THE CRESTON REVIEW

Vol. XIV. CRESTON, B. C., FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 8, 1922 No. 31

Sirdar

Mrs. Wright and two children and Miss McDonald of Calgary, Alta., who have been guests of Mrs. Jones at Kuskanook for the past few weeks, left for their home the latter part of August.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Manahan of Cranbrook were visitors here for a few days last week, being amongst the out-of town guests at the Goodman-Proctor wedding on Thursday.

School opened with the usual good attendance on Tuesday with Miss Irene Schmidt of Rossland in charge. She has had charge of the Kitchener school the past two years and the trustees are fortunate in securing a teacher of her proven ability.

Mrs. Loasby was a visitor with Cranbrook friends for several days the latter part of the week.

Mrs. W. Bradley of Cranbrook was a Sirdar visitor last week, the guest of Mrs. T. Rodgers.

The work train is again on the job of completing fill operations at the Landing, the haul of rock now being from Yahk. While these trains are on the go the yard crew are operating at night once more.

Rev. H. Varley was here on Sunday morning for the usual Church of England service, and Archdeacon Graham will take the evening service on Sunday, 17th.

Joe Daly was a visitor at Waldo the latter part of the month attending shareholers meeting of the Baker Lumber Compeny. The jaunt has helped materially in restoring his mental equlibrium, which was decidedly off its humorous balance following the disastrous result of the Cranbrook bye-election.

The residences of R. Dennes and Geo. Cam present a decidedly improved appearance due to recent improvements. The former has had a one-story addition put to it, while the latter is resplendent in a new coat of paint.

Mrs. Sid McCabe and children have been holidaying with friends in Cranbrook for a few days.

Donald Moore, who spent most of the summer here with Mr. and Mrs. Loasby, left for his home in Vancouver at the end of the week.

The tug Valhalla with Capt. Ferguson in charge is again back on the Proctor Landing barge run, after being in the shipyards for about three months for a complete overhauling.

Fruit and vegetable shipping is heavy at present, with the Mannerino ranch going strong on peaches, pears and plums and S. Pascuzzo heavy to tomatoes and peppers. The North ranch is also moving considerable quantities of tomatoes, and reports coming from Fernie are to the effect that the Yellow Transparent apples shipped by Mr. North were the best seen in that town this year.

Mrs. R. and Miss McBurney of Cranbrook were here for their annual weeks holidays with Sirdar friends the latter part of the month stopping at the C.P.R. boarding house.

Ben Whitesides, who has been in charge of an engine on a work train operrting at Elko for some weeks, was home for a few days la-t week.

An extra gang of about twenty Doukhobors are at work at general repir at Kootenay Landing at present. This is about the first time on record that the Douks have tackled railroad work in this section.

The new general store of B. Whitesides opened for business last week, with a line of general merchandise, and also operating an ice cream and refreshment parlor. Miss Hazel McLelland is in charge.

Strawberries and cream are still features of the menu at the ranch of Mrs. Jones at Kuskanook according to Rev. H. Varley, who was a visitor at that place on Saturday night and very much enjoyed a liberal supply of this fruit for supper that evening.

A quiet house wedding was solemnized by Rev. H. Varley on Thursday morning last when Miss Hazel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Goodman was united in marriage with Roy Proctor of Cranbrook. the happy event being witnessed by a small party of the immediate relatives of the contracting parties, the wedded couple leaving on the noon train on a trip east, after which they will make their home in Cranbrook. The evening previous Mr. and Mrs. Goodman entertained at a dance in the new Whitesides hall, the affair being attended by a large number of guests excellent music being provided by Mrs. Foreman of Creston, Miss Margeory Goodman, and others, with an excellent supper at midnight.

Alice Siding

Mrs. H. F Wood returned on Sunday from Spokane, where she had been for a few days consulting a specialist regarding her eyes.

F. W. Ash is in charge of the post office at Creston for a few days this week, Mr. Gibbs being at Nelson on a business visit.

School re opened on Tuesday with Mr. Lallemond in charge. He arrived on Friday and is at present stopping with John Johnson.

Mrs. R. Alderson of Hosmer arrived last week to help with the fruit harvesting operations on the Alderson ranch.

W. Gregory, who has been visiting with J. W. Parkin for some time, returned to Michel a few days ago.

Squirrels are more numerous than usual in this section this year, and are doing considerable damage to all kinds of tree fruits.

Mrs. Downs of Michel is an Alice Siding visitor at present, the guest of Mrs. Alderson.

P. Andestad has the new residence on the school grounds well on to completion and the teacher will be occupying it in a few days.

Showery weather over the week-end halted having operations for a few days, and since then the atmosphere has been cooler and cloudy and the make of hay has slowed up considerably.

Some of the local gun experts were out over the week-end trying the first of the season's hunting, and report duck rather plentiful.

H. West received a sudden call to Cardston, Alta. the latter part of the week, due to the serious illness of his mother.

A streak of sunny weather following this rainy spell will be most welcome in putting the color on the winter apples. Wealthies are moving now and are not up to the usual color standard.

Wyndel

A wedding of great interest to the people of this section was solemnized at Christ Church, Creston, on Tuesday afternoon, with Rev. H. Varley officiating, when Miss Nathorst was united in marriage to Mr. Davidge, both of the contracting parties being residents of Wyndel. The bride was gowned in white crepe silk with hat to match, and the couple were attended by two flower girls, little Misses Dolly Smith and Nonnie Miller, neices of the bride, the church being prettily decorated for the occasion, and quite a large number of friends present to witness the happy event. After the ceremony the happy couple and invited guests adjourned to the home of Mrs. M. Young, Creston, an aunt of the bride, where the wedding dinner was spread, following which Mr. and Mrs. Davidge left on a honeymoon trip to points along Kootenay Lake. A host of friends here extend best wishes for a long and happy union.

Mr. Thurgood of Nakusp, who has been here for the past two months in charge of building operations on the new two-room school, finished the job at noon on Monday, and with his men left the same afternoon for their homes. The school has a very nifty exterior and each room will seat 40 pupils. School re opened on Tuesday morning in the new building with Miss Torliss again in charge as principal, and Mrs. Broley taking the lower room. We hear, however, Mrs. Broley is not remaining permanently, and will be leaving as soon as the trustees can secure a successor to her.

Announcement is made that the Sunday school will resume operations again at 2 p.m., Sunday, Sept. 10th, and that Presbyterian Church service will be resumed for the fall and winter at 3 p.m. the same Sunday, with Rev. J. A. James in charge.

Murdock McLeod, the well known Cranbrook eye specialist, will visit Wyndel professionally to-morrow, Saturday, Sept. 9th. All suffering from eye trouble should consult him.

Local and Personal

FOR SALE—Chester White pigs, 7 weeks old, $6 apiece. J. Kelly, (Andy Miller ranch) Creston.

