VOL. XIV. CRESTON, B.C., FRIDAY, JUNE 16, 1922 No. 19

June 7 Sirdar's Red Letter Day

When the Bluebird Sewing Circle of the Church of England congregation at Sirdar was organized on January 7th the ladies adopted the slogan of "What is worth doing is worth doing well, and what is worth doing well is worth doing quickly in order that an early start may be made at doing somehting else better." That the ladies are living well up to this high ideal is demonstrated in the sale of work and afternoon and evevning of general entertainment which they had on Wednesday last—just five months from the date of organization—at which pleasure for their guests and profit to the ladies were happily combined, the affair yielding a net return of $210.

It was originally intended to have the day's doings in spacious tents, but unpropitious weather necessitated using the schoolhouse, which the trustees very kindly placed at the disposal of the circle, who were gowned in striking costumes quaintly decorated with bluebirds. The sale of needle work, most all of which had been made at the fortnightly work sessions of the circle, was in charge of Mrs. Jones (Kuskanook) and this proved the biggest revenue producer, the day's intake being in the neighborhood of $83. Misses Hazel and Margeory Goodman and Mrs. Loasby supervised the serving of ice cream and sale of candy and in the two departments accounted for an intake of over $31. Mesdames North, Rogers, Tuohey and Cameron were ideal afternoon tea hostesses and their efforts were rewarded by cash receipts of over $42, combined with the receipts from the evening dinner which was in charge of Mrs. Loasby while Mrs Goodman, who supervised the dance supper turned in another $27 as the proceeds of the refreshments served the evening merrymakers.

Another popular participant in the day's proceedings was Mrs. Wilson, who officiated as a gipsy fortune teller and had quite a busy day of it forecasting invariably happy futures for her host of clients. That Mrs. North has the knack of executing needlecraft excellent as to workmanship and popular in design was shown in the demand for tickets on the hand embroidered bedspread done by herself and which was raffled during the afternoon with little Miss Nettie McCabe drawing ticket 87, which was held by Miss Hazel Goodman. The raffle accounted for an intake of just over $62, but this might have been materilaly added to as there was a great demand for tickets after the limit set on the sale of them had been reached and ticket selling stopped.

Mr. Tuohey kept things moving at the dance in the schoolhouse in the evening, for which excellent music was provided by Mrs. Foreman, Misses Lewis, L. Cherrington and Margeory Goodman, with a greatly appreciated added feature by C. Lavazelli who played his piano-accordeon to piano accompaniment by Mrs. Loasby. Mr. Dobie also popularized himself with his dramatic recitation with piano abligato by Mrs. Foreman.

Quite a number from Creston motored down for the affair and it was unfortunate that the unfavorable weather precluded the boat trips as well as bathing for some of the more weather proof amongst the visitors. Mr. Porter with his three daughters and one son were motor visitors from Michel; while another busy out-of-town attendant was Miss Lewis of Eastport, Idaho, who was Mrs. McCabe's guest. The circle takes this means of expressing its very great thanks to all who attended as well as all who helped in various other ways to make their initial effort such an outstanding social as well as financial success.

Mr. Vanderburgh is in charge of the C.P.R. station in the absence of T. W. Bundy, who is taking his usual fortnight's vacation this month.

Practically every home in this section will have one or more representatives at the Chautaqua at Creston for the next few days and evenings.

Geo. Cartwright is the latest to discard the hayburners permanently for pleasure and commercial driving, and is now seen behind the steering wheel of a Baby Grand Special which he purchased last week from F. W. Speaker of Canyon City.

D. S. Timmons left the first of the week for Nelson where he is combining pleasure with business. Mrs. Timmons has been at Nelson for the past ten days.

At the rate he is going now Foreman Davis will complete the hard surface highway to its finish at the C.P.R. track beyond the school by the early part of next month. Now the road-making machinery is so advantageously located it is hoped all the rest of the traffic highway to the Erickson depot will be given hard surface attention.

A demonstration on irrigation will be given at the Frank Putnam ranch on Saturday afternoon, June 24th, by Mr. Newton, the provincial soil expert, assisted by Mr. Helmer, who is in charge of the demonstration farm at Summerland.

Those who made purchases of powder through the United Farmers this year are asked to at once interview Secretary Littlejohn and sign the regulation powder rebate forms, as these have to be returned by the end of the month.

Frank Staples was a Bonners Ferry visitor on Tuesday, accompanying Messrs. Constable and Bevan of Creston, who visited that town on a Kootenay Flats drainage mission.

