THE CRESTON REVIEW

Vol. XXII. CRESTON, B. C., FRIDAY, JUNE 6, 1930

Lister

Tuesday was King's birthday and the Lister school children had the day off.

Col. Lister was a visitor at the first of the week for the Legion convention in Nelson.

Rev. A. Garlick of Creston had Church of England service here on Sunday, which was well attended. It was the quarterly communion service.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Phillips of Kimberley were Queen's birthday weekend visitors at the ranch here.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Cannady of Kellogg, Idaho, are here on a visit with the former's mother, Mrs. A. Stuart Evans.

Jas. Duncan and Harold Langston, who have been employed on road construction at Washout Creek the past few months, arrived home at the end of the week. The former has since left for Ginol's where he will be cook in a government road crew camp.

Lister Trading & Supply Company, Limited commenced work on Monday on the erection of their new flour and feed warehouse. The work is in charge of A. R. F. Bernard, with R. T. Millner and Fred Powers assisting. The structure will be 36 x 20 feet.

Lister was unusually well represented at Cranbrook for the Queen's birthday celebration in that town. Amongst those making the trip to the divisional city were Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Huscroft, Mr. Bohmer, Mr. and Mrs. Bird, Fred Powers, Miss Curtis, Mrs. and Miss Harel Hobden. Minnie Husoroft was a competitor in some of the sport events but found the company too fast.

Lister has lost one of its best known citizens in the departure on Friday of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Malthouse for Calgary, Alberta, where they will reside in future. The Malthouses came to Lister early in 1920 and by considerable hard work have developed one of the best farms in the area, in addition to which they took a prominent part in community affairs, Mr. Malthouse having been president of the Lister Trading & Supply Company, as well as head of the Commity Society, and for years was a member of the school board. Two of the family Frances and John, are already employed at Calgary. Both Mr and Mrs. Malthouse enjoyed a deserved personal popularity and have the best wishes of all for success and good health in their new home.

May attendance at Lister school dropped to the rather low level of 86 83 per according to the monthly report just issued, with only four pupils recording perfect attendance for the month. The highest standings are: Grade 5—Douglas McKee, Frank Yerbury. Grade 5—Clara Domke, David Gustafson. Grade 4—Douglas Sinclair, Kirk Beard. Grade 3—Cyril Bird, Gladys McCullough. Grade 2a—Alice Wellspring, Margaret Dent. Grade 2b—Kate Davie. Grade 1a—Margaret Sinclair, Millie Beard. Grade 1b—Daniel Domke, Gilbert McCullough. Perfect attendance—Cyril Bird, Pauline Klein, Lotti Klein Douglas Sinclair.

An average attendance of 91.87 per cent. was recorded at Huscroft school, according to the report issued by the principal, Mis Hazel Hobden. Those taking highest standings were: Grade 8—Minnie Huscroft. Grade 6—Margaret Huscroft, Waddy Huscroft. Grade 5—Thomas Tedford, Burton Huscroft. Grade 4—Virgene Bohmer, Rupert Bohmer. Grade 3—Aloha Bohmer, Leonard Bohmer. Grade 2—Leonard Huscroft, Albert Tedford. Grade 1—Kenneth Huscroft, Dennison Bohmer. Perfect attendance—Aloha Bohmer, Rupert Bohmer, Vergene Bohmer, Margaret Huscroft, Leonard Huscroft, Warren Huscroft, Kenneth Huscroft, Thomas Tedford.

LEAGUE

TROY vs. CRESTON

at

Exhibition Park

SUN., JUNE 8

THREE p.m. Prompt

Troy and Creston battled to a 2-2 tie at Troy last Sunday so a close contest is assured.

LET'S GO!

Canyon City

F. Knott was combining business with pleasure on a visit at Cranbrook last week.

Miss Nissie McRobb has joined up with the office staff of Creston Co-Operative Fruit Exchange at Creston, commencing work on Monday.

The school children had a holiday on Tuesday—King's birihday.

A crew is at work just now widening out the rock cut on the Erickson side of the high level bridge, and for a few days that road will be closed to traffic.

The Farmers' Institute gopher killing contest for the school children is receiving a whole lot of attention, and to date there has been considerable slaughter of these animals.

The 4 degree frost touch on May 26th is now to be seen on the local cherry crop, which will be reduced about 25 per cent.

Canyon Farmers' Institute have the June meeting on Saturday night.

The Canyon Girls' Sextette is taking part in the Players' orchestra concert at Creston on Tuesday night. In the company are Helen Browell, Holly Bond, Bessie Hurl Helen McRobb, June Browell and Agnes Johnson.

"The Four Feathers"

Distinguished by some authentic shots of very wild life in the Soudan, 'The Four Feathers,' which shows to-night and Saturday at the Grand theatre, is an excellent photoplay. There are a dozen fine bits depicting the tribesmen, the flight of a baboon colony from the impending danger of fire and the ponderous escape of a herd of hippopotami from the same menace. There is a telling chapter devoted to a hand-to-hand encounter between Her Majesty's forces and the wild men of Africa and the various triumphs of Richard Arlen against odds unconquerable. The acting is excellent. Arlen is especially fine and contributes the best performance which has thus far distinguished his career. William Powell, Clive Brooks and Theodore von Eltz win merit in the order named. The scenes photographed by Cooper and Schoedsack in Africa have been so skillfully blended with shots taken in Hollywood that it is indeed puzzling to know just where California leaves off and Africa begins.

Players' Orchestra Concert

The Players' orchestra present an outstanding musical evening on Tuesday, June 10th, at the Grand. Much work has been done by the orchestra in preparing the music and under the able baton of L. W. Stephens, will give patrons a treat long to be remembered.

The programme is varied, and contains works by the old masters. It has been rightly named an evening of superb music. Among the assisting artists a feature is the Canyon Girls' Sextette in two well known ballads. Others assisting are Mrs. Fred Lister, violinist; and Mrs. Geo. H. Kelly, vocalist.

The personel of the orchestra is: Conductor, L. W. Stephens; piano, E. P. Staples; first violins, Mrs. Lister, Miss Holly Bond, and Lionel Moore; second violins, T. R. Mawson and George Wickholm; cornet, R. Chandler; concert flute and saxaphone, Geo. H. Kelly; clarinet, L. W. Stephens.

Creston - Troy Play 2 - 2 Tie

Local's Hitting Somewhat Better—Brogan at Second Improves Inner Defence—Troy Here on Sunday—Fast Game Assured.

Displaying the best form of the season in all departments Creston played Troy to a 2-2 tie in the international league fixture at Troy on Sunday afternoon. The game was played in a wet field, and a shower while the ninth innings was closing prevented the playoff of the tie.

Creston's hitting showed some improvement, the team collecting a total of seven safeties, one of which was good for an extra base, and on the offensive showed superiority over Troy who found Fortin for only six safe blows, while the balance of their hitting was practically all to the infield; Boffey, at left field, was the only one outer gardener to register a putout all afternoon.

Four errors were registered against Creston, but unately none of them were expensive Troy's tallies in the third and seventh coming from lucky hitting by thiid baseman Wolz, who hit for an extra base on each of these occasions, followed by timely singles to enable him to complete the circuit.

Brogan made his first appearance in a Creston uniform on this occasion and fills a gap in the infield that has injected full confidence into the whole team, and from now on Creston shonld have no trouble in disposing of teams like Bonners and Troy, and give just about as good account of themselves against Sandpoint.

Creston got their brace of tallies in the fifth innings on nice hitting and great base running by Brogan who sprinted from first to third on Watson's short hit into left field, and in the play to get Brogan the Creston catcher was able to negotiate second, and both runs scored a a few seconds later when Romano hit the third succesive bingle for the lucky fifth.

Next Sunday's encounter is with Troy, who will appear at Exhibition Park at 3 p.m. The Montanan's will be accompanied by their Rooters Club and there is sure to be a big turnout of local fans to see Creston break into the win column. The score in Sunday's game:

Wynndel

L. Williams, who has been in Calgary Alberta, the past month, arrived home last week.

Miss E. Hagen, who has been on a visit at Nelson, returned home last week.

Mrs. Allen of Yahk was a visitor here, the guest of Mrs. R. Uri.

G. and T. Welsh of Barons, Alberta, were auto visitors here, guests of Mr. Mrs. Towson. They were on their way to Mabel Lake.

Mrs. M. Young of Creston has been a visitor here, a guest of her daughter Mrs. Rumsey.

Mrs. Hook and Ethel and Warren Hook of Spokane, were weekend visitors with Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Grady.

The May meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary was held at the home of Mrs. Towson on Tuesday of last week, taking the form of a work party. There will be no further meetings until August.

The Co Operative Fruit Growers held a general meeting on May 28th. Present market reports were presented and arrangements for pickers and packers made.

The Woman's Auxiliary dance on Saturday evening was quite a success, the intake running close to $35. The elimination waltz was won by Miss Johnson a Leamy. The animal dance was won by the cat and rooster.

Although the weatherman awakened the children with a wet blanket the community picnic on Tuesday turned out a real success. Loads of ice cream and generous prizes were given to the winners of the numerous races. Much appreciation was felt when the children gave three cheers for the Women's Institute.

Erickson

Murdock McLeod of Trail was a weekend visitor at Erickson, a guest of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Klingensmith.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Smith and family of Bellvue, Alberta, are motor visitors here this week.

Messrs. Penson and Johnston are at work on the construction of the new fruit warehouse of Long Allan & Long, Limited, on the C.P.R. siding.

Erickson branch of Christ Church Ladies' Guild are having their annual lawn social at W. H. Kemp's on Wednesday afternoon, June 11th, 2.30 to 5.30 o'clock. There will be a sale of cooking fancy work, ice cream, and afternoon tea served.

Rev. A. Garlick, Anglican rector at Creston, had quite a good turnout for the monthly church service at the schoolhouse on Sunday afternoon.

The May frost and some winter injury has taken quite a toll of the 1930 cherry crop at Erickson.

B. C. Concrete Company are expecting to complete the make of pipe for East Creston irrigation system very early next week. The wet weather at the first of the week has delayed pipe hauling somewhat.

FOR SALE—2 Linoleum rugs, 9 x 12 and 9 x 9; 2 four-light electric fixtures; fumed oak davenport; kitchen cupboard with glass doors at top; single cot with mattress; toilet set; oil stove; child's commode chair; stand for baby's clothes; toilet articles. C. H. Hare, Creston.

Crestwood

L. Starks left last week for Helix, Ore., to do summer fallow work on his land at that point. He expects to be back at the end of the month.

Mrs. Dudley Rogers' parents from Washtucknay, Wash., are visiting at the Reclomation Farm at present, but will be returning about the middle of the week.

Gerald Rogers and Clifford Yaw are now taking the night and day shifts at the pump operating at the big slough handling the drainage water.

M. Hughes has moved onto the Stark property from the Reclamation Farm, and is also leasing about 20 acres from C. C. French, to crop to oats for green feed.

W. Piper is leaving this week for his home in Helix, Ore., and will be returning early in August for harvesting.

The grain on the flats is looking fine. Early seeding has made splendid growth and has come up thick. With favorable weather the Kootenay district will make a name for itself in the B.C. wheat belt.

Mr. Garretson got away last week for his holdings in Thermopylae, Wyoming. He expects to bring his family to Bonners Ferry to reside in order to complete their high school work.

George Seymour of Corn Creek has a crew of men working on the road in that district. We hear George intends to plot the north half of is place into town lots and will offer them for sale as residential property now that Cresson's future is assured. George is evidently taking a leaf out of the Vancouver realtor's notebook by seeing to it that a boulevard is constructed to the property first, which greatly expedites the sale of lots.

Sirdar

Mrs. Ike Lewis of Boswell was a visitor with Mrs. Sid McCabe a few days last week.

Raymond Treen left last week for Elko, where he is now C.P.R. operator.

Mrs. Husband and children of Calgary, Alberta, arrived last week and have taken up residence in the McCabe cottage.

Mrs. McCabe was a Creston caller on Friday. Mrs. North and Mrs. Cam were at the metropolis on Saturday.

Mrs. Gillie left on Saturday for a holiday visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hicks, at Sumas, Wash.

Mr. and Mrs. Pascuzzo and daughter, Carmella, left Monday on a visit with friends at Cranbrook.

Mr. and Mrs. Whiteside of Crowsnest were Sirdar visitors on Wednesday, returning from a month's visit with friends in Vancouver and other coast points.

Sid McCabe was a visitor at his home here at the weekend.

Mr. Crosby and Mr. Gillie were Bonners Ferry visitors on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henderson and children were visitors at Creston on Friday.

Keeping Pace With Progress

Are we keeping pace with progress?

Progress is an illusory thing. It may be seen, but so often is not perceived. Like old age or a thief in the night, it creeps upon one unawares and suddenly one awakens to realization that some profound change has taken place, an evolution has occurred. We have not been aware of the fact because of its apparent insiduousness—because its movement towards and past us has been gradual. We have seen it unconsciously but it has been too close to us for observation.

Yet despite this seeming slow approach the thing that we call progress moves with great rapidity, but it moves continually, inexorably, a step at a time, but never halting. It is an onward march that never tires, never falters.