The Auto Knitter will make good socks cheaply, or re-foot worn ones. 50c. for making, and 25c. for re footing. Let me do it. Muriel Knott.

Harold Payne, who has been on the Norris bakery staff the past two months, left on Sunday for Calgary, Alta., where he is taking a commercial course in the Garbutt business college. Miss Gladys Wood replaces him on the bakery sales staff.

The rainy weather of the past week has halted the oiling of Canyon street but if moderately fine atmosphere conditions prevail the oil coating will be put down as far as the Grand theatre and the dust nuisance eliminated for at least this year.

A. Spencer, accountant at the Fruit Growers Union, was at Nelson on Friday for a conference with O.U.G. officials, familiarizing with the office methods that have been inaugurated under the affiliation with the big Okanagan organization.

The September meeting of the board of trade will be held on Tuesday night and all members are asked to attend as it is hoped to make arrangements for a visit of local business men to Bonners Ferry for the fall fair in that town on October 6th.

The two charges against the Dominion Liquor Company, which were set down for hearing on Tuesday, have been adjourned until to-day. The case promises to be a noted one as the defence is bringing in counsel from Vancouver to look after their interests.

M. J. Boyd made his final inspection of the new two room school at Wyndel, which was turned over to the trustees on Monday and used for the first time on Tuesday. Each room will seat at least 40 pupils, and the building complete cost almost $5000.

The town was pretty well deserted on Labor Day, the two Sunday school picnics accounting for the absence of the youngsters, while many of the adults were out trying the first of the season's shooting and report ducks more numerous than usual at this time of year.

With haying operations under way and a Sunday service also provided Jimmy Lockhead is having quite a busy time of it on the ferry. The statement for August shows that the ferry made 615 round trips during the month, and in the way of passengers carried very close to 1400 humans, 152 autos were transported, 170 double rigs and 89 saddle ponies.

At the Kootenay-Boundary Women's Institutes' annual conference at Nelson last week, Mrs. Lyne was again chosen as the district's representative on the advisory board as well as being named a member of the committee on Immigration. Mrs. J. W. Hamilton was favored with a place on the committee on child welfare.

Miss Eudice Moore got back from Nelson last week where she has been a patient in the general hospital for the past month. Her sister, Miss Katherine Moore, teacher of Division IV., who also spent some time in the same hospital, is getting around nicely and was able to resume her position on the teaching staff when school opened Tuesday.

The threatening weather in the early evening kept down the attendance at the board of trade dance in the Grand theatre ballroom on Monday night, but the fifty couple present had a most enjoyable evening. the floor being in perfect shape and excellent music was provided by Mesdames Lister and Foreman and Alex. Lidgate, while the supper served by Caterer Norris was of the best.

School Re-Opens

Creston's high and public schools re-opened after the summer vacation on Tuesday morning with the usual opening day attendance of pupils and the full staff of seven teachers on hand.

At the high school the turnout of scholars from both town and the adjoining districts was smaller than anticipated, hardly a dozen being in attendance from the nearby school sections. The senior room of the high school will continue in the quarters always occupied, while the vice-principal, Mr. Siddons, will occupy the former Division I. of the public school. Public school principal Smith this year will instruct the young idea in what was Division II room a year ago, and all the other divisions are similarly shifted, with Division IV. and the primary classes in the new two room school built a year ago. The new faces on the public school staff are Miss Vickers of Salmon Arm, who replaces vice-principal Pearce; Miss Wade of Cloverdale, who succeeds Miss Davidson in Division III., and Miss Creighton of Sidney, who has the primary room in place of Miss Verreau.

FOR SALE—Jersey cow, 4½ years old, second calf, $65. A. S. Evans, Camp Lister.

Erickson

Mrs. Frank Staples was home for a few days from Cranbrook at the fore part of the week, where she has been visiting friends.

Frank Palmer is a business visitor at Nelson a few days this week.

The Sunday school resumed operations after the summer shutdown on Sunday with quite a good turnout of children but not enough teachers to do really effective work.

The staff of packers commenced the season's operations at the Staples Fruit Company warehouse at the end of the month, with Fred Waylett again in charge.

School re-opened on Tuesday morning with a representative turnout of scholars considering the busy season. Miss Vaughan is again in charge, with Miss Holmes as assistant.

Dick Penson, Edith Palfreyman Katherine Littlejohn and Marguerite Clark are the Erickson representatives at the Creston High school, which opened on Tuesday. It's a case of "put me amongst the girls" for Dick, who is the only boy in a class of nine.

Frank Botterill and Gerald Timmons, who have been working at Kellog, Idaho, for some weeks, arrived home a few days ago.

On her return from Cranbrook on Sunday Mrs. Staples was surprised to find that during the time the house had been closed the place had been burglarized apparently on two occasions, on one which entrance was gained through the sleeping porch. So far we can learn any loss sustained was not serious; in fact it is hard to account for the home being invaded at

Safety First

"Safety first" is a good third on a maxim in most things, but particularly so in the investment of money. The rich may afford to speculate and to take the attendant on high rates of interest. Those whose means are moderate must be careful to see that there is absolute security in their investments. For such people there is no other form of investment which takes such a high rank, combining absolute security liberal interest, as the bonds of the Dominion of Canada. Holders of Dominion bonds bearing five and a half per cent, maturing December 1, 1922, can re-invest their money at the same rate of interest by exchanging the old bonds for new ones running for either five years, or ten years, as the bondholder may prefer. Arrangements for carrying out this exchange can be made through all the banks.

Don't Squeeze

The failure to organize a Wheat Board to assume full charge of the marketing of this season's grain crop in Western Canada leaves the situation this year much the same as a year ago when a slump in prices took place as soon as the grain began to be placed on the market. The fall in prices was so great as to completely wipe out, in thousands of instances, the farmers' profit and to bring the selling price actually below the cost of production. Notwithstanding a fairly good yield in many parts of the West last year farmers sustained financial loss.

Now with the 1922 wheat crop about to be marketed, and with the best crop since the banner year of 1915 to be sold, it is of the utmost importance that this huge volume of wheat should not be forced on to the market at once, the inevitable result of which would be to cause a "break" in prices that would be disastrous and spell ruin to many people.

But, in the absence of a Wheat Board, is it possible to check and control the marketing of grain by tens of thousands of individual farmers? These farmers have contracted debts they must pay—and are anxious to pay. The Fall and early Winter months, following the harvest, is the period for the liquidation of liabilities. Banks, mortgage companies, implement companies, merchants and individual creditors all expect and call on the farmer to "pay up" at this time and each and all usually proceed with measures to "collect." The wholesaler and jobber who has extended credit to merchants on the strength of the credit the merchant has given to farmers makes demand for his money, thus leaving the merchant no option but to press the farmer. And the wholesaler is forced to do this, because the manufacturer is calling upon him to retire his notes. And back of the manufacturer is the Bank which advanced large loans to enable him to keep his factory busy and his men employed during the season when little ready money was coming in. The Banks, too, have made advances not only to the manufacturers, but all down the line to wholesalers, jobbers, merchants and farmers, and have financed mortgage and other companies during a period when they could not collect even interst in many cases not to mention principal sums.

