Erickson U.F. Has Membership 50

At the regular meeting of Erickson Local of the United Farmers on Tuesday night three new members were balloted on and received, which puts the Erickson local well on the way to 50 members. As a srecial feature a debate on the question "Is the smoking of tobacco beneficial," was participated in by twelve of the members, with President Littlejohn as judge. A good deal of amusement was caused to say nothing of some good advice given non-smokers by some of the confirmed tobacco users. The judge announced the debate a draw on account of two of the speakers for the affirmative failing to score any points.

A committee of rustlers have in hand a whist drive an dance to be staged J. M. Craigie's packing shed in ths very near future, the exact date to be announced later. This will be the first of a series of entertainments which will include debates on pertinent subjects that the Erickson local intend puting on during the remainder of the winter. Mr. Twigg, provincial horticulturist, has kindly consented to deliver an address to the local, the date to be most likely the last meeting in January, or the first meeting in February. A variety of subjects relative to the betterment of the whole community will be dealt with at the meetings. Party politics are a thing of the past, and the intention is to cultivate the social habit, while at the same time never losing sight of the business interests of the organization and its members. The directors from their number selected W. G. Birney as secretary-treasurer, and M. R. Palmer, vice-president. The secretary announces there is ample room for more members, and assures that it will be a pleasure to all to join up. The fee is $2 a year, and 25 cents additional to those who wish to take the United Farmer, the official paper of the U.F.

Kitchener

Mr. Crowe of the Kitchener Timber Co., Ltd., who has been a business visitor here, returned to Vancouver last week, leaving Mr. Strudwick in charge of the affair's here.

Mrs. G. A. Hunt was a visitor at Creston on Wednesday last, assisting at a reception given by Mrs. (Rev.) James, to members of the Presbyterian congregation.

The quite heavy storm on Saturday brings Kitchener's snowfall up to 18 inches, and conditions are ideal all round for bush operations.

Dong Barney, the Creston Chinaman, who opened up a restaurant in the old hotel building near the station, about the middle of January, has gone out of business, due to insufficient patronage.

The Cranbrook Sash & Door Co. mill resumed cutting on Monday, January 3rd, and are employing their usual crew of men both in the bush as well as at the mill.

Provincial police Vachon paid Kitchener his regulation visit on Thursday last, and found law and order being maintained in satisfactory fashion.

There was a very large crowd out at the schoolhouse on Sunday afternoon when Messrs. Chorlton and Hall of Chorlton's orchestra rendered a short programme of sentimental music. This feature of the orchestra visits is very much appreciated.

Reg. Hull, until lately a clerk in the Bank of Commerce at Creston, is trying a spell of outdoor life, and has joined up with the bush crew of Paulson-Mason, Ltd.

Miss Clara Little and Mr. A. Johnson were the winners for the "hardst' costumes at the hard times ball at the schoolhouse on Saturday night, which attracted a fairly large attendance. The floor was in fine shape and with first-class music by Chorlton's orchestra and a very sumptuous supper, it goes without saying the dance was a splendid success.

B. Johnson was a visitor at Cranbrook a couple of days last week, with Mrs. Johnson, who is still a hospital patient in that town.

The machinery is being rapidly installed in the new Paulson-Mason sawmill, about a mile and a half from town, and sawing operations will commence very shortly.

Lister

Mr. and Mrs. Vinc. Liddicoatt, who have been holiday visitors at Cranbrook for a couple of weeks, got back on Monday. While in the divisional city Vanc. took a hand at the Oddfellows installation doings.

Mr. and Mrs. W. McLeod, who have been at the coast for the past three weeks, returned to camp on Tuesday.

Climatic conditions were not at all congenial to bringing out a good crowd on Friday night, consequently the annual meeting of the United Farmers had to be adjourned to the call of the president.

The weather on Saturday was also a bit disastrous in the same regard toward the dance under G.W.V.A. auspices, and the affair was in further hard luck due to Mrs. Christenson spraining her wrist and being unable to preside at the piano. However, Mrs. Lister took charge of the music, and with a good floor and the auxiliary serving their usual excellent supper, the dancers had quite a fine time of it. The net proceeds of $14 rre turned over to the piano fund.

The school is running in full force. Although r new principal has not yet arrived. Miss Austed is in charge, and Miss Bunyan is teaching the junior room.

The last meeting of the Lirerary, Dramatic and Musical Society was about the most interesting yet held, the big feature being a debate on the subject of country vs. city life, in which the decision was overwhelming in favor of living in the country. H. Christenson eloquently championed the cause of rural liying, and was ably supported by Messrs. Brain and T. and Bert Yerbury. J. A. McGee led the fight for the would-be city dwellers in vigorous fashion, and was equally well supported by Messrs. H. Brown, J. Head and I. Christenson.

E. Rowbury left a few days ago for Saskatchewan where, we hear, it is his intention to go into farming in that province.

A meeting of the G.W.V.A. will be held on Saturday night to select a delegate to attend the zone conference at Fernie.

The slashing gang commenced operations this week on a ten-acre piece which will likely be the last of the work of this kind until spring. The ten acres now being cleared is the last of the available land so far taken over by the L.S.B.

The year's vital statistics for Lister show the camp to have had 15 births, no deaths and two weddings. Those joining the married host were Alf. Evans and J. Johnson, while the stork made calls during the year at the homes of Messrs. Horace Wright, Beard, Hurl, Webb, H. Christenson, E. H. Smith, F. Thompson, T. Thompson, Butler, Bagshaw, Lye, Baggs, Ctandall, Charleson, Embree. Watch Lister grow.

Irrigation Meeting

Land owners in the Erickron, Creston and Alice Siding districts should be out for the property owners meeting on Saturday afternoon, Jan. 22nd, at Mercantile Hall, at 2 p.m., for the purpose of discussing and taking action in the getting along with the installation of the proposed Arrow Creek irrigation system. The committee in charge are marshalling all the necessary facts and data in connection with the project and a meeting that should get somewhere in the matter of irrigation should result.

Trustees Conference

A meeting of Valley school trustees will be held in Speers' Hall on Saturday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, for the purpose of discussing the advisability of supporting a District Health Nurse in connection with Creston Valley schools.

This meeting has been called by the Creston board of trustees at the request of the health committee and the school boards of Deer Lodge, Lister, Canyon, Erickson, Alice Siding and Wynndel have been asked to attend.

