THE CRESTON REVIEW

Vol. XII. CRESTON, B. C., FRIDAY, JANUARY 28, 1921 No. 52

Lister

Surprise parties have been very much in evidence here the past week among those being unexpectedly made to play host and hostess being Mr. and Mrs. Bagshaw, Mr. and Mrs. Jacks—the latter home being invaded by a party faom Erickson. On the occasion of the birthday of Mrs. E. Thompson they were also "snrprised" by a company of friends. In every case real old time social evenings were enjoyed.

Joe Bell got back on Sunday from Cranbrook, where he had been at a G. W. V. A. zone convention.

Messrs. McGee and Webb were at Creston on Saturday, where both spoke at the irrigation meeting, urging that whatever project was undertaken should safeguard the interests of the Lister area.

An important conference was staged at the schoolhouse on Sunday night when Col. Davies, head of the Land Settlement Board, and Capt. Ian McKenzie, M.P.P., Vancouver, were here, with the latter the only speaker however. The import of the visit was to give Capt. McKenzie a thorough insight into the local situation, with a view to him making recommendations that will clear up all the matters in which there is a difference of opinion between the board and the settlers. It is stated that brand new agreements will be submitted, the new one to be almost exactly similar to the agreements used in the ssle of ordinary properties.

At a meeting of the Ladies' Axiliary on Saturday afternoon Mrs. Webb tendered her resignation as secretary and Mrs. John Johnston was elected in her stead.

The vacancy in the settlement committee caused by the withdrawal of Walter Wright has been filled by the appointment of F. B. Cann.

Shack moving operations are now complete and Snake Alley is deserted except for the residences of Supt. Rowbury and Vinc. Liddicoatt.

Lister was well represented at the concert at Creston as well as the Scotch entertainment at Canyon on Tuesday night. At Canyon Mrs. John Johnston and Jocks MacKay and Duncan appeared to splendid advantage on the programme.

There will be a change in the entertainment menu this week. For Saturday night the attraction is a stag party by the G.W.V.A. at which the married men will be allowed to sample bachelor hospitality, with special reference to eatables.

An error was made last week in stating that Miss Dean of Victoria had been secured to take charge of Lister school. The trustees have promoted Miss Clara Ansted to the principalship, and have secured Miss Edna Holmes of Creston as teacher for Division II. Miss Ansted's promotion is approved by the superintendent of education, and is highly recommended as a teacher by former inspector Calvert.

Conservatives Attention!

An ordinary General Meeting of the Creston District Conservative Association will be held in the Parish Hall, on

The best attended and probably the most satisfactory all round meeting of the Musical and Dramaiic Society was on Wednesday of last week when a mock trial was put on. Jack Head was the prisoner, and was accused of appearing in Snake Alley on New Years Day in a suit of green pyjamas. The prosecuting attorny was J. A. McGee, while the defence was handled by H. Christenson. Both proved eminent counsel but the judgement was against the prisoner, who was ordered to forthwith sell the bright colored garment to Bevan's garage, which is advertizing for cotton rags.

Canyon City

A braw Scotch blythsome nicht the nicht isn't putting it a bit too strong in describing the nicht wi Burns which was the concert attraction at the schoolhouse on Tuesday night, and which attracted a crowd that filled the schoolhouse to capacity. Dr. Henderson occupied the chair in excellent Scotch fashion, while the programme offered a little of most everything to be looked for at a gathering of the sort. On the literary side Jock MacKay of Lister, Hilton Young and Geo. Davie all had timely contributions from the poems of Burns, the former's interpretation of the poet's "Soldier's Return" being particularly effective. In addition to his recitations Hilton Young sprung a number of stories on the Scotians in good style, and shared the evening's honors in this respect fairly evenly evenly with Chairman Henderson, whose bon mot had to do with the scratchy malady of the clan McPherson. Bill Truscott was also there in the story-telling line, and his "One toot, and oot" is well worthy of special mention. Messrs. Young, MacKay and Truscott also favored with [illegible] in a creditable fashion, but at the solo work the premier honors must be awarded the ladies. Mrs. Geo. Davie gave a pleasing rendering of "Afton Water." Mrs. Hilton Young was equally effective in her two numbers, "Banks and Braes" and "Mary of Argyle." Mrs. John Johnston of Lister sang herself into the favor of all in "Scotland" and the "Wee Bit Land." The latter number was rendered with feeling and expression and evoked long and well deserved applause. Jas Duncan of Lister was called upon that the old-time Scot had nothing on the present generation of Scotians in the art of dancing, and he creditably acquitted himself in a highland fling to bagpipe accompaniment. Geo. Davie showed himself equally proficient in the art of drumming—on both bass and snare—his work with the former being particularly spectacular. His effort on the big drum was to the skirl of the pipes, while on the snare he was drumming to the piano and violin manipulated by Miss Sherwood and T. R. Mawson. Piper Ross, in full regimentals, was heard to good advantage on several occasions, and his instrument gave the finishing touch to the last number on the programme in which he piped into the hall a trio in highland costume, one of whom carried a miniature haggis and to which Miss Annie McRobb recited the time-honored address—an indispensible bit of elocution at all Burns' night dinners. In additied to her solo numbers Mrs. Davie also made an excellent accompanist for the other vocalists. Any mention of the evening would be incomplete without a good word for the effort of Mr. Mawson, who worked many hours overtime in getting up the concert, but who will hardly regret the strenuous effort put forth after the great success of the occasion. Following the programme lunch was served to all and then there was a couple of hours' dancing. After paying all expenses there is a balance of $57, which goes to the piano fund.

Mrs. Witherhead left a few days ago on a trip to Cranbrook.

Mrs. VanAckeran is having a rather disagreeable time of it from a touch of blood poisoning in her hand, due to neglect of a sliver.

Mr. Bell of Yahk was a week-end visitor with his family here. They are occupying Mrs. McKim's house on the Chambers ranch.

Kitchener

Kitchener is now well supplied with stores. The newest to open up in the retail line is the firm of Day & Langlois. Mr. Day was formerly employed by G. A. Hurt. Their store is at the Langlois residence.

Mrs. A. Cameron and Miss Jennie Belanger of Creston were guests of Mrs. McGonegal a couple of days the latter part of the week.

Last week was an unlucky one for at least two residents of Kitchener. Mr. Pears, who is working for Paulson-Mason Co., sustained injuries to his head that necessitated sending him to Creston to recuperate, and a couple of days later while at work loading ties W. C. Forrester had the misfortune to crack a rib.

Messrs. Geo. Young and Jack Hayden arrived last week and are doing assessment work on their claims here.

In the death of James Frame, who was killed in a logging mishap on Monday, Kitchener has lost one of her very best citizens. It would appear that while in the act of opening up a skidway of logs preparatory to loading, one of the top pieces of timber broke away unexpectedly and in its descent pinned him to the ground, crushing his life out almost instantly. Deceased, who was 36 years of age, was employed by Cranbrook Sash & Door Co. as foreman, and had been a resident here for the past four years. His wife predeceased him about two years ago. The funeral was on Tuesday to the afternoon train on which the body was taken to Nelson for burial. Rev. J. A. James took charge of the funeral services and every camp and mill in the district was closed down, with all these workmen together with every citizen of the town in attendance at the funeral. The late Mr. Frame was a leader among men. In addition to a pleasing personality he was a whole souled public spirited citizn in every respect, and in his untiring efforts to establish the Kitchener school and maintain its efficency since its opening about three years ago deceased strikingly demonstrated the high standard of citizenship he believed in. Kitchener has never had a better friend than the late James Frame, and rightly merited is the universal regret felt at his untimely passing. Manager Spence of the Sash & Door Co., along with Messrs. Hunt Howard and Geroux accompanied the remains to Nelson and were present at the funeral on Wednesday.

Wynndel

O. J. Wigen returned on Saturday from Nelson, where he had been attending the session of the B. C. Fruit Growers Association.

The local Sunday school last week collected $3, which has been sent as a donation to the European Relief Fund.

Paul Ofner left on Saturday for Needles, where he has taken a pole and post contract. He will be away until early spring.

Mourad Wigen, Ken. and D. Dewar got back on Sunday from Calgary, Alta., and report the winter sports there not quite up to expectations.

Miss Merle Bathie is home again after a three months stay with friends in Calgary. She arrived on Monday.

The Athletic Club equipment has started to arrive. The first of it is a basketball set, which was put into use at the Monday night meeting.

Ashley Cooper & Sons loaded out a car of apples on Tuesday. It was a straight car of Johnathans.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Wall returned on Saturday from Calgary, after a stay of about three months in that city.

Mrs. Topliss arrived on Tuesday on a visit to her daughters at the schoolhouse.

The big event is billed for Friday night, Feb. 11th, to start at 7.45 prompt, with an admission of 75c. The programme will be the best ever put on in the Valley. Concert will be followed by a dance with the refreshments and music suppled by the concert party, with an admission charge of 75c. per couple. All proceeds go to the Athletic Club.