Ladies Injured in Runaway Mishap

The most distressing (though, fortunately, not fatal) runaway mishap that Alice Siding has had in years occurred on Friday night last, and in which Mrs. J. H. Webster suffered a broken right leg, a broken left arm, as well as being severely injured internally, whilst Mrs. T. Trevelyan suffered a very severe shaking up. It would appear that the two ladies with a couple of the Webster children were returning about 9 o'clock from a visit with Mrs. Barraclough, and that while coming down the rather steep hill leading to the main road the horse got beyond control and in its run down the grade the ladies were thrown out of the rig sustaining the injuries mentioned. With considerable forethought the children in the rig managed to jump out of the back and were unhurt, and were thus able to make speed to the Constable ranch from which Dr. Henderson was telephoned for, and who arrived promptly on the scene and had the ladies removed to their homes in his car. At present Mrs. Webster is resting as easily as could be expected and as soon as she can stand the train trip she will be taken to the Cranbrook hospital. While not so dangerously hurt Mrs. Trevelyan is suffering much from the mishap, but is also doing as well as could be hoped for. Mrs. McDonald of Calgary a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Webster, arrived on Sunday to take care of her mother. Mrs. Webster would probably have come through the unfortunate occurrence with nothing worse than a shaking up had it not been for the fact that she was holding the infant child of Mrs. Treveyan's on the ill-fated trip, and with characteristic maternal instict stayed with the rig rather than jeopardize the little one's life by making a scramble out of the fast-travelling buggy.

John Parkin returned from Michel on Monday.

John Johnson and Hector Stewart spent the week-end at Summit Creek on a fishing trip and report a fair catch.

Ronald Smith has just taken delivery of a couple of hives of bees, which he had shipped in from Kelowna. He intends specializing in the apiary line in future.

Mrs. M. Churchill was a week-end guest of Mrs. W. A. Mason, at Wynndel.

T. Trevelyan is counting to have the first strawberries for the Creston market before the end of the week, and by not later than Tuesday to have a crate of them for export.

Geo. Hood and Charlie Sutcliffe were business visitors at Kitchener at the week-end and George was back again on Tuesday to take delivery of a heavy wagon which he purchased there.

Fred Ash has about completed the installation of his irrigation system which is operated by gas engine and the supply of water secured at the slough below the ranch. He is utilizing the wetness to supply any moisture deficiency on his small fruits.

Yahk Ball Team Badly Defeated

Playing the timliest article of ball ever shown by a team wearing the Creston uniform Capt. Atkinson and his followers had no trouble at all disposing of Yahk—for the second time this season—by the cricket score of 19 to 6, and an inning to spare.

Offensively and defensively Yahk was outclassed in every detail and at every position on the field, and after the second inning there was no occasion to doubt who would be returned winner.

Pitcher Braynes was hit with surprising regularity and while his support was rather ragged all the way through, in fairness to him it should be said the Creston sluggers had considerable good fortune in hitting them well out of reach of both the infield and outfield. If there was any choice to the Yahk aggregation special mention is coming to Young, who was the most prominent with the bat, and Beare, who had a very busy day of it at second base, and notwithstanding two errors was quite the class of the infield. At the end of the fifth shortstop Baum and catcher Redman exchanged places, and had relief pitcher Robinson gone into the box at the same time, the score might have been closer. As it was hr was not utilized until the eighth, in which inning only four Creston batters faced him.

The feature, probably, to Creston's win was the battery work of Blemenauer and Telford. For the first time this year the local heaver served up the shoots as signalled for by his battery partner and full credit is coming to Telford for the rather light hitting indulged in by the usually reliable Yahk batsmen. In addition to having good control Blemenauer fielded his position in superb style. Maxwell had another great day of it in the outer garden, while both in the field and at bat Atkinson had a stellar showing, his clouts totalling four safeties on six trips to the plate. Charlie Botterill, who replaced Taylor at centrefield, batted in better fashion than his predecessor and on the field was equally as reliable. McKelvey's hitting was lighter than usual. Kimberley had but one error registered against him in quite a busy afternoon, and at third base Long was equally proficient, while for speed on the paths nothing that has appeared here from Kaslo, Wycliffe and Yahk can equal him.

The umpiring was done by Patenaude of Yahk and Bessette of Creston. The former had his troubles for the first few innings on base decisions, but the latter's work was never questioned. The box score:

This is the second defeat Creston has handed Yahk this year, beating them on their own grounds 8 to 1 about six weeks ago, and with Yahk running well toward the front in the Western division of the East Kootenay League Creston has every reason to be justly proud of the showing the local nine is making this year.