Representatives of the health committee will be present prepared to discuss the question thoroughly, and the meeting will be a get together in the solution of a problem that is of vital importance to the whole community—the problem of the prevention of the spreading of contagious disease among school children.

A Great Film

William Farnum, the great American actor, will be seen seen at the Grand Theatre in a stupendous screen production of Victor Hugo's immortal story, Les Miserables, made for William Fox under the direction of Frank Lloyd, who directed the making of "A Tale of Two Cities," and other big Fox photoplays.

This picture is well termed "stupendous." It is the only real screening of the remarkable story of the conflict of man with humanity and humanity's half barbarous laws.

In the character of Jean Valjean, Mr. Farnum gives a portrayal that leaves one believing that he walked out of the book. The hard side of the man is shown in all his revengeful feeling against the world that caused him to serve nineteen years at hard labor for stealing a loaf of bread for his starving relatives. And the softer side, when he, having changed his name and become wealthy, is lending is lending a helping hand to everyone around him. Then, too the wonderful spirit that makes him renounce the few joys he has had in life is shown in remarkable bits of acting by this master artist, William Farnum.

For this production William Fox had built in Fort Lee, N.J., a cross-section of streets in Paris. Nothing has been omitted to make the entire production realistic and true to Victor Hugo's conception.

Those who have read the book, or who know anything of Jean Valjean are in for a rare taeat when this picture is shown at the Grand Theatre on Wednesday, Jan. 19th.

Local and Personal

Creston Valley Women's Institute met last Friday—a week before the usual date—for the purpose of discussing the furnishing of quarters for Miss McLuhan, the destrict health nurse. It was decided that the Institue would do this, as much as possible from the funds on hand, and it is hoped more revenue will be obtained from some form of entertainmet to be given by them later on. In the meantime donations of articles or money would be acceptable. Furniture for a bedroom, sitting room and kitchen are needed, with following among the most pressing requirements; Stoves, tables, chairs, linoleum, china, dresser, washstand ahd kitchen utensils.

Though not unexpected none the less genuine is the regret manifest in the passing of Mrs. Thomas Baines, whose death occurred Monday afternoon, after an illness extending over several months. Deceased came with her husband to Canada about fifteen years ago, and for a time resided at Calgary, Alta., coming to Creston in 1908, and taking up a ranch beyond the Alice Siding school, though of late years they have resided in town. The late Mrs. Baines was 60 years of age, and is survived by a husband, two daughters and three sons. The funeral was on Thursday from Christ Church, with Rev. J. S' Mahood officiating, and interment at Creston cemetry. The unbounded cheerfulness always in evidence in the deceased made her a host of friends by all of whom her passing is regretted and from whom goes out sincerest sympathy to the husband and family who mourn her death.

Rev. and Mrs J A. James were at home to the friends and members of the Presbyterian congregation Wednesday afternoon and evening of last week. In the afternoon the hostess was assisted by Mrs J. W. Dow in reeiving the callrrs. while Mesdames Boyd, Speers, Oatway, and J. W. Miller served the refreshments, and in the evening the guests were received by Mrs. Henderson and Mrs. Hunt of Kitchener, while the refreshments were in charge of Mesdames Rose and Watcher. Rev. Mr. James' popularity as pastor and citizen is shared in the same good measure by Mrs. James and there was a constant stream of callers to enjoy the hospitality of the new and welcome occupants of the manse.

Erickson

In the line of incoming freight Erickson station is the busiest in the Valley just at present. Within the past week the Union has stocked up with four cars of hay, flour and feed; the United Farmers have taken delivery of and sold another mixed car of timothy and alfalfa, and R. J. Long has unloaded a car of Coaldale alfalfa for his own use only.

Mrs. John Kemp and one of her children left the latter part of the week for Vernon, where she is haying the youth attend a boys' school in the Okanagan metropolis.

Miss Ruby Palmer, who was home for the Palmer-Whimster nuptials late last month, returned to Regina, Sask., on Sunday.

Mrs. Chas. Kelsey was also a passenger westbound one day last week, going to Victoria, where she is undergoing medical treatment.

The excellent sleighing that prevails furnishes ideal coasting and about two dozen youngsters are enjoying themselves nightly at this sport on the Sam Scott hill.

R. Dodds has just closed a contract with the Canyon City Lumber Company to haul the winter's cut of mill-sawn ties to the Canyon siding. The mill will likely commence cutting this week.

Miss Hill, who has been here for some time as housekeeper for R. M. Telford, left last week for her home at Cascade.

Frank Palmer was a passenger east on Saturday, to Calgary, Alta., where he has designs on purchasing a few head of horses and some other farming equipment.

School opened last week with the largest attendance in recent years. Principal Nay having enough pupils to fill every seat in the school and then had to refuse admittance to a couple who are really not residents of the section.

The United Farmers had a full turnout of members on Tuesday night at which the executive announced the selection of M. R. Palmer as vice-president, and that W. G. Birney had consented to act as secretary-treasurer for this year. The farmers also decided to invite Col. Lister, M.P.P., to address them at his conenience, preferably before going on to his legislative duties at Victoria. The closing feature was an impromtu debate on the topic, Resolved, "That the use of tobacco is beneficial." There were five speakers on each side who furnished almost an hour of first-class entertainment. The decision was a draw.

A pleasing feature of the meeting of the United Frmers on Tuesday night was the presentation of a pipe and tobacco pouch to W. J. Boyd, the retiring secretary. President Littlejohn made a few appropriate remarks in making the presentation, to which Mr. Boyd breifly and suitabls replied.

R. S. Bevan Heads Board of Trade

Notwithstanding the omission of the usual banquet feature there was an attendance of twenty members at the annual meeting of Creston Board of Trade on Tuesday night, which was in charge of retiring president Constable. The meeting made short work of disposing of the purely routine business and no time was lost in getting around to the election of officers, preceding which the president gave a review of the year's operations of the board, and the treasurer presented a balance sheet which showed the organization about $6 to the good after meeting all accounts presented up to the end of the year. Messrs. Swanson and R. B. Staples acted as scrutineers and the election of officers resulted as followr

Hon. President—Guy Constable.
President—R. S. Bevan.
Vice-President—C. F. Hayes.
Secy.-Treas.—C. G. Bennett.
Auditor—Dr. Henderson.
Executive—S. A. Speers, Guy Constable, C. O. Rodgers, R. B. Staples, C. B. Garland, G. Johnson.

President Bevan and Messrs. Hayes and Constable were named a committee to strike the board's standing committee's for 1921.