A bunch of boys worked until late on Saturday night clearing a stretch of the slough of snow, and Sunday saw all hands down enjoying the skating.

The Athletic Club will have an important special session on Monday night, at 8 o'clock—before the regular meeting. All members and prospective members are asked to attend, as the business to be disposed of is urgent.

The Co-operative Fruit Growers have started to put up tseir supply of ice for next summer's use.

Ling fishers continue to report poor luck, but are still optimistic as to big catches a little later on.

J. P. Brooke returned from Nelson on Monday morning.

Wynndel Athletic Club have dance at the Clubhouse to-night (Fridry), at 8.30. Gents 75c. Ladies please pring lunch. You are all welcome.

Erickson

Mrs. Charlie Huscroft was a passenger from here the latter part of the week, on a trip to Calgary, Alta.

The United Farmers whist drive and dance at the Craigie packing shed on Friday night was a splendid success socially, and afrer paying all expenses there will be a $15 cash surplus. The wiuners at cards were Miss Beatrice Dodds and Keith Littlejohn, while the low scorers were Mrs. Leveque and Earl Birney. Cards were concluded just before eleven and were followed by lunch and then came the dance with excellent music by Mrs. Foreman and Mrs. Garland at the piano, Mr. Cuming, violin, and Gerald Craigie, drums. The committees in charge had everything well arranged and the affair throughout passed off pleasantly.

Sirdar

Mrs. Whiteside was a between-train visitor at Creston on Monday.

Mr. Dennes returned to Spokane a few days ago, after an extended visit here with his son, Dick.

Mr. and Mrs. Choppen have renovated the old bunkhouse opposite the water tank, and are occupying it as a residence. He is learning telegraphy telegraphy with Agent Goodman.

Miss Stocken, the new principal of Sirdar school, has created a very favorable impression with both parents and pupils. She has about fourteen at present.

Sirdar started its new year church going in fine style, Mr. Mahood having a fine turnout at the Sunday night service.

Mr. and Mrs. McMasters and son, George, were up from the Landing on Monday, renewing acquaintances.

Mr. and Mrs. Whiteside returned last week from a couple of weeks' stay with Lethbridge, Alta., and Fernie friends. They report no snow hardly in Alberta, and the weather decidedly mild.

Yardmaster Loasby is also a patient at Cranbrook hospital where he is undergoing treatment for one of his feet, which has been troubling him lately. Mrs. Loasby's recovery is of the very best, and she will be able to leave the hospital early next month.

The big timbers for the bridges on the Sirdar-Kuskanook road are now all distributed, and carpenters are at work on the structure across Boulder Creek.

Geo. Cam, who has been at Taghum for some time, has returned to Sirdar and gone to work on the switch crew. Mrs. Cam and family are remaining at Taghum for the present.

Fernie has a few cases of scarlet fever.

Willow, The Wisp

She was silent.

"Tell me, Willow; why have you avoided me for so many days? Why have you not been near to boss me and play for me on your violin, as you used to?"

"I have been near you, Dorkin," she answered, "only—you didn't know it. Every day as you trekked through the forest of the lower Preserve, I've been close to you—You see," she broke off wearily, "you're such a—you're so foolish, Dorkin, you won't carry a rifle. I was scared some of them might get you. So I've trailed along."

He sighed, and, with an effort, let his arms fall to his sides. A whip-poor-will from the leafy copse, close at hand, sent its musical call out on the night. Far off, another fluted call answered it. It was the world old note of the solitude, the call of mate to mate.

"Willow, the Wisp," he said hoarsely, and held out his arms.

But she was gone, speeding like a beam of starlight across the glade, to the cabin beneath the trailing honeysuckles.

Dorkin was up at daybreak, but not before Mrs. LaPeer, who had his breakfast ready for him on his return from his morning plunge in the lake. There was work to be done, fences to mend down in the lower portion of the Preserve, and he had asked Pete to remain close to the inner enclosure in order to keep an eye on the animals there.

As he rose from the breakfast table, he said to his housekeeper, "Please tell Willow that I am taking my rifle, Mrs. LaPeer, and that I would like to separate the cock birds from the hens, in old partridge broods. They're getting big enough to fight, and strong enough to injure each other."

The woman smiled, showing two rows of perfect teeth. "Dat will be job to suit Willow, fer sure," she said. "She lak dat kind of work, her."

Dorkin picked up his hat and opened the rifle-case in the wall. He frowned, as he lifted down a beautiful little repeating rifle, and absently filled its magazine with cartridges. On principle, he hated rifles, because they were destroying agents, and life to him was something which should be protected and not taken lightly.

But Willow had said he was a—qualified fool, and he put a great deal of dependence in what she said, always.

The fact that he went armed would, at least, put her fears concerning his safety at rest.

The mosses and ferns were dipping dew, as he followed the trail to the lower Preserve. Above, and eastward, the skies were shot with the colors of morning, and far across the sloping valleys Old Creation Hills lifted frowsy tips to catch those rainbow tints.

It was hard to believe that into this place of fastness, and silence, and peace, had come a menace which must be met if its harmony was to be kept unbroken. But well Dorkin knew that he had enemies who intended to destroy, if possible, that which he had wrought with such loving labor. And he believed they would make, sooner or later, a united effort towards this end. Well, all he could do against the raiders was to fight, and he would at least do that.

As he turned a bend in the trail, the saw Pa Washburn approaching from the opposite direction. The settler's greeting lacked its old-time cheer. Dorkin could see that something was amiss with his old friend.

"Dorkin," said Washburn, leaning his long muzzle-loading rifle against a tree, "I was jest on my way up ter see you. Things ain't jest right down in Lookup, no more than they be up here, I guess." The blue eyes looked pleadingly into Dorkin's. "I wanted to ast ye if you've noticed anythin' strange in my conduct, lately?"

"Why," commenced Dorkin, in a puzzled tone, "I just don't——"

"What I mean," said Washburn eagerly, "is thar anythin' about me to make you suspect my mind ain't jest right? Damn it all," he blurted, "in plain English, you don't think I be crazy, do ye?"

"Why, certainly not, Pop," Dorkin assured him.

"Wall, I'm beginnin' to have my doubts 'bout that," sighed the settler. "I take it that when a feller gets ter seein' things what ain't really thar, his mind ain't what you'd call exactly sound, an' by the flat-tailed beaver!" he cried, wiping his face on his sleeve, "I've been seein' 'em, I sure have been seein' things, Dorkin,"

"Just what, for instance, Pop?"

"Well, fer one thing, I've seen the same feller in two different places at almost the same time. That Timberley chap, it was. I'm right down sartin that thinkin' 'bout that sneak has unseated my reason. It wasn't only once it happened, either, but three or four times, by Harry! Why, only yesteddy, when I was drivin' up ter the station, I saw him, plain as the nose on yer face. He was fishin', down at White Forks. Had his back towards me, but I'd know them tweed clothes an' that wide hat anywheres.

"I was so tarnation mad that I scared old Moll and Bess inter a canter, an' we went fer about three mile hell-bent-fer-election. We dished a wheel cuttin' round a curve, an' I had ter get out so's to fix it. An', Dorkin, so help me Moses, if standin' on a hill, in a bare spot on the upper trail, wasn't that same Timberley!"

He paused to gaze anxiously up into Dorkin's face. "Now, then," he cried, "am I crazy er not? If I'm not, how do you 'count fer him bein' in two different spots at the same time?"

Dorkin cast a quick glance at his old friend. His eyes did look a little wild, he thought.

"Simply an hallucination, Pop," he comforted. "Lots of people have them. Undoubtedly, you've been worrying too much about him, so you must quit it. He has a most disagreeable way of making one know he's about, but he is simply riding for a fall. Just leave Timberley to me, Pop."

He slapped the settler's shoulder so hard that he winced. "Now, what else?" he questioned.

Washburn leaned against a tree and drew forth his corn-cob pipe. He lit it deliberately, his seamed face grave, his blue eyes troubled.

"That leetle gal, Dorkin," he said soberly, "Miss Marsh, I mean—she's actin' queer. She's lost her appetite an 'the roses in her cheeks are fadin', Lord Harry, think of a person losin' their appetite up here! And often her eyes are red like she'd been cryin'. What the deuce is the matter, d' ye s'pose?"

Dorkin's face grew grave. He believed he knew what was the matter but he did not attempt to enlighten Pa Washburn.

"An' then there's her uncle," continued the settler. "He's got to actin' queer, too. Often when everybody's in bed, an' supposed ter be asleep, I hear him slippin' outside inter the woods. Almos' every night this happens. I'm a light sleeper, an' I hear him. Once I was gettin' up ter follow him, thinkin' he was maybe one of them sleep-walkers an' likely to walk off the shore inter the lake an' get drowned, but Ma she heered me an' made me get back inter bed ag'in. I had ter fib til I sweat, in order to satisfy her that I didn't have walkin' nightmare. Now! by thunder!" he ended dolefully, "is it any wonder that I am a leetle teched in the head?"

