specialist, wholly without fee—no charge whatever.

Winter Holiday Resort

A Delightful Trip Through The Canadian Rockies to the Pacific Coast.

Shortly after leaving Calgary the route of the Canadian Pacific Railway winds for some distance through the foothills before plunging into the fastness of the mighty Rockies. Then for over five hundred miles a continuous panorama of bewildering magnificence is presented, which no pen can adequately describe. Wondrous glacial fields, startling precipices, snow-capped peaks, wide forest areas, clear lakes and peaceful valleys combine in enchanting array. Add to this the 165 miles steamer trip on the palatial Princess Steamers from Vancouver to Victoria and Seattle on Puget Sound, the most charming inland voyage known, and you have a pretty fair idea of what the Canadian Pacific has to offer the traveller to the Pacific Coast.

Vancouver Island is recognized as Canada's all-year resort, where golf, motoring and other outdoor pastimes may be enjoyed every day in the year. Thousands of miles of magnificent motor roads radiate from Victoria to various points of interest.

A visit to the coast that does not include a few days at Victoria cannot be justified. It is rather a pity to spend the time "doing" cities that are in most of their essential features very much alike, if it means eliminating Victoria, when by a four-hours sail by steamer on one of the most beautiful stretches of inland waters in the world, your trip may take on all the characteristics of a foreign tour.

A trip to the Pacific Coast this winter will be time and money well spent. Any Canadian Pacific Agent will gladly furnish particulars and any information which may be required.

Old Roman Roads

Formed the Backbone of the Transportation System of the Ancient Empire.

Some of the roads built by the Romans 2,000 years ago are still in active use. These roads have lasted through the centuries simply because of their massive construction.

An earth subgrade, carefully prepared and drained, was the foundation for four layers of materials, each so carefully laid that it contributed greatly to the long life of the road.

First came the statumen, on foundation, then the rodus, next the nucleus, and finally the pavement or wearing surface. The statumen and pavimentum consisted of large flat stones, while the two intervening courses were built of smaller stones laid in lime mortar.

For the chariot and pack-horse traffic of Roman times, such roads seem ridiculously heavy, but the wisdom of the builders was amply demonstrated by the 800 years during which the Roman road system formed the backbone of the transportation system of the ancient empire.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Catarrhal Deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing may be destroyed forever. Many cases of Deafness are caused by Catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the Mucous Surfaces.

ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE.

Horseback Riding

A Saddle Horse For Every Family Is Advocated.

Horseback riding is a more general sport now than it has been for many years past—since the days when the saddle horse was used of necessity. Now he's used for exercise and diversion. There are more privately owned saddle horses and many more horses kept for hire today, than before the advent of the motor car.

The Horse Association of America shows proof that good riders need not be born horsemen, but can be made under the schooling of experienced riders and the horse itself. The association urges saddle horses and ponies for children especially. Boarding stables and riding academies have reduced their prices this fall, following the drop in cost of oats and hay.

Hamilton Bassett, the Billy Sunday of the west, says it means less work for the undertakers. "A child that is brought up with a horse or pony for a companion, is a child that is early taught self-control and poise, not by precept and principle but by experience," he says. "If there were a pony in every home, there would be less eratic children and less work for the juvenile courts, less drugs, less work for the undertakers."

Irkutsk, Siberia, with a population of 120,000, has had an average of 500 murders a year for decades.

RICH, RED BLOOD NECESSARY TO HEALTH

When the Blood Becomes Weak and Watery a Tonic is Needed to Build it Anew.

Why are we being continually told that good, health-giving blood must be bright red? What has color to do with the quality? Just this—the oxygen in the air is the great supporter of all organic life. One function of the blood is to take the oxygen from the air—which it meets in the lungs and deliver it to the tissues of the body. When the blood, filled with life-sustaining oxygen, is sent out by the heart, it is bright red. When it returns, impure and deprived of oxygen, it is dark.

You will see, therefore, that there are two prime requisites of health, pure air and bright red blood—the pure air to furnish the oxygen, the rich red blood to carry it where it is needed. Dr. Williams Pink Pills make your blood rich and red because they increase its power to carry oxygen, actually making it so much more able to carry increased life and strength to every organ in the body.