Everybody will recognize, of course, that the Banks cannot go on indefinitely advancing money on loan unless such loans are repaid and periodically there is a general liquidation of outstanding liabilities. Only so can Banks function properly, the interests of depositors be safeguarded, and the financial stability of the country be maintained.

While fully realizing these things there is a factor in the present situation that must be taken into account if irreparable loss is not to be inflicted, not on the farmer alone, but upon every national interest, the Banks and other large financial institutions not excepted.

This season's Western crop should be a debt reducing crop. Rightly handled it will accomplish that purpose in large measure. The fact must be appreciated, however, that one good crop will not offset the liabilities incurred during four or five years of poor crops or no crops at all. And if the pressure to secure collection of debts in all quarters is so great as to compel farmers to market their grain as rapidly as it is threshed, the market will be so glutted that prices will fall below a figure where any profit is left for the farmer. If the farmer derives no profit from his year's labor, and but barely succeeds in covering the costs of production, there will be nothing wherewith to reduce the present burden of debt.

If because of shortsightedness in attempts at debt collection wheat is forced on the market beyond the ability of the market to absorb and a bad break in prices results, the farmers' profits will disappear and with the disappearance of those profits his ability to pay his debts. Failure on the part of the farmer to pay will react immediately on merchant, wholesaler, manufacturer and Bank, and ultimately on the nation as a whole.

It, therefore, is not in the interests of the farmer alone that every effort should be made, and every device provided, to render unnecessary the dumping of the crop on the market immediately following threshing. It is as much in the interest of the Eastern manufacturer and financier as it is in the interest of the Western farmer that wheat prices be maintained. It is likewise in the interest of the city artizan and laborer. Cheap wheat might result in a slight lowering in the cost of bread, but a few cents less for bread would not compensate for loss of employment due to a slowing up or shutting down of industrial plants and other works caused by financial stringency.

On the other hand, the gradual marketing of wheat, the maintenance of fair prices, and consequent profit to the farmer will enable the latter to pay a portion of his accumulated debts and thus ease the financial situation all along the line and operate to restore confidence and re-establish credit.

OVERWORKED NERVES

The Most Successful Treatment is Through the Blood

The early stages of nervous debility are noted by restlessness and irritability in which the victims seem to be oppressed by their nerves. As the trouble advances, common symptoms are a tired feeling; weakness in the knees and ankles; headaches, backaches and sleeplessness. The matter requires immediate attention, for nothing but suitable treatment will prevent a complete breakdown.

The nervous system governs the whole body, controlling heart, lungs, digestion and brain, so that it is not surprising that nervous disturbances cause acute distress. For troubles of this kind Dr. Williams' Pink Pills succeed when other treatment fails, for these pills make new blood, enriched with the elements on which the nerves thrive, and in this way reach the root of the trouble. In proof of this is the statement of Mrs. Dockerill, Stratford, Ont., who says:—"My daughter, Matilda, was suffering from nervous debility, and the usual remedies did not seem to help her. I was advised by a friend to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial, and soon we found they were doing her a great deal of good. She complained of pains in the stomach, and a severe fluttering of the heart, with a general weakness. Under the use of these pills she continued to gain, and I believe they have saved her from going into a decline."

You can get these Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Mt. Everest Named After Englishman

British Official Was Head of Survey Department in India.

It is surprising to learn that the man whose name was given to the highest mountain in the world lived so recently that his son is still alive.

One is apt to think of the names of places as they were of immemorial antiquity. Yet it was only in 1856 that this mountain received its name; it was called after a British official in India who afterwards became Sir George Everest. It was called in Tibetan, the language of the district in which it lies, Jomo-Kang-Kar, or Chomo-lung-ma, no one quite knew which.

Sir George Everest was head of the Indian survey, a department concerned with mapping the whole country. He was so deeply interested in his work that, when he was once on a holiday at the Cape, he examined into the survey of that colony as it was then, and discovered mistakes which made it necessary to make a fresh survey.

Asiatic Yak at Wainwright

A number of Asiatic yak have been added to the animal herds at the National Park at Wainwright, Alberta. It is expected they will be crossed with the buffalo and produce a useful hybrid, an experiment that will be watched with interest by zoologists.

How Does This Strike Your Fancy?

Favorably, I am sure. For who is the woman that would pass this costume by without an exclamation of approval? She would be mighty hard to find. It is like a gorgeous orange and white butterfly. Heavy crepe is material of which it is fashioned. It is a costume that is ideal for the broadwalk.

Gentle Hint

"Physical culture, father, is perfectly lovely!" exclaimed an enthusiastic young miss just home from college. "Look! To develop the arms I grasp this rod in both hands and move it slowly from right to left."

"Well, well," replied dad admiringly, "what won't science discover next? Why, if that rod had straw on the other end you'd be sweeping."—American Legion Weekly.

Relief from Asthma. Who can describe the complete relief from suffering which follows the use of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy? Who can express the feeling of joy that comes when its soft and gentle influence relieves the tightened, choking air tubes? It has made asthmatic affliction a thing of the past for thousands. It never fails. Good druggists everywhere have sold it for years.

Comfort

"Carry the news to my wife," gasped the injured man. "Tell her I am fatally hurt, but say something comforting to her."

"I will," said the policeman. "I'll tell her you had the right of way."—Detroit Free Press.

Its Quality Sells It.—The fact that so many thousands of intelligent people continue to use Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil speaks volumes for its healing efficiency. Ever since it was first introduced it has grown steadily in public favor, owing entirely to its manifold usefulness in relieving and healing sickness. As a specific for cuts, burns, scalds and various inflammatory pains its record is beyond reproach.

Giant World Bank Proposed

A plan for an international bank with a capital of $2,400,000,000, which would revolutionize the methods of conducting international commercial transactions, was advanced by Senator Hitchcock, Nebraska, in a speech before the mid-summer convention of the National Retail Dry Goods Association at Grand Central Palace, New York. Under Senator Hitchcock's proposal, which startled his hearers, paper issued by the projected bank would be substituted for gold as the basis of international credit.

National Loss Is Suffered By Ireland In Death Of Collins

London.—The death of Michael Collins, who has fallen in actual combat with the rebels as one of the first victims of the substitute plan of guerilla warfare for organized resistance to Provisional Government, has impressed the British public far more than did even the death of Arthur Griffith, while the circumstances of his death, fighting against desperate odds in a carefully arranged ambush during the course of an inspection of his troops position around Cork, adds to the halo surrounding his lamented death.

