Fall Fair Plans Taking Shape

School Sports to Have Morning Start—Baseball to Again be a Feature—May be Calf Club Show — Selling Memberships.

The fall fair directors held a meeting in the Town Hall on Friday, June 6th, when various matters of interest were discussed It was decided to ask the Sandpoint band to attend and Mr. F. Putnam was appointed a committee to find out on what terms they would be willing to come. There will also be a ball game and other attractions It is proposed to make the second day of the fair a valley holiday and to start the school sports at 10.30. Arrangements will be made to have a lunoh counter so that lunch can be obtained on the ground.

The secretary was authorized to get a supply of membership tickets which will be distributed to the directors who will be responsible for the membership drive in their own districts. The response last year was very good and it is hoped that all those who joined last year will redew their membership and that we shall exceed last year's total as there are many ought to join. This subscriction covers entry fees for the subscriber and his family.

The formation of the Pig and Calf Club is not meeting with the support that it should from the boys and girls of the district. It is found impossible to form a Pig and Calf Club owing to lack of interest and partly on account of the scarcity of young pigs in the Valley. It is hoped, however, that arrangements will be completed for another year so that one or two complete litters can be bought and everyone will get away to a fair start. There are entries for the Calf Club at present, and the committee want to see this number brought up to ten. Chas. Sutcliffe is in charge of the club, and any boy or girl wishing to enter should see him, and he will also obtain a suitable calf, if necessary. The department of agriculture give a prize for each one entering this class varying according to the placing by the judge. This is a great opportunity for boys and girls to learn something of feeding and judging stock and parents will do well to encourage their youngsters to enter.

Mr. Hormaun, another new comer direct from Germany, has raken the former Lance Lowes place from Fred Lemke purchased the property earlier in the year.

Central Farmers' Institute

Don. Bradley, who represented Creston at the farmers' meet at Robson reports a very busy session. An interesting report by the chairman of the Advisory Board of the Farmers' Institutes dealing with action taken during the year on a number of matters effecting agricultural legislation was an early feature of the meeting.

Addrsses by the minister of agriculture Col. Fred Lister and F. A. Starkey, the former being in this part of the province for the first time, and a regular avalanche of resolutions from the institutes kept the delegates busy voting until a late hour.

The Creston resolution demanding grower control of the Federation met with immediate opposition, an Advisory Board member spoke against it, and endeavored to have the matter laid on the table. Following him, on invitation by the chair, a representative of the Committee of Direction addressed the meeting. However the delegates came out in support, the vice-president of the Central Institute voicing serious objection to th manner in which the B.C.F.G.A. conducted its affairs. Finally the matter was moved into committee by the Boswell delegate, and on a strong vote a committee of three was appointed—two from the Central Institute executive and one from Creston—to investigate and report with recommendations at the December meeting

A full report of the proceedings at the convention will be given at the qnarterly meeting of Creston Institute next month.

Bonners Outbats Creston to Win

Margin is 5 to 1—Home Run by Bonners Backstop Helps Win Contest—Brogan Pitches Well McKelvey's Hitting a Feature.

Creston started off the second half of the international league baseball season inauspiciously by dropping Sunday's clash with Bonners Ferry at that town by a 5 to 1 margin. While the local's defence, particularly Benedetti at third, was wobbly, Bonners won the game due their ability to collect hits when hits meant runs.

Creston tried out Brogan in the pitcher's box and the Irishman made a splendid showing having nine strikouts to his credit. He was replaced at second base by Fortin who also turned in a creditable game accouuting for three putouts and 5 assists without a slip, besides accounting for two of the seven hits amassed by Creston. Telford and McKelvey were to the fore with a couple of hits each, the latter's two ply swat in the opening frame scoring the only run garnered, Telord having singled to start proceedings. In the third McKelvey obliged with a triple and Boffey got a walk and things looked rosy for a few minutes. However Lawrence was equal to the occasion, getting the next three on infield rollers.

Brogan held Bonners well in check until the third in which session Benedetti had a particularly bad spell and the first Bonners counter came in on a hit by Kent and two errors by the the Creston third sacker. The fifth was a spectacular period of the whole game. F. Hall opened proceedings with a hit. Melin and Kent struck out but B. Hall obliged with a triple to score his brother and walked home a few seconds latter when Williams favored with a home run. In the seventh Mr. Williams favored with a double scoring B. Hall who got a life when Baum let the latter's fast drive get away from him.

Quite a number from town accompanied the homster's to Bonners for the game and were well pleased with the showing made against the battery imported from Spokane for the occasion, in addition to new men at short and third. Bonners is out to make an improved showing in the last half of the season. The fans there are not quite satisfied with the showing of only two wins in the first half. The score:

ENO'S "FRUIT SALT"

An Encouragement To Progress

The subject of immigration has for many years been a live topic in Canada, and never more so than during the past year or two. There is, however, this difference, that whereas for many decades the discussion of the subject was largely as to ways and means whereby a large volume of immigration could be secured, in more recent years the thought of our people has rather been directed towards the successful colonization of the new comers.

That is to say, where at one time the main objective was to get immigrants in large numbers to settle upon our vacant lands, the main objective now is to see that those who do come make a real success of their venture, adapt themselves to the new environment in which they find themselves, and, by associating themselves with the life and activities of the communities in which they locate, identify themselves with Canada and become Canadian citizens in thought and aspiration as well as in name.

To a greater extent than ever before native-born Canadians, and those of our citizenship who call the British Isles "home," have come to realize and appreciate the fact that immigrants coming to Canada from lands other than those under the British flag or speaking the English language, are really, even keenly, anxious to become Canadians in the full meaning of the term. Appreciation of this fact is helping to break down old barriers of prejudice, and the English-speaking Canadian is becoming more and more anxious to co-operate with and assist his fellow-Canadian or foreign extraction.

