THE CRESTON REVIEW

VOL. XV. CRESTON, B. C., FRIDAY, JUNE 1, 1923 No. 18

West Creston

Quite a number of Creston people picniced here on May 24th, many of them trying out the bass fishing with some success.

The drift is filling in fast at the bridge at Nick's, the sheer boom put in this spring was not of heavy enough construction and in consequence has buckled and blocks the passage of the floating bebris.

Mrs. J. Lochead was at Cranbrook a few days the latter part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Blair moved back to Canyon City the middle of last week, where they will probably reside until the haying season starts again.

A quarter of mile of diversion has been cleared for the new road into the Stephens ranch which will do away with the steep grade on that particular stretch of highway.

All the the lumber is now on the ground for the new school and construction will start on it within a couple of weeks.

We hear Jimmy Lochead was an easy winner of the open running horse race at Cranbrook on May 24th, and with the prize money has purchased another racer.

Bears are quite numerous in this section this spring. On Monday C. C. French shot one from his verandah, that dresses in the neighborhood of 250 pounds.

Lister

Jas. Adlard of Creston took the church service at the schoolhouse on Sunday morning, in the absence of Rev. G. Knox.

Owing to the absence of the majority of the male population of Lister it is not expected there will be a very lasge attendance at the Creston Chautauqua this year.

Manager Bird of Lister Trading & Supply Co., Ltd., is handling the sale of Chautauqua tickets here, along with Misses Redpath and Hardisty.

Empire Day will be remembered by residents of both Lister and Huscroft as one of the most successful community outings ever held at this end of the Valley. Over 200 people of all ages were present during the day, and the weather was all that could be asked for to ensure the all-round success of the affair, which was held on the vacant lot opposite John Huscrofts. Charles Frampton was master of ceremonies and performed his duties efficiently throughout. In the afternoon races were held for the children, the disappointment of the losers being alleviated by an application of healing balm in the shape of small change. A baseball match between Huscroft and Lister resulted in a win for the former 23 to 18. In the tug of war Huscroft also proved the sturdier of the twain by taking two pulls out of three. A tasty supper was served at 6 p.m., and was enjoyed by all, the ice cream and lemonade particularly appealing to the younger set. In the evening games for the grownups were held in which the Helme boys displayed considerable athletic prowess. The winners of the several events were: Greasy pole, Charles Huscroft. Horseback wrestling, H. Helme. Broad jump, H. Aelme Pole vault, H. Helme, 7 feet. Relay race, R. Helme's tram. Married womkn's race, Mrs. Tompkin. After darkness came Demchuk's orchestra commenced to play dance music and there was dancing on the green until almost 1 a.m. Collections amounted to $21, with ice cream sales of $11—a total of $32. Expenses were $22. The balance was given to the participants in the children's races. Toward the close of the evening it was announced that John Huscroft had donated one acre of the land to be used as a permanent community playground, and had also promised to stump the acre as well. Quite a number of the men have promised to give a day's work to help put up a suitable building.

The final date for signing contracts has been set for June Fifteentn.

Creston Fruit Growers Union, Limited

Canyon City

Jock McRobb was home from Wardner to spend the Queen's birthday vacation with his family here.

The Ladies' Aid afternoon tea and serving of refreshments on Thursday last was quite successful, the cash intake being in the neighborhood of $22.

Mrs. Hickey is a patient in the Kootenay Lake General Hospital at Nelson at present, having gone to that city on Friday last, Mrs. Pochin accompanying her.

Mrs. Knott is expected home this week from New Westminster, where she has been for the past ten days attending the sessions of the B.C. Methodist Conference, as delegate from the Creston circuit.

Mrs. Wearmouth is a visitor with her daughter, Mrs. Waldie, in Fernie this week.

Quite a number of Canyon people spent the holiday on Thursday last at Arrow Creek with a picnic party from Creston.

The sale of Chautauqua tickets in the Canyon area is fully as heavy as a year ago, and had there been a little more prosperity the number attending the big six days of entertainment would have been very much larger.

Ranchers are busy with the second season's spray and all are agreed that the "set" of fruit is much heavier and healthier than a year ago.

Orient Apple Trade

During their visit here at the middle of May general manager Pratt and President Howe of the Associated Growers of B.C., had an interview with Charles Moore, in which the Creston rancher discussed with them the possibilities of greatly increasing the fruit shipments to the Orient.

In connection with this trade Mr. Moore's quite long residence in the Orient enabled him to speak with some authority, and he is convinced that an enormous trade could be developed there. The Chinese, he said, are essentially a fruit eating nationality, but scarcely one in a hundred of the vast population of China had ever seen an apple. All that was needed was to educate them to apple eating.

Although considerable quantities of apples have in the past been exported to China, he believes they were all of the best varieties and of the larger sizes and were used almost exclusively for the foreign trade. Mr. Moore's idea is to develop a trade there for the smaller apples, ranging from 175 to 224 to the pack. The currency of the country is in small denominations he pointed out and for this reason small apples will find the most ready sale. He suggested disposing of Jonathans, Wealthies and Hyslop Crabs in China, believing these varieties to be ideal ones for the trade there.

Erickson

Miss Green, principal of Erickson school, was at her home in Kaslo for the 24th of May celebration, Miss Holmes accompanying her.

Miss Mitchell of Calgary, advance lady for Chautauqua was a Sunday visitor with Mr. and Mrs. Brownrigg.

The carpenters are now busy putting on a ten-foot addition to the Telford store. The extra space is badly needed to properly display the large stocks the store is now carrying.

Mrs. McKinnon of Kingsgate was a visitor here a few days last week with her daughter, Mrs. Kyle Kelly.

Quite a number of the auto owners from here were at Yahk on Victoria Day for the baseball game between the team of that town and Creston—four of the latter team being made up Erickson players.

Mr. and Mrs. Attwood got back on Tuesday from a week's visit with Cranbrook friends.

Mrs. McCarthy announces that she will shortly open an ice cream and refreshment parlor in the McCarthy building, date of opening to be announced later.

Kitchener

B. Johnson of the Kitchener Hotel went to Cranbrook on Tuesday and came back the following day in a new McLaughlin car.

Miss Jennie Belanger, one of Kitchener's June brides, was guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. McGonegal, and which was attended by quite a number of the lady friends of the bride elect.

The Sash & Door Company sawmill, which closed down about a month ago due to the loggers strike, has resumed operations.

Mrs. Walby has just completed the erection of quite a comfortable new residence alongside the school.

Mr. Abar has just purchased two lots and is commencing the erection of a new house at once.

Mrs. (Dr.) Henderson and Mrs. McLaren of Creston were Victoria Day visitors with Mrs. Hunt.

Alice Siding

Mrs John Johnson and daughter, Mrs. Brooks, left at the end of the week for Bashaw, Alberta, where Mrs. Johnson will visit for a few weeks.

The stockmen had their annual roundup on Thursday and Friday getting the cattle off the flats and into the hills.

Dick Smith and Walter Carr tried out the fishing at Summit Creek on Sunday and report a fair catch of trout.

Mr. and Mrs. Loasby of Sirdar were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Webster.

Gordon Smith got back last week from Butte, Montana, where he has been working for some time past.

Road foreman Harris has a crew at work improving the highway in this section, notably at the gooseneck which is being widened out to expedite the passing of autos at that point.

John Johnson left on Saturday for Vancouver. He has leased his ranch and if he can secure work he will probably move to Vancouver to live.

"Let the people praise thee O God, yea let all the people praise thee; then shall the earth bring forth her increase."

Community Church Services

in the Chautauqua Tent

Sunday, June 3

11 a.m. and 7.30 p.m.

At the Morning Service there will be a special address and special musical numbers.

In the evening Rev. J. A. James will speak and a United Choir will furnish music.

If ever there was a time when citizens generally should give thanks for favors bestowed surely it is now, and no better opportunity will present itself than these Community Services

BE THERE—both Morning and Evening.

Wynndel

Paul Ofner left on Monday on a prospecting trip into East Kootenay.

The water now being high motor boats are again in use Elmer Ringheim starting the season on the 14th.