The only way to correctly gauge progress is in retrospect. Look back a few years, only a decade or so, and the remarkable progress which civilization makes in the course of a brief span suddenly becomes apparent with startling clarity. Yet we do not see these extraordinary and far reaching changes in the making although they are going on all the time.

Turn over the leaves of the family album and immediately the truth of the assertion stares one in the face. What an extraordinary change in style of dress, in shape of headgear, in fashion of hair dressing in a few years. It appears incredible that one really looked like that 20, 15 or even ten years ago.

But progress does not mark a changing trend in dress alone. It invades every realm of activity within the ken of human experience. In the whole field of things material and in the entire mental and even spiritual arena, a steady and unrelenting advance is being made.

Hark back but twenty years and compare the means of transportation of that time with the swift cabin monoplane and upholstered limousine of today. Contrast the crude telephone of a generation ago with the automatic and the radio of the present time. Appraise the difference between the mired prairie trail of yesteryear with the broad gravelled highway along which we roll now.

A little reflection shows that everything with which we come in contact, everything we experience, everything we do has been subject to just as remarkable an evolution as those things to which specific reference has been made. Not only has progress made radical changes in what we wear and how we travel in a few short years, but it has wrought a similar transformation in what we eat and drink, in our amusements, in our work, in our social life, in our worship and even in what we think.

In no sphere of activity, however, has this evolution been more marked in recent years as in the field of daily work, in the realm of business, in city and country. In methods of production, in modes of distribution, in processes of marketing changes have revolutionized and are continuing to revolutionize the daily life of the individual. These changes are so pronounced and so rapid that they are apparent even to the most careless onlooker.

A writer in a popular magazine recently pointed out that such swift changes are being made in the conduct of business and commerce that heads of business houses are finding it increasingly difficult to secure young men competent to engage in commercial life without first being re-trained after they have left college. The almost daily application of new scientific discoveries in the field of business results in the college student being out of date because the course, though designed for the particular vocation he intends to follow, has not kept pace with the changes taking place in the practical arena.

This evolutionary process is going on in the whole industrial field, agriculture included, but as was stated at the outset it is not always so easy to perceive it because of its constancy and its proximity.

For this reason it is perhaps a wise thing, nay, a necessary thing to sometimes pause and look back a little, make a few comparisons with the past, and in the light of these contrasts a clearer perspective may be gained of what is happening from day to day, and perhaps even an inkling may be secured of what may be expected in future.

Only by doing this can we secure the necessary vision to enable us to keep pace with progress.

Breaks Previous Record

Aerial Photographic Expert "Shoots" Mount Rainier 270 Miles Away

Capt. A. W. Stevens, Air Corps photographic expert, has broken his own record for long-distance aerial photography, "shooting" Mt. Rainier from a distance of 270 miles.

This feat adds almost 50 miles to the record established by Captain Stevens last year, when his camera registered objects 227 miles distant. The new photograph was made while in flight 20 000 feet above Crater Lake, in Oregon, and gives a clear picture of various mountain ranges stretching northward to the lofty peak of Mt. Rainier, 14,000 feet above the sea.

When the picture was taken the thermometer on the 'plane, which was piloted by Lieut. John Corkille, stood at 20 below zero. A liquid oxygen supply was carried.

"Shooting at Mt. Rainier from a distance greater than that between New York City and Washington is much like shooting at the moon with the difference that you can see the moon," says Captain Stevens. "The principal task is to aim the camera in the general direction you believe your objective to be, snap the trigger and hope for luck."

USES PINKHAM MEDICINES

Praises Vegetable Compound, Blood Medicine and Liver Pills

Birchtown, Quebec—"I live 13 miles from town on a farm, with all my home duties and churning to attend to. At the Change of Life, I became nervous and run-down. The Vegetable Compound helped my whole system. My nerves are better, my appetite is good and I am able to do my work. I have also taken the Blood Medicine and the Liver Pills and they helped me. I will answer letters from women asking about your medicines."—Mrs. Richard Charlton, Birchtown, Quebec.

Manufacturing On Prairies

Prairie Province manufactures in 1929, had a value of $340,000,000 according to C. E. Harvey, of Winnipeg, retiring chairman of the prairie division of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

Engineer Will Survey Mines

Government Official To Visit All Important Centres During Season

Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior, has announced that Supervisory Mining Engineer C. C. Ross was leaving for Fort Smith. Mr. Ross will visit all the important centres of mining activity throughout the season. He will organize the work of the office and the field parties and endeavor to ascertain the needs of the prospectors and companies. Mr. Ross will then be in a position to advise the Minister of the Interior fully on all that appertains to the future of the industry.

WAS RUN DOWN NOW WELL AGAIN

Takes Pleasure In Recommending Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

To the woman in the home illness is almost a calamity. Many a woman keeps on with her household duties when she is feeling ready to drop. Her head aches, she is easily tired, is depressed and nervous and has no appetite. In a word she is anaemic and badly needs help — the health-help that only Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can give her. These pills make rich, red blood which brings new strength and energy to weak, despondent sufferers. Concerning them, Mrs. Paul Rail, Coin du Blanc, Que., says: "I was badly run-down, slept poorly, and awoke as tired as when I went to bed. My appetite was poor and I felt miserable. I took six boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and they completely renewed my health."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

New Flags For Old

Fifteen Nations Have Made Change Since World War

Fifteen nations, containing more than one-third of the world's population, are living under new flags since the World War. In addition a new flag of red, white and green is now flying in India, with its 300,000,000 people, where Gandhi's revolutionists have proclaimed independence of Great Britain. In fact since the change of colors by Russia, Germany, China and other great political divisions the probability is that not more than four flags of major nations can be universally identified today.

Attacked By Asthma. The first fearful sensation is of suffocation, which hour by hour becomes more desperate and hopeless. To such a case the relief afforded by Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy seems nothing less than miraculous. Its help is quickly apparent and soon the dreadful attack is mastered. The asthmatic who has found out the dependability of this sterling remedy will never be without it. It is sold everywhere.

Plants Large Forest Area

A forest in the embryo—250 acres of it—has been planted by the Saskatchewan forestry service, in the Prince Albert region. H. P. Eisler, forestry engineer, stated that the transplanting of 2,000,000 nursery seedlings and stock is the largest such programme in the province's history. Most of the seedlings are jack and white pine.

Spare the children from suffering from worms by using Miller's Worm Powders, a most effective vermifuge with which to combat these insidious foes of the young and helpless. It is an excellent worm destroyer, and when its qualities become known in a household no other will be used. The medicine acts by itself, requiring no purgative to assist it, and so thoroughly that nothing more is desired.

Increase In Grape Growing

The development in grape growing by J. W. Hughes, of Kelowna, furnishes some interesting data. In 1927, he had 500 baskets, in 1928, 2,500 baskets, in 1929, 20,000, and this year he expects 40,000. A winery is offering $100 a ton for "concords."

Let's Go Fishing

But not forget to take Minard's along. It will take care of cuts, bruises or mosquito bites.

MINARD'S "KING OF PAIN" LINIMENT

Investments Along the National Show Increase

Over Seventy-Four Million Involved In Establishing Industrial Plants

New industrial plants established along the lines of the Canadian National Railways, in 1929, involved a total capital investment by the industries of $74,106,10, according to the annual report of William Phillips, manager of the Industrial Department of the system. This was an increase of $696,300 over the previous year, when the expenditure was $73,409,800. Additions to plants already existing represent an investment of $33,361,000, an increase of $8,792,200 over 1928. On the Grand Trunk Western lines of the system, the capital investment by industry for new plants and branches totalled $11,729,000. While this was a decrease of $7,500,400, there was an increase of $2,227,000 in additions to plants, the total being $11,563,000.

Canadian development from Atlantice to Pacific, Mr. Phillips indicates, was in many fields, involving such industries as: newsprint, cold storage, warehousing, grain elevators, silk mills, canning plants. foundries, distilleries, automobile plants, lumbering and mining industries. The most outstanding developments in Western Canada were in mining in Manitoba, and in cold storage plants in British Columbia. The Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Company, and the Sherritt-Gordon Mines, Ltd., at Flin Flon, and Sherridon, expended $10,000,000, while two cold storage plants, costing more than $3,000,000, were established at New Westminster and Victoria, B.C. New elevators in the west represented an investment of $1,345,600 and new oil warehouses, $482,000.

Wise mothers who know the virtues of Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator always have it at hand, because it proves its value.

The Practical Way

They have a practical way of doing things in the west, says the Toronto Globe. For instance, the Saskatchewan Department of Agriculture has bought a farm "absolutely polluted with weeds," and will proceed to make it blossom as the rose. A demonstration of this kind will be worth a thousand lectures on the best way to get rid of noxious growths on the farm.

Minard's for Insect Bites.

Dairying and Mining

The annual value of Canadian dairy products—$297,625,000—is a few million dollars less than the annual value of the mineral production of the Dominion. A total of 286,000 farmers supplied milk and cream to the 2,833 dairy factories throughout the Dominion last year.

AMOUNTS PAID ON SUBSIDIES ARE ANNOUNCED

Ottawa, Ont.—Further information of the amount of money paid by the Dominion Government to the provinces was given to the House of Commons by Hon. C. A. Dunning, minister of finance, in reply to questions from F. G. Sanderson (Liberal, Perth Sound). It sets out the amounts which will be paid to the western provinces by way of subsidies after the agreements with the prairie provinces for the transfer of the natural resources and the agreement with British Columbia for the transfer of the railway belt and the Peace River block shall have come into effect. The payments will vary according as the population of the provinces increases. The annual subsidy to Saskatchewan on the basis of the present population of 859,000 will be $2,063,295. When the population reaches 1,200,000 the subsidy will have increased to $2,710,375.

The subsidy to Alberta at present will be $1,670,435. When the population reaches 800,000, it will be $2,015,375, and when it reaches 1,200,000, it will be $2,710,375.

On the basis of its present population, Manitoba will receive $1,662,084.18 annually. When the population reaches 800,000, this will have increased to $1,991,584.18, and when the population reaches 1,200,000 there will have been a further increase of $2,686,584.18. In the intervening years the total payment will vary according to population.

British Columbia on its present population will receive an annual grant of $738,816.66. This per capita grant will increase as the population increases. The grant for government and legislation will also increase from $190,000 to $220,000 when the population exceeds 800,000, and to $240,000 when the population exceeds 1,500,000.

Will Continue Coal Rates

Extension Granted On Alberta Coal For Another Year

Drumheller, Alberta. — Eastern freight rate on Alberta coal, reduced a few years ago to aid the marketing of western coal in the east, will be continued for another year.

A wire to this effect has been received here from E. J. Garland, U.F.A., M.P. for Bow River, who stated that after making insistent demands for this extension the government agreed to have an order-in-council passed forthwith.

Mounties Leave For England

To Compete In International Horse Show At London

Ottawa.—A detachemtn of Royal Mounted Police to compete in the forthcoming International Horse Show at Olympia, London, sailed from Montreal on May 29. Major T. Dann, senior ranking inspector of Canada's celebrated force, is in command. The riders and their mounts have been put through a strenuous period of training in Regina and Ottawa.

Want Action On Survey

Ottawa, Ont.—It is highly advisable that both the Canadian National Railways and the Canadian Pacific Railway undertake a joint survey of an outlet to the Pacific coast. If that is not done within a year then the present administration, if returned to power, will take steps to have such work begun, declared the prime minister, Mackenzie King, in the House of Commons recently.

Administration Is Costly

Ottawa.—Expenditures for the administration of the opium and narcotic drug act have increased since 1926 from $27,452.89 to $62,110.83 in 1930, according to a return tabled in the House of Commons here.

To Make Tour Of Canada

Montreal. — Hon. R. B. Bennett, leader of the Conservative Party in Canada, will make a tour of Quebec and address political rallies at several points during the coming election campaign.

Senate Approves Grain Act

Given Three Readings and Passed Within Few Minutes

Ottawa, Ont.—Approval was given by the Senate to the consolidated draft of the Canada Grain Act which was prepared by a special committee of the House of Commons, during the present session. Within the space of a few minutes, the bill was introduced by Hon. Raoul Dandurand, government leader, given three readings and passed.

Senator A. B. Gillis protested against the bill being introduced so late in the session, making a careful study of it practically impossible. If this practice were followed all the time, the Senate would be "nothing but a rubber stamp" for the Commons, he said.

Fire In Alberta College

Main Building and Boys' Dormitory Were Destroyed

Lacombe, Alberta. — Fire, which broke out in the Canadian Junior College here, destroyed the main building and boys' dormitory. The loss is estimated at $100,000.

Five boys, who with some 200 others escaped in their night clothes, received burns and were taken to the Lacombe hospital.

The college is the only Adventist institution of the kind in western Canada. There were three buildings on the site, the other being the girls' dormitory, which was saved. Erection of the structure was carried out some 20 years ago.