Pale anaemic people whose nerves are on edge, whose cheeks are pale, and who tire out easily, should try Dr. Williams Pink Pills, and note the steady improvement that follows their use. A case in point is that of Mrs. J. P. Rolston, South River, Ont., who says:—"About two years ago my system was in a badly run down condition; and I kept growing worse all the time until I could hardly do my housework. I had severe headaches and pains across my back and under my left shoulder. I did not sleep well and would feel just as tired when I got up in the morning as when I went to bed. Life seemed a burden. I had taken doctor's medicine for a long time, but it did not meet my case, at least it did me no good. Then, as a result of reading about Dr. Williams Pink Pills, I decided to try them. When I had taken a couple of boxes I felt much better, and when I had taken five boxes more I felt that I was again a well woman. I have not since felt any return of the trouble and I advise all women who are broken in health to give Dr. Williams Pink Pills a trial."

These pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Born Politician.

Little Joey Jesso was entertaining his sister's nervous admirer, and, after making the usual juvenile remarks on marbles and tops, he announced "Ethel told ma yesterday you was a born politician." The young man was delighted, and, wishing to know more, added, "That so? Why does she think that?" "That's just what ma wanted to know, and Ethel said it's because you can do so much talking without committin' yourself."

A whale is able to remain under water for an hour and a half without coming up for air.

1000 Eggs in Every Hen

New System Of Poultry Keeping—Get Dollar A Dozen Eggs—Famous Poultryman.

TELLS HOW

"The great trouble with the poultry business has always been that the laying life of a hen was too short," says Henry Trafford, International Poultry Expert and Breeder, for nearly eighteen years Editor of Poultry Success.

The average pullet lays 150 eggs. If kept the second year, she may lay 100 more. Then she goes to market. Yet, it has been scientifically established that every pullet is born or hatched with over one thousand minute egg germs in her system—and will lay them on a highly profitable basis over a period of four to six years' time if given proper care.

How to work to get 1,000 eggs from every hen; how to get pullets laying early; how to make the old hens lay like pullets; how to keep up heavy egg production all through cold winter months when eggs are highest; triple egg production; make slacker hens hustle; $5.00 profit from every hen in six winter months. These and many other money making poultry secrets are contained in Mr. Trafford's "1,000 EGG HEN" system of poultry raising, one copy of which will be sent absolutely free to any reader of this paper who keeps six hens or more. Eggs should go to a dollar or more a dozen this winter. This means big profit to the poultry keeper who gets the eggs. Mr. Trafford tells how. If you keep chickens and want them to make money for you, cut out this ad and send it with your name and address to Henry Trafford, Suite 264P, Tyne Bldg., Binghampton, N. Y., and a free copy of "THE 1,000 EGG HEN" will be sent by return mail.

Tuesday morning provided the coldest snap we have had so far this season, the government thermometer showing 16 above zero. An icehouse-flavored hurricane on Wednesday night made the atmosphere feel about zero but it was just the wind, the mercury getting no lower than 21 above.

C. O. Quist get back on Sunday from Metiskow, Alta., where he has been for the past four months, and reports that the crops in that section of Alberta are well up to the average this season. It is not his intention to remain but his son, who has just joined the ranks of the benedicts will take care of the place this winter for him.

Public school inspector Daniels paid his first official visit to Creston school a couple of days at the first of the week. The trustees are having trouble finding room for all available scholars, and the attention of parents is called to the trustees' notice in this issue regarding pupils who will be wanting to start school at the first of the year.

N. Moore, chief forester for East Kootenay, of Cranbrook, was here on an official visit on Wednesday. Accorhing to the official returns there were fifteen fires this season in the territory supervised by fire warden Jas. Long, all of which were exceptionally well handled, and the destruction to merchantable timber was comparatively light.

R. L. T. Galbraith of Fort Steel, the Kootenay Indian agent, was here at the end of the week investigating the supply of hay on the local reserve. While the cut is hardly as large as in 1919, when the reds put up almost 1000 tons, Mr. Galbraith figures there will be enough hay to bring the cattle through provided we have an average winter this year.