"Miss Marsh is likely worried about her uncle's health, and this affects her spirits," said Dorkin; "and the uncle is the victim of an acute nervous disorder, and goes out this way because he is unable to compose his mind to sleep. You mustn't let it bother you, Pop," he admonished. "I want you to get your nerve back if you are coming in to work over Hardwoods Preserve with me this morning."

"By ginger, that's what I'd like to do right now," cried Washburn, his old spirits returning. "My boy, Tom, is home with a sprained knee he got fightin' a bush fire up in the Divide. He kin look arter my work at the mill ter-day. How's that fer high, Dorkin, boy?"

Dorkin wrung his horny hand. "You've always stood by me, Pop," he said. "I'm awfully glad to have you. But," he cautioned, "I want you to look out for yourself and not get hurt. The gang is drawing closer in on us and getting more fearless all the time. You may be jumping right into dangerous ground. Have you thought it all out?"

"You bet ye," grinned Washburn, "and, by gracious, I've got old Nancy Muzzle-loader, here, cleaned up and sighted, so fine I bet I kin cut thet wart offin Abe Dalton's nose at a hundred yards, clean,"

"You'll do," laughed Dorkin. "Come along, then. Let's see what depredations that gentleman and his followers have committeed during the past night."

CHAPTER XVII.

Man may shatter its life and bend it to his will, but never may he hope to decipher the mystery of the wilderness—that Something which holds God's solitude in its allotted groove, and speeds it forward and on with a whisper of promise heard and understood only of the wild children, whose lives are a part of its sublime harmony.

On the shore of a small lake stood Sagawa, the Algonquin, his sombre gaze fastened on the dim, tree-spiked horizon, etched like a grey line against the background of crimson. Immovable as the drab rock obtruding from the lake's placid surface, he stood, watching the bars of sunset being lifted from the skies by the misty hand of Manitou.

When the last tinge faded into dusk, he turned slowly towards the forest. All day the poplars had whispered uneasily, all day the firs had trailed their oily spikes disconsolately. The notes of the forest-day-lovers had grown hushed throughout the late afternoon. The mysterious Guardian Spirit of the solitudes had whispered a warning of storm.

Well did the Indian know that storm would come that night, with tearing wind and driving rain and destroying lightning, a storm such as only that wild North country knew; but little he cared, for in his hot heart a greater storm was raging—had raged for long days and nights, as he held to the red trail, the end of which was not yet in sight.

And to-night, as he had done every night in the hush of twilight, he paused on the edge of the forest to lift his arms towards the skies and speak his promise anew to the spirit of his white brother.

Night fell black and silent, unpierced by a single star. In his skin tepee, stretched before a tiny blue smudge to bar out the swarming mosquitoes, Sagawa lay on his bed of spruce-boughs, waiting, as waited the world of lake and forest, for the unleashing of the storm-hounds.

Germans Observe Fiftieth Anniversary

President Ebert Says Fatherland Has Escaped New Separation of Lands.

On the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of the proclamation of the old German empire at Versailles, President Ebert issued a manifesto saying in part: "This was a long-delayed fulfillment of our forefathers' wishes and despite the war we have been spared one great misfortune, namely, a new separation of German lands. We hold fast together. In this let us rejoice.

"Even if today we sorrowfully look toward compatriots who unwillingly have been separated from their kindred and toward sorely tried Austria, which longingly stretches her arms to us and we to her, we must be determined to maintain domestic unity. Even if political and economic views divided us we are on one point united, namely, frontiers shall never separate us. The unity of the German fatherland is for us all an article of faith and earnest hope."

The Needless Misery That Women Bear

WHEN the household cares and the worries of everyday life have dragged you down, made you unhappy, and there is nothing in life but headache, backache and worry, turn to the right prescription, one gotten up by Doctor Pierce over fifty years ago.

Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., long since found out what is naturally best for women's diseases. He learned it all thru treating thousands of cases. The result of his studies was a medicine called Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This medicine is made of vegetable growths that nature surely intented for backache, headache, weakening pains, and for many disorders common to women in all ages of life. Sold by druggists in tablet and liquid form. Send Dr. Pierce 10c. for trial package.

UNION BANK MAKES SOLID PROGRESS

Savings Deposits Again Show Marked Increase.

There is no better proof of the confidence of the people in a banking institution than to see the savings deposits in that institution grow from year to year. The 56th Annual Report of the Union Bank of Canada covering the year ended November 30th, 1920, shows a very satisfactory increase in Savings Deposits, despite the many demands and calls that have been made upon the people's savings during the past year. Savings Deposits now stand at $85,610,464, as compared with $84,376,709 in 1919 and $60,144,940 in 1916.

The difficult period of deflation through which the country has been passing has presented many difficult problems to our banking institutions, but it is gratifying to note that the Union Bank is now in a stronger liquid position than it has been at any time in its history. The 1920 balance sheet indicates that the policy of the officials of the bank has been to build up a strong cash position, and in this they have been successful. Liquid and cash assets on November 30th, 1920, totalled $82,203,563, being equal to 54.35 per cent. of the total liabilities to the public as compared with the ratio of 47.23 per cent. in 1919.

Two new headings appear in the statement this year which were included in 1919 under "Current Loans in Canada." One of these, "Demand Loans in Canada Secured by Grain," amounting to $10,732,755.47, shows plainly that the Bank has been rendering valuable services in assisting the marketing of the grain crop. The other new heading is "Loans to Governments and Municipalities," and amounts to $7,648,176.39. These items when totalled with "Current Loans and Discounts in Canada," show $88,230,716.79 or 1.96 per cent. increase over 1919.

The Directorate of the Bank recently welcomed two new members in the persons of Messrs. G. M. Black and D. N. Finnie, both prominent business men who are well known in Western Canada and have a wide knowledge of Western affairs which will be of great assistance to the Bank in its efforts to render the best banking service possible to Western Canada. Mr. W. R. Allen, the new Vice-President of the Bank, is well known as the senior member of the firm of Allan, Killam & McKay, Winnipeg, and a Director of many other important organizations.

During the past year the Union Bank has been able to render valuable service to its clients with overseas connections as a result of the extension of facilities made possible by the formation of the Park-Union Foreign Banking Corporation, which is jointly owned and controlled by the National Park Bank of New York and the Union Bank of Canada. The Park-Union is building up a permanent and profitable business in the East and has branches in Yokohama, Tokio, Shanghai, Paris and New York. The efforts of the Union Bank in this connection have been invaluable in assisting Canadians to open up business relations in the Orient.

The Union Bank now has 393 branches which cover the entire Dominion and is thus in a position to give banking service second to none. In addition to its branches in Canada, the Bank operates its own branches in London, England, and New York.

Advocates Bee-Keeping in Manitoba

"Honey should be to Manitoba what maple syrup is to Ontario," Hon. George Malcolm, minister of agriculture declared at the opening session of the Manitoba Bee-Keepers' Association convention in Winnipeg.

"We are facing a time, when little things are going to count on our farms," he said, "and he regarded bee-keeping as one of the most important things to be taken up in Manitoba."

Healthy, Happy Boys and Girls

IS your child healthy? Is he or she up to standard weight, of good color, with plenty of rich, red blood to nourish the growing tissues?

For children who are thin, pale, anaemic, under weight, nervous, restless, sleepless, Dr. Chases' Nerve Food is of the greatest benefit imaginable.

Being mild and gentle in action, and yet wonderfully patent as a restorative, it soon makes the blood rich and builds up the feeble nerves.

Do Not Like Blue

French Scientist Says Flies Hate This Color.

According to a French scientist, flies have intense hatred for the color blue. Rooms decorated in blue will help to keep out flies. A room sweetly perfumed and decorated with blue as the prevailing motif, is sure to drive flies away. Flies do not like oil of lavender, so that if equal quantities of the oil and water are put in a common glass atomiser and sprayed around rooms where flies are, they will disappear. Geranium, heliotrope, mignonette and white clover are also offensive to flies, and they especially dislike the odor of honeysuckle and hope blossoms.

HOW TO BE HEALTHY DURING THE WINTER

Many Troubles May be Avoided if the Blood is Kept Pure.

Do not let your blood get thin this winter. For people who have a tendency towards anaemia, or bloodlessness, winter is a trying season. Lack of exercise, lack of fresh air, and a more restricted diet are among the things that combine to lower the tone of the body and weaken the blood.

As soon as you notice the tired feeling, lack of appetite and shortness of breath that are warning symptoms of thin blood, take a short course of treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Do not wait until the color has entirely left your cheeks, until your lips are white and your eyes are dull. It is so much easier to correct thinning of the blood in the earlier stages than later. This is well illustrated in the case of Mr. B. M. Day, Newcastle Bridge, N.B., who says: "From my own experience with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I can most heartily recommend them. Some time ago I was badly run down and my blood seemed thin and watery, accompanied by the usual symptoms of this condition. A friend recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after taking several boxes I felt like a new man."