In a recent issue of this paper there appeared an article in the news columns outlining a plan originated by the Canadian National Railways, under the direction of Dr. W. J. Black, the directing head of the departments of Agriculture and Colonization of that system, having as its object the encouragement of community progress and development, and the attainment of the fullest possible measure of Canadian citizenship by those rural communities of the three prairie provinces which are of European origin.

The plan is simple, but far-reaching and of tremendous importance. It involves the carrying out of a series of competitions among such communities, to be held annually for a period of five years, with three substantial prizes, of $1,000, $500, and $250 respectively, to be awarded each year in each of the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta on the understanding that the money be utilized in community work of some progressive nature.

In other words, such of these rural municipalities or groups of school districts within municipalities in which the population is made up of people of continental European origin of the first or second generation, which display the greatest interest in co-operation among themselves to promote education, public health, and a better class of agriculture, and show the best results, will be awarded these prizes, which, in turn, are to be used in still further promoting progressive community betterment.

The community which through the co-operative action of its people shows the best schools, the most regular attendance of pupils, the largest percentage of children going on for secondary or university training, which takes the keenest interest in matters of public health, social welfare, music, arts and handicrafts, which enthusiastically supports community organizations such as agricultural societies, co-operative marketing pools, women's institutes and home maker's clubs, libraries, etc., or which evince the greatest interest and reveal the greatest progress in the improvement of agricultural methods, will be the winners of these substantial prizes.

But the greatest gain to such communities will not be the winning of the prizes, but in the direct and indirect benefits which will accrue to each individual and the community as a whole from the practice of these worthwhile things. The prizes are, after all, but an additional incentive to work for the welfare and advancement of the community which the people therein call "home." The prizes are but a tangible encouragement to excel all other communities in real constructive Canadian citizenship, to demonstrate through a determination to make use of and emphasize the best Canada has to offer in the development of their particular section of the Dominion.

Death Takes Well Known Railway Official

F. E. Trautman Was C.P.R. Publicity Representative For Many Years

Fred E. Trautman, 66, for almost a score of years publicity representative of the Canadian Pacific Railway in the west, died in Winnipeg recently. He had been operated on as result of a blood poisoning condition and failed to rally.

Mr. Trautman, born in Pennsylvania, worked on newspapers in the eastern United States and at Fort William, Ont., before he came to Winnipeg in 1912 as Canadian Pacific Railway publicity man. In taking the position with the railway under Sir George Bury, he was the first railway press representative in the west.

His territory, through which he operated since his appointment, extended from Winnipeg to the Pacific coast and included a portion of the western United States.

Ocean Bed Is Changing

Shipping Has Been Endangered By Upheavals In Pacific

Strange things are happening in the murky regions of the ocean bed. In the Pacific the bed has been rising so much that shipping has become endangered. Off the west coast of Nicaragua the charts show an ocean depth of 222 feet, but the figure is now actually 2 feet. Another sounding showed the actual depth to be 51 feet where the chart showed 1,608 feet. Sudden upheavals on the ocean floor recently worked havoc among the telegraph cables; many of the stoutest were snapped like string, including one of the latest, which normally takes five different sets of mesages at once in each direction. When a break occurs the cable ship goes out; delicate apparatus aboard shows the break within two yards of of the actual spot, and dragging commences. Up comes the cable. A new length is inserted to make the join, and so critical is the actual work of joining the strands inside that the film of grease on a man's hand can actually prevent the join from being effective.

BRIGHT EYES ROSY CHEEKS

The Birthright Of Every Girl

Dull eyes mean misery and weakness — a sure sign of a bloodless condition. Anaemic girls and women have dull, heavy eyes with dark lines underneath. The bright eyed girl or woman is always happy and well.

There is one way to make the eyes bright—to bring the glow of health to pale cheeks—that is to invigorate the body with new blood—rich, red health-giving blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do this and they do it well. Concerning them Mrs. Robert Devitt, Brougham, Ont., says: "My daughter became so ill and nervous we had to take her out of school. She was pale and thin; her eyes were dull and the least exertion upset her. I began giving her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and in less than six months you would not know her. She gained in weight and strength and is now the picture of health."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Aid For Faithful Servant

Man Who Travelled With David Livingstone Gets Pension

As the result of an appeal for funds to aid Matthew Wellington, the faithful servant of David Livingstone, the explorer-missionary, he is assured of an income of $5 a week for life. Wellington is 85 and lives at Mombasa, Africa, so that the pension will care for his simple needs. Matthew was with his master at his death, helped to embalm the body, and accompanied the coffin from the wilds to the African coast. The response to the appeal from Scotland was gratifying, and the money is now being sent to the old man through the Resident Commissioner of Mombasa.

Its Quality Sells It.—The fact that so many thousands of intelligent people continue to use Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil speaks volumes for its healing efficiency. Ever since it was first introduced it has grown steadily in public favor, owing entirely to its manifold usefulness in relieving and healing sickness. As a specific for cuts, burns, scalds, and various inflammatory pains its record is beyond reproach.

Praise For Canada

Of all countries in the world, Canada is the best place to live in at the present time, declared Lord Willingdon, Governor-General, in a recent speech at Ottawa. No country had a brighter future than Canada, His Excellency said, and in a very few years the Dominion would go forward to increased prosperity. In his recent visits he had been struck by the evidences of more satisfactory farming conditions than he had witnessed since coming to Canada.

PRINCE MAKES HIS FIRST WORLD-WIDE BROADCAST

Glasgow, Scotland.—Making his first world-wide radio broadcast, the Prince of Wales, standing on the famous Clydesbank wharves on the occasion of the launching of the Canadian Pacific Railway liner "Empress of Britain," said the building of the new liner was the most important milestone in the recent history of the British mercantile marine.

