Union to Build New Warehouse

A fully modern structure providing handling, shipping and winter storage space for not less than 54,000 boxes of apples is what is provided for in the new and substantial fruit and vegetable handling warehouse to be erected for this season's use at Creston by the Creston Fruit Growers Union, Ltd., the site of the building to be the two lots on Canyon street which were acquired by the Union earlier in the year.

The building will be a one story and basement structure. It is "L" shape in design with a length over all of 205 feet—the upper part of the "L" showing a measurement of 108 feet and the lower part 97. The building has a width of 48 feet throughout, and the 97-foot section will face on the spur track that is to be run into the warehouse from the C.P.R. siding from the east.

The cement basement, which will provide winter storage for 12,000 boxes of apples, will be approximately 48 feet square, with a 9 foot 6 inch wall. The section used for the handling of fruit for immediate shipment has a capacity of 25,000 boxes, while the receiving room for fruit destined to go through the graders will take care of 17,000 boxes. In the shipping room which will be utilized this season provision will be made for doorway space so that three cars can be loaded into at one and the same time, while when fully completed the warehouse will show a loading frontage ample for the of five cars loading at once.

In selecting the exact location for the building the Union officials have taken full advantage of the ideal natural features of the land on which it will be erected. The lot has quite a decided slope toward the track and thus much of the excavation that will be required can be utilized in the building up of a driveway to the lower end of the warehouse where the grower will pick up the empty boxes for the return trip home after discharging his load of fruit at the receiving end of the warehouse.

As now planned the graders will be conveniently located at the receiving section of the building. Apples as they are packed after coming through the grader will be placed on conveyors and carried back to the men who take care of nailing up the boxes. After they are nailed they are again placed on a short conveyor and carried back to a point where they carry off on to a sloping floor and by their own weight slip down into the shipping room—the inclined floor at this point being due entirely to the slope in the lot—where they are either placed to go direct into the cars or trucked some distance on and placed in the concrete basement to be held for winter or early spring shipping.

It should also be pointed out that the warehouse site is of such generous proportions that another warehouse of the same size and design as the one now to be erected, can be placed on the Union site and there will still remain an area of 150 x 160 feet on Canyon street, which in a very short time will prove to be one of the most desire business location in town, and will be available for the Union should it desire to use it in that respect.

For the handling of this year's crop President Constable announces the purchase of two 4-section Cutler graders, each of which have a capacity of 1400 boxes a day. One of these will be used at the new Creston warehouse, and the other will be placed in operation at the Erickson warehouse erected last year. To provide the extra accommodation that the increased tonnage at Erickson will necessitate this season, the Union has leased the Lindley warehouse at that point and will in future, take care of its large grain, hay and feed trade in the Lindley building, and thus have the new warehouse entirely for the packing and shipping of the fruit crop.

Starting this year the Union output from Canyon City area will be taken care of by a central bench pack in quite a commodious building that has been leased at the siding. Next year it will likely be necessary to place the grader discarded at the Union warehouse at Canyon siding and thus have a uniform grader output at all the Union handling houses. The grader that was used last year at the Creston warehouse has been sold to the fruit growers organization at Boswell, which is this year linked up with the local Union for the disposal of its berries and soft fruits.

Tenders are being opened this week for the clearing off of the orchard on the new warehouse site, as well as for the necessary excavation—another portion of which will be utilized in banking up the shipping room section of the warehouse and thus helping to render it frost proof until very late in the fall. Tenders for the construction of the warehouse will be opened next week, and bids are being asked at Cranbrook and Nelson, as well as from local contractors. Present plans are to be occupying the new warehouse by at least the end of September.

For this year the present Union home will be utilized for office quarters, and the warehouse section will be available for the storage of crates, boxes and other supplies, while the flour and feed business will probably be carried on at its present location as long as the site is available and the accommodation sufficient.

Wynndel

(Too late for last week.)

C. Ogilvie, who is working at Yahk, spent the week-end at his home here, returning at Yahk on Sunday night.

Messrs. Price and Sangster spent the week-end at Nelson on business, returning here on Tuesday. On Thursday they left for their home at Winnipeg.

The Bathie home was the scene of a most enjoyable party on Wednesday night, in honor of Miss Merle's birthday. Quite a large and enthusiastic crowd of young and lively people were present and kept things going in great style all evening. Dancing, games and music were the order of proceedings and along about midnight a very dainty supper was served, after which dancing was again resumed until the wee sma' 'oors.

Owing to the fact that berry season will start about the same time as the Chautauqua very few season tickets have been sold here. The show just comes at the wrong season at Duck Creek.

For the first time in several years trout and char of good size are being caught freely in Duck Creek, and it is hoped that now there is a good fish ladder through the culvert that a few of the finny tribe will go up Duck Creek.

J. S. McLeod has disposed of his ranch here to J. Mannerino of Sirdar, and will return to his home in Nova Scotia.

Mrs. Pettigrew was a visitor here on Tuesday, looking for a place to stay in this summer, as she will be on the O. J. Wigen berry packing staff. She has got part on the M. Wigen boarding house and will be moving here shortly.

W. G. Kennedy, who is on the mill staff, spent a few days in Nelson on business this week.

The commendable fashion of having a suitable name for ranches is evidencing itself at Wynndel. H. A. Bathie, sr., has decided upon "Deer Lodge," while H. Sheppard, whose new home is about complete will have it known as "Sheppard's Bush." At present Mrs. Sheppard is having a visit from her friend, Mrs. R. Willis of Winnipeg, Man.

W.I. Buying Hall Site, Barton Ave.

The June meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Friday afternoon, and listened to an interesting account of the proceedings of the Advisory Board at the meeting at Victoria in April given by Mrs. Lyne, the Kootenay-Boundary member of the board. Mrs. Downs' paper on St. Dunstan's training hostel for blind soldiers at London, England, was listened to with great interest and contained many very interesting facts.