The next game will be with Nelson on Sunday afternoon, June 18. Last year Creston held Nelson to a 9 to 8 victory, and with the homesters playing 100 per cent. better ball this season a win over Nelson may be confidently looked for. The game will be called at 1.45 to allow the visitors to return on the afternoon train.

Jackson Made Up His Mind, Then Acted At Once, He Declares

"Tanlac has certainly backed up its reputation in my case," said Ernest Jackson, Greenwalde, Man., dental student in Winnipeg.

"I suffered from stomach trouble for two years and in spite of all the treatments and medicines I took I got worse all the time. My stomach was as sour as vinegar. I bloated terribly with gas and was so nauseated I could scarcely retain a thing of the little I ate. I had pains across my back too until it seemed like it would break.

"I made up my mind Tanlac was worth at least a trial, went ahead and took it, and began picking up right away. I kept on improving until now I feel as fine as I ever did in my life. I'm thankful a thousand times over for what Tanlac has done for me."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

The Canadian Budget

During the Great War and in the years since, men responsible for the administration of national finances the world over have been confronted with great difficulty in balancing their annual budgets. They have had to overcome obstacles of all kinds. War expenditures had resulted in piling up national debts to unprecedented heights, the interest charges on which alone called for enormous sums annually. Pensions, care of disabled soldiers, re-establishment of soldiers, call for further large sums each year. During the war years ordinary expenditures on capital account were discontinued, and with the close of the war many services were found to have deteriorated and called for large sums of money to make good the previous years' enforced neglect.

Larger revenues had, therefore, to be obtained and there was only one way to get the money—by increasing taxation. But taxation had to be imposed in such a way as to interefere as little as possible with business during the difficult period of re-adjustment from a war to a peace basis when the whole world was engaged in the task of reconstruction, when hundreds of thousands of people were ruined, and with unemployment of millions of men and women. Governments only exist by will of the people, and it always has to be recognized that there is a limit which any people will stand in the matter of taxation.

The problem facing finance ministers has been to raise the larger revenues needed without at the same time doing irreparable injury to the business interests of the country and thereby, in the final analysis, creating an even worse and more difficulty situation.

British Chancellors of the Exchequer went further than those of other countries in imposing heavy, even drastic, taxation. They proceeded to impose such taxation upon everybody, but more particularly upon the wealthier classes. The result has been that, for some years past, Great Britain has been steadily reducing its war debt, and in the last British budget it was possible, owing to drastic cuts in national expenditures and as a result of naval disarmament to a marked extent, to announce a beginning in reduction of taxation. In the United States, too, there has been a reduction in the national debt since the close of the war.

In Canada, on the other hand, the enormous debt created by the war, instead of being reduced in the years since the Armistice, has gone on steadily increasing. This has been due to the fact that the national revenues have failed to meet the extraordinary charges for interest on the debt, pensions, re-establishment of soldiers, and the heavy deficits on the national railways. The time had come when a halt had to be called to further increases in the debt unless it was to become a monster which would finally bring the Dominion to bankruptcy. Reduction in expenditures had to be insisted upon, and heavier taxation had to be imposed, but imposed in such a way as not to seriously interfere with business and the development of the country.

Hon. W. S. Fielding in his first budget since again assuming the office of finance minister appears to have taken a leaf out of the books of British ministers. Reductions in expenditure in many departments of government were noted in the Estimates, and even these were further reduced in the Commons, notably in the militia and naval departments. The budget now announces the imposition of increased taxation. There are certain reductions in Customs duties, principally by way of increases in the British preferential tariff, and there is a removal of a number of restrictions to trade which should prove beneficial all round, but from a revenue standpoint these reductions are more than offset by increased taxation in other ways.

It is in the form of raising this additional revenue that Mr. Fielding is following the example of British ministers. The much needed new revenue is to come from heavier taxation on luxuries, and upon transactions carried through by men and corporations of larger means and wealth. There are increased taxes imposed on liquors, both intoxicating and known as soft drinks, on the higher priced cigars and cigarettes, on automobiles, on bank cheques, telegrams and cablegrams, on the note circulation of banks, and through an increased sales tax. In other words, those people in the Dominion who are best able to pay are to be required to do so.

Of course, there will be criticism from all these quarters, and already associations representing this and that particular interest are demanding reconsideration by the Government of this and that tax. It must be recognized, however, that the Federal Government must obtain larger revenues. Canada dare not go on adding additional millions to the national debt every year. To do so would be to commit national suicide, because it would not be long before an ever-mounting debt would eat up the entire revenue in interest charges alone.

