Fall Fair Features Most Attractive

The fall fair directors are making sure that there will be no idle moments for those who visit this year's exhibition, which is billed for three days, opening on Monday, September 24th.

The first day, of course, will be entirely taken up with the placing of exhibits and the judging. The department of agriculture at Victoria is again supplying the judges in every department, and by getting a start at their work early Monday afternoon it is expected the placing of awards will be completed in ample time to permit of the opening ceremonies at 2 p.m., Tuesday, 25th.

President Mallandaine has completed all arrangements with the Creston indians for their appearance at the fair on the afternoons and evenings of both the second and third days. Their performance will be varied, and will be given in costume, and will include a parade. The indians will have an indian village on the grounds, setting up their teepees on the evening of the first day.

There will be some other special attractions in the way of side shows, and on the afternoon of the third day the championship school sports will be the special attraction. A committee of the directors are visiting the outside schools within the week and are holding elimination contests so that at the fair the pick of the athelets—boys and girls—will take part in a big list of athletic events, which will most likely include a junior baseball match between Creston and Erickson.

The prizes in cattle, horses and poultry will not be awarded until the third day, and it is expected that greater convenience will be provided for the cattle and horses by the erection of a roof on the show sheds.

Special prizes continue to come in. $10 from R. M. Telford, general merchant at Erickson, having been allocated in $3 and $2 prizes in section 207, bread from any other brand of flour; and Section 130, winter cabbage, two head. The Bank of Commerce is again offering a silver cup for the best dairy type breed of cow in the show.

Wynndel

Edward Butterfield and Miss M. P. Hartnell arrived on Thursday last from Vancouver, and are guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Butterfield.

Julius Oure, who has been in the U.S. for some months, returned on Saturday for a short vacation.

Mrs. Sadler accompanied her brother, Fred Smith, on his return to Coleman last week.

The Winlaw mill closed down for the winter Tuesday noon, the water in the channel having dropped to such a level that logs can no longer be got to mill.

The dance put on Monday night by the Happy Five orchestra of Cranbrook was not altogether an unqualified success. The turnout was not as large as usual and by no means as many outside guests as have attended dances here of late. Those who came and danced enjoyed themselves and report having a good time.

Douglas Butterfield left on Saturday for Proctor to join the staff on the government dredge where he expects to work during the winter months.

Lister

W. N. Wright is trying out fall wheat on five acres of the Chalmers ranch, which he has leased from the Land Settlement Board.

Miss Murielle Millington is leaving for Cranbrook this week to take her second year work in the high school in that town.

Word from Nelson is to the effect that Miss Flossie Evans is doing nicely following her operation for appendicitis in the Kootenay Lake General Hospital in that city.

There is quite a serious outbreak of whooping cough in the Huscroft area, and most every home has a case or two of it.

W. Mitchell is home from Mullen, Idaho, where he has been working for some time back.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Long left by auto a few days ago for Los Angeles, Calif., where Mr. Long has a good position, and where they will make their home for the next few months at least.

Percy Lye, who has been visiting with the family here for the past three weeks returned to Klockmann on Saturday to resume his old job at the Continental mine.

The oldtime thistle is becoming a serious menace in this locality and unless radical measures are adopted next year to eradicate it the few ranchers who are looking after their land properly will have a serious weed nuisance to combat—and one there is no occasion to allow to spread.

Erickson

Gerald Craigie, who has been working at California points for the past six months, arrived home at the end of the week to help with the fall work on the ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. Wat rman, who have been residents here for some months, left last week for Nelson, where they will probably reside in future.

Creston Growers, Limited, are loading out at least three straight cars every two days now. These are a mixed lot, heavy to apples and other fruit, and a limited quantity of vegetables. There is little or no independent shipping from here this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Bean, who recently sold their ranch here to D. H. Linn, left last week for Red Deer, Alberta, where they will again reside.

The finish up work on the station is well along. The paint crew is busy on the exterior, with A. Bond, the Canyon mason, doing the plastering, and E. W. Ryckman of Creston installing the plumbing.

Express shipping of fruit and vegetables holds up remarkably well with so many mixed cars rolling, the express business averaging about 125 packages a day.

A sawmill outfit belonging to a Mr. Bentley was unloaded here last week and will, we understand, operate in the Arrow Creek section this winter on a cut of ties.

The two packing sheds at this point were re-opened for the season last week, with Frank Putnam as supervisor. So far only a bench pack has been put up, and it is not likely the grader will be run this season.

Miss Audrey Craigie is a patient in the hospital at Nelson at present, where she underwent an operation for appendicitis on Tuesday and is making a very satisfactory recovery at latest reports. Mrs. Craigie accompanied her.

Shooting Season Opens Tomorrow

The shooting season, which opens in all lines of game on Saturday morning, 15th, gives promise of being one of the best in local history. According to those who have been out grouse are more numerous than usual, whilst right now it is possible to see bigger flocks of ducks on the sloughs than was the case at the middle of October last season.

This year's regulations are much the same as in 1922, except that the open season for geese and ducks is a couple of weeks longer, this class of bird being legal shooting up till the end of December. Following are the dates and other regulations:

Bear and Goat—Open season Sept. 15 to June 30th, 1924. Bag limit, 2 goats; 3 bears, any species except grizzly; 1 grizzly.

Deer—Sept. 15 to Dec. 15; limit, 3, bucks only.

Grouse—Sept. 15 to Oct. 15, with a daily bag limit of 12, of which not more than six shall be of one variety, and a season bag of 50.

Ducks and Geese—Sept. 15 to Dec. 30, with a daily bag limit of 10 geese and 20 ducks, and the season's limit is 50 geese and 150 ducks.

It is unlawful to shoot from a vehicle, or shoot or hunt birds with a sailing or motor boat.

Nelson Fruit Fair

Preparations are all completed for the twenty-first annual Fruit Fair, which opens at Nelson on Tuesday, September 18th for a four days run. Excursion rates have been advertised on all transportation lines and a fine program of attractions have been provided. The Boys Naval Bridge of Trail have been specially engaged to give daily exhibition of their gymnastic training. Arrangements have also been made for the final match for the football championship of West Kootenay. Other attractions will be a bicycle race for the Kootenay championship, lacrosse match, horse races, inter-city school sports, whilst the Midway, consisting of merry-go-round, ferris wheel, side shows and concessions will be furnished by the Great West Amusement Co. The fair will be concluded on Friday, September 21st, with a grand Mardi Gras Carnival at which prizes will be given for the best costumes.

Canyon City

Miss Charlotte Speaker left last week for New Westminster, where she is taking a commercial course in a business college in that city.

Tom Hickey is home from Yahk for a short holiday which he will put in at fishing and hunting before returning to take on another logging contract at that point.

Mr. Ridd of Waldo, who recently purchased a 20 acre tract, from the Land Settlement Board near the mill, has been joined by his wife and young son. He is a blacksmith by trade and will probably open a shop at Canyon.

T. R. Mawson, Canyon's honey king, is busy stripping the hives of the surplus product and reports the honey yield this year well up to the average.

Tom Harris has had his road crew operating in this section this week ridding Goat River hill of stones. He has also placed a couple of danger lamps at the bad curve on the Canyon side of the new bridge.

Alfred Nelson has completed work on his new barn, the finishing touch being a coat of paint for the whole structure.

Word was received a few days ago of the arrival of a daughter in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Browell, Watrous, Sask., the latter part of August.

Mr. and Mrs. Pepperdine of Calgary, Alberta, are here this week on their annual vacation visit with their daughter, Mrs. Jim Bateman, and are accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Moss of the same city.

The school trustees have just awarded the year's wood contract to "Dad" Browell, and the janitor work will be done by George Strong for the ensuing term.

Canyon has four pupils attending high school at Creston this term in Nissie McRobb, Arvilla Cleave, Glen Messenger and Jeffrey Knott.

Alice Siding

Foreman Davies is making excellent time on hard surface road operations, and if the present speed is maintained he ought to complete the two-mile stretch planned before the bad weather comes.

H. F. Wood was obliged to shoot one of his milch cows last week, the animal having developed a serious case of milk fever.

Bob Parkin who has been visiting at Michel, got back last week, and is again attending school here.

Wealthy apples are being picked this week and, generally speaking, the yield is lighter than last year. The McIntosh promise a big yield, with much better size than a year ago.