You can procure Dr. Williams Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or they will be sent you by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing direct to The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Praise For Canadians

Duke of Devonshire Was Struck With Spirit of Canada During the Dark Days of 1918.'

The Quebec Women's Canadian Club was addressed recently by His Excellency the Duke of Devonshire, who spoke of the accomplishments of the League of Nations. Referring incidentally to his tenure of office in Canada, he said he was proud to have been associated with the Canadians during the great war. If there was one thing that struck him more particularly in this connection than any other, he said, it was the spirit manifested by the Canadians in the dark days of 1918 when the Germans broke through the Allied lines in France.

A vote of thanks was moved in French to His Excellency by Madame Jules Tessier, who affirmed that the French-Canadians were loyal adherents to the Crown and ended by saying that its special representative in Canada, one of the old aristocracy of England which had never neglected its national duties, had himself lived up to the motto of "noblesse oblige."

Faint and Dizzy Spells.
Weakness and Shortness of Breath.

You can generally tell when the heart is affected by the faint and dizzy spells, the shortness of breath, palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating, smothering sensations, weak, sinking, all-gone feeling, choking sensations, etc.

Many men and women become rundown and worn out when otherwise they could be strong and healthy if they would only pay some attention to the first sign of heart weakness.

No remedy will do so much to make the heart regain strength and vigor, regulate its beat and restore it to a healthy and normal condition as Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mrs. C. A. S. Drake, Paris, Ont., writes:—"I have used on towards the second box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and find they have done me good. I had those fainting, dizzy spells, once in a while, and also weakness and shortness of breath, and would become so choked up at times I could hardly sleep without sitting up in bed. When walking too fast I would have to stop and try to catch my breath. I feel a lot better since I have used your pills and know that they have helped me wonderfully as I have improved very much."

A Gorgeous Tea Gown of Printed Velvet

By Gertrude Beresford.

Oriental in its coloring, this attractive tea gown is fashioned from most beautiful printed velvet. A rich magenta and a Chinese blue are the dominating colors, although the outer petals of the flowers show various reddish tints that are most effective. The gown is distinguished by very simple lines, for when such gorgeous fabrics are used no fanciful trimmings or intricate style are necessary. The long, square-cut train falls from the shoulders, and as its wearer walks about the lining is readily observed. This is a heavy satin in the new redwood shade that is akin to henna.

Origin of Word "Tariff"

Ships Passing Fortress of Tarifa Had to Pay Duty.

Southernmost in the Straits of Gibraltar, and commanding the entrance to the Mediterranean, stands a fortress upon a promontory called today as it was in the days of the Moors —Tarifa. It was the custom of the Moors to watch from this point all merchant ships and to issue from this stronghold and levy duties according to a fixed scale on all merchandise passing in or out of the straits; and this tribute at Tarifa was called by the maritime men a "tariff," and the word became current in England, whose vessels then, as now, formed a majority of those cleaving the seas.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Soldiers' Memorial

Wynndel, Jan. 25.

EDITOR REVIEW:

SIR,—It has occurred to me that the commencement of another year is an appropriate time to draw the attention of the community to consider of the Soldiers' Memorial, with the object of arriving at some definite decisien and getting something done.

Incidentally I may say that it is not very much to the credit of the Creston Valley that the matter is still in abeyance, while many less prominent, less prosperous communities, have got their memorials erected. For example, Edgewood, Proctor and Phoenix.

I understand that a certain amount of money has been collected, and that further amounts have been promised, and that a considerable proportion of these contributions have been made or promised on the understanding that a memorial of what I may call (for want of a better expression) a memorial character should be erected.

The hitch in the business appears to be caused by some of the members of the community who are desirous of taking advantage of the general desire to memorialize those from amongst us who lost their iives in tne service of their country to secure something which they want—such for instance as a public library.

Now a public library, or a hospital, or something of that sort may be a very desirable thing to have, but I would ask you, sir, if any building of that sort would carry out the idea of a memorial?

I would suggest that the first essential of such a memorial must be that it should speak for itself to every passerby, and further that it should be of such a nature that it can never be forgotten what it was erected for; what it represents; that it shall not only call to mind those who lost their lives in the cause of liberty and civilization, but the fact that so many amongst us (who happily are with us still) were equally willing to lay down their lives for the same great cause; that it shall remind us and force upon the attention of our children and our children's children that we are members of that great dominant race which has built up the British empire; that we shall inherit the glorious privilege of saying, "I am a British citizen," and always be reminded of the duties that splendid inheritance demands.

And I would ask you again, sir, if you consider a building of any sort would carry out such a purpose.

Presbyterian Annual

The Presbyterian church was well filled with members and adherents on Monday night for the annual meeting of the congregation. The Pastor Rev, J. A. James, conducted the opening exercises, after which H. K. Oatway was elected chairman of the gathering.

As the church had been pastorless for at least eight months of the year the financial statement was limited but showed that every obligaton had had been met, and there was a surplus to the good. Since Mr. James' arrival all the old time church activities had been resumed, and for the first time in the congregation'e history a board of elders had been installed in office. Work has been re-opened at Wynndel with a very satisfactory attendance, while the congregatious at Creston equalled the best the church has ever known.

The report of the Sunday school showed that despite the varying fortunes of the congregation during the year the average atteneance was 52, and of late has always been over the 60 mark, with a staff of eight teachers. The Ladies' Aid has a membership of 25, ahd during the year has raised almost $750, much of which had been spent in renovating the manse. The Mission Band had raised about $80 and had spent most of it either on missions or supplying new hymn books for the church. A new girls' organization, the King's Daughters, has also come into being.

Messrs. Oatway and McAlpine are the new managers, and along with J. F. Rose, Dr. Henderson, J. R. Miller and S. A. Speers constitute the board of management for 1921. R. R. Piper was unanimously re-elec ted secretary-treasurer.

Anglican Annual

A quite large and thoroughly representative gathering of Valley Angli eans was in evidence on Monday night for the annual congregational meeting of Christ Church. Rev J. S. Mahood presiding over the meeting, which was held in the Parish Hall.

The opening feature was the presentation of the usual reports by the different organizations. J. W. Hamilton, people's warden, submitted the financial statement which showed that with some timely aid from the Ladies' Guild in the way of paying insurance policies and one of the diocesan assessments the church was able to meet all its obligations and close the year about $18 to the good. The Ladies' Guild report showed that organization to have gathered in about $600 during the year, included in which was the 1920 balance. They had made the final payment of principal and interest on the Parish Hall which is now clear ef debt as well as the church building. Mr. Mahood's report was that the services had been better attended than in the previous year, and that for 1920 there had been eleven baptisms, one death, and one church wedding. The reports were were all adopted as presented, and the election of officeas resulted as follows:

People's Warden—Mr. McAlpine sr.
Rector's Warden—C. G. Bennett,
Vestry Clerk—P. Watson.
Synod Delegates—J. W. Hamilton, P. G. Ebbutt, C. G. Bennett,
Church Committee—J. Blinco, C. G. Bennett, A. J. Collis, P. G. Ebbutt, C. F. Hayes, W. H. Hilton, F. H. Jackson, Chas. Moore.
Auditor—W. S. Watson.

Characteristic votes of thanks were tendered Mr. Collis, for his unfailing services as organist; the Ladies' Guild, the Sunday School teachers, the Wardens, and Rev. J. S. Mahoo, who has now completed almost six years as temporary vicar of the parish.

Early last year a rustle was made for funds to ensure a sufficient guarantee for a resident clergyman, but the then prospective vicar declining to take the parish and the extended absence of the bishop in the Old Country last year, rendered it impossible to get anywhere in the matter of having a man located permanently in Creston. A resolution was adopted that the bishop be notified of the situation here, with the suggestion that he pay a personal visit to investigate the wisdom of providing a permanent rector.

Meeting Enlarges Irrigation Plans

There was a splendid turnout of the property-owners in the Alice Siding, Erickson and Creston districts at the meeting in Mercantile Hall on Saturday afternoon for the purpose of discussing and taking definite action on the preliminaries to the installation of the Arrow Creek irrigation scheme, a digest of Engineer Biker's report on which has previously appeared in THE REVIEW.

Jas. Compton was promptly voted to preside, and Jas. Adlard was equally promptly chosen as secretary to the meeting. After briefly sketching the purpose for which the gathering was called the chairman asked Mr. Adlard to report on the progress the joint irrigation committee of the United Farmers and Board of Trade had made Mr. Adlard among other things emphasized the fact that the Biker report had been made when labor and material costs were at their highest, and that investigations made this month went to show that on pipe alone it would now be possible to effect a saving of at least $50,000 and doubtless some considerable saving could be effected on the estimated cost of the labor.

C. B. Garland was next called upon by the chairman, and read the more essential features of the Biker report, along with which he gave the legal formalities that have to be followed and which provide for the property owners to name three commissioners. These commissioners are to circulate a petition in the proposed irrigation area and if they succeed in getting the signatures of owners of 51 per cent. in value of the land in the irrigation area such petition will be sent to the department at Victoria and when the water commissioner is satisfied that it represents the needed 51 per cent. in value he will empower the three commissioners to engage a competent engineer to make a second survey of the area, check the figures of Engineer Biker and then submit his report to another property owners meeting at which the necessary vote can be taken to determine whether the irrigation system shall be installed or not.