Delegates were appointed to go to the district conference at Nelson at the end of August. Mrs. Garland will attend as president of the institute, Mrs. Hayden as the government delegate, and Mrs. Hamilton was appointed as an additional delegate. $10 was voted as the 1922 donation to the fall fair prize list.

A profit of $15 was made for the Institute as a result of the appearance here last month of the University Players' Club, presenting "Mr. Pim Passes By," and those who billeted the actors as well as those who lent auto for the motor trip for the players were heartily thanked.

A plot of land for building has been purchased on Barton Avenue, next the Grand Theatre. No building will be erected until sufficient funds have been accumulated for the purpose. The July meeting will be an evening one, convening at 7.30, on the 14th.

Kitchener

Those who have been trying out the fishing in these parts report Meadow Creek as about the best spot for angling up to the present.

W. O. Davis is planning to erect himself a residence here and make Kitchener his permanent home. His trapping operations this year will be on a more extended scale than last.

An auto load from here were disappointed in not getting to Creston for the Saturday night Chautauqua performance. Late in the afternoon Billy Johnson had to motor the C.P.R. fire warden to Yahk to take charge of a forest fire that had broken out earlier in the day.

If Rev. J. A. James gets back from his eastern trip in time it is expected there will be Presbyterian service here on Sunday afternoon.

There is still no word as to government roadwork starting up again but with the appropriation that will be available after the first of July there is liklihood of operations re-commencing.

Kitchener school will close for the season at the end of the week and, we understand, Miss Schmidt will not be returning for another year. Both in the school as well as in the social life of Kitchener she enjoys well deserved popularity and scholars and parents alike will regret to hear she has decided not to return.

Canyon City

Mrs. Pepperdine of Calgary, Alta., who has spent the past month here with her daughter, Mrs. Bateman, returned home at the end of the week.

Owing to Chautauqua being in progress at Creston the usual fortnightly meeting of the United Farmers was not held on Saturday night.

Chautauqua is being well patronized by Canyon City people again this year. Every car available has been pressed into service and are carrying capacity passenger loads each evening.

Mr. Samuelson has just closed quite a sized contract with the Canyon City Lumber Company to cut and skid poles on the limits near the Lyon place.

Canyon got on to the strawberry shipping list on Monday, when the Huygens & VanAckeran ranch had a couple of crates for export. They are the early bird shippers at Canyon this season.

Slim and Frank Lewis of Creston are completing the contract of stumping the Swanson Road right of way, L. Leamy having been engaged for the season driving the water sprinkler on good roads operations at Erickson.

Leslie McInnes is now making week-end visits to his ranch at Canyon from Duck Creek by the motor route. He has just purchased a new Ford from the Bevan garage at Creston.

Building operations are fairly active in this section at present. J. Cook has about completed the new residence on his ranch at Calgary Heights. W. Searle is at work on the erection of quite a good-sized poultry house. John Anderson is putting the exterior finish on his recently erected residence, while H. Young has demolished most of his outbuildings and intends to erect a modern barn and packing shed in their place.

"Dad" Browell was called out on Friday afternoon to rustle a crew of firefighters to handle a blaze that had broken out in the slashings from land clearing on the Lister settlement which had been piled up during the winter near the Canyon-Lister boundary. The fire travelled on a line almost direct for the Ben Long cottage and for safety's sake the household effects were taken out and stored out of danger. However, the house escaped, and although the fire has travelled over a considerable area there has been no financial loss, though a considerable quantity of good pasture area has been destroyed.

Erickson

Mr. and Mrs. McDonald of Cranbrook are spending a couple of weeks here with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Cartwright.

The first crate of export strawberries this year was from the J. Handley ranch. It went east on Friday.

Mrs. Maxwell, who has been a visitor at Nelson for the past few weeks, returned home on Thursday last.

T. W. Bundy is back in charge of the C.P.R. depot, after a two weeks' visit with relatives at Summerland, Vancouver and Nanaimo. Mrs. Bundy will remain with her sister at the former town for a couple more weeks.

This is paint up week on Main street, and Frank Palmer is busy dolling up the stores of John Joy and the Co-Operative, as well as the Legrand and Bundy homes.

It begins to look as if the hard surface roads operations would continue for many weeks yet. Foreman Davis has just unloaded a car of steam coal at the scene of operations for the crusher engine fuel.

The Union is looking for at least an average crop of berries in this section this season. This week they unloaded a carload of crates and cups. They have also just taken delivery of a Cutler grading machine, which will have almost treble the capacity of the machine operated a year ago.

The Putnam ranch will be the rendezvous of many of the ranchers on Saturday for the afternoon irrigation demonstration by Messrs. Newton and Helmer.

Erickson is thoroughly represented at Creston this week and last and the big six-day Chautauqua, and everyone of them mighty well pleased with the entertainment that has been dispensed. Well over $200 worth of tickets were bought by Erickson citizens.

Jimmy Carr met with a nasty runaway mishap on Thursday afternoon. While driving to Creston his horse shied at a dead cow on the side of the road and in its mad fight threw him from the rig, inflicting a number of nasty cuts and a bad shaking up but not seriously injuring him. The buggy was a complete wreck and the horse somewhat crippled up as well.

Mr. and Mrs. Murdock McLeod of Cranbrook were visitors this week with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Klingensmith.

Frank Staples is an every day visitor at Wynndel at present, looking after the strawberry shipping business of the Staples Fruit Co., Ltd.

1922 Chautauqua Pleases Patrons

Creston's big six-day 1922 Chautauqua was brought to a successful conclusion on Wednesday night, and by 2 a.m. Thursday the big brown tent on the Lamont lot next the Imperial Bank had disappeared for another year.

In every respect this year's Chautauqua fully lived up to all the advance press notices. In a time of depression such as this country is experiencing at the present time it was natural to expect that the lectures particularly would be more in the humorous starin that was the case a year ago, but while this policy prevailed it is to be noted that not one of the spoken features were designed solely for laughing purposes—even Mr. Cope's button burster on "Family Remedies" had a wealth of practical common sense to it.