Canadian Nurse Killed In Italy

Car Left Road After Collison and Plunged Down Ravine

Florence, Italy.—Miss Helen Gee, 22, a United States girl, whose home is in Denver, Colo., and Miss Ruth Henderson, 32, a Canadian nurse, employed in John Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, Md., were killed in an automoble accident near Ronta, 48 miles from here.

The automobile in which the two women were travelling collided with another automobile, left the road and plunged 250 feet down a ravine. The car was loaded with suit cases which showed that they were touring Italy.

Smelter For Far North

To Operate In Copper Mines On Great Slave Lake

Edmonton.—Within another 18 months a huge oil-burning smelter will be going full blast on the south-east corner of Great Slave Lake, turning the deposits of rich copper ore of this region into ingots to be transported to the markets of the world through Edmonton, according to plans of the Atlas Exploration Company, the Consolidated Smelters and Ventures, Limited, generally recognized as the three most powerful mineral development companies in Canada.

Gift Of Conservative Members

Huge Loving Cup Presented To Hon. R. B. Bennett

Ottawa.—With members and Senators thronged in the party caucus room of the House of Commons, Conservatives presented their leader — Hon. R. B. Bennett—with a huge loving cup. Taken entirely by surprise and visibly moved as the two oldest of his supporters in point of years, R. S. White and W. A. Black, made the presentation, the Opposition chieftain spoke feelingly in expressing his thanks.

Sound "Last Post" For Aviator

Ottawa.—"Last Post" was sounded and musketry rattled with the "present arms" of the firing party as a train pulled out of Union Station bearing the remains of Flight-Sergeant Robert W. Pike to Vancouver. The body of the young flyer, killed in an aeroplane crash here, May 27, will find a last resting palce in his native city in British Columbia.

Plans Westward Atlantic Flight

Dublin, Ireland.—The first attempted westward crossing of the Atlantic Ocean by 'plane this season will be made by Capt. Charles E. Kingsford-Smith, pilot of the Southern Cross on its California-to-Australia flight, near the end of June, he said here.

SPEAKER OF SENATE

Senator A. C. Hardy, Brockville, Ont., who has been selected as Speaker of the Senate. The selection will be immediately confirmed by the government.

Veterans Can Renew Pensions

New Pension Act Contains Specific Provision For Commutations

Ottawa.—There is a specific provision in the new Pension Act in regard to veterans who were entitled to pensions but who commuted their rights for a cash sum of money.

The door to renewed pensions is now opened to these veterans. The act provides for them in this way. At the time of commutation they were conceded to be entitled to a certain monthly pension. It will be presumed that instead of making a cash settlement, they had been drawing this pension continuously. If the passing years, calculated on a monthly basis, would have equalled the amount of cash they are once more eligible for pension provided they can prove that they are suffering from war disability. They will be entitled, once the full cash amount has been taken up by the passage of time, to a pension based upon their present disability.

Flight Again Postponed

R-100 Not Coming To Canada For Some Weeks Yet

London, England.—Projected flight of the British dirigible R-100 to Canada has been postponed until the end of June or the beginning of July.

Frederick Montague, under-secretary of state for air, informed the House of Commons of the postponement, stating that repairs were required by the huge ship. Repair material will have to be manufactured specially.

While on a recent 24-hour test flight over England, the R-100 had a section of covering torn from one of her fins and later it was found that she had suffered other minor damages.

It had been expected that the R-100 would make the flight to Canada about the beginning of June.

Over Seven Million Paid In Pensions

Dominion Government Contributed Nearly Four Million To Pensions

Ottawa, Ont.—The Dominion Government has contributed a total of $3,771,549.68 to the province in aid of old age pensions, up to the end of the last fiscal year, according to a return tabled in the House of Commons. The disbursements to the 42,553 pensioners throughout Canada amounted to $7,542,579.12.

Following is the distribution by provinces: Alberta, 2,017 pensioners, $267,420.04 total paid; British Columbia, 4,576 pensioners, $2,049,674.52 total paid; Manitoba, 5,104 pensioners, $1,349,295.67 total paid; Ontario, 26,370 pensioners, $2,225,688.32 total paid; Saskatchewan, 4,482 pensioners, $1,139,942..82 total paid; North-West Territories, 4 pensioners, $557 total paid.

The apparent disproportion as between pensioners and total payments is due to the shorter period in which the act has been operating in the various provinces. British Columbia was the first to adopt the act, Ontario the last. Consequently the disbursements to British Columbia have been in progress for a much longer time than to Ontario.

Passes House Of Commons

Contributions From Companies For Campaign Purposes Allowed By Election Act

Ottawa.—The new Dominion Election Act was finally passed by the House of Commons after an amendment by J. S. Woodsworth (Labor, Winnipeg North Centre), had been accepted.

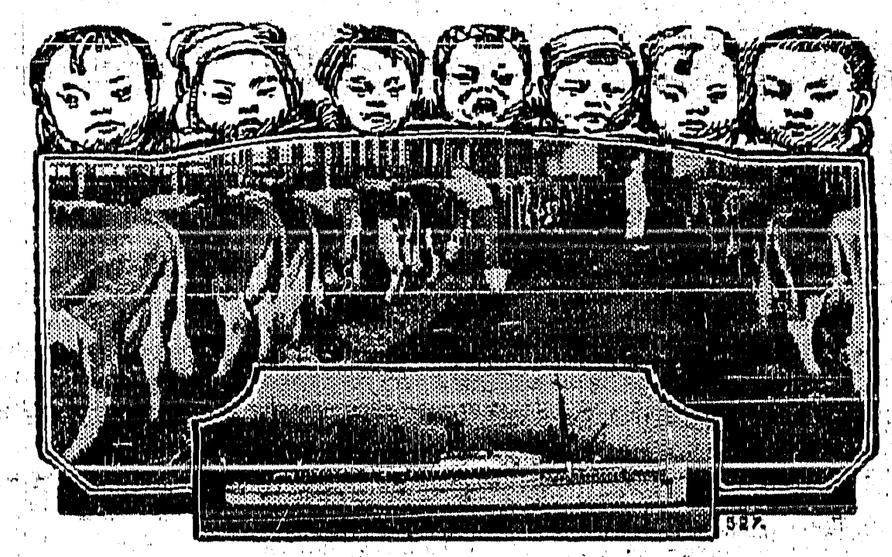
The amendment repeals a section prohibiting contributions from companies for campaign purposes. Mr. Woodsworth claimed that this provision worked a hardship on labor unions desirous of making contributions while large corporations had been able to contribute despite the section. The effect of the passing of the amendment is interpreted to mean that contributions to campaign funds from unincorporated companies and organizations will be subject to no restriction.

Wilkins May Accompany Dominion Expedition

Famous Explorer Has Permission To Go To Arctic

Ottawa.—Sir Hubert Wilkins may accompany the 1930 Arctic expedition, sent out annually by the Dominion Department of Interior, through its northwest territories and Yukon branch. It was reported that the famed Australian explorer and scientist had the permission of the department to join the expedition, which will travel north on the S.S. Beothic, and which leaves North Sidney, Nova Scotia, towards the end of July.

Saves Babies in China



Vancouver cows have become the foster mothers of children in China and Japan. Fresh certified milk is now being carried from Vancouver to the furthest ends of the earth, since New York, Montreal, Australia, South America and London, England, have already been supplied from the British Columbia port. Scientific refrigeration on the big white liners of the Canadian Pacific fleet plying between Vancouver and the Orient, is half the secret of the success of this long distance delivery of fresh milk; the other half is the quality of the product from the Brooksbank Laboratories certified milk farm. Carrying milk, as fresh as when it came from the cow, from Vancouver to Shanghai, a distance of 5,419 miles, is a big job and even the speedy "Empress of Canada" took 14 days to turn the trick, counting in stops at Honolulu, Yokohama and Kobe en route.

W. F. Jones, manager and proprietor of the Brooksbank Laboratories, has a theory that the cow which feeds the child has a right to the same treatment and attention as the child's mother, and above lay-out will show something of the careful grooming and spotless cleanliness of stables and animals.

GRAIN MOVING STEADILY FROM HEAD OF LAKES

Montreal, Que.—The Montreal Star publishes the following despatch from Fort William, Ont.

"Commenting on advices from Montreal that a big movement of export grain is an immediate prospect, E. A. Ursell, chief statistician of the Board of Grain Commissioners, said the announcement was not unexpected.

"He said European buyers were commencing to take Canadian grain, and he looked for a brisk movement in June and July.

"The situation has greatly improved during the last two weeks, he said. He expected shipments from Port Arthur and Fort William to run from 13,000,000 to 20,000,000 a month, which would mean a carry-over considerably less than last year.

Fort William, Ont.—Increased shipments from the Head of the Lakes during the past few days and a great improvement in export conditions on the Atlantic seaboard are noted by E. A. Ursell, statistician to the Board of Grain Commissioners, commenting on reports from Montreal that a big movement of export grain is an immediate prospect.

Mr. Ursell points out that liner tonnage has been taken up with wheat, and five tramp vessels are now at Montreal to take on wheat for Mediterranean ports, which of itself, he says, is a very satisfactory condition, showing that there is a demand for wheat in large quantities among the continental European buyers.

"It is reported that 5,000,000 bushels of wheat were exported during week of May 19 to 24, and 4,000,000 the week before.

"Should the export movement continue for the next two months at the same rate," the statistician adds, "the carry-over of wheat in Canadian channels is not likely to be more than 80,000,000 bushels, as was indicated in a report issued four months ago by the statistician's office of the Board of Grain Commissioners.

Operating On New Time

Prairie Air Mail Making Use Of Additional Daylight

Winnipeg.—The new schedule for the Western Canada Prairie Airmail service went into effect May 27, when the 'plane carrying the mail for western points left Stevenson airport at 7:30.

A careful survey had shown the greatest difficulty in operating the service, due to meteorological conditions, to exist on the leg of the route between Winnipeg and Regina, and particularly at the Winnipeg end, Mr. Coolican said.

Making use of the additional hour and a half of daylight is expected to better the percentage of effective performance.

Young Aviatrix Killed

Motor Stalls and Girl Fell Two Thousand Feet

Colorado Springs, Colo. — One of America's youngest aviatrixes, 17-year-old Margaret Ferguson, fell 2,000 feet and was killed, while attempting desperately to start her stalled motor.

Miss Ferguson obtained her government pilot license only a few days ago. She was making a solo flight before attending her high school class when apparently motor trouble occurred. The motor was heard to restart once during the 2,000 foot plunge, but sputtered and died again.

Some War Books Criticized

Edinburgh, Scotland.—Some modern war books were described as "filthy" and inexcusable exploitation of those who lost kin in the war, by the Rev. John Calder, Campbelltown, at the Assembly of the Free Church of Scotland. "These books," said Dr. Calder, "constitute a libel on the army and a calumny on the heroic dead."

Chief Scout Re-Elected

Ottawa.—His Excellency the Governor-General was re-elected as chief scout for Canada at the annual meeting of the Canadian General Council of the Boy Scouts Association.

Herd Law for Erickson

Editor Review:

Sir,—The majority of Erickson residents are in favor of a herd law being in force. Now, all that is needed is a poundkeeper. It costs from $25 to $40 for advertising fees, red tape, etc. If everyone hands over a dollar or two it could be easily arranged, and is well spent money.

When a rancher pays cash to get his beast out of pound he takes care to keep his animals inside his own fence, and off the public roads.

Cows roaming about the highways are a danger to travellers, and are also in danger of becoming tough beef. COWBELL.

WHY BOYS LEAVE HOME

Every parent knows what self-sacrifice is necessary to raise and educate a son. When boys leave home . . go to a foreign country to seek opportunity . . . it is a definite loss, not only to the famil,y but to the Province of British Columbia.

They go to seek opportunity. You can help to increase the opportunities right here at home in British Columbia by insisting on B.C. made goods every time you make a purchase.

Let's stop exporting our payrolls and keep the boys at home.

An Unusual Bequest

Deaf Woman Wills Ears To Science For Research Purposes

In the hope that medical science can aid others by a study of her ears, deaf since childhood, Miss Abby Hosmer, 70, wealthy Chicago woman, has willed them for research purposes after she dies.

The unusual will was announced by Dr. Austin A. Hayden, at a meeting of physicians and ear specialists.

"Until medical science can have opportunity to make microscopic studies of the ears of those deafened during their lifetime, we will remain considerably in the dark as to why one out of ten persons suffers from some form of this malady," Dr. Hayden said.

At any rate the Toronto Telegram points out, there are eight young citizens of Canada who are not puzzled over what they will call the new lady senator.

Changing Styles In Fiction

Each Generation Has Different Idea Of What Is Interesting

There are faint but unmistakable signs of a revulsion against the new style of war books which have been all the rage for a year past. That is as it should be, for they were neither great literature nor true to life as a rule. On the whole they were read less by grizzled veterans than by young ladies who liked being shocked by stories of strong drink and strong language at secondhand.

It was a change from what the trade called Sheik-stuff which was itself a revulsion from the Sentimental Tommy style, which was itself a novelty after strong silent men, gods in the car, and other sternly masculine types that delighted and thrilled the feminine readers of thirty years ago. So the clock of fashionable fiction goes round, and every generation worships the idols of its fathers under the delusion that they have discovered something new.