Some of the haymakers are already through, but with most of them it will take another two weeks to finish. Considerable time has been spent this season repairing the corral fences which were damaged by the high water.

The Social Club had a dance at the Scotty Todd ranch on Friday night, which was fairly well attended, the music being provided by Tom and Bob Marshall, with the usual vocal numbers in between dances.

The attendance at Alice Siding school is on the light side this month, most of the senior pupils having to help with haying operations on the flats.

Mrs. Hilton received the good news by cable on Saturday that her sister Miss Edith Dalton, who is on the nursing staff of a hospital near Yokohama, Japan, is located outside the area that suffered from earthquakes last week, and was not a victim of the awful tragedy.

Sirdar

Miss Dorothy Cam, who was a visitor at Coal Creek with friends for a few days, returned home on Sunday.

Earl Swanson of Cranbrook was a visitor here on Monday, returning the following day.

There will the usual Church of England service in the schoolhouse on Sunday evening.

C. M. Loasby left on Sunday for Edmonton, Alberta, to attend a R.N.W.M.P. Veterans annual convention, which spens in that city on the 11th, and will also visit Calgary and Cranbrook before returning. He will be away at least a week.

Jack Cameron was a motor visitor to Cranbrook, going up on Sunday and returning Monday.

The work trains that have been at work here for almost six weeks on the fill at the Landing, completed operations for this season on Saturday.

In the absence of Yardmaster Loasby, Jack Cameron is in charge of the yard crew, with "Red" Maxwell of Creston also on the crew.

Mrs. Graham and child, who were guests at the C.P.R. Hotel the past week, returned to their home in Cranbrook on Sunday.

School opened on Monday with Mr. Wilby of Victoria in charge.

Dominic Lombardo of Cranbrook has been a visitor with his parents for a few days, returning on Wednesday.

Messrs. McLaren and Gibbs of Creston were Sunday visitors here.

Cranbrook Courier: Mrs. Bert Ross, who recently accompanied the remains of her husband to Cranbrook for interment, has decided to remain in Cranbrook, and will take up residence on Armstrong Avenue.

Ship Two Mixed Cars Daily Now

The carload fruit and vegetable shipping season is getting nicely under way at Creston Growers, Limited, warehouses at both Creston and Erickson, this week's outgo averaging at least two cars daily of mixed products, most of the cars running about sixty per cent. apples, and the balance of the load divided between pears, crabapples, plums, with a showing of cucumbers, peppers and tomatoes in the vegetable line.

So far there has been no trouble in finding buyers for these cars as fast as they are loaded, but due to the small acreage planted to somatoes this year many orders have had to be refused as there has not been enough tomatoes to meet the requirements of the cars offering, and this has had the effect of shortening up sales of peppers and cucumbers, the latter, particularly, being only wanted in a ratio of one to three of tomatoes.

In connection with the healthy demand for these mixed cars Manager Staples states that so far there has not been a single rebate asked for on account of stuff arriving in poor condition, but this fortunate state of affairs can only be maintained provided growers respond promptly with their fruit when advised to bring it in. Too ripe plums are a likely source of trouble and in all cases these will be shipped at growers risk.

Some growers are inclined to hesitate in bringing in their Wealthys because of a rather poor show of color, but it should be borne in mind that just now the market is keen for Wealthys and the wise thing is to get them into buyers' hands while the demand is good rather than sell later when it is quite certain the market will not be as favorable. So far there has been no complaint as to color.

Up to the present the season's pools have been closed on strawberries, raspberries, currants and cherries and general satisfaction is expressed on the returns received on all these lines. Considering the inferior shipping quality and big crop the strawberry grower has fared well. This is particularly the case with jam strawberries of which Growers, Limited, diposed of approximately fifteen tons at a remarkably fine price for cull fruit, the Growers, Limited, manager speaking in highest terms of the all round satisfactory trade relations with the MacDonald jam factory at Nelson, which handled the Creston jam berries this year.

A. E. Atkinson will be in charge of the big Creston warehouse this year, and expects to have the grader at work before the end of the week. Frank Putnam is in charge of the Erickson warehouse where it is expected only a bench pack will be put up.

The first car of export apples will roll from Erickson on Monday. This is a lot of about 800 boxes of Cox Orange Pippin, which are going to London, England.

Up to the present every car shipped has been sold f.o.b. Creston at prices that will compare quite favorably with last season, and the Growers, Limited, management is quite optimistic that in the apple line 1922 prices will be equalled.

Manager Staples is particularly pleased with the facilities provided in the big Union warehouse, both in the way of expeditiously handling the packing, as well as the splendid storage facilities. The cool basement into which the packed boxes are immediately transferred assures that apples going out immediately go into the refrigerator cars in prime condition for transport, whilst the frost proof basement gives ideal winter storage for approximately thirty carloads. According to J. B. Conway, who is in charge of Kootenay shipping for the Associated Growers, Ltd., and who is well acquainted with packing and storage facilities in the Okanagan, the Union warehouse is equal to the best in the province.

The Penticton Herald says Okanagan early apples are much superior in quality this year than last.

The Approaching Harvest

According to the most reliable reports by banks, elevator companies, railways and Government departments available at the time of writing this article, Western Canada is on the eve of harvesting the greatest wheat crop in its history. Conditions in all three Prairie Provinces are reported as being uniformly favorable, with losses and adverse conditions applicable only to comparatively small and isolated districts.

The net result is a generally accepted estimate of a crop of 500,000,000 bushels of wheat, not to speak of other grains. Such a production means hundreds of millions of bushels as an exportable surplus, for which Canada must find a market in other countries. At the same time it is estimated that the United States will have an exportable surplus of 200,000,000 bushels as well as a surplus carried over from last year. Crop conditions in Australia and the Argentine are reported as good, and it is even predicted that Russia will have wheat for export, although the condition of the Russian transportation systems may make shipment difficult.

With such a volume of wheat for sale it is inevitable that world prices will fall, especially as some of the European nations which in pre-war years were large buyers of wheat are now unable to purchase largely because of their depreciated currency and lack of credit. The sale of the 1923 wheat crop at a price which will yield a fair margin of profit to the farmer is, therefore, one of the biggest problems confronting Canada at the present time.

Another problem created by such a record crop as now seems well nigh assured is the obtaining of a sufficiently large army of harvest hands to see it safely garnered and threshed. It is estimated that from 50,000 to 60,000 men will have to be brought into the West for this purpose. With a heavy call for farm labor there is danger of unduly high wages being demanded—that is, wages higher than the selling price of the wheat will warrant the farmer paying. It would seem, therefore, a wise preeaution for farmers to take to write friends and relatives in the East inviting them to come out and assist them in the harvest.

A third big task which the 1923 crop will impose on the country is the work of transportation. Fortunately, both our big railway systems are well equipped for the task, and better equipped than ever before. Increased terminals facilities have also been created, and unless there is congestion in boat traffic on the Lakes, all should go well. Present prospects, also, are for a comparatively early harvest, and this will prove a most helpful factor both in harvesting and threshing operations and in transportation.

With a heavy crop all over the country to be threshed, there will be apprehension among some farmers that they will not be able to get threshed within reasonable time after cutting, and consequently a temptation to purchase their own outfits, although such an investment may be considerably beyond their resources and they may lack the experience necessary to successful operation of threshing machines. Wisdom would dictate a policy of "going slow" in the purchase of very expensive machinery on the strength of one exceptionally heavy crop and present conditions.

On the other hand, with no Wheat Board in existence and no possibility of creating a voluntary co-operative pooling system for this year's crop, great necessity exists for the most extensive co-operation by individual farmers in their respective local districts. They should endeavor to devise local methods of co-operation, whereby, instead of competing one one against the other, they would pool their efforts in the engagement and distribution of farm help, in the securing and distribution of threshing outfits, in the marketing and selling of their crops, and, in general, in the development of plans calculated to advance their mutual interests.

Such local co-operative arrangements have proved of value and substantial profit to farmers in certain districts in past years. Some scheme can be devised in most districts if the farmers only get together to work it out. What is applicable in one place may not be feasible elsewhere, but if a spirit of mutual confidnce, of a willingness to compromise differences, of fair play, prevails in any given district, untold advantages will accrue to those who make an earnest attempt at local co-operation the one with the other.

Canada's Lobster Industry

The importance and extent of the lobster industry in Canada may be gathered from a report showing that there are 600 factories engaged in this business in the Maritime Provinces, employing more than 5,000 people as fishermen and packers, and with an annual output of more than $5,000,000.