While every one of the eleven programmes was highly delightful it is doing none of them an injustice to remark that a popular vote of the Creston audiences would show the top-line honors about evenly divided between the Eiler-Willoughby orchestra with an evening programme nicely balanced as to classical, familiar semi-classical selections and just enough of the always popular lighter numbers to send everyone home happy, and the sterling English comedy, "Mrs. Temple's Telegram," which was presented on Tuesday night by the talented Reed Metropolitan Players.

The Hindus lecture on "Storm Tossed Russia," is commended on all hands. All present received a full measure of education on the Russian situation from a speaker who has the happy facility of mixing in enough native humor to put the address over even to the extent of holding the attention of the youngsters in a really remarkable degree. Mr. Hindus was fortunate in appearing along with Emory Parnell, the one-man band, who not only showed skill in handling his piano accordeon but whose choice of musical and literary offerings was just exactly to the taste of the big Monday night crowd.

On closing night Davis, the magician, entertained and mystified his audience even to the satisfaction of the fellows who invariably have seen the same thing done better somewhere else.

If any criticism is justly due it would come from those who were able to attend only the evening programmes on the score that the musical preludes were invariably too abbreviated. Where only a half hour introduction is to be given the Saxaphone Sisters and the Adanac Quartette would have popularized themselves still further by confining their evening effort strictly to musical numbers—the lecturer following them always being equal to supply the craving for literary effort. In every other respect the affair went through most harmoniously.

While the 40 public spirited citizens who guaranteed this year's Chautauqua will have to make good a deficit that will probably run to about $8 a head, this is the only unfortunate feature to the big six days of happiness.

In connection with the week mention is due the community church services held in the tent on Sunday morning at which the speaker was Mr. Alex. Thomson, while in the evening Mr. Rogers of Lethbridge, Alta., delivered the address, with Rev. G. Knox presiding at both services. At night with all three Protestant churches in town closed there was an attendance in the neighborhood of 350 worshippers, the music for this service being nicely furnished by the town brass band.

While with a few exceptions every one of the guarantors did his bit—and sometimes more—in the putting on of Chautauqua, special mention is due A. R. Swanson, the Chautauqua committee chairman, who rendered yeoman service in all departments. As grounds committee chairman F. H. Jackson was equally prominent throughout, while in supervising the ticket selling campaign Messrs. Allan and Gibbs were certainly 100 per cent. efficient.

Elba,
June 21st, 19—

Once upon a time in the dim and distant past, when I was eighteen, I wrote a story and sent it to The Young Churchman. After several weeks it was returned to me, with a fatherly letter from the editor in which he regretted that he was unable to use it, because, "while it was of undoubted merit, it lacked serial value." I have since reached the conclusion that a story possesing serial value is one in which the chapters, like Sam Weller's valentine, pull up sudden so you wish there was more. Taking this as a standard, I feel sure that even the editor of The Young Churchman would commend what I wrote this morning. The credit is wholly due to Mrs. Mills, however, for she called me to dinner just at the psychological moment.

But to continue my chronicle of yesterday's happenings.

It was with fear and trembling that I descended to the dining-room. Mrs. Mills was coming in from the kitchen as we entered. In one hand she carried a platter of broiled chicken, and in the other a blue enamelled teapot.

"Just set down, Miss Eliot, an' you too, Miss Arnold, an' eat your chicken afore it gets cold. I hope you both fancy fowl. I ain't got anywheres to keep meat in the hot weather, an' so when company comes unbeknowst, I just pops out an' kills a rooster an' has a good meal ready in a jiffy. These here fowls were running around the yard as pert as you please half an hour ago. When I first come to Elba you couldn't get fowls for love or money, an' what eggs you could buy at the store had to have their necks wrung before you could cook them. I was raised back east where chickens an' eggs is as plentiful as dirt, an' so I soon changed that—made the desert to blossom like a rose as you might say."

"Dinner ready?" interrupted a familiar voice from the kitchen.

"The young ladies are just setting down, Mr. Hartford," replied our hostess. "Don't wait to give your hands a rinse, even; this chicken's fit for a king now an' I want you to eat it while it's fresh."

My heart was in my boots and Mary's eyes were dancing as the owner of the voice appeared.

"These here are Miss Eliot and Miss Arnold, Mr. Hartford." (Mrs. Mills had assumed her society manner, but she dropped it at once.) "Miss Eliot's the tall one with the pink cheeks—she's a countryman of yours, I reckon. An' the little one is Miss Arnold, an' if she ain't cut out of the same piece as them two young ones of mine you can call me Dinnis." And we found ourselves shaking hands with a middle-aged man instead of with the raw curate we had expected. "Just make yourselves at home; I got some baking to do. Holler if you want anything." With this parting injunction the worthy Rebecca took herself off, and left me to do the honours of the table.

Mary's disappointment did not seem to affect her appetite—the way in which that chicken disappeared was a marvel. But a greater marvel still, Mr. Hartford went to Oriel with Father! What a small world this is, after all! And what a platitude that is! Of course Mr. Hartford is much younger than Father, and they did not know each other intimately; but in spite of these little drawbacks he made me feel that I had met an old friend, and almost before I was aware of what I was doing I had told him why I had come to Canada and what I intended to do while here.

And all the while I could feel Mary's impish smile, although her face bore the innocent expression of a cherub. One of her theories is that "an English girl will fall for a clergyman every time, walk right up and eat out of his hand." I love Mary's metaphors.

Mr. Hartford is a singularly handsome man, with a grave expression that is contradicted by the humorous twist of his mouth and the twinkle in his grey eyes. Mary says that all he needs to make him a perfect hero for a romantic novel is a disappointment in love which has driven him to seek oblivion in the wild and woolly west. He may have a tragic past, though I doubt it, but the immediate cause of his sojourn in Canada was an attack of typhoid fever which left him unfit for work in his London parish. While he was still only convalescent he was reached by one of the periodic appeals of the Canadian Church for men to work in the mission fields, and as son as he was able to travel he volunteered for a year. He has now been in Elba for six months, and every trace of his illness has vanished, the credit, he declares, being half due to Canadian air and sunshine and half to Mrs. Mills's cooking.