That being the case, it follows that those who can afford to indulge in luxuries, or who are in a position to issue large cheques where the average man issues only small ones or none at all, should be called upon to pay. It is the system which has helped Great Britain through the hard years following the war. It is the system that should be given a fair trial by Canada.

Two Interesting Letters

Toronto, Ontario.—"When my husband was called back to England in 1914 I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to strengthen me so I could work. I had a trouble that used to make me weak, but I am able to do my work now and am perfectly satisfied with your medicine. I still get it at the chemist's and I strongly recommend it to anybody I hear of suffering as I did. You may publish this if you wish."—Mrs. E. Honsbrown, 899 Yonge St., Toronto, Ontario.

I Did Not Feel Like Working

"I was in a general run-down condition with a weak back and a tired feeling so that I did not feel like working. My mother was taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and recommended it to me, so I have taken it and my health is better and I am now able to do my work. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my neighbors and you may publish my letter."—Mrs. Josephine A. Gwynne, Box 17, Carbon, Alberta.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be taken when you first notice such symptoms as nervousness, backache, weakness and irregularity. It will help you and prevent more serious trouble. Give it a fair trial.

HALIFAX EXPLOSION WRECKED HER NERVES

The reader will, no doubt, remember when a few years ago there was a collision in the Halifax, N.S., Harbor and one of the munition ships was blown up, causing great loss of life and laying a large portion of the city in ruins, and causing a great deal of suffering and distress among the inhabitants.

Mrs. Winfield Dill, now of Windsor, N.S., was living in Halifax at that time and went through this trying experience and the shock wrecked her nerves. She writes as follows:—"I was living in Halifax at the time of the explosion, and it wrecked my nerves so that I could not do my housework. I would take such nervous spells I would be under the doctor's care.

I saw Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills advertised, so I took two boxes, and they helped me so much I took six more, and now I am completely relieved. I can recommend them to anyone suffering from heart and nerve trouble."

Smallest Gold Coin

Minted at Geneva, Weighs Less Than Postage Stamp

The smallest gold coin in the world has just been minted at Geneva for the use of the League of Nations. Though called a franc, it has nothing in common with the familiar French coin, being worth only about one penny in British money. It is octagonal in shape, and on one side are engraved the initials "S.D.N."—Societe des Nations. So tiny is the coin, however, that the letters can be read only by the aid of a powerful magnifying glass, while its weight is less than that of an ordinary postage stamp. The gold franc is not intended for general circulation. It represents the unit of universal value in which the forthcoming budget of the League of Nations is to be calculated. Its actual weight is given officially as .03225805 of a gramme.

Wheat Board Question Will Be Taken Up After Budget Debate

Ottawa.—The situation as regards the passage of legislation establishing a wheat board was the subject of questions put in the House of Commons by Hon. H. H. Stevens. Mr. Stevens recalled that the reference of this question to a special committee was made on March 27 with indications of a need of haste. A report was made by May 26. It involved legislation by Parliament and also by provincial legislatures in order to provide for handling this year's wheat crop. Yet the resolution had been allowed to lie on the order papers for seven days. Mr. Stevens wanted to know what was the reason for delay and whether it had anything to do with the somewhat extraordinary action by the committee on Friday last in rescinding a former motion.

The Prime Minister replied that there was no intention to delay the discussion upon the wheat board after the budget debate was finished. Just as soon as the end of that debate was reached, the Government would be glad to take up the consideration of the report of the agriculture and colonization committee.

Mr. Stevens inquired whether it was not unusual to delay the consideration of business which each day preceded the budget debate on the order paper.

The Prime Minister replied that before this report appeared on the order paper he had intimated that it was the intention to give precedence to the budget debate. It was thought desirable to carry that arrangement through.

Wheat Board Certificates

Many Participation Certificates Are Still Outstanding

Ottawa.—There are yet nearly $210,000 worth of wheat board participation certificates outstanding, according to a return tabled in the House by Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Trade and Commerce, in answer to a question asked by C. C. Davies, Progressive member for North Battleford. A total of $560,000 was turned over to the Federal Government by the Canada Wheat Board from surplus account, Mr. Davies was informed, and also $175,000 from participation certificates. The total value of outstanding participation certificates on May 22, 1922, was $209,526.84.

Applications for payment on outstanding participation certificates are still being received and are being paid by the Canada Wheat Board, it was stated. The questions when such payments will be discounted has not yet been considered.