His daring and his personal attractiveness, combined with his adventurous career and his reputation as a courageous fighter, as well as a prudent administrator, helped to give him prominence and importance in the public eye, which was not shared to anything like the same extent by Griffith, who really was little known to the British people, and whose retiring nature did not lend itself to public demonstrations.

The British press is filled with tributes, personal sketches, and of the hair-breadth escapes of the commander-in-chief, together with tributes to his loyalty in carrying out the conditions of the treaty he signed with Great Britain. Prominent men at home and abroad, from the Prime Minister down, hastened to pay tributes of condolence and respect.

When Arthur Griffith died, it was the subject of general comment that his life's work was virtually accomplished and his ideals achieved. With Michael Collins, his work was still to do, and perhaps the question most exercising the British public is what will follow upon the tragic disappearance of the two most important Irish Free State leaders. It is pointed out that of the five principals signing the Anglo-Irish treaty, only one now remains in the Free State Government, Eamonn J. Duggan. Of the other signatories, Griffith and Collins are dead, George G. O'Duffy resigned because he disapproved the draft of the constitution, while Richard Barton long since dropped out of the Government.

Mr. Lloyd George issued the following statement for publication: "I am inexpressably sad at the news of the death of this gallant young Irishman. He fell a victim to a treacherous blow, delivered when he was engaged in endeavoring to restore order and liberty to his country, which stands sadly in need of it. His engaging personality won friendship even amongst those who met him as foes, and to all who met him the news of his death comes as a personal sorrow.

"I sincerely hope his death will be the last episode in this dark chapter of Irish history and that a new and brighter story will henceforth be written in the life of that unfortunate land."

Lord Chancellor Birkenhead, Winston Churchill and Viscount Fitzalen were among the men prominent in British public life who have sent messages to Mr. Cosgrove, sympathizing with the Free State Government in its loss.

According to a Dublin dispatch to the Press Association, General Collins was to have been married this month.

Another Seed Grain Marketing System

Will be Undertaken by Alberta Department of Agriculture

Edmonton.—Making the third marketing system to be established by the administration, marketing of seed grain on an extensive scale and in accordance with a plan seeking to encourage the production of pure seed in Alberta is to be undertaken by the Provincial Department of Agriculture as a result of arrangements completed and which have no received the approval of the Hon. George Hoadley, Minister of Agriculture. The announcement of the new scheme has bon made by H. A. Craig, Deputy Minister. It follows the Government's operations in butter and egg marketing.

To Assist Farmers

Saskatchewan Premier Has Feasible Plan to Prevent Glutting Wheat Market

Regina, Sask.—A concrete suggestion outlining the method which might be adopted by the banks to assist the farmers to market their grain in such a manner as to prevent the glutting of the wheat market and a consequent depression in prices was telegraphed to Hon. W. L. MacKenzie King, by Premier Charles A. Dunning.

Pointing out that the banks stand "at the base of the pyramid of credit," Mr. Dunning suggested that "if they could devise means of extending portions of amounts due them from all creditors, to enable more gradual liquidation, he feels sure that the effect would be felt through all classes of creditors "down to the farmers and probably prevent slaughter of wheat prices."

Mr. Dunning points out that merchants as well as farmers stand creditors to the banks in considerable sums of money, and his proposal involves a gradual liquidation of their bank indebtedness by all creditors, thus eliminating the necessity for merchants and other crowding the farmers for cash payments early in the fall.

The telegram to Premier MacKenzie King, follows the receipt by Mr. Dunning, of a communication from Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor, representing the Canadian Bankers' Association, in which Sir Frederick announces that the banks will furnish "all proper banking accommodation to care for this year's crop," coupled with his personal assurance "that the banks will show the farmers every proper consideration, being deeply interested in the welfare of their customers and the prosperity of your province."

Railway Freight Shed Destroyed by Fire

Loss at Fort William Nearly Two Hundred Thousand Dollars

Fort William, Ont.—No. 3 freight shed of the Canadian Pacific Railway was practically destroyed by fire Aug. 20. The flames were kept from spreading into No. 2 shed which is separated by a fire wall from No. 3. The fire also spread to several box cars in the yard.

No. 3 shed and contents are completely destroyed and between 25 and 30 empty box cars are also a total loss. The shed contained 7,000 bags of cement, 1,000 tons of nails, several hundred tons of binder twine, some iron pipe and a quantity of miscellaneous freight. The bow of the steamer Kenora, which was tied to the dock, was badly scorched before she could be moved from the vicinity of the fire.

No information can be obtained as to where the fire started. Two Italians, who claim that they were the first to give the alarm, state that the shed was on fire when they first saw the flames, but others says that the first blaze originated in one of the box cars standing by the shed and spread to the buildings.

No records of the cost of the burned sheds are available in Fort William, but it is estimated that it could not be replaced for less than $70,000, and the cars are damaged to the extent of at least another $25,000. With the contents of the freight sheds the loss in the fire will probably total between $150,000 and $200,000.

Says Western Coal Strike Over

Strike of Alberta Miners Has Been Virtually Settled

Calgary.—The Alberta coal strike was practically settled, when the executive of the miners and the operators came to terms on an agreement which provides:

(1) Reduction of 15 per cent. on the old scale, which will be superceded as soon as 75 per cent. of the operators in United States soft coal fields sign an agreement.

(2) The agreement shall be in effect until March 31 next.

The agreement must be submitted to a referendum of the men, but the officials say that is largely a matter of form, as it will be endorsed.

The miners expect to be back in the mines almost immediately.

Both miners and operators admit that the agreement practically means that the men are going back without any reduction, because either 70 per cent. of the operators across the line have either signed up or will be signed up by the end of the week. The agreement signed accordingly means that the Cleveland agreement has been accepted.

Report Finding Ontario Gold

Sudbury.—What is considered to be one of the most sensational finds of gold ever made in the Sudbury district is on exhibition here. It is a piece of rock about 16 inches in length and eight inches thick, and pure gold is easily visible. It was found a few days ago, about 40 miles north of this town.

Lost in Labrador

Vancouver, B.C.—Miss Marguerite Lindsay disappeared a few days ago from Grenfell Mission, Cartwright, Labrador, and her friends believe that she was drowned, according to a message received here by Mrs. Herbert Drummond, Miss Lindsay's aunt. Details are to follow by letter. Miss Lindsay's father resides in Montreal.

Western Wheat Will Be Shipped In Future Through Canadian Ports

Ottawa. — Following investigations of complaints made to the Department of Trade and Commerce here regarding the grades of grain received in England after shipment from Western Canada via United States ports and the taking up of similar questions with the British grain importers during the visit of Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Trade and Commerce, to Britain, it is expected that steps will be taken to try and secure the shipment of a greater percentage of Canadian wheat through Canadian ports than previously.

Occasionally complaints have been received by the department from British importers that grain received by them from Canada was not up to the standard of Canadian grades.