The annual meeting of the Associated Boards of Trade of Eastern B.C., with which the Creston board is affiliated, will be held at Penticton on Feb. 1st, and considerable difficulty was experienced in getting the quota of two delegates in addition to the president. Messrs. R. B. Staples and Guy Constable finally consented to consider the trip, and in case they cannot go it will be up to the executive to rustle at least one member to accompany President Bevan to the Penticton meeting. Members who have resolutions that they wish submitted at the association board's meeting are asked to turn them in to the secretary before the 22nd.

On its present scale of operations the board finds its membership of $5 inadequate to carry on with successfully and at the February meeting the matter of increasing the fees will be settled. In the past extra funds have been secured by way of an annual Easter Monday box social, whist and dance, but even with the usual response from this quarter additional revenue will have to be provided if the publicity plans now maturing for 1921 are to be carried out successfully.

Sirdar

Miss Stocker of Queens Bay is the new principal of Sirdar school. She arrived last week, and appears to be giving very general satisfaction.

Sid McCabe and crew are busy renewing the ties at Attaboy, as well as doing the usual run of rspair work at the landing.

C. M. Loasby got back from Cranbrook the early part of the week, and reports Mrs. Loasby making a splendid recovery, though it will be at least a couple of weeks before she will return. He is going back to work again the first of the week.

After a suspension of at least a year Conductor Cameron made his first appearance here last week and got a rousing reception from all hands. Conductor Jackson has also resumed operations and is on the run between Cranbrook and Cardston. Each of them is reported to have drawn about $2000 of back salary due to being illegally laid off.

With the re instatement of Messrs. Cameron and Jackson, Sirdar will see less of Conductors McBurney and Wasson, while Messrs. Hall and Burton will also be moved back to the rank of spare conductors on this run.

The old-time winter we are having is just what was required to put Mayor Daly back to form, and his voice is once more lusty enough to be heard here exchanging pleasantries with steward Conway at the Landing.

About 100 citizens have already signed up to play on the several curling rinks at Cranbrook this winter.

Education in Western Canada

Among the administrative duties which come solely within the jurisdiction of Provincial Legislatures and Governments possibly none are more important and vital to the true welfare and strength of the country than those which have to do with the schools and educational policy. While the Dominion Parliament has the right, in certain contingencies, to override Provincial school legislation affecting minorities, it has nothing whatever to do with general educational policy and administration. The strength or weakness, the success or failure, of the schools of Canada is, therefore, a direct responsibility of the Provinces.

From their inception, the Western Provinces of Canada have placed education, and the creation and development of a strong elementary system of schools, first and foremost in their legislative and administrative programmes. The people have demanded this, and the Governments have responded to that demand; Governments have in fact led the way in the introduction of reforms and the adoption of the most advanced methods. The result is that today in almost every city, town, village and rural district, the school is the object of pride on the part of all people and is accorded their enthusiastic support. The school is the one institution for which large sums of money are ungrudgingly voted and in support of which taxes are cheerfully paid.

It is recognized, too, that the elementary school of today is something more than a means of teaching children to read, write and count correctly It is realized that the school is the training ground of citizenship, and that the right type of citizen is the man or woman who possesses not only rudimentary knowledge of the three R's, but who is physically fit to endure the struggles and hardships of life, whose powers of observation, thought, initiative and general intelligence are developed, and whose educational training is of a character to make them fully efficient in their chosen occupation or calling.

Hence, the work of a Provincial Department of Education consists of much more than the organization of school districts, the training of teachers, and the payment of certain grants in support of schools. Realizing that a child cannot pursue its studies to the best advantage and concentrate on its school work if it is suffering from some physical defect or disease, Western Governments have created a branch devoted to school hygiene, and staffs of school nurses are employed who visit the schools, report on the system of lighting and ventilation, and whether the seating is conducive to health and the development of strong, upright bodies. These nurses examine the children's eyes, teeth, throats, etc., and report defects to the parents. Frequently they visit the homes of defective children and discuss their needs with the parents. In this way defects are found and generally remedied of which parents and child may have been ignorant, but which were the cause of indolence, lack of application, and general backwardness in study. Cleanly and healthful habits are taught and their importance emphasized.

Boys' and girls' clubs are organized, school fairs held, school gardens and plots arranged, and the rudiments of agriculture taught in rural schools which are attended by the sons and daughters of our Western farmers, while manual and technical training and night schools are provided in urban centres. The girls are given lessons in domestic science and thus equipped for the discharge of home duties.

Free text books are supplied, an ever-increasing army of inspectors is employed with a view to a steady increase in the efficiency in teaching methods, the standard of qualifications demanded of teachers is being raised year by year, compulsory school attendance laws administered by school attendance officers are enforced with a view to seeing that every boy and girl obtains the benefits of an elementary education, and special efforts are put forth to develop schools among the many communities of non-English birth in this Western country in order that the younger generation may become imbued with Canadian ideals of citizenship.

These policies, so essential to the future, not only of the children, but of the State itself—because the stability of a State is dependent upon the standard of its citizenship—costs an immense amount of money, especially in these newer Provinces of the West where distances are great, population yet small and widely scattered, and pioneer conditions in many respects still prevail. It is not surprising, therefore, that in Saskatchewan last year the largest single item of expenditure by the Provincial Government was for education. Education called for the expenditure by the Government of about one-quarter of the entire Provincial revenue, and what is true of Saskatchewan is approximately true of the other Prairie Provinces.

It will be seen, therefore, that, notwithstanding the fact that the Western Provinces do not enjoy the wealth and resources of the Eastern Provinces, and are laboring under pioneer conditions which have passed in the older portions of the Dominion, Legislatures and Governments here are discharging the fundamental duty of government in providing for an intelligent, trained citizenship, thus laying the foundations for a contented, prosperous and efficient State in the years to come.

DELICATE GIRLS MADE STRONG

Rich, Red Blood Needed to Keep Up Their Vitality.