The Radio and Geography

Large Radio Stations Assist in Transmitting Time Signals

The whole earth is beginning to be fairly well harnessed up with networks of both communication and measurement; much filling remains to be done, but above all the large links must be accurately measured. Originaly the distances between the continents could only be measured when cables were laid and it required the undivided service of a whole cable during periods of time comparison—an expensive process. Now large radio stations transmit some system of time signals, preferably either seconds beats or a scientific vernier series as do the French stations, and these are received at the various observatories of the world where accurate clocks are maintained and frequent star observations are used to check them. Differences of longitude are deduced from these almost daily throughout the year and the results show very interesting systematic cyclic changes of a fraction of a second which are far above any errors to be expected from either the clocks or observations, and these are being studied by international co-operation among the observatories. In this work the Dominion Observatory is taking an active part.

CHOLERA INFANTUM

Cholera infantum is one of the fatal ailments of childhood. It is a trouble that comes on suddenly, especially during the summer months, and unless prompt action is taken the little one may soon be beyond aid. Baby's Own Tablets are an ideal medicine in warding off this trouble. They regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach and thus prevent all the dreaded summer complaints. They are an absolutely safe medicine, being guaranteed by a government analysis to contain no opiates or narcotics or other harmful drugs. They cannot possibly do harm—they always do good. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Urges Action By Powers

British Suggestion For Restoring Normal Conditions in China

Joint action by the powers is understood to have been suggested by Great Britain as a means of restoring normal conditions along the Chinese sea coast and up the great rivers, upon which the export cities are located.

The British suggestion, as understood here, would contemplate the use to a limited extent of naval resources, but would not necessarily involve the military forces.

The British suggestion is understood to have been a result of conferences in Peking following the recent bandit activities in China, and the American minister is said to have opposed any action which would weaken the already tottering Chinese Government. A dispatch from Tokio indicated that Japan also was inclined not to favor any naval demonstration.

English Potato Yield

A yield of over seven tons per acre, the highest on record, was obtained last year in agricultural holdings in England and Wales. The total crop was estimated at 4,012,000 tons, being more than 1,000,000 tons above that of the previous year, and 50 per cent. over the pre-war average. The area covered by allotments in England and Wales is estimated at 185,000 acres, and the quantity of potatoes produced on them is estimated at 650,000 tons.

Britain Is Now Building Huge Rigid Airships Which Will Hover Above Clouds

Keels are now being laid in Great Britain for huge rigid airships which will hover above the clouds with a number of small fighting machines on board ready to launch at a foe, says an aeronautical expert in the London Daily Chronicle. The task of these new machines in war, he says, will be to carry aloft to immense heights and to transport if necessary, thousands of miles, squadrons of swift, deadly, steel-built "attack-planes." These will be launched from high above the clouds, and will rush at 200 miles an hour and more earthward to carry other aircraft and raid the commerce of the seas.

"The airships will have the power, lacking in a small machine," the writer says, "of long-distance flights at a great altitude; while, on the other hand, the small planes they carry will be able to outfly and outfight any machine laden for a long journey.

"In the case of specially-organized attacks by these formidable airborne fighters on 'planes carried at sea by motor-ships, the tactics of the craft sent darting down from airships will be to dive pell-mell on their surface-launched opponents, and strike them deadly blows before they can gain the vantage-point of altitude.

"Height in air-warfare is the key to victory, and these airship-carrier fighters will have the advantage of being in a position to choose their own moment for a swoop upon enemy aircraft climbing frm the earth."

The Chronicle's contributor says that France, Italy and the United States all show a growing recognition of the importance of mobile "aerial harbors" for swarms of fighting-planes. The United States already has laid the keel of an airship which will launch single-seater fighters and pick them up again while the mother-craft is travelling at full speed. The first American "flying-aerodrome," he adds, will be ready to take the air this summer. It will carry as a normal load 12 fighters of the latest type.

Great Britain has completed the first seagoing vessel in the world designed specially for the transport of aircraft. She has a displacement of 10,950 tons and carries seven 6-inch guns, four 4-inch, and a number of smaller guns. Besides torpedo armament, the vessel is fitted with two hangars, enabling her to carry 20 airplanes, which will be raised to the taking-off decks by means of electric elevators.

Another advance in aerial efficiency is the construction, for the British Air Ministry, of huge seaplanes with a speed of 125 miles an hour.

One of the latest types has a wing span of 112 feet and carries nearly two tons of gasoline. It is fitted with twin Condor engines of 1,300 horsepower each, driving twin propellers."

Fame Of Manitoba Artist

Robert F. Logan Acknowledged By French Critics As Talented Etcher

Robert Fulton Logan, a painter-etcher of Paris, France, has returned to Canada on a visit. Mr. Logan has been described by a critic as "one who is fast becoming the foremost etcher of Paris." He is a Canadian by birth, having been born in Manitoba 32 years ago.

This is his first visit here in many years and he is filled with enthusiasm as to Canada's future. He has just completed a tour of the west, where, he says, there is a feeling of tremendous optimism, because of the prospect of very abundant harvests.

A complete set of eight etchings known as the Burgundry set by Mr. Logan has just been purchased for the library of congress at Washington, while the "Pont Marie," one of his masterpieces, now rests in the Chicago Art Institute. His painting, "Les Molineux, Vaillancourt," has been purchased by the French Government for the Luxembourg Gallery in Paris.

Livestock Market Situation

Good Stock in Demand in May With a Considerable Increase in Exports

Although extreme top prices for cattle were rather lower at the principal markets in Canada during the month of May than in the corresponding month last year, as shown by the Dominion Livestock Branch reports, there was an encouraging improvement over the condition of affairs in the preceding month. An extract from the report reads: "Despite the comparatively heavy weight of receipts, the quality of the butcher and export stock was of such a good character, and the demand for good stock so keen, that the range of prices was increased by 50c to $1.25 per hundredweight. In the west there was a weaker tone at the close, whilst heavy cattle were inclined to drag, but in the last, good quality stock held reasonably steady. There was a continued strong demand for good quality stock suitable for finishing for the British market and the domestic beef trade, in view of the steady increase in the movement to seaboard. Short-keep feeders appeared to be very popular with eastern farmers, who paid as high as $7.75 and generally $7 per hundred."

Relative to hogs, the report says that receipts and through billing show an increase to date this year of 150,000 over the same period in 1922. The supply was considered heavy for May, with the export bacon market showing considerable price reduction on account of heavy Danish killings, and consequent difficulty in clearing.

Prices on spring lambs, opened strong in May when few were offered, but as supplies increased, quotations became lower. The top at Toronto was $20, compared with $19 in May, 1922, and $17 in the immediate April. Montreal high was $18 against $20 in May, 1922, and $12.25 in April this year, and Winnipeg top, $13.50 against $16.50 last year and $13.25 in April.

Exports of cattle, calves and sheep have been larger this year than last. From February 1 to May, 31, 19,956 cattle were exported to Great Britain and 21,874 to the United States, compared with 3,563 and 9,355 respectively during the corresponding period last year. Export of meat this year up to the end of May were 9,888,900 lbs. against 7,750,400 during the same period last year. Bacon and pork exports were also larger.

Determined To Stop Bootlegging In Furs

Plans Made to Enforce Game Laws of Each Province

Bootlegging in furs from one province to another is to be stopped, M. B. Jackson, M.L.A., Chairman of the British Columbia Game Conservation Board, announced on his return to Victoria from Winnipeg, where western provinces were in conference on game and fur shipments.

Plans were made at the conference to have enforced, in shipment of furs from one province to another, all game laws of the province of origin, Mr. Jackson said. The Dominion Government will be asked to back the provinces up with legislation. Uniform royalties on furs are also planned.

"This arrangement, we believe, will put an end to bootlegging in fur and will place an official stamp on fur transactions from one coast of Canada to the other," he said.

Chances For Longevity

Dr. Eugene Lyman Fisk, diagnostician and author, says, "The average person does not stand the best chance of living long. The man or woman who weighs twenty or thirty per cent. below the average has the best chance for long life. It is safe to say the average individual reaches the ideal build at thirty. If he can keep near that build for the rest of his life, he increases his chances of longevity."