Investigation of several complaints was made during the past year and it was found that the grain in question had been shipped to the old country through United States ports and that in the trans-shipment at American elevators wheat of inferior quality had become mixed with the Canadian product. This feature was taken up by Mr. Robb while in England and it is understood that some of the British importers made vigorous objections to the present system of exporting. They were satisfied with the Canadian grading system, but claimed that when the grain was not shipped directly through Canadian ports they were not certain that their grain would be equal to the standard grade which they had contracted for.

The outcome of the conference is expected to be a further development of elevator facilities at Canadian ports in order that as much Canadian grain as possible may be shipped direct and there also is a possibility that Canadian exporters, in order to protect the high standard of Canadian breadstuffs in the world markets, may be asked to bond their exports when they are shipped through foreign ports.

Serious Economic Situation in Ireland

Destruction by Irregulars Has Completely Disrupted Business

Dublin.—Grave economic conditions have come rapidly in the wake of the policy of destruction of the irregulars in West Ireland. The collapse of some of the bigger business concerns has only been averted, it is declared, by steady support from banks, but the fact that the farmers and others have been unable to pay the interest on their advances for many months is bringing about a position in which the bankers may be compelled to take action.

Business prospects are extremely bad; prices of produce are falling rapidly, and the export trade, upon which the farmers depend, is suffering acutely from the dislocation of traffic caused by the destruction of railways and bridges. Perishable products, such as butter, are spoiling, as there are no facilities for cold storage. Until normal conditions return the output of the creameries must be curtailed.

Murder Plan In Egypt

One Englishman a Day Until Nationalist Leader is Returned

Alexandria, Egypt.—The recent attack in this city on Lieutenant-Colonel Arthur Frederick Hamilton Pigott was the sixteenth case in the series of murderous assaults upon British subjects in Egypt. It called again to mind the threat of the nationalists that an Englishman would be shot daily until the return of Said Zagloul Pasha, the Nationalist leader who was deported by the British last December, and it is the latest addition to the extended chain of anti-British political outrages.

Lieutenant-Colonel Pigott, of the Royal Army Pay Corps, was shot and gravely wounded in Kadi el Fadl Street by unknown asasilants while walking to his office. He was taken immediately into the house of an Egyptian doctor, M. Abdel Meguid at No. 1 Kadi el Fadl Street, and was given first aid, being afterward transported to the Officers' Hospital at Abbassieh where one of the three bullets which had hit him was extracted.

Hopes are entertained of his recovery, but this new crime has aroused great indignation among the European population in Egypt.

Why Short Skirts Must Go

It now appears that the decrease in marriage is not entirely due to excessive living costs, high rents, scaricity of houses, nor anything of that nature at all; this on the authority of Editor Walker of the Enderby Commoner who has it figured out that Cupid's poor showing was largely due to another and almost unexpected cause, which Mr. Walker elucidates in this fashion:

"The flapper soon will be a thing of the past. Short skirts and the display of legs has not come to stay. In fact, at the coast cities, we are told, they are rapidly returning to the swish of long skirts. And the reason given for the rapid change is because men refuse to marry scantily-garbed girls. And in the interest of matrimony—the ultimate aim of every girl—modern femininity is bundling up so it can again mystify man into a trip to the altar.

"When girls, by self-revealment, cease to be mysterious, men no longer wish to marry them," is the way Andrew Tridon, the famous French psychologist, put it when asked to analyze the change of style back to long skirts. "Women found they were matrimonially undesirable and that there are things that attract men far more than semi-nudity. Clothes have long been a secondary characteristic of women, as men's interest wanes. The flapper, therefore, to escape spinsterhood, is returning to the good old age of feminine mystery. In the future, something will be left to the imagination."

The High School Situation

While "Champion's" letter of last week, suggesting that another meeting of the ratepayers of Creston school district should be convened in order to get a majority vote in favor of providing high school tuition free to children of outside school districts, is not like to be taken at all seriously by the ratepayers directly affected, it is to be hoped that the Valley's high school situation will not be dismissed for another year without some serious effort being made by the adjoining districts particularly, to remedy matters as they stand today regarding higher education locally.

At the special ratepayers' meeting "Champion" mentions a resolution was unanimously adopted that the Creston trustees would be pleased to co operate in every possible way in the matter of establishing a consolidated high school at Creston. Further than this it would be unreasonable to even expect them to go.

For a few years a two room high school will meet the needs of the Creston school district, but it is equally certain that with the prospect of a heavy promotion into both rooms of the high school as a result of the next midsummer examinations, a year hence it will be impossible to take care of scholars from the other Valley school districts, unless a third room is opened.

If the situation is to be permanently remedied the next move is up to those interested in the outside districts—and those "interested" should include all parents who have children attending public schools.

Unless a prohibitive tuition fee is imposed the situation cannot be taken care of by a direct levy on the parents of the children to be directly benefitted. The suggested consolidated high school seems to be the most satisfactory way out, and now that the local trustees have stated their willingness to co-operate fully the remedy must be applied by the adjoining districts. Gentlemen, what is your pleasure.

The Fall Fair

Prize lists for the fifth annual fall fair of Creston Valley Agricultural Association are now available at the office of the secretary.

After four years' experience in the exhibition business the directors have now got the premium list down to the point where prizes are being offered only on such items as it would seem reasonable to expect a very large entry list.

Too, with the list cut so as to take care of what may be termed "essentials" only, it has been possible to offer exceptionally attractive prizes both in cash and merchandise in most every one of the 250 sections in which competition is invited.

A careful scrutiny of the book will show that almost $600 will be disbursed should there be two or more entries in each of the sections—an amount that should look somewhat attractive in these times of monetary stringency.

To expedite matters, too, the directors have again this year ruled that any exhibitor may make more than one entry in each and every-one of the sections. From the standpoint of the management everything possible seems to have been done to assure the success of the fair, and all that is now required to put the fair over bigger and better than ever is a modest list of entries from the three hundred or more residents of the Valley who can without undue inconvenience to themselves be represented amongst those aspiring for prizes. The success or failure of this year's fair depends absolutely on the quantity of exhibits—in most cases there is very little to worry about qualtiy; nature has very largely seen well to the the latter detail, if due care is shown in selection and preparation.

Favorable weather conditions are anticipated, and with a good line of outdoor attractions being provided no apprehension is felt as to the attendance registering high water mark. As T. M. Edmondson aptly puts it, "If you have a thing that's good, show your neighbor, so you should," and the most effective way of accomplishing this is by the fall fair route.

Get your prize list at once and start in right away to fill out the entry form with a list of stuff to be shown that will fill the sheet from top to bottom. What is worth doing is worth doing well.

Alvin Perkins, the well-known piano tuner, will be making his visit of Creston patrons early this month. Those requiring his services should notify the Review Office.

