Council Advised Can Run Library

B.C. Library Commission Discovers Villages Authorized to Greatly Assist—Lodge Objection Goat Canyon Project.

Correspondence of considerable variety occupied much of the village commissioners time at the July meeting on the 14th, at which there was a full attendance and Chairman F. H. Jackson presiding. Accounts of the previous month ordered paid amounted to $305, of which $64 was for street lighting.

Mrs. J. W. Hamilton, secretary of Creston Public Library, wrote informing that the B.C. Library Commission had been looking into the matter of villages giving aid to public libraries and had been able to discover that it was quite in order for any village to provide for "Establishing, constructing, purchasing or otherwise acquiring, and for furnishing, equipping and maintaining a public library." It would appear that when the Public Libraries Act was passed that there were no villages in the province, hence the failure of the Library Act to specifically mention villages. The council decided to acknowledge receiving letter but to take no action until the matter was fully looked into.

Another letter of interest advised the commissioners that legislation has been enacted doing away with the terms village commissioners and chairman of the board of commissioners, and from now on the chairman may be designated reeve or mayor, and commissioners shall be known as councillors. So far the council has been too modest to legislate as to whether it shall be Reeve or Mayor for the council head.

Reeve Jackson reported that he had fyled an objection to the application of the South Kootenay Water Power Company in connection with their present application to develop Goat River canyon power, and his action in this connection was concurred in by the council on motion of Councillor Edmondson seconded by the reeve.

Notice was received from B. Johnson of Kitchener and Paulson & Johnson, who own acreage facing on Canyon street on the east side of the village, advising that they are willing to concede 10 feet of their frontage to enable the council to make Canyon street the full 60 feet wide to the east boundary, but the latter would like the council to look after any re-fencing and also provide a sidewalk along their property. They also notified of putting a road through from Canyon street to Hillside Road through the tourist camp and asked the village to do some grading on this new thoroughfare that has been officially designated Creston Avenue. In connection with all this the council passed By-Law No. 28, which is for preventing undue expense in the pro-posed widening of Canyon street.

All employers of labor are to be asked to furnish a list of employees so that the usual request can be made for payment of poll tax, and in connection with a complaint about the water snpply the clerk will write Goat Mountain Waterworks Company notifying that if a second complaint is received the provincial comptroller of water rights will be asked to come in and investigate the local water situation.

Lister

Birth—On July 22nd, to Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Dent, a son.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Holland and daughter of Kimberley, are visitors with Mrs. Holland's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Yerbury, at present.

The first wedding of a Lister couple in several years was solemnized last Thursday at Spokane, when Nellie, daughter of Sam Lazachuk, became the bride of Hans Lindhorst, one of our newer settlers. The bride and groom arrived home the following day and Hans left at the fist of the week for Kuskanook, where he is working on the new road.

Ernest Stevens has arrived from Trail on a holiday visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Stevens.

Ed. Langston returned on Thursday last from Coalhurst, Alberta, where he has been a visitor with his son, Ernest.

Mrs. F. N. Thompson and three children of Nelson are this week visiting Lister friends, and are guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Sinclair. Fred, jr., is also here holidaying with Cyril Bird.

Miss Ruby Lister of Potlatch, Idaho, arrived at the end of the week to spend a couple of weeks holidays with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Col. Fred Lister.

D. D. McLean, Liberal candidate, accompanied by Mrs. McLean, and K. C. MacDonald of Vernon, were visitors in the area on Thursday last.

It is authoritatively reported that the former Malthouse ranch at the main highway corner has been purchased by Jos. W. Bell, a reeident of Kimberley, but also a land owner in the district.

There was quitt a good turnout on Tuesday afternoon at the schoolhouse for the Conservative meeting addressed by the candidate, W. K. Esling, and Mayor Morden of North Vancouver, with R. T. Millner, presiding.

The first cut of hay has been harvested quite satisfactorily and given another couple of good rains the second crop will also be worth while.

Raspberries from Lister area are now on the shipping list from Erickson. Alf. Wellspring and Geo Jacks are the shippers.

Miss Vera Lister got home on Saturday from Cranbrook, where she has been a hospital patient for a few days last week.

Canyon City

Mary Bedry, is here from Kingsgate on a visit with her parents.

Principal Stephens arrived back on Thursday from a couple of week's visit at coast woints.

Miss Myrtle Wickholm of Proctor is a holiday visitor with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andy Wickholm.

F. Knott has joined the host of new 1930 auto owners, having taken delivery of a Ford sedan a few days ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Messenger and daughter, Jeanette, of Vanguard, Sask., were renewing acquaintances here a few days at the end of the week, leaving for home on Monday.

Myles Hurl, who has been a visitor here for a couple of weeks, has left for Mossleigh, Alberta, where he has purchased a barber shop and is entering business for himself.

Friends here of W. H. Kolthammer will hear with satisfaction of his appointment as principal of the Huscrof school, where his duties will commence at September 2nd. For the past year he has been at Morrissey Mines.

Mr. and Mrs. Peacock of Aldersyde, Alberta, are visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Vance at present. Their young daughter had the misfortune to be bit in the face by the ranch dog one day last week, necessitating medical attention. The dog was immediately shot.

Gordon Vance reports that his parents, who left here earlier in the month on an auto trip to eastern Canada, made the journey from Canyon to Toronto, Ont., in six days. The last day they covered 600 miles, driving 18 hours steady.

There was a fine crowd out for the Hurl family benefit dance at the hall on Friday night, for which the music was furnished by the Nighthawks' orchestra from Creston, made up of Miss Edith Crawford, pianist; Chas. Cotterill, saxaphone; Tom Lacey, banjo, and Gerald Craigie, drums; with Fred Browell in charge of the floor. There was an excellent lunch, and the proceeds totalled $67. The dance was gotten up by the young ladies of Canyon Heights, who take this means of expressing a full appreciation of the work done by everyone who helped with the dance.

The sympathy of the community goes out to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Burns in the death of their daughter, Florence, which took place at Cranbrook hospital on Saturday, pneumonia developing after a successful operation for appendisitis earlier in the week. News of her serious condition reached here in time for Martin Nelson to motor the parents to Cranbrook, who were with Florence when the end came. The remains were brought here on Sunday and the funeral took place on Monday to Creston cemetery, with Rev. P. McNab in charge and the pallbearers were Con. Nygaard, Gunnar Larson, George Wickholme, Godfrey Samuelson, Ivon Bergrren and Jock McRobb, jr., and a large turnout of friends to pay a last tribute of respect.