The new road from the schoolhouse to Paul Ofner's is nearing completion, and promises to be much easier to travel than the old route.

Mr. and Mrs. Pitt Brooke are back from Grand Forks, where they resided all winter.

Monrad Wigen, who was on the sick list for some days, is back at work again putting in a larger area than ever to strawberry plants to supply the ever increasing demand for these both in the Valley as well as prairie points.

Kunst brothers of Boswell were week-end visitors here, returning to their land clearing contract work on Monday.

Mrs. Gordon's Address

There was quite a good turnout on Wednesday evening last at the Presbyterian Church to hear Mrs. Gordon, president of the Women's Missionary Society, who delivered an address on the work of the society.

In her inspiring address Mrs. Gordon took as her subject, "Love," showing that it is to tell the love of God that the W.M.S. was established. She spoke of the needs in foreign lands, especially in India and China, where is more than half the population of the world, and where they have only one doctor to hundreds of thousands of people.

Mrs. Gordon pointed out, too, that the needs in the home land are great, especially among the young people, and this is work for which women are well adapted. The W.M.S. has now a membership of 92,000, and 100,000 membership is the goal set to celebrate the sixteenth anniversary when it meets next year at Montreal. There are 8000 societies and 31,000 subscriptions to the Missionary Messenger. Last year funds amounted to $381,000. The W.M.S. has decided to help the men's board, which has heavy deficits, and it is going to pay the salary of one missionary and subscribe substantially to the support of several others.

This year twelve missionaries are being sent out, many of them just young women recently graduated from hospitals. Mrs. Gordon spoke of the mission school homes that are being opened and operated at home and abroad. She told of these school homes in India, and of the satisfactory condition of the work there. These homes have their mission bands and contribute to missions. In the home land school homes are being opened in Saskatchewan and B.C., and many appeals from other parts of Candada are being received.

In closing Mrs. Gordon pointed out that it is a privilege we share in telling of the love of God at home and abroad. Gifts help much, but our lives help most. Our voices must often be silent, but our lives speak all the time. B.

Sirdar

Mrs. Simister of Creston was a visitor here a few days last week with her daughter, Mrs. Whitesides.

Jack Cameron was a visitor at Yahk on Thursday where he played on the Creston baseball team in a match against Yahk, in which Creston was the winner. He made the home run in his Chevrolet in two hours.

Mayor Joseph Daly is a Spokane visitor this week, where he is combining pleasure with the business of consulting an eye specialist.

There will be the usual first of the month Church of England services here on Sunday morning.

Mrs. Mago of Cranbrook was a visitor here for a few days last week, with Mr. and Mrs. S. Pascuzzo. She believes the twins resemble the father quite markedly.

The children of Sirdar had their annual Queen's Birthday picnic on Thursday last when the usual fine time was spent in various amusements with a spread of good things to eat to close proceedings.

From Kuskanook comes word that in the ranch garden of Mrs. M. G. Jones green peas are already in blossom, and the potatoes will be following suit very shortly.

Mr. and Mrs. Loasby were the Sirdar representatives at the Bishop of Kootenay's confirmation service at Creston on Sunday night, making the trip to the metropolis by motor.

The work train will complete operations within a week. The haul of rock has now commenced which is a sure indication that the finishing touches are being put on.

A motor ambulance going from Trail to Kimberley went over the bank at a point between Kuskanook and here on Sunday afternoon, and the Lidgate garage at Creston was requsistioned to tow the injured motor to Creston, where repairs were made and the trip to Kimberley resumed on Monday afternoon.

Train travellers to the Landing will miss the station that was formerly a central figure at the head of the trestle. It has been reduced to a one story structure and shifted to the north side of the track, almost opposite and erected on a lower location. The building had been at the old stand for at least twenty-five years, and if the walls could speak some rare tales would be told and history revealed of the pioneer and later days at the Landing and Sirdar.

Soon afterward the supper bell rang, and during the meal Helen told the Senator, who seemed somewhat morose and preoccupied, of the visit she had had.

"Sure tiresome people. Goodness! I was glad to see them at first because I thought they would help me to pass the afternoon, but instead I was bored to death. That little minx is crazy about Gordon, though. I could see that."

"Um!"

"And the worst of it is that she just fits into the scenery here, and I don't. You know, father, I never could wax enthusiastic over shooing the cows to roost and things like that."

"Um!"

This remark brought a wry laugh from her father, and Helen smiled.

"Well, I've made you laugh anyway," she said. "You're frightfully grouchy this evening."

"My dear, I'm busy, very busy, and I haven't time to think of trifles. I'll be at it most of the night."

"Oh, shall you? Goodness, that's cheerful. I wish I had never come to this awful little place. I suppose I must go back to my letters for something to do. And, father," she added, as he lingered with her for a moment in the hallway, "the Purnells seem to think that you and Mr. Moran had better not go too far. The people here are very much wrought up."

He patted her shoulder affectionately.

"You leave all that to me and go write to your mother."

There was nothing else for her to do, so she returned to the parlor. When she had finished her letters, she idly picked up a week-old copy of a Denver newspaper which lay on the table and glanced through the headlines. She was yawningly thinking of bed, when Moran came into the room.

"Oh, are you and father through at last?"

"Yes," he answered, smiling. "That is, we're through upstairs. I'm on my way over to the office to straighten up a few loose ends before I turn in. There's no rest for the weary, you know."

"Don't let me keep you, then," she said dryly, as he lingered. "I'm going to bed."

"You're not keeping me. I'm keeping myself." He quite understood her motive, but he was not thin-skinned, and he had learned that he had to make his opportunities with her. "Your father told me you were getting anxious."

"Not anxious, tired."

"Things are getting a little warm here, but before there's any real danger we expect to have the soldiers here to take charge."

He rather ostentatiously displayed his bandaged wrist, hoping to win her sympathy, but she professed none. Instead, she yawned and tapped her lips with her fingers, and her indifference piqued him.

"I was talking with Dorothy Purnell this afternoon," Helen finally remarked, eyeing him lazily, "and she seems to be of the opinion that you'll have hard work arresting Gordon Wade. I rather hope that you do."

"Well—" He teetered a little on his feet and stroked his mustache. "We may have, at that. Miss Purnell is popular and she can make a lot of trouble for us if she wants to. Being very fond of Wade, she's likely to do all that she can."

"Would she really have so much influence?" Helen asked, carefully guarding her tongue.

He laughed softly as though amused at the thought.

"Influence? Evidently you don't realize what a good looking girl means in a frontier town like this. She's part sister, part mother, sweetheart and a breath from Heaven to every man in Crawling Water. On that account, with one exception, I've had to import every last one of my men. The exception is Tug Bailey, who's beyond hope where women are concerned. To all the rest, Dorothy Purnell is 'Wade's girl,' and they wouldn't fight against her, or him, for all the money in Wyoming."

He was watching her keenly as he spoke, and was gratified to see spots of color spring to her cheeks.

"How interesting!" Helen could make her tone indifferent to the point of languor, but she could not keep the gleam of jealousy out of her eyes. "Gordon is a fortunate man to have such an able ally, isn't he?"

"The finish will decide that, I should say," Moran replied sneeringly. "She may stir up more trouble than all her friends can take care of."

For all of her social schooling, Helen was not proof against the sneer in his words, even though she fully saw through his purpose to wound her. She felt her temper rising, and with it came curiosity to learn how far the relationship between Wade and Dorothy Purnell had really gone. That Moran would exaggerate it, she felt sure, for he had his own ends to gain, but possibly from out of his exaggeration she could glean some truth. Yet she did not want to go so far in her anger as to gratify his malice, and this placed her in something of a dilemma.

"I don't believe that she is 'Wade's girl,' as you call her, at all," she said coldly. "They may be good friends, and if so, I'm glad; but they are nothing more than that. There is no 'understanding' between them."

Moran carelessly waved his hand in the direction of the rain-swept street, illuminated now and then by the lightning.

"Ask any one in Crawling Water."

"That sounds well, but it's impracticable, even if I wanted to do it. I prefer to draw my own conclusions."

The agent drew up a chair with his well hand, and sat down with that easy familiarity that came so natural to him. Helen watched him, lazily impertinent.