Settlers Are Lonely

Need For Women In North Of British Columbia

Young women who would become the wives of settlers in a new country and be willing to do their share of pioneering would find a paradise in the Toba River country, north of Powell River, according to word brought back to Victoria by Provincial Government investigators.

"We were asked by the settlers to make an examination of the agricultural prospects of their region," says the report. "The greatest need is women settlers. They are needed to give the men inspiration and keep things in order. There can be no real settlement without them."

Italian Buys Famous Bible

Was Owned By Late Emperor Karl of Austria

The famous Bible of the Borso d'Este, valued at $250,000 and belonging at one time to the late Emperor Karl of Austria, has been purchased by a rich Milan manufacturer, who outbid an American banker for it.

The Bible is illuminated by artists of the 15th century and is regarded by antiquarians as the finest specimen of its kind in existence. During his stay in Switzerland, Karl, being short of money, sold the rare book to a London antiquary, who in turn disposed of it to its present owner in Italy.

Interesting Discoveries Made In The Red Deer Valley Of Remains Of Gigantic Reptiles

Canada, too, has its "Valley of the Kings." It is not the gold-lapped remains of human kings which repose in this western valley, but the bones of ancient kings of the wild lands which stretched across this continent many centuries before man made his earliest appearance.

These dinosaur kings, who tyrannized over the smaller creatures in that early age, now rest their enormous bones beneath the earth in the "Bad Lands" each of the city of Calgary. Here, the prairie soil is interrupted and the deep canyon of a river marks the border of the Red Deer Valley, where the dinosaurs rested until man's curious hand, aided by machinery necessary for the task, took out of their ancient graves' the bones of the megatherions which form objects of great interest in the national museums today.

Once, according to geologista, the bottom of the Bad Lands was the bed of an inland sea, along the shores of which lived the huge lizard-like creatures whose skeletons have only recently been discovered there.

The western "Valley of the Kings" was practically unexplored until a few years ago, when the first amazing bones were found by diggers. Each season now, more and more interesting discoveries are being made. Remains of gigantic reptiles—for they are reptiles, and not mammals, which have left their bones in the Red Deer Valley—fifty, eighty and even one hundred feet in length, are being found at the present time.

The skeletons of the huge creatures brown and broken with age, and the weight of the earth and stone on top of them, are being dug out of the heavy ground in which they are buried, by prospectors who are unwearying in their efforts to force its secrets from the rocky ravine.

Geologists say that the dinosaurs date back more than three million years. When these great beasts flourished on this continent, they walked about by a great inland sea which stretched from the Gulf of Mexico ao the Arctic Ocean. The dinosaurs' remains are buried in the Edmonton and Belly River formations, formed by the waters of this inland sea. The ground where they lived was low and swampy, covered with hugh rushes and jungle grass and ferns, of species unknown at the present day.

Some of the monsters which are now being exhumed were carnivorous. Others were merely herbiverous. Some walked on four legs, others on two. The earlier beasts had huge bodies and small, weak legs, and were built somewhat on the daschund principle. They wallowed about like present-day crocodiles, never going far from the water. Later, they developed stronger limbs, and began to balance themselves on hind legs and tail, assuming a kangaroo-like appearance. Their immense size has never been exceeded.

Some of the animals were encased in a kind of armor. Others were altogether sea reptiles, provided with flippers in place of feet. Still others were like huge bats, smaller than the land animals. Remains of the latter are scarce.

In a single valley of the Red Deer River have been found bones representing several hundred of these prehistoric beasts. The favorite section for tourists is in Dead Lodge Canon. Here have been found duck-billed, horned and crested remains, many of them representing specimens hitherto unknown. The most perfect carnivorous dinosaur skeleton ever found anywhere came from this valley, and is now to be seen at the Royal Victoria Museum, in Ottawa.

Investigations of the wonders of the Bad Lands valleys has been going on since 1884, when the first dinosaur remains were reported by J. B. Tyrell, Dominion Government surveyor, but follow-up work began only recently.

So great has interest in this section of the country become, that the Canadian Pacific Railway has arranged for parties of tourists to visit the place this summer, the valley can be reached by motoring from the town of Brooks, on the C.P.R. main line, 110 miles east of Calgary and 66 miles west of Medicine Hat. The approach to the Bad Lands recommended by railway officials here is that from Dead Lodge Canyon or along the One Tree Trail, where one comes suddenly upon the great valley from a height above it.

All-British Inventions

Many Produced By Research Department Cannot Be Imitated

The Morning Post published some information which we imagine was quite new to the public about the work of the Engineering Research Department of the post office. One of the inventions of the department is an instrument which indicates the exact point at which any underground telegraph cable is in danger of breaking. By this means the collapse of any cable can be foreseen and prevented, and yet the instrument can perform its work of detection while the ordinary telegraph service is going on. Another example of the economy resulting from research work is that the original trunk lines between London and the north which weighed 600 lbs. per mile have been replaced by wire weighing only 40 lbs. per mile. Moreover, much better results are obtained by the lighter wire. The Morning Post says that the Post Office Research Department helped the Allies to an extraordinary extent in winning the war. The various devices produced by the department were "all-British" and our enemies could not imitate them. "So there's something in the English after all." Research is one of the few things which truly prosper in a business department of State because men follow research like a mistress or an art.—From the London Spectator.

Silver Rush In Yukon

At midnight, in Dawson City, Yukon Territory, as the celebration of Empire Day was at its height, tidings were brought to the dance halls and gambling places of the discovery of a silver ledge at Happy Creek, forty miles south of Yukon. Immediately the rush began and soon the waterways leading to Happy Creek were filled with rowboats, canoes and launches carrying eager prospectors.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Game Warden Unnecessary?

EDITOR REVIEW:

SIR,—I would appreciate it very much if I might have space to enter a protest against a local paragraph in your last week's paper, in which you state that at the August meeting of Creston Rod and Gun Club it was decided that another letter be sent "to Col. McMullen, chief of provincial police, urging upon him the necessity of immediately appointing a game warden for this district."

My objection to such an appointment is that it inflicts an altogether unnecessary expense on the community at a time when everybody is practising enforced economy in every possible direction.

And I use the words "unnecessary expense" advisedly because it seems to me that if an organization with the representative membership I am led to believe the Rod and Gun Club has cannot successfully enforce respect for the game laws what hope would there be for a special officer in a stretch of country which, I presume, would embrace the whole Kaslo electoral district.

The last game warden we had was Frank Callender, as enthusiastic a sportsman as one could wish to meet, and in the whole year and a half he held the position I can only recall him making one prosecution—that of a man using an automatic gun duck shooting.

If that was the extent of law-breaking back in 1914 and 1915, when times were much harder than they are now, why there should be a demand for a game warden at this time is not clear. If members of the Rod and Gun Club know of cases illegal shooting the local provincial police can do the investigating and prosecuting just as effectively as a high priced game warden, and so far as I can observe Mr. McLaren is not being overworked in the discharge of his ordinary police duties.

If the club members or other are aware of the game laws being broken as sportsmen it is their duty to impart the information to the police. This should be one of the obligations of Rod and Gun Club membership. If those who proclaim themselves the friends of game law enforcement do not care to help with such good work, what hope is there for non-club members and, likewise, for the wanted game warden? In the absence of close co-operation between sportsmen and game warden the latter must be a hopeless failure; with such hearty co-operation the provincial police can do just as effective work, and a game warden's salary of probably $100 a month saved thereby.

Some two months ago we had the annual gathering of Creston school district citizens—of which some Rod and Gun Club officials were members—protesting against the expenditure of less than $200 to provide raises in pay for school teachers on the sound principle that these were times for economy, whilst today we hear the cry for an expenditure of not less than $1200 per annum for a game wardens pay.

Surely this community is not more concerned over the preservation of buck deer and bears than it is over the giving of our young people the best possible school instruction?

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

The Way It Works

An editor south of the line answered a correspondent recently, who asked him to outline the probable trend of future prices for agricultural products. He does so in the following pithy paragraphs

"First I would ask you to forget price.' Forget dollar wheat, and ten dollar shoes Forget prices and think of human wants.

"It is highly profitable to raise wheat in certain sections of Russian Turkestan, for which the producer receives on an average, less than 25c. per bushel.