A tiered model in printed silk crepe reflects a new note in modified Princess styling, which makes it so suitable for casual daytime wear.

The tiers show a downward curving tendency at back, a clever means of lengthening the silhouette. They are finished at top with novel faille crepe silk applied band that ties in youthful bow at front.

The neckline in deep open V-shape employs the same trim for applied band. Long sleeves also gathered into cuffs of the crepe with tab ends.

Design No. 3278 comes in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

The trimming bands work out nicely cut from the dull surface in crepe satin, which is so important now in soft brown shade.

Black silk crepe, plum shade in wool crepe, tiny self-checked pattern in bottle green feather - weight woolen, tomato red crepe de chine, crepe marocain in dahlia purple and navy blue faille crepe appropriate and chic.

Pattern price 25 cents. Be sure to fill in size of pattern. Address Pattern Department.

DO YOU SUFFER FROM CONSTIPATION?

Countless remedies are advertised for constipation. Many relieve for the moment but they are habit forming and must be continued. Others contain calomel and dangerous mineral drugs, which remain in the system, settle in the joints and cause aches and pains. Some are harsh purgatives which cramp and gripe and leave a depressed after effect.

Avoid lubricating-oils which only grease the intestines and encourage nature's machinery to become lazy.

A purely vegetable laxative such as Carter's Little Liver Pills, gently touches the liver, bile starts to flow, the bowels move gently, the intestines are thoroughly cleansed and constipation poisons pass away. The stomach, liver and bowels are now active and the system enjoys a real tonic effect. All druggists 25c and 75c red pkgs.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JUNE 8

JESUS IN THE SHADOW OF THE CROSS

Golden Text: "He went forward a little and fell on His face, and prayed saying, 'My Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass away from Me: nevertheless, not as I will, but as Thou wilt.'"—Matthew 26.39.

Lesson: Matthew 26.1-75.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 42.1-5.

Explanations and Comments

Peter's Denial Foretold, verses 31-35.—On the way Jesus suddenly said, "All ye shall be offended in Me (caused to stumble by what is to befall Me) this night: for it is written (Zech. 13.7), I will smite the Shepherd and the sheep of the flock shall be scattered abroad."

Then He added the encouraging words: "After I am raised up, I will go before you into Galilee." "The Shepherd will yet again go before His flock, leading them."

"If all shall be offended in Thee," vehemently Peter exclaimed, "I will never be offended." He is not sure of the other disciples, but he is certain in regard to himself! How little he knew his own weakness!

"Forsake the Christ thou sawest transfigured, Him
Who trod the sea and brought the dead to life?
What should wring this from thee!"—ye laugh and ask.
What wrung it? Even a torchlight and a noise,
The sudden Roman faces, violent hands,
And fear of what the Jews might do! Just that,
And it is written, 'I forsook and fled';
There was my trial, and it ended thus."—Browning.

"Never said Peter, but it will happen "this night," said His Master. "Verily I say unto thee, that this night before the cock crow—before the dawn—thou shalt deny me thrice." Again Peter protested his loyalty and fidelity: "Even if I must die with Thee, yet will I not deny Thee." Likewise also said all the disciples.

In Gethsemane, verses 36-46. — Jesus led His eleven disciples to the Garden of Gethsemane, retracing for the last time His oft-repeated journeys thither for seasons of prayer and meditaiton. "Sit ye here," He said to the disciples, "while I go yonder and pray."

And He began to be sorrowful and sore troubled, and even said to His disciples, "My soul is exceeding sorrowful, even unto death." Before this He had talked calmly with His disciples of the cup He was about to drink, but now, in truth, He was "clean forespent, forespent."

"When the soul enters its Gethsemane, it withdraws a stone's cast from its most trusted friends." Jesus went forward a little, and falling on the ground prayed that if it were possible (if in accord with His Father's will), "this cup" this suffering, might pass away from Him. "Nevertheless," He added, "not as I will, but as Thou wilt."

BOILS GO OVERNIGHT

Service Becoming Popular

Passengers Are Using Telephone On Canadian National Trains

Since the installation of telephone service on the Canadian National trains, there has been an average of six calls a trip, between Montreal and Toronto, and in the other direction, according to W. D. Robb, vice president, in whose department the service comes. Most of them have been from the train to Montreal, Toronto, Kingston, Oshawa, Hamilton, London, and other points, one being made to Ashville, New York. Several have been made to the moving train from outside points.

CHAPTER XV.

"Dinner is served, ladies and gents," responded Charmian; while the doctor, throwing her an appreciative smile, arose, and with the good manners Grandma had noticed on his arrival, offered his arm to the old lady.

School opened on the fifth of September. Charmian was up early that morning, but when she came downstairs she found that her boarder had been earlier still. The fire was burning brightly and the table set.

"Hello, Miss Schoolma'am," he greeted her. "Thought you might be in a fluster this morning, and like an early start. But you needn't feel too rushed because I'm going your way right after breakfast and can give you a lift."

"I don't believe you," said Charmian severely. "I think you're just saying so to save me the walk."

"Didn't you hear the telephone ring at six o'clock?" he demanded in an injured tone. "Believe it or not, it was a bona fide call in your direction. Say! what can I do next? I'd have started the coffee, but I knew you'd suspect it wasn't right."

Charmian laughed.

"You've found me out. No one's ever allowed to make my coffee. You may get the butter and cream out of the ice box, and then I'd appreciate your room more than your company. I'm excited, and likely to do some crazy thing if you divert me."

"Shall you be home at noon to see to Grandma?"

John Carter had begun taking his dinners at the hotel, and disliked them even more than Charmian suspected. Her face sobered at his question.

"That's the one cloud in my sky," she admitted. "I really can't get back; and though I'll leave everything ready in the kitchen, I hate to have her fussing around alone."

The doctor looked thoughtfully out of the window. He was to all appearances watching the Merry's Gyppy investigate an invisible mouse in the wood pile, but when he turned he said:

"Look here, Charmian, why not let me come in at noon and help? We can eat here in the kitchen, and it would be less lonely for Grandma, wouldn't it? You can leave things half ready, and I'll do the rest. Of course there'll be days when I can't get here; but it would be better than having her eat every noon meal alone. On Saturdays and Sundays I'll go to the hotel, of course," he added. "I'm trying to lighten your work, you know, not make it harder."

The girl looked up, a grateful smile shining in her eyes and widening the pretty curve of her lips.

"What a trump you are!"

He laughed.

"Does that mean that you approve of my suggestion?"

"It does if—Would it be fair to you?" she broke off suddenly.

"Fair! You'd think it fair if you knew how I detest that hotel table! You've spoiled me completely, serving my meals as daintily as if I were an invalid. Anyhow, I like fussing 'round a kitchen. Sometimes I think I'd have been more of a success as a chef than as a doctor."

"Well," said the girl, "if you'll accept your lunch in payment for your services—"

"Charmian Davis, are you a moron?" He faced her, looking so belligrent that she had to smile. "I pay a dollar every day at that miserable joint of a hotel, and you're suggesting—"

"But you don't cook your own lunch there," she broke in seriously.

"And I shan't here. I'll merely warm up the stuff you leave, and keep that precious little old lady from being lonely. And you ask me to accept food in payment. I'm surprised!"

"But—"

"There's no 'but' about it. Look here!" The doctor indulged in a bit of lightning calculation, and continued: "We'll split the difference if it makes you happier. I'm not likely to devour more than fifty cents' worth of provisions. I'll pay you that, do any necessary cooking, and, when I don't have to hurry off (and unless my practice increases surprisingly there's no danger!), I'll wash the dishes. Thus I'll be saving fifty cents a day, which means a lot to me, and you—"

"And I shall feel like a different girl," ended Charmian as he hesitated. "Really, I've dreaded leaving Grandma alone so much. I don't know how to thank you, Doctor."

"You can do so by dropping that ridiculous habit of addressing me as Doctor. I'm forgetting that I possess a Christian name. And I've had the cheek to call you Charmian for weeks."

"Every one in Wickfield calls me Charmian," she responded. "I rather expect to be addressed that way by some of my pupils! If you had been an ordinary Mister—well, I shouldn't have kept that up, of course; but Doctor, minus the Carter, has an informal sound, you know. However, I'll reform at once, though I've no doubt Grandma will consider me unmaidenly."

She laughed—broke an egg into a blue bowl, and added: "Clear out, John. It's beyond my powers to converse intelligently with a man while I get his breakfast."

Grandma, when told of the new plan, brightened visibly.

"I don't mind owning now that I've sort of dreaded my dinners," she admitted. "Somehow the days seem long with no one to speak to, though I've no doubt the neighbors will drop in more often knowing that you're not here, dearie. Some days, when there's a lot of excitement in the street, the time goes quick enough; but it'll be something to look forward to having the doctor come home at noon."

"Thanks," he said, smiling at her across the table. "I expect we'll be a regular Darby and Joan before the winter's over!"

"No reason why we shouldn't," replied Grandma, as she dipped a toast crust in her coffee. "I don't know any young man I'd rather have around, even Jimmy Bennett, and I'm as fond of Jim as if he was my own grandson. There are even times when I hope he will be; but there's no telling."

"Why, Grandma Davis!" cried Charmian. "Whoever heard such talk—and before a stranger!"

"The doctor isn't a stranger," corrected Grandma, "and even a stranger would see that Jimmy Bennett thinks the world of you, wouldn't they, Doctor?"

John Carter, who was enjoying Charmian's confusion, replied in the affirmative, and Grandma said: "The only drawback to Jimmy is his mother. She's a good woman, but terribly exacting, and she expects her boy to do just what she says. There are times when I wonder why he doesn't kick over the traces and rebel; but he's a good son, and he sees the funny side of things, too, and that makes him interesting. Many's the time he's run in to tell me a funny story—times when he knew Charmian wasn't home, and that proves that he's got a kind heart. But he's not poetic, like Charmian, and I've sometimes wondered—"

"Really," broke in Charmian, aris-

"Really," broke in Charmian, aris-

ing, "though I know it's not polite to interrupt, I must start fixing your lunch, Grandma, or be late to school on my first morning. You and the doctor can take your time, but—"

She left the room, her sentence unfinished, and Grandma said: "I guess maybe she didn't want me to talk about her and Jimmy; and she's excited, too, beginning school and all. You go out, sonny and tell her not to bother with much of a meal for us today. We'll eat the left-overs."

Charmian returned that afternoon, tired but elated. Things had gone well; and she had met Doctor Howe on the way back, and ridden in with him.

"Between the two doctors I shan't get the exercise I need," she said to Grandma. "I mustn't let myself get fat as I get old."

"Fat!" snorted the old lady. "The Davises don't put on flesh, child. They're apt to be lean and spare in their old age; and your mother's people were the same. You needn't worry about getting fleshy like Lizzie Baker. She eats too much, and she never walks if she can sit.

"Well, dearie, I'm glad things went all right on your first day. And I got along real well myself. Lizzie Baker ran over to borrow some vinegar (she was making salad dressing); and Mrs. Merry stopped in for a spool of cotton and stayed an hour. The doctor warmed up things real tasty, and we had as nice a dinner as I ever ate. He had another call just as he finished doing up the dishes; and there's been a patient at the office, too. He's feeling real encouraged. He says if things continue to go on this way he'll be getting him a wife. I dunno who he'll find 'round Wickfield unless it's you, dearie, and I wouldn't mind if it was. He's got the makings of a good husband."

Charmian sat down and laughed.

"You seem bound to marry me to some one, Grandma. Are you ashamed of an old maid granddaughter? In these days a girl thinks twice before she takes on the cares of matrimony."

Another seasonable observance is the beginning of the great spring-clean at the British Museum Library. The regular dusting brigade on the library staff is reinforced for the occasion by a band of outside specialists, so that in all about eighty men are kept busy. Relic Of Colonial Days

Victoria Will Preserve Iron House Erected Seventy Years Ago

When sappers of the Royal Engineers came to British Columbia in 1858, to build roads in the new British colony, they built their houses of iron. The engineers either were not conversant with the durability of the country's lumber or else they desired additional protection from Indian raiders.

The old iron houses were forgotten years ago, and it was thought that the last of them had been removed, until workmen engaged in clearing away old buildings to make room for additions to the government buildings at Victoria, discovered the iron structure which had served as a dwelling 70 years ago. Sills under the building were found to be in good condition. They were of timber brought out from England.

Provincial government authorities upon learning the history of the iron house, ordered it placed upon a new foundation and to be preserved as a relic of old colonial days.

STURDY CHILDHOOD

The sturdy child—the bright, active little chap is the one everybody loves. It is only the sickly, fretful child who is not attractive. It is the birthright of every child to be sturdy and well—to be able to make everyone admire him. Therefore, mothers, if yours is not attractive it's your fault, not his. He must be ailing and it is up to you to see that he gets relief—that he is given a medicine that will quickly make him well and keep him well.