The vessel, the Prince said, represented the last word in shipbuilding and as to appointments would be found to have no rival. The building of what the Prince described as "this wonder ship" was another sign of the sound imperial policy of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

His Royal Highness went on to say the C.P.R. had built 16 vessels in Great Britain since the war at a cost of £20,000,000 and this when shipbuilding in Great Britain was at a low ebb.

Winnipeg, Man. — Radio brought the voice of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales from Great Britain to Western Canada as clearly as though he had been speaking directly through the microphone at one of the big Canadian stations. Listeners-in all over the Prairie Provinces heard the heir to the British throne launch the new Canadian Pacific liner "Empress of Britain," his companion speakers being Lord Aberconway, British shipping magnate; and E. W. Beatty, K.C., President of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Reception through CJRX at Fleming, Sask., and CKY, at Winnipeg, two units in the chain of 91 stations in Canada and in the United States that received the broadcast over beam wireless from England to Yamachi, Quebec, was excellent, and enabled newspapers to take verbtim the report of the speeches of His Royal Highness and Mr. Beatty.

Settles Old Dispute

Nova Scotia Not Liable For Militia Expenses During Strike

Ottawa, Ont. — The Province of Nova Scotia is "not liable to pay to his Majesty in the right of the Dominion all expenses and costs incurred by reason of the calling out of part of the active militia in aid of the civil power in Cape Breton" during June, 1925. This was the majority judgment of the Supreme Court of Canada, delivered by the chief justice here. Mr. Justice Newcombe dissenting, and Mr. Justice Cannon finding that liability was "conditional."

This settles a five-year-old dispute between the Dominion and the province in which the Dominion claimed reimbursement in the sum of $133,116.73—the cost of despatching and maintaining troops of the permanent force in Cape Breton during the coal-miner strike of 1925.

Simple Service For Late F. E. Trautman

Many Attend Funeral Of C.P.R. Official At Fort William

Fort William, Ont.—Impressively simple obsequies were held here for the late F. E. Trautman, for the last 18 years Canadian Pacific Press representative in Western Canada.

He was buried in the city where a large part of his career as a pioneer western newspaperman was passed as editor of the Fort William Times-Journal.

The cities of Port Arthur and Fort William were officially represented as was the railway company, and a large number of private citizens also paid their last respects.

Interment was made in the family plot in Mountain View cemetery.

Fort Myers, Fla.—Thomas A. Edison told interviewers here that he would urge President Hoover to seek election for a second term. The vast size of the business, he said, was responsible.

Underworld Haunts Raided By Police

Six Hundred Suspects Are Arrested By Chicago Squad

Chicago, Ills.—Nearly 600 alleged hoodlums were rounded up as a special "strong arm" police squad slashed into underworld haunts, bent on ridding Chicago "for all time" of criminals.

Stirred to drastic action for solution of the murder of Alfred ("Jake") Lingle, Tribune reporter, and other gangland slaughters, the squads, armed with shotguns, revolvers and tear bombs, crashed the thug hangouts with a vengeance. Patrol wagons, loaded, began arriving at police headquarters in a stream shortly after 10 p.m. and at midnight there was no sign of a let up.

The prisoners poured in so fast that the attaches of the bureau of identification were swamped and extra details were called on to assist in the work of booking.

As soon as word of the raids was circulated, a veritable swarm of attorneys, bondsmen and others interested in seeking liberation of the suspects also descended on headquarters, but their efforts came to naught, bail being refused in each instance.

Jury Acquits Oliver On Assault Charge

Son Of Ex-Premier Of B.C. Found Not Guilty

Vernon, B.C.—It took less than 20 minutes for the assize court to bring in a verdict of not guilty against Charles Oliver, son of former Premier John Oliver, charged with assaulting Dr. V. E. Latimer, in Penticton, last November 25. It was almost a foregone conclusion following the address of Chief Justice Morrison to the jury that Oliver would be acquitted and a murmur of satisfaction ran around the packed court room when the verdict was given.

Only four witnesses for the crown were examined and little time was lost by Hon. R. L. Maitland, K.C., chief defence counsel in cross-examination. Mr. Maitland put in no defence but immediately opened his address to the jury.

The jury retired at 3.40 p.m. and rendered their verdict at 4.00 p.m.

Legion Objects To Fiction War Books

Condemns Those Not Founded On Actual Facts

Cardiff, Wales.—War should in no circumstances be made the subject of works of fiction, was the view expressed at the annual conference of the British Legion here.

War books came in for a good deal of criticism and a resolution was adopted condemning books in which the author does not draw on actual facts and personal experiences. The elimination of war as a subject for fiction was urged as a measure of respect for dead and maimed soldiers.

Another resolution urged the council of the Legion to take steps to counter the "insidious propaganda" contained in books which slandered the character of Great Britain and belittled the principles for which she entered the war.

Greeted By Home City

Hon. R. B. Bennett Receives Rousing Welcome In Calgary

Calgary, Alta.—Hon. R. B. Bennett is back at his western home after firing the opening gun of his election campaign at Winnipeg, followed by a second speech at Regina. The Conservative leader arrived in Calgary at a late hour, but a large crowd was on hand to greet him at the station and wish the opposition chieftain success in his campaign.

The assemblage cheered the Conservative leader time and again, and they lined up to shake him by the hand. The Calgarian Highlanders, of which Mr. Bennett is honorary colonel, were on hand and rendered music of welcome.