Col. Lister was the unanimous choice of the Kaslo riding Conservatives as the standard bearer for this constituency in the provincial election now on. The convention was well attended, and at its conclusion the Kaslo riding Conservative association was re-organized, with Mayor Robb of Kaslo as president, and J. W. Cockle of the same city, secretary.

Mrs. John Keen of Kaslo was a Creston visitor on Friday and Saturday, accompanying her husband who spoke here at the Liberal rally on Friday night. Other distinguished Kaslo visitors were Mayor Robb, Ald. Jas. Anderson, S. H. Green and J. W. Cockle, who were amongst the north end delegates who were here for the Conservative nominating convention.

The rally in Mercantile Hall on Friday night attracted the largest crowd that has ever been seen at a political meeting in Creston. Every seat in the building was occupied at 8 o'clock, and those who came late were forced to stand. The speakers were Premier Oliver, Hon. Dr. King, minister of public works, and John Keen, M.P.P. The premier was in exceptionally fine form, while the minister of works also gave a good account of the operations of his department since 1916. Mr. Keen spoke briefly, largely on local issues. J. F. Rose presided.

Kaslo Nominations

Nomination day proceedings at Kaslo passed off without incident on Wednesday. But two names were placed in the running for the riding, John Keen, civil engineer, Kaslo, and Fred Lister, farmer, Creston. Erickson

Earl Birney is now a member of the staff of the Bank of Commerce at Creston, commencing work the first of the month.

Owing to the United Farmeas meeting having to be be shifted from Friday to Thursday there was rather a poor turnout last week to hear Jas. Adlard, who addressed the meeting soliciting co-operation for the new public library at Creston. The library is something the Valley sadly needs and can count on Erickson's support.

Mr.and Mrs.Geo.Hobden got a royal welcome home from their wedding trip on Thursday night when about thirty of the old neighbors turned up unexpectedly for a sort of housewarming. The night was largely spent with games, music, and dancing, during which the bride was presented with a tray of china, the presentation speech being in felicitous terms by Jas. Cook, while Mr. Hobden suitably replied. A noteworthy feature of the occasion were a couple of recitations by Mr. Bush, which were exceptionally well done, while the music for the dance was by Mr. Goodwin (organ), and Mr, Beam who played a splendid accompaniment on his home made violin. A splendid lunch was served about midnight.

Erickson United Farmers are developing the trading end of the organization in good shape. Already they have unloaded two cars of hay and a car of coal, and are getting ready to bring in still another car of hay as well as a car of feed. This is handled on a cost basis and has been the means of attracting quite a few members who, by joining now, are members for the balance of this year and all of 1921.

Miss Candy, who has been here with her sister, Mrs. Thurston, for the past three years, is leaving this week fof Toronto, Ont., where she intends to make her home in future.

F. V. Staples, who has been at Grand Forks the past three months, got back last week. He states that the apple crop in that section was a hard proposition to market on account of the small size fruit.

Gerald Timmons left last week for Trail, where he hopes to secure a situation for the winter. Mr. and Mrs. Timmons are away on an extended holiday trip to Oklahoma.

A telephone has this week been installed at the residence of W. J. Boyd.

Erickson school had an enrollment of 33 pupils for the month of October, and an average attendance of 29. The following scholars aee accorded perfect attendance standing: Annie Botteril, Maud Botteril, Lloyd Cartwright, Ruth Cartwright, Agnes Campbell, Tom Campbell, Florence Caaigie, Walter Dodds, Margaret Fraser, Celia Handley, James Handley, Lyle Kemp, Molly Kemp, Kathleen Littlejohn, Bessie Littlejohn, Robert Long, Madeline Putnam.

Synopsis of Land Act Amendments

Minimum price of first-class land reduced to $5 an acre; second-class to $2.50 an acre.

Pre-emption now confined to surveyed lands only.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes and which is non-timber land.

Partnership pre-emptions abolished, but parties of not more than four may arrange for adjacent pre-emptions with joint residence, but each making necessary improvements on respective claims.

Pre-emptors must occupy claims for five years and make improvements to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivation of at least 5 acres before receiving Crown Grant.

Where pre-emptor in occupation not less than 3 years, and has made proportionate improvements, he may, because of ill-health, or other cause, be granted intermediate certificate of improvement and transfer his claim.