He knows the Fiskes ,although they do not attend his church. He tells me that they are quite wealthy people in their position, but totally uneducated—with the exception of the youngest child, a girl who has been to school in Winnipeg and who tries to give a polish to the manners of the family. A pleasing prospect for me, is it not?

"While we are gossiping about our neighbours," said Mary, "can you tell us anything about the young man who brought us from the station?"

"Livingstone? Well, not much about him, for he is only here for a visit. He has a big ranch in Southern Alberta. But the family are fine people—'the other kind of Canadians.'" (This with a mischievous glance in Mary's direction.) "They are Presbyterians, but as the Presbyterians have only one service a day, they often come to St. George's in the evening. Mrs. Livingstone is a dear old lady, very proud of her descent from 'the MacDonalds of Glencoe,' and prouder still of 'my son Ian MacDonald,' the Don of your acquaintance."

After dinner Mary and I decided to "do" Elba. As we were about to leave the house, Mrs. Mills called to us to wait for a few minutes and she would go with us as she had some shopping to do. With the promise of such a guide of course we waited, and in ten minutes the three of us were walking down Elba's main and only street.

By this time I had decided that it would be wise to tell our hostess my business in Elba, for I could see that she was consumed with curiosity. I shall never forget her expression when I told her that I was going to the Fiske farm as a working companion.

"Land sakes! I'm that flabbergasted that I well night swallowed my false teeth. You a working companion—why, that in plain Canadian means 'hired girl,' nothing more nor less! An' for Arabella Fiske of all people! When we were kids back east we used to go to school together, an' of all stupid creatures she was the worst."

"When we were older an' John Fiske come west, I wrote every last letter he ever got from Arabella. She couldn't write fit to be seen, nor spell, an' her grammar was something fierce. They had always kep' company more or less, but I declared to goodness that it was my letters what brought him to the point. An' just you mark my words, there ain't nothing like a little encouraging to bring a man around.

"I remember once Arabella come to me in an awful fix.

"'Rebecca,' says she, 'I'm scared to death that John is catching on! In his last letter he says that he hardly knows me in my letters, them being so easy an' conversational like.'"

"But I says to her, 'Don't you fret none, Arabella; I'll make that all right.'"

"So the next time I wrote to John I says that I, meaning Arabella, am one of them mute unglorious Miltons what we used to have in our old Fifth Reader, but that when I take my pen in hand my foot is on its native heath. Pretty good, wasn't it?"

"Lovely!" responded Mary enthusiastically, "and what did John say?"

"Oh," said Mrs. Mills, "he says that a mute unglorious Milton is just what he's been looking for, an' that spring was coming on an' he had hired a lot of men an' couldn't get a cook, an' would she marry him right away? I was their bridesmaid. They had a swell wedding.

"But here we are at the store. Walk right in and I'll introduce you to all the folks—nothing like being sociable in a small town."

Coming after Eaton's, the Elba Beehive was something of a shock; but I must admit that it fitted in with my pre-conceived ideas of Canada much better than did the former place. In Elba, and I suppose in other small towns and villages, the "general store" is market, grocery, draper's shop, post-office, and club, all in one. The shelves contain a varied assortment of goods; and the chairs, stools, and empty boxes an equally varied assortment of humanity. Of the last mentioned I was most interested in an Indian woman, and a small boy who was gazing with longing eyes at a glass-stoppered—and long unwashed—bottle which held deadly-appearing but evidently desirable sweets.

Appetite Good, Gained 20 lbs.

Could Not Feel Better

From a nervous wreck this man was restored to health, strength and happiness.

He tells his own story in this letter.

Mr. Ralph A. Roberts, Loverna, Sask., writes:

"In 1917 I had lost all appetite, failed 25 pounds in weight, become very nervous and shaky and in fact given up all hope of recovery. For some time I had suffered from constipation, which kept getting worse, until I was fast becoming a total wreck. Doctors and their drugs were sending me to my grave at the age of 39.

"Then I read about people being restored by Dr. Chase's Medicines and after three months' use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills I found that my bowels were restored to normal movement each day and the constipation was no more. I had a good appetite, had gained 20 pounds and could not feel better. I shall always be grateful for these benefits."

President of Red Cross Society Expresses Appreciation

Noel Marshall, of Toronto, President of the Red Cross Society, upon returning to London from visiting the battlefields in France and Belgium, expresses himself as gratified at the extreme care taken of the war graves.

Mr. Marshall suggests that Canadians going to France call first at the Red Cross Headquarters, 9, Waterloo Place, London, where they will receive every assistance in connection with their proposed tour.

Season for Prairie Chicken Extended

The total number of big game animals killed last year in the province of Saskatchewan was only 927 as compared with 2,200 in 1900. Last year there were but 409 moose captured as against 1,200 the previous year. The season for prairie chicken this year will be for a month instead of the customary two weeks and the shooting of partridge, prohibited for many years, will be allowed. Beavers, too, are becoming so plentiful in the northern part of the province that the council at Dundurn has declared an open season on the animals.

Large Revenue from Auto Licenses

A total of 2,448 automobile licenses were issued by the Manitoba Provincial License Department up to the end of April this year, according to statistics made public. Dealers' licenses total 244, motorcycles 465, chauffeurs 2,394, sales representatives 171, and permits 3,642. Revenue for the department so far this year amounts to $394,104, it is stated.

All hands are now extremely busy replenishing their wardrobes for the spring. And one of the most important items in this wardrobe is the spring suit. Shown here is a very charming suit of gray twill. The self-colored hand embroidery and the neat tailoring contribute to the trimness and distinction of this suit. A large straw picture hat laden down with cherries of different shades tops off a costume that will be very familiar in a short time.