Mr. Davies was also informed that the Canada Wheat Board had recommended that the amount of $560,000 transferred from surplus account should be distributed to the provincial governments pro rata, on the basis of the quantity of wheat delivered to the board by the producers in each province, such monies to be used for the immediate relief of distressed farmers in the various provinces and that any money remaining on account of unpaid certificates should be used for research work, particularly for the prevention of black rust in wheat.

Policy Of Moderation Says Lloyd George, In Dealing With Germany

London.—With Germany undefiant, Premier Lloyd George had planned to make a brief statement on reparations in the House of Commons, but when John Robert Clynes, Labor member, opened the debate and attributed the present difficulties to the Government's election pledges of 1918, the Prime Minister launched into a lengthy defense of the reparations commission and the treaty of Versailles.

Mr. Lloyd George praised the German attitude towards the reparations commission and said so long as she was not defiant, Germany could count on Britain's sympathy and understanding of the difficulties in meeting the treaty conditions. He declared, however, that there was no cause for disagreement between France and Great Britain for should Germany refuse to attempt to fulfil the commission's proposals, Great Britain's place would be at the side of the Versailles signatories despite the misrepresentations which were being made.

Great Britain believed in the traditional policy of moderation and fulfilment, continued the Prime Minister, and he gave warning that isolated action on the part of any one of the allies would be disastrous to the entente between them.

"It is the policy pursued after Waterloo toward France when Prussia and Russia and other victors urged that France be trampled," said Mr. Lloyd George. "The Government in that day refused to countenance such a policy; we are pursuing the same course. But if Germany is defiant, if she should say 'this treaty we decline to carry out,' it would be different. A German policy of non-fulfillment would be a policy of immediate disaster.

"It is not a question of France acting alone, if there is defiance of the Versailles treaty. We are signatories to the treaty, which the House of Commons ratified. We are committed to it. In spite of all misrepresentations we still stand for the policy of moderation and fulfillment."

Strawberry Prices

If reports emanating from the other fruit districts in the province may be accepted as somewhere near accurate there would appear to be ample justification that exists amongst Valley strawberry growers that 1922 will prove a slightly more remunerative season that 1921.

Insofar as jam factory fruit is concerned there is every reason to feel good, as the deal has just been closed with the canners for a price of 10 cents a pound, as compared with a none too heavy demand of a year ago at seven cents.

Along with the improved price for the jam product comes word that the crop on the Island, particularly, is liable to be only 65 per cent. of last year, and that this shortage cannot possibly be made up by whatever increased acreage there may be at mainland points.

According to the market page editor of the Vancouver Prominceit now seems certain that unless wholesalers are prepared to pay at least $2.50 a crate growers will be better off to sell their berries to the factories which are contracted to take at least 270 tons, and to supply containers in which to ship the fruit.

Selling at 10 cents a pound growers will this year get only half the jam factory price of 1920, while in 1919 the price of jam berries was 17 cents. Should a minimum of $2.50 a crate be realized Valley growers will be about in the same position as they were in 1917 when the f.o.b. price Creston for the season averaged $2.57.

A Change for the Better

The change in policy of the forestry department from having a watchman on Goat Mountain and a patrol at West Creston for the summer months, to that of locating honorary patrols at central points in the Valley, who will only be paid for their services when actually required, should prove one that will assure greater efficiency and at the same time reduce fire-fighting costs in an average season—to say nothing at all of the added convenience afforded in the matter of securing burning permits.

In Creston Valley forester Moore has been particularly fortunate in securing in the different localities not only experienced men but also men who are thoroughly familiar with the areas assigned them and thus are in an excellent position to give the maximum of efficient fire fighting at the minimum of expense; their personality assuring them the services of capable volunteer firemen whenever needed.

That men of their calibre are willing to accept positions as honorary patrolmen, surely emphasizes the fact that the people generally are beginning to realize the valuable asset the province has in its forests and are thus ready to lend a hand in their conservation.

Appointments Well Made

In selecting James Jory to be at the head of forest fire patrol work in the Valley this year no better choice could possibly have been made from amongst the men who would appear to be competent to handle the job.

For several years prior to the Granby people ceasing operations in the Boundary country, Mr. Jory each season was employed by them at the same kind of work in their timber holdings in the country around Grand Forks—and that he was assigned this work year after year by the big corporation is the best possible testimony as to his being efficient.

Along with his practical experience Mr. Jory has war service with the 54th Battalion starting in 1915 and lasting until hostilities ceased, to which it might be added that he is one of Lister residents who have demonstrated that soldiers can become farmers and that there is no better spot than Camp Lister to work the transformation. At helping out in the musical line with entertainments no one could be more obliging than the new fire patrol.