New Order For Stockyards

May Be Permitted To Do Business In Restricted Areas

Ottawa, Ont.—Public stockyards were excluded from the restrictions placed on a designated area while testing for bovine tuberculosis is conducted, by an order-in-council passed by the Federal Government. It will mean that the Minister of Agriculture may issue an order that a public stockyard in a restricted area may be permitted to carry on its business just as if the area had not been established.

Saskatoon is the only place in Canada affected at the present time, officials of the Department of Agriculture said. While no order had been passed affecting the stock yards in that city, one is expected, they said.

When tests of bovine tuberculosis are being conducted in a specified area, there can be no movement inward except that of tested cattle. Stockyards protested that this worked an injustice on them and that it seriously affected their business. This led to the order-in-council which excludes them from the restrictive terms.

Trans-Atlantic Trip Is Postponed

R-100 Not Coming To Canada Until End Of July

Ottawa, Ont.—The R-100 will not begin her trans-Atlantic trip to Canada until after the general election on July 28. This was conveyed to the Minister of National Defence, Hon. J. L. Ralston, in a cable received here from the British Government.

The postponement of the dirigible's flight is in accordance with an agreement between Canada and Great Britain.

The start of the flight will be made during the last three days of July, the cable said.

Could Not Be Prevented

Boston.—No practical measures have been suggested which could have prevented or minimized the force of the 1929 stock market panic, according to Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock Exchange.

Ships Collide In Fog

Many Lives Lost When Passenger Steamer Rams Oil Tanker

Boston, Mass.—Flaming oil, spurting from the depths of a stricken oil tanker, believed to have been the "Pinthis," of Fall River, was thought to have claimed the lives of more than 40 persons aboard that ship and the passenger liner "Fairfax," outbound from Boston, when they collided in Massachusetts Bay.

So suddenly did the tragedy occur that not a single survivor of the tanker was believed to have escaped the fog-shrouded inferno which followed the impact.

At least a score of the "Fairfax's" passengers and crew were unaccounted for while the "Pinthis'" carried a crew of 19.

Aboard the big passenger liner scenes of wildest confusion succeeded the shock of the crash. Men and women, believing the ship doomed, hurled themselves into the sea only to perish amidst the raging oil which poured from the tanker in all directions. Others were burned in their berths by the white heat of the fire which seared the port side of the ship.

The flames which swept both craft melted their radio antenna and temporarily ended possibility of summoning aid. The tanker, afire from stem to stern, settled slowly into the water plunging from sight 20 minutes after the crash.

Was Sent By Radio and Picked Up Intact

New York.—For the first time a newspaper has been spread out on waves of ether and picked up intact by a steamer at sea.

The experiment was successfully concluded when the first page of the Evening World was sent to the United States liner "America," at the moment 2,310 miles from New York. The paper was sent by the Radio Corporation of America's new photo-radio apparatus.

A mysterious cylinder, with purple ink, spun out intact the newspaper page that had appeared on the sidewalks of New York. Pictures and type were reproduced as clearly as the city, while the steamer was nearing her port of call, Plymouth, England.

Winnipeg Lawyer Going To Norway

Will Represent Government Of Canada At Coming Celebration

Winnipeg, Man.—James C. Berg, Winnipeg barrister and a prominent worker in Norse societies for many years, received word of his appointment by Premier Mackenzie King as representative of the Dominion Government to the celebration of the nine hundredth anniversary of the introduction of Christianity into Norway, to be held at Trondhjem, Norway, in July and August.

Mr. Berg is the son of one of the earliest Norwegian settlers in western Canada. Representatives of Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia governments are expected to sail with Berg, early in July.

First Bride on New Ship

When the new Canadian Pacific coastal steamship "Princess Elizabeth" was being welcomed to Vancouver recently with a civic luncheon, at which city and port officials praised the company for its initiative and foresight in building up such a fine coastal fleet, Mayor W. H. Halkin, Vancouver port superintendent, promised to present the first bride who travelled on the new ship with a bouquet. So when Mrs. L. Goodge boarded the ship with the groom, she was duly handed a bouquet by George Fitch, secretary to His Honor, as the first honeymooner to take the Vancouver-Victoria trip on the "Elizabeth." Picture shows, left to right, Captain R. W. McMurray, marine superintendent, B.C. Coast Steamship Service; L. Goodge and Mrs. Goodge, and Mr. Fitch.

FIRE DESTROYS GRAIN ELEVATOR AT PORT ARTHUR

Port Arthur, Ont.—Three hundred thousand dollars damage is estimated as result of the destruction by fire of the Union Terminal Elevator workhouse. The building broke into flames from unexplained cause and the conflagration raged for more than ten hours before it was brought under control.

Thousands of lake-head residents, roused from their beds by the crackling of flames and the commotion caused by the action of all available fire-fighting equipment, gathered at the scene. The reflection of the flames, which swirled to 100 feet in the air, cast a red glow over the entire lake-front in the darkness.

Estimate of the damage was unofficial, as the head offices of the company are in Winnipeg, and representatives at the lake-head would hazard no figure as probable loss.

Fifty thousand bushels of grain stored in the work-house were destroyed as the flames roared through the structure, spurning efforts of firemen to place it under control. Eleven empty box cars belonging to Canadian Pacific and Canadian Natoinal Railways took fire on the siding adjoining the burning building and were completely destroyed.

Winnipeg, Man.—Officials of Union Terminal Limited, refused to estimate loss as the result of fire destruction of the company's work-house at Port Arthur. It was stated at the head office here that "absolutely no figures are available."

Only the cement tanks of the Union Terminal plant remain intact. The grain they contained may be ruined by heat. The watchman had a narrow escape getting out in the darkness after the light went out. Heat from the burning pile was intense.