Erickson Pupil Medal Winner

Kathleen Bundy Takes Highest Standing of all East Kootenay Pupils—Wynndel and Alice Siding Schools Show Well.

The pass list in connection with the 1930 entrance to high school examinations were published at the middle of the week, and the showing made by Valley schools is, on the whole, quite satisfactory, the only points where the graduations are below expectations are Sirdar and Canyon City.

While at Erickson the total number passing is not in keeping, for instance, with Wynndel where 100 per cent. was scored with four students writing; or Alice Siding with the same per centage with two students trying, still Erickson has certainly put this section very much on the map through the splendid effort of Kathleen Bundy, who is awarded the Governor-General's bronze medal for taking the highest standing of all pupils writing in East Kootenay. Her total was 504.

From the same school Sandy Telford comes almost second highest in all East Kootenay with 478. And in this connection it is well to remember Erickson provided the bronze medal winner four years ago, in Margaret Fraser who in that year scored a total mark just slightly better than those made in 1930.

At Creston, Principal Stallwood has a showing that he can well be proud of. Five of the six writing were successful, and in addition nine were passed on recommendation. Great praise is coming to Principal Lukas at Alice Siding who has a 100 per cent. pass list, at a school that has not sent up a pupil to write for entnance promotion in about ten years. The successful ones are:

CRESTON—Hubert Beninger, 408; Jack Johnston, 407; Frances Moore, 404; Arthur Speers, 386; Jay Bliss, 369.

Promoted on recommendation—Dorothea McDonald, Norma Marshall, Tony Morabito, Jack Payne, Reetha Phillips, Edith Rentz, Velma Rentz, Allan Speers, Margaret Stapleton.

ALICE SIDING—Esther Smith, 431; Bessie M. McDougall, 401.

CANYON CITY—Alice V. Wesling, 375; Annie Gartland, 367.

WEST CRESTON—Dorothy Sinclair-Smith, 360.

ERICKSON—Kathleen Bnndy, 504, Alexander Telford, 478; Eleanor Blair, 423; Lucille Murphy, 416.

HUSCROFT—Minnie Huscroft, 404.

KITCHENER—Willard Blair, 414; Vera McGonegal, 392.

Troy Outslugs Creston, 16-13

Final League Fixture Featured by Heavy Hitting—Creston Batters Hit Homers, Triples and Doubles—Infielding Poor

The regular international ieague baseball schedule concluded here on Sunday afternoon when Troy outslugged Creston to win a loosely played game by a margin of 16 to 13. First one team was in front and then the other, with honors even at the start of the eighth, in which frame the support he was getting proved too mnch for Fortin, and before the third out came Troy had amasseed a total of nine runs, Benedetti doing the pitching the latter half of this diastrous innings as well as the ninth. Creston got four in their half of the eighth and two more in the ninth, the locals having the best day of the season with the bat.

So far as Exhibition Park was concerned two season's records were hung up. A double play was executed and two home runs were batted out—both of the latter by Creston, Baum and Romano placing long drives into left field along third base line that got lost in the shrubbery. The double play put an end to the rally that Creston launched in the eighth, when second sacker Wolz grabbed Boffey's hopper on the line, tagged McKelvey on his sprint to the middle station, and then got the sphere over to first in ample time to retire Boffey.

Hitting for extra bases was fashionable Sunday afternoon. Creston profited by a couple of two-base clouts aud Troy got four. There were also four triples of which Cameron, the enemy catcher, gets two. Telford led the locals at batting with four hits on five appearances at the pan.

Creston's defensive activities suffered in the absence of Watson, necessitating using Baum behind the bat, Joe Brogan moving over to short, and Adam Robinson going in at second. Due this shuffle or for other causes the local infield was far from being at its best. McKelvey had the worst day of the 1930 season. Ray Crisler made his first appearanoe of the year as umpire and gave pretty general satisfaction. The score:

Marketing and Distribution

The problem with which industry is confronted today is marketing, declares Donald M. Marvin, economist, in the monthly letter issued by the Royal Bank of Canada. To quote Mr. Marvin:

"Early economic thought had its birth in a philosophy of trade, but this line of thought was rapidly displaced by theories concerning production. In theory, trading operations became a mere adjunct to productive processes, and, except as regards foreign commerce, occupies a very subordinate place in economic literature. The engineering genius of the world has been focussed on methods of manufacture. The last half century witnessed the growth of large scale production and remarkable improvements in productive efficiency, but relatively speaking, distribution has escaped attention. Today this is changing; the problem with which industry is confronted is that of marketing."

While increased attention is being given to the principles and practices of marketing, data relating to this field are far less comprehensive than for other branches of human activity. Population, production, prices, export and import, and many other kinds of statistics are available in abundance and in a high degree of excellence. Official statistics relating to agriculture, mining and manufacturing have been collected for many years. The number of persons engaged in these activities is known, together with varied information concerning the quantity and quality of their products. There are no comprehensive statistics of distribution and it is in this field that the need for further information is undoubtedly most acute.

The relative merits of the chain store, department store, mail order house and the local independent dealer have long been the subject of controversy and speculation. The fear that the independent merchant is being crushed to the wall by an over-powering competition has frequently been expressed. What the actual situation may be, not only as regards retail trade as a whole but as regards its different branches, can only be discovered when adequate information concerning distribution is available.

Urgent necessity has moved many private concerns to seek information in this field, but private enterprise has gone about as far as it can go in providing this information. Unfortunately, the results have been incomplete and only serve to emphasize the necessity of a comprehensive statistical study of the subject. The first requisite for such an analysis of distribution is a census of all manufacturing, wholesale and retail establishments which are engaged in distribution. Such a survey will be undertaken by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics in connection with the regular decennial census in 1931. The schedules will contain questions relating to the kind of business, number of employees, salaries and wages paid, inventories, expense of doing business and capital invested.