Baby's Own Tablets are especially designed for infants and young children. There is nothing to equal them for correcting the irregularities of the stomach and bowels—the cause of most of the ills from which little ones suffer. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"Skinny! I Gained 11 Lbs. in 8 Weeks and Boy Friend"

"After trying several tonics tried Ironized Yeast. In 8 weeks gained 11 lbs., new complexion, round limbs; best of all a boy friend." —S. M. Salino.

Men and women are amazed at gain of 5 to 15 lbs. in 3 weeks. Ugly hollows vanish. Bony limbs round out. Sallow, blemished skin gets clear and rosy like magic. Nervousness, indigestion, constipation disappear overnight. Sound sleep. New pep from very first day.

Two great tonics in one — special weight-building Malt Yeast and strengthening Iron. Pleasant little tablets. Far stronger than unmedicated yeast. Results in ½ time. No yeasty taste, no gas.

Don't go round "skinny," ugly, unattractive. Get Ironized Yeast from druggist today. Feel great tomorrow. Money back from manufacturer if not delighted with results.

Little Helps For This Week

"Though He slay me, yet will I trust in Him."—Job 13, 15.

Within the slender chalice of the hand
Hold fast what I give thee, and drop down
The fringes of those tender flowers of blue,
Thy wondering eyes; nor question, nor withstand
What I may give. Perchance my love hath planned
Some sweet surprise or test if thou be true;
What if it be a sprig of bitter rue,
A strange swift summons to an unknown land,
A hurting thorn, a cross? rare gifts I know
For love to bring; but wouldst thou trust me still?
Quick, dear, thine answer! "I should trust until
The hidden meaning in thy gift should show."
Ah, sweet, when God sends just such gifts to thee
Canst thou not answer Him as thou dost me?

We should see not only the hand of God, but the hand of our Heavenly Father, full of mercy and loving-kindness in all that befalls us. We should believe it to be best for us, because it is His will.

—George W. Bethune.

When Pain Comes

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drugstore.

Due to an unusually heavy demand for advertising space this week the Review is short of room for the usual quota of news, and amongst the things held over till next issue is a report of the comedy, "Nothing but the Truth," presented at the Grand on Wednesday evening by the dramatic talent of Trinity United Church. It was certainly one of the best amateur productions ever seen here, and attracted a capacity house.

On Saturday afternoon the boys and girls of the athletic squad met in the park to get going on the summer program. A combined march was tried out with great success, and at the conclusion of that exercise a distribution was made of a baseball outfit to the boys and a good basket ball to the girls, and now with the expected co-operation of the village commissioners the baskets will be placed in their proper positions, and some real intensive practice toward developing a team in each division of these sports will continue. Just at present the practices are scheduled for Saturday afternoons and, we understand, that as other activities for the juniors on this day are about to close down for the summer months there will be no conflicting meetings.

The Canadian Pacific Bubble

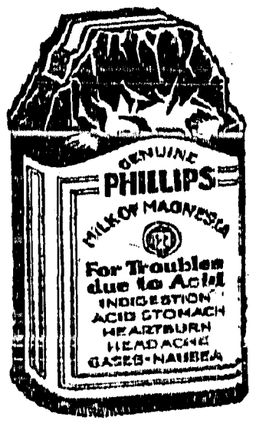
The following extract from an editorial in "London Truth," published, September 1, 1881, 49 years ago, is amusing.

The Canadian Pacific Railroad Company has begun, I see, to launch its bonds. A group of Montreal and New York bankers have undertaken to float ten million dollars worth of the company's land grant bonds, and the Bank of Montreal, with its usual courage, has taken one-fourth of the entire loan. This announcement looks as if the Canadians were going to raise the necessary capital on the other side of the water, but I have a shrewd suspicion that they have no real intention of doing anything of the kind. The New Yorkers are keen enough gamblers, and reckless enough at times I admit, and yet it is impossible to believe that they are such fools as to put their money into this mad project. I would as soon credit them with a willingness to subscribe hard cash in support of a scheme for the utilization of icebergs. The Canadian Pacific Railway will run, if it is ever finished, through a country frost bound for seven or eight months in the year, and will connect with the western part of the Dominion a province which embraces about as forbidding a country as any on the face of the earth. British Columbia, they say, has forced on the execution of this part of the contract under which they become incorporated with the Dominion, and believe that prosperity will come to them when the line is made. This is a delusion on their part. British Columbia is a barren, cold, mountain country that is not worth keeping. It would never have been inhabited at all, unless by trappers of the Hudson's Bay Company, had the "gold fever" not taken a party of mining adventurers there, and ever since that fever died down, the place has been going from bad to worse. Fifty railroads would not galvanize it into prosperity.

Nevertheless, the Canadian Government has fairly launched into this project and I have no doubt the English public will soon be asked to further it with their cash. The parade of selling bonds in New York and Montreal is the new way of doing business that "Syndicates" bankers and loan contractors have adopted in order that it may seem that they have faith in the schemes they father. I doubt if ten millions of dollars of ready cash could be found in all of Canada for this or any other work of utility at a pinch, but the Canadians are not such idiots as to part with one dollar of their own if they can borrow their neighbors'. The Canadians spend money and we provide it. That has been the arrangement hitherto, and it has worked out splendidly—for the Canadians—too well for them to try any other scheme with the Canadian Pacific, which they must know is never likely to pay a single red cent of interest on the money that may be sunk in it. A friend of mine told me—and he knew what he was talking about—that he did not believe the much touted Manitoba settlement would hold out many years. The people who have gone there cannot stand the coldness of the winters. Men and cattle are frozen to death in numbers that would rather startle the intending settler if he knew; and those who are not killed outright, are often maimed for life by frost-bites. Its street nuisances kill people with malaria, or drive them mad with plagues of insects; and to keep themselves alive during the long winter they have to imitate the habits of the Esquimaux. Those who want to know what it is like should read the not-yet-forgotten books of Colonel Butler. His "Great Lone Land" is the land of which the Canadian Pacific Railway has yet five and twenty million acres to sell and it is through a death-dealing region of this kind that the new railway is to run.

As the bonds "secured" on this land or others guaranteed by the Dominion Government are sure to be offered in this market by the "Bankers" and others forming the company, I think a word or two on Canadian finances in general would be in season

Canada is one of the most over-rated Colonies we have, but it is heartily "loyal" and makes the loyalty pay. Its astute inhabitants know well how to work on John Bull's susceptibilities, and I have seen nothing finer in the way of advertising than poor Lord Lorne's "Tour" now in progress. He has gone to the North, but just at the right time, and the gushing accounts we are receiving from the "Specials" who are accompanying him are admirably adapted to create a belief that the true land of promise is to be found there at last. With such soil to till, and among such Queen worshippers, the distressed British farmer would be in bliss. Of course they who choose can believe all that. For my part I know of only one province in the whole Dominion—that of Ontario. "It is the only province," as a shrewd land jobber said to me once, "where you can lend money on land with any hope of ever seeing your own again." As for the country as a whole it is poor and it is crushed with debt. The Supreme Government owes about thirty-five million pounds altogether, and every province has its separate debt, as also has almost every collection of shanties calling itself a "city." The Province and the City of Quebec are both notoriously bankrupt, and the latter was obliged to go to Paris with its last loan, probably because nobody would lend it here. Last year the country had the benefit of a good crop and a good market here, so that it did a little better, but generally it has hard work to make both ends meet, and often couldn't. Nearly every year it comes for a new loan or two, and once it is fairly committed to making this new railway I see nothing before it but bankruptcy. While the money is being spent all will go well enough, perhaps, but in the end the Dominion will have to go into liquidation. It amazes me that its stocks stand where they do as things are, but if people took the trouble to look beneath the surface, prices would be very different. One of these days when the load gets too heavy, Ontario is pretty certain to go over to the States into which it dove-tails, and where its best trade outlet is. When the day comes the "Dominion" will disappear. With the contingency ahead and with the prospect of another fifty million pounds or so to be added to the debt, can it be said that "Canadian Unguaranteed Four Per Cent" are worth their present price? This "Dominion" is, in short, a "fraud" all through and is destined to burst up like any other fraud. Then, and not, I suppose, till then, the British taxpayer will ask why we guaranteed so much of this sham government debt.



Too Much ACID

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief. Please do that—for your own sake—now.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drugstore.

Britain's New Flying Operating Theatre

Machine Just Completed Is Equipped Up-To-Date

For use in the outpost of the British Empire, a remarkable new flying operating theatre has just been completed. In order that a patient may be lifted gently, the sides of the cabin are hinged, so that they fall completely open. There are racks for surgical appliances of all sorts, and room for two attendant nurses as well as a doctor. The fuselage is specially sprung in order that taking off and landing shall not unduly disturb the patient. An ice chest, fresh-water tanks, and a small electric stove for heating water form part of the equipment. The machine is fitted with two Napier Lion engines, giving a total of nearly 1,500 h.p., and the aerial operating room can be maintained in the air with only one engine working with very little reduction of speed. Operations would be carried out in mid-air only in the most urgent cases; but there have been instances where the lives of settlers, soldiers, and natives in remote outposts could have been saved if an immediate operation, followed by skilled nursing, could have been assured. The new aeroplane will meet this need.

AGONY OF NEURITIS

A Story Of Intense Suffering and Relief

"Do I recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills"? "You may believe I do" says Mr. John H. Jamieson, of Wallaceburg, Ont.

"For five years I suffered day and night from neuritis. The agony was terrible. I lost control of my arm and shoulder and my hand became shriveled. Nothing helped me till I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Even then the improvement was slow and I took ten boxes before I was on the way to recovery. After that, though, relief was rapid. My hand gradually filled out; the pain left me and I could sleep in peace. That was two years ago and I have not had a twinge of the trouble since."

Sufferers from neuritis, neuralgia or rheumatism should try the common-sense method of banishing these troubles by enriching the blood and strengthening the nerves with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Growing Industry

Demand For Bulbs Grown On Vancouver Island Exceeds Supply

"Bulb growing on Vancouver Island is still an infant industry," said Mr. T. B. Dempster, who is probably the largest grower of bulbs in British Columbia, as well as the pioneer grower of bulbs on the Island for export, having been established for twenty-one years. "The possibilities for the growth of this industry are enormous. We could do a greater volume of business than we are doing at present if we could supply the demand, and occasionally find ourselves in the position where we must buy bulbs for our own use."

Avalanche Easily Started

Even a whisper has been known to start an avalanche on the Alpine passes. One disastrous avalanche was attributed to the tinkle of the sleigh bells, and the use of bells has been prohibited on that particular mountain.

A Remedy For Earache.—To have the earache is to endure torture. The ear is a delicate organ and few care to deal with it, considering it work for a doctor. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil offers a simple remedy. A few drops upon a piece of lint or medicated cotton and placed in the ear do much in relieving pain.

Another phase of much-needed national adjustment is disclosed by the fact that there are over 26,000,000 automobiles and less than 1,000,000 hospital beds in this country.

Helping the Empire

Wise "Old Country" Housewives Buy Canadian Produce

"Wise shopkeepers stock Canadian produce, good housewives buy it" is the maxim underlying the Empire Marketing Board's latest Canadian poster frame set now appearing on the Board's special frames in London and nearly five hundred cities and towns in the "Old Country."

The set consists of five posters. A Canadian apple orchard in flower and a ship for Canada under construction in a United Kingdom shipyard, are the subjects of the first and fifth. In the centre are maps of the United Kingdom and Canada drawn to scale. To right and left are smaller posters shewing barrels of Canadian apples being unloaded at the docks and a customer inspecting a display of Canadian food products at a grocer's shop.

The posters point out how bigger purchases of Canadian products will result in bigger orders for Home factories. "Every time you buy Empire produce you help the Empire to buy the goods you make at home" is the message of the whole set.

FOREST FIRES DESTROY SCORES OF FARM HOUSES

Port Arthur, Ont.—Fourteen-year-old boys, grim-faced, weary from loss of sleep, fought like men and did men's work in Sioux Lookout's valiant defence against forest fire invasion., V. R. "Bill" Hicks, Ontario air force pilot who arrived here, told forestry officials and newspapermen who met him. Sioux Lookout is out of danger now, Hicks said, and the few fires that remain in that district are under control.

More than twenty-five families, approximately 75 persons in all, were temporarily homeless, driven from their homesteads by the relentless onrush of devastating forest fires of timber land in north-western Ontario for the past six weeks.

While a large force of forest rangers and volunteers were heroically battling against the numerous blazes, word was received of the first fire fatality.

The body of Paul Garten, former German war ace, who had been employed as pilot by the Western Canada Airways, was recovered from the waters of Lake Seseganagra, near Allan-water, Ont. It is believed that Garten's machine, enveloped by dense smoke clouds crashed into the lake, June 2. On that day, the airman was on a cruise over the flame-ridden country, scouring for possible refugees and checking on the path of the fire. Garten distinguished himself as a flyer with the famous Richtofen Circus on the Western front during the war.

Larson is a blackened ruin. The little railway hamlet about two miles west of the lakehead on the Canadian National Railway fell prey to flames, and its few residents fled to neighboring towns.

Frame houses at isolated points in the Larson region were destroyed, bringing the total loss in personal property close to $100,000.