Successor Not Appointed

Australia Has Not Yet Chosen New Governor-General

Canberra, Australia.—In well-informed political circles it is stated Lord Somers, governor of the State of Victoria, will act as governor-general of Australia for about six months after the departure of the retiring Governor-General, Lord Stonehaven, in October.

The reason given is that Premier Scullin has asked to have the appointment of Lord Stonehaven's successor deferred in order to enable him to consult the Dominions office when he is in London attending the Imperial conference in October.

Some time ago the appointment of a native-born Australian to the post was mooted and the name of Rt. Hon. Sir Isaac Isaacs, chief justice of Australia, was mentioned. Premier Scullin at the time said there was nothing to prevent the appointment of an Australian.

Contracts End In December

Married Women Will Not Be Employed In Winnipeg Schools

Winnipeg, Man. — Married women will not in future be employed as teachers in Winnipeg schools, it was decided at a meeting of the school board.

Married women now employed will be given notice that their contract will terminate December 31, 1930, unless exceptional circumstances prevail to warrant continued employment after that date.

It was also decided, in view of the existing unemployment situation, that the board will "record its disapproval of the acceptance by its employees of remunerative vacational employment."

Apply For Oil Leases

Prince Albert, Sask.—Saskatchewan's latest oil boom is apparently gathering momentum. The Dominion land office here has received two applications for oil leases on two sections of land in the vicinity of Kakwa, 17 miles south of Hudson Bay Junction, where oil and natural gas was struck by water well drillers recently. The applications have been forwarded to Ottawa for approval.

young men and fit men, and these veterans who have served the state so well are crowded out—but I am thankful that we shall now be able to make provision for them.

"The old and prematurely old veteran has been provided for in the past by other countries by means of Old Soldiers' Homes. With Canada, the question of providing for the aged veteran is a new one; but we believe this country's interests will be better served, the veteran happier and better provided for by granting him an allowance whereby he can live at home with his wife or other relatives and retain his independence, rather than by insisting that he must leave his relatives and friends and go into an institution. Bill 19 is designed with a view to building up and re-establishing the veteran's home, rather than disintegrating it by insisting that he go into an institution.

"I sincerely hope and intend to encourage and if posisble stimulate, a movement of the veterans (who are granted this allowance) to the country towns, villages and rural areas generally where they will lead a happier, more healthful and restful life than in the crowded industrial centres. incidentally, they will live far more economically too.

"Decisions under the new Bill will be made by an independent committee of three in Ottawa; but the preliminary investigations, medical examinations, and so forth, will be performed by the Department's own employees throughout the country.

"These prematurely old, and totally unemployable men, who have not been found to be entitled to pension, have represented the Department's greatest problem, and I am thankful that the resolution which I offered to the House of Commons on this question has now at last resulted in definite legislation enabling us to take care of these men."

RUSSIAN CONDITIONS RATHER ALARMING

Rev. W. Small Says People Are Ragged and Undernourished

Rev. W. Small, latterly of the United Church of Canada mission and an extensive traveller in China and Russia, was the guest speaker at the luncheon Tuesday of the Cranbrook Rotary club. The reverend gentleman spoke on conditions in Russia which he said, despite press despatches that Russia was a fairly prosperous country, did not justify his impresions of the country. In Moscow curb begging was a common occurrence, with the vast majority of the people poorly clothed and all outward indications pointing to anything but a prosperous people. Red tape of officialdom was marked on every hand in a land which claimed equality for everyone.

Russia was exporting its pulpwood by trainloads to Germany. the speaker said. All along the Siberian railway travellers observed the heavy shipment of pulpwood going forward to the German paper mills.

As Others See Us

"O, would some power the gift to gie us,
To see ourselves as others see us:
It would from many a blunder free us,
And foolish notions."—Burns.

I've lived in this Valley for nearly twelve years,
And now I am leaving without any tears.
If God cent me here, it was in his wrath;
In His goodness, I'm glad he has altered my path.

With my nose to the grindstone (bucking big stumps)
I discovered my hand still held no trumps;
Planted fruit trees, waited for apples to grow;
One cannot live on air, so decided to go.

There's some perfect gentlemen in the Valley, I know,
I will never forget, wherever I go.
They have treated me always like a good friend;
Their friendship I'll keep right on round the bend.

When I visit this district again some day
I know where I'll get a drink, and nothing to pay
A call on old Bob, the Valleys shining star;
He's sure to have a bottle of good Old Par.

Ther'es the Doc., a gentleman through and through;
A kind word for all; a friend staunch and true.
There's none of the mongrel breed in his blood;
His ancestors he'll trace till before the flood.

And other good men I've met in my time—
M. Craigie, Bill Crawford and Col. Mallandaine;
George Johnson, George Kelly, Frank Putnam, Sam Speers—
They've all been real friends to me many years.

Other good friends, not mentioned here;
Here's your health with a drink of beer.
If you get downhearted when out of luck
Just show the fakirs that you have pluck.

And you, who think you're better than I;
I'll see you in hades bye and bye.
My faults and follies you're ready to t ll,
Darn your blasted hides you can go to ——— ! —GEO. DAVIE.

RETURNED VETERANS ALLOWANCE

Minister Interviewed On Passage of Bill

Government's Progressive Legislation Approved by Veterans—Bill No 19 Operative Shortly

"It is a matter of great personal satisfaction to me to see that Bill No. 19—the Veterans' Allowance Act—has finally been approved and will be operative very shortly.

"I have realized for some time that the prematurely aged veteran or the veteran who is permanently unemployable, but not pensioned, is a problem this country would have to meet, and Bill 19 was designed to meet that situation. Whether a man incurred a disability as a result of his service or not, I am satisfied that if he saw service in the battle areas and is totally incapable of working the people of this country do not want to see him in need.