This census will be of great benefit to all those who wish to make an intelligent study of the problem relating to marketing in Canada. It will supply the basic statistical material required, and provide a comprehensive picture of the various outlets for an extensive list of commodities and groups of commodities. The relative proportion of cash and credit sales will be given. Presentation of the data in the form of averages will furnish a basis with which individual organizations may judge their own results. A picture of consumer demand in each section of the country will be presented, together with information showing the various types of outlets through which they are now reached. Such data will be invaluable in the preparation of advertising and sales campaigns. While the advantages of this type of information to manufacturers and distributors is obvious, the fact that the consumer will benefit through the economies which should result, should not be overlooked.

Studies relative to the cost of living will be assisted by data showing the percentages of consumers' purchases of food, clothing, fuel, and other groups of products. Special methods of distribution adapted to certain districts will be shown; and additional light will be thrown on the movement of commodities between the various provinces of Canada. The compilation of these statistics and others of a like character should produce material of substantial benefit to industry and trade.

The success of this survey will depend very largely on the wholehearted co-operation of those who supply the individual returns. The need for the information has become particularly urgent as advances in methods of production have pressed the problems of distribution more and more upon the attention of business leaders. With the added information made available, a real analysis of the problems of distribution will be possible and more effective measures devised for their solution.

Vulnerable To Air Attack

Naval Vessels Of Every Type Are At a Disadvantage

Improvements in air warfare are much more important than the public has been prmitted to know. General William Mitchell was a little ahead of the times when he asserted that battleships had been made obsolete by aircraft developments. Nevertheless, naval vessels of every type are vulnerable to air attack. France's superiority to Great Britain in aircraft is so great that the British Navy, whatever its type of vessels, is at a disadvantage.

Wheat Acreage Less

Decrease In Acreage As Compared With Last Year, Is About 3 Per Cent.

Total estimated areas sown to wheat in Canada for the 1930 season is 24,583,300 acres, as compared with 25,255,002 acres finally reported for 1929, according to the weekly crop report recently issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. This is a decrease of 671,702 acres, or about 3 per cent.

The area of fall wheat to be harvested is estimated at 636,000 acres as compared with 834,284 acres in 1929, a decrease of 197,984 acres, or 24 per cent.

Cereal crops show increases, according to the report: oats from 12,479,477 acres to 12,815,000 acres; barley, from 5,925,542 acres to 6,050,000 acres; rye from 991,944 acres to 1,092,200 acres. Fall rye occupies 765,400 acres as compared with 664,193 acres in 1929 and, spring rye 326,800 acres as against 327,751 acres last year.

Flaxseed shows an area of 451,500 acres as compared with 382,359 acres in 1929.

The area planted to potatoes is estimated at 557,000 acres, as compared with 543,727 acres, an increase of 2 per cent.

Icebound Ships Are Freed

Held In Ice Since Last September Are Finally Liberated

The icy embrace of the Arctic Ocean has at last released its grip upon the American fur trading ship "Nanuk" and the Soviet steamer "Stavropol" held icebound in Siberia since last September.

The "Nanuk" was freed recently when the packed ice moved off-shore while a little later the ice broke up in the bay, freeing the "Stavropol."

It was to the "Nanuk" that Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland were flying from Teller, Alaska, last November when their 'plane crashed near North Cape, killing both of them.

Destroyer "Saguenay Is Launched At Southampton, England

The new Canadian destroyer "Saguenay" was launched at Southampton, England, from the Thorncroft yards recently, in the presence of a large and interested crowd. Madame Desbarats, wife of G. J. Desbarats, Canadian Deputy Minister of National Defence, performed the christening ceremony.

A sister vessel, the "Skeena," is to be launched in September. The two destroyers are of special design for use in Canadian waters. They are of 1,330 tons displacement, with a length of 310 feet and a speed of 35 knots.

The "Skeena" and "Saguenay" will replace two destroyers now on loan to Canada for patrol purposes, etc., from the royal navy.

British Naval Estimates

Additional Estimates Call For Expenditure Of About $1,000,000

The British admiralty has published additional estimates for naval construction for the current financial year, in which £208,200 (about $1,000,000), is asked. The amount will be used for construction, allowed Great Britain under the London treaty.

Of the supplementary estimate, £183,600 is required to meet costs to submarines this fiscal year on three submarines of the 1929 program, construction of which had been deferred pending conclusion of the naval treaty.

The balance of $24,000 will be devoted to the new construction program for 1930.

Totally blind in his right eye for 33 years, Stephen McCormack, of Sydney, Australia, has had his eyesight restored by an accidental finger poke in the eye.

Thirty-three years later McCormack was exercising with a medicine ball when a companion accidentally poked a finger in his blind eye. He was seized with excruciating pains in the head and suddenly his eyesight returned.

WINNIPEG PLANS WORK TO ASSIST UNEMPLOYED

Winnipeg, Man.—The cities of Winnipeg and St. Boniface propose to group themselves in an effort to alleviate the unemployment problem under Premier Mackenzie King's dollar-for-dollar scheme. Decision to start at once on the rebuilding of two bridges as relief work for the jobless was reached at a conference of civic officials of the two cities.

Tentatively, it is suggested the Dominion Government, in line with Premier King's promise that the treasury will expend an equal amount with the provinces seeking to relieve unemployment, be asked to pay 50 per cent. of the total expended on the work. The Manitoba Government would be asked to meet 25 per cent. of the cost with the municipalities putting up the remaining 25 per cent.

While the general view of delegates to the municipal conference is that work on the two brindges, entailing an outlay of something more than $1,000,000, should be started at once, a gigantic collective scheme of public works approximating a cost of $6,000,000 or $7,000,000 was considered. An extensive drainage scheme and other bridge construction would form a part of the large scheme.

A delegation was appointed by the conference to discuss with provincial premier John Bracken immediate construction of the two bridges and apportionment of costs.

Women Peeresses

Bill To Admit Peeresses To Membership In House Of Lords Is Defeated

London, England.—A bill to admit women peeresses in their own right to membership in the House of Lords, was defeated by the narrow margin of four votes, 53 to 49.

Lord Astor, who has been the women's champion for many years in their fight for recognition in the Upper House, introduced the bill.

Conservative peers opposing the bill held that the question of the admittance of women should be left until the reform of the whole House was considered, a movement which has been considered for some time.