The Minard's Liniment People,
Sirs.—I feel that I should be doing a wrong if I neglected to write you. I have had four tumors growing on my head for years. I had them cut off by a surgeon about fifteen years ago, but they grew again till about three months ago I had one as large and shaped like a lady's thimble on the very place where my hair should be parted, and it was getting so embarrassing in public that it was a constant worry to me. About three months ago I got a bottle of your liniment for another purpose and saw on the label good for tumors. Well I tried it and kept it for exactly two months, with the result that it has entirely removed all trace of the tumor, and were it not that they had been cut fifteen years ago, no mark would be seen. I have not been asked for this testimonial and you can use it as you see fit.

P.S.—I am a farmer and intend using Minard's Liniment on a mare for a strained tendon, and am hoping for some results.

J. BERTRAM SIMON, well-known photographer, of Tacoma, Wash., who says that since taking Tanlac with such good results he now knows why everybody is praising this wonderful medicine.

"When they told me about Tanlac it seemed almost too good to be true, but since taking the medicine I know for myself that all they said about it was so," said J. Bertram Simon, 1031 E. 46th St., Tacoma, Wash., a well-known photographer.

"I suffered from rheumatism in my shoulders for ten years and at one time had to go to the hospital. I was down in bed for months and hardly able to turn from side to side. I couldn't sleep and I don't believe I had a day free from pain. My appetite failed and I couldn't digest a thing properly. Gas made me have heartburn for hours after meals.

"In a very short time after I started taking Tanlac I actually felt like a new man. I am now entirely rid of rheumatism and my stomach is in first-class condition, while I have gained ten pounds and never felt better. I have recommended Tanlac to a number of people and I am always glad to say a good word for this remarkable medicine."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

At the Railway Crossing

Trains Get You Going, Coming and Standing Still

Railroad crossings are places where automobile drivers turn around and visit with the people on the back seat. They frequently become good mixers by this process. Sometimes it is hard to distinguish one from another after the train has gone by. The driver is always easy to pick out. He is the one with his face turned away from the railroad track.

Many people are of the opinion that the highway crosses the railroad tracks. That is not so. The railroad track always crosses the highway. Some railroad tracks run four abreast. Their percentage of hits is higher than the single-track variety. It gets them three ways—going, coming and standing still.

Hall's Catarrh Medicine

Those who are in a "run down" condition will notice that Catarrh bothers them much more than when they are in good health. This fact proves that while Catarrh is a local disease, it is greatly influenced by constitutional conditions. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a Tonic and acts through the blood upon the mucous surfaces of the body, thus reducing the inflammation and assisting Nature in restoring normal conditions.

Cash Value of Prairie Trees

Add Greatly to the Value of the Prairie Farm

Most interesting results have come from a questionnaire sent by the Dominion Forestry Branch, Ottawa, to scores of prairie province farmers who have been successful in establishing tree plantations with the help of the Dominion Nursery at Indian Head, Sask. One point in the questionnaire related to the increased money value of the farm properties as a result of tree planting. Some of the replies are as follows:

"I think the trees have added $1,000 to the value of this property."

"I consider a bluff like mine would add at least $2,000 to the value of any farm. In fact I would not live anywhere without planting trees out."

"I consider it adds $5 an acre in value to a farm where you have protection of trees."

"They have added to the money value of my property to the extent of at least $2,000."

"The very lowest value I could place on my trees would be $1,000."

"I consider that a windbreak adds thousands of dollars to a farm and I have told a large number of my neighbors this and not one of them could deny it."

Forest Fires

Apropos of the destruction of forest areas by careless campers and other users of the woods, the Canadian Forestry Association puts this query to every Canadian lover of outdoors.

Horses couldn't drag you to a hunting trip in a treeless wilderness! a fishing trip by a treeless stream! or campingout in a treeless valley.

Isn't it about true that the call of the Outdoors is the call of Trees? The hospitality of Nature means little to any man except when associated with living trees.

Last summer hundreds of parties of campers struck an unfair blow at the rights and privileges of fellow campers, fellow sportsmen and nature-lovers by starting at least 2500 damaging forest fires.

Camp fires that were not put out, matches and smokes thoughtlessly thrown on the inflammable 'floor' of the woods—these personal acts killed the camping, fishing and hunting in many thousands of square miles of Canadian forest.

Don't be a kill joy. The forest is made for the fellow who follows after you.

Enjoy the woods; There's nothing to fear except Fire. And mighty few fires except what you start.

Remember: all big fires start as little ones. One Minute's Care may save a Century of Waiting.

Short Weight Berries

Reports received from all markets to which Ontario berries have been shipped state that they are arriving for the most part in very poor condition. The boxes are only partly filled and contain much green and dirty fruit.

The imports into Canada of United States strawberries this year have more than doubled those for a number of years past and the fruit—clean, well coloured and in well-filled boxes—brought good prices throughthe season. Consumers are therefore, apparently prepared to pay a fair price for good well-coloured berries which have been properly picked and packed in boxes which arrive on the markets properly filled. They are again however demonstrating their unwillingness to buy except at very great discount the majority of local shipments received to date.

The Fruit Branch strongly urges strawberry growers to give more attention to the picking, packing and shipping of their fruit. It pays to put enough berries in each box to assure that when they arrive on the market they will not have settled lower than the top of the box.

In connection with the above extract from the Fruit Commissioners report, dated June 15th, the Review is informed that there is considerable variation in the weights of the berry packs put up by different growers due, we presume, to the fact that some growers are indifferent as to whether or not their crates are properly filled.

The buyer of our berries has to pay express on 22 pounds in the case of a crate of strawberries which is considered to be around the minimum weight. Assuming that the crate weighs 6 pounds the buyer gets 16 pounds of berries which pobably costs him express laid down at least $4.00, or 25c. per pound.