Records without permanent residence may be issued, provided applicant makes improvements to extent of $300 per annum and records same each year. Failure to make improvements or record same will operate as forfeiture. Title cannot be obtained in less than 5 years, and improvements of $10.00 per acre, including 5 acres cleared and cultivated, and residence of at least 2 years are required.

Pre-emptor holding Crown grant may record another pre-emption, if he requires land in conjunction with his farm, without actual occupation, provided statutory improvements made and residence maintained on Crown granted land.

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites; title to be obtained after fulfilling residential and improvement conditions.

For grazing and industrial purposes areas exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or company.

Mill, factory or industrial sites on timber land not exceeding 40 acres may be purchased; conditions include payment of stumpage.

Natural hay meadows inaccessible by existing roads may be purchased conditional upon construction of a road to them. Rebate of one-half of cost of road, not exceeding half of purchase price, is made.

PRE-EMPTORS' FREE GRANTS ACT.

The scope of this Act is enlarged to include all persons joining and serving with His Majesty's Forces. The time within which the heirs or devisees of a deceased pre-emptor may apply for title under this Act is extended from for one year from the death of such person, as formerly, until one year after the conclusion of the present war. This privilege is also made retroactive.

No fees relating to pre-emptions are due or payable by soldiers on pre-emptions recorded after June 26, 1918 Taxes are remitted for five years.

Provision for return of moneys accrued, due and been paid since August 4, 1914, on account of payments, fees or taxes on soldiers' pre-emptions.

Interest on agreements to purchase town or city lots held by members of Allied Forces, or dependents, acquired direct or indirect, remitted from enlistment to March 31, 1920.

SUB-PURCHASERS OF CROWN LANDS.

Provision made for issuance of Crown grants to sub-purchasers of Crown Lands, acquiring rights from purchasers who failed to complete purchase, involving forfeiture, on fulfilment of conditions of purchase, interest and taxes. Where sub-purchasers do not claim whole of original parcel, purchase price due and taxes may be distributed proportionately over whole parcel. Applications must be made by May 1, 1920.

GRAZING.

Under the Grazing Act, 1919, for systematic development of livestock industry provision has been made for grazing districts and range control under Commissioner with their advisory boards. Grazing permits issued based on range capacity. Price 50c a head. Apply for established ranges by pre-emption owners may be mailed direct on application. Non-resident stockowners may graze stock on these ranges upon payment of grazing fees. Travellers on the range must have permits.

The Women of British Columbia have received from the Oliver Government:

The Mothers' Pension Act, one of the most important acts for the benefit of the women ever placed on the statue books of the province.

A minimum wage law for girls and women, raising the minimum salary per week from the $4 paid in some instances, to $12.75 and over per week.

Equal rights to the mother with the father in the guardianship of minor children.

An amendment and improvement to the law respecting the maintenance of deserted wives.

Provision for the appointment of a superintendent of neglected children.

Woman's Franchise.

A new adoption act, providing that a child adopted by the family is given the full legal status of a child born to the foster parents.

A juvenile court to which the first woman judge in British Columbia has been appointed.

A more humane and considerate treatment of the inmates of the Girls' Industrial School and the Boys Industrial School has been inaugurated.

An important amendment to the Marriage Act, placing the mother on equality with the father in the matter of consent to the marriage of a minor child.

The Liberal Administration

has revised and improved educational laws and regulations, giving better opportnnities to children in isolated districts to secure an education. Its Health Department has given valuable assistance in the training of rural nurses. It has provided for veneral disease control. It has broadened the course in manual training, domestic science night schools and agricultural teaching. It has provided schools for mentally deficient children, the deaf and dumb. It has established a school for the education of the blind, and a provincial technical school. It has provided for financing the erection of buildings for the University of British Columbia. Its Health Department has given special attention to the work of fighting tuberculosis. The death rate from this disease has dropped from 1.23 per thousand of population in 1917-18 to .82 in 1919-20.

The Oliver Government has more beneficial social and domestic legislation to its credit than any or all prevfous governments of British Columbia, and its efforts in this direction will be continued.