If growing girls are to become well developed, healthy women their blood supply must be carefully watched. Mothers should not ignore their unsettled moods or the various troubles that tell of approaching womanhood. It should be constantly borne in mind that pale, bloodless girls need plenty of nourishment, plenty of sleep and regular open-air exercise. But a lack of appetite, and tired, aching limbs tend to hinder progress. To save the weak, thin-blooded sufferer she must have new, rich, red blood and nothing meets a case of this kind so well as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills not only enrich and increase the blood supply, they help the appetite and aid digestion, relieve the weary back and limbs, thus promptly restoring health and strength and transforming anaemic girls and women into cheerful happy people. Among the thousands who have obtained new health and strength through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is Miss Violet Booth, Glenarm, Ont., who says:—"For a long time I was in a badly run down condition. I was pale, breathless at the least exertion, and could hardly do any housework without stopping to rest. I often had severe headaches, and my appetite was poor and fickle, and I would get up in the morning without feeling the least bit rested. I had tried several medicines but did not get benefit from anything until I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. When I had taken two boxes I could see an improvement, and after using six boxes I found my health fully restored. I feel altogether different since I used the pills that I strongly advise them for all weak, run down people."

If you are weak or ailing in any way, avail yourself at once of the splendid home treatment which Dr. Williams' Pink Pills so easily afford, and you will be among those who rejoice in regained health. ## The Home Training

If Discipline Is Lacking Youngsters Become a Menace to the Community.

If the discipline of the home is what it should be it will effectually prevent children of high school age from indulging in midnight revelry, perilous joy rides, and other dubious festivities. But if that discipline is lacking up to the high school age these uncontrolled youngsters become a menace to the institution, and to the community of normal, well managed homes which must suffer because of the influence upon decent and self-respecting pupils.—Detroit News.

Would Not Sit For Portrait

Canadian Is First to Paint Picture of Japan's Emperor.

J. W. L. Forster, a Canadian artist, was the first person to paint portraits of Their Majesties the Emperor and Empress of Japan while in Tokio as a delegate to the World's Sunday School convention. In fact they were the first ever painted of any of the reigning heads of that country.

Neither the Emperor or Empress sat for their portraits, being contrary to the custom of Japan. Mr. Forster therefore got occasional glimpses of the rulers, by special arrangement and the work he turned out highly pleased them.

Tiny Autos Popular in Berlin.

Automobiles not much larger than baby carriages are proving exceedingly popular in Berlin, Germany. The car is just large enough to hold one person comfortably, but a trailer may be added to carry luggage or another person. They are driven by an electric battery and will run about four hours without recharging Stations have been established all over the city to recharge batteries. When put away for the night the car is stored in a garage about as large as a dog kennel.

It is usually safe to say that when a child is pale, sickly, peevish and restless, the cause is worms. These parasites range the stomach and intestines, causing serious disorders of the digestion and preventing the infant from deriving sustenance from food. Miller's Worm Powders, by destroying the worms, correct these faults of the digestion and serve to restore the organs to healthy action.

Ontario Planning For Rural Credits.

"As soon as it can be brought about Ontario will have a system of rural credits similar to the system in Quebec and in the western provinces, by which a man can raise money on his business standing and his character," Hon. # ALMIGHTY VOICE

Some New Sidelights on the History of This Famous Indian Outlaw.

By O-GE-MAS-ES (Little Clerk).

(Copyrighted)

Some twenty years ago, more or less, our scattered settlement was thrown into a great state of excitement with the shooting of a Northwest Mounted Policeman by an Indian, about fourteen miles west of where Melfort now stands. This was the first mention of Almighty Voice, that famous outlaw, who kept this section of Saskatchewan in an uproar for a couple of years. This young Indian was a Saulteaux of the Duck Lake band, and noted for his swift running. He was imprisoned at Duck Lake by the Mounties, pending trial on the supposed theft of a steer; broke jail that night, crossed the south branch of the Saskatchewan through drifting ice, secured a pony, cart and single barrelled gun from some of his Indian friends and struck north towards Fort la Corne, a young woman accompanying him.

The police were on his track next morning, and the sergeant (an ex-Life Guardsman) with a French half-breed interpreter, caught him up just about where the village of Beatty now stands. The Indian stopped his pony, got out, knelt down and holding up his right hand, called out, "Stop, or I will shoot!" Bravely the old soldier rode the outlaw down, but a single shot struck him dead. And now, with an empty gun and a muzzle-loader at that, was the opportunity for Mr. Metis to capture him. But alas he turned tail and rode back as hard as he could pelt to Joe McKay (that famous scout) who was bringing up the rear with a buck-board, and was some twelve miles back at a settler's house, waiting for their return with their prisoner. If Joe had been along, Mr. Almighty Voice's career would have ended right there, for the sergeant was greatly beloved by his comrades.

The winter passed and small bodies of police were constantly traversing the district, visiting Indian camps and settlers' houses, but without success, though rumors were plentiful as blackberries in regard to his whereabouts. The outlaw had sworn he never would be taken alive, and stated to his Indian friends that he was innocent of the crime he was imprisoned for. His success in eluding the Mounted Police and also wounding one or two of the men in civilian search parties had made him a hero in the eyes of his countrymen, and there was no doubt he constantly received food, clothes and shelter from the various Indian camps, for after all blood is thicker than water.

About a year after his escape, one of Kinistin's sons called at my house and hung around Indian fashion until my wife lost patience and said for goodness sake ask what that Indian wants and get rid of him. I was no longer engaged in the fur trade, as my farm and cattle kept me busy, but I still kept up my interest in the Indians. Coaxing Ne-pen-a-qua-nip out to the barn, we sat down for a good smoke, that grand preliminary to all peace parleys. Finally, I said, "My brother, something is troubling you; tell me all, and relieve your heart." His face lighted up, and laying his hand on my breast he thanked me and said, "Oh, my brother, how good it was that when my Father was dying he told us all that for the first and only time in his life he had taken a white man for his son and a brother to his children." I agreed with him, but we were making no progress, though I half suspected his errand.

Ne-pen-a-qua-nip then proceeded: "This is very bad having soldiers constantly visiting our tents looking for the one who has done wrong. (It is very seldom an Indian will mention names). Do you think it is a good thing having this man wandering from tent to tent?"

"No, I do not," was my reply.

"Do you remember how you made all our band promise not to take the law into their own hands when the white men began to come in, and when the lumberman struck me in the face and I ran for my gun with only the thought of revenge in my heart, then my promise to you came back to me and I caught a pony and rode right in to see you and you came right out and saw justice was done for the Indian as well as the white?"

"I remember, oh, my brother. You did well, but don't forget after you had the gun in your hand it was your good wife reminded you of the promise made to me."

"True; well this Almighty Voice is our cousin, but he is wrong. He kills an innocent man and wounded two others. Perhaps other Indians will join him and there will be more bloodshed. It would be a good thing to stop him. Is there any reward offered for his capture?"