"It is highly profitable because labor is dirt cheap. No expense for fuel or anything else in harvesting because it is all done by hand. Harvest hands are fed mutton and if you want a lamb all you have to do is to go out and kill it. Nobody keeps track of the lambs and sheep in that section. They run wild. This is a natural irrigated district to which I refer and wheat land produces 40 to 60 bushels of wheat per acre

"The relation of production costs to living costs, is normal.

"Now then, let us look at the other side of it.

"Production costs of wheat in the United States, in their relation to living costs are abnormal.

"As business slows down, commodity costs will come down. The things which the farmer buys will cost less, hence his net return for low priced wheat in the things which he uses, will be more.

"Now then, from 1916 to 1920 the prices for Farm Products were higher, relatively, than the prices of commodities which the farmer bought. Four years.

"From 1920 to date, the prices of farm products have been relatively lower than the prices for things which he buys. In another year or so the readjustment will be complete.

"The pendulum swings. Business moves in cycles. The NEXT cycle, which is sure, inevitable, involves a period of relatively high prices for farm products and relatively low prices for commodities.

"The present trend of events indicates this just as clearly as the noon-day sun. Doesn't low priced wheat, and too much of it, indicate that farmers are going broke? Farmers who go broke leave the farms. Less wheat planted means eventually a higher price, or more properly speaking it means a price for a bushel of wheat which will buy a correspondingly fair and equitable volume of things which the farmer uses

"The conclusion which we draw from these premises is this: Farmers who can weather four years of relatively low prices, and who should have saved for the lean years during the four years of high prices, will find that the trend of economic events is ultimately in their favor. The readjustment is now going on.

"This is the time to BUY land, not to sell it, for the weak are forced to sell. Farmers who have conserved their capital, who have diversified their crops, who have run their business as business men, will make profits even during these lean times. Better times for the farmers are ahead."

According to this editor, we have to purchase our "better times" at a tremendous price. Farmers have to "go broke" in order that prices may increase to the point where there is a living in agriculture. And yet, I am not going to be bold enough to say, that his reply is not substantially correct. This law of supply and demand seems to involve an enormous social waste. The answer is: Organization. Union labour has solved the problem at least half way by this method. Standardized wages is guaranteed even if employment is not. That is something. Get behind Sapiro.—Farm and Ranch Review.

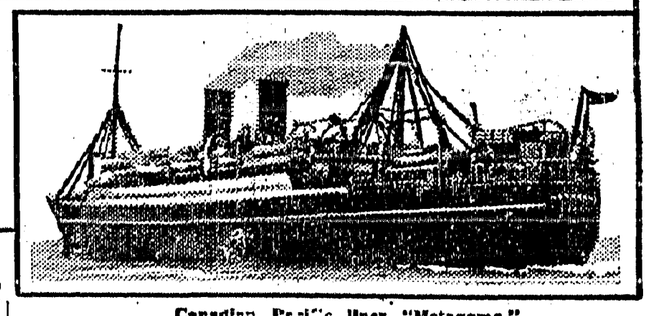
FROM HARD TIMES TO CANADA



Canadian Pacific liner "Metagama."

Do the pipers lament? Migrants aboard the tender of the

WHEN the Canadian Pacific steamships "Marloch" and "Metagama" last docked at St. John, Canada gained to the extent of over six hundred able-bodied and industrious farmers, farm workers and women from the Hebrides. Forced by the loss of their fishing trade through the war and German competition, and by general hard times to leave their thatched homes, these people have come to a land of promise and have been welcomed as the most valuable immigrants in years. Under the leadership of Rev Alexander J Gillies and Rev. John MacMillan, they have gone to the Red Deer district of Alberta and to various parts of Ontario, where they will engage in agriculture.

Most of them are from the island of South Uist, Benbecular and Barra. Here their families worked small farms of from ten to twenty acres and kept a stock of from two to eight cattle and ten sheep on common pasturage. In the spring they gathered seaweed for fertilizer, planted oats, barley, rye and potatoes, and when this was done took to the sea, some to engage in fishing, which brought but small monetary return, and others to join the merchant marine. In the fall those who were near returned home, harvested the small crop and thatched their houses. But there was not work for all. It was of no use to fish when there was no market and one man could do the work of the farm which produced but little. The wolf was at every door, almost, and the emigration officer received more applications for information and later assistance than he could comfortably handle.

These people having arrived and received welcome have already buckled down to work. Their losses at home have contributed to Canada's gain. A large party have gone to Red Deer where they will build their own church and school, and in addition to English they will retain their own native Gaelic tongue. The remainder of the immigrants have been split up as hired men in various parts of Ontario. Over four hundred were passengers on the "Marloch," the rest on the "Metagama."

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for a Floating wharf at Harrop, B.C.," will be received at this office until 12 o'clock noon, Tuesday, October 2, 1923, for the construction of a Public Floating wharf at Harrop, District of Kootenay, B.C.

Plans and forms of contract can be seen and specification and forms of tender obtained at this Department, at the office of the District Engineer, K.W.C. Building, Nelson, B.C., and at the Post Office, Harrop, B.C.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on printed forms supplied by the Department and in accordance with conditions contained therein.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank payable to the order of the Minister of Public Works, equal to 10% of the amount of the tender. War Loan Bonds of the Dominion will also be accepted as security, or War Bonds and cheques if required to make up an odd amount.

NOTE—Blue prints can be obtained at this Department by depositing an accepted bank cheque for the sum of $10.00 payable to the order of the Minister of Public Works, which will be returned if the intending bidder submit a regular bid.

Synopsis of Land Act Amendments

Minimum price of first-class land reduced to $5 an acre; second-class to $2.50 an acre.

Pre-emption now confined to surveyed lands only.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes and which is non-timber land.

Partnership pre-emptions abolished, but parties of not more than four may arrange for adjacent pre-emptions with joint residence, but each making necessary improvements on respective claims.

Pre-emptors must occupy claims for five years and make improvements to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivation of at least 5 acres before receiving Crown Grant.

Where pre-emptor in occupation not less than 5 years, and has made proportionate improvements, he may, because of ill-health, or other cause, be granted intermediate certificate of improvement and transfer his claim.

Records without permanent residence may be issued, provided applicant makes improvements to extent of $300 per annum and records same each year. Failure to make improvements or record same will operate as forfeiture. Title cannot be obtained in less than 5 years, and improvements of $10.00 per acre, including 5 acres cleared and cultivated, and residence of at least 2 years are required.

Pre-emptor holding Crown grant may record another pre-emption, if he requires land in conjunction with his farm, without actual occupation, provided statutory improvements made and residence maintained on Crown granted land.

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites; title to be obtained after fulfilling residential and improvement conditions.

For grazing and industrial purposes areas exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or company.

Mill, factory or industrial sites on timber land not exceeding 40 acres may be purchased; conditions include payment of stumpage.

Natural hay meadows inaccessible by existing roads may be purchased conditional upon construction of a road to them. Rebate of one-half of cost of road, not exceeding half of purchase price, is made.

PRE-EMPTORS' FREE GRANTS ACT.

The scope of this Act is enlarged to include all persons joining and serving with His Majesty's Forces. The time within which the heirs or devisees of a deceased pre-emptor may apply for title under this Act is extended from for one year from the death of such person, as formerly, until one year after the conclusion of the present war. This privilege is also made retroactive.

No fees relating to pre-emptions are due or payable by soldiers on pre-emptions recorded after June 26, 1918. Taxes are remitted for five years.

Provision for return of moneys accrued, due and been paid since August 4, 1914, on account of payments, fees or taxes on soldiers' pre-emptions.

Interest on agreements to purchase town or city lots held by members of Allied Forces, or dependents, acquired direct or indirect, remitted from enlistment to March 31, 1920.

SUB-PURCHASERS OF CROWN LANDS.

Provision made for issuance of Crown grants to sub-purchasers of Crown Lands, acquiring rights from purchasers who failed to complete purchase, involving forfeiture, on fulfilment of conditions of purchase, interest and taxes. Where sub-purchasers do not claim whole of original parcel, purchase price due and taxes may be distributed proportionately over whole area. Applications must be made by May 1, 1920.

GRAZING.

Grazing Act, 1919, for systematic development of livestock industry provides for grazing districts and range administration under Commissioner. Annual grazing permits issued based on numbers ranged; priority for established owners. Stock-owners may form Associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits for settlers, campers or travellers, up to ten head.

NEWS OF KOOTENAYS

After going without for just one year both Cranbrook and Nelson have again booked Chautauqua for 1924.