When Albert E. Swain's mink farm was totally demolished and the animals lost, damage was estimated at $50,000.

Strike Natural Gas Well

In Search For Water Near Hudson Bay Junction

Hudson Bay Junction, Sask. — There was a big rush here for natural gas, when prospectors and citizens left for the scene of a blazing well, 20 miles south of Hudson Bay Junction.

While a C.N.R. well digging outfit sought water at a depth of 300 feet they noticed a gas escaping and set a match to it. It ignited at once and is still burning with a flame about ten feet high. There are indications of oil at some points in this district and claims have been staked over the last few years but this is the first inclination towards a natural gas well. It is reported that if the well were deepened a great supply of gas would be released.

Prince Substitutes For King

London, England.—The Prince of Wales substituted for King George in the trooping of the colors during the Horse Guards' parade on the monarch's birthday. He wore the uniform of a colonel of the Welsh Guards. King George, who was 65 years old, watched from a balcony of the admiralty building. He seemed fit despite the rheumatic attack which prevented his participation.

A Six-Horse Town

Churchill, Man.—Population of Churchill, on Hudson Bay, has been tripled, speaking in equine terms. Two teams of horses were brought to the port from The Pas, to join the lone duo of horses taken to Churchill last season by the Department of Railways and Canals. So Manitoba's most ambitious settlement is now a six-horse town.

President Wants Action

Washington, D.C.—President Hoover of the United States says he wants action on the London naval treaty and has informed Senate leaders that he will call a special session of the Senate to discuss the treaty.

Needs Canada's Co-Operation

Without Her Help Britain Cannot Develop Atlantic Airways

London, England.—The air lines of the British Empire are expanding rapidly and rank second only, in mileage, to those of the United States, declared the Rt. Hon. Lord Thomson, secretary of state for air, in the House of Lords, during a broad and inspiring review of the Empire's accomplishments in the world of flying.

Lord Thomson predicted an era of great aerial expansion within the Empire in the next year or so. He stated there were now about 22,350 miles of regular air routes. He hoped the end of 1931 would see an extension of the Indian route towards Australia, but the date for the completion of this plan, he said, rested largely with the government of Australia.

The Cape to Cairo route should be completed as far as the great lakes of Central Africa by the end of this year and be in full operation by the spring of 1931.

Lord Thomson praised the opening up of what was called the Atlantic airways in the western Atlantic. Such a development, although started, could only be carried through with the co-operation of the Canadian government and the most sympathetic response was coming from Canada. A great deal of work had been done by the consultative committee established last July, said the secretary of state for air. They had reported favorably on the Atlantic airways scheme and he was fairly confident now that "we should be able to do something along this line."

Question Can Wait Action

No Hurry On Fixing Bay Route Insurance Rates On Shipping

Ottawa, Ont.—Question of insurance rates on shipping by the Hudson Bay route is relatively unimportant at the present time, stated Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Railways and Canals. His statement referred to the report of the imperial shipping committee to the Canadian Government, saying that it will be impossible to fix rates until navigation is under way and the effect of ice-breakers and direction finding wireless equipment is established.

Mr. Crerar mentioned that it will be 14 to 15 months before European traffic uses the bay route to any extent.

When asked if the government would take over the insurance of shipping until the new rates are struck, Mr. Crerar said no consideration had been given to that phase of the question.

Grain Broker Sentenced

Winnipeg Man Is Given Two Years In Penitentiary

Winnipeg, Man.—F. H. Bole, prominent Winnipeg grain man, was sentenced to two years in penitentiary on charges of obtaining money from the Bank of Montreal by false statements. Mr. Bole, who was head of the Electric Elevator Company, Limited, recently suspended from trading on the Winnipeg exchange, pleaded guilty in provincial police court.

Three charges were laid against the grain official, covering amounts totalling $85,000 alleged to have been obtained from the bank. After entry of a plea of guilty to all three charges, Mr. Bole was sentenced to one year on one charge, and two years on each of the other two charges. All sentences, the court ruled are to run concurrently.

Canada Will Be Represented

Delegates Have Sailed For World Power Conference At Berlin

Ottawa. — Canada will be well represented at the second world power conference to be held in Berlin, Germany, June 16-25, it was announced by Dr. Charles Camsell, Deputy Minister of Mines and Chairman of the National Committee. Not only have many Canadian delegates sailed, but several papers will be delivered on the water power resources of this country.

Among the Canadian delegation will be Dr. Camsell, John Murphy, electrical engineer, Department of Railways and Canals; Hon. F. P. Burden, Minister of Lands, British Columbia; Dr. T. H. Hogg, chief hydraulic engineer, Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario; G. A. Gaherty, president, Calgary Power Company; J. C. Glassco, general manager, Winnipeg Hydro-Electric System.

A feature of the conference will be a telephone radio hookup on the occasion of the official banquet on June 18, at 3 p.m. E.S.T. Berlin, London, England, San Francisco, Cal., and Thomas Edison's laboratory will be included in the hookup.

Mr. Edison will speak from his laboratory in New Jersey.

Blue Print Makes Air Trip

Carried By Wind From Melita, Manitoba To Saskatchewan Town

Brandon.—Carried more than 175 miles through the air by the high winds, a blue print travelled from Melita, Man., to Assiniboia, Sask., where it was picked out of the air by a resident of the latter town. The A. R. McDiarmid, Ltd., received the blue-print back in their office with the notation on it from Assiniboia, "picked this out of the air during big blow. Some record."

The print had been sent to Melita in a bid for some work and was known to have been in the possession of the Melita people, and no other copy was in existence.

Health Insurance System Advocated

Would Curtail Immense Loss Caused By Sickness Is Belief

Toronto, Ont.—A state health insurance system as a means of curtailing a large percentage of the $300,000,000 loss of productive capacity in Canada annually from preventable illness was strongly recommended for support by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association in the report of the industrial relations committee here at the 59th annual meeting of the association.

The report cited findings of a special commission appointed by the British Columbia Government in support of the recommendation and stated experience in England, Germany and the United States shows that sickness causes more lost time than all other causes put together.

The industrial relations committee expressed a willingness to co-operate with the government in the movement for a thirteen month calendar.

Distributing Samples Of Champion Wheat

Toronto Visitors Will Be Reminded Of Alberta's Victory

Toronto, Ont.—Five thousand samples of the consignment of Alberta wheat which won the world's championship at the Chicago Grain Exposition last fall will be distributed among visitors at the Shrine convention here.

Arrangements for the novel method of attracting attention to Alberta's and Canada's achievements in the world of agriculture were concluded by Hon. George Hoadley, Alberta's Minister of Agriculture. As the result of his negotiations, 5,000 phials containing the wheat samples are ready for distribution to interested Shriners or their families.

The champion wheat was grown on the farm of Joseph H. B. Smith, at Wolf Creek, Alta.

Message From King George

Replies To Congratulations On Birthday From People Of Canada

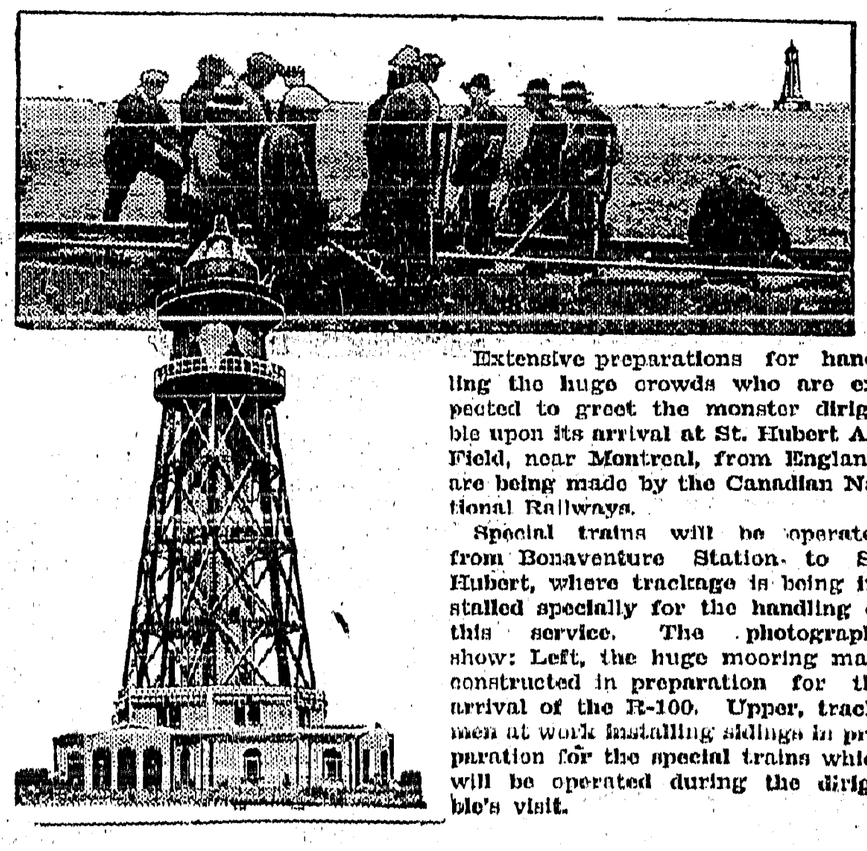
Ottawa, Ont.—Replying to a message of congratulation sent on behalf of the government and the people of Canada, His Majesty King George, cabled Premier King as follows:

"I sincerely thank you, the government and people of Canada for your greetings and good wishes on this anniversary of my birthday. I much appreciate the loyal sentiments to which your message gives expression."

Mission Hospital Burned

Fort Simpson, N.W.T.—Inflicting loss over $50,000, flames of unknown origin swept through the Roman Catholic Mission Hospital here on June 4. Heroic work on the part of the sisters in charge of the institution was responsible for the saving of all patients and considerable of the valuable hospital equipment. The old building was erected about 20 years ago.

WHERE R-100 WILL "LAND"



Extensive preparations for handling the huge crowds who are expected to greet the monster dirigible upon its arrival at St. Hubert Air Field, near Montreal, from England, are being made by the Canadian National Railways.

Special trains will be operated from Bonaventure Station to St. Hubert, where trackage is being installed specially for the handling of this service. The photographs show: Left, the huge mooring mast constructed in preparation for the arrival of the R-100. Upper, trackmen at work installing sidings in preparation for the special trains which will be operated during the dirigible's visit.

THOMAS GIVEN NEW POSITION IN BRITISH CABINET

London, England.—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, in the House of Commons, made the first announcement regarding his expected plans for changes in the Labor Cabinet when he stated that J. H. Thomas, Lord Privy Seal, at present in charge of the government's programme for relief of unemployment, is to be made Secretary of State for the Dominions—a newly created cabinet post.

Until a few years ago dominion affairs came under the British colonial office. Then, in deference to the increased independent status of the Dominions, the title of that department was changed to the Dominion and Colonial Office, though the administration of it remained in the hands of one minister.

MacDonald informed the house that the approach of the imperial conference, which will be held here in September, and the nature of its business necessitated complete separation of the Dominion and Colonial offices and the placing of a separate minister over each. He then said that Thomas will accept the new post of Secretary of State for the Dominions. It is not entirely new to Thomas, however, as in MacDonald's first government, in 1924, he was colonial secretary and became extremely popular with the dominion governments and their representatives in London.

New Senators Appointed

Five Vacancies In Province Of Quebec Are Filled

Ottawa.—Appointment of five new senators from the province of Quebec, was announced following a lengthy meeting of cabinet.

Those appointed to the senate are: Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, who was speaker of the House of Commons; E. W. Tobin, late Federal member for Richmond-Wolfe; J. E. Prevost, late member for Terrebonne; George Parent, late member for Quebec West and L. A. Wilson, former member for Caudreuil-Soulanges.

In making the announcement, Prime Minister Mackenzie King explained that the fifth Quebec vacancy in the senate arose through the resignation of Senator Louis Lavergne, of Kenebec. It is understood that ill-health is the cause of the resignation of Senator Lavergne.

Mr. King also stated that it had been the rule in the past not to appoint members of parliament to the senate. There had been some exceptions but the general rule had been followed for some time. This explained why all those appointed at the present time were former members of parliament who had held seats up to the date of dissolution.

Grain Elevator Burned

Cause Of Fire Believed To Be Spontaneous Combustion

Silton, Sask.—The Pool elevator, built in 1912 and containing 11,000 bushels of grain, was a smouldering heap, on Wednesday morning, June 4, as the result of a fire that broke out the night before. The loss is estimated at about $35,000. The fire is believed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion. Seven empty C.P.R. box cars standing on the loading tracks when the fire commenced, were pushed to safety by manhandling them further away.

New Radio Receiver

Atlantic City, N.J.—A radio receiver capable of adjustment to compensate for tonal deafness of the individual listener has been demonstrated to radio engineers assembled here. Julius G. Aceves, consulting engineer of the New York inventor of the device, explained its function and performance before a meeting of the Radio Club of America.

Depends On France

Rome.—Italy is willing to suspend her 1930 naval building programme pending the outcome of the proposed Franco-Italian conversations on naval limitation, if France agrees to do the same, Dino Grandi, the foreign minister, announces.