Sound Financing All Round

The Great War brought about many developments and revealed many hitherto unsuspected powers in Canada. This Dominion was discovered as being capable of wielding a military strength and prowess undreamed of by itself or any other people. It demonstrated its ability to produce munitions of war on a scale of great magnitude. Even under adverse conditions, its productive capacity in all directions was shown to be almost beyond measure when all its people willed to sacrifice, serve and work.

But probably Canada's most unexpected and amazing strength was revealed in its ability to finance itself even under the enormous ob'igations and expenditures which war forced upon it. Before the war, Canada was a borrowing nation, and a borrowing nation on a large scale. The idea of Canada raising from among its own people the money necessary to carry on government and the large expenditures required for development purposes of a national character never suggested itself to the Canadian people. Federal and Provincial Governments, municipalities and large corporations were content to float their bonds and sell their debentures in Great Britain and the United States.

The Great War changed all this. At the outset, Canada borrowed from Great Britain; later it borrowed from the United States. During the last three years of the war, however, Canadians themselves supplied their Government with all the money it required and a sufficient amount over and above its requirements to enable it to grant credits to Great Britain and other countries. Year after year the Canadian people furnished the Dominion Government with sums far in excess of the total of Canada's national debt before the war.

This not only contributed greatly to Canada's strength during the war, but since. Tens of millions of dollars which otherwise would have been drained out of the Dominion in interest payments have been distributed among our own people. The cutting of interest bearing coupons has become a commonplace in homes all over the country.

What was proven to be good policy for the Dominion as a whole is being recognized throughout the Prairie Provinces of Canada as good policy for this western country; hence we find that the Governments of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta have all devised schemes whereby those of their people who have money to invest may lend it to their respective Governments on gilt-edged security and these Governments re-lend it to those of their people who are in need of money for development and productive purposes within the Province. As a result, not only is Western money kept in the West, and interest payments thereon earned by Western people, but the money is put to work in the West to further its development and increase its prosperity. And Governments are placed in funds without being obliged to go solely to Eastern and to foreign markets and remit large sums in interest payments to points outside the Province.

Nor is this healthy development, this adding of financial strength and independence to the West, being confined to Provincial Governments. Municipalities are appealing to their own citizens and ratepayers to become the holders of municipal debentures. A gratifying measure of success is attending these efforts—Regina being a notable example where several municipal bond issues have been fully subscribed for by its own citizens.

As a matter of historical fact, even before the Dominion Government adopted the policy of floating popular Victory Loans, the Government of Saskatchewan had inaugurated the policy of going to its own people to provide the money necessary to carry through its Farm Loans plan, and in its appeal upwards of one million dollars was received. Then the Dominion Victory Loans were inaugurated and the Saskatchewan Government withdrew its appeal and held it in abeyance so as not to conflict with the war finance programme of the Dominion. With the war over, and the necessity for Victory Loan campaigns removed, Saskatchewan is again energetically pushing the sale of Farm Loan debentures to its own people.

It is good policy for a citizen to buy the bonds of his own Province or municipality. Unlike the big financial corporations, it is not a money-making venture on the part of these public bodies, nor is the money merged in the intricate and costly financial system of the whole country and the world. The system is administered at cost—the lender receiving the highest possible interest rate and the borrower securing his loan at the lowest possible cost.

Through this simple machinery the West is being made more and more economically independent of the East and the big financial corporations, its money is being kept at home, and it is actively at work promoting the further development of the country and increasing the prosperity of all.

Germany Will Keep Kiel Canal Open.

Germany, according to despatches submitted to the council of ambassadors, will strictly observe the allies' interpretation of the clause of the peace treaty providing that the Kiel Canal shall be free to international traffic. This is a reversal of the German Government's previous attitude under which vessels carrying arms to Poland were stopped.

Uber Alles No More

"Deutschland, Deutschland Uber Alles" is dead in Germany. Some day, phoenix-like, it may rise again, but at present it is embalmed. It costs money to hear it in Berlin. The police have put their taboo on it.

Since Prince Joachim Albrecht of Prussia spent a few days and nights in jail for having the Adlon Hotel restaurant orchestra play it, which resulted in numerous broken dishes, the tune is rarely heard.

Against Use Of Dum-Dums.