"I've ben wanting to have a talk with you, Helen," he began, "and this looks like a good chance to me. You've been foolish about Wade. Yes, I know that you're thinking that I've got my own ends to further, which is true enough. I have. I admit it. But what I am going to tell you is true, also. Fortune's been playing into my hand here lately. Now, if you'll be reasonable, you'll probably be happier. Shall I go on?"

"Wild horses couldn't stop you," she answered, amused that he seemed flattered. "But if we were in Washington, I fancy I'd have you shown out."

"We're not in Washington, my dear girl." He wagged his finger at her, in the way her father had, to give emphasis to his words. "That's where you've made your mistake with Wade. We're all just plain men and women out here in the cattle country, and I'm talking its language, not the language of drawing-rooms." He was himself a little surprised at the swift dilation of her pupils, but his words had probed deeper than he knew, reminding her as they did of the truth which she had so fully realized that afternoon. "Wade liked you—loved you, maybe, in Chicago, but this ain't the East. He cares nothing for you here, and he'd never be happy away from here. You know the picture of yourself that you sent to him?" She nodded. "Well, we found it on the floor of his room, covered with dust. He hadn't even troubled to pick it up from where it must have fallen weeks ago."

She looked at him dumbly, unable to keep her lips from twitching. He knew that she believed him, and he was glad; that she had to believe him, because his story bore the impress of truth. It was not something that he could have made up.

"And while your picture was lying there, Wade and this Purnell girl were making goo-goo eyes at each other. Why, it was she that rode out to warn him that we were after Santry." Helen's lips curled. "I can't swear to that, but I heard it and I believe it myself. They must've met on the trail somewhere in the dark, and you can bet he was grateful. I don't imagine that they stopped at a handshake. I imagine they kissed, don't you?"

"Oh, I'm tired, worn out," Helen declared, forcing a smile so artificial that it could not deceive him. "Do go, please. I am going upstairs to bed."

"Wait one minute." He put out his injured arm, and, thinking that he reached for her hand, she brushed it aside, accidently striking the wound.

"I'm sorry if I hurt you," she said coldly, as he winced.

"Maybe I've hurt you worse," he persisted, with a tenderness that was intolerable to her, "but, if I have, your wound'll heal just as mine will." He gently pushed her back into her chair as she started to get up.

"Are you making love to me, Race?" Under the ridicule of her tone his face darkened. "If you are, it's insufferable in you."

"Go easy, now," he warned her. "I'll not be made a fool of."

She did not heed his warning. Glad to have him on the rack, where she had been, she laughed at him.

"Haven't you sense enough to know that, for that very reason, I'd refuse to believe anything you might say against Gordon Wade? I know how you hate him. Listen to me. Oh, this is absurd!" She laughed again at the picture he made. "You've pursued me for months with your attentions, although I've done everything but encourage you. Now I want you to know that I shall never again even listen to you. What Gordon is to Dorothy Purnell is for him, and her, and perhaps for me to be interested in, but not for you. Now I'm going to bed. Good night!"

He caught her by the arm as she stood up, but immediately released her, and stepped in front of her instead.

"Hold on," he begged, with a smile that meant wonderful mastery of himself. "I've got feelings, you know. You needn't walk on them. I love you, and I want you. What I want, I usually get. I mean to get you." She looked up at him with heavy-lidded insolence. "I may fail, but if I do, it'll be one more notch in my account against Wade. I know now where to strike him—to hurt."

"You be reasonable, and you'll be happier," she retorted. "May I go?"

"Certainly." He stepped out of her way. "Good night."

St. Anne de Beaupre

Plans for Handsome New Church Have Been Completed

The plans for the construction of the new Basilica of St. Anne de Beaupre have been completed and provide for a church which will probably be the most spacious and finest from an architectural point of view, in Canada. In architectural style the new Basilica will be a combination of Roman and Gothic, and the steeples in front will tower 225 feet high. The Basilica will contain 26 altars in all, including those of the chapels.

Progressives and H.B. Railway

The Progressives at Ottawa are criticized for demanding economy, yet urging the building of the Hudson Bay railway. But their hands were forced in this railway matter by the giving of orders for the tearing up of rails on parts of the road already built. The west has not insisted unreasonably on the instant completion of this work, but is determined the enterprise shall not be abandoned.—Toronto Star.

Immensity of Last Grain Crop

217,685 Grain Cars Inspected in Six Months' Period

The immensity of the 1922 grain crop, and the splendid work done by the Canadian railways in moving it, is made evident by figures just published, showing that the total number of grain cars inspected during the six months ended February, was 217,685, an increase of 50,418, or 30 per cent., over that for the same period last year. The Canadian Pacific Railway handled by far the greater part of this, namely, 118,243 cars, being an increase of nearly 35,500 cars over that for the same period of the preceding year.

Rural "White Ways"

Country Roads in Quebec to be Illuminated

Two great highways in the province of Québec, where there is a generous network of excellent roads, are to be brilliantly lighted. What were the old time country roads are to be turned into somewhat modified great white ways. These roads—from Montreal to Quebec and from Montreal to the United States boundary—bear an enormous burden of traffic, but until recently they were just rural highways winding through picturesque and sleepy villages. Now the clean sweep of permanent way will be dotted with lights. It is believed that lighted roads will add to the urbanization of country life.

HER HEART SKIPPED EVERY THIRD BEAT

Mrs. James Burleigh, 248 King St. E., Chatham, Ont., writes:—"I think it my duty to let you know what Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me.

I suffered for years with palpitation of the heart, my nerves were very bad, and I could not be left alone at any time. I doctored for over a year, and the doctor said my heart was very bad as it skipped every third beat.

I gave up, just at this time, and then my mother advised me to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, saying my eldest brother had been relieved by using them when he was very bad with his heart and nerves. I got a box and started to take them, and when I had used it I felt a lot better; could sleep a little and felt stronger. I continued taking them for about three months, and felt better than I had for years.

When I think of the misery and suffering I went through before I started Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, I feel like letting everyone know what they did for me."

Manitoba's Forest Fires

Dried Grass Creates a Considerable Fire Hazard

In view of the approaching forest fire season, the District Inspector of Forest Reserves points out that the periods of greatest fire danger in Manitoba vary in different parts. In the south and southwest, during the period from the disappearance of the snow until the June rains, the dried-up grass creates a considerable fire hazard, as it does also after the autumn. In the north of the province, on the other hand, moss takes the place of the grass as ground cover. This moss does not dry out until about July and August, and this is the period when most of the fires start.

"When I decided to try Tanlac it was one of the wisest decisions I ever made," recently said Mrs. Alice M. Mann, 908 Robinson St., Regina, Sask.

"I was suffering from the after effects of the 'flu' and was in a terribly nervous, run-down condition. My appetite disappeared so completely that I could eat scarcely a thing, and I was so weak and worn-out that the least little exertion tired me out. My sleep was restless and broken, and I simply felt miserable.

"It was certainly astonishing to me how rapidly I began improving when I started on Tanlac. My appetite picked right up and I could feel my strength returning every day. My nerves have quieted down and my sleep is refreshing. Tanlac is the grandest medicine I know of and it is a pleasure to recommend it."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35-million bottles sold.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

Lieut. Lester Maitland, of Dayton, Ohio, established a record of 238 miles an hour flying over a three-kilometre course.

Work has been commenced on a 2,000,000-bushel addition to the Saskatchewan Co-operative Elevator Company's plant at Port Arthur.

Charles Murphy, general manager of western lines of the C.P.R., says business in March showed an increase of ten per cent. over that of the same month last year.

The Communists at Moscow have confiscated the synagogues of Charvok, Homel, Bobruisk, and Minsk and transformed them into working men's clubs.

Fritz Drum, president of the League Volkspolizie of Essen, was given a five-year prison sentence and a 5,000,000 franc fine for carrying on propaganda activities against the allies.

Rufus Avery, Eastern Ontario's oldest resident, is dead at the House of Industry, Athens, Ontario, where he had been an inmate since 1918. Had he lived another day he would have been 111 years old.