The Directory was hung on the hook

A Vancouver family reported that when they responded to the ring of their telephone bell they could get no answer. A telephone repairman was sent to the house to investigate. A look at the instrument revealed the cause of the trouble. The telephone directory had been hung on the receiver hook.

Although a member of the household would lift the receiver as usual, in answering the the telephone, the weight of the directory would hold the hook in place, and the result was the same as though the call was unanswered. Removal of the directory remedied the situation.

Power and Personality

CONTRIBUTED

There is a deep longing in the hearts of men to live a successful life. It is because of this desire that so many read and study almost any book which promises self-developement of a strong personality. Some of this personal culture literature is frankly agnostical, and some, probably most of it, lays claim to religious and even Christian ideas.

Thus Henley, the poet, who was an atheist, believed in "the unconquerable soul of man." He was fond of such bold expressions, "I am master of my fate; I am captain of my soul." Ralph Waldo Trine in his "In Tune with the Infinite," on the other hand, makes frequent use of scripture texts, "The Kingdom of God is within you"; "As a mam thinkeh so he is." He is guilty, however, of turning most of his scripture quotations to his one purpose of showing man is and can be great in himself, and of himself apart from God. Divinity or power is to be attained from within man himself. Kleiser, though less egotistical than Trine, maintains that the sole difference between a successful man and a failure lies in the words "I will." Despite the use these men make of scripture their philosphy can hardly be said to be Christian. It can be classed with the famous Vedantism of India. Swami, whose outwardly joyous personality created a profound impression throughout the United States as the leader of Vedantism, said in the Chicago Parliament of Religions, "Ye divinities on earth, it is a sin to call you sinners." He, too, at least while in the heyday of his popularity preached and believed all men were gods and only needed to assert their divinity. Like Henley, Swami also found life much too difficult and perplexing for this easy philosophy, both these men died dejected and under unhappy circumstances.

Along with this rather blatant asserting of man's inward strength and power, might be classed a somewhat milder form of self-assertion as found in semi-religious cults of psychology, occultism, spiritualism and various associations of "truth seekers."

Then there are those who take the opposite course in their search for personality, cults which maintain that power in personality consists in letting go of mental control. The more uncontrolled their bodies, the more they are said to be "under the power" and the less concern they give to the physical facts and needs of life; the more faith they claim to have. Such often lay claim to Pentecostal power.

The weakness of self-assertionnists lies of course in its selfishness and the weakness is its moral and spiritual surrender to the difficulties of life, a refusal to take up the burdens and crosses of life.

The spirit of power was promised by Jesus to those who obeyed the great commandment of love. It is marvelous how simple this matter of personality is; personality and power is the product of love. But love for one's fellows must come first; without this love, self-assertion and emotionalism are futile to build up personality. Love completely destroys self-assertion and emotionalism. Jesus asserted God's will, not His own will. The disciples at Penticost did not assert themselves but Christ; their inward divinity was not man-made but God-made; they wonld not cry "I," but "Christ is captain of my soul," theirs was not a rampant emotionalism but fully controlled love for men of all languages and tongues.

Johd Wesley at one time spoke with almost horror of a man preaching anywhere but in a consecrated building. When a friend drew Wesley's attention to the fact that Jesus preached out-of-doors and without clerical garb, Wesley was nonplussed. When we think of all the things that we connect with the church as essential to religious life and compare them with the birth of the church 1900 years ago this month at Pentecost, possibly we too will feel as Wesley did.

For the church began in a private home; there were no priests, no ministers: in fact no leaders; the Spirit knew no distinction of 'orders' nor of 'officers'; there was no creed, dogma, confession of faith; there was no church 'polity' or form of government; there were no forms of service, no ritual, no sacrament, no Bible, no denominations, no distinctions of color, language or race.

What then was there? The answer is simple and plain, there was a deep passionate love for God, everything else is secondary to that. Is that enough for the church to-day? Is that enough for the Christian? The tragedy is that these things which have grown up along with the church have so completely over hadowed brotherliness, tolerance and other phases of Christian love. Instead of using these secondary things as aids to the kingdom, we think of them as ends in themselves.

Pentecost reminds us once again that power and personality are born out of a deep passionate love for God and man. It is only when we are fully committed to the great commandment "Love ye one another" that divine power will dwell in us and an enduring personality will be our portion.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A New Ferryman

Editor Review:

Sir,—I would consider it a great favor if you would give me space in your valuable paper, as it is the only medium through which we in Creston Valley can express our opinion.

The ferryman's job has been vacated lately by a returned man. The man who is at present occupying the position is not a returned man. Anyhow, I understand he is there temporary But the writer of this letter has it on good authority that the future permanent ferryman is not a returned man.

Now, Creston Legion, do your stuff. Previous to the last election our M.P.P. made a speach at a Legion meeting; "Returned men first and always." When is it going to come off? I don't know. Since this present government was elected the returned men never got such a raw deal as they are now getting in this Valley, and they are taking it lying down.

Come on, boys. Where is your spirit os 1914? GEO. DAVIE.

Miss Brown, primary teacher, whose health has bten none too good of late, has also resigned

Compilation of the voters list to be used at the Dominion election next month is expected to start this week. Enumerators have been named in this district and confirmation of their appointment is expected from Mr. Grimmett, returning officer, any day now. In Creston Hugh Taylor will have charge, and Matt. Moores is to do the enrolling at West Creston.

Sunday afternoon's baseball attraction will be a game between Creston Juniors and Intermediates at 2.30. Cam. MacDonald and Earl Christie will do the battery work for the juniors, and L. Anderson and Ollie Christie will do similar work for the Intermediates These same teams met on Monday night when the juniors won out by an 8 to 7 margin

Creston and District Women's Institute annual flower show will be held in Trinity United Church hall on Saturday afternoon, with entries due to close today with the secretary, Miss Edith Crawford. A feature of the flower show will be a health exhibit which will be in charge of Mrs. Cherrington. The admission is free, and there will be afternoon tea and sale of cooking.

W. S. Bush made a very hurried auto trip to Kellogg, Idaho, on Tuesday having been called to that town due the serious condition of his son, Will, who is laid up with pneumonia. Osborn Bell and "Nibbs" Bush were in charge of the auto, making a non-stop run from Kellogg. and returning to that town with Mr. Bush, sr., after but an hour's rest at Creston.

Mrs. Ellis of Winnipeg, Man., western representative of Montreal Family Herald and Weekly Star, was a visitor in the Valley on Tuesday and Weenesday, collecting material for a special article on Creston district in which the wheat raising on the Reclamation Farm and the East Creston rrigatios system will receive foremost attention. During her stay in town she was guest of Mr. and Mrs. Hayes.

At a meeting of the directors of the fall fair on Thursday night last it was announced that the formation of a Pig and Calf Club was not meeting with the support expected. It had been found impossible to form a Pig Club, largely due to the inability to secure young pigs. This is to be remedied next year when it is hoped to secure a couple of litters for distribution and enable all contestants to get off to an even start.

D. D. NcLean of Nelson. Liberal candidate in West Kootenay, accompanied by Mrs. McLean, were visitors in the Creston district for a few days at the first of the week. His call here completes visits at all points in the riding, and he states the outlook for a Liberal victory in the cogstituency is exceptionally bright. He finds that with Old Country people the British preference feature of the Liberal budget is proving immensely popular.

At a meeting of the Conservative Association on Tuesday night the following delegates were named to attend the West Kootenay nominating convention which is to be held at Nelson on Wednesday next: Creston—Col. Mallandaine, C. O. Rodgers, Geo. Johnson. Erickson-Canyon, R. J. Long. Kitchener, G. A. Hunt; Reclamation Farm, R. Sinclair Smith; Wynndel, delegate to be named later. It is quite a foregone conclusion that W. K. Esling will again be chosen candidate.

A marriage of much interest here was solemnized at Vancouver at the end of May when Miss Freda, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lewis, became the bride of Mr. J. E. Price of Jasper, Alta. After graduating from Creston high school the bride successfully completed the three year course in nursing at Vancouver General Hospital in 1927, since when she has followed her chosen profession at the coast. She was a popular member of Creston's younger set and will have the very best wishes of all for the future. They will reside at Jasper.

Canadian Inspectors Keep Careful Check On Binder Twine

One of the perennial difficulties of the grain grower at harvest time comes from binder twine. The Seed Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, through its inspectors, keeps a careful check not only on the quality of binder twine made in Canadian factories and also brought in from other countries, but they also take particular care to ensure that the full length of the twine is in the ball. Under the Inspection and Sales Act every ball of binder twine sold in Canada must bear a label showing the name of the maker and the number of feet per pound in the ball of twine. The usual lengths are 500, 550, 600 and 650 feet per pound, the two longer lengths being the more popular in Canada. Systematic inspection shows that infractions of the regulations are infrequent, and also ensures that quality in the product which gives confidence to the farmer using it.

A sports weight linen in lovely soft brown with maize dots adopts bolero treatment that is decidedly one-sided, with sash ends joined to underarm seams and tied in bow. The skirt sways so prettily cut circular and joined to diagonal yoke top. Shirring at left front shoulder provides decorative note and fulness. Long sleeves have perforations to be made short, if desired.

Style No. 2948 makes an excellent school frock for the girl who knows smart clothes. It is very inexpensive too. In the 8-year size, 2½ yards of 40-inch material is sufficient to copy it exactly. It is designed in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years.

Brown and white checked gingham with the one-sided bolero which is merely an over blouse caught in at shoulder and armhole made of plain brown pique is strikingly chic and serviceable.

Nile green cotton pique with bolero and neckline piped in yellow is very attractive.

Orchid chambray, pink shantung, wool challis in yellow-beige and brown tones, French blue dimity with white polka-dots, and red and white printed pique are effective combinations.

It is just about perfect in tomato red crepe de chine with the little bolero jacket of navy blue crepe.

Printed crepe de chine in Royal blue tones with tan is very smart.

Navy blue wool crepe is very fashionable for travel or school days.

Advice For Livestock Producers

Should Exercise Caution With Respect To Movement To Slaughter

The Dominion Live Stock Branch continues its advice to the producer to exercise the greatest caution with respect to the movement of livestock to slaughter. The reasons for this are: Consumer purchasing power shows a decline, the expert market is comparatively narrow, demand for beef is now on a hand-to-mouth basis, and cold storage supplies are particularly heavy. At the present time 12 per cent. more beef is in cold storage than for the same time last year, the stock of fresh frozen beef is about 26 per cent. heavier, veal is 76 per cent. heavier, and lamb and mutton in cold storage shows an increase of 84 per cent. over the corresponding period last year.

A True Philanthropist

Spends Money On Summer Camp For Working Women

People who have more money than they can use, or more than is good for their heirs, could not do better, says a writer, than adopt the idea of Mr. August Heckscher, New York philanthropist, who is entertaining 50 women, 45 years old and over, at his summer camp near Peekskill. His guests are recruited from that grim grey army that scrubs floors and cleans offices while those more fortunate in the metropolis play and sleep. If the reader can think of any guests who might be more grateful for hospitality than these scrubwomen, whose wages hover around $10 a week, the writer wants to hear of them.

JESUS ON THE CROSS

Golden Text: "Looking unto Jesus the author and perfecter of our faith, who, for the joy that was set before Him, endured the cross, despising shame, and hath sat down at the right hand of the throne of God." — Hebrews 12.2.

Lesson: Matthew 27.1-66.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 22.1-5, 14-19, 27, 31.

Explanations and Comments

The Crucifixion, verses 32-38. — They led Jesus away to be crucified, going outside the city limits, as was the custom (Acts 7.58). The knoll to which He was taken away was called "Golgotha," a word meaning "the place of the skull." We call it "Calvary," from the Latin word "Calvaris, a skull." There they offered Him wine mingled with gall, for it was a merciful practise to give a stupefying drink to one about to be crucified. This charitable office, Alfred Edersheim tells us, was performed at the cost of an association of women in Jerusalem. Jesus tasted but would not drink, for He wished to have a clear mind to the last.

"O Man of Sorrows, with the wounded hands—
For chaplet, thorns; for throne, a pagan cross,
Bound with the woe and agony of time,
Yet loved by children and the feasting guests—
I bring my suffering, joyful heart tothee."
—Frederick Lawrence Knowles.

Over His head was placed this accusation against Him, written in Hebrew, Latin and Greek (John 19. 20):" This is Jesus, the King of the Jews." On either side of Jesus a thief was crucified. Crucifixion was terrible and disgraceful in itself, but if Jesus had hung there with nothing near to disturb the impression of His calm serenity and innocence, Phillips Brooks suggests, it might well have happened that the people who stood and watched would have felt the majesty of the sacrifice. "Already, that place of suffering might have seemed as glorious as it has seemed to the world since. But as it was, they went to prison and dragged out two wretched culprits who were waiting for their doom. That there might be no doubt about the disgracefulness of the Saviour's sufferings, they hung Him between the thieves.

"In the cross of Christ I glory,
Tow'ring o'er the wrecks of time;
All the light of sacred story
Gathers round its head sublime."