T. M. Edmondson was the only party present to object to the project being gone on with, but several present took occasion to point out that the system did not include all of the settled area, and as Engineer Biker in his report made mention of a scheme to irrigate the whole Valley (which had been at least temporarily abandoned), a considerable sentiment developed in favor of making the one engineer's report settle the whole irrigation survey question, and these strongly urged that when the engineer was secured that he should not only report on Arrow Creek but also on the possibility of utilizing Goat River by pumping the water at a point somewhere in the neighborhood of the canyon.

Those favoring the Arrow Creek scheme urged that it would be poor policy to incur the delay and the added expense of a report on Goat River. The water in the Goat would always be there and when the districts that would benefit by utilizing Goat River irrigation were ready to irrigate the water would be there for them. Answering Guy Constable, whose ranch is situated outside the irrigated area. Mr. Adlard assured that if there was sufficient water provision is made to include everybody possible in the scheme. Messrs. McGee and Webb spoke strongly on behalf of Lister in a plea for thorough consideration of the Goat River scheme, and the outcome of the meeting was the adoption of a resolution moved by W. V. Jackson and seconded by Guy Constable, and carried unanimously, that the commissioners be authorized to secure the services of a competent engineer to investigate Arrow Creek, and that he also make a report on the Goat River scheme

Messrs. Compton, Littlejohn and Adlard, the original committee on the project, were unanimously elected as commissioners. and assurance was given that every possible speed would be made to secure the needed signatures and forward the petition to Victoria, so that no time will be lost in getting the engineers at work, provided the 51 per cent. in value favor the project. The cost of the engineer's work will be met by a tax levy on the property within the proposed irrigtion area.

NEWS OF KOOTENAYS

Vernon city has a debenture debt of $870,000.

The G.W.V.A. clubroom at Trail now has a library of over 1000 books.

Kaslo has switched from a Thursday to Wednesday half holiday for the merchants of the town.

At Cranbrook there are ten licensed bars at which the thirsty can quench their thirst on near beer.

300 persons are now taking books from Penticton library, which has only been open about three months.

Grand Forks has a fire brigade of 21 members. Last year the loss from fire in the town was but $9,100.

Penticton hospital authorities cut the cost of patients keep from $3.51 per day in 1919, to $3,13 in 1920.

Schooling costs money in Vernon. In 1918 $21,640. Last year the educational budget necessiated $51,600.

The Herald hears that a sash and door factory is to be started in that town on quite a pretentious scale.

Times are surely getting back to normal at Trail. An effort is now being made to organize a checker club.

The News states that Vernon last year collected $108,000 of $129,000 of taxes due and payable for that year.

A record was established at Revelstoke last week when 139 books were taken out of the library in a single day.

The Gazette is rather boastful of the fact that so far this winter Grand Forks has had only one touch of zero weather.

V. Hayes has just completed the task of ridihg horseback from Vancouver to Nelson. It took him thirteen days.

The Courier seems inordinately proud of the fact that Cranbrook has a lady alderman as well as two lady school trustees.

Trail public school is so well filled that the principal announces no more pupils can be taken in until after summer holidays.

At a special collection the children of Cranbrook schools last week contributed about $360 for the Chinese famine relief fund.

At Grand Forks this month there was not a solitary person willing to stand for election to the three vacancies in the school board.

At the end of the final year Kaslo Red Cross Society had a surplus of $27, and this has been turned over to the Soldiers' Memorial fund.

Cranbrook Baptists have designs on Rev. W. Tapscott, formerly of Calgary, as the next pastor of the divisional city Baptist church.

The contributions to the funds of Nelson Presbyterian Church last year averaged $40.70 per member, or a little better than $61 per family.

Cranbrook council is seriously thinking of turning Baker Street into a great white way by the installation of cluster electric lights about 25 feet apart.

Penticton had the most exciting municipal election in the town's history last week. Almost 100 votes were cast in excess of the vote of the year previous.

Even the juveniles at Revelstoke are pressed into service to raise funds for the town hospital, and last year gathered in the rather respectable total of $305.

After six years of very useful existence Kaslo Red Cross Society has finally disbanded. In the half dozen years $17,236 of cash money was raised and expended.

The News claims that poultry keeping is again occupying the same prominence in the Okanagan as was the case before the war sent the price of feed soaring.

Mayor Gulley says 1920 was the blackest year in the history of Greenwood, and having come through it successfully he has confidence the town is now safe.

$71,596 was collected in customs revenue at Trail last year. In view of this fact the board of trade thinks the town deserves a federal building which will include a modern postoffice.

Among the assets of the Cranbrook police department is about $2000 worth of cocaine' morphine, opium, and a well-known brand of "snow." It was taken in a raid on a Chinese joint lately.

The Ledge intimates to Greenwood citizens that it is in decidedly bad form to block the whole space while enquiring for mail at the general delivery wicket. And that it is equally bad form to obstruct the same territory while reading the postmarks on letters and trying to figure out who they are from.

Synopsis of Land Act Amendments

Minimum price of first-class land reduced to $5 an acre; second-class to $2.50 an acre.

Pre-emption now confined to surveyed lands only.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes and which is non-timber land.

Partnership pre-emptions abolished, but parties of not more than four may arrange for adjacent pre-emptions with joint residence, but each making necessary improvements on respective claims.

Pre-emptors must occupy claims for five years and make improvements to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivation of at least 5 acres before receiving Crown Grant.

Where pre-emptor in occupation not less than 3 years, and has made proportionate improvements, he may, because of ill-health, or other cause, be granted intermediate certificate of improvement and transfer his claim.

Records without permanent residence may be issued, provided applicant makes improvements to extent of $300 per annum and records same each year. Failure to make improvements or record same will operate as forfeiture. Title cannot be obtained in less than 5 years, and improvements of $10.00 per acre, including 5 acres cleared and cultivated, and residence of at least 2 years are required.

Pre-emptor holding Crown grant may record another pre-emption, if he requires land in conjunction with his farm, without actual occupation, provided statutory improvements made and residence maintained on Crown granted land.

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites; title to be obtained after fulfilling residential and improvement conditions.

For grazing and industrial purposes areas exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or company.

Mill, factory or industrial sites on timber land not exceeding 40 acres may be purchased; conditions include payment of stumpage.

Natural hay meadows inaccessible by existing roads may be purchased conditional upon construction of a road to them. Rebate of one-half of cost of road, not exceeding half of purchase price, is made.

PRE-EMPTORS' FREE GRANTS ACT.

The scope of this Act is enlarged to include all persons joining and serving with His Majesty's Forces. The time within which the heirs or devisees of a deceased pre-emptor may apply for title under this Act is extended from for one year from the death of such person, as formerly, until one year after the conclusion of the present war. This privilege is also made retroactive.

No fees relating to pre-emptions are due or payable by soldiers on pre-emptions recorded after June 26, 1918. Taxes are remitted for five years.

Provision for return of moneys accrued, due and been paid since August 4, 1914, on account of payments, fees or taxes on soldiers' pre-emptions.

Interest on agreements to purchase town or city lots held by members of Allied Forces, or dependents, acquired direct or indirect, remitted from enlistment to March 31, 1920.

SUB-PURCHASERS OF CROWN LANDS.

Provision made for issuance of Crown grants to sub-purchasers of Crown Lands, acquiring rights from purchasers who failed to complete purchase, involving forfeiture, on fulfillment of conditions of purchase, interest and taxes. Where sub-purchasers do not claim whole of original parcel, purchase price due and taxes may be distributed proportionately over whole area. Applications must be made by May 1, 1920.

GRAZING.

Grazing Act, 1919, for systematic development of livestock industry provides for grazing districts and range administration under Commissioner. Annual grazing permits issued based on numbers ranged; priority for established owners. Stock-owners may form Associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits for settlers, campers or travellers, up to ten head.

Promoting Agricultural Development

While it is true, as pointed out in this column last week, that there is much duplication of services and therefore wasted effort and money by the Federal and Provincial Departments of Agriculture in Canada, it is also true that these departments of government are performing work of a highly valuable character tending to the development and prosperity of the basic industry of the Dominion.

Through its fine system of experimental farms, the Dominion Department of Agriculture has performed splendid work for Canada, the value of which cannot be estimated in dollars and cents. By the development of Marquis wheat alone, tens of millions of dollars have been added to the wealth of the country, and through this type of early ripening wheat Canada will continue from year to year to add millions to the national wealth. And this is only one of the many valuable experiments carried on which have had far-reaching results in our agricultural development.

In the department of fruit inspection and in promoting the better packing and more scientific marketing of fruit, the standard of Canadian grown fruit has been raised until today it occupies a foremost place, not alone in domestic markets, but in the British and foreign markets.