Premier Lloyd George, in the House of Commons, stated that the Government was considering special legislation to deal with the use of dum-dum bullets in Ireland, where the police and the military had suffered appalling wounds from them.

CHILDHOOD AILMENTS

The ailments of childhood—constipation, indigestion, colic, colds, etc.—can be quickly banished through the use of Baby's Own Tablets. They are a mild but thorough laxative which instantly regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach. They are guaranteed to contain no harmful drugs and can be given to the youngest baby with perfect safety. Concerning them Mrs. Alcide Lepage, Ste. Beatrix, Que., writes:—"Baby's Own Tablets were of great help to my baby. They regulated her bowels and stomach and made her plump and well." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Choosing Coal by The Microscope

Series of Microscopic Tests By Which Various Coals Are Classified.

The selection of the particular coal to give the best results for certain purposes has always been an important matter for the engineer. Today, with the enhanced cost of coal, it has become a vital problem. Hitherto it has been the custom to rely upon open chemical compositions and tests of the heat value of the coal, but the engineer of a leading firm which buys about a quarter of a million tons of coal every year for various uses, confirms the suspicion that something more is needed before the most economical coal in each case can be determined. He has worked out a series of microscopic tests by which various coals are classified, each class being most efficient for steam raising, or gas production, or some other particular service. The method adopted is to grind the surface of a small sample of coal exceedingly smooth, fix it by the smooth surface to a piece of glass and grind away the remainder until a slice thin enough to transmit light remains on the glass. When examined under the microscope this slice reveals the inner structure of the coal. The behavior of the coal when fixed corresponds to its structure, which thus provides an index to the use which ought to be made of the coal. The same investigator has found that very uniform results are given by samples from the one seam of coal, so that one or two tests are sufficient to determine the qualities of the seam. If this method is developed it will become possible to order coals according to an exact specification, much as is now done with special steels and alloys.

Road Engineering Progress

Britain Still Maintains Great Interest In Road Improvements.

In view of the rapid development of road traffic in Great Britain an inspection has been carried out over more than one thousand miles of the principal roads, and careful examination made of the experimental lengths which have been laid on various novel systems of construction. It is anticipated that a sum of at least ten million pounds sterling will be spent within the near future on road making and road improvements. British roads have enjoyed the reputation of being the best, all-round, in the world, and there is every sign that the new methods devised by British road engineers to enable road surfaces to withstand heavy motor traffic will maintain thaat reputation.

Labor Objects to Tax

Luxury Tax on Some Things Has Led to Unemployment.

Not the manufacturers themselves, but the ranks of organized labor are now endeavoring to secure the removal of the luxury tax on certain kinds of production, basing their action upon the ground that its imposition has led to a great deal of unemployment.

The delegation pointed out that more than 650 men employed in these trades were at present out of employment in Toronto, and stated that the manufacturers had given as their reason for shortened production of these articles of trade that the people would not buy them with the added cost due to the imposition of the luxury tax.

From the Diary of A Hudson's Bay Clerk in the Seventies

By O-GE-MAS-ES (Little Clerk).

(Copyrighted)

After a hard winter at Sturgeon River, an outpost from Cumberland House, I at last shipped the winter's fur by York Boat to headquarters; and now for my holiday as I had planned, a hunting trip up the Sturgeon. The party was to consist of an Indian and his family in one large bark canoe and myself in a small bark just large enough for one man and his outfit.