Trail is bringing in crushed rock by carload for the repairof the city roads.

The Courier estimates that the auto tourist business has been worth at least $60,000 to Cranbrook merchants this year.

The Dominion department of agriculture is operating a semi-commercial fruit dehydrating plant at Penticton this season.

Trail aldermen certainly earn the stipend paid them for their services. Recently one of the council meetings lasted 1 a.m.

Business would appear to be normal at Vernon. One garage in the town reports the sale of a carload of a five-ton auto trucks.

Reports from the Okanagan indicate that Jonathan apples are showing signs of a breakdown similar to that experienced last year.

Greenwood merchants still have faith in the old town. One of the grocery stores has just installed an electric coffeegrinder.

Tenders are being called for the erection of a two-room school at Kimberley. A lockup was erected a little over a year ago.

Vernon's public school attendance is about the same as last year, but there are more scholars at the high school than formerly.

In the rush to get out its cut of poles Lindsley Bros. are operating a night crew in the yards at Nakusp, which have been lighted with electricity.

The official estimate of the apple crop in the Kootenay and Arrow Lake districts is placed at 120,000 boxes, as compared with 150,000 last season.

The box factory at Kaslo has commenced operations. If there is any luck in a name the venture should succeed. Its owner is a Mr. Orchard.

The entry list at Windermere fair at Invermere last week showed a gain of 30 per cent. over last year, whilst the attendance was also much larger.

On the construction of the new fire hall at Trail foreman R. H. White will be paid at the rate of $800 a month for time actually spent on the job.

A guarantee of better patronage both in cream supply as well as butter sales having been given, the Curlew creamery at Grand Forks will not be closed.

Walter Foster and Alex. Bell of Fernie were last week each fined $25 for refusing to help fight forest fires when called upon by the provincial fire patrol.

Now that Penticton's orchards are coming into full bearing along with the need for growing cover crops still more water is demanded by the irrigationists

The Trail Red Cross Society has been forced out of business due to insufficient financial support, and with it goes the services of the district health nurse.

There were 40 entries in the better babies contest at the Windermere fair last week. One of them was 99½ per cent. perfect, and two others scored 98 points perfection.

Things might be worse at Greenwood. A Dr. Griffin has just opened up a dental office in that town, and expects to have it open at least one day a week for the present.

James Vallance of Vernon, who won a Starr car at a raffle a few days ago, has given the car to the hospital ladies auxiliary, who in turn are raffling it for the hospital benefit.

Richard Ross, a 17-year old Waldo youth, had his right arm taken off at the shoulder when that member got caught in the gears of a planer in a sawmill in which he was employed.

Cranbrook is employing a staff of seventeen teachers at the public school this year. One teacher has been dropped at the high school where the teaching of commercial subjects has been discontinued.

Everyone in Penticton is feeling bettersince the Royal Bank announced its intention of immediately opening a branch in that town. The branch of the Bank of Hamilton has just merged into the Bank of Commerce.

Kaslo believes that the road between Ainsworth and Queens Bay will be built next year, and sees some prosperity for the district in the clearing of the right of way this winter. This will give auto connection between Nelson and Kaslo.

Brass Commandments

Drama and William Farnum—There is a combination that becomes stronger with every picture in which the Fox star appears. His latest, "Brass Commandments" will be shown at the Grand, Saturday night. It is a story of the West, done in the breezy style of Charles Alden Seltzer, popular for his narratives of outdoor action. To make a good thing better Tom Santschi, who held such a memorable conflict with Farnum in the "Spoilers", gives the Fox star an equally historical battle in this play. There are two girls in the story.

Wanda Hawley plays a capable feminine lead opposite Farnum and Claire Adams comes in for her share of honors. There is action, tons of it; the story retains interest by its dramatic tensity; the romantic skein is well woven through the tale and the climax thunders with power. This is the opinion of critics who saw the film before its release to the general public.

SERVICE

There's a big difference between merely getting something done and getting SERVICE. SDRVICE not only sees that you get what you want, but that you get it as you want it—when you want it—at a fair price.

We carry this theory into practice on every repair job entrusted to our care. Our custom of doing a little more than is necessary rather than a little less has lengthened the life of many a Ford in this territory. It will lengthen the life of yours. Run it in and let us look it over.

"I haven't had a chance yet to get into my church-going clothes, have I?" he said whimsically to Dorothy, who flushed prettily and looked away.

"I don't see what clothes have to do with talking to me," she said half mischievously.

"Neither do I," he agreed. She had stepped aside and his horse's head was free. "I guess they haven't a thing to do with it, but I haven't been seeing things exactly straight lately. I reckon I've been half locoed."

Touching his horse with the spurs, he loped away to join Santry, who was waiting for him on ahead.

CHAPTER XIX.

Baffled, But Still Dangerous

When Trowbridge left Dorothy Purnell, promising to find his friend for her sake, he had assumed a confidence that he was far from feeling. No man knew the country thereabout any better than he did, and he realized that there was, at best, only a meager chance of trailing the miscreant who had succeeded in trapping his victim somewhere in the mountains. A weaker man would have paused in dismay at the hopelessness of the task he had undertaken, but Lem Trowbridge was neither weak nor capable of feeling dismay, or of acknowledging hopelessness. Time enough for all that after he should have failed. In the meantime it was up to him to follow Moran. He had learned from Santry of the place where Wade was stricken down, but how far from there, or in what direction he had been taken, was a matter of conjecture only, and the only way to learn was to trail the party that had undoubtedly carried the helpless man away perhaps to his death, but possibly, and more probably, to hold him captive.

Desperate as he knew Moran to be, he did not believe that the immediate murder of Gordon Wade was planned. That would be poor strategy and Moran was too shrewd in that fashion.

It seemed clear enough that parley of some sort was intended but knowing both Wade and Moran as he did, Trowbridge realized that in order to be of any assistance, he must be on the spot without delay. He had planned rapidly and he now acted rapidly.

One of his men was stationed at the big pine, as he had told Dorothy, but all the others in his employ rode with him as swiftly as the best horses on his ranch could carry them, to the spot Santry had told him of. There they found unmistakable traces of half a dozen or more horses, besides the footprints of Wade's mount, and a brief examination was enough to show which way the party had gone. Undoubtedly they had taken Wade with them, so the pursuing party followed.

It was one thing to follow, however, and another thing to overtake. Moran was better versed in the intricacies of big cities than in those of the wilderness, but he was shrewd enough to realize that Wade's friends would start an instant search, as soon as they should miss the ranchman, and it was no part of his plans to be taken by surprise.

Therefore, as soon as he had his victim thrown into the prison from which escape seemed impossible, Moran selected a camp site nearby, from which he had a view of the surrounding country for miles around in every direction, and scanning the horizon carefully after his vain attempt to intimidate Wade, he saw Trowbridge's party approaching, while they were still half a dozen miles away.

His first thought was to stay where he was and give battle. In this he would have a good chance of victory, for, by opening fire on Trowbridge and his followers as they came up, he could undoubtedly have picked off three or four of them before they reached him, and so secured odds in his favor, if it should come to an immediate encounter.

Second thought, however, showed him the folly of such a course. There was too much remaining for him to do, and the temporary advantage he might gain would not compensate him for the havoc it would make in his ultimate designs. He therefore called Goat Neale aside and said: "There's a party of Wade's friends coming up from the East, looking for him, and I've got to lead them away. You stay here, but keep in hiding and take care that nobody learns where Wade is. He'll live for a few days without grub and I'll come back and tend to his case after I've got this party going round in circles.

"You stay, and the rest of us will all ride off to the north, and they'll think we have Wade with us, so they'll follow us, but we'll lose them somewhere on the way. Sabe?"

Neale demurred at first to the plan, but consented willingly enough when Moran promised him extra pay; so he stayed, and we already know the result. Moran, however, followed out his plans successfully enough, and before night he reached Crawling Water in safety, while Trowbridge, getting word through one of his scouts of Wade's rescue, abandoned the pursuit. He had been prepared to shoot Moran down at sight, but he was ready enough to leave that work to the man who had a better claim to the privilege than he had.

Accordingly Moran had ridden into town, exhausted by the exertions of his trip and had slept for twelve hours before thinking of anything else. When he learned on awakening of all that had happened during his absence, he was furious with rage. Tug Bailey had been arrested and was on his way to Crawling Water in custody. Senator Rexhill and Helen had taken an Eastward-bound train without leaving any word for him, and to crown it all, he presently learned that Neale had been shot and Wade had been found, and that the whole countryside was aflame with indignation.