In Alberta, the work of the Dominion experimental farms has been supplemented by a series of small Provincial demonstration farms which are serving the purpose of educating farmers as to the best crops to grow and methods to pursue in the respective sections of the Province in which these demonstration farms are located.

In all three Prairie Provinces the greatest care has been taken in the establishment of Provincial Agricultural Colleges and large sums of money have been expended in the erection of large and substantial buildings, in the employment of expert teaching staffs, and in the equipment of these buildings with the very latest designs of farm labor saving machinery. The best types and breeds of horses, cattle, sheep, swine and poultry have been assembled for demonstration purposes, and the farmer's son who takes a course in one of these Colleges is well qualified for his life's work on the land.

In Saskatchewan, the unique experiment of making the Agricultural College an integral part of the Provincial University—the linking together of students in the Arts courses with the students in Agriculture—is being worked out with splendid success and the most gratifying results.

These Agricultural Colleges also carry on agricultural extension work, carrying to the farms in all parts of the country the benefit of the experience gained in the Colleges. Better farming trains tour the country every year, each train being made up of demonstration cars fully equipped, and carrying a complete staff of lecturers who are experts in their various departments.

In the earlier years of Western development, the Provincial Departments of Agriculture conducted dairy branches which were largely responsible for building up the dairy industry of the West, thereby providing not only a profitable market for the farmers' product, but also providing the urban residents with their daily necessities in the way of milk, cream and butter. This work of business administration by the Provincial Departments of Agriculture was conducted on a sound basis recognizing the co-operative principle. And when it had been developed to a fairly advanced stage, and established on a firm foundation, the business was turned over to the farmers to manage through great co-operative companies with Government assistance and financial backing.

In like manner provision was made for the co-operative handling and marketing of wool, thereby making it possible for the wool growers of the West to secure the highest price for their wool clip. Later this enterprise, too, was converted into a large, successful and rapidly growing co-operative enterprise directed and managed by the farmers themselves.

Another branch of activity in which Western Provincial Departments of Agriculture have rendered invaluable assistance to the farmers and stock breeders of the West is the importation and sale of bona fide farmers and stock raisers of purebred stock. In this way the standard of Western herds has been raised and a firm basis established for the livestock industry of the West.

Every possible assistance is rendered to Grain Growers' and Livestock Associations, to agricultural fairs and exhibitions, in the direction of improvement of seed used, in the provision of seed in districts which have suffered crop failures, and in countless other ways Provincial Departments of Agriculture are actively co-operating and assisting with a view to overcoming difficulties with which our agriculturists have to contend, and towards placing the chief and basic industry of the West upon a sound and prosperous footing.

Those people who imagine that the duties and functions of our Western Provincial Governments are confined to the passing of laws, the making of regulations, and the enforcing of these, have only to study the annual reports of some of the Departments to realize the scope of the practical work done and the multifarious duties discharged in the interests of the people.

Cyclones and Blizzards

Cyclones are chronicled in this country; but across the border, they are so frequent that they are taken as a matter of course. The exact reverse is the case with blizzards, whose frequent visits receive scant attention in Canada, but which are, especially in the Southern States, events so rare as to be notable. It was on Jan. 13, 1918, that the Southern States suffered from what is regarded as the worst blizzard in their history. It went as far south as Georgia and Alabama, causing many deaths.

It is said that some of the Venetians—those who have never been to the mainland—have never seen a horse in all their lives.

PAINS SO BAD STAYED IN BED

Young Mrs. Beecroft Had Miserable Time Until She Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Hamilton, Ont.—"I have suffered for three years from a female trouble and consequent weakness, pain and irregularity which kept me in bed four or five days each month. I nearly went crazy with pains in my back, and for about a week at a time I could not do my work. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the Hamilton Spectator and I took it. Now I have no pain and am quite regular unless I overwork or stay on my feet from early morning until late at night. I keep house and do all my own work without any trouble. I have recommended the Compound to several friends."—Mrs. EMILY BEECROFT, 269 Victoria Ave. N., Hamilton, Ontario.

For forty years women have been telling how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored their health when suffering with female ills. This accounts for the enormous demand for it from coast to coast. If you are troubled with any ailment peculiar to women why don't you try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? It is made from native roots and herbs and contains no narcotics or harmful drugs.

For special advice women are asked to write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of forty years experience is at your service.

To Drain Million Acres.

Plans are under way to carry on drainage work on 1,000,000 acres of land south of Winnipeg, at a cost of approximately $1,250,000, according to the Manitoba Drainage Commission. Out of 6,000,000 acres of land under cultivation in Manitoba, more than 1,750,000 acres are in provincial drainage districts. Land today in drainage districts is selling at $60 to $100 per acre, and the greater part of this land is being purchased by Americans.

Have Rosy Cheeks!
Look Prettier!
Feel Better!

Simplest Thing in the World to Do at the Small Cost of a Quarter.

You seldom see a woman who is pale, dull-eyed, thin-cheeked, and utterly worn out, who doesn't suffer more or less from headache and constipation. Her poor looks are more largely due to neglect than anything else.

Most women can have sparkling eyes and ruby cheeks if they will but use regularly a blood cleansing and laxative medicine like Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Just follow these simple directions. Tonight take two Dr. Hamilton's Pills and note how much fresher you feel tomorrow morning. Your face will be clearer, your appetite better, your spirits brighter. Next night take one or perhaps two pills again. Gradually reduce the dose as mentioned in the company's directions.

Day by day you will note a steady gain. You'll quickly have back those happy girlish looks you once were proud to think about. No other medicine can do so much for you as Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. Sold everywhere in 25c boxes.

Zeppelin Plant Is Negotiating Orders.

Negotiations are proceeding between the Zeppelin plants at Friedrichshaven, and Argentina and Chile for supplying those countries with airships, says a Berlin despatch to the London Times, but there is no immediate prospect of delivery owing to the restrictions imposed by the allies. In the meantime the plants are being kept busy with the manufacture of automobile accessories.

Growth of United Farmers

28,250 Farmers Now Belong to Alberta Association.

Increase in the membership and in the number of locals of the United Farmers of Alberta Association, is reported in the secretary's statement, given by H. Higginbotham, at the opening session of the convention held at Edmonton. The membership is reported at the close of 1920 as 28,250, and the total number of locals at 892.

The work of the association among foreign speaking settlers show, it is reported, excellent results. Farmers of Alberta are turning for a settlement of all kinds of problems to the U. F. A., he stated, and asked for co-operation on the part of each member.

A total of $90,000 was reported secured through the drive. In conclusion, the report asks that to solve the national and provincial problems facing the farmer that the membership of the association support the officers to as great an extent as possible.

Minard's Liniment For Distemper.

It is said that crocodiles moan and sigh like a person in distress to attract people to the spot.

WINTER HARD ON BABY

The winter season is a hard one on the baby. He is more or less confined to stuffy, badly ventilated rooms. It is so often stormy that the mother does not get him out in the fresh air as often as she should. He catches colds which rack his little system; his stomach and bowels get out of order and he becomes peevish and cross. To guard against this the mother should keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house. They regulate the stomach and bowels and break up colds. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Problem For Town and Country

Shifting of Population From Country to Town.

The town has conquered in the rural decline. The shifting of population from country to town and the transfer of labor from farm to factory have gone far beyond the normal and economical limits, and have become a menace to the national welfare. Being both a capitalist and a workingman, the farmer is fitted to understand the reasonable demands of both wings of society, and he is agreed that great wealth cannot be the legitimate gains of industry and thrift alone, but is the result of trading, speculation or of profiting by other men's labor. There is great need for industrial schools to offset the present drift which, if continued, will result in all labor having to be imported. The lead in the matter of city and country co-operation should be given by the townspeople. The men in the town can make the approach with more ease and confidence, and should meet the farmers more than halfway.—J. B. Reynolds, Pres. Ontario Agricultural College.

A Mild Pill for Delicate Women.—The most delicate woman can undergo a course of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills without fear of unpleasant consequences. Their action, while wholly effective, is mild and agreeable. No violent pains or purgings follow their use, as many women who have used them can testify. They are, therefore, strongly recommended to women who are more prone to disorders of the digestive organs than men.

A Winter's Trapping

MY FIRST SILVER FOX

By O-GE-MAS-ES (Little Clerk).

(Copyrighted)

Wintering at Sturgeon River, a small outpost of the Hudson's Bay Co. in the Cumberland district, in '77-'78, time often hung heavy on my hands when my two men were away on trips to the Indian camps, there being no resident Indians close at hand. So after overhauling five nets (which was a daily task all winter), the proceeds of which constituted our principle food both for men and dogs, there was literally nothing to do, and this was killing to one of my active temperament.