"Not that I have ever heard of," I answered.

"Well, if there is a good reward, you and I could catch him." And he then detailed his scheme, which was that I was to start trading again and engage him for my man. Start on the usual trips from encampment, gradually draw near his hiding place, where in the dead of night it would be easy to throw a blanket on him, tie him up and hand him over to the police. I cannot say I was much in love with the scheme. Rather a dangerous one, I thought. No doubt the man was desperate. But after the Indian telling me he was getting sympathizers, I finally consented to write the Commissioner of the Mounted Police and report results to him.

No Grain from Russia

Canadian Grain Growers Have Little to Fear From Competition in This Direction.

Ottawa.—That the grain growers of the Dominion have little to fear from the competition of Russia in the immediate future, is indicated in a report received from the office of the Canadian Trade Commissioner at Milan. It appears that in Italy and other European countries, much was expected through negotiations with the co-operative institute of Russia, but only one shipload of Russian grain has arrived yet in any Italian port. This amounted to less than four thousand tons and much of the cargo was reported to be in bad condition.

There is also said to be but little prospect of grain from Rumania or Jugo-Slavia finding its way to the European markets in considerable quantities, despite more favorable transportation and exchange rates.

Turks Are Impudent

Turkish Nationalist Leader Sends Ironical Message to Lloyd George.

Angora, Asia Minor.—Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the Turkish Nationalist leader, has sent an ironical message to Lloyd George thanking the British Government through the Prime Minister for "assisting" the Nationalists. Great Britain had in fact done so, Mustapha Kemal Pasha points out, by furnishing the Armenians with 40,000 rifles and considerable war materials which the Armenians, he says, surrendered to the Nationalists under the peace treaty they had concluded.

The National Assembly here has created Mustapha Kemal a field-marshal of the Turkish army, in "recognition of his services."

Long Journey to Arctic

Dog Teams With R.C.M.P. Will Leave Dawson City on 500-Mile Trip.

Dawson, Y.T.—Five crack Canadian Mounted Police dog teams drawing toboggans will leave Dawson this week on a thousand mile mid-winter Arctic Marathon. They will travel 500 miles directly north to Fort MacPherson, at the mouth of the Mackenzie river, and then return.

They are expected back here about the first week of March and will likely bring first advices of the winter from Fort Norman oilfields and from Arctic explorers and whalers frozen in along the northern edge of the continent.

Several parties here are planning to go with dog teams over the snow to Fort Norman. The distance will necessitate 20 days' mushing.

Simple Funeral for Von Hollweg.

Berlin.—The burial of the former Imperial Chancellor, Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, took place in the Rustic Cemetery at Hohenfinow. The funeral rites were of the simplest nature and the interment took place in the presence of the villagers, the employees of the estate, numerous officials and political associates of the former chancellor.

Elaborate Opening of Parliament Planned for Northern Ireland

Hope to Obtain Consent of the King or Prince of Wales to Attend.

London.—Ulstermen are preparing to make the opening of the parliament for Northern Ireland as picturesque and pompous as possible, endeavoring to obtain the consent of the King to personally open the first session or to have the Prince of Wales do so if the King is unable to be present, says the London Times.

The newspaper adds that starting the Ulster Parliament is a fairly easy proposition, but that the crux of the problem will be met in Southern Ireland. However, it says the government has virtually decided upon a bold course.

Final decision has not yet been taken, but according to the Times the government has practically resolved to reject the advice of cautious advisors to defer elections for the southern parliament until the results of the Ulster experiment are seen and bring the act into operation in both areas simultaneously, having elections for the two parliaments concurrently.

Are for Disarmament

Prominent Canadians Express Their Opinion on World Disarmament Question.

New York.—Four big Canadians, asked for their opinion on an agreement for disarmament between England, United States and Japan, by the New York World, are direct in their statement that the three countries concerned should make special efforts to cut down the expenditures in this regard, as it would be painful to rebuild our civilization slowly, and, it must be done, than to see it swept to nothing by another world conflict.

Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Sir Vincent Meredith, Sir H. Montague Allen and Professor Leacock are the men who expressed identical opinions on the subject.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, says: "I am for disarmament."

Now Encircle World

Canadian Ships Have at Last Completed World-Girdling Plan.

Montreal.—Canada's ocean-carrying trade by the medium of the government ships has at last encircled the globe. The last link in this world-girdling enterprise was forged with the departure of the steamship "Canadian Inventor" from Vancouver to Singapore and Calcutta, it is announced.

Hereafter the boats bound east from Montreal and St. John through the Suez Canal, will meet the boats bound west from Vancouver at the terminal port of Calcutta.

"Red" Agitators In Hamilton.

Hamilton, Ont.—It is said that the "Red" element here is trying to stir up men out of employment to make a demonstration in force.

At a meeting of unemployed, held in this city recently, extremists suggested the looting of stores by men out of work.

Secret service officials have been working in Hamilton as a result of the apparent attempt of certain agitotors to cause an outbreak of lawlessness, and, in consequence, a dozen of them have been ordered to leave this city under threat of imprisonment.

Alberta Favors Increased Taxation.

Edmonton.—Twice the present maximum of taxation in municipal districts is favored by the Provincial Government as indicated in an answer given to the delegation from the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts. The limit of taxation is now one per cent. of the assessed value, or ten cents an acre where the levy is made on flat rate. It was asked by the delegation which waited upon the government, that this maximum of taxation be materially increased and a change to two per cent. and 20 cents was agreed upon.

Toronto Has Crime Epidemic.

Toronto.—"We have an epidemic of housebreaking, burglary and highway robbery," said Judge Coatsworth, "and we have to stamp it out." Thereupon he sentenced Frank McCarthy, of Montreal, and Henry Morgan, of this city, to the penitentiary for five years for housebreaking.

Alaska Pioneer Dead.

Dawson.—Emerson O'Neill, well-known pioneer Alaskan and Yukoner, died here recently. He came to Juneau in 1893, and Dawson five years later.

Thinks Situation is Hopeless

Von Tirpitz is Very Pessimistic Over Germany's Future.

Munich.—Admiral Von Tirpitz, who was the German naval secretary for the first two years of the war, does not believe "a kindly fate will give Germany 200 years to revive, as after the 30 years war, because of surrounding hostile nations."