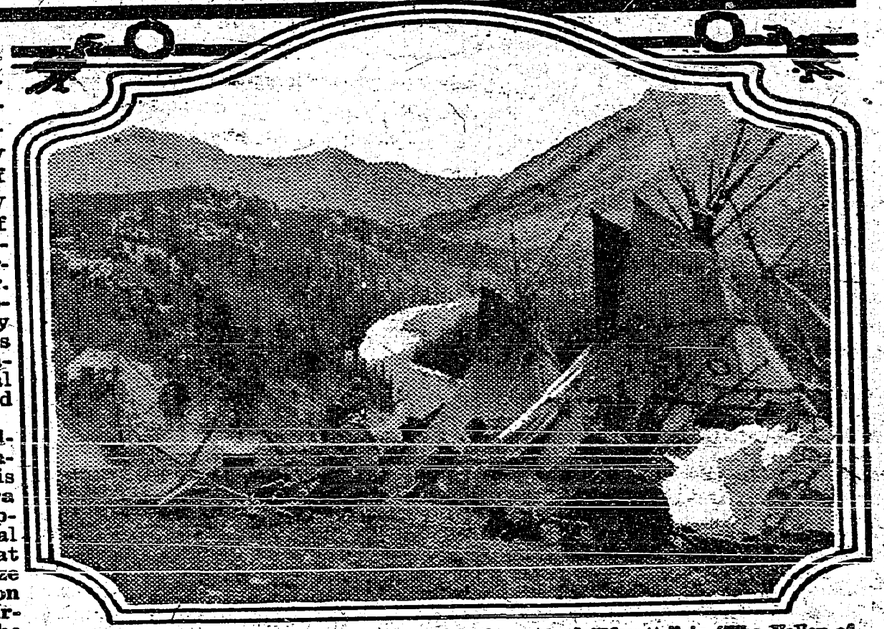
The Movie and The Rockies



The upper picture is Alma Rubens, who plays the part of "Marette" in "The Valley of Silent Men," and a dog team in the Canadian Rockies at Banff, Alberta, last spring. The lower picture is a glimpse of the encampment of Stoney Indians near Banff, Alberta.

WHILE acting as special investigator for the Canadian Government, James Oliver Curwood became enamoured of Nature's wonderland in the Canadian Rocky mountains and made it the scene of many of his stories. "The Valley of Silent Men," that little Eden of the North, over which three snow-clad sentinel mountains keep perpetual ward, was no myth. Mr. Curwood simply claimed it by romancer's right, and blazed the way to it over the trail taken by his heroine, the little Canadienne, Marette, and the gallant Corporal James Kent of the Royal Mounted Police.

But with all his skill as a word-painter, Mr. Curwood could only indicate the natural beauties of this Paradise. Even the "still" camera and the painter's canvas can capture only isolated bits of natural beauty which seem so remote that the spectator can hardly realize their truth. But now the motion pictures have followed Mr. Curwood's trail, and in filming "The Valley of Silent Men" amidst the very scenes which the author described in his thrilling romance, will bring home to millions of screen devotees the natural wonders of the Canadian Pacific Rockies.

Cosmopolitan Productions, on acquiring the motion-picture rights to "The Valley of Silent Men", sent a company up into the mountains early last spring. For twelve weeks they camped and took pictures about Banff and Lake Louise, and the camera caught that miracle of nature,—the coming of spring in the snowy wilderness. Frank Borzage, celebrated as the director of "Humoresque" and other successful Cosmopolitan productions, captained the company,—which was headed by Miss Alma Rubens, as the heroine, Marette, and Lew Cody, as the gallant corporal of the Royal Mounted. Edward Fezu, the veteran guide, piloted the daring picture people through dangerous passes, while Indians of the Stoney tribe under Chief John Powderface, were enlisted by the company; both as guides and characters in the picture.

One especially thrilling and dangerous scene was filmed when Miss Rubens slipped into a crevasse in a glacier,—(according to directions of the scenario)—but the hero's frantic search for her gave occasion for filming the icy depths of that vast frozen river. Dog sledges bore the lovers into a veritable "Valley of Silent Men", where their romance ended happily beneath the benediction of the three white sentinels of this snowy Eden of the Northland.

No trail was too long or dangerous for Director Borzage and his courageous company, and the results as seen upon the silver screen achieve not only a perfect picturization of Mr. Curwood's romance, but an excellent moving-picture of the Canadian Rockies.

It took a long time to find just the right place in which to film this thrilling story. In the first place the scenery had to conform to the author's description, and after that it had to be far and away out of the run of ordinary mountain scenery. It had to be on a scale of grandeur and interest that would help make the film remarkable. Then too, it had to be accessible. The Canadian Pacific Rockies in the vicinity of Banff and Lake Louise filled all these requirements, and further provided the very best possible accommodation for the members of the company at the Banff Springs Hotel, and the Lake Louise Chateau, both in very easy distance of the wonderful scenes photographed in the making of this film.

Bar B Ranch, Carbon City.
July 31st, 19—.

What a wretched fit of the blues I must have had on Wednesday! Fortunately for the retention of my self-respect, I have ever since been too busy to be dismal, the days have not been half long enough to hold all the new impressions.

I woke bright and early Thursday morning, feeling fit as if, after all, there might be worse places than Carbon City. And when I had eaten my breakfast and written to Mother and Mrs. Arnold and made a trial of my skill on the "Bloo-bell" piano, I felt that there might be very much worse places. By the way, Mrs. Bingham tells me that the sleep-dispelling pianist is a well-educated but rather dissipated young Englishman, a "remittance man," Paget by name. He is our nearest neighbour, and comes often to Mr. Bingham for advice regarding the management of his ranch. The advice, Mrs. Bingham adds, is never followed, and he is in a fair way to lose the money he has foolishly invested in an unnecessarily expensive outfit.

If what follows is not proof positive of my innate stupidity and my complete disregard of the laws of coincidence, then I am no judge of such matters.

Mrs. Bingham, Sunny, and I sat in the parlour after breakfast, waiting for Mr. Bingham to come and tell us when he would be ready to leave for the ranch. I was reading when I heard Mr. Bingham's voice from the hall, and I did not look up until Sunny shouted, "Oh, Mother, that's Uncle Don talking!" Then I looked up, just in time to see her rush through the door, dropping her beloved doll as she ran. In a moment she returned, perched proudly on the shoulder of . . . . Don Livingstone!!!

The thought of the shilling I nearly gave him filled my mind so completely that I scarcely heard Mrs. Bingham as she introduced him. Of course he is not Mrs. Bingham's brother, as I had supposed from Sunny's constant chatter about "Uncle Don," but Mr. Bingham's partner, and merely adopted by Sunny as I am!

Due, no doubt, to the fact that he had the upper hand, Mr. Livingstone did not seem to be the least bit disconcerted, and there was a noticeable twinkle in his eye as he asked me if this were my first visit to the West. Humiliating as is the thought, I am forced to believe that his apparent embarrassment on that former occasion was not embarrassment at all, but well-concealed amusement. I have a presentiment that he is going to need discipline; I do not approve of calm politeness accompanied by a twinkle. I was very cool and very dignified, slightly bored in fact, if one were to judge by my deportment. And I suppose Mary knew all the time who "Uncle Don" was. Revenge will be sweet.