On every count the position could not have been more worthily awarded—and there is no occasion for anyone to lose any sleep about his not making good.

Incidentally, we trust none will omit to give the provincial government full credit for looking after the returned men when permanent positions are to be given out. This year two such openings have occurred and in both cases veterans have been remembered: Jimmy Lockhead on the ferry and Mr. Jory as fire patrol.

With five evening and four afternoon programmes still to come season ticket buying is still good business—and will be up till Saturday night.

At the quarterly meeting of the shareholders of Creston Fruit Growers Union on Thursday night the big item of business was the discussion of the proposal to build a warehouse on the site acquired on Canyon street last fall. The intention is to erect one section of a warehouse that is designed to take care of the steadily increasing fruit output of the Valley, including frost proof storage capacity for at least a dozen cars of apples.

Messrs. Constable and Bevan made a trip to Bonnrrs Ferry on Monday expecting to be in that town for a conference reclamation superintendent Swensden of Idaho, and A. E. Cleveland the B.C. comptroller of water rights, are to have during the period of high water on the flats. Due to the Bonners Ferry authorities getting mixed in their dates the trip was a week too early as the conference will not take place until about the 20th.

While some of the other poultrymen in the Valley have been having indifferent results at chicken raising this year the W. V. Jackson ranch records show one of the best seasons yet. In the neighborhood of 500 chicks have been hatched by the old-time setting hen process and there has been a splendid demand for these Rose Comb Rhode Island Reds, no less than 360 day-old chicks having been disposed of, to say nothing of about 30 settings of eggs sold to other fanciers. Mrs. Jackson states that the "cluckers" averaged almost thirteen chicks from settings of fifteen eggs.

We were hardly seated when the train started with even more than the usual noise and the horses immediately tried to climb the elevator that stood a few feet to one side of the road. I clutched Mary's arm and choked back a scream. And when order was restored, "Livingstone" turned to us and said, apologetically but calmly, "I'll have to put these brutes on the plough, they are a trifle fresh." A trifle fresh!—our lazy old pony and the staid carriage-horses Mrs. Carstone used to send for "the Restory ladies" have left me with many things to learn, I can plainly see. How glad I am that I did not scream!

We were only a few moment reaching our destination, which was a fairly large two-storey wooden building, unpainted, but weather-stained to a lovely grey shade. A stout, energetic-looking woman came out as we drove up and welcomed us with a smile that would have put the Cheshire cat to shame.

"My, but I'm powerful glad to see you! I haven't had ladies to stay in my house since I came to Elba." And she helped us down, for "Livingstone" could not leave the horses that were a trifle fresh.

Then I turned to our driver, "Your charge?" But he became a beautiful terra-cotta colour, and with a hurried "The obligation is mine," he touched the horses with the whip and was off in a cloud of dust before I could decide whether he was offended, amused, or only shy.

Mrs. Mills (she had introduced herself by a graceful wave of her hand towards the sign-board, "I'm her") laughed aloud.

"Good Land, if that ain't the funniest thing I ever seen! Don Livingstone has got more money than you could shake a stick at, an' to think that you offered to pay him!" And she went off into another spasm.

"My friend has not been in the country long, and she does not understand all our ways," explained Mary with dignity.

"No offence, Miss, no offence! But come right in. You'll be tired with your trip, an 'a bite of dinner won't hurt you none, I'll warrant," said Mrs. Mills. And she caught up a bag in each hand and hurried inside, Mary and I following with becoming meekness.

The room we entered was large and airy, but beyond that little can be said in its favour. The floor was bare and none too clean, the walls were unplastered. The furniture consisted of a long narrow table, several chairs painted a bright yellow, and a stove that gave no evidence of having been polished since it left the factory. This was apparently the dining-room, for the end of the table was covered with a turkey-red cloth and laid for one.

Mrs. Mills never ceased talking.

"I'll have some dinner ready in a jiffy. Mr. Hartford—him as is the English Church missionary—ain't come for his yet, an' you can eat together! he'll be glad of company. Come right upstairs with me now and lay off your hats. Do you want one room or two?"

"One will do," said Mary. "We shall be here for only one night and we should like to be together."

"You could just as easy have two," replied Mrs. Mills, as she preceded us up the open stairs which rose from one side of the room. "Room's about all we've got here, and we've got lots of it—inside an' out. This house was built last summer when the railroad was being put through. All the men in the construction camp got their meals here an' some of the bosses slep'; but business is slow now, an' if it wasn't for the few steady boarders I've got, I'd be down an' out. But it's all in the game, an' the Lord helps them what helps themselves, an' they do say that an elevator gang is coming here next month, an' that will help the exchequer some, as Mr. Mills used to say." Mrs. Mills is apparently a philosopher in her own way.