He makes this known in an article written for a Southern German publication. He says Germany's situation seems hopeless. The admiral writes: "It must be said that eighty million Germans in Middle Europe can be an invincible power if they hang together and are willing to sacrifice for national unity. If they separate nothing but dreams will remain for them."

Million Unpaid in Certificates

Many Participation Certificates Issued By Canadian Wheat Board Still Outstanding.

Winnipeg.—Approximately $1,000,000 worth of participation certificates issued by the Canadian Wheat Board still are outstanding, although they should have been presented for payment by December 31, 1920, according to the Winnipeg Tribune.

Because the certificates have been allowed to lapse they are now invalid. Those who have not claimed the amounts coming to them on their certificates are said to be foreigners, who, it is declared, are suspicious of signing any government documents. In most cases the value of the certificates is not large but in one instance it amounts to $500.

D'Annunzio Is Robbed.

Rome.—Several million lira in cash have been stolen from the office of Gabriele D'Annunzio at Fiume by Arditti, who forced the regency's strong box. Documents relating to D'Annunzio's enterprise were also stolen and the poet-soldier is considerably disturbed by the robbery. D'Annunzio is leaving Fiume for an unknown destination.

Bandits Steal $18,000.

Detroit, Mich.—Three armed bandits locked the manager and clerk of the west side branch of the Michigan State Bank of Detroit in the vault and escaped with $18,000. The manager and clerk were imprisoned in the vault nearly two hours before their absence was noted and the robbery discovered.

Refuse Extradition.

The Hague.—The Dutch courts have refused to grant the extradition to Belgium of Professor De Vreeze formerly librarian of Ghent University, and now a political refugee. Professor De Vreeze is accused as a leading "activist" in the Flemish separation movement during the war.

De Valera Is Busy Man.

Dublin.—The Associated Press correspondent has conversed with several persons who have seen and spoken with Eamonn De Valera. He is reported to be in excellent health and is extremely busy, having already held several conferences with leaders of various departments of the Sinn Fein Government.

Donald McMaster Ill.

London.—Sir Donald McMaster, the well-known Anglo-American member of parliament for Chertsey, is seriously ill.

To Equalize Railway Rates

Proposes Conference to Prepare Case For Railway Commission.

Calgary, Alta.—To discuss the equalization of railway rates between the east and the west, and to prepare a case in support of equalization for presentation to the Railway Commission, a conference of representatives of the Boards of Trade of the four western provinces, to be held in Vancouver at the end of January or the beginning of February was proposed in a telegram received by J. H. Hanna, secretary of the Calgary Board of Trade, from the Vancouver Board of Trade.

Woman Speaker in B.C. House.

Victoria.—As a result of a Cabinet meeting here, Mrs. Mary Ellen Smith, who headed the poll in Vancouver at the provincial elections December 1, will be tendered the speakership of the British Columbia Legislature. From the time of the announcement of Mrs. Smith's great plurality it was on the carpet that the government proposed to recognize the lady's wide popularity and service in the house.

Eggs from China

Tons of Chinese Eggs Arrive at Vancouver for Use in Dominion.

Vancouver.—Three days behind schedule owing to heavy gales off the British Columbia coast, the C.P.O.S. steamship Royal Mail Liner, Empress of Russia, has docked here from Oriental ports. The steamer had a full list of passengers.

Included in her cargo were 438 tons of Chinese eggs, 288 tons of which are for overland points and 150 tons for local and coastwise. The vessel also has 600 tons of silk and 2,000 tons of general cargo.

Plot to Blow Up Tower of London.

London.—A plot to blow up that section of the Tower of London where the crown jewels are stored, with time fuse bombs was discovered, according to the Daily Sketch, during a recent raid of certain Sinn Fein premises.

Angus Shops Re-open.

Montreal.—The Canadian Pacific Railway Angus shops here, employing 5,500 men, which closed for twelve days' holiday just before Christmas have been re-opened under the same conditions as previously.

The Italian band management at Trail is out to raise $500 by public subscription wherewith to buy some new instruments and to ship the old ones back east for repairs and general tuning up.

Public Library Elects Officers

The first annual meeting of Creston District Public Library Association was held in the library building on Monday night, with a fair turnout of the 35 members who have already paid their membership fees for the ensuing year. The gathering was presided over by Jas. Adlard, the library board chairman, while Mrs. J. W. Hamilton, secretary, presented a concise report of the library operations to date, which was as follows:

"The Creston and District Public Library Association was formed in September last, the date of the charter being September 13th. The first meeting after incorporation was held on Sept. 30th, and the five members of the board were appointed, namely, Mrs. Henderson, Mrs. Lyne, Mrs. Hamilton, Jas. Adlard, C. M. Brousson. The board met on Oct. 7th and selected Mr. Adlard as chairman, with Mrs. Hamilton, secretary-treasurer, she also acting as librarian for the time being. The library was opened to the public on Dec. 18th. The Women's Institute donated their library of 312 books to the Association, and also their library cash balance of $13, with which eight new books were bought. These, together with eight more recently donated, and the books loaned from Victoria, consisting of 104 fiction, 30 juvenile and 45 general, from a library of 567 books to start the year. There are up to the present 35 members."

The election of officers resulted in the return of the original board, with the exception of Mrs. Henderson, who declined re-election, and whose place is filled by Mrs. R. B. Staples. Mr. Adlard was re-appointed chairman, with Mrs. Hamilton, secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Hamilton was also elected honorary librarian.

Wynndel U.F. Annual Meeting

There was a fine turnout for the first annual meeting of Wynndel Local of the United Farmers of B.C., which was held in the Wynndel schoolhouse on Thursday night last, with President A. H. Piggott occupying the chair. After the minutes of the previous meeting had been read and adopted, the next order of business was the reading of correspondence which included a letter from the Ladies' Auxiliary, calling attention to the fact that that body had been dissolved. This letter was ordered fyled.

The secretary's report, which also included the balance sheet, was next presented, the treasurer's statement showing a credit of $106.75 at the bank and $5.78 cash in hand. The secretary's report showed that the local had been quite active during the year, one prominent feature being a persistent campaign for better attention to repairs on roads and bridges. On motion the financial statement was accepted as read.

At this point O. J. Wigen drew attention to an item of $53 in the financial report, and enquired if that was the full amount in that connection. Vice-president W. J. Cooper stated that it was his recollection that $100 had been promised and he thought the local ought to live up to its promise in the matter. Mr. Wigen then suggested that the chairman name a committee to raise the balance, if possible, and Mr. Piggott very kindly offered his services.