The Queensland Government has decided to re-possess nearly 75,000 acres of freehold and pastoral leasehold lands in Australia and make them available to settlers to engage in wheat growing alone or combined with wool growing.

The amount of coke shipped to France from the Ruhr during February and March totalled only 18,000 tons at the most, says a semi-official statement issued at Berlin in contradiction of figures recently announced by the French Minister of Transportation.

Fertilizers In the West

Commercial Fertilizers Are Not Needed on Fertile Soils

A study of the results of an experiment designed to ascertain the benefit of commercial fertilizers on the various crops commonly grown in the west, carried out at the Indian Head, Saskatchewan, Dominion Experimental Farm, indicates that, on fertile soils, while the yield of some crops may be raised slightly by their application, the increase is not sufficient to warrant the purchase and use of such fertilizers for the growing of common crops of the prairie. This, the superintendent of the farm, is careful to state, does not detract in any way from the value of such fertilizers for specialized crops such as garden stuffs. A fact noticeable, the superintendent further says, in all the fertilized plots is that the potassic fertilizers give the least benfit of any of the fertilizers applied, and it can be safely concluded that the supply of potassium in the soil of the prairies is sufficient for the needs of the crops.

Sixteen plots were used in this experiment and a four-year rotation consisting of wheat, oats, hay and corn, was followed. The fertilizers were applied only once in four years, that is, preceding the rotation.

A GOOD MEDICINE FOR THE SPRINGTIME

Do Not Use Harsh Purgatives—A Tonic is All You Need

Not sick—but not feeling quite well. That is the way most people feel in the spring. Easily tired, appetite fickle, sometimes headaches and a feeling of depression. Pimples or eruptions may appear on the skin, or there may be twinges of rheumatism or neuralgia. Any of these indicate that the blood is out of order—that the indoor life of winter has left its mark upon you and may easily develop into more serious trouble.

Do not dose yourself with purgatives, as many people do, in the hope that you can put your blood right. Purgatives gallop through the system and weaken instead of giving strength. Any doctor will tell you this is true. What you need in the spring is a tonic that will enrich the blood and build up the nerves. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do this speedily and surely. Every dose of this medicine helps to enrich the blood which clears the skins, strengthens the appetite and makes tired, depressed men, women and children active and strong. Miss S. L. McEachron, Nairn, N.B., says,—"I have been in the habit of taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the spring and they keep me in the best of health. I think it is entirely due to the use of these pills that I always have such good health."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Farmers and Banks

Nearly Four Thousand Agriculturists Registered as Shareholders

Nearly four thousand persons designated as farmers, ranchers and wheat growers in Canada were registered as shareholders in Canadian chartered banks in 1922, according to a report recently tabled in the Canadian Parliament by the Minister of Finance. The number of farmer shareholders, by provinces, was as follows: Alberta, 216; British Columbia, 93; Manitoba, 830; New Brunswick, 65; Nova Scotia, 215; Ontario, 1,188; Prince Edward Island, 38; Quebec, 465; and Saskatchewan, 747.

A total of 18,873 farmers paid income tax to the Federal treasury in the year 1922, and of all the provinces, Saskatchewan last year had the greatest number of tax-paying farmers with a total of 6,560. Ontario came next with 6,138 and Manitoba third with 3,458. The total for the other provinces were: Alberta, 1,638; British Columbia, 640; New Brunswick, 48; Nova Scotia, 198; Prince Edward Island, 40; Quebec, 150; and Yukon, 3.

Canada's 100 Pulp and Paper Mills

The pulp and paper industry of Canada has 100 mills in operation, forty being pulp mills, thirty-three paper mills, and twenty-seven produce both pulp and paper. Seventeen are newsprint plants. The present progress of the industry indicates an output of 1,500,000 tons of newsprint in 1924. This will mean the utilization of over 2,250,000 cords of pulpwood for a single year's newsprint paper output in this Dominion.

With so thorough a preparation at hand as Miller's Worm Powders the mother who allows her children to suffer from the ravages of worms is unwise and culpably careless. A child subjected to the attacks of worms is always unhealthy, and will be stunted in its growth. It is a merciful act to rid it of these destructive parasites, especially when it can be done without difficulty.

Increased Volume of Freight

Increased volume of freight movement from eastern manufacturers to western agencies for the first ten weeks of the year, compared with the same period last year, is recorded by both railway systems operating around the north shore. While much of this movement consists of delayed shipments that should have come to the west last fall, a considerable quantity registered is new business.

Hall's Catarrh Medicine

Those who are in a "run down" condition will notice that Catarrh bothers them much more than when they are in good health. This fact proves that while Catarrh is a local disease, it is greatly influenced by constitutional conditions. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a Tonic and acts through the blood upon the mucous surfaces of the body, thus reducing the inflammation and assisting Nature in restoring normal conditions.

THEY TELL THEIR NEIGHBORS

Women Tell Each Other How They Were Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Woodbridge, Ont.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female troubles. I would have headaches, backaches, pains between my shoulders and under my shoulder-blades and dragging down feelings on each side. I was sometimes unable to do my work and felt very badly. My mother-in-law told me about the Vegetable Compound and I got some right away. It has done me more good than any other medicine I ever took and I recommend it to my neighbors. You are quite welcome to use this letter as a testimonial if you think it will help some poor sufferer."—Mrs. EDGAR SIMMONS, R. R. 2, Woodbridge, Ont.

In nearly every neighborhood in every town and city in this country there are women who have been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the treatment of ailments peculiar to their sex, and they take pleasure in passing the good word along to other women. Therefore, if you are troubled in this way, why not give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from roots and herbs, has for forty years proved its value in such cases. Women everywhere bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. G

Canada's Nationhood

British Writer Would Recognize Canada As a Nation

The London Times gives prominence to a letter from G. L. Haggen, of the Law Department of the University of Leeds, in which he says that the recent fisheries treaty between Canada and the United States will have done much good if it has raised the question of Dominion status in a form in which it cannot be evaded.

"It would be well if it were clearly recognized in Great Britain," Mr. Haggen says, "that any denial of nationhood to the Dominions would be incompatible with Imperial unity. Full recognition of that status is a necessary preliminary to the constructive action which the situation clearly demands, but the matter cannot rest there. It will be necessary to devise means for presenting the conclusion of any treaty which any part of the British Commonwealth may find itself unable to approve.

"The Dominions probably would be willing to consent to some restriction in their treaty-making powers provided that restriction should be imposed on Britain's also."

Settlers From Texas

Farmers From Rio Grande Valley Attracted to Canadian West

(By G. C. Porter of Winnipeg)

Brownsville, Texas.—This is the southernmost point of the southwest from which settlers for Canada are being drawn. It is the limit of the vast territory tributary to the Kansas City immigration office of the Dominion Government and A. E. May, the Canadian agent there, told me the other day many of his best prospects were coming from the Rio Grande Valley. His exhibit at the great annual fair at Teco, Texas, he said, was usually the centre of attraction for farmers from all parts of Texas. If his records accurately appraise the movement, many thousands of former renters and owners of farms from Texas will go north this spring to buy, rent or homestead in Canada.

Canada is curiously linked with this remote section for in this lower end of the Rio Grande Valley is situated the vast stretches of desert land several companies have been trying to sell on the Canadian prairies the past winter as "irrigated farms." If reports can be accepted, as puzzling as it may appear, these enterprising "boomers" have interested some prospects from the Canadian prairies. They have conducted a vigorous advertising campaign and have brought several excursions from Winnipeg, Regina and Edmonton down here recently. Just how many actual sales have been made to Canadians I have been unable to discover.

They have many agents on the prairies and they make some most gorgeous promises, backed up with advertising displays and pictures of alleged farm "spots" on these irrigated lands.

I have met some rather optimistic land boomers down here for these irrigated lands but not one has told me yet that he knew, personally, of any one producing fruit, alfalfa or whatnot of that value on a single acre in a single year, though one rather sanguine individual, whom another man told me was a "scout" for an irrigation company, said it "might be so."