"There's two empty rooms, an' you can have whichever one you want. Seeing as it's for ladies, I could wish they were more fancy like, but you'll sleep just as good I guess, Miss—— Land sakes! I'm that rattled that I clean forgot to ask your names!"

We gave the required information and then entered the first room. It contained an iron bed, a washstand on which was a basin and jug, and a small and uncomplimentary mirror. These things were what one might call the physical features, but in addition we saw two suitcases, rather the worse for wear, and—hanging on the row of hooks that did duty as wardrobe—several suits of men's clothes. Immediately the room took on a personality and I asked to see the other one.

"Them things," said Mrs. Mills in reply to my look of inquiry, "belongs to a drummer" "Travelling salesman," whispered Mary) "what stayed here for a week in the winter. I suspicioned from his loks that he weren't none to honest—he was one of them kind that his eyes would have run together if it hadn't been for his nose—an' sure enough, first thing I knew he went off on the afternoon train without paying his bill."

We crossed the hall to the second room, which was furnished in the same manner as the first one, but but which showed no traces of its former occupants.

"This will do nicely," I said. "And now, Mrs. Mills, if you could let us have dinner at once . . ."

"Bless your heart! I'm so glad to see a new face that I'd talk all day if somebody didn't put the brakes on," she interrupted. "But, being as you've reminded me, I'll go now. Come down to the dining-room just as soon as you're ready." And with this she hurried away.

In less time than it takes to write about it, Mary had opened her bag and taken from it a cake of soap and a roll of paper towels and raised the window to its full height; and then by a judicious distribution of our worldly goods she gave the room an almost homelike air.

"Wash your face and hands and tuck up your truant locks, Elinor," she advised. "And don't forget Mennens—an English Church missionary sounds rather interesting. Aside from its efficacy in the matter of sunburn, talcum powder is a great moral support."

As usual, I followed Mary's advice; and then sought in vain for a place in which to empty the water so that Mary might have her turn.

"What do you suppose an unscreened window is intended for?" asked that inventive young person. "Here, hand me the basin," and before I realized what she meant to do, she had spilled the water out of the window.

"Well," drawled a pleasant English voice from the ground below, "what tricks are you young scamps up to now? When I was a youth I was taught to respect the clergy, but in this enterprising country . . ."

I heard no more.

"Oh, Mary," I gasped, "that must be Mr. Hartford! Do you think you hit him?"

"I don't think so," she replied coolly, "and even if I did he will soon dry in this hot sunshine. Probably he was sent out here by the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel among the Heathen, and in that case he would expect scalping, at least—a little bit of cold water will not hurt him."

Indoor Life

Spending more time indoors makes women far more subject to constipation than men.

The liver becomes sluggish and torpid, the bowels constipated and the system poisoned by impurities.

If you would get away from the myriads of ills which result from constipation, it is only necessary to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

The benefits from their use are as lasting as they are prompt and certain.

Mrs. John Barry, 18 St. Amable Street, Quebec, Que., writes:

"This is to certify that I was troubled for years with constipation and tried all kinds of medicines without relief. At last my husband suggested that I try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I did so, and must say that they have given me more relief than all the medicine I have taken during the last fifteen years. I may also add that I have used Dr. Chase's Ointment for piles with excellent results."

Further innovations in extending the exports of the Pacific port are reported. The experiment of sending frozen fish to New York, via the Panama Canal, was successful in every respect and a second ship has left with a further consignment of 350 tons for the same market. For the first time British Columbia lead and spelter has been shipped from the port of Vancouver to Europe via the Panama, and large quantities will in future go forward to Belgium and the United Kingdom.

Baby Specialists.

THAT there are Physicians who specialize on Infant ailments you know. All Physicians understand Infant troubles: all Physicians treat them. It is his profession, his duty, to know human ills from the Stork to the Great Beyond.

But in serious cases he calls in the Specialist. Why? He knows as every Mother knows, or ought to know, that Baby is just a baby, needing special treatment, special remedies.

Can a Mother be less thoughtful? Can a Mother try to relieve Baby with a remedy that she would use for herself? Ask yourself; and answer honestly!

Always remember that Baby is just a baby. And remembering this you will remember that Fletcher's Castoria is made especially for Infants and Children.

Exact Copy of Wrapper.

The False and the True.

Advertising by the use of large space, the expenditure of huge sums of money have placed on the market, have put in your home, perhaps, many articles that today have been discarded, as you will readily admit.