Chairman Bathie and the other trustees were accorded a very hearty vote of thanks for allowing the U.F. the free use of the school for all their meetings. The meeting was informed that there was a possibility of a new order of things being created for the purpose of giving all Valley points better service in the matter of public works, particularly as to roads and their upkeep, and a committee was named to go into the matter to the extent of reporting as to where repairs were needed and the possible cost of doing the work, this committee to consist of Messrs. W. J. Cooper, Matt. Hagen and John Bathie.

O. J. Wigen introduced the subject of an apple packing school but Chairmen Piggot ruled that this was a matter for the Co-Operative Fruit Growers to handle, and the matter was dropped. Mr. Packman reported on an interview with Mr. Loveday of Creston Fruit Growers' Union, and Guy Constable, secretary of the Stockbreeders' Association, as to the hay situation, and these gentlemen had informed that those needing assistance in buying hay could have same by signing notes payable in six months at an interest rate of 7½ per cent.

The officers for 1921 were elected as follows: President, W. J. Cooper. Vice president, Joe Wigen. Secretary-treasurer, E. S. Butterfield. Directors, Mrs. Victor Johnson, O. J. Wigen, E. Butterfield, A. H. Piggot. It was decided that at the next meeting an entertainment committee be formed. At this next meeting also the standing committees for the year will be struck.

Two other important resolutions were adopted; one to notify the forthcoming convention that the Wynndel local believes the time has arrived when the United Farmers should enter the political arena, and the second is that the provincial convention pass and get action on the matter of restricting the Oriental purchasing and leasing of land, and that the head tax on celestials be raised to $1000.

Willow, The Wisp

— BY —

ARCHIE P. McKISHNIE

Printed by Special Arrangements with Thos. Allen, Toronto, Ont.

Willow's heavy brows arched in a little frown; she puckered up her red lips and whistled the bar of a tune.

Dorkin watched her. Surely this child of the forest was an enigma. He began to realize that he had taken on a much heavier contract than he had at first supposed.

He came out of his musings with a start. Willow had asked him a question, asked it in her direct way, her grey eyes looking straight into his.

"Who was that beautiful girl you were with, yesterday?"

"Beautiful girl?" he stammered, and laughed at his own confusion.

"She was here, her and an old man, here with Pa Washburn, from Lookup. She had hair lik gold adder-tongues, her eyes were blue as a cedar-bird's egg; I saw 'em, Dorkin. Who was she?" she insisted.

Dorkin patted the brown hand resting on his arm. "Why, that was Miss Marsh," he answered. "The elderly gentleman was her uncle. I wanted you to meet them, but you were nowhere to be found. She seemed a splendid sort of girl, Willow," he added enthusiastically.

Willow stood up, and turned towards the house. Lulu and her family had gone back to the kennels. Dorkin too arose. "Willow," he said, and paused, as she turned fiercely upon him.

"Why does she want to come up here?" she cried—"her with her yellow curls and her white skin. Oh, I knowed somebody like her would come some day—come here and find you, Dorkin." Her voice broke in a little sob. "I wish" she said wistfully, "I wish to God she hadn't come. Oh, I do Dorkin, I do!"

Dorkin stood paralyzed before this new outbreak. Uncomprehending its real cause, he could but grope for understanding.

For the first time he began to realize that this woods-girl was feeling the world-old heritage of the forest, that she had bridged the brief span between childhood and womanhood. He knew the wilderness and its ways. The new comprehension overwhelmed him, shocked him into stupidity.

He knew that she was looking at him, but it was ages before the film passed from his eyes and he could see. He noted then that her face was drawn, as though in pain, that a strange wanness had crept into it, and that the deep eyes bore the look of a hurt thing. Below the white throat, the doeskin rose and fell like the tiny waves of a storm-racked lake. He knew that she was waiting—waiting for what?

He wanted to speak, to say something, anything, so long as he relieved the situation, but he could not. He knew that the color had fled from his face just as it had from hers. He realized that he had lost something dear and tender and innocent. What had he found?

Above, around, deep from the tangled forest rang the fluted note upon which all the harmony and love of the shagland vastness hung: the note of mate to mate. It was the irrevocable chord that kept the shadowed world of wood and water and fathomless mysteries on its course.

He raised his arms and his hands grasped the low-hanging branch of a tree. Its cool, rough bark felt good to them. There was a fever in his blood, a wild, lawless surging in his breast. Something, a subtle perfume, indefinable as the rosy lining of a dream, overpowered the scents of leaf and blossom, and crept deep into his innermost soul. Then it passed, and he stood before her with white, set face.

She came over to him, a smile on her lips. Her eyes were dark with wistfulness. She stood on tiptoe and put her warm arms about his neck; she drew his face down and held it close against her own. "My man," she whispered, "my strong man."

He drew her to him, then crushed her close, knowing that he hurt her, expecting that she would cry out; but she was silent.

Suddenly, he found himself holding her at arm's length, talking to her in a rambling fashion, telling her what she must do. She was not to say or do such things again. She was not to remember anything that had happened—She was not to see him alone again. This—this thing that had happened was but a dream—a dream—she was to remember it as only a dream.

And then he pushed her roughly from him. She stumbled and almost fell, but in the face turned to his, as she stood swaying uncertainly for the moment, there rested a light such as never had drifted down from tinted skies or swept the twilight waters of the shagland.

"You," she said—and stopped with a little catch in her breath—and then, defiantly—"you are my man, Dorkin, my beautiful man! If she—if any woman tries to steal you from me—" She lifted her arms high, and the glint of her deep eyes recalled to his mind the sombre fire he had seen flash in those of the lynx. Once again he felt that subtle, overpowering force of the elemental grip and stifle him. He turned abruptly and stumbled through the thicket of maples, in his ears the music of her soft laughter. For an hour he wandered along the shadowed trail, unseeing, thinking, thinking, asking himself over and over again this question, 'Why—oh, why"

At last he sank wearily down on the edge of a little lake, locked in the green arm of dwarfed tamaracks, and above which hung the weaving mists lined with the mauve lights of morning. In its placid depths were mirrored tiny flecks of summer cloud and over all hung the breath of wood and flower. Beautiful, sublime, untroubled, it snuggled there, like a white pearl on the throat of Nature, created by God for a purpose, just as he and all his forest kindred had been created for a purpose. Looking upon it, he asked again, "Why, oh, why?"