Great Britain's Shipbuilding Industry Slows Up

London, Eng.—Decline of Great Britain's shipbuilding industry in ratio to that of the rest of the world is revealed strikingly in returns for for the second quarter of this year made public by Lloyd Underwriters.

Out of 3,057,000 tons under construction by the world during the three months, 1,392,000 tons or 45 per cent. of the whole was being built in Great Britain and Ireland. This compares with a percentage of 57.2 built by Great Britain and Ireland in the 12 months immediately preceding the war.

Six Women Candidates In Election Campaign

One Running In Manitoba and Two In Saskatchewan

Ottawa, Ont.—Miss Agnes McPhail may have to look to her laurels when the hurly-burly's done and the battle lost or won. For there are twice as many women candidates in the present election campaign as there were in last. Ontario has two, including Miss MacPhail; Manitoba, one; Saskatchewan, two; Quebec, one, a total of six against three in the election of 1926 and four in that of 1925. And women too are likely to have more to say in the result. They are attending meetings. The new system of enumeration has put more of them on the voting lists.

Miss MacPhail was the first woman elected to the Federal House, and for three parliaments she has remained in her isolation.

At Ottawa, Miss MacPhail has been persistent in her attacks on what she considers evidence of militarism. At the League of Nations Assembly last September, she was substitute delegate with Sir George Foster on the disarmament committee—the first woman to represent Canada at the League.

In the 1926 campaign, Miss MacPhail had the comfortable majority of 1,728, her fight being with a Conservative. Both a Liberal and a Conservative were in the field early in the present campaign but the Liberals did not submit nomination papers.

Miss MacPhail has again a straight fight on her hands.

Canada's Position Sound

Country Merely Passing Through Temporary Period Of Depression

Victoria, B.C.—Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, arrived in Victoria at the end of his trans-Canada survey and announced his conclusion on business conditions as follows:

"We can't expect the sun to shine all the time; there are bound to be showers. But so many people are mistaking a shower for a cyclone.

"We have got to look below the surface and see if there is anything wrong with our fundamentals. If you diagnose the position of the country, organically so to speak, you will find that we have the same courageous and intelligent population we had a year ago.

"That tells us that we have no disease, or, as the doctors would diagnose it, we are merely passing through a headache or a cold.

We could not have had the stock market losses of the crash last year in New York, which carried down all the markets in the world, without these losses finding expression in reduced purchasing power of the people in all lines.

"Things will probably mark time for a certain period until the public recovers its purchasing power. If we have a good crop on the Canadian prairies this year we will be well on our way upwards next year."

Would Save Millions

Canberra, Aus.—A fresh sensation was caused in Australia with announcement that the opposition is going to move for reduction in salaries of the Prime Minister and of the members of the House of Representatives. Hon. J. G. Latham, leader of the national opposition, gave notice of intention to move an amendment during debate on the budget. He estimated a saving of 4,000,000 pounds (nearly $20,000,000) could be effected.

Ban U.S. Unemployed

Action Is Taken To Prevent Surreptitious Entry

Vancouver, B.C.—Hon. Ian Mackenzie, recently appointed Minister of Immigration and Colonization, has asked to have his department prevent the surreptitious entry of unemployed United States workers into Canada.

Instructions have been issued in Ottawa, by Deputy Minister W. J. Egan, to border inspectors to keep a sharp lookout for indications of attempts by United States citizens to make illegal entry into this country. Co-operation of the customs department and mounted police has also been sought, he states in a telegram to Mr. Mackenzie.

Mr. Mackenzie's statement follows: "Having had reason to suspect that unemployed Americans may be surreptitiously trying to make their way into Canada, I wired my deputy minister to exercise the utmost vigilance to see that this does not occur.

"In view of the steps that will be taken in the near future to cope with unemployment in our Canadian cities, particularly in the west, we wish to ensure that the assistance rendered shall be to our own people only."

"Pierre La Passe" Did Not Serve With Canadians During War

Ottawa, Ont.—No man of the name of "Pierre La Passe" ever served in the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, officials of the National Defence Department declared here when asked concerning the man of that name who had given battle to a pair of gunmen in Chicago. There was no Pierre La Passe in any unit of the Canadian Expeditionary Force during the war, the official added.

Tax Incomes For Relief

Australia's Method To Raise Funds For Aid Of Unemployed

Brisbane, Aus.—A special tax on all incomes to provide funds to extend the present unemployment relief works in Queensland, and an arbitration act amendment with a view to abolishing the preference of trades unionists, affirming the right of every man to accept work where and when it is offered, are among the government's proposals at the opening of parliament.

Belgium Accepts Invitation

Will Participate In World's Grain Exhibition and Conference

Regina, Sask.—According to word received, Belgium has officially accepted the invitation to take part in the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference to be held here from July 25 to August 6, 1932.

Some little time ago official invitations were sent from the Dominion Government to all countries inviting them to participate. A few countries in which cereal production is not carried on, or carried on to a very small extent, have gratefully expressed their inability to take part; others including the United States, Bolivia, Columbia and Chile have expressed their interest and asked for further information for consideration, and official acceptances have been received from Peru, Jugoslavia, Gautemala, New Zealand, Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, The Netherlands and Belgium, eight in all.

Mr. Mooney, the managing director, is now in Europe for the purpose of interviewing government officials and supplying to them detailed information relative to this great Canadian enterprise. His visit is expected to be the means of stimulating a greater interest on the part of European countries. The fact that many countries, two years previous to the holding of the show, have accepted the invitation to participate and send delegates is taken as a good omen for the 1932 show.

May Send Delegates To Great Britain

B.C. Lumbermen Plan To Promote Sale Of Timber Products

Victoria, B.C.—British Columbia will send a lumber delegation to Britain shortly, as it sent a similar delegation to Australia early this year, to promote the sale of B.C. lumber in British markets, if plans discussed here between the government and E. M. H. Lloyd, representative of the Empire Marketing Board, materialize.

Hon. N. S. Lougheed, Minister of Public Works and a leading lumberman, asked Mr. Lloyd if a B. C. lumber delegation could secure worth while results in Britain. Mr. Lloyd replied that it should be able to do a great deal of good in promoting the sale of B.C. timber products generally.