The Taunts Of the Spectators, verses 39-44.—The cross was near the public road leading to Jerusalem, and passers-by mocked Him, shaking their head in the direction of the cross, as if to say, some one suggests, "That is what it has come to!"

"Thou that destroyest the temple and buildest it in three days, save Thyself," they jeered. "If Thou art the Son of God," as Jesus had acknowledged at the trial, Matthew 36.64, "come down from the cross," others cried. And the chief priests and scribes and elders did not scorn to join the rabble in their mockery: "He saved others; Himself He cannot save," they cried.

Producing Better Bacon

Live Hog Grading Policy Has Had Excellent Results

Canada's Live Hog Grading Policy, supervised by the Meat Inspection Service of the Dominion Live Stock Branch, has resulted in the production of increasing quantities of select bacon hogs. Fed on dairy by-products and finished on the small hard grains which make for firm high-quality product, these hogs prepared for market by government inspected packing plants under ideal conditions give the product a mild cure and deliver it to the retailer in the form for which the housewife shows a growing appreciation—better bacon.

"Oh, no, she doesn't!" contradicted Grandma, "not if she finds the right man, anyway. School teaching's all very well for a while; but I guess the girls are just the same inside as they were in my day, except maybe they're more sensible. A girl wants her own man and her own home and her own babies, whether she wears her skirts to her knees or trailing in the dust as they did when I was your age. I saw a letter in the Boston paper protesting about 'this leg show,' as the woman called it. I made me sort of mad. I guess she was over seventy, or else terribly behind the times. I'm too old to make changes myself; but it would be a dull world if nobody made 'em; and for my part I can't see what's wrong with a pair o' legs. Even Mrs. Merry's had her best dress shortened, though being the minister's wife I expect some folks'll criticize her. If you're not too tired, childy, I think you'd better make something good for supper. The doctor's been scurrying 'round all day, and is liable to have an appetite. Here he comes now!"

CHAPTER XVI.

On a bright afternoon in late October, Charmian, who had stayed after school to correct some papers, was just starting on her homeward walk when a familiar car approached and drew up beside her.

"Ride?" questioned Jim shortly.

"You don't seem to be going my way," she answered.

"What of it? I'll have you back in time to get your supper, and a breath of air will do you good. Hop in."

Charmian obeyed.

"I hope Grandma won't think I'm lost or kidnapped," she said uneasily; but in a moment Jim saw that she had relaxed, and guessed that his timely invitation was a relief.

"Tired?" he asked, as they moved away from the old brick schoolhouse and headed toward Eastboro.

"A little," the girl admitted. "It's been a trying day. I suppose such days come to all schoolma'ams, and I'm no exception."

"What was your special brand of trouble this time?"

Charmian looked up with a quick smile.

"Deacon Purdie."

"That old mud turtle! What business did he have with you?"

"Have you forgotten that he is now the doting father of six?" smiled Charmian. "To make a long story short, Jim, Luella's oldest, who's a smart Aleck if there ever was one, was too impertinent yesterday to be endured. I sent him home with a note saying he could not return without apologizing; and his loving stepfather took it to heart."

"What'd he say?"

Jim was running slowly in order to watch Charmian as she talked. She met his eyes with a wistful smile.

"Oh, let's forget it! He's—"

"You'll forget it quicker if you get it off your chest," advised Jim wisely. "Go on."

"He said that his son (note the 'son,' Jimmy!), was not going to apologize to 'no Davis.' He implied that he held the school board in the hollow of his hand, and would make things hot for me unless I let the boy come back without saying he was sorry. And I can't, Jim. I wouldn't have a shred of discipline left if I allowed it. All the children heard my ultimatum, and—Oh, I believe, honestly, that the deacon is just trying to get even about those dreadful beads! Don't tell Grandma, Jimmy. It would worry her to death; but if I lose the school. . . ."

Her voice trembled, and because Jim wanted more than he'd ever wanted anything, to tell her that the school might "go to the devil" if only she'd see a certain subject the way he did, he opened the throttle and said nothing at all until he had himself in hand. He didn't speak until they reached a bit of woodland where he stopped the car.

"Look here, Charmian." His voice was the leaat bit husky, and his arms were folded across his chest in an effort to keep from temptation. "Don't let that worry you a minute. The deacon's on the school board, of course (more shame to Wickfield), but he's only one. Do you imagine that his word would weigh in the balance against yours with the other members, George K. and Doctor Howe? Don't let him scare you. Just stick to your guns and everything will be all right. Gosh! I wish you'd order me to break his ugly nose!"

Charmian laughed. Already her troubles seemed miraculously lighter.

"You think I'm right then?" she questioned humbly.

"Of course, you are! Cheer up, now, and relax. Shut your eyes, if you want to, and I won't bother you with talking. You need a rest."

The car moved forward, but though the girl closed her eyes obediently for a few moments, they wouldn't stay closed.

"There's no use my mising this lovely foliage," she explained. "It seems even more gorgeous than usual to me; and Grandma's sure Miss Lizzie's cut-leaf maple was never quite so gay."

"I think it's only that every year the coloring surprises us a little," replied Jim thoughtfully. We're used to seing it all green. Then comes a frosty night and—presto change! We wake up and the scene's different, the way they do it in a theatre."

"I believe you're getting poetic in your old age!" laughed Charmian light-heartedly.

"I must have caught it from you, then," he responded.

She answered, a bit reproachfully: "If you did, the infection can't be very recent. You're a good deal of a stranger these days, Jim Bennett."

He threw her a quick glance.

"I understood that your evenings were engaged."

"How?"

"Entertaining your gentleman boarder," he answered honestly, and was furious to feel the color creep into his face.

"What would you have me do—lock him in the wood shed or his office?" she retorted. "After all, Jim, a boarder is supposed to have the privilege of the family sitting room; and Grandma likes to talk with him."

"A fine chance she has when you and he are watching the moon rise from Wade's Hill," Jim countered with good-natured sarcasm.

"Whoever on this earth told you I climbed Wade's Hill with him?"

Charmian was so astonished that Jim smiled as he replied: "It may have been the whip-poor-will that was singing its head off somewhere in the vicinity that evening; and then again, it may have been Lizzie Baker. There's precious little you do, my friend, that Lizzie doesn't broadcast to—well, my mother, for instance. She hasn't forgiven me, I understand, for taking a detour from the straight and narrow path that leads to your front door; and in consequence. . . ."

As he hesitated, Charmian gave way to a peal of laughter in which he joined.

"I wonder why it is that our elders take our slights so much more deeply to heart than we do ourselves," said the girl at last. "Miss Lizzie thinks she owns a piece of me, you know. In her opinion every man in Wickfield should be in love with me."

"She's not far off there," responded Jim gallantly. "But as for slights—why, I—I never. . . ."

He was suddenly inarticulate, and Charmian stretched out an impulsive hand, laying it on one of those that gripped the steering wheel; which unexpected contact caused the car to swerve.

"You don't owe me any explanation, Jimmy."

"I think I do," he answered as she removed her hand, "but not on the subject of Clara Darling."

"About what, then?" asked Charmian in surprise.

They had reached Eastboro, and Jim answered, as he slowed up before the bank: "I'll tell you some day," but before she could ask more he had vanished within a side door that gave access to the building after banking hours.

On the way home, however, he skillfully managed to keep the conversation away from his own problems, and hers. He told of happenings at the bank that made her laugh—he asked questions about trivial nothings that kept her mind from her encounter with Deacon Purdie; and when he dropped her before the old Davis house at half-past five, Charmian mas a different girl from the discouraged teacher he had picked up an hour or so before.

"You're a good doctor, Jim," she said gratefully as she left him.

"Seems as if you'd been gone a week," commented Grandma, to whom Jim waved as he rode away. "Not but what it's ben sort of an exciting day, though. A man came through on his way to the White Mountains riding one o' those infernal machines—a motorcycle, I mean. I heard him coming from clear down the street so I was watching and saw everything plain as day. It's a wonder he hadn't killed a dozen children, going such a rate; and just as he got here Lizzie Baker's cat ran across the road chasing the Garfields' Plymouth Rock rooster that had got loose somehow. It was a bad combination, I'll admit that. You know how hens behave when they cross a street, and I can't see that roosters act much different if they do belong to the male sex. Anyhow, that man on the motorcycle turned out so as not to hit the cat, and—well, I suppose he must have hit something for he went head over heels and that contraption he was riding lying a-top of him with the engine running."

"Was he killed?" gasped Charmian.

Before Her Baby Came

"I have used several bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and find it helps me wonderfully, especially before childbirth. I have five lovely children. After my last baby came I had a miserable pain in my right side so I bought another bottle of the Compound and I feel fine now. I work outside during the fruit season in addition to my housework."—Mrs. Charles Slingerland, R.R. #4, St. Catherines, Ontario.

DO YOU SUFFER WITH HEADACHE?

So easy to get quick relief and prevent an attack in the future. Avoid bromides and dope. They relieve quickly but affect the heart and are very dangerous. They are depressing and only give temporary relief, the cause of the headache still remains within. The sane and harmless way. First correct the cause, sweeten the sour and acid stomach, relieve the intestines of the decayed and poisonous food matter, gently stimulate the liver, start the bile flowing and the bowels pass off the waste matter which causes your headache. Try Carter's Little Liver Pills. Druggists 25c red pkgs.

IS BABY TEETHING?

Teething time is a time of worry to most mothers. The baby is nervous; fretful; feverish. His little gums are swollen and sore; diarrhoea, constipation, colic and sometimes convulsions set in — neither baby nor mother can sleep.

These troubles can be quickly banished, however, through the use of Baby's Own Tablets concerning which Mrs. Louis Grubb, Teeswater, Ont., says: — "I have used the Tablets for all my babies while teething and have found them a splendid medicine."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Bananas Grown In England

An exhibit which attracted considerable comment at the Royal Horticultural Society's Fruit Show, in London, England, was a bunch of bananas weighing nearly half a cwt., which had been grown in England. This is the first time for 25 years that bananas grown in this country have been exhibited at one of the society's shows.

Noisy Nuisances

A Massachusetts court has ruled that airplanes flying less than 100 feet from the ground commit a trespass on private air right. But what we are more interested in discovering is how far our horizontal air rights extend, as against the neighborly radio?

Little Helps For This Week

"Changed into the same image from glory to glory."—2 Corinthians iii. 18.

O hearts of love! O souls that turn
Like sunflowers to the pure and best!
To you the trust is manifest;
For they the mind of Christ discern
Who lean, like John, upon His breast.
—John Greenleaf Whittier.

Stand in Christ's presence and mirror His character, and you will be changed in spite of yourself, and unknown to yourself, into the same image, from character to character. Every man is a reflector; that is the principle upon which this is based. He cannot help reflecting; he cannot help showing the environment in which he has lived, the influences that have played around him. All friendship, all love,—human and Divine,—is spiritual, so that it is no difficulty in reflecting the character of Christ that we have never been in visible contact with Him. He does not appeal to the eye; He appeals to the soul, and is reflected, not from the body, but the soul.

—Henry Drummond.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Putnam and family take this means of expressing their sincere appreciation of the floral rememberances, the k ndnesses and sympathy shown them in their recent bereavement.

The cast and director of "Nothing but the Truth" desire to express their appreciation of the splendid support of the Review in aiding the publicity of th play through your columns. Thanks is also extended the Premier Garage, Bank of Commerce, B.C. Telephone Company, and private persons for the use of properties; to F. W. Conroy, Mr. and Mrs. Bateman of Lethbridge. Miss Edith Crawford and Mesdames Constable and Lister for their much appreciated help; also to the management of the Grand for their courtesy and co-operation.

Death of Hunter Putnam

The whole community was deeply saddened on Monday when the news spread of the death of Hunter, the 15-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Putnam of Erickson, who passed away at an early hour that morning, after an illness that while serious was not known to be critical. The funeral took place on Monday evening from the family residence, with Rev. A. Garlick officiating, with interment in Creston cemetery, the very many flowers and large turnout of friends to pay a last tribute of respect bespeaking the universal esteem in which deceased and family are held. Hunter Putnam was one of the most likable and promising boys in the district and his death almost on tne threshold of young manhood has evoked a s mpathy that words are altogether too inadequate to express.

Part of Farm Flooded

Considerable damage by flooding has been done on the wheat lands of Messrs. Garretson, Starks, Piper and Kirk in the southern section of the Reclamation Farm due to going out of about 125 feet of a fill made at a point half mile south of the twin bridges, which the water broke through on Monday evening. The waters went south along what is known as the "dry slough" to the end of Dutchy Ridge and then began to spread out over the farms mentioned. Due to the protection gaven by the Dutchy Ridge the wheat lands at the north end are not affected, and look to have ample protection to save them against average high water which just now does not seem likely to make an appearance as the cooler weather now prevailing will in all probability give a sufficient run off to prevent abnormal flood conditions. Fortunately, too, by far the biggest acreage in crop is at the north end. Everywhere the greatest sympathy is expressed for the men whose farms are inundated, the misfortune coming at a time when everyone was feeling so confident nothing of the sort was likely to happen this season.

Wynndel