Phone For Every Nine

Saskatchewan Stands First In the World in Number of Rural Telephones Per Population

The rapid growth of the Saskatchewan provincial telephone system was outlined at the recent session of the Saskatchewan Legislature by W. J. Patterson, M.L.A., who stated that the Saskatchewan Government has now $11,000,000 invested in town telephones with 31,800 subscribers, while rural companies in the province have invested $15,000,000 with 58,000 subscribers. Saskatchewan stands first in the world in regard to the number of rural telephones per population with a telephone for every nine of the population.

CRESTON, B.C., FRIDAY, JUNE

Decoration Day?

Now that the cemetery has been beautified, outdoor flowers in profusion available, and nothing of the sort having yet been undertaken in connection with the soldiers monument, the request for a regulation decoration day exercises is quite natural.

The popular idea seems to be for a Sunday afternoon function at the veterans monument at which addresses appropriate for such an occasion be given by local speakers, with plenty of music and the usual floral decorative effort, which latter should not, of course, be confined to the monument exclusively.

In all well regulated communities decoration day is an annual fixture, and with the just pride Creston takes in its war sacrifice and the memorial that commemorates it no centre is more entitled to such an occasion of the sort than this.

This event should in no wise replace the usual Armistice Day exercises, but due to the uncertainty of mid-November weather it is felt that the respect due the fallen can more fittingly be paid in June than in the very late fall.

In addition to the patriotic or sentimental side, the occasion can also have its practical turn in that the freewill offering via the hat that may be made will come in very handy in erecting a needed iron rail around the memorial whilst any surplus over and above that needed for the rail can be made good use of by the memorial committee.

Forest Protection

It has been truly said that a forest which takes a hundred years to grow, may be consumed by fire in a hundred minutes.

A tree will furnish a million matches; one match will destroy a forest.

There is nothing we are so prodigal of as our forests and the carelessness which we see daily exhibited is a national scandal.

What are the causes of forest fires?

There is the ubiquitous match, thrown away by the careless passerby, after he has lit pipe or cigarette. There is the stub of that cigarette, which is dropped by the smoker. There is the worst offender of all, the camper, who goes off and leaves his fire to the elements, which often create a legacy of doom and death. Then come the casual settlers who simply ignore the regulations and are responsible for lamentable destruction, and there are loggers who simply don't care.

JACKIE COOGAN in "Trouble" at the Grand, June 9

All Prone to Error

The outstanding weakness in the presentation of the case for for the new third political party in this province, as recently presented by its leaders, is the human element. Granting for the sake of argument that there is need for a change; and also that both the old parties fall short; what promise is there that the new party, being themselves but human, will be able to attain any higher standard were the reins of government entrusted to their inexperienced, if well meaning hands? As the chain depends entirely on its weakest link, so a party will be judged not by the altruism of its leaders, but by the impression their followers make. And being only human, the lure of the flesh pots will tempt the members of the new party even as it has those before them whom they now criticize. Has this not been the experience in other provinces?

Gen. McRae himself said that no politicians in B.C. were strong enough to befuddle the people if once the electorate were awakened. But the same speaker also said that no remedy could be looked for from either of the old parties, which is only another way of saying that the politicians have a strangle hold on the electorate. The two statements are not consistent, and most people will heartily endorse the former with the rider added that if there is anything amiss with the old parties, it is preferable to get to the core of things and cut rather than try to hammer from the outside with a club.—Herald.

Mrs. Gordon's Address

"Molly O" tells the story of the romantic daughter of an Irish family of lowly circumstances. Molly Odair helps her mother with the washings which eke out the family income that the father earns through odd jobs. She is entranced by a story in a newspaper which she has taken to cover over a wash, which is speculative over the identity of the young woman whom a wealthy, philanthropic young physician has chosen for his wife to be. She pastes a picture of herself in the blank where a question mark has been used in the newspaper.

Of course, that particular wash has to be taken by Molly to the home of the physician's real financee. Molly is getting a calldown for her impertinence when the doctor enters. Molly decides she likes him and calls him to attend a neighbor's baby in order to get acquainted with him. The doctor gives her a lift in his car, and trouble follows for both, for Molly's father seest hem, and also the doctor's fiancee.

Despite her father's warning that no good can come of it, Molly insists on pursuing the acquaintance She purloins a ball gown which her mother has received to be cleaned to attend a chairity ball at which she knows the doctor will attend. She is exposed by the owner of the gown, who is once more the fiancee. The fracas which takes place results in the doctor breaking his engagement, and his decision is made to take Molly home. Molly has stopped in a barn to change her clothing and is there attacked by a helper of her father's. The doctor carries her home, after rescuing her, and the father, suspecting the worst, disowns her.

The next morning he finds the two in negligee in an apartment where he has gone to do the cleaning. His resolve to kill the doctor, then to call the police, is quieted by a marriage certificate.

During the last half of the story some spectacular "air stunts" are woven into the action.

Synopsis of Land Act Amendments

Minimum price of first-class land reduced to $5 an acre; second-class to $2.50 an acre.

Pre-emption now confined to surveyed lands only.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes and which is non-timber land.

Partnership pre-emptions abolished, but parties of not more than four may arrange for adjacent pre-emptions with joint residence, but each making necessary improvements on respective claims.

Pre-emptors must occupy claims for five years and make improvements to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivation of at least 5 acres, before receiving Crown Grant.

Where pre-emptor in occupation not less than 5 years, and has made proportionate improvements, he may, because of ill-health, or other cause, be granted intermediate certificate of improvement and transfer his claim.

Records without permanent residence may be issued, provided applicant makes improvements to extent of $200 per annum and records same each year. Failure to make improvements or record same will operate as forfeiture. Title cannot be obtained in less than 5 years, and improvements of $10.00 per acre, including 5 acres cleared and cultivated, and residence of at least 2 years are required.

Pre-emptor holding Crown grant may record another pre-emption. If he requires land in conjunction with his farm, without actual occupation, provided statutory improvements made and residence maintained on Crown granted land.

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites; title to be obtained after fulfilling residential and improvement conditions.

For grazing and industrial purposes areas exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or company.

Mill, factory or industrial sites on timber land not exceeding 40 acres may be purchased; conditions include payment of stumpage.

Natural hay meadows inaccessible by existing roads may be purchased conditional upon construction of a road to them. Rebate of one-half of cost of road, not exceeding half of purchase price, is made.

PRE-EMPTORS' FREE GRANTS ACT.

The scope of this Act is enlarged to include all persons joining and serving with His Majesty's Forces. The time within which the heirs or devisees of a deceased pre-emptor may apply for title under this Act is extended from for one year from the death of such person, as formerly, until one year after the conclusion of the present war. This privilege is also made retroactive.

No fees relating to pre-emptions are due or payable by soldiers on pre-emptions recorded after June 20, 1918. Taxes are remitted for five years.

Provision for return of moneys accrued, due and been paid since August 4, 1914, on account of payments, fees or taxes on soldiers' pre-emptions.

Interest on agreements to purchase town or city lots held by members of Allied Forces, or dependents, acquired direct or indirect, remitted from enlistment to March 31, 1920.

SUB-PURCHASERS OF CROWN LANDS.

Provision made for issuance of Crown grants to sub-purchasers of Crown Lands, acquiring rights from purchasers who failed to complete purchase, involving forfeiture, on fulfilment of conditions of purchase, interest and taxes. Where sub-purchasers do not claim whole of original parcel, purchase price due and taxes may be distributed proportionately over whole area. Applications must be made by May 1, 1920.

GRAZING.

Grazing Act, 1919, for systematic development of livestock industry provides for grazing districts and range administration under Commissioner. Annual grazing permits issued based on numbers ranged; priority for established owners. Stock-owners may form Associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits for settlers, campers or travellers, up to ten head.

FOR SALE—320 acres known as Sublot 544, near Arrow Creek, any reasonable offer considered. W. K. Esling, Rossland, B.C.

WANTED TO RENT—With option to purchase, mixed farm, 20 acres up, by experienced farmer, best of references. Box 265, Vernon, B.C.

The water is so high on the flats now that the stockmen rounded up all the cattle and took them into the hills at the end of the week.

Ideal outing weather prevailed on May 24th and motor picnic parties were unusually numerous, the town being practically deserted.