This means that a crate of berries weighing 20 pounds is worth 50 cents less than a crate weighing 22 pounds, and $1 per crate less than a crate weighing 24 pounds. We suggest that the berry grower who ships berries under weight take the above into consideration should he happen to be called to task by the fruit inspector for shipping short weight berries.

Advertising Helps

The following resume of an address delivered to New York apple growers will be read with interest here, particularly as the same general principles apply to marketing.

"You apple growers furnish one of the most striking examples in this country of intelligent men failing to turn disaster into success," George A. Cullen, vice-president of the North American Fruit Exchange, said last week at a meeting of the New York Agricultural Society at Albany.

"Why do California growers successfully invest $750,000 in advertising to create an appetite for the citrus fruits, while New York growers invest practically not a cent to create an appetite for some of the finest fruit produced on the face of the earth?

"Think of the Pacific Coast Raisin Growers investing $500,000 a year in advertising, and the prune growers $850,000; while the New York State farmers apparently try to keep it a secret that they produce the finest of seed potatoes and maple syrup.

"There is a further and exceedingly important use of advertising by the grower. That is in constantly keeping the customers informed when his productsare available, or to be available, when they are abundant and they are or should be relatively cheap at retail. This has real practical value in stimulating consumption.

"Why then does not the grower keep his public informed daily of the state of the market? Why should the departmental stores use about one-third of the space in each day's papers to tell their public about their goods, while the growers leave it to some government agency or other belated crop report source to print the market quotations on perishable goods (of all things!) in some obscure corner of one page?"

Failure to make improvements or record same will operate as forfeiture. Title cannot be obtained in less than 5 years, and improvements of $10.00 per acre, including 5 acres cleared and cultivated, and residence of at least 2 years are required.

Pre-emptor holding Crown grant may record another pre-emption, if he requires land in conjunction with his farm, without actual occupation, provided statutory improvements made and residence maintained on Crown granted land.

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites; title to be obtained after fulfilling residential and improvement conditions.

For grazing and industrial purposes areas exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or company.

This privilege is also made retroactive.

Free, or partially free, permits for settlers, campers or travellers, up to ten head.

Creston Puts Over Win on Nelson

Creston demonstrated its 1922 superiority over Nelson at baseball at Exhibition Park on Sunday afternoon, when the locals outplayed the visitors in practically every department and were returned winners by a margin of 9 to 4.

However the game was not as lop sided as the score might indicate. Langel, who hurled for Nelson, was in fine form, holding the local batsmen to a matter of eight hits, but his third and second base support was in spots about the weirdest seen here of late, second baseman Bush taking credit for four errors and Notman, who held down third base, was equally unreliable. At batting there was little to choose between the nines, except that Nelson failed to deliver in the pinches. On at least three occasions a timely bingle would have gone a long way to levelling up the score but the needed hitting punch failed to materialize. At baserunning, too, Nelson did not shine brilliantly.

Maxwell, who started on the mound for Creston, had not the best of control, and retired at the end of the fifth in favor of Kimberley who also had considerable trouble in locating the plate. However they either managed to pitch themselves out of the tight corners, or the situation was sayed by a bit of fast fielding, Creston pulling off a couple of double plays during the session. Bleumenauer shortstopped faultlessly, and McKelyey's playing was an improvement over his showing against Yahk, his hitting accounting for two of the eight safeties secured off Langel. Atkinson divided the fielding honors with Bleumenauer and batted safely twice out of his four opportunities. The players and score:

H. Bleumenauer got back on Friday from a few days spent at Nelson and Kaslo. That the fishing is excellent at the latter point was evidenced in a couple of 17-pound lake trout that he had caught, and which were on display in the drugstore window for a few hours that afternoon.

Strawberry shipping is on at all points in the Valley and on Tuesday the train commenced making the stop at Reed & Mather's as well as the Smith crossing at Alice Siding. Quantities are rather limited as yet, but by the middle of next week the export will be in full swing.

All interested in irrigation are reminded of the demonstrations on how to use water which will take place at the Putnam ranch on Saturday afternoon, June 24th. Mr. Newton, the provincial soil expert will be in charge, assisted by Mr. Helmer of the Experimental farm at Summerland.

The Lidgate and Embree garages have been making alternate trips to Cranbrook autoing the Chautauqua talent in order that the performers may be in the divisional city in time to take the afternoon programme. Even with a load of five and their baggage the trips have been made in four hours.

Both the Entrance and High School examinations open at Creston on Monday morning with vice principal Pearce in charge of those writing on the Entrance papers, and Miss Davidson supervising the High School scholars who are taking the exams. Principal Smith will have about a dozen scholars trying their luck on Entrance papers.

Provincial bridge suderintendent Kilpatrick of Revelstoke was here on an official visit at the end of the week, making an inspection of the new bridge just put in on the Mission road across Goat River. At present foreman Johnson and his crew are making repairs to the 40-feet section of the old bridge that went out in the flood on the river about two weeks ago.

There will be at least three new teachers to secure for the public school before re-opening in September. In addition to the retirements of Miss Davidson and Mr. Pearce, as previously announced, at the June meeting Miss Verreau notified that she would not be returning to take charge of the primary room, and her resignation was accepted with regret.

The first forest fire of any consequence this season broke out along the boundary between Lister and Canyon City on Friday and with quite high winds prevailing over the week-end all the available unemployed hereabouts were enrolled for fire-fighting purposes. The fire was got under control on Monday, but a heavy June rain will be required to effectually extinguish it.

E. A. Vachon of Salmo, formerly provincial police here, was a Creston visitor between trains on Sunday. He had to come to Nelson on the Saturday and as it was impossible to get home until Monday he decided to employ the Sabbath to renew old acquaintances at Creston. Judging by a few additional pounds avordupois that he has accumulated life at Salmo is agreeing with him.

A new lot of souvenir picture post cards should shortly be available. A scenic photographer was busy both in town and country the latter part of the week. Judging by the time he spent and the number of plates utilized the flower garden at the C. O. Rodgers residence presented a particularly attractive scene. At that time a 12-year yellow tea rose was a mass of bloom and with rose bushes galore in the foreground and the rose-screened verandah certainly the picture should convince that rose culture can be effectively carried on in Creston Valley.