Greeting For King George

Japanese Emperor Sends Message By Prince Takamatsu

Tokio, Japan.—A greeting from the Emperor of Japan to King George V. is on its way to England, enclosed in a golden casket, in the keeping of the Emperor's brother, Prince Takamatsu, who with his bride will be the guest of the King and Queen. The message is in the form of a poem by one of the foremost Japanese poets. It is inscribed on parchment and illuminated by Oriental artists. It was formally blessed by the priests at a special religious ceremony in Tokio before it was placed in the casket, and the casket was then sealed to exclude malignant spirits.

Manitoba Crop Prospects

Winnipeg, Man.—Manitoba's present crop outlook is described as "very encouraging" in a report issued recently by the provincial department of agriculture. Wheat fields are headed, although heads are not long, and are of a good appearance; how well they will fill depends on the weather, the report adds.

Siamese Princes Arrive

TWO WARSHIPS SENT TO EGYPT TO QUELL RIOTING

London, England.—Great Britain has approximately 9,800 troops stationed in Egypt, Tom Shaw, war secretary, told a questioner in the House of Commons. The troops consist of three cavalry regiments, six batteries of artillery, six infantry battalions and auxiliary troops, Shaw said. The troops are stationed at Cairo, Ismailia, Alexandria and Port Said.

There was some question among political observers whether the British Government would not intervene in Egypt in view of its obligation to protect foreigners there.

Reports that eight or more foreigners were killed in rioting at Alexandria were not confirmed, however, and it was certain the present British Government would not act precipitately.

The British Government has ordered the battleships "Queen Elizabeth" and "Ramillies" to proceed to Alexandria for the protection of foreign lives and property endangered by disorders at that place.

Prime Minister MacDonald, in announcing the dispatch of the vessels, also informed the House of Commons that Sidky Pasha, the present Egyptian premier, and Nahas Pasha, former premier and Nationalist leader, had been warned they would be held responsible for the protection of foreign lives and interests.

Noted Labor Leader Dead

James M. Lynch Inaugurated Forty-Eight Hour Working Week

Syracuse, N.Y.—James M. Lynch, former president of the International Typographical Union and leader of that organization's successful battle for the 48-hour working week, died in hospital here of blood infection.

He was born Jan. 11, 1867, at Manlius, N.Y., and came to Syracuse as a printer's "devil" on the Syracuse Herald.

He stayed with the newspaper until 1898 when he was elected first vice-president of the I.T.U. after holding the presidency of the local union for seven terms. In 1901 he was elevated to the I.T.U. presidency, continuing to hold that office until 1914, when he resigned to become Commissioner of Labor.

Canada's Apple Crop

Report Shows Decrease In East But Increase In British Columbia

Ottawa, Ont. — The commercial apple crop of Canada estimated for 1929, as compared with 1930, indicates reductions of 40 per cent. in Nova Scotia, 23 per cent. in Quebec, 33 per cent. in Ontario, less than the five-year average in New Brunswick, while in British Columbia the crop is expected to yield an increase of 22 per cent. The total crop is estimated at 3,113,380 barrels, as against 3,939,915 barrels in 1929, slightly less than three per cent. under the average commercial production for the five-year period 1925-29.

New Form Of Farm Relief

U.S. Farmers Advised To Use Wheat As Dairy Feed

East Lansing, Mich.—Agricultural experts at Michigan State College offer a new form of farm relief to those who are worrying about the price of wheat.

Feed it to livestock, says a statement issued by four department heads. At present prices, wheat is worth $5 more a ton as a dairy feed than as a commercial cereal, the experts assert, adding that farmers can save $10 a ton by feeding wheat instead of corn.

Survived Week In Bush

Renfrew, Ont.—After wandering through the heavily bushed country in Admaston township for almost a week, subsisting on berries and sleeping under the protecting foliage of trees, Lloyd Warren, aged seven, for whom an intensive search had been maintained, was found. Doctors said he would be quite recovered in a day or two.

A home run by telephone

Babe Ruth, baseball's home run king, is one of that vast army of people who dislike writing letters. So instead, he uses the long-distance telephone. Calling up friends a thousand miles away is a not uncommon form of evening's entertainment for him.

His team, the New York Yankees, may be on the road, many miles from home, when he wants to send a message to gomeone in New York! He just "makes a home run" by telephone.

CRESTON, B.C., FRIDAY, JULY 25

HOME BREW

The quietness of the present campaign forcibly reminds one of the story of the Sunday school picnic, which the small boy described as being pretty poor; there wasn't a black eye in the crowd till after six o'clock.

Our old friend Conductor Balment, whose active participation in Cranbrook's church affairs is credited with mellowing his political animus, just cant help remarking, nevertheless, that the Grits of East Kootenay are quite right in claiming they have a whirlwind candidate in that constituency: "10 per cent. whirl, and 90 per cent. wind," is the way Al. assays it.

D. D. McLean, Liberal candidate, wishes us to express appreciation of the cordial welcome extended him on his visit last week. He is particularly appreciative of the courtesy shown him by the council. The town flag at the Bank of Commerce corner was flown at topmast throughout his entire stay. This is a much better showing than was made last August when R. B. Bennett was here.

No matter who wins on Monday next it is devoutly to be hoped that the majority will be a comfortable one. If Mr. Bennett triumphs we hope he will have about 150 supporters in the new house. His "policy" to cure unemployment is so unworkable that, if persisted in, is sure to bring about his downfall, and if he must hang himself let there be plenty of rope to make a good job of it.

"A report received by the public works department from the interior indicates that the Kuskanook-Grey Creek road along Kootenay Lake, a highly important link in the trans-provincial highway, would be completed early in the new year. At the Kuskanook end contractors are employing 140 men to operate the work. The government, working from the other end, will employ 100 men shortly All local labor is being employed."—Vancouver Daily Province, July 13.

According to a disinterested Creston resident, who is just back from a look over the Kuskanook end of the work, he was unable to find a road worker who could speak English in the whole crew. If this is the kind of "local labor" the Tolmie government proposes to favor in this time of unemployment we can quite understand W. K. Esling being so timid as to only "believe" the Conservatives will relieve unemployment.