Mrs. M. Winch and children left at the end of the week for Shelby, Montana, where they expect to make their home for the next few months.

Bob Mitchell of Edmonton, one of the crew men with Chautauqua, is a visitor with Mr and Mrs. Jas. Cook during his week's stay in Creston.

Fr. Moriarity opens his mission at Holy Cross Church on Sunday evening at 7.30, and each weekday there will be services at 8 a.m. and 7.30 p.m.

Messrs. R. and L. Crowe of Vancouver and Wycliffe, respectively, were visitors a few days at the first of the week with Mr. and Mrs. Bob McLeod.

F. Carlson, Mr. and Mrs. Elgert and Mrs. Shaw of Yahk were Creston visitors on Sunday, Mrs. Shaw being one of the eight candidates in the confirmation class at Christ Church that evening.

C. O. Rodgers got back on Wednesday from a business trip to Calgary, Alberta. With the exception of the district around Medicine Hat he states the prairie crop outlook was never brighter than at present.

Citizens are reminded of the community church services on Sunday at the Chautauqua tent, at 11 a.m. and 7.30 p.m. Practical addresses and first-class music will feature both morning and evening worship.

Messrs. Argue and Siddons and Misses Barrigan, Creigton and Vickers were motor visitors to Cranbrook on Monday afternoon, for the Dumbells performance in that city that evening, making the return trip after the show.

JAMES JOSEPH CALLAHAN, former Captian Engineers and Mining Company in Great War, is requested to call on or communicate with Mr. E. H. Cuddy, General Claims Department, C.P.R. Depot, Vancouver, B.C.

Creston Valley got its heaviest rainfall of the season at the middle of the week, the almost steady downpour that prevailed from 8 a.m. Wednesday to the same time Thursday alone accounting for one and a quarter inches of wetness.

That June is to be a month of brides is indicated in the display of wedding cakes in the Norris Bakery window the fore part of the week. No less than three of them were on view making a display that was most favorably commented on by all.

Creston baseball team had a great week of it last week. On the holiday they won both games at the tournament at Yahk, beating the team of that town in the morning, and trimming Kitchener in the afternoon. On Sunday afternoon Kitchener played here, Creston hanging up another win.

The sale is reported this week of the Bob McLeod residence at the corner of Victoria Avenue and Hillside Road, the buyer being Mr. Kursh now resident at Kitchener, who gets possession at the end of June, at which time Mr. McLeod will move into a new bungalow Mrs. Edmondson has under construction on Grandview Heights.

Plot owners at the cemetery will in future be able to plant out flowers, shrubbery, etc., and be assured of its growing. This week the waterworks and cemetery companies have combined to pipe the water from the Gibbs ranch connection directly into the burying ground. This fall it is the intention to plough up the cemetery and plant it to clover.

Mrs. Small was hostess at a miscellaneous shower at the Bluebird tea room on Monday night in honor of Miss Gladys Bird, whose marriage to Harold Goodwin, now of Kellogg, Idaho, takes place this month. About two dozen of the girl friends of the bride elect were present and in addition to having a highly social time remembered the guest with numerous articles of a useful sort for her new home.

Chautauqua patrons are reminded that the evening programmes start at 8.15 and the afternoon at 2.30 p.m. By utilizing the latter hour the children from Wynndel are able to come up at noon and go back on the afternoon train, and still see the whole afternoon's doings. Wynndel citizens showed their interest in the youngsters in practical fashion, the passing of a subscription list getting the funds to supply tickets to every youngster who was unable to purchase one direct and and some forty children from that point are seeing Chautauqua every day.

Chautauqua Under Way

Despite a steady downpour of rain that lasted all day and all night Creston's 1923 Chautauqua opened on Wednesday evening with an attendance very little short of that which marked the opening night a year ago, the turnout of children being notably large.

W. J. Truscott, chairman of Chautauqua committee, opened proceedings on Wednesday night with a brief but appropriate address of welcome to the company as well as appreciation of the splendid support given Chautauqua, and he was followed by the supervisor, Mr. Reece, who spoke in the same happy fashion.

The Calgary Kiddies, who were the opening attraction, made a tremendous hit with everyone in the large audience. They are a troupe of eight Calgary girls reanging from four to eighteen years, who gave a programme of literary, musical and dancing features that was loudly applauded throughout, the younger members of the troupe being the big favorites—theirsongs, skits and dances getting a big hand from everyone.

For the remaining five afternoons and evenings musical programmes will feature the afternoon bills, while at night there will be the usual musical prelude followed by a lecture by five of the best platform speakers available for Chautauqua work, and now that the weather gives promise of being of the summertime variety capacity houses are looked for each evening.

A Good Beginning

At a time when many people are inclined to look at the dark side of things, and when there is much unnecessary and quite uncalled for "blue ruin" talk, it is encouraging to read the reassuring statement made to the House of Commons by the Minister of Railways reporting on the operation of the Canadian National Railways for the year 1922.

The pessimistically inclined will, of course, say there is nothing very encouraging in a deficit for the year of $60,251,845, but when it is recalled that the deficit for the previous year totalled $72,662,278, the improvement is indeed gratifying, revealing, as it does, a betterment of a million dollars a month.

The most promising feature, however, is that whereas there was an actual deficit on account of operation in 1921 of $12,638,778, this operating deficit was wiped out in 1922 and replaced by a surplus on operation of $2,202,782. The 1922 deficit was, therefore, occasioned solely by meeting fixed charges.

In other words, whereas the Canadian National Railways went deeper into the hole, as the saying is, in 1921, that downward course was arrested last year and a little something earned to apply in meeting fixed charges. This would seem to indicate that the peak in financial losses has been reached and passed, and that improvement from this time onward may reasonably be expected.

Support for this belief is found in the fact that last year's results were achieved notwithstanding a reduction in earnings occasioned by reduced charges to the public. The reduction in operating costs were however still greater, due to the introduction of numerous economies. Operating expenses on the system, other than the Grand Trunk, were reduced by $13,350,527, and on the Grand Trunk by $2,887,311. Where it cost $129.32 to earn $100.00 in 1920 on the system apart from the Grand Trunk, and $112.77 to earn $100.00 in 1921, it only cost $108.10 to earn $100.00 in 1922, and on the Grand Trunk the ratio dropped from 95.53 per cent. in 1921 to 87.94 per cent. in 1922.

Other economies and savings effected since the amalgamation and unification of the whole system and the assuming of the presidency by Sir Henry Thornton will only begin to reveal themselves in 1923.

Had it not been for the reduction in charges to the public which went into effect last year, the showing for 1922 would have been considerably better. The Minister of Railways estimated that the restoration of the Crow's Nest Pass rates last year resulted in a reduction in earnings on grain alone of $6,500,000.

The figures for 1922 seem to fully justify the belief expressed by the Minister of Railways that the publicly-owned Canadian National Railways system will eventually prove to be the success which every Canadian hopes it to be. And, as Hon. Mr. Meighen pointed out, with an end to deficits in operation, the loss on account of fixed charges is not entirely a loss to Canada because, once the system reaches the stage of returns over and above fixed charges, the deficits of previous years will become interest bearing assets of the people of Canada. Furthermore, if under private ownership, the railways were not able to meet their fixed charges, Canada would have been called upon to assist them in the form of loans, or bonuses.

The appeal which Sir Henry Thornton recently addressed to the 100,000 Canadian National employees should be interpreted as an appeal, not to them alone, but to the whole body of the Canadian people. Pointing out that technical ability alone would not win victory for Canada's national railway system, Sir Henry appealed to every employee, no matter how humble the position he held in the service, to take a pride in the road; to talk it up, not down; to do everything possible to avoid waste; to be courteous to all and especially to the public; to try and make a friend a day for the C.N.R., and at all times, even in the face of difficulties and discouragement, to smile, smile, smile.

If the rank and file of the Canadian people will cultivate the habit of regarding the Canadian National as their own personal property—which it is—and every man strives to make it a success, no power on earth can prevent it from being a success, and one of the greatest of the many great assets of which the Dominion can proudly boast. It may for the time being constitute something of a burden for the taxpayer to carry, but by all working and pulling together the day is not far distant when the Canadian National will be an important factor in helping not only in the development and prosperity of Canada, but in lightening the tax bills of the Canadian people.