At last we were off, and I looked back at the log shacks we had wintered in with delight at the thought of never seeing them again; for, gentle reader, it had been a hard winter, the chief diet being fish both for men and dogs. We tracked or killed no venison. One amusing incident helped to break the monotony. About the month of February, if my memory is correct, a dog-train with two weather beaten travellers arrived. One of these (Owen B. Hughes) was the first Sheriff of Prince Albert in later days and his companion, a native named Kennedy. At that time Mr. Hughes was in the employ of Stobart, Eden & Co., fur traders, and was travelling from Norway House to Duck Lake. Their snowshoes were worn out and needed re-netting, so the men's wives were set to work at this and Mr. Hughes became my guest. That first evening we had suckers, dried and smoked, nothing else but black tea with plenty of sugar, and I am sure he polished off at least half a dozen. For breakfast, appeared a fine dish of plain boiled suckers, taken out of the nets that morning, for we kept five nets under the ice all winter, catching, however, nothing but large red suckers, until spring when sturgeon came in shoals. I could see Hughes casting hungry glances round the table, but he was too well-bred a man to say anything. For dinner a huge platter (of the old China Willow pattern) with at least twenty sucker heads on it, these, by the way, being much the best part of that fish. Hughes glared at me, shoved his chair back, used some strong western epithets as to the way the Hon. Co. fed their clerks, then yelled, "John!" in stentorian tones. John duly appeared. Go to our sleigh and bring such and such articles of food. My, but we did feast, and then I explained the situation. Flour being short that winter, I was limited to a clerk's allowance of two hundred pounds. This I would not eat alone, so just used bread on Sundays, my two men and their families sharing it with me. In after years, meeting Hughes in Prince Albert, we had many a good laugh over this experience.

Our commissariat for the trip was very limited; a small stock of maple syrup which we had obtained by tapping the ash-maple trees in the vicinity, a bale of dried fish, four pounds of tea, a little salt and sugar, with a few pounds of flour for making soup. But our hearts were high and full of hope over the prospect of game, beaver especially, for no one had been up the river for years.

We camped the first night about ten miles out, having started late in the day. Fine paddling, smooth stretches of water with scarcely any current, then a small rapid, generally shoal, up which my small canoe would shoot like a jackfish, while Patrick often had to wade and lighten his heavily laden craft. Fish soup with a little syrup for supper, and then to bed with a determination to kill something edible next day.

We were up again at 2.30 and called all hands; a hasty snack and by noon we had made twenty miles. Here we were lucky in capturing a large sturgeon who was trying to ascend a very shallow rapid. Pushing my canoe ashore I threw myself on the fish and after an exciting struggle, landed him. Results—boiled sturgeon, very good for dinner. Another long hard paddle and we camped at a rapid where bears had been fishing with much success, judging by the remains laying scattered about. The next day, about 4 p.m., we passed the mouth of three small creeks and here Patrick found beaver signs and our mouths watered at the prospect of fresh meat. Going about a mile up the main river we pitched our tepee among some large birch trees, there being no under-brush. This was a beautiful camping ground.

After helping to set the tent we returned to the little creeks to watch for beaver, both going in the large canoe; and watch we did until too dark to see to shoot. Having no luck we made for camp. A wireless system had been arranged between us—when game was sighted the gunwale of the canoe was shaken. Presently I felt the canoe shiver, and on looking closely at the bank which here somewhat overhung the water, I could see the dim outline of an animal, so quickly fired. An amazing splash followed and we were deluged with water. Hauling the bag on board, it turned out to be a large black timber wolf, valuable for his pelt, but alas, not edible.

We here crossed the river and this time it was my occasion to give the signal, as being in the bow gave me a better lookout. This time a strong wake was visible going ahead of us, and I at once fired where I guessed the head was. A tremendous splashing followed and under the impression I had killed a beaver (who will never bite unless you put your hand in his mouth), I grabbed the soft fur and with some effort threw it into the canoe behind me. And then arose a battle din, for behold, it was a large buck otter. It was only stunned by the bullet which glanced on his skull, and it immediately attacked Patrick, who was in the stern. It was too close for him to shoot it, and then he might have got me. After a combat lasting some minutes, he managed to stun it with a large maul that we fortunately had in the canoe for landing sturgeon. Pat was very mad and abused me in his best Cree, and it took us some time to sooth his injured feelings. Finally, on reaching camp, we all had a hearty laugh over it. But the good wife was by no means pleased, as hearing the two shots she had visions of a nice beaver supper and here was only a wolf, which was bad eating, and otter which was worse. Fortunately she or Job (the son) had snared a partridge and a rabbit, and on these we fared frugally and then to bed with a deep vow that we would have something better on the morrow.