The Conservative tariff policy is a bit mysterious. Mr. Bennett says Canada should follow the lead of all the other countries which put the tariff up so high that outside products cannot get in. And in the next breath he says the Conservative party stand for manufacturing our raw materials in Canada and selling the finished products on the foreign and home markets. In the face of these exclusionists tariffs by countries against us it is not quite clear how Mr. Bennett is going to get the Canadian finished products on the foreign market.

Far be it from the Review to censure anyone for putting a score of Lister's new-come Germans at work on the Kuskanook Road last week. But we just can't help remarking that had there been a Liberal government in power at Victoria and that sort of thing had happened the Nelson News would have issued a special edition in a super human effort to make Conservative votes out of the incident, as there are plenty of English-speaking residents of the Valley who would appreciate having an opportunity to go to work at this time. Premier Tolmie does not appear to be co-operating with Mr. Bennett in the latter's "Canada first" policy.

While Tory platform talent would like to create the impression that unemployment is really the only live issue in the present campaign, orchardists will not be likely to overlook the British preference feature of the Liberal policy. If, as now seems certain, Britain shows Canada similiar consideration in giving a preference to Canadian wheat and fruit, British Columbia stands to doubly benefit in that Britain will buy more heavily of our apples, and the prairie farmer, with a more favorable market on which to sell his wheat, will have more money wherewith to purchase fruit from this province. Vote McLean.

When Mr. Bennett spoke in Creston last August his 1929 policy to save Canada was a high tariff, and he pointed with much satisfaction to the United States as a connrty that was enjoying steady prosperity due to the tall tariff wall. 1930, however, finds the United States with unemployment that represents 20 per cent. of the adults ordinarily on the payroll, while Canada's unemployment is less than 10 per cent. No wonder Mr. Bennett this year says unemployment is the issue, and no wonder Mr. Esling plays safe and says he "believes" Mr. Bennett has a policy to cure unemployment. "Sinners believe and and tremble," too, according to Holy Writ.

Bright Spots At Port Churchill

Northern Port Now Boasts Of Four Lady Residents

Up on the rocky shore of Hudson Bay, Churchill was once "No Woman's Land." For five years—including the winters—Mrs. A. Gibson, wife of the Church of England minister, has made the new port her home. But this summer Churchill boasts its largest contingent of femininity—four women.

Three new lady residents came north on the Muskeg Limited late in May. They were: Mrs. S. Martin, wife of the United Church missionary; her daughter, Margaret; and Mrs. Claude Johnson, wife of the divisional engineer of the Canadian National Railways. All three will reside at Churchill until autumn.

Will Increase Safety In Steel Construction

Electrical Finger "Feels" Strain In Steel When Under Great Pressure

An electrical finger that "feels" the invisible twists and strains in steel under great pressure was described to the American Society of Testing Materials.

The purpose is to increase safety in construction by making under conditions of actual use tests heretofore confined to research laboratories. The device was described by J. P. Shamberger, of Pittsburgh, who said it was designed by J. G. Ritter, of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company.

No longer than a human finger, and not much thicker, it bolts to the side of a rail and records the bending as a 100-ton locomotive thunders over. If placed on a curve it will show the side twist of the rail under the locomotive's thrust. It can be laid upon an automobile wheel to detect how nearly bumps come to causing overstrain.

The finger works somewhat like a slide rule, being of two parts, which telescope. This telescoping amounts only to the diameter of a tremor or a vibration, that is, something like one ten-thousandth of an inch. Even so slight a motion slides a piece of iron to or from between two sensitized electrical instruments on the finger.

These instruments correspond to the sense of touch. They detect the motion of the bit of iron, and with it the distortion which causes the movement. They register this movement by slight electrical changes.

The "nerves" of the finger then come into play. They are plain wires, which carry the slight electrival disturbances to instruments that amplify them into movements an inch long, that can be calibrated in terms of wear and tear.

Made Fortune From Linoleum

Ingenuity Of Englishman Started Him On Read To Wealth

Lord Ashton, whose amazing fortune was between thirty and forty millions, owed his wealth originally to his clever father's ingenuity, says the News of the World. The father was a working house painter who started a little shop in Lancaster, where he combined with his trade a picture-framing business. When oilcloth was introduced from America he improved on it by giving it a backing of powdered cork instead of cloth. So linoleum was invented and his fortune made. Lord Ashton himself worked in his father's factory from an early age and proved a wonderful man of business.

Grain Stocks Decrease

Grain In Store At End Of June Shows Decrease Of Over Three Million Bushels

Returns received as to stocks of grain in store for the week ended June 27, 1930, show a decrease of 3,277,506 bushels, according to a report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Stocks for the week were as follows: Wheat, 13,735,712. Oats, 9,927,331. Barley, 22,639,184. Flax, 512,382, and Rye, 8,241,089, a total of 172,155,698 bushels. Decreases are noted in wheat of 2,281,693. Oats, 356,580. Barley, 3,771. Flax, 38,061, and Rye, 387,411 bushels. For the same week last year the amount in store was 148,620,622 bushels.

White Pine Best For Patterns

White pine is used for 90 per cent. of the patterns made in North America. The reasons for this, are, that white pine, more than any other wood, is easily worked, is of soft texture, is comparatively strong, is very durable and, most important of all, has very little shrinkage, which gives it the power to hold its shape indefinitely after being worked.

Col. "Pat" Hurley, of Oklahoma is a lawyer, but his business interest is oil and real estate. His definition of oil operators is: "An oil operator is a man who doesn't know whether he is four feet from $1,000,000 or 1,000,000 feet from $4.

Explanations and Comments

The Oppression At the Hands Of Jabin, verses 1-3.—When Ehud was dead, the Israelites were oppressed by the Philistines, and for fear of them travellers left the highways for the byways. With only his ox-goad as a weapon, probably at the head of many other peasants similarly armed, Shamgar killed six hundred Philistines. Then came a crisis. Jabin, king of the Northern Confederacy of the Canaanites, through Sisera, his commander-in-chief, had for twenty years held a military depostism over the northern districts of Canaan. The children of Israel cried unto Jehovah for help, for Jabin had nine hundred chariots, and they lived on the hills and had none.