It was characteristic of the man that even in this emergency he had no thought of following his cowardly accomplice in flight. It might be hopeless to stay and fight, but he was a fighting man, and he really exulted in the thought of the inevitable struggle that was coming.

Sitting alone in his office studying the situation, he felt the need of liquor even more strongly than usual, though the habit had grown on him of late, and accordingly he drank again and again, increasing his rage thereby, but getting little help towards a solution of his difficulties.

He was enraged most of all at Wade's escape from Coyote Springs and was still puzzled to think how this had happened, for Senator Rexhill in leaving had kept his own counsel on that point, and Moran did not dream of his having betrayed the secret.

Not only had the ranchman been able to turn another trick in the game by escaping, but he had also evaded Moran's intended vengeance, for the latter had had no thought of letting his prisoner go alive. He had meant first to secure Wade's signature, and then to make away with him so cleverly as to escape conviction for the act.

He realized now, when it was too late, that he had acted too deliberately in that matter, and he was sorry for it. He considered the departure of the Rexhills a cowardly defection. He was furious to think that Helen had refused to listen to him while she stayed, or to say good-bye to him before leaving. The sting of these various reflections led him to take further pull at a silver flask which he kept in his pocket, and which bore the inscription, "To Race Moran from his friends of the Murray Hill Club."

"So," he muttered, chewing his mustache, "that's what I get for sticking to Rexhill." Leaning back in his swivel chair, he put his feet up on the desk and hooked his fingers in the arm-holes of his vest. "Well, I ain't ready to run yet, not by a jugful."

In his decision to remain, however, he was actuated by a desire to close with Wade, and not by any enthusiasm for the cause of the hired rascals who were so loudly singing his praise. They were not cowards, nor was he, but he had had too much experience with such people to be deluded into believing that, when the showdown came, they would think of anything but their own precious skins. He had heard rumors of the activity of the cattlemen, but he discounted such rumors because of many false alarms in the past. He would not frightened off; he determined to remain until there was an actual clash of arms, in the hope that events would so work out as to allow him a chance to get back, and severely, at Wade.

He got to his feet and rolled about the room, like a boozy sailor, puffing out volumes of smoke and muttering beneath his breath. When he had worked off some of his agitation, the big fellow seated himself again, shrugged his massive shoulders, and lapsed into an alcoholic reverie. He was applying his inflamed brain to the problem of vengeance, when hurried footsteps on the stairs aroused him. Going to the door, he flung it open and peered out into the dimly lighted hallway.

"Hello, Jed!" he exclaimed, upon finding that the newcomer was one of his "heelers." "What d'you want? Hic!" He straightened up with a ludicrous assumption of gravity.

"The night riders! They've . . ." The man was breathless and visibly panic-stricken.

"Riders? Hic! What riders?" Moran growled. "Out with it, you jelly-fish!"

"The ranchers—the cattlemen—they've entered the town: they're on the warpath. Already a lot of our fellows have been shot up."

"The hell they have! How long ago? Where?"

"Other end of town. Must be two hundred or more. I hustled down here to put you wise to the play."

"Thanks!" said Moran laconically. "You're headed in the right direction, keep going!"

Still Draws Benefit From Balaclava Fund

Non-Commissioned Officer of Light Brigade Is Ninety-Two

Only one non-commisisoned officer of the "Noble Six Hundred" of the famous charge of the Light Brigade is now living and he has reached the advanced age of 92.

He is Edwin Hughes, troop sergeant-major of the 13th Hussars, and is the only person now receiving aid from the Balaclava Fund which was organized shortly after the Crimean War to support the widows and children of the non-commisisoned officers and to provide old age pensions for the officers.

Miller's Worm Powders are sweet and palatable to children, who show no hesitancy in taking them. They will certainly bring worm troubles to an end. They are a strengthening and stimulating medicine, correcting the disorders of digestion that the worms cause and imparting a healthy tone to the system most beneficial to development.

Bishop Carried Widow's Basket

A washerwoman, a widow, was carrying home a big basketful of clothes at Durham, Eng. Alderman Alfred Pattison, a former Mayor, saw the woman's strength was overtaxed and took one handle of the basket.

A few moments latter they met Bishop Wellden strolling along the river's bank and he too offered to help. So Bishop and Alderman, each holding a handle of the basket carried the clothes to the widow's home a quarter of a mile away.

BEFORE MY BABY CAME

I Was Greatly Benefited by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sydenham, Ont. —"I took your medicine before my baby was born, and it was a great help to me as I was very poorly until I had started to take it. I just felt as though I was tired out all the time and would have weak, faint spells. My nerves would bother me until I could get little rest, night or day. I was told by a friend to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I only took a few bottles and it helped me wonderfully. I would recommend it to any woman. I am doing what I can to recommend this good medicine. I will lend that little book you sent me to any one I can help. You can with the greatest of pleasure use my name in regard to the Vegetable Compound if it will help others take it."—Mrs. Harvey Milligan, Sydenham, Ont.

It is remarkable how many cases have been reported similar to this one. Many women are poorly at such times and get into a weakened, run-down condition, when it is essential to the mother, as well as the child, that her strength be kept up.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent tonic for the mother at this time. It is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, and does not contain any harmful drugs. It may be taken in safety by the nursing mother.

Great Things Can Be Accomplished By Misers of Time

Martin Luther published nearly a whole library of books. When asked how he had time to translate the Bible in addition to all of his other work, he replied: "I do a little every day."

The famous "Pilgrim's Progress" was written by John Bunyan while he was imprisoned in Bedford Jail. He improved minutes that might have wasted.

Sir Walter Raleigh was another miser of time. He spent the years of his imprisonment in the Tower of London by writing, "The History of the World," a standard work for all time.

Dr. Burney, musical author, learned the French and Italian languages while travelling on horseback from one music pupil to another.

Valuable Staff Discovered

Buried in cement in a crevice in the masonry of the Vredensky Cathedral, Petrograd, Russia, has been found a field-marshal's staff. It is of solid gold, studded with 110 great diamonds and emeralds. It is worth two million dollars. It has been identified as a present Czar Alexander II. had made for his brother in 1878. The chief priest has been arrested by the Soviet authorities on a charge of having concealed this treasure from the Government.

Britain's Air Defences

Larger Air Fleet Very Necessary, Says Manchester Guardian

The people of Great Britain are about unanimous in supporting the Government programme for a larger air fleet. "If it was ever necessary for this country," says the Manchester Guardian, "to have a two-power standard at sea, it is no less necessary now to have a one-power standard in the air. Looking at Europe as it is, not as one would like it to be or as a few years ago it might perhaps have been made, who would dare to say that the Government, bitterly though one may resent the necessity, is rash, provocative, or extravagant in deciding to build an air force capable of holding its own against any neighbor which possesses a fleet demonstrably not intended solely for purpose of defence?"

UNREFRESHING SLEEP

If You Are Tired Out When You Arise In the Morning Read This

The woman who is tired out, who aches all over when she arises in the morning, who feels depressed most of the time, needs just the help that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can give her—new blood and strong nerves.

The number of disorders that are caused by thin blood is amazing and most women are careless about the condition of their blood. Quickly the nerves are affected and the patient becomes irritable, worries over trifles, does not sleep as well as formerly and is not refreshed by rest. There may be stomach trouble and headache. This is a condition that calls for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial and the first sign of new life will be noticed in your appetite. You will be hungry by meal time. As the blood becomes enriched it feeds and soothes the irritated nerves, sleep becomes sounder and more refreshing, your worries become less, your work lighter. These are some of the things that these tonic pills do. Try them for any trouble caused by thin blood.

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Sending Gold to States

A supposedly well-informed observer in the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce at Washington declares that the German Government, masked under the names of individuals, is sending its gold to the United States, where it has at present between $500,000,000 and $1,000,000,000 invested in stocks and bonds. Germany does not fear that the United States will confiscate it and has faith in the economic soundness of American business.

Tobacco's Effect Tested

Medical Men Find That Smoking Aids Digestion

That smoking may be regarded as an aid to digestion was indicated by Dr. J. W. Crane in an address delivered recently to a Western University audience at London, Ont. Dr. Crane said that he had at one time advised his students not to use tobacco, believing it weakened digestion, but tests had shown that the saliva of a smoker digested starch better than that of a non-smoker. Starch is a constituent of many foods.