And then he had his answer. All about him life awoke and the answer was trilled to him from throat of flashing song-bird and twittering grouse. Just across the lake, the bushes parted, and a young doe stepped from the shadows to touch the water with velvety lips. A moment later a young buck deer joined her. As he watched them, the buck reached forward and touched his mate's long ears with his nose. A gaudily dressed little wood-drake flashed above the water to alight in a dead tree, hanging close to the surface of the lake. Dorkin's gaze followed him. In a hollow of the tree his eyes discerned, through the partial gloom, a little brown something, which, as he watched, grew into animation. It was the wood-drake's small mate. She had warmed the blue-white eggs of their nest while her brilliant mate had fed. Now she, with a little quack of welcome, fluttered from the nest and sped high and outward to the distant feeding-ground. The little drake settled down on the nest. It was mate and mate, the old law of the wooded universe.

Close beside him a pair of muskrats swam from the reed-studded shallows out into the open water. He knew that somewhere back in the rushes stood their dome-like house of grass and twig; no doubt their five blind babies were sleeping in one of the little compartments of that home.

No need to ask himself the question, "Why, oh, why?" He passed back along the trail. Slowly he walked, pondering deeply, striving blindly for some solution—there was but one. She must go away. "Great God!" he said aloud, "she is but a child." And then as quickly came another thought. He stopped in his tracks, the blood burning his cheeks with the shame of self-contempt. What had he become for the fraction of a minute, what had he become?

His head swam and his nerves cried aloud for something—what?

Mechanically his right hand swept to his jacket pocket, and with the action, realization came to him.

For an instant the old hellish craving for false courage and relief all but overpowered him—he wanted the needle—God, how he longed for the drug that had murdered his first hopes in life!

He leaned against a tree, and stood trembling, with closed eyes, fighting.

The something brushed against him, and a soft, purring sound brought him back from the edge of the vortex. He sank to his knees and drew the fierce-eyed lynx to his breast, and held her there. She licked his face—damp now with the tears of self-pity and reproach—with her rough tongue. She laid her round head on his shoulder, purring hoarsely her love for him.

He was, perhaps, the one elemental being who was capable of drawing affection from her hot heart. From a kitten he had shielded and protected her, had romped with her, fed her, housed her. Her wild heart reached for him. She loved him. If she ever killed him, it would be for love of him.

And so he held her until, gradually, the crying craving passed and the bird's song swam above the torturing voices of the fiends, and in his heart came once again the old-time strength. But he was weak from the battle, and when he arose, it was with lagging steps that he passed along the scented trail. Close beside him, her head in his hand, stalked the fierce-eyed animal that had sought him to lead him back.

A Shimmering Gown Of Metallic Cloth

By Gertrude Beresford.

This handsome evening gown is originated in a metallic cloth that abounds in threads of silver and copper. The basque-like corsage shows a heart-shaped decolletage—a line that is highly favored at this time. The shoulder straps and little bands that top the bodice are thickly studded with rhinestones. The skirt slightly echoes the harem mode, for its generous folds are restrained by three roses. These are modelled from silver cloth, delicately tinted with shades of rose. From beneath the side draperies that are disposed in cascade style, black velvet ribbons hang pendant.

Gold is yellow only by reflected light. If a leaf of gold, as ordinarily used by gilders, be placed between two pieces of glass, and held up to the light, it will be seen to transmit green light.

What Prominent Ontario Women Say

Tillsonburg, Ont.:—"I found Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription very beneficial during expectancy. I felt quite poorly, was nauseated and sick, could not eat anything and I was extremely nervous and weak. I took 'Favorite Prescription' and it soon stopped the nausea, my appetite returned, also my strength and I was soon feeling fine and strong. My baby was strong and healthy and has always been so. I consider 'Favorite Prescription' a great help to the expectant mother and am glad to recommend it."—MRS. AMOS MILLS, Box 238.

A HAMILTON WITNESS

Hamilton, Ont.:—"A few months ago I was stricken down and was confined to bed about ten days. My strength all left me. It was my first illness since a child. I lost five pounds and felt awfully weak afterward. I could hardly do my work. I was advised to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription in tablet form. I tried a couple of bottles and before I knew it, I was well and strong and had gained 9½ pounds. I can recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to build one up."—MRS. E. MARTIN, 327 Dundurn St.

After suffering pain, feeling nervous, dizzy, weak, and dragged down by weaknesses of her sex—with eyes sunken, black circles and pale cheeks—such a woman is quickly restored to health by the Favorite Prescription of Dr. Pierce. Changed, too, in looks, for after taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the skin becomes clear, the eyes brighter, the cheeks plump. It is purely vegetable, contains no alcohol.

Proper Food for the Child

BY LORETTO C. LYNCH

An Acknowledged Expert in All Matters Pertaining to Household Management.

One of the largest cities in the United States asked me to lend my assistance in combatting the appalling amount of malnutrition which the Department of Health doctors found among its children. And, strange to say, the malnutrition was by no means limited to the children of poor folk. Some of the children came of well-to-do families. In only a small minority of cases was lack of money the cause. Then what is the matter?

I invited the mothers of one hundred of these children to a little informal gathering. At first they let me do most of the talking, let me tell them that a diet of white bread, potatoes and meat and practically nothing else might cause malnutrition. They allowed me to become so enthusiastic that I finally gave out printed slips on the suggested diet to combat malnutrition.

The best food workers believe that a diet of milk—lots of it—cereals and ceral foods, fruits and vegetables, fats and foods from the egg-fish, meat-nut group and a very little sugar at the end of a meal, other conditions being favorable, is the ideal diet for the proper growth and development of a child.

Up to this point the women had been shy. But now a courageous soul broke silence.

"It is all very well to say the children should eat this and that and that," she said, pointing to the slip with her toil-worn finger, "but my boy—the one the doctor says is undernourished, won't eat cereal and he won't drink milk and he don't like eggs and hates vegetables and I have to beg with him to eat an egg. And when he won't eat these things what can I do?"

Suppose your child will not take milk. Perhaps if you make it into cocoa he will take it. Or, perhaps, he will take it if it is made into a chocolate pudding or a custard pudding. You might put a pinch of baking soda into the tomato soup and then combine it with equal parts of milk and serve it as cream of tomato soup.

If you look through a cook-book you will find scores of dishes calling for milk. While pies are not usually suggested for children, nevertheless in cocoanut custard pie there is so little crust and so much milk and egg, that we might occasionally put it into an older child's diet.