Deborah Summons Barak To the Defense, ver. 4-7.—The name Deborah means "Bee," and Matthew Henry, that ancient interpreter of the Bible, sees in Deborah, the judge, the fulfilment of her name by her industry, sagacity, and great usefulness to the public, her sweetness to her friends and sharpness to her enemies. She was a prophetess and the wife of Lapidoth. To quote Matthew Henry again: "The termination not being commonly found in the name of a man, some make this name the name of a place: she was 'a woman of Lapidoth.' Others take it appellatively, Lapidoth, signifying 'lamps.' The rabbis say she had employed herself in making wicks for lamps of the tabernacle; and, having stooped to that mean office for God, she was afterwards thus preferred. Or she was a woman of illumination, one that was extraordinarily knowing and wise." Between Ramah and Bethel, in the hill-country of Ephraim, she was wont to sit under a palm-tree as judge, perhaps not so often to settle disputes between men as to declare what was the judgment of God in national affairs, and the tree was therefore called the palm-tree of Deborah.

Barak Requires Deborah's Aid, verses 8, 9.—Barak was not brave enough to start forth alone, and refused to go unless Deborah would go with him. Deborah consented, but added that he would not have the honor of the result, for Jehovah would sell Sisera into the hands of a woman. Sisera was killed by Jael, a woman (verses 17-22), but Deborah's words seem rather to apply to herself, that to her, rather than to Barak, would be given the credit for the victory.

Consume More Meat

Substantial Increase In the Quality Of Meat Consumed By the Average Canadian

Reports of the Live Stock Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, show a substantial increase in the quality of meat consumed by the average Canadian, particularly beef, lamb and mutton. In 1928, the home market absorbed 648,600,000 lbs., while in 1929 it absorbed 676,800,000 lbs., an increase of 28,000,000 lbs. of beef, or roughly 2 lbs. more per capita. The Canadian market consumed 70,500,000 lbs. of lamb and mutton in 1929, compared with 62,200,000 in 1928, an increase of 8,300,000 lbs., or nearly 1 lb. per capita.

Outdoes King Of Birds

Flock Of Eagle Raiders Were Annihilated By Airplane

After longing for unnumbered centuries to fly with the wings of an eagle, man has at last even outdone the king of birds. A flock of eagles raiding the sheep ranches near El Paso, Texas, were annihilated by an airplane with a passenger carrying a shot gun. In eight hours the 'plane had accounted for nine birds which a rancher had been trying to shoot from the ground for a year.

"It does," Grandma agreed.

"I wouldn't have believed Sarah could write two lines, to say nothing of six pages, without mentioning Jimmy. It come over me, Grandma, to wonder if maybe he's 'got into some trouble."

"Trouble!" echoed Grandma in amazement. "What on earth are you driving at, Lizzie Baker?"

Miss Lizzie shook her head dubiously.

"Jim's a country boy, Grandma Davis. He's been brought up secluded, you might say. And they ain't so very far from Hollywood, which is a wicked place, full of vampires and divorces. If you read the papers as carefully as I do, Grandma, you'd know that Jim is liable to meet temptation."

"And liable to overcome it, if he does," snorted the old lady with indignation. "Don't you get to romancing about Jim, and telling your inventions to every one that comes along. Such stories grow faster'n fireweed on a burned wood lot. Here comes Ezra Bascomb with the mail. You needn't stir, Lizzie; the doctor's getting it. Well," as the young man came inside, "were there any letters, or just that catalogue?"

The doctor greeted Miss Lizzie gallantly, and responded: "There's one for Charmian. I'll take it along and leave it at the school."

From behind the caller's broad back he winked at Grandma, and she asked: "Is it a thick one, Doctor?"

"It took two stamps to bring it," he replied.

"Who's it from?" put in Miss Lizzie. "It seems like an awful extravagance for a person to use two stamps unless it's a matter o' life and death. Who can be writing Charmian such a long letter, I'd like to ask?"

The doctor laughed and answered: "Then you must ask Charmian. There's a heavy penalty for tampering with the U.S.M.! I'll have a look at the furnace, Grandma, and then be off. If any messages come in just call up Doctor Howe. I'll stop there on my way back."

"I suppose I'd better go," remarked Miss Lizzie, rising. "I left some apples in the oven, and like as not they're burned to cinders. I wish the doctor and Charmian would get married, Grandma. It's such a comfort to have a man to tend the furnace. I donno how he can help bein' sweet on her, either, livin' right here and seein' her every day. Do you think there's hope?"

"We're told that while there's life there's hope, Lizzie," responded Grandma with a chuckle, "but I haven't an idea how Charmian would take to your suggestion."

Miss Lizzie sighed, wound the scarf about her neck three times, and fastened the moth-eaten fur above it.

"Girls have changed," she said. "It's this younger generation stuff you read about. In my day, Grandma, a girl would have been considered nothing short of a fool to turn down a fine young man like Doctor Carter—and Charmian's no fool."

"You're right," admitted Grandma, "my girl's no fool," then added to herself as she watched her caller waddle across the street, "and so far's I know, she hasn't turned him down!"

CHAPTER XXI.

Charmian was buttoning the last small Wickfielder into his coat when the schoolhouse door opened to admit John Carter. The girl looked up with a smile as she finished her task, and the doctor, pulling off his gloves, went to the stove to warm his hands. Charmian sped her pupil on his way, and said, as she closed the door:

"I suppose my chariot awaits me. You're awfully good to me, John. I'm tired today, and thankful to escape the walk."

"So you really admit you're tired? I'm surprised—after—"

She laughed, and interrupted: "I'm sorry I snapped at you last night when you were good enough to inquire for my health. I'm all right, truly; but I've been worried about something. That's why I blew up the way I did. I have a beastly temper."

John Carter smiled.

"Will this allay some of that worry?"

He produced Jim's letter and held it out, while Charmian, her eyes detecting the familiar penmanship, drew a relieved breath and the color flamed gloriously in her cheeks.

"When did it come?"

The question was tremulous because she seemed to feel the doctor's eyes boring into her head, in an effort to read the thoughts therein.

"Ezra left it as I was starting. I'm going to South Wickfield for a call. Perhaps you'd rather stay here till I get back and read your missive in peace—I see it's lengthy—or you can peruse it while I see my patient. As a physician, not as a selfish human being (though you might think so), I prescribe the ride."

Charmian hesitated. She longed to read Jim's letter in the solitude of the deserted schoolroom; but on the other hand she needed the fresh air, and since John had been kind enough to stop for her, it seemed discourteous not to accomany him.