"More scientific methods of production in both industry and agriculture have increased the output but reduced the man-power required. The veteran of sixty and over, if he is not in a position has under these conditions very little chance to get a permanent job. The permanently disabled man, regardless of his age, has very little chance to procure a job under these conditions either. The demand is for

Jubilee Impressions

A Few Reasons Why Manitoba Is Holding Celebration

The enthusiasm with which the people of Manitoba are preparing to celebrate the Diamond Jubilee of the Province, on July 15 next, might lead an outsider, unfamiliar with our progress and development, to enquire what it was all about. He would need to be told that the Province was formally admitted into the Canadian Confederation on July 15, 1870, and that the present generation was showing its pride and satisfaction at what had been accomplished in the sixty-year period.

The outstanding fact in connection with Manitoba's history as a Province is that her people have practically achieved the impossible in the production of foodstuffs. One need not go far back into the annals of the nineteenth century to find a positive and emphatic declaration of opinion on the country's resources, from a man whose position should have given him the right to speak with authority. He was foolish enough to insist, on more than one occasion, that wheat would never grow in any place more than ten miles from the Red River. His cue was taken up by many lesser "authorities," and the whole territory was apparently doomed and damned as a source of cereal food supplies. What has been the real situation? Manitoba wheat has secured a firm position of leadership in the markets of the world, and has held that distinction for more than forty years. Without desiring to reflect in any way upon the fertility of the Red River district, it may be added that most of the wheat is produced much more than ten miles from that famous waterway. Oats and barley add their testimony in rebuttal of the foolish prophecies of men who should have realized the value of silence. The cultivation of grain, in fact, has provided the foundation for Manitoba's progress. Farmers who knew their business came here from other lands, mostly from Ontario, to take a look at the soil and examine the other elements of crop production. In nearly every case one look was enough. Those who stayed and worked with energy and determination, succeeded in establishing forever the reputation of this Province as a centre of high-class agricultural prosperity. They were not daunted by weird tales of visitations of grasshoppers, drought, frost, hail, floods and all the other torments of the "crape-hanging" era. Nor did they flinch on the rare occasions when they encountered these torments, singly or in combination. They persevered and won through; perhaps they did not realize at the time that they were "achieving the impossible."

The dire predictions regarding the possibilities, or rather the impossibilities, of grain production were repeated and multiplied when it came to the consideration of other items relating to human sustenance. They were, it seems, to be disregarded as possible factors in the economic life of the new Province. Could live stock, for instance, be expected to survive in a land where even the buffaloes, with unlimited grazing areas at their disposal, found it difficult to exist? Absurd, according to the wiseacres of that day. But the agricultural pioneers did not agree with them. They "knew their onions," but they knew even more about their hay and grass, and chopstuffs, and straw-stacks and shelter and stabling. They knew, too, that if a little care were exercised in choosing the proper breeds, and some degree of special attention were accorded the stock during the comparatively short periods of abnormal winter weather, good results could be obtained. The justification of their faith is to be found in the prize distributions at leading stock fairs throughout Canada and the United States during the past thirty years. Manitoba cattle have held their own with the best that could be produced anywhere. It is a matter of gratification to the people of Manitoba that her first citizen, his Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, James Duncan McGregor, has risen to his eminent position in the community largely through his success as a breeder of pure-bred cattle. That success has been due to intelligence, persistence, hard work and a refusal to believe that "it couldn't be done."

The story is the same in regard to other phases of farm activity. Who is there among the middle-aged people of Manitoba who does not remember the day when butter from Eastern Canada was considered essential to human existence here? A quarter of a century ago it was almost impious to suggest that this Province should manufacture its own butter. Today the Manitoba product is known and appreciated all over Canada, and in many foreign markets as well. During the past ten years it has won most of the cups and prizes at leading exhibitions in every part of the Dominion, and has set a standard in the manufacture of butter which is a model for creamerymen in all the other provinces. As for eggs, the leading authority in the Dominion is on record with the statement that for excellent flavor and food value the product of the Manitoba hen is invaluable. Honey represents another instance where local achievement in the matter of quality has crowded out the foreign article. The canny housewife who buys a pail or jar of Manitoba honey knows she is getting the best that is to be had.

The refusal to lie down or retreat in the face of serious problems has always been a characteristic of Manitoba pioneers, and luckily that fine spirit persists in most of their descendants. Courage, patience, enthusiasm, perseverance and idealism, coupled with a lavish expenditure of muscular energy and perspiration, has gone far towards giving Manitoba so proud a place in Canada and in the Empire. Incidentally the prophets of famine and starvation have been put to shame. That in itself is worth while.—Old Timer.

THE RISEN LORD AND THE GREAT COMMISSION

Golden Text: "Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all the nations." —Matthew 28.19.

Lesson: Matthew 28.1-20.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 116.1-9.

Explanations and Comments

The Empty Sepulcher and Its Message, verses 1-6.—The Gospels do not describe the resurrection; they report it simply and briefly. Matthew tells of the visit of Mary Magdalene and the other Mary to the sepulcher late on Saturday, the Jewish Sabbath, as Sunday, the first day of the week, began to dawn. Mary Magdalene was from Magdala, a city on the western shore of the Sea of Galilee, who had been freed from "seven demons," Luke 8.2, and who is often wrongly confounded with "the woman who was a sinner," Luke 7. "The other Mary" was the mother of James, Mark 16.1. These two had been present at the crucifixion and the burial, Matthew 27.56, 61.