At half-past nine we left the town. The horses that came prancing up to the hotel door must have been closely related to those that tried to climb the elevator at Elba, but Sunny was delighted to 'se them, so I concluded that they could not be quite so murderous as they looked.

"Mother, can't I please sit in the front seat with Uncle Don?" coaxed Sunny. "And you come, too, Auntie Elinor, so's I can tell you just as soon as we see the house. I wonder if David will come to meet me. Do you think he will, Uncle Don?"

"Sure he will," replied that self-possessed young man in answer to the last question; "he promised me faithfully last night that he would wait for us at the first gate." Then he added, "Perhaps Auntie Elinor would rather sit with her back to the horses—English people are like that, you know."

The cheek of him.

"Thank you," I said freezingly "Auntie Elinor" (and didn't I emphasize it!) "would much rather stay with Mrs. Bingham."

Going in a south-westerly direction from the town, we followed the well-worn trail mile after mile, over plain and through valley. Once we frightened a mother-wolf and her litter of woolly cubs; another time a cynical-looking eagle fluttered up ahead of us; and once we saw in the distance a large flock of sheep watched over by a solitary herdsman.

In one valley I noticed that the "cut-banks" were streaked with black, and Mr. Bingham, in response to my remark regarding the strange marble-cake appearance, told me that the black streaks were outcropping seams of coal, and pointed to a place farther along the canyon where a mine-shaft could be dimly seen. A "cut-bank" is, presumably, a place where some prehistoric glacial or other torrent has torn away the face of a hill and left a cleanly cut bank as steep and smooth as the side of a house—an excellent place in which to study geological strata.

When I finally saw a house, ten miles out of Carbon City, I felt as I am sure Columbus must have felt when he sighted land. This house, by the way, is the only one between Carbon City and the Bar B.

"Is that a ranch?" I asked.

"No," replied Mrs. Bingham with a strange emphasis; "that is a farm. We'll call there, for I have some books and magazines for Mrs. Carroll."

"A farm?" I repeated. "I did not know that there were farms in this part of the country."

"There should not be," Mrs. Bingham answered. And then she told me the history of the Carrolls.

They are English, of good family, and used to all the refinements if not the luxuries of life. But two years ago a "land shark," to use Mrs. Bingham's phrase, combined business and pleasure in a visit to the Old Country, and while there persuaded Mr. Carroll to sink all his capital in this so-called farm. He enlarged upon the cheapness of the land and the healthfulness of the warm Alberta winters, but he omitted all mention of the fact that two-thirds of the land was boulder-strewn river bottom, and that an exceedingly light rainfall made farming next to impossible. And he did not tell them that the "good house" was a two-roomed shack, with no floor and a sod roof.

It is easy to say that Mr. Carroll should have made enquiries into the record of the man with whom he was dealing, but he is apparently very unpractical—at any rate, they are here, too proud to ask or accept assistance, and absolutely penniless except for a small annuity belonging to Mrs. Carroll. Of course as soon as they found that they had been tricked they tried to cancel the agreement and to have their payment refunded, but the agent had "skipped the country" and has not been heard of since.

It made me feel positively wretched to see the place. Mrs. Carroll came to the door as we drove up, and invited us to go in just as if her miserable shack had been a mansion. But she seemed to be relieved when Mrs. Bingham said that we would not get out of the wagon, as we had only a few minutes to stay. Then Mrs. Bingham introduced me, saying that I was from England and that I was to spend the winter at the ranch. "From England!" Mrs. Carroll repeated slowly, and I hope I shall never again see an expression of sadness such as crossed her face as she spoke. Mr. Carroll did not appear. I have formed an opinion, not so much from what Mrs. Bingham said as from what she left unsaid, that he has allowed himself to brood over his bad fortune, and that if he could only be persuaded to exert himself matters might be greatly improved. They have one child, a little boy of about Sunny's age.

In ten minutes we "hit the trail" again, and again drove mile after mile over plain and through valley. I was beginning to feel as if my back were six inches too long, and to speculate upon how many layers of skin would peel off my nose, when suddenly Sunny called out, "Shut your eyes, Auntie Elinor, and don't open them until I tell you to."

I closed my eyes obediently, glad enough to rest them from the blazing sun. Promptly came the second order.

"Now, Auntie Elinor, look!"

I looked.

And far away to the south-west the jagged line of the Rockies broke into the blue of the sky. So far away that their natural colours were not discernible, they seemed to be made of shimmering steel and mother-of-pearl, so beautiful in their unexpectedness that I could not speak.

"That big one over there by himself is Old Chief; he belongs to the Yankees, but I just love him," volunteered Sunny.

I looked until my eyes ached, then rested them and looked again. Shall I ever tire of looking, I wonder? Need I say that the remainder of our drive was not monotonous?

David was waiting for us at the first gate. Never was a small dog so greatly excited. He wriggled with joy all the way from the tip of his nose to his rudimentary tail, ran around and around the wagon barking like mad, and was only silenced when Mr. Livingstone got out and lifted him to the seat beside Sunny. He is a jolly-looking little dog, with a rakish black spot around one eye a la Chamberlain, and a trick of running on three legs—"to excite sympathy," Mr. Livingstone explains.

It was one o'clock when we reached the house. Lee, the Chinese cook, welcomed us warmly—warmly for an Oriental, I mean—and conducted us to the dining-room, where, as the Suffolk Argus would say, a sumptuous repast awaited us. If my dairy farm proves a failure, I shall go into the newspaper business.

Headache

Recurring headaches usually come from an exhaustion of the nervous system, and they do not disappear until the vigor of the nerve cells is restored by such upbuilding treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Temporary relief by use of powders is often obtained at an enormous expense to the nervous system and the general health.

Get the nerves right and the headaches will not return.

Mrs. W. J. Pearse, Nunn St., Cobourg, Ont., writes:

"My system became run-down and I suffered greatly with pain in my head. This was so severe that I would have to bind a cloth tightly about my head so that I could get my work done. A friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and after taking the first box I found quite an improvement in my condition. I continued using them until I had taken about seven boxes, and they strengthened and built up my system splendidly, completely relieving the pain in my head."

All this is preliminary to reminding you that Fletcher's Castoria was sought out, found and is prepared solely as a remedy for Infants and Children. And let this be a warning against Substitutes, Counterfeits and the Just-as-good stuff that may be all right for you in all your strength, but dangerous for the little babe.

Farming Second Industry In B.C.

Production of the Forest Leads With a Good Margin

Agriculture, with a production of $59,742,994, was the second industry in British Columbia, in 1921, according to a report issued by Hon. E. Barrow, Minister of Agriculture. Production shows a shrinkage of 13.39 per cent. in value from the preceding year, owing to decreased values.