"Is it still frightfully cold?" she questioned, with a glance at her old ulster. A fresh leak in the back hall plus an extra ton of coal, had made the new coat impossible at Christmas time.

"I've got a wrap for you outside. I'll bring it in and warm it."

He was away, and Charmian tore open her letter, glancing first at the ending, her ears alert for the doctor's returning step. "Yours always, Jim," was what she read, and her heart lost some of its burden at the friendly words. Jim wasn't mad, anyway! The missive was stuffed into her pocket when John returned bearing a heavy ulster of his own.

"This will go over yours, and you'll be warm as toast. It's really a glorious winter day, Charmian, no wind and a clear sky. I left your grandmother in close confab with Lizzie Baker, so she's not lonely; and anyhow, she knew I was going to bring you home so she won't worry if you're a trifle late. There! You look like—"

He laughed as he buttoned the top button close under her chin, and Charmian asked: "Like poor, dear Miss Lizzie? Help me turn back these sleeves, John. Now I'm ready. Will you lock the door, please?"

He obeyed, and said as he tucked the robe carefully around her: "If you're tired, don't talk. Just rest your eyes on the landscape or close them if you prefer. I won't chatter."

Charmian smiled.

"That sounds like an echo. Jim Bennett said almost those same words one day last fall when he picked me up. I'd had some trouble with Deacon Purdie, and was all in. I think the deacon was trying to get even with us about those beads, John, and used one of Luella's boys as the scapegoat. I was scared to death for fear I'd lose my job."

"And you never spoke of it at home! Why not?"

"It would have worried Grandma because she was responsible for that shrewd bargain. Besides, it wasn't necessary. Jim fixed it—somehow. Uncle George Knowles asked me what I'd do without Jim to fight my battles; but I suppose when we lose something we've always had and counted on, we just have to make the best of it, don't we?"

The doctor didn't answer this question; but after a moment he broke the silence by saying: "I didn't know that Mr. Knowles was your uncle, Charmian?"

"He's not, by law—only by love," she answered. "Jim and I have always called him Uncle George. Jim's father was his closest friend, you know; and as for me—well, he always wanted a daughter and never had one, so that explains it. He can't get over the fact that none of his boys fell for me!" she finished, looking up with a smile in her blue eyes.

"They must be morons, all three of 'em," responded the M.D. with becoming gallantry.

"Far from it! They're making names for themselves, those boys. I think I was too much like a sister to them—they'd always had me hanging 'round. Then, too, George Junior was a bit old; and Sid was too young; and Bill, Jim's chum, never had eyes for any one but Madge Merry. I wish you knew her, John. She's a wonder, and my best friend; but she hasn't been much use to me since she married Bill, and went to live in Indianapolis! He's on a paper there, and doing splendidly."

"I seem to have learned some Wickfield history," smiled John Carter. "Here's where I stop. I'm likely to be a good half hour. Are you warm enough?"

"Snug as a bug in a rug, as Grandma says. Don't have me on your mind a minute."

"Easier said than done, I fear," he aswered, his gray eyes smiling; and as he turned away the girl drew out her letter.

She read: "When I got back from a three weeks' trip hunting a fruit ranch, and found your letter stuffed into the slit in our front door (it must have been left there before the post office got word to forward mail), I swore a deep, dark, terrible, bloody oath that would have turned my mother's hair quite white if she had heard it. And after I read what you had to say to me, only my dyed-in-the-wool New England caution saved me from sending you a telegram that would have broken the bank at Monte Carlo—not caution at the expense, please understand; but you know yourself, Charmian, that a telegram in Wickfield is about as private a matter as the Grand Central Station is in New York. . . . . Hence my caution. I wish . . . ."

Charmian closed her eyes a moment. They had misted unexpectedly, and she wanted to wink the mist away and go on reading. The letter sounded so much like Jim! she told herself foolishly; and then laughed at the thought. How silly she'd been to worry about his silence! What an idiot to think he could be angry, or not care enough to write!

Authorities Are Puzzled

Condemned Man In Estonia Chose Of Canning Fruits and Recovers

Serge Vasilanko's stomach has literally saved his neck.

Sentenced to death, Vasilanko was given his choice between the poison cup and the noose, according to Estonian law. He chose the hemlock draught, in true Socratic fashion, drained it to its bitter dregs — and then refused to die. Languishing for some weeks in the hospital, his sturdy body battling the poison. Vasilanko finally rose from his bed a few days ago, fully alive.

The authorities were puzzled. There was no precedent for this. They had given the prescribed dose, but the man still lived. Courteously they offered Vasilanko the business end of a hangman's rope, but he sent regrets.

"I have complied with the law to the letter," he said. "I see no reason why the cremony should be repeated."

And until someone finds a reason to the contrary, Vaslanko lives a free man, with a stomach to be proud of.

Warship Saves Woman's Life

Exciting Race Of Australian Warship "Anzac" In Teeth Of a Tornado

The exciting race of the Australian warship "Anzac" in the teeth of a tornado to save the life of a lighthouse keeper's wife has thrilled Australia.

When word was received that Florence Broderick, pretty 21-year-old wife of the lightkeeper of Gabo Island, was dying, the "Anzac" was ordered to sea with a surgeon. After being battered by the storm and swept from end to end by mountainous seas, the warship hove to off the barren Island.

Bluejackets rowed the surgeon through the surf to the rocky shore and all that night he remained at the woman's bedside. In the morning he was able to report that the crisis had passed and the patient was out of danger.

Little Helps For This Week

"Let every man prove his own work, and then shall he have rejoicing in himself alone, and not in another."—Galatians vi. 4.

Nor serve we only when we gird
Our hearts for special ministry;
That creature best has ministered
Which is what it was meant to be.

"I have dseired," says King Alfred the Great, "to live worthily while I have lived, and after my life to leave the men that should be after me a remembrance in good works." How lofty the simple words are! Duty, not romantic achievement, is the aim of his life; not to do some "great thing," but the right things, the right thing being simply what God gave him to do. He seems to have felt in his inmost being that each man was sent into the world, not to live like some one else, but to do his own work and bear his own burden, precisely the one work which God has given him, and which can never be given to or done by another.