Matthew adds here, what no other Evangelist does, that there was a great earthquake, and an angel rolled the stone away and sat on it. His appearance was dazzling like lightning, and his raiment white as snow; through fear of him the watchers trembled and became as helpless as dead men. The Greek word for angel means "one who is sent as a messenger. The angel "answered" the look of amazement and fear of the women and said: "Fear not ye, for I know that ye seek Jesus who hath been crucified." "The 'for' gives a reason for the soothing tone of the address. The angel recognizes them as friends of the Crucified."—A. B. Bruce. Then he added the amazing news: "He is not here; for He is risen even as He said." See Matthew 12.40; 16.21; 27. 63. "Come," he further added, "see the place where the Lord lay." The condition of the tomb as seen by Peter and John is described in John 20.5-7.

The Glad Message, verses 7, 8. — They were not to stand long in mute amazement, but were to carry the glad news to others: "Go quickly, and tell His disciples, He is risen from the dead; and lo, He goeth before you into Galilee; there shall ye see Him: lo, I have told you." Recall His promise to the disciples Matthew 26.32.

The Final Interview and Commission, verses 16-20.—"All authority hath been given unto Me in heaven and on earth"; in these words Jesus asserted His royal authority; His right to command rested upon the fact that He is King. The future of His Kingdom was His supreme concern, and He proceeded to issue His royal command: "Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them into the name," i.e., confessing the name, "of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit, teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I commanded you."

No Longer a Mystery

New Zealand Trade Commissioner Knows Why Canada Imports Sausage Casings

"Until I went to Canada in 1926, I could never understand why the Canadians spent so much money in importing sausage casings from New Zealand—about 870,000 pounds a year it is now," said Mr. J. W. Collins, New Zealand Trade Commissioner to Canada, at the Auckland Chamber of Commerce luncheon.

"I found the explanation when I landed at Vancouver, and went to a football match. I was accosted by a small boy, who solicited business in these words, 'Hot Dogs, 10 cents. Good for folks.'

"In my travels through Canada I soon came to realize the enormous production and sale of the so-called 'hot-dog,' and I did all I possibly could to increase the production of that delectable food. When I am among the Canadians again, I am going to use my best efforts to induce them to put in a bit of butter with the bread and mustard that always accompany the 'hot-dog.' If they do, it will mean at least another 10,000 tons a year of sausage casings from New Zealand."—Morning Herald, Auckland.

"Not he," said Grandma, "but he must have been made of India rubber to get off as easy as he did. Doctor Carter was just leaving the office, and the man landed right in his lap, so to speak, so he got a patient. I must say, if such a thing had to happen it was nice it happened where it did, on account of the doctor. It was most two hours before the man was fixed up and steady enough to go along. The doctor took two stitches and got paid three dollars. It was a real interesting morning, and four people came in this afternoon just to hear about it. Well, dearie, did Jim tell you the news?"

"News!" echoed Charmian, "I should say you'd told it yourself. You're out of breath, Grandma, with talking so long and fast. I'm sorry to be late, but Jim was going to Eastboro and it seemed a pity to miss the ride when the foliage is so beautiful. I wish you could have seen it, too."

She turned toward the kitchen, the impending meal on her mind, but the old lady stopped her with a question:

"But didn't he tell you about his mother?"

Charmian came back to ask: "What about his mother? He never mentioned her."

"You must have made yourself extra diverting then," said Grandma seriously. "George K. stopped in, and 'twas he told me the news. It doesn't seem hardly believable—but Sarah Bennett's going to California!"

"To California!" repeated Charmian in amazement. "And leave Jim?"

"My stars!" ejaculated the old lady. "Don't you know that Sarah Bennett wouldn't any more think of going without Jim than she'd think of going without a pocket handkerchief? It seems she hasn't been feeling very well, and Edward Howe thought a warm climate might help her. Her twin sister, Sophie, lives somewhere out that way, and they're going to her. What's more, George K. says if the climate agrees with her, the chances are they'll never come back! Didn't I say it had been an exciting day?"

CHAPTER XVII.

That night when she lay in bed, staring at a crack in the ceiling that showed weirdly bright in the light of the harvest moon, Charmian wondered if the evening meal had been fit to eat. She had gone about its preparation in a daze, wondering why Jim hadn't spoken of this big change in his life—feeling hurt that he wouldn't have confided in her—wondering how Wickfield would seem without her old playmate to drop in of an evening, or to pick her up after school hours as he had today—telling herself vigorously that she wasn't one bit in love with him—admitting in the next breath that she would miss him terribly. The clock in the Town Hall tower struck midnight before she closed her eyes.

Yet it had been a diverting evening because the Merrys had stopped in for a chat with Grandma. Doctor Howe, also, had drawn up before the door, and summoning Charmian outside with his familiar whistle, told her not to worry about her "job," that the school board would uphold her in case of trouble.

"But don't let Grandma hear a word about it," she implored him. "Has the deacon been to you already?"

"Not he!" smiled the old man. "He knows too well whose side I'm liable to take. I heard the story from Jim Bennett. Guess he thought I'd better be prepared. Good-night, child. I won't say a word to Grandma; but you can count on me in an emergency; and, if I know him, you can count on George K., too. Don't lose your sleep."

This short encounter had brought Charmian's thoughts around to Jim, from whom they had wandered during the Merry's call; but they were switched away again by John Carter, who was teaching Grandma three-handed bridge and wanted Charmian's assistance. They sat up till the unheard-of hour of ten!

Yet despite all these diversions, Charmian couldn't rest. Her anxiety about the trouble with Deacon Purdie, and her hurt that Jim hadn't spoken of his plans, were poor bedfellows. She looked big-eyed next morning, and the doctor said at breakfast: "You didn't sleep well, did you?"

"Do you keep an X-ray machine back of those eyes of yours?" she asked. "No, I didn't sleep—that is, restfully. Our bridge game was too exciting. I felt as if I'd imbibed a pint of coffee."

"I'll drive you to school," offered the M.D.