Valuable Recipes For the Busy Housewife

Wells Mock Mince Pie Filler

1 peck green tomatoes, 1 lemon.
1 tablespoon allspice.
5 pounds sugar, 1 tablespoon cloves.
1 tablespoon cinnamon.
1 tablespoon nutmeg.
½ cup vinegar, 1 teaspoon salt.
½ teaspoon black pepper.
2 pounds Sun-Maid seedless raisins.

Chop tomatoes fine and cook 1½ hours, then add sugar, spices, juice of lemon, vinegar and chopped raisins, then add salt and pepper. Cook half hour. Will keep in glass jars the entire winter and is delicious.

Palace Hotel Raisin Pie

Soak one pound of seeded Muscat Raisins in water three to four hours; drain off and put in saucepan, cover with water, add rind and juice of a half lemon and a little stick cinnamon, add sugar to taste and boil for a few minutes. Stir in at last, while boiling, ½ ounce cornstarch diluted with water. Cool before filling in lined pie plate; cover and bake in moderate oven.

Pie Crust

1 cup flour, ½ teaspoon salt.
3 tablespoons shortening, ice water.

Put flour into a bowl and mix shortening in with the finger tips, add salt and mix well. Add enough ice water to hold together well. Roll out and fit to pie plate.

You May Be Ill To-Night, Have You a Remedy?

It may be a disordered stomach, perhaps cramps or acute indigestion. If you have no remedy handy, you are bound to suffer. Twenty drops of Nerviline in sweetened water will ease the pain and enable you to get a good night's sleep. Whether it is Neuralgia, Sick Headache, or some other minor ache or pain, Nerviline can be used internally or externally, and will be found a true friend for every family. Large 35c bottles sold everywhere.

If a man never speaks harshly to his wife, he is either considerate or cautious.

CHILDHOOD INDIGESTION

Nothing is more common in childhood than indigestion. Nothing is more dangerous to proper growth, more weakening to the constitution or more likely to pave the way to dangerous disease. Fully nine-tenths of all the minor ills of childhood have their root in indigestion. There is no medicine for little ones to equal Baby's Own Tablets in relieving this trouble. They have proved of benefit in thousands of homes. Concerning them Mrs. Jos. Lunette, Immaculate Conception, Que., writes: "My baby was a great sufferer from indigestion, but the Tablets soon set her right and now I would not be without them." Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Brain of Living Child Photographed

A method of photographing the brain of a living person without affecting the health of the patient has been discovered at the University Hospital, Philadelphia. Working in the clinic of Dr. Charles Frazier, Dr. Temple Fay and Dr. Francis C. Grail made several flashlights of the inside of the brain of a ten-month-old baby. These photographs may prove invaluable in the treatment of water on the brain and cerebral tumors.

Ship Live Poultry to East

New Plan May Revolutionize Poultry Business in Alberta

From experimental shipments made by the province last year, the business of disposing of Alberta's poultry products will likely be revolutionized in the near future by shipments of live instead of cold storage poultry to Eastern Canada, according to a statement made by the Superintendent of the Provincial Poultry Department. In this connection the railways have agreed to provide special eight-tier cars with wire sides and feeding facilities.

Institution Working Towards Promotion Of Good Feeling Between Canada And U. S.

"Canadians are among leaders in this nation!" is the heading of a recent interesting article by D. M. LeBourdais in Current History Magazine, New York. The article, in addition to listing the Canadians, like Jacob Gould Schurman, United States Minister to China; Margaret Anglin, Mary Pickford, George W. Hobart, Walt Mason, George Pattullo, Arthur Stringer, Basil King, Chas. G. D. Roberts, Bliss Carman, the late Franklin K. Lane and Senator James Couzens, of Michigan, who have attained fame in the United States, goes on to show that the condition is reciprocal by enumerating the Americans who have become great in Canada, including, among others, the late Sir William Van Horne, Lord Shaughnessy, the late Chas. M. Hays, former President of the Grand Trunk Pacific; Sir Henry Thornton, present head of the Canadian National lines; Sir George Perley; the late E. B. Eddy, of "match-making" fame; George Lane, the well-known Alberta rancher, and the equally well-known Henry W. Wood, of the United Farmers of Alberta.

One of the most powerful and flourishing of those institutions which are working continually toward the promotion of good feeling between Canada and the United States—namely, the Canadian clubs, which have been formed in many American cities is the Canadian Club of Boston. A special illustrated article on Boston's Canadian Club is a feature of the Boston Transcript of a recent date.

"America is quite replete with men and women of Canadian birth," says George R. Hoskins, writer of the article, "and where there are a score or so together in a community they have combined into Canadian Clubs. Boston has one, a large one, active to the extreme. It was organized 23 years ago, with 18 charter members, and now it has grown to a membership of nearly one thousand.

"It was constituted, as the bylaws state, for the purpose of cultivating good fellowship and fraternity among the persons eligible to membership residing in this vicinity; for the entertainment of distinguished Canadians visiting Boston; for the discussion of problems and current questions of special interest to the United States and Canada; for the dissemination of information regarding the industrial, commercial and literary progress of the Dominion; for the relief of persons of Canadian birth or affiliation who may be in need of financial assistance, sympathy and help; for the development among its resident members of a spirit of civic duty and regard for the institutions and ideals in their adopted country; and for the cultivation of friendly relations, based upon mutual understanding, between all English-speaking peoples.

"It is primarily intended, of course, to bring together men who were born under the Maple Leaf, or who are descendants of Canadians; yet it welcomes as associate members other men who, though not strictly Canadians, have the interests of Canadian affairs at heart and who are in sympathy with the objects of the club. Thus is the point of view broadened greatly. These associate members can mingle, can discuss, can propose, can have all the privileges of the organization except voting and holding office. And about one-fifth of the present members are associates and include some of its most active workers.

BARELY LIVED THROUGH IT

A terrible experience had Edw. J. O'Connor, of Sault Ste. Marie. From boyhood he writes: "I have been a constant sufferer from Asthma and Catarrh. My nose and throat was often stopped up, and I had disagreeable droppings from my throat. When an attack of coughing came on, it seemed as if I would barely live through it. I would gasp for breath. Catarrhozone made me well. It's soothing healing action was exactly suited to my case." To those who suffer from Catarrh, Asthma, Throat Irritation and Bronchitis, Catarrhozone is highly recommended. Two months treatment, one dollar, smaller sizes 25c & 50c, at all dealers or The Catarrhozone Co., Montreal.

Flags of New Nations

Many Flying in Europe as Result of World War

A score of new flags are waving over part of Europe as a result of the World War and upheavels since then. Smaller territories as well as new republics and reformed old states carry new flags.

The flag of the new republic of Finland is an interesting one. It consists of a blue cross on a white background.

Fiume flies a flag of blue, yellow and purple, arranged in three perpendicular bars. The blue is at the left, yellow in centre and purple at right.

Fired Ancient Cannon

An ancient weapon of war which now stands in the Toronto University grounds, about 50 yards south of the university main buildings, was fired by students as a youthful prank in the wee sma' hours. The noise of the explosion startled citizens and had the police by the ears for a time. The cannon was sunk in Louisburg Harbor in 1756, recovered in 1900, and presented to the University of Toronto graduating class in arts in 1901.

New Interoceanic Canal

Serious consideration is being given to the construction of a new interoceanic canal, either at Panama or by the Nicaragua route. The Panama Canal cost in round numbers $400,000,000. The gross revenue for the fiscal year of 1922 was $11,197,000. In six years the canal has increased its business almost 300 per cent. and it is increasing.

A Modest Estimate

Tailors estimate that a man cannot dress in good taste on less than $4,662 a year. And yet everybody knows a lot of snappy dressers who dress on less than that, and have enough left over for such incidentals as food, lodging and general expenses.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS GAVE RELIEF WHEN OTHER MEDICINES FAILED

Mrs. Mary McLean Suffered from Rheumatism and Kidney Trouble and was Relieved by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

The Point, West Bay, Richmond Co., N.S.—(Special).—"I suffered from Rheumatism and Kidney trouble, and after spending a considerable amount of money on other medicines, I tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. They have done me more good than any other medicine I have ever taken."