Do you recall anything that has more modestly appealed to the public than has Fletcher's Castoria: modest in all its claims, pleading at all times—and truthfully—for our babies?

The big splurg, the misleading claims may win for a time, but the honest truth-telling advertiser is like the old story of the tortoise that beat the hare.

Mothers everywhere, and their daughters, now mothers, speak frankly, glowingly, enthusiastically in praise of Fletcher's Castoria. Speak of it lovingly as a friend that has brought comfort, cheer and smiles to their little-one.

To them: to these true mothers no argument can induce them to set aside their bottle of Castoria, their old friend, that they might try even another and unknown remedy for babies. Then, would YOU think of going to YOUR OWN medicine chest to find relief for Baby's troubles? Can you not separate the false from the true?

Government of Queensland Forced to Protect its Gem Miners

To the rubies, opals, emeralds and blue sapphires mined in the State of Queensland which have long had their principal market in Paris have been added discoveries of orange sapphires. The gems are sold in Europe at such high prices that the amount paid to the miner is poor by comparison. The miners have now asked the Government to pool the gems and market them on community account.

THIN BLOODED PEOPLE

Need a Tonic to Enrich the Blood and Restore the Health.

Some people have a tendency to become thin-blooded, just as others have an inherited tendency to rheumatism, or to nervous disorders. The condition in which the blood becomes so thin that the whole body suffers, comes on so gradually that anyone with a natural disposition in that direction should watch the symptoms carefully. Bloodlessness, or anaemia, as the medical term is, can be corrected more easily in the earlier stages than later. It begins with a tired feeling that rest does not overcome, the complexion becomes pale and breathlessness on slight exertion, such as going up stairs, is noticed.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a home remedy that has been most successful in the treatment of troubles due to thin blood. With pure air and good food these blood-enriching pills are the correct treatment when the symptoms described are noticed. The value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases of this kind is shown by the statement of Mrs. M. Chase, of Trenton, Ont., who says:—"I can highly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to all who suffer from anaemia and nervous exhaustion. For three years I was nearly always troubled with headaches, and until I began taking these pills no treatment seemed to do more than give me temporary relief. I had read of what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were doing for others and finally decided to try them myself. I further decided to give them a fair trial and kept on taking them regularly for several months and I am glad to say have derived permanent relief. I feel that I can safely and honestly recommend this wonderful medicine."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail, at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The doctor advised them to give me Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and I took several bottles of it and was restored to absolutely perfect health. I later took Favorite Prescription as a tonic and nervine and received great benefit from it. As a woman's medicine it is unequalled."—Mrs. Jennie Dalton, 767 York St.

Chautauqua Opens

Just as the Review goes to press this (Thursday) afternoon the first session of Creston's six-day Chautauqua opens at the big brown tent, with an attendance almost equal to last year. Reports from all centres west of here where Chautauqua has already been heard are to the effect that taken all round the 1922 programmes are much superior to the entertainment dispensed last season, and that any who have seen the first programme have always come back to enjoy all the others. Under these circumstances it is at once apparent that those who have not bought a season ticket will do well to do so, and thus effect a considerable saving of money. There are still a few tickets left, which may be had at the Norris Bakery. As compared with paying single admissions to the evening shows alone a season ticket is a good buy up till the opening of the Saturday night progrmme.

Sirdar

Miss Myrtle Goodman got home on Sunday after a visit of several weeks at southern points. Friends will be glad to hear that she is rapidly regaining her former health.

The two work trains that have been operating here the past two months hauling material from Kitchener for the trestle fill at the Landing, finished the job on Thursday last, and left immediately for Cranbrook.

With the disappearance of the work trains the yard crew is now working day shift, much to the delight of the train hands as well as the barge employees.

Miss Lewis of Eastport, Idaho, was a week-end visitor with Mrs. Sid McCabe.

Jim Cook of Creston was a visitor with Yardmaster Loasby a couple of days early in the week, combining pleasure with the sale of Chautauqua season tickets.

Miss Hazel McClland of Boswell was a week-end visitor with Sirdar friends.

The Sirdar-Kuskanook road is now in quite good shape, and now that it has been attended to it is to be hoped attention will be given the highway between here and Duck Creek. In places it is dangerous to travel even in daytime, while at night it is just that much riskier. In addition to general fixing up a little widening out in places would be the right thing to do.

June 19th will probably see the first crate of export strawberries out of Sirdar, and from all accounts this point will again carry off the honors for being the earliest Valley shipper of this fruit.