Two or three parties from town were at Summit Creek early in the week trying out the fishing and judging by their catches the angling could hardly be better. Messrs. Lockhead and E. Taylor were generously remembering Creston friends with excellent samples of the elusive rainbow on Wednesday, while another party which included Fred Smith, G. Mawson and W. Hendy also had a great catch on Tuesday, Fred bringing back a 7¼ pound char that measured 29 inches and which is the biggest char so far entered in the contest Mawson Bros. are giving a fishing basket to the fisherman landing the heaviest char before the first of September.

Own Your Home

A campaign that is worthy of support, and one it is to be hoped will prove largely successful and be persisted in from year to year, is now in progress in quite a number of cities and is finding prominence in the news and advertising columns of the daily press. It is a campaign of publicity to educate people as to the wisdom of taking steps to acquire a home of their own instead of remaining "renters" all their life.

While such a campaign can probably be carried on more spectacularly and effectively in the larger centres of population, it is one that might well be extended to towns, villages and hamlets, and, what is of even greater importance, to the strictly rural communities.

Nothing is quite so well calculated to give stability to a nation as to have its citizens, to as great an extent as possible, the actual owners of the dwellings in which they reside. When a man or woman has a stake in his or her country, province, and local community in the form of a piece of land owned by them and upon which they have established their home, certain very desirable results follow.

In the first place, such persons are far less likely to be influenced by demagogic appeals of agitators designed to undermine the stability of the state and shake public confidence in national institutions. The person with a fixed stake and interest in the country will give second thought before embarking on a rash enterprise, whereas people having no such interest in the country are more easily led astray by the professional trouble maker.

Ownership of a home constitutes a powerful factor leading to permanence of population. It is the man having no real interest in a community, as evidenced by lack of his own home, who is here today and gone tomorrow. It is the renters of the world who are forever on the move and who because of a lack of a stake in a given community will likely keep on moving and never amass anything.

People living in rented premises are paying the landlord's taxes for him, a good rate of interest on his investment, thus yielding him a profit and in the long run actually paying for the property. The amount thus paid out annually in rental would in the course of years pay the purchase price and the present shortsighted renter have an asset to show for his money.

The family living in a rented house inevitably take less care of the property than would be the case if it was their own. They do not exert themselves to anything like the extent an owner would to improve and beautify the property, with the result that communities where renters predominate do not present the same prosperous, go-ahead appearance which marks a community of home owners. The incentive to steadily add to the value of the property is lacking; on the contrary, the opposite effect is too frequently noted because improvement of the property by the renter may easily result in a demand from the landlord for a higher rental.

What is true in the case of the resident of a city or town is equally true of the renter-farmer as contrasted with the farmer-owner. It is the renter who strives to get all he can out of the soil during the usually brief period of his sojourn on the land. He is not concerned about the future, with the result that the land and buildings deteriorate and the community, province and country suffer loss.

It is gratifying to learn, therefore, from statistics recently compiled that no other country in the world shows such a high proportion of home owners in the larger cities as does the Dominion of Canada, and in this respect the cities of Western Canada are ahead of those in the Eastern Provinces. It is probably true, too, although figures are not available, that in respect to ownership of land by farmers who are tilling the soil Canada occupies a higher places than other countries. The majority of farmers in Canada are owners, not renters, but there appears to be a tendency in this country—and to an even more alarming degree in the United States—for renters to increase in number. Great Britain has realizd the mistake of having huge tracts of land owned by the few and the great majority of agriculturists reduced to renters. Now the great English estates are being broken up, and many farmers are thus being enabled to secure land of their own.

Here in Canada the stability of the state, the securing of permanence of population, the improvement and permanent development of property, and the maintenance of a high standard of living all call for the giving of every possible encouragement to people to become the owners of homes of their own. Buying or building a home is good business for the individual as well as for the state. "Own Your Home" should be the ambition of every Canadian.

More Women than Men in Europe

Twenty-five million women in Europe are condemned to single blessedness for, according to statistics, there are 1,114 women to every 1,000 men on the continent and in the British Isles. Of the 175,000,000 people more than 250,000,000 are women, so the number of women now exceeds that of the men by 25,000,000. Before the war there were only 9,000,000 more women than men.

LINGERING WEAKNESS FOLLOWING DISEASE

Due to the Fact that the Blood has Become Thin and Watery

In almost every case the victims of la grippe, influenza, fevers and contagious troubles, are left weak, ailing and despondent after the disease itself has disappeared. They do not pick up strength as they ought, and remain tired, listless and discouraged. The only reason for this is that the blood has been impoverished by the ravage of the disease through which the victim has passed. Strength and full activity will not return until the blood has been restored to its normal condition. The blood can be enriched and purified quickly and surely by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. To enrich the blood and strengthen the nerves is the whole mission of these pills, and thousands have found them beneficial after disease had left them weak and run down. Among those who have proved the value of these pills in cases of this kind is Mr. Charles A. Turner, light-keeper Thrum Cap light station, N.S., who says:—"In Jan., 1917, I took a severe cold which I neglected until it developed into pneumonia, which confined me to bed for some weeks. When I was able to get up and sit around the house, I found that I was not regaining my usual strength; in fact I seemed to be growing weaker and was reduced almost to a skeleton. I took an emulsion, but it did not help me. Then one day a friend who came to see me said, 'Here's some Dr. Williams' Pink Pills; just the thing to put you on your feet again.' I took them and then got six boxes more and soon could feel they were helping me. By the time the last box was empty I was doing my work again and feeling fine, and I had gained in weight. My health has since continued good, and I give the credit to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"Two and One Is Shoe Polish," Little Pat's Answer

Little Pat started at school yesterday, entering the first grade. After he had come home his mother listened to many strange tales of the day's doings. But Pat's reports were not confined to his domain alone, for in the early part of the evening he was walking along the street near his home, when a grown-up friend stopped him.