On the men's return I tackled Francois for some instructions as to setting of traps, for up to this time, though I had been six years in the service, I had been kept so busy that the opportunity for trapping never offered, consequently I was quite green about the matter. Francois was very good and patient with his pupil, telling me to boil my traps with green spruce brush, then hang them out in the frost, and in setting a fox trap to keep along a beaten track if possible, reach forward and make a hole in the snow, place some down (off bullrushes preferably) in this, then carefully place the trap in, with a very thin piece of paper to fit inside the jaws, fasten the chain firmly to a supple green willow five or six feet long, conceal this under the snow, then with a stick smooth all over the surface, scatter broken fish, like bread crumbs, for several feet round and then, if it will only snow a little, your job is complete. I followed instructions very carefully and noted some fresh fox tracks in the vicinity, these being particularly small and well shaped, so with a prayer for good luck I left two traps, one being quite close to our fishing place. The stick to which the trap chain is fastened must be quite loose so that Mr. Fox can drag it away. If you fasten this solidly they will generally foot themselves, and a foot in the trap is poor fishing.

I followed instructions very carefully and luckily it snowed a little after I had set my traps. Then came my turn to go on a trip to the Indian camps, nearest of which was some thirty miles away, so it was some seven or eight days before I had an opportunity of visiting them.

Our winter quarters were two small log buildings, one opening into the other with big open mud chimneys in each, for this was before the days of cooking stoves. My residence was the inner cabin. Passing through the men's quarters with my capot and leggings on I was off for my first visit to the traps, remarking, en passant, "Look out for a silver fox on my return." This left them laughing; for mice, whiskey jacks or weasels are generally the first catches of a green trapper. On reaching my first set, both trap and stick had gone and after circling the spot a few times, each round a little further away, I found faint traces of where something had dragged and these I followed like a hound on a keen scent. The banks of the river were rather steep in places and several times where Mr. Fox had tried to get up into the woods he fell back on it, but at last came a more sloping bank and the track was fresher going up and over. Not ten yards away was a beautiful animal, black as a coal, not quite though, for there was a patch of silver hairs on his rump. I stared at it with amazement, and finally realized that it was a genuine silver fox and no other. In the meantime it was hissing and spitting at me like a cat. I did not want to club it for fear of injuring the skin (fox skins being very tender). After thinking a minute I took off my capot, threw it on the poor fox and smothered him to death, this without any blood to mar the skin.

I could hardly credit my good fortune, my first attempt at trapping of any kind, and here was a prize that many old trappers had never caught. Getting near the post I concealed the fox as well as possible under my coat, and walking in the cabin threw the beautiful animal down on the floor, remarking, "Did I not tell you that I was going to bring a silver fox back?" Speechless with amazement, the two French half-breeds and their young wives clapped their hands on their mouths (a native habit when astonished) and ejaculated, "Wah, Wah!"

The news went far and wide that Ogemases had killed a silver fox. This was rather to my disgust as I was anxious to send the skin home to some relatives, but alas, on my next trip to headquarters the first question put by the Chief Factor was: "Where is the silver fox?" and willy nilly I had to surrender same at the going trade price of forty skins, which worked out at about $24.00, this being part and parcel of every clerk and servant's contract with the Hudson's Bay Company, viz.: That all furs caught by them be handed over at post prices to the company.

With such good luck in starting trapping I was now on fire for more of it, and so enthused an old Indian at one of the mountain camps that he gave me a small bladder of scent, so strong that if the stopper was taken out in the house, one could not stay in the room. This was a very special secret. Also the old chap instructed me for hours on the fur animals' habits and the methods of setting particular traps, all of which I felt very grateful for and rewarded him accordingly.

I had now purchased thirteen steel traps, all we had in store, and noting some marten tracks on the mountain trail, decided to try my luck. These are simply caught by building a little enclosure, setting the trap at the door, with bait inside, and a little stick dipped in my famous scent near the entrance. I was fortunate in getting five, when a wolverine got on my trail and deliberately tore several trapped martens to pieces. I vowed vengeance and took a big No. 4 double spring beaver trap on my next trip and fastened the chain to a heavy long pole. This was placed over a stout crotch, and I then placed the end of the pole in a notch in a small tree so that a tug on the chain would release it, and I hoped Mr. Wolverine would swing.

Some time elapsed before I was able to look at these traps, but off I went at last and from some distance from the wolverine trap I could see something swinging. There was the Wolverine all right, caught by one paw, which by the look of it was frozen), swinging in a circle with his hind feet only occasionally touching the ground, and everything within reach chewed off. My, but he was in a rage, with hair bristling on his back and ears flat to his head. He was one of the largest size, evidently a full grown male. Only being armed with a trapper's small tomahawk, I though it advisable to cut a good long club, and as he swung round growling wickedly, I made a crack at him. He dodged it with his head, the stick struck his frozen paw knocking him loose from the trap, and for a while things were quite mixed. I finally clubbed him to death, but he tore my blue stroud leggings in ribbons with his claws, I being fortunately able to avoid his teeth. Home I went, very proud to have caught the robber, but his pelt at trade prices was only worth some two or three skins.

Experimental Stations.

Winnipeg.—Experimental stations on the prairie where eradiction of smut in wheat can be studied, were advocated by President John Bracken, of the Manitoba Agricultural College, before the delegates to the Canadian Seed Growers' Association in convention here.

Increased Value of Seed Wheat.

Fargo, N.D.—Canadian farmers have increased the value of their seed wheat four bushels an acre by proper organization for improving the seed, Professor T. J. Harrison, of the Manitoba Agricultural College, said in addressing a session of the tri-state grain growers' convention.

Chairman of Wheat Board

James Stewart, of Winnipeg, recently appointed, together with F. W. Riddell, to make a report on the practicability of a Saskatchewan Wheat Pool.

Expect Brisk Building Period

Greatest Activity in Construction in History of Country is Predicted.

Winnipeg.—A proposal that the Federal Government should be urged to float a $250,000,000 housing loan by the sale of Government bonds was considered at the convention of the Association of Canadian Building and Construction Industries here.

Another of many important matters receiving attention is the proposed establishment of an apprenticeship system in the building trades throughout the Dominion. Both questions were favorably reported upon by the National joint conference board, formed as a result of discussions with representatives and labor men, and committees were appointed to bring in definite resolutions regarding them.

W. H. Carter, ex-president of the Board of Trade, said one of the most vital problems before the country was the high cost of building. He believed that the cost of building materials would have to be reduced along the lines of other commodities before there was a very larg amount of building done.

President J. P. Anglin stated that comparatively little construction work had been done in Canada since the war started and expressed his belief that the greatest building period in the history of the country was about to be entered upon. Whether it was realized or not, the very welfare of the country depended more on a revival of building activity than on any other single factor.

YOUR GROCER IS NOT A PROFITEER

Have a heart!

Your grocer is not a profiteer!

He is passing along to you reduced prices, as fast or faster than they come to him. Just because prices on many good things are still high, don't blame him. It is usually the poorest quality of everything that shows the greatest decline.

If he is as good a man as the average, your grocer is still doing his utmost to give you the best value for your money. But don't push him too hard. He is only human.

You don't know, but we do, that he is recommending goods that pay him less profit than other well known brands which he might easily persuade his customers to take, if he cared to do so.

We know this because he pays us more for Red Rose Tea and sells it at less profit than other teas, so when he recommends you to buy Red Rose Tea, you will know it is because he believes it the best and is willing to take a little less profit for the sake of giving you the best value he can.

We are publishing this because we believe the more our people know of the true facts concerning the profits made by those they deal with, the more generous they will be in their judgments.—T. H. Estabrooks Co., Ltd., Winnipeg, Man.

Wireless Record Made.

Hartford, Conn.—A new civilian wireless record was established when Hiram Percy Maxim sent a message from his station here to Los Angeles, Cal., and received a reply six and one-half minutes later. The messages were relayed by stations at Chicago and Roswell, N. M.

New National Party Leader Makes Plea for Spirit of Cohesion

Hon. T. A. Crerar Gives His Views On Government-Owned Roads.

Edmonton.—Revaluation of the Government-owned railway lines to put them on a proper basis and the use of Government power as far as is legitimate to provide business for the nationally-owned systems are the remedies suggested for the relief of the deficit facing these lines, by Hon. T. A. Crerar, leader of the New National Party, the chief speaker before the annual convention of the United Farmers of Alberta here. He suggested that the Government should settle incoming immigrants as far as possible along these lines.

He reiterated his advocacy of public ownership of railways and made a plea for co-operation and the retention of integrity in the farmer movement.

Norman Lambert, secretary of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, warned the convention against possible attempts to stir up dissentions in the ranks and told them that the organization he represents is doing a great work in keeping unity among the various farmer organizations in the Dominion.

Hon. T. A. Crerar said the farmer organizations had attracted Dominion wide attention, and referred to the splendid results of the movement. He predicted the early formation of a farmer organization in Nova Scotia. The total membership of all the associations is more than 150,000 without counting the women members, who bring the total membership up to 250,000.

The impartial testimony of Canada is that the Ontario administration is the best in the Dominion today, despite the prediction that because it was a farmer government it would not last, he declared.

Responsibility is placed on the individual by form of Government in Canada, and he warned the delegates against shrinking and lacking in knowledge of Dominion problems.