Mrs. Mary McLean, who lives here, makes this statement. She says that Dodd's Kidney Pills are all that they are claimed to be.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are no experiment. They have been relieving Kidney disease in all parts of Canada for over a quarter of a century.

Dodd's Kidney Pills act directly on the Kidneys, strengthening them so that they do their full work of straining all the impurities out of the blood. Uric acid crystallizing in the muscles causes the pains known as rheumatism. With no Uric Acid in the blood there can be no rheumatism.

Largest Floating Drydock

Will Take in Bigger Vessels Than Have Been Built

A floating drydock, bigger than any now in existence, is to be constructed at Southampton, England. It will be capable of taking in the largest vessels in the world, say the Majestic or the Leviathan, or bigger ships that may be built. It will be 960 feet long—this dimension not limiting the length of craft to be accommodated—134 feet in width of opening, and have a lifting capacity of 60,000 tons.

Fourteen motor driven centrifugal pumps, with a total capacity of 20,000 tons of water an hour, will be installed. A maximum of 80,000 tons of water will need to be ejected, and it will take four hours to accomplish this.—Compressed Air Magazine.

Doukhobors Building Elevator

An elevator of 65,000 bushels capacity and a model 125 barrel flour mill will be erected Lundbreck, Alta., Peter J. Progressive Changes Which Have Come Over Conditions On Western Canada Farms

Very interesting statistics indicative of the progressive change which has come over the conditions surrounding the Western Canadian farm, especially as they apply to the farmer's wife and her work, were given at the annual convention of the United Farm Women of Manitoba. The figures in striking manner illustrate the rapid passing of pioneer conditions in Western Canada, especially in those phases of the life which peculiarly affect the wife of the tiller of the soil, making her lot an easier and more contented one. They incidentally prove that the era when men came to Western Canada bent solely on getting as much as they could from the land in the shortest possible time, has passed, and that with the sinking of deep and permanent roots the Western Canadian provinces have become an area of prosperous, comfortable and contented homes.

The survey in question covered a total of 307 typical farms in the province of Manitoba; eighty-five per cent. of which ran from threequarters of a section to a quarter section and thirteen per cent. of which were from one section to two and a half sections. In eighty-eight per cent. of the cases the occupants of the farms and homes were complete owners. The average home was found to consist of seven rooms and to contain a family of from three to four children. Whilst 37 of the homes had baths and one-third of the total were heated with furnaces, eighty per cent. of the farms possessed automobiles. Only forty-eight homes were found to be without music of some kind, whilst from one to seventeen magazines and papers were taken in all.

These brief statistics give a rough indication of the manner in which pioneering conditions are disappearing in what cannot yet be otherwise described than as a new land. The promotion of agriculture as the first industry of Canada's western provinces never wanes as a prime consideration, and this is not limited to the production of better crops and enhanced production. There are other factors as important as the development of new seeds and machinery. A requisite for successful agriculture is a contented helpmeet for the farmer, and continuous endeavors are being made in the direction of lightening the burden of the farmer's wife and expanding the conveniences and comforts of the rural life of the west.

Vastly different conditions surround the life of the western farm wife of today from those which prevailed a few years ago, and in few respects has the woman on the farm cause to envy her city sister. In a large measure the advent of the cheap automobile has revolutionized farm life and added to its pleasures as well as diminishing its labors. There are few farm homes not now linked by the admirable telephone service which meshes the western provinces. Schools dot the country at convenient intervals, with each province, from the needs of new settlement, organizing about one hundred new school districts every year. The provincial governments make an adequate distribution of books and motion picture films throughout the country districts. Rural health nursing has long been introduced and municipal hospitals widely established.

The carpenters are making splendid headway with the reconstruction of the Scott Block, and the Imperial Bank are expecting to be open for business there not later than the middle of June.

The June meeting of the Women's Institute is announced for Friday afternoon, June 8th at the Parish Hall. An important feature of the session will be to secure a secretary to replace Mrs. Cherrington who has resigned.

A. McL. Fletcher of Nelson, Dominion fruit inspector, was here on an official visit Friday. In the ten years he has been on the work at Creston he cannot recall so heavy a "set" of early tree fruits as in evidence this year.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Stark got away on Saturday to near Victoria, where they will reside for at least the next year, having leased their Creston ranch to Ogilvie Wills of Victoria, who took possession at the end of the week.

Mr. Bush has just taken a lease on the Mead ranch for a term of three years and gets possesion on June 1st. Mr. and Mrs. G. Davidson Mead are returning to Fernie to reside. S. Trombley has given a three-year lease to his ranch beyond the cemetery to Dong Barney.

Fred Benham had no difficulty in getting the decision over L. Lewis of Kitchener in the eight round bout they fought at Cranbrook on May 23rd. The local welter had not only the staying power but made the best all round ring appearance and the decision in his favor was popular with the crowd.

At the communion service at the Presbyterian Church on Sunday morning 17 names were added to the membership roll, most of them being received on profession of faith. The attendance at the service was very large and Rev. J. A. James delivered a most approproate address for such an occassion.

At the last meeting of Creston Masonic Lodge Major Mallandaine was the unanimous choice for delegate to the Grand Lodge which convenes at New Westminster on June 21st. At the last annual session the major was elevated to the office of grand senior deacon and the local brethern are looking for further promotion for him this year.

Following a brief heat wave at the middle of last week cloudy and showery weather has prevailed ever since. While the showers have been spasmodic and account for rather light rainfall the moisture supply is abundant and all small fruits are looking better than for some years back at this time of year.

The Ladies' Guild of Christ Church experienced a slight falling off at their annual 24th of May fixture, the Country Fair, which features the sale of sewing cooking and home produce, along with the serving of refreshments. This year's intake was in the neighborhood of $90, which is slightly less than the proceeds of the same event a year ago.

The men of Christ Church tried out out their hand at money raising on the evening of the Queen's Birthday at a dance in the Parish Hall which will net them about $15. The crowd was smaller than usual due to the short notice given of the affair. The music was by Miss Phyllis Small and Al. Lidgate, and was favorably commented upon by all the dancers.

Miss Rose Cherrington got home on Monday from Victoria, where she has been attending Normal School since last fall. In the final examinations she took a creditable pass in all subjects and stood well up in the list of successful candidates. She was one of six in almost 200 candidates to secure diplomas in cooking. In drawing her standing was equally good.

Miss Vida Gobbett, whose marriage is announced for early June was guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Miss Edna Holmes on Monday night last, and again on Wednesday Mrs. Percy Boffey was hostess at a linen shower in her honor. Both functions were attended by numerous friends of the bride elect and were much enjoyed by all.

Rev. A. J. Doull, bishop of Kootenay, paid Creston a visit on Sunday, preaching at the morning service and in the evening conferring the rite of confirmation on a class of eight candidates which was followed by a timely address to the candidates. Large congregations were out for both services. During his stay he was a guest of Rev. H. and Mrs. Varley at the rectory.

C. W. Allan, Major Mallandaine and C. B. Garland were motor visitors to Cranbrook on Thursday for the holiday celebration. They made the trip in the former's Ford sedan, negotiating the trip readily in less than four hours. They are agreed that when the new Goat River Crossing Kitchener road is coomplete the highway between Creston and Cranbrook will be all the autoist could ask for.

A fairly large and enthusiastic house was in evidence at the Grand on Friday night when the University of B.C. Players Club presented the Bernhard Shaw comedy in four acts, "You Never Can Tell," under the auspices of the Women's Institute. The offering was hardly as popular as their "Mr. Pim Passes By" of last year, the last act of this year's comedy being almost totally out of harmony with the preceding acts, which were certainly mirth provoding. Between the acts Miss Frances Knott and Capt. Crompton were heard in vocal numbers, the latter's rendering of the popular ballad, "Come to the Fair," being possibly the best appearance he has made of late. After paying a considerable expense bill the Institute will realize $20 on their effort.