Right away things started. No questions were needed. Pat was wound up like an eight-day clock.

"Say, I went to school today and gee whilikins, what a time we had. De teacher giv us a piece of paper dat was about a yard long and about a foot wide and she made us put numbers all over de place."

"What, a yard long and a foot wide?" asked Pat's friend.

"Yes," was the reply, and then the youngster measured off a distance of about 10 inches long and about three inches wide. That was Pat's idea of a yard and a foot.

"De teacher axed me if I cud count and I told her yes and I can add, too."

"What is one and one, Pat?"

"Two, and two and two is four and three and three is six," kept on Pat without a letup. He continued this until he reached seven and seven. He could not answer this.

The little fellow's friend then tried him on a lower number.

"What is two an one, Pat?"

"Shoe polish."

"What is two an' one?"

"Shoe polish, I said."

"No, two and one makes three."

"Ya can't tell me, mister, cus I know, tw soan' one is shoe polish."

Nothing could make Pat believe that two an' one was anything else.

Full Authority Given For Large Loan To Be Advanced To Germany

Paris.—The Allied reparations commission, by a three to one vote overriding France's negative ballot, gave the bankers' committee full authority to propose an international loan for Germany on any basis the committee thinks desirable. The bankers, however, indicated their disposition not to take any action that would be in opposition to the French Government's wishes.

The French attitude toward the bankers' committee was discussed at a conference at which President Millerand and Premier Poincare were present. It was after this discussion that M. Dubois reaffirmed the stand he had previously taken in the reparations commission.

The opinion that appeared to prevail among the bankers as they began their informal discussions was that the view taken by the principal creditor, the French Government, ought to be the controlling factor. The bankers, it was pointed out, have seen from the first that there were great difficulties in the way of the flotation of a loan, and therefore they are not surprised at the turn events have taken.

The divided vote of the reparations commission, marks the first important decision taken by that body with the French member, Louis Dubois, dissenting.

Premier Poincare told the foreign affairs commission that he hoped the negotiations would continue for an international loan to Germany, although he hardly expected any early tangible results. In the meantime, French industry, while awaiting German payments, in cash, which could become important only through the aid of a loan, must adjust itself to payments in goods.

M. Poincare said the French Government would always make it an especial condition that a loan would not mean any reduction in the reparations due France.

Repeating previous declarations in the chamber of deputies as to France's determination to act alone if necessary in case of Germany's default in reparations, the Premier said that regardless of whether the need for imposing penalties upon Germany arose or not France had studied and prepared all precautions for various sorts of penalties and was ready for the day when the reparations commission might declare Germany in default.

PAINS IN BACK AND SIDES

Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lindsay, Ontario.—"I used to have very bad pains in my back and sides and often was not fit to do my work. I tried many medicines before I began to take yours. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the 'Toronto Globe' and now that it has helped me I recommend it to all of my neighbors. I keep it in the house all the time and take it once in a while no matter how well I feel, for one ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."—ELIZABETH CAMPBELL, 13 St. Paul St., Lindsay, Ontario.

To do any kind of work—and you know there is much to be done—is next to impossible if you are suffering from some form of female trouble. It may cause your back to ache or a pain in your side; it may make you nervous and irritable. You may be able to keep up and around, but you do not feel good.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine for women. It is especially adapted to relieve the cause of these troubles, and restore them to normal health.

Tralee, Ireland.—It was stated that when the American steamer Seattle Spirit was held up by a British torpedo boat destroyer four miles west of the Fenil, County Kerry pier, a search of the vessel revealed 52 barrels supposed to contain lard. The barrels were consigned to the order of the Manhattan Lard Company at Cork. It is declared that when they were opened each barrel was found to contain 10,000 rounds of rifle and machine gun ammunition.

The torpedo boat destroyer, which has been waiting three days outside the bay, took the barrels aboard. The Seattle Spirit sailed from New York.

Much Interest Taken In Coming Elections Staged For Ireland

Dublin.—With little or no information given out regarding the progress of the conversation between Arthur Griffith, president of the Dail Eireann, and the British ministers at London, interest in the session of the Dail, centres on the status of the De Valera-Collins pact and the prospective elections contests.

In Mr. Griffith's absence the task of leading the house falls on Michael Collins, and in the present state of national affairs the people will concentrate on the declaration of the leaders and the debate among the rank and file of the assembly in order to find a solution for the situation.

Mr. Collins is expected to review the general relations between the north and south, with special reference to the Pettigoe affair, but it is understood that the topic of most ardent appeal will be that of observance of the coalition pact in the coming elections.

When the business of the Dail is concluded at this session, it is not expected to meet again, but will be replaced by the new Dail now in course of election. The date of summoning the new body has been fixed at July 1 by arrangement between the lord-lieutenant and the Provincial Government.

The main business of the new parliament after passing the constitution will be consideration of the franchise bill establishing universal adult suffrage and authorization of a new register on which the free state elections will take place.

The feature of the completed returns of the nominations is the certainty that in twenty of the twenty-seven electoral areas, 47 Independents will oppose Coalitions of Collins and De Valera.

Employment Service Council Discuss Details of Mobilization for this Year

Ottawa.—Problems of harvest labor were discussed at the opening session here of the fourth annual meeting of the Employment Service Council of Canada held under the Presidency of J. D. McNiven, Deputy Minister of Labor in British Columbia. Discussion turned mainly on the organization of the movement of harvest labor from the east and British Columbia to to prairie provinces. Representatives of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the Canadian National and the Grand Trunk Railroads were present to confer with the members of the council.

The meeting went fully into the details of mobilization of harvest laborers and their distribution, both from the employment service and the transportation standpoints. Among the points discussed were the rates of transportation, the proper selection of harvest hands and the closer dovetailing of excursions with the ripening of the crops of the various districts.

The meeting was attended by representatives of the various provinces.