"I'm just as grateful, but I need exercise, and it's a gorgeous morning for a walk."

"I kind of suspect," said Grandma softly, as Charmian left them, going to the kitchen to prepare their lunch, "that she's bothered because Jim Bennett didn't tell her he was going to California. Seems funny, doesn't it? He never said a word about it; and so far's I know, no one else in Wickfield has ever been west o' the Mississippi except George K. and Salina. They took a trip on their silver wedding anniversary—a delayed honeymoon, George K. called it, because they hadn't the money to take them when they were married. They went most everywhere—Yellowstone National Park, the Grand Canyon, and San Francisco, though I should think they'd have been afraid of earthquakes.

"Well, Doctor, I wonder will anybody break a neck in front of your office this morning. That accident was fortunate to happen where it did; but I guess if Lizzie Baker had seen the narrow escape her cat had, she'd have had a spasm."

It was not a longing for exercise which made Charmian refuse the doctor's offer of a ride that morning, but a desire to walk off the depression that still persisted. She felt not only depressed, she told herself as she stepped out into the clear October sunshine, but irritable. Why should she care because Jim Bennett had let her hear the news of him from some one else?

"I wish," she scolded, as she passed the portals of the First National Bank, "I wish I could put Jim and his affairs out of my mind for ever and ever!"—which shows that the irritability was not imagined. But this wish, ardent though it sounded, was not to be fulfilled. It was George K. Knowles, issuing from his wide, hospitable doorway, who again reminded her of her old chum.

"Hold on a minute!" he called, as Charmian waved a greeting; and giving his Salina an unabashed and hasty kiss, he fell into step with the new school teacher, although her destination was opposite to his.

"Just wanted to tell you not to worry about the school," he began at once. "The board will uphold you as long as the doctor and yours truly are elected. Just stick to what you know is right, my dear, and the deacon will have to crawl. What'll you do, Charmian, when Jim Bennett isn't here to fight your battles?"

His kind blue eyes smiled at her as she retorted: "Fight them myself, or surrender ignominiously to the enemy." But her rising color didn't escape George K., whose heart was young in spite of his gray hairs, and he said soberly:

"You won't be the only one in Wickfield to miss the boy, my dear. He's fast becoming my right-hand man. His father was my best friend, too—a good man was James Bennett, married to a selfish woman. Salina would take my head off for saying so; but I guess you know the truth. If Jim's father had lived, Sarah would have ruined his life most likely, and now she's doing her best to ruin Jim's."

"He should stick up for his rights, then," said Charmian coldly, and lifted her chin the least bit higher.

George K. cast upon her a sidelong glance.

"Did you ever live in the house with Sarah Bennett?"

"Did you?" Charmian countered.

"No, thank God!" George K. exploded, "but I know her kind. They break the spirit after a while, Charmian, and Jim, poor boy, has known no other close companionship. Sometimes I wonder how he's kept his sense of humor and his kind heart. Well," as they reached the corner where Main Street turned off toward District Four, "I'll be late at the bank if I escort you any farther. You'll remember not to worry?"

"I'll remember, Uncle George," she answered gratefully, "and—thanks."

To Grandma the morning seemed to drag. John Carter had left shortly stop for his customary chat. And all after breakfast, and even the R.F.D. man was behind time, so couldn't he brought was an advertisement! Grandma tossed it scornfully into the waste basket, and wished that something interesting would occur.

"Seems as if Wickfield was never so still before," she complained aloud. "All I've seen is Lizzie Baker hanging out her dish towels, and Mr. Merry hurrying home from the post office with the paper. The children haven't had any fights, or the dogs, either! Here come an auto. I do believe it's Jimmy, and he's stopping."

She was right. Jim drew up before the door, got out, kicked a suspicious looking tire, and then came in.

Showed Canada's Efficiency

Opening Day At Antwerp Exhibition Found Building Complete To Last Detail

"Canada scored signally in the early weeks of the International Exhibition at Antwerp, and continues to lead and dominate the Fair," said E. T. Noltie, Director of Exhibits (Department of Immigration and Colonization), Canadian Pacific Railway, on his return from that exhibition, which still has six months to run. "The reason for Canada's prominence," Mr. Noltie explained, "is Canada alone of all the participating countries, had her building set up and finished, inside and out, on time. Not only that, but the whole area of the Canadian Pavilion was complete in the last detail of lawn and walks, shrubbery, hedge and flower beds. The whole ensemble, in fact, was a striking achievement which, in a singular manner, gave an impression of efficiency that was decidedly a feather in Canada's cap."

WHEN YOUR CHILD IS FEVERISH

Give Him Baby's Own Tablets

The health of babies and little children is subject to rapid changes. Thus the mother must be on her guard. At the first sign of feverishness Baby's Own Tablets should be given—this may avert a serious illness.

Concerning the Tablets Mrs. Norman Lee, Uxbridge, Ont., says: "My little boy, now three years old, was not at all well. He was feverish and had no appetite. I gave him Baby's Own Tablets and he was soon well again. I would not be without the Tablets as long as there are young children in the house."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Little Helps For This Week

"That ye love one another."—John xxv. 17.

With a double bounty
God will give thee more.

The beautiful law of Christian love, life, and truth is, that the more we give of our won capital the more that capital increases. The widow's cruse of oil and barrel of meal increased as she distributed them; and a Christian's sunshine and happiness, faith and hope, will be invigorated and multiplied in proportion as he tries to make others hopeful, trustful, and happy.—John Cumming.

The use of Miller's Worm Powders insures healthy children so far as the ailments attributable to worms are concerned. A high mortality among children is traceable to worms. These sap the strength of infants so that they are unable to maintain the battle of life and succumb to weakness. This preparation gives promise of health and keeps it.