From another point of view Sir James Cantlie, the renowned British medical authority, also regards tobacco as an aid to digestion. "Tobacco," says Sir James, "has its good effects in digestion, in lessening the effects of worry."

Shipping Men In Conference

Representatives From Various Parts Of Canada and U.S. Meet In Montreal

Freightmen connected with ocean lines from various parts of Canada and the United States, including New York, Boston and Baltimore, have been in conference at Montreal, under the auspices of the United Kingdom Conference and the Continental Conference. On Monday the party was entertained by the Canada Steamship Lines on board the S.S. Montreal, when a splendid luncheon was served. In the unavoidable absence of Mr. J. W. Norcross, President and Managing Director, and Mr. S. Isard, General Manager, the duties of host were carried out by Mr. L. A. W. Doherty, Freight Traffic Manager.

Mr. Doherty presided and he was surrounded by Messrs. C. H. Georgi, representing Ellerman's Wilson Line, New York; W. A. Coates, Robert Reford Co., Ltd., Montreal; Mr. Connor and Mr. Sidebotham, Furness Withy Line, New York; Mr. Nichols, Furness Withy Line, Boston; Messrs. Kenick, Hagarty and Wright, Cunard Line, New York; Major P. A. Curry, White Star Dominion Line, Montreal; Mr. McLachlin, White Star Line, Boston. Mr. G. H. Wells and Mr. Craig, United States Shipping Board; Mr. Kloss, Canada Steamship Lines; Mr. Wood, Canadian Government Merchant Marine; Mr. T. C. Lockwood, Cunard Line, Montreal; and Mr. Forbes, White Star Line Montreal.

Short speeches were delivered at the conclusion of the lunch, Mr. Doherty welcoming the visitors, Mr. Coates also made a brief speech to which Mr. Georgi and Mr. MacIntyre replied. The latter on behalf of the Shipping Board, expressed the hope that some of the prominent Canadians should go to Washington and endeavor to influence some of the hard-boiled eggs of the living conditions to be found in Canada.

Subsequently, the party visited the Canada Steamship Lines' new addition to the Saguenay division, the palatial Richelieu, which had just arrived in Montreal, and the visitors from the United States expressed appreciation of its equipment. Mr. Georgi said he was very much surprised to hear of the deep draught of the vessel and pointed out that it would be impossible for the Richelieu to traverse the River Hudson. He congratulated the Canada Steamship Lines on the possession of so exceptionally fine a river steamer.

SUMMER COMPLAINT CRAMPS and DIARRHOEA

There is no other kind of disease that comes on so quickly and with so little warning as an attack of bowel trouble.

One may retire at night, in the best of health, and before morning be awakened by terrific cramps and pains in the stomach followed by diarrhoea, dysentry, summer complaint or bowel trouble in one form or another.

At this season of the year, when bowel troubles are so prevalent, we would advise the precaution of always having on hand a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry so that you will be ready for any and all emergencies. You will find that a few doses of this valuable remedy, taken promptly, will be the means of preventing a great deal of unnecessary suffering, and many a time save life.

Mrs. W. H. Judd, 174 Catherine St., S., Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"Last summer I had a very bad attack of summer complaint, cramp and diarrhoea. I tried many different remedies, but they did not seem to help me. I heard of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, so decided I would try it. I only took a few doses, and in a short time I was better."

Japan Must Import Wheat

Forty Million Bushels Required and Crop Is Short

The crops of Japan will show a considerable decrease as compared with totals of last year, according to information received by the Department of Trade and Commerce. The estimated yield of wheat is 24,685,045 bushels, which is a decrease of 1,060,125 bushels from last year's crop. As the total requirements of Japan amount to about 40 million bushels annually, a large amount will have to be imported to make up for deficiencies in domestic supplies, it is stated. There are substantial decreases in the estimated yield of both barley and rye, as compared with last year.

The Family Physician.—The good doctor is always worth his fee. But it is not always possible to get a doctor just when you want him. In such cases, common sense suggests the use of reliable home remedies, such as Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which is wonderfully effective in easing inflammatory pains and healing cuts, scratches, bruises and sprains. The presence of this remedy in the family medicine chest saves many a fee.

RHEUMATISM OVER SAYS CONTRACTOR

Thousands of people everywhere have learned of Tanlac through the statements of others and have taken the treatment with such splendid results that they in turn deem it only fair to relate their experience for the benefit of suffering humanity. Such is the case with L. Desormeaux, well-known Electrical Contractor, living at 1066 Berri St., Montreal, who says:

"I couldn't do otherwise than publicly endorse Tanlac for I was lucky to find out about the medicine the same way myself. For nearly a year I suffered from indigestion, and also had rheumatism in my legs. About a month ago I was laid up in bed for two weeks with this rheumatism and a bad case of grippe. I lost about eight pounds and felt miserable.

"Three bottle of the Tanlac treatment, besides greatly improving my rheumatism, has made my eating and digestion better than they ever were. I have regained my lost weight, and am feeling extremely well. Tanlac is great."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37-million bottles sold.

The paint up campaign still continues. The exterior of Christ Church and the Lamont building, lately occupied by the Imperial Bank, being the latest to receive attention.

Ernest Beebe of Calgary, formerly of Creston, is renewing acquaintances in town this week, accompanied by Miss Bouchier of the same city. They are guests of Mrs. John Parkin.

At their September meeting on Tuesday night the board of trade named a special committee to investigate the possibility of establishing an auto tourist camp site at Creston.

The haymakers have had another week of ideal weather and already some of them have completed their cut. Due to the excessive highwater considerable rebuilding of corralls has had to be done this season.

Report reached here at the end of the week of the marriage at Spokane last week of W. Wolford, until lately employed at the French barber shop, to Miss Myrtle Speers, daughter of Mr. Speers, on McLeod Avenue.

Mrs. R. B. McLeod is a patient in the hospital at Nelson at present, where she was operated upon for appendicitis on Monday, and is making a very satisfactory recovery. Mr. McLeod accompanied her to Nelson.

The Swanson garage building, on Wilson Avenue, opposite the water tank, which was purchased by Vic. Mawson, is being remodelled and will be occupied by Mrs. Cannady as a clothes pressing and cleaning establishment.

August proved the lightest month of the year for revenues collected by the Creston provincial police office, the total intake being under $200. $87.50 of this came from motor licenses, while permits to fish in local waters accounted for $58.

Kootenay River ferry had a very busy month of it for August the monthly returns showing a total of 569 round trips having been made—the 4th and 11th being the heaviest days. Well over 1200 passengers were transported. 148 autos were carried and 91 saddle horses.

J. D. Moore of Kaslo, road superintendent for this district, was here at the end of the week making an inspection of work that is being done on the bridge at Rykerts. Work for the balance of the season will likely be confined to putting in some short stretches of new settlers' roads.

The drawing for the rug which has been on raffle by the ladies of Holy Cross Church was made at the silver tea at the home of Mrs. Crompton on Tuesday afternoon, the holder of ticket 166 being the winner. The ladies are well pleased with the success of their raffle which netted them just over $50.

Mrs. F. W. Ash and Postmaster Gibbs received the unwelcome intelligence of the death of their mother at Bournemouth, England, at the advanced age of 77 years. In addition to the two members of the family in Creston there are two sons in Australia, one in Scotland, and two daughters at home.

Mrs. V. S. McLachlan of Victoria, secretary of the B.C. Women's Institute, was a Creston visitor on Tuesday, in conference with Mrs. Lyne, the Kootenay Boundary advisory board member, relative to the programme for the latter's conference which will be held in Nelson most likely the early part of November.

Negotiations are under way for the transfer of the lease of the Creston Hotel from E H. Small to M. J. Benninger, who is at present running the Commercial. The latter is purchasing the new furnishings put in the Creston by Mr. Small when he took it over about two years ago, and the deal will probably mean the closing of the Commercial. Mr. and Mrs. Small will make their future home in Calgary, Alberta.

Holy Cross Church parishoners have just been advised of the removal of Father Bessette from Creston to Vancouver, and members of the congregation are reminded that the services on Sunday morning will be the last he will take in Creston. All classes in the community will hear with regret of Father Bessette's removal as he enjoyed a well-deserved popularity with all denominations, more particularly with the young men and boys.