Forest products lead the province, with a value of $64,970,000, while mineral production had a value of $28,066,641 for the same period. The fruit crop for 1921 was the largest on record, its value to the producers being $6,504,850, an increase of 15 per cent. over the value of the 1920 crop. In dairy products there was an increase of 846,558 pounds of butter, while egg production increased by 200,677 dozen.

The area planted to fodder crops was 6,555 acres more than in 1920, but the total value of fodder crops was $4,080,432 less, owing to the lower value of the hay crop. The honey production was 209,074 pounds, valued at $89,631, against $67,703 for the previous year.

Saskatchewan's Agricultural Production

Total Value of Production for 1921 Was $444,937,073

The total value of agricultural production in Saskatchewan in 1921 was $444,937,073, made up of grain crops $210,732,073; field crops $14,965,000; farm products $32,914,436, and livestock $186,326,254. Livestock in 1921 created a record in number and value, being: 1,179,339 horses; 1,563,332 cattle; 188,021 sheep; and 432,776 swine, in the province. The total amount of wheat produced in the province in 1921 was 201,347,483 bushels from 13,556,708 acres, the greatest of any season in the province's history with the single exception of 1915.

Husband and Wife Nearly Dead With CHOLERA

The chief symptoms of cholera are vomiting, and purgings occur either simultaneously or alternately, and are usually sudden and very violent, and the matter ejected from the stomach has a bilious appearance and a nasty bitter taste.

On the first symptoms appearing, Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry should be taken, and the trouble checked before it becomes serious.

Mrs. Isaac Smith, Campbellton, N.B., writes:—"We have been using Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for cholera. My husband and I were pretty nearly dead with it until we started to use your medicine, and thanks to it, we have found great relief, and are recommending it to all our friends."

77 years' reputation stands behind "Dr. Fowler's," therefore you are not experimenting with some new and untried remedy when you get it.

An All-Metal Aeroplane

Airships Made of Aluminum May Supplant Earlier Types

There was recently completed in Great Britain the first aeroplane to be made wholly of metal. The advantages of doing away with wood and other combustible material need not be emphasized; and the all-metal aeroplane gives promise of supplanting all the earlier forms. A special alloy of aluminum is used in its construction, and the Government is at present engaged in making very elaborate tests of the strength of every part. Special attention is being given to the risks of corrosion with the metal employed and investigations on this point are being carried out in the Department of Scientific and Industrial Research. So much depends on this new type of aeroplane that although the first flying tests have been very satisfatcory the Government prefers to regard the model as an experiment and to suspend judgment until a most exhaustive examination over a long period is completed.

Seventy-two pure-bred registered Berkshire sow pigs were distributed at Brooks and Bassano to thirty-six boys and girls, members of the pig clubs at these points. is greatly relieved by constitutional treatment. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced, your hearing may be destroyed forever. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system, thus reducing the inflammation and assisting Nature in restoring normal conditions.

Perpetual Motion Clock

This Clock Runs 10 Years Before It Is Wound

A demonstration of a clock which goes for 10 years without winding was given at the office of the British Horo-Electric, Limited, in Kingsway. The clock, which is called the "Bulle," is worked by electricity, and requires no special installation. The controlling principle is electro-magnetism. The current is drawn from a battery inclosed in a brass cylinder. The battery drives the pendulum, and the pendulum in turn acts as a motor and dynamo, and generates the required current. Just sufficient current is used to keep the battery alive.

Even at the end of 10 years winding is unnecessary. If the battery is renewed after that time the clock will go on until the end of the world, or, at least, until the mechanism "busts."

BABY'S GREAT DANGER DURING HOT WEATHER

More little ones die during the hot weather than at any other time of the year. Diarrhoea, dysentry, cholera infantum and stomach troubles come without warning, and when a medicine is not at hand to give promptly the short delay too frequently means that the child has passed beyond aid. Baby's Own Tablets should always be kept in the house where there are young children. An occasional dose of the Tablets will prevent stomach and bowel troubles, or if the trouble comes suddenly the prompt use of the Tablets will relieve the baby. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Discoveries Made at South Pole

Crew of Quest Found Gigantic Forests Under the Sea

There is a wonderful diamond mine in the Antarctic regions.

This statement was made by members of the Shackleton-Rowett Expedition. On a small island near South Georgia, on the fringe of the great icefields which guard the South Pole, soil was discovered which the Quest's mineralogist declared to be the type that carries diamonds.

The expedition also discovered yellow quartz, and it is expected that an attempt will be made by a South African company to locate the diamond mine.

This is only one of the many discoveries made by members of the expedition. Gigantic forests were discovered under the sea, and vast new fishing grounds were located. The Antarctic waters are swarming with edible fish, and present a new outlet for the fishing industry. In fact, the fish are so plentiful that the expedition never needed to use bait of any description!

Extensive soundings were taken, and the greatest depth recorded was 2,700 fathoms.

It is held by scientists that a human being cannot live without a brain, which only goes to prove how mistaken scientists can be occasionally.

Minard's Liniment Lumberman's Friend

Locomotive From Scrap Iron

Mechanical Genius of Buenos Ayres Completes Miniature Train

Working for eleven years, with a file as his only tool, a man in Buenos Ayres has made a miniature locomotive of scrap iron. The locomotive can be operated under its own power by the use of compressed air. The iron was not heated in the making but was worked cold. A small coal tender and passenger coach were made at the same time and the whole thing is a little more than six feet in length and weighs 170 pounds. More than 1,300 screws and 2,000 rivets were used in the work. The train is complete to the last tiny detail and is built on the model of the equipment used on the British railroads of that country.

For years I have never considered my stock of household remedies complete unless a bottle of Minard's Liniment was included. For burns, bruises, sprains, frostbites or chilblains it excells, and I know of no better remedy for a severe cold in the head, or that will give more immediate relief, than to inhale from the bottle through the nasal organ.

And as to my supply of veterinary remedies it is essential, as it has in very many instances proven its value. A recent experience in reclaiming what was supposed to be a lost section of a valuable cow's udder has again demonstrated its great worth and prompts me to recommend it in the highest terms to all who have a herd of cows, large or small. I think I am safe in saying among all the patent medicines there is none that covers as large a field of usefulness as does Minard's Liniment. A real trueism—good for man or beast.

YOUNG WOMEN WHO SUFFER

Letter Points Way Towards Relief—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Toronto, Ontario.—"I suffered from the time I was a school-girl until I had taken your medicine with pain in my left side and with cramps, growing worse each year until I was all run down. I was so bad at times that I was unfit for work. I tried several doctors and patent medicines and was only relieved for a short time. Some of the doctors wanted to have an operation but my father objected. Finally I learned through my mother of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and how thankful I am that I tried it. Drugs are useful in case of sickness, but Nature strongly objects to their continued use by normal, healthy persons.