He referred to the enormously increased requirements for federal administration. Returned soldiers and widows and orphans who have suffered as a result of the war must not be allowed to suffer.

The manner by which revenue is raised is more important than how much is raised, Mr. Crerar held.

Would Equalize Railway Rates

British Columbia to Co-operate With Prairies for Revision of Discriminatory Tariffs.

Vancouver.—The Government of British Columbia, through the Attorney-General's Department, will wage the fight before the Dominion Board of Railway Commissioners for the equalization of freight rates between Eastern and Western Canada, according to a letter received by the Vancouver Board of Trade from Premier Oliver.

There is a probability that not only British Columbia, but also all of the prairie provinces will be behind the application when it comes before the Railway Commission. Recently, the Vancouver Board of Trade took the matter up with the Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta boards and assurances have been received from some of them that they will lend their assistance in bringing about the desired aim.

Abandon Reparation Plan

Allies Substitute Annual Payments For Scheme of Fixing Total Amount.

Paris.—Abandonment of the plan of fixing the total amount of reparations to be paid by Germany and the substitution of annual payments has been agreed upon by French, British and German delegates, says a Berlin despatch to the Journal. The newspaper says that for a period of five years the annual payments will be made in kind under the terms of the arrangements made.

New French Premier Encouraged.

Paris.—Premier Briand received a number of telegrams from leading statesmen since being named head of the new French Government. Among them were messages from Prime Minister Lloyd George of England, and Premiers Giolitti of Italy, and Wari of Belgium, all of whom expressed their warm sympathy and the hope that the bonds uniting the allies might be drawn closer.

Irish Settlement Hopeless.

Cork.—A profoundly pessimistic view of the situation in Ireland is taken by Bishop Cohalan, of Cork, in a recent statement. Surveying the situation from every angle, he said he saw no prospect of peace. A settlement was hopeless, in the opinion of the Bishop, so long as the Government interpreted every move of the Irish leaders towards peace as a sign of weakness.

Want Better News Facilities.

London.—A large deputation representing the Empire press waited on the Postmaster-General and urged the desirability of improved facilities for cable and telegraphic news.

Juvenile Crime on Increase

In 1919 Some 3,867 Children Under 16 Years Convicted of Offenses.

Ottawa.—During the past twenty years in Canada boy criminals have increased by almost 300 per cent. This is shown in an analysis of Canadian criminal statistics issued by the bureau of statistics.

The analysis does not go beyond the end of 1919, but they show that during the three years, 1917-19, more than 20 per cent. of the indictable crimes were committed by children under 16 years of age. Looking back the records show that for the period 1884-91, the average was 13.64 per cent. and in 1899 it was 16.38 per cent.

In 1919, there were 3,867 children under 16 years of age convicted for indictable offenses, of their number 3,728 were boys. There were 631 boys convicted for burglary, house and shopbreaking.

Would Discuss Peace

Turks Ready to Accept Mediation of Some Neutral Power.

Constantinople.—The Turkish Nationalists are willing to negotiate for a settlement with the Allies, according to an Angora despatch, quoting Hamid Mouchtar Bey, commissary for foreign affairs in the Cabinet of Mustapha Kemal Pasha.

"We are ready to accept the good offices of some neutral power to mediate with the Allies," the commissary is quoted as declaring. "The negotiations can begin as soon as an offer is made."

To Help Farmers

Banks to Advance Half Million to Farmers in Need.

Winnipeg.—The Tribune carries the following from its Ottawa correspondent:

"About $500,000 will be advanced by the banks at the instance of the Government to needy farmers of the west who lost their crops. This will enable them to buy seed grain. The loans are to be made only to homesteaders actually farming their land, and will be on the security of notes. In the event of default the Government will make good."

Attempt on Life of Lenine.

Copenhagen.—An attempt was made recently to assassinate Nikolai Lenine, Bolshevik premier of Russia, it is said, according to the newspaper Isvestia of Moscow. Lenine was proceeding to Moscow to attend the eighth Soviet congress when a bomb was thrown at his machine, killing eight guardsmen and three civilians and wounding 20 others. The man who threw the bomb escaped arrest, it is said.

A pleasant feature of the annual meeting of the Presbyterian congregation meeting Monday was the presentation of a purse containing $25 to Mrs. J. A. Lidgate, in recognition of splendid service rendered as organist of the Sunday school and the morning service at the church.

A meeting of representatives of the five United Farmer locals in the Valley is being arranged for Saturday at Creston, at which it is likely a district central organization will be formed. W. V. Jackson, the Kootenay representative on the provincial executive is calling the meeting.

It is definitely stated that the Valley will have a new fruit inspector this year in the person of T. Bain of Mission, who was here on Saturday with former inspector A. M. Fletcher, taking a preliminary look over the Valley. Mr. Fletcher will succeed Mr. Bain in the Mission-Hatsic territory.

Reports submitted at the annual meeting of the Presbyterian church on Monday night go to show that with the advent of a satisfacrory minister the congregation's affairs are almost back to normal. Despite the fact that the church was pastorless for at least six months the Sunday school attendance averaged 52 for the whole year.

Mrs. M. J. Boyd was this week's whist hostess, four tables of players gathering Wednesday for cards, at which Mrs. Hayes again had the good fortune to capture the first prize. After the whist there were refreshments and a half hour of sociability that nicely rounded out an engagement that was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Registrar Gibbs did not render himself liable for income tax on the strength of the 1920 revenue from sales of marriage licenses. Altogether he sold only five of them. In addition to this there were at least four other weddings, which would bring Cupid's showing for the year up to a total of nine—three of which were at Wynndel and a couple at Erickson.

What will likely be the best dance of the season is announced for tonight at the Auditorium, with an admission of $1 per couple, and music by a four-piece orchestra: Mrs. Lister, violin; Mrs. Foreman, piano; Mr. Chorlton, 'cello; and A. Lidgate, drums. The affair is a sendoff for Mrs. Foreman, who with Mr. Foreman and the family, are moving to Yahk to reside.

The feature of the annual meeting of Christ Church congregation on Monday night was the discussion on the move to call a resident minister. The congregation is divided as to whether a permanent vicar is financially feasible, and the decision was to state the situation to the bishop, along with a request that he visit Creston and investigate the matter personally.

The concert under the direction of Mrs. Garland and Mrs. Lister for the purpose of raising funds to furnish the apartments of Miss McLuhan, the health nurse, was a splendid success in every way. The programe as published last week was presented in its entirety and every number was enthusiastically received. After paying all expenses $80 has been handed over to treasurer of the health nurse committee.

The Arrow Creek irrigation meeting on Saturday afternoon was very largely attended and Messrs. Compton, Adlard and Littlejohn were named as commissioners to proceed with the securing of the signatures to the necessary petition and then get an engineer on to make another report on the Arrow Creek project, as well as on the possibility of utilizing Goat River and thus be able to irrigate a much larger area.

A film that has the strongest kind of appeal for every man, woman and child in the world aptly states the case for "The Strongest," a special attraction which will be shown at the Grand on Tuesday night, Feb. 1st. The story is written by Clemenceau, the man who was premier of France at the most critical period of the recent great war. Of "The Strongest" may well be it said that it is the "mightiest motion picture of the mightiest drama by the mightiest man in the world." There will be one showing only of the film, Tuesday at 8.30, with the admission at 25c. for children and 75c. for adults.

Grossmith—Feb. 2nd

Expectation is at a high pitch in anticipation of the performance offered by Leslie Grossmith and party on Wednesday, Feb. 2nd, at the theatre. A more attractive offering could hardly be conceived, including as it does a first-class variety concert, an extremely funny play, and a dance with special music all included in the admission ticket. It is only on rare occasions we are visited by artists of the calibre of Mr. Leslie Grossmith, whose name is known all over the world, and he will be assisted by Hugh Barbour, solo violinist, and Mlle. Georgett (Mrs. Leslie Grossmith) in his songs. It is to be hoped the event will meet with the success it richly deserves.

Alice Siding

Principal Steel of the public school was a week-end visitor with friends in Nelson.

J. H. Webster had the bad luck to lose his black work horse on Thursday last. While hauling a load of hay up the Simister hill the animal, apparently, over-exerted itself and although a neighbor's horse was secured to help pull the load to the top of the grade, when the top of the hill was reached the Webster animal made a few plunges and then tnppled over dead.

It is stated that with two exceptions every male resident of Alice Siding was at the irrigation meeting at Creston on Saturday. With Jas. Compton as one of the three commissioners speedy action on the project may be looked for.

The younger folks of Alice Siding had an enjoyable afternoon of it on Sunday at skating on flats slough.

Messrs. Ash and Norris have been at Erickson all last week doing carpenter work on the new house G. P. Smith is erecting there.

Between hunting up stray cattle and hay hauling the stock-owning ranchers of this section are kept very busy these times.

Mr. Churchill was another of our citizens to lose an animal last week. A yearling heifer belonging to him fell over the rocks above his place, landing on the old K.V. tracks and breaking its neck, causing instant death.