One Great Essential To a Woman's Health Is Her Nerves

Nature intended women to be strong, healthy and happy as the day is long, instead of being sick and wretched. But how can any woman be healthy and happy when the whole nervous system is unstrung. The trouble is they pay more attention to their social and household duties than they do to their health. Is it any wonder then that they become irritable and nervous, have hot flushes, faint and dizzy spells, smothering and sinking spells, become weak and nervous, and everything in life becomes dark and gloomy.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are the very remedy that nervous, tired-out, weary women need to restore them to the blessings of good health.

Mrs. P. H. Ryan, Sand Point, N.S., writes: "I have been a great sufferer from nerve troubles. I was so weak and nervous I could not sleep at night and my appetite was very poor. I could not walk across the floor without trembling. I had hot flushes and fainting spells. When I was on my second box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills I began to feel better and [illegible] on until I had used six boxes, [illegible] felt like a different person. I [illegible] without them in the house [illegible] recommend them to all who suffer [illegible] nerves."

Republican Victory in U.S.

Senator Harding Elected President of Republic by Sweeping Majority.

New York.—One of the most sweeping Republican victories in history stands recorded for Senator Warren G. Harding, for president, and for a Republican Congress.

Defeat in their fight both for the presidency and Congress was conceded early by Democratic national Leaders on the basis of the increasing Republican vote. With the presidency and congress went loss to the Democrates of governors, state legislators, and other state and local candidates. The break even threatened the border states hitherto "solid south," with Republican gains in some southern states larger than any since the civil war.

Senator Harding's victory over Democratic leaders, which many Republicans hailed as the "solemn referendum" upon the League of Nations, was impressive. The results presage a larger majority in the electoral college for Senator Harding and his running mate, Governor Coolidge, of Massachusetts, than any since 1888, except alone the vote of 435 for President Wilson in 1912 during the Republican "split."

The Republican congressional swing was as strong, increased majorities in both Senate and House being marked up.

The first trial of woman suffrage contributed largely to the Republican majorities and also was a factor in delaying the count in many states. The millions of women's ballots also swelled the popular vote recorded beyond all records.

Senator Harding accepted his victory without exultation, stating that he was "more given to prayer to God to make me capable of playing my part."

To Governor Coolidge, the next vice-president, he sent a message stating: "We've got a real job and we'll tackle it together."

Ottawa.—Sir George Perley, Canadian high commissioner in London, will sail for England some time this month to resume his official duties.

Elaborate Preparations Being Made For Taking of Decennial Census

Will Embrace All The Old and Several New Features.

Ottawa. — The decennial census which will be enumerated in Canada on June 1 next, will embrace all the old features and several new ones. Included in the latter will be a record of all animals in cities and towns, as well as in the country, a report of market gardens, poultry and apiaries, and generally the capacity of urban centres in producing foodstuffs. Every farm in the country will be the subject of an individual report setting forth the ownership, tenure, acreage, crop value and livestock. Heretofore, these returns were extended over four schedules.

In co-operation with the Provincial Governments, statistics are now being collected in regard to manufactures, mines, forests, and fisheries, and these will not be a feature of the next census. Births, marriages and deaths will also be eliminated because the statistics are now available annually. Particular precautions are to be provided against duplication or missing of names.

In the enumeration of the census two hundred and thirty commissioners and eleven thousand enumerators will be employed. Urban enumerators will each secure from one thousand to twelve hundred names, while those in the rural parts will be expected to turn in from six hundred to a thousand names with all particulars asked by the department. In the northern part of the western provinces, the Mounted Police will help out as formerly, while in the extreme north of Ontario and Quebec, the church missionaries and Hudson Bay factors will be utilized for the work. About two weeks will suffice for the enumeration, except in the remote and scattered constituencies.

Compliment to Canada

Empire Press Union Speaks Highly of the Dominion.

London.—Much that was complimentary of Canada's hospitality was said at a luncheon by the Empire Press Union to Lord Burnham, president Imperial Press conference, which toured Canada recently.

Lord Burnham also said that Canada wanted British news in Canadian papers from the British viewpoint, and that the British wanted almost as much Canadian news in the British press from the Canadian viewpoint.

Vancouver Cuts Prices.

Vancouver.—A 20 per cent reduction in its prices in about two weeks time is announced by one of the leading local restaurants. The cut is made possible by the reduction in prices of raw materials. Lately there has been noticed a slight decrease in the cost of certain foods.
